WORLD'S STRONGEST FORTRESS TAKEN IN ELEVEN DAYS

Eyen Most Powerful Forts Are No Match for Germany's Colossal Howitzers-- Refugees Swarm to England

London, Oct. 11—Antwerp and the forts surrounding the city are now in complete possession of the Germans, but the greater part of the army have made good their escape.

It took the Germans just eleven days to capture the strongest fortress in the world.

The fall of Antwerp is evidence that even the most powerful forts are no match for the colossal howitzers which the invaders have successfully employed against every fortified place that stood in their way. The huge guns, completely outranging the guns of the forts, simply play havoc with the most solidly built defences and open gaps through which the besiegers find an entrance for their field artillery and infantry.

The Germans after shelling the city itself for many hours, making it untenable, entered the town through the suburb of Berchem, to the east, after they had made a breach in the outer line of forts, some of which were destroyed by their big guns, and others blown up by the defenders. The Germans followed similar plans in dealing with the inner belt of forts and at the same time threw shells into the city which set afire many places.

The inner forts, like those further out, soon succumbed to the enormous shells, and on Friday morning several of these forts had fallen, opening the way for the Germans into the city. By midday they were in the occupation of the town and at 2.30 in the afternoon the war flag on the cathedral was replaced by a white flag, indicating surrender.

A few forts continued to hold out and it was not until 11.00 o'clock this morning that the Germans, according to their own official report, were in complete possession of the city and fortress. When they arrived yesterday they found that the Belgian field army and at least part of the garrison had anticipated them, and, like the King and royal family, had escaped.

Large Death Roll.
The death roll resulting from the attack on and defence of Antwerp has not been compiled, and probably full details will never be known, but all accounts describe it as being extremely large. The Germans although their big guns cleared a path for them, had to sacrifice many lives in crossing the rivers and canals and in driving out the defenders who held entrenchments until the last.

The stubbornness of the Belgians and of those who went to their assistance cost them dearly also, so that both sides will have long casualty lists. Of the loss of life in the city and the damage there are no reliable data is available as yet.

Crowds of refugees arrived in London on Saturday. Most of them left Antwerp on Thursday night, and their accounts of the attack are confused.

The Belgians themselves, besides destroying forts, blew up steamers at the docks and set fire to the petrol stores and everything that could be of use to the invaders. They also took away what the transports could manage to carry.

Berchem, where the military and other hospitals, the orphanage and some public buildings are situated, is reported to be entirely destroyed, and, even if this is an exaggeration, it must be badly damaged, as it was one of the first places where fire occurred, and was burning for at least two days.

The railway stations also made a mark for the shells from the big guns, but, according to some of those who have reached here, the cathedral, which is in the centre of the city nearer the Scheldt, while struck, was not badly damaged.

An English nurse, who reached London today, said that the shelling of the city of Antwerp began on Wednesday, and that a Zeppelin dropped a bomb in the garden of the hospital where she was working. The patients, numbering one hundred, were removed to the cellars, and on Thursday evening were taken by automobiles to Ostend.

Refugees for England.

The steamers today were again crowded with refugees, some of whom had money to pay their way, and which the Bank of England under arrangement with the British government is changing into British currency. The great majority of the refugees, however, have little or are entirely penniless and are being sent to homes all over England. Their position is pitiable and many distressing scenes are witnessed at the stations and docks where the bewildered people gather in knots looking in vain for relatives or friends whom they have lost on the long journey. Many had walked all the way from Antwerp to Ostend and weariness added to their misery.

A question which is now arising is to the effect upon the general campaign of the German occupation of Antwerp. The Belgian garrison, or the greater part of it, escaped and is reported to be engaged with the Germans.

Its Strategic Importance.

The strategic importance of Antwerp consisted in its menace to the German lines running through Belgium. Now matters have been reversed and the Allies will have to take their turn in keeping forces before the city to prevent the Germans from Antwerp attacking their flank or rear, should they be able to advance. The Germans, however, propose, according to the Berlin reports, to use the city as a base for operations against England.

So long as Great Britain commands the sea, no great part of the German navy can use the port, even should Holland's objection to the use of the Scheldt by belligerent ships be overruled by Germany. Germany, it is thought, may claim that being in possession of the city she acquires Belgium's right to use the river on equal terms with the Dutch and will proceed to build destroyers and submarines there to menace the British fleet.

If Holland should allow these vessels to pass through the Scheldt, England, it is declared, would certainly proclaim it a breach of neutrality. In any case, Holland's position becomes more and more uncomfortable.

ANTWERP'S FALL MAY PROLONG EUROPEAN CAMPAIGN; GERMANS MOVE SWIFTLY TOWARD OSTEND

Allies Have Held Their Positions All Along The Battle Line---German Cavalry Is Repulsed---Airmen Drop Bombs In Paris---Refugees Swarm To England---Kaiser's Big Guns May Now Be Used At Verdun---Belgium Is Threatened By Famine---Austrians Claim Victories Over Russians---Cholera Spreads In Austria

London, Oct. 11—With the conclusion of that phase of the war of the nations which came with the fall of Antwerp the censorship has again drawn a veil over the fighting in the greater part of the European continent.

The French communication issued this afternoon deals only with the battle, or series of battles, which has been in progress for four weeks from east to west in France, with an ever extending line which now reaches northward from the elbow at Noyon to and across the Belgian border at Armentieres.

The statement says that the Allies have held their positions everywhere and that German cavalry which was attempting to envelope the Allies' left wing and had seized certain points of passage on the River Lys, to the east of Aire, was defeated yesterday and retired to the northeast into the Armentieres district.

At the same time the Germans delivered a vigorous attack on the right bank of the Acre river, between Arras and the Oise, without making any progress.

This indicates that the battle in Picardy, comprising the Department of Somme and part of Oise, Pas De Calais and Aisne, in which the cavalry is taking such a prominent part and on a scale not seen in previous modern wars, extends over a very considerable area. Here there are many miles of open country where horsemen can manoeuvre with advantage.

Between the River Oise and Rheims, and particularly in the region northwest of Soissons, where the British forces are entrenched, further progress has been made. It thus seems probable that the Germans have abandoned some of their strongly entrenched positions in this neighborhood. It is reported that sanitary reasons have compelled this, as the trenches in which the troops have been living for weeks have become the breeding places for disease.

The Germans have resumed their night attacks between Craonne and Rheims, which, according to French accounts, have been repulsed. From Rheims to the Meuse nothing of importance has occurred of late, but in the Apremont district of the Woevre, to the east of St. Mihiel, the Germans made violent attacks during the night of October 9 and the following day.

Apremont was taken by the Germans, but was retaken by the French and remains in their hands. The Germans apparently are determined to maintain as far as possible their positions here, where they have pierced the line of fortifications between Verdun and Toul along the River Meuse. Should they be successful against the Allies elsewhere, this doubtless would be the route by which they would endeavor to enter the heart of France.

To remind Parisians that they are still in France, two German aeroplanes, which seem to choose Sundays for their visits, flew over the French capital today. They dropped a score of bombs, which killed three persons and wounded twenty, but did no material damage to the city.

Part of the Antwerp garrison and 2,000 of the British naval volunteers who crossed into Holland and laid down their arms have been interned and will have to remain there until the end of the war. Some of the Germans also unwittingly crossed the frontier and were similarly treated.

Of refugees there appears to be no end. The Dutch towns are now crowded with people who left their homes in Belgium and the Hollanders are finding some difficulty in providing for them. The Germans, however, have invited the refugees to return to their own country, promising them fair treatment.

England also continues to be a place of refuge for many fugitives, besides wounded officers and men, who are crossing from Ostend on the regular steamers.

In Antwerp everything is quiet after days of turmoil. The Germans who arranged with the burgomaster for the surrender of the town, all the military authorities having left, have issued a warning to the people that any disturbances or attack on Germans will be severely dealt with.

So far as can be ascertained, the damage done to Antwerp by the bombardment was not so serious as at first feared. The Cathedral, Art Gallery, Museum and other public buildings are in the northwestern part of the city along the Scheldt, to which the shells did not reach. The Germans used lighter guns after they had battered down the forts with their heavy guns, and naturally the former did not do so much execution.

A Berlin report says that these heavy guns have been sent to France. If this is so, probably the Verdun forts along the French frontier, which are hindering the German advance, are to be attacked with them. In this case, however, there is a big field army behind the forts, so that while the destruction of them would make progress easier for the Germans, it would not absolutely ensure their advance.

General Von Beseler, who directed the attack on Antwerp, and Prince August William, fourth son of the German Emperor, who was one of the first to enter the city, have been decorated by the Emperor. What the taking of the town cost the Germans is not known, but it is reported from Holland that trainloads of wounded are being conveyed to the hospitals at the German base.

Famine is threatened throughout Belgium, and this is a thing to be expected in a country which has been ravaged by war for upwards of two months.

On the East Prussian frontier the Russians are still engaged

WAR SUMMARY

Scant are the actual details of the recent fighting between the Allies and the Germans who, for four weeks have been struggling for supremacy in northern France as contained in the latest official communication.

"We have everywhere maintained our position" sums up the claims of the French War Office. At all points, except one, that in the Woevre district, German attacks are said either to have been repulsed or held. In the centre, between the Oise and Rheims slight advances by the Allies are chronicled. In the Woevre district the Germans have delivered violent attacks. Whether they resulted favorably or unfavorably is not stated.

From Germany alone came anything concerning the surrendered city of Antwerp. This was to the effect that the entire city as well as all the forts now are in the hands of the Germans. General Von Beseler, the German commander at Antwerp, issued a proclamation that citizens might return to their vocations without fear of harm befalling them and that property would be respected. The German report said little damage had been done to any, except public buildings in Antwerp.

Emperor William's army, which besieged Antwerp, is now said to be moving swiftly toward Ostend with the object of capturing King Albert and Queen Elizabeth and the Belgian officials. It is said that the Queen already has reached England.

In addition to the force of Belgian and English troops who fled to Dutch soil after the fall of Antwerp and were interned a newspaper despatch says a German division unwittingly invaded Dutch territory and was disarmed.

German aeroplanes again have made a dash over Paris, dropping bombs. Three persons were killed and fourteen injured and considerable damage to property was done. One missile fell on the roof of the famous Notre Dame Cathedral but failed to explode. French airmen gave chase to the invaders, but whether they caught any of them is not known.

Except that a rear-guard action between the Russians and the Germans southeast of Wuerballen was in progress nothing came through concerning the fighting in the eastern war theatre.

In the south the Montenegrins claim to have defeated with heavy losses an Austrian army operating against Sarajevo. A traveller from Belgrade reports that city almost destroyed by the continuous Austrian bombardment but that the Servians are gamely holding out.

From the Far East the Japanese report that they have silenced Fort Iltis at Kiaochow and otherwise are gaining ground on the Germans.

The Turks are strongly fortifying various places in Syria, Palestine and North Arabia. A news agency despatch says that cholera is spreading over Austria-Hungary.

London, Oct. 11—A Rotterdam despatch to the Exchange Telegraph Co. says:

"General Von Der Goltz, the German commander in Belgium, recently sent several emissaries to Holland in an endeavor to obtain foodstuffs to counteract the famine threatening Brussels. These emissaries completely failed in their mission, and the Dutch government is closely watching the export trade. The emissaries, who are Dutchmen, say that Brussels has no salt, yeast or flour, scarcely any meat and bread not fit to eat.

GLIMPSES OF OLD QUEBEC

THIRTY YEARS AGO TODAY

Major Wilson for Egypt. Thirty years ago a despatch from Kingston, Ont., says: Major Wilson, of Kingston, and an officer of A Battery, has been attached to the Royal Artillery Staff as captain for service in Egypt. On the occasion of Lord Wolseley's former campaign in Egypt, Major Hebert, of the Regiment of Canadian Artillery, was the only officer selected from the army of the Dominion to see service on the banks of the Nile. He was a very promising officer and would undoubtedly have made his mark had not his career been cut short by fever, of which he died in hospital within a very brief period of his arrival. For the present campaign Lord Wolseley has again selected an officer of the same Canadian regiment in Major Wilson, commanding A Battery. The Broad Arrow says: This officer has not only displayed high professional attainments as one of the new school of Canadian officers educated in that country, but he also possesses in the sympathy and confidence of his brother officers and of the Canadian public on the occasion of this almost unique service for an officer of the Dominion. We notice that his departure from Quebec was marked by a hearty demonstration of farewell. Lord Lansdowne's aide-de-camps, Lieutenants H. Streatfield and the Hon. H. J. Anso, stood at the Citadel gate and bade him godspeed, whilst the band played "Auld Lang Syne."

A HUNDRED YEARS AGO TODAY

This meeting is notified by the desire of a number of respectable characters in Quebec, by the public's most devoted humble servant, THADDEUS OSGOOD, Agent to the London Committee. Wanted for the Military. 1500 fannel shirts, 370 dozen blacking cakes on boards, 150 dozen real Japan, ditto in bottles. A proportionable quantity of shoe, button and clothes brushes expected per next convoy. Sermon for Sale. A sermon for sale at the office of this paper, preached at York, Upper Canada, by the Rev. J. Strachan, D.D. Also monthly returns for regiments abroad, according to the latest form. PUBLIC SCHOOL TEACHERS' RECORD FOR PATRIOTISM London, Ont., Oct. 8.—In proportion to numbers the public school teachers of London have established a Canadian record for patriotic giving, the two hundred local pedagogues donating over $4,000, an average of $20 each, to the local war relief fund. BRITISH NAVAL GUNS PARTICIPATED IN SIEGE

THREE NAVAL BRIGADES ACTED IN DEFENCE OF ANTWERP—TWO ARE NOW AT OSTEND—TWO THOUSAND MEN INTERNED IN HOLLAND.

London, Oct. 11—The first official admission that the British participated in the defence of Antwerp is contained in an Admiralty announcement late Saturday that three naval brigades, with heavy guns, had been sent there during the last week of the German attack.

The announcement adds that in the retreat from Antwerp two of the British brigades reached Ostend safely. The other, however, was cut off to the north of Lokeren (a town in east Flanders, 12 miles northeast of Ghent) and 2,000 of the men were interned in Holland.

The retreat of the Belgian army was accomplished successfully. The losses of the British naval brigades will probably be less than 300 out of a total of 8,000 men.

Official Announcement.

The Secretary of the Admiralty makes the following announcement: "In response to an appeal by the Belgian government a marine brigade and two naval brigades, together with some heavy naval guns manned by a detachment of the Royal Navy, the whole under command of General Paris, R. M. A., were sent by His Majesty's government to participate in the defence of Antwerp during the last week of the attack.

"Up until the night of Monday last, October 5, the Belgian army and marine brigade successfully defended the line of the Neth River, but early on Tuesday morning the Belgian forces on the right of Malines were forced by a heavy German attack covered by very powerful artillery to retire, and in consequence the whole of the defence was withdrawn to the inner line of forts, the intervals between which had been strongly fortified. The ground which had been lost enabled the enemy to plant his batteries to bombard the city.

"The inner line of defences was maintained during Wednesday and Thursday, while the city endured a ruthless bombardment.

"The behavior of the Royal Marines and naval brigades in the trenches and in the field was praiseworthy in a high degree and remarkable in units so newly formed, and owing to the protection of the entrenchments the losses, in spite of the severity of the fire, are probably less than 300 out of a total force of 8,000.

"The defence could have been maintained for a longer period, but not long enough to allow of adequate forces being sent for their relief, without prejudice to the main strategic situation.

"The enemy also began on Thursday to press strongly on the line of communications near Lokeren. The Belgian forces defending this point fought with great determination, but were gradually pressed back by numbers.

"In these circumstances the Belgian and British military authorities in Antwerp decided to evacuate the city. The British offered to cover the retreat, but General De Guise desired that they should leave before the last division of the Belgian army.

"After a long night march to Saint Gilles, the three naval brigades entrained. Two out of the three have arrived safely at Ostend, but, owing to circumstances which are not yet fully known, the greater part of the first naval brigade was cut off by a German attack north of Lokeren and 2,000 officers and men entered Dutch territory in the neighborhood of Hulst and laid down their arms in accordance with the laws of neutrality.

"The retreat of the Belgian army was successfully accomplished. The naval armored trains and heavy guns were all brought away.

"The retreat from Ghent onwards of the last division and of the Belgian army was covered by strong British reinforcements.

"Vast numbers of the non-combatant population of Antwerp, men, women and children, are streaming in flight in scores of thousands westward from the ruined and burning city."

The Admiralty also reports in the same statement that the naval aviation park, having completed its attack on Dusseldorf and Cologne, already reported, has returned safely to its base protected by armored cars.

Ammunition Wasted.

"On the ninth of October, in spite of the perfection of their arrangement for ranging and observation there has been much waste of ammunition by the Germans. For instance, within an area of two acres on our side of the Aisne there are more than one hundred craters made by their high explosive shells. This shower of projectiles, which must have cost some $5,000, did absolutely no damage, for the locality never happened to be occupied while it was being bombarded. It also incidentally illustrated one weak point of indirect fire when unaccompanied by observation.

"Another example of prodigality of ammunition is the continued shelling of Rheims. This is still carried on at intervals, and on the 6th, resulted in the deaths of an entire family of eight people. On the 11th, twelve of the inhabitants were hit.

Guns Well Concealed. "On the other hand, concealment of their own guns, as of all their troops, has been carefully practiced by the Germans and they construct alternative entrenchments, so that when one position is made too hot another can be taken up without loss of time.

"Ever since the South African war the desirability of rendering troops as invisible as possible has been generally recognized in all the armies, and this war has thrown much light on the matter. It appears that at long ranges the uniform matters little, the blue coat and red trousers of the French infantry and cavalry not being any more picturesque than the clothes of our men or of the Germans. But at medium ranges the red trousers of our allies show up clearly. When the infantry are lying down, however, their kepis are not so easily seen as our own flat topped forage caps.

Officers Distinguishable. "From interrogation of prisoners it has been ascertained that at medium ranges both French and British officers are very easily distinguishable from their men and that selected marksmen, provided with field glasses, are specially told off from each platoon of German infantry to pick off the officers. The French officer is betrayed by his accoutrements, while the British officer is given away by his sword, his open jacket with low collar and tie, his Sam Browne belt and because of pack. Even such trifling differences as the color or cut of the breeches are said to be noticeable.

"The Germans certainly do employ snipers, and some of them have been found on church towers, up trees and in house. One of them succeeded in killing two of our officers and wounding two more before he was accounted for. Some of our prisoners report that their officers have been requested to remove their distinguishing shoulder straps, but this may be in order to convey information to the enemy as to the units to which they belong. At any rate, to judge from the officers already captured, the order has not been carried out generally.

German Methods. "The following notification to his troops by one of the French army commanders bears upon the German methods of warfare: 'The Germans have forced their prisoners of war to remain in their trenches. When the French advanced under the impression that the trenches were in the possession of their own side, they were fired on at close range. That this has actually been done is fully confirmed, with illuminating details as to German methods of war in the twentieth century, by an entry in a captured field note book. It runs thus: "16th September.—At dawn shelling began. We retired with prisoners. My two prisoners worked hard at digging trenches. At midday I got an order to rejoin at the village with them. I was very glad, as I had been ordered to shoot them as soon as the enemy advanced. Thank God! It was not necessary."

"On the other hand, an example is given of an order which prescribes only legal and suitable precautions except as regards the shooting of hostages for self protection in the enemy's country. It was issued some time ago: "Aix-la-Chapelle, 10th Aug. 1914.—To protect ourselves from the extremely hostile attitude of the Belgian population it is necessary to take very vigorous and energetic measures against non-combatants who take part in the struggle. For this purpose no firearms or explosives must be retained by them. It is, therefore, ordered that before a locality is occupied a detachment of all arms will march in ahead of the columns and warn the population, through the mayor and local clergy, to deliver up all arms, ammunition and explosives. After they have handed over their arms the inhabitants will be collected outside the locality, and the houses and gardens will be searched. If any arms are found the place set on fire. When the inhabitants are summoned to surrender their arms they will be informed of the penalties to which they expose themselves by non-compliance. The arms will be destroyed and the explosives thrown into the water. (Signed.)

VON OUAET. Commanding IX. A. C. "Another German order of the second army is quoted because it is possibly significant of the present state of Germany's military resources: "The Minister of War wishes to impress upon all the necessity for searching the field of battle with the greatest care for all warlike material belonging to our army, such as field glasses, water bottles, haversacks, rifles and cartridges, all limbers and supply wagons which can be used again for new formations. In addition to this, the units must take care to pick up unexpended ammunition and empty cartridge cases."

Description of Country "The lull in the operations on our immediate front, pending a general advance, affords an opportunity today ninth Oct., 1914, for giving some further description of the country in which we are operating and of the Valley of the Aisne.

"The Aisne flows right across our front, following a tortuous course along the bottom of the valley, some hundred meters below the edge of the plateau on either bank. It is a placid stream between 150 and 200 feet in width and unfordable. The bottom of the valley down which it meanders, consists of practically flat meadow land intersected by various roads leading north and south over bridges which span the river. These roads are lined with poplars or fruit trees, whose military significance lies in the fact that they screen the movements along the roads, though on the other hand they make the position of the latter conspicuous from afar.

Soissons In Front "The chief place along the British front is Soissons, a town lying on the left bank at a pronounced bend northwards. The villages on the river itself are of considerable tactical importance, since most of the bridges are close to them. They have, therefore, been the targets of the German artillery and some are now no more than masses of ruins.

"Several of the hamlets at some distance from the Aisne and on its left bank have formed the objects of similar attentions from the enemy's guns, probably because they might serve as posts of concentration for our troops, as have also the great number of roads winding down the hillsides facing north and leading across the meadows, which afford the only channels of approach to our troops on the north side.

"In regard to the villages one point which strikes the eye is their compactness, for in most of them the houses are clustered together in one mass, outlying houses being rare. They line the roads sometimes almost entirely on one side. There are also outlying chateaus and arms quite isolated.

"The other main topographical features of the valley are two railways and a canal. Generally speaking, the slopes forming the north side of the valley are steeper than those of the south, but in other respects the two sides are very similar. Both are equally cut up into spurs and subsidiary valleys, the chief of the latter, on the south, being formed by the water course of the Vesle, which extends south-eastward through Braisne.

Plenty of Woods "Both on the north and south the slopes leading down to the Aisne are thickly wooded in patches, the woods in some places stretching away back and over the edge of the plateau for some distance. On account of the existence of those woods on the edges of the slopes on our bank of the river, it is at many points only possible to obtain glimpses of the short trenches of the opposite slopes, while the woods on that side screen large portions of the top of the plateau on the north.

"Owing to the concealment afforded to the German fire trenches and gun emplacements by the woods, and to the fact that nearly all the bridges and roads leading to them, as well as a great part of the southern slopes are open to their fire, the position held by them is a very strong one.

"Except for these patches of woods, the terrain generally is unenclosed. No boundary between the fields exist as in England. There are ditches here and there, but no hedges, wire fences or walls except around enclosures in the villages. A large proportion of the woods, however, are enclosed by high rabbit netting which is in some places supported by iron stanchions.

"A feature of this part of the country, one which is not confined to the neighborhood of the Aisne, is the large number of caves, both natural and artificial, and quarries. These are of great service to the forces on both sides, since they can often be used as sheltered accommodation for the troops in the second line.

"Other points worthy of note are the excellence of the metalled roads, though the metalled portion is very narrow, and the comparative ease with which one can find his way about even without a map. This is due partly to the prevailing straightness of the roads, partly to the absence of hedges. There are sign posts on all cross roads, while the name of each village is posted in a conspicuous place at the entry and exit of the main highway passing through it."

GERMAN DIVISION REPORTED INTERNED. London, October 11.—An undated despatch received by Reynolds's Weekly, says that according to Belgian soldiers near the Dutch frontier, a German division unwittingly crossed the border into Holland and has been interned.

London, Oct. 11.—The military consequences of the fall of Antwerp are not so great as the lesson to be learned therefrom the futility of permanent fortifications. This opinion is expressed by Lt.-Col. Rousset who says that it will be necessary to abandon entirely this sort of defence and replace it with rude works of easy and quick construction which can be placed anywhere according to the need of the hour.

EXPERT DISCUSSES FALL OF ANTWERP

ARGUMENT IS ADVANCED THAT PERMANENT FORTIFICATIONS ARE FUTILE.

Paris, Oct. 11.—The military consequences of the fall of Antwerp are not so great as the lesson to be learned therefrom the futility of permanent fortifications. This opinion is expressed by Lt.-Col. Rousset who says that it will be necessary to abandon entirely this sort of defence and replace it with rude works of easy and quick construction which can be placed anywhere according to the need of the hour.

Then, he says, shells, because of the absence of resistance, would cause only small damage. Never, he declared, has a country been saved by its fortifications while there are those whose fortresses have been their ruin.

Col. Rousset continues: "To speak only of that which concerns us, it is permissible to affirm that if Metz had been in 1870 an open city, Bazaine would not have sent forth from there his magnificent army for the subsequent loss of which he was condemned to death and did actually suffer imprisonment.

"Belgium believed itself protected by its triple barrier of Liège, Namur and Antwerp. Alas! It was not. No more are we with Maubeuge or the Austrians with Lemberg and Przemysl. The real safeguard of a nation is an effective military force that can stay an army of invasion."

The observations of Rousset which are published today, have created special interest in view of the possibility of heavy siege operations later in the campaign.

OSTEND THINKS ITS TURN COMING

GERMANS INTEND TO OCCUPY WHOLE OF BELGIUM, SAYS GENERAL.

London, Oct. 12.—A despatch to the Daily Telegraph from Ostend says: "The past two days have been a hard experience for Ostend, which is crowded with refugees who are being despatched as rapidly as possible to England.

"Saturday soon after the news of the fall of Antwerp became known Ostend was thrown into panic by a visit from a Zeppelin which, however, was frightened away by the accurate fire of a British gun behind the fort.

"The one thought uppermost in all minds here is what is the prospect of the Germans setting foot on Ostend. But it is difficult to see, owing to the flatness of the country, how the Germans can be kept away from the remaining coast line unless the Allies make a successful turning movement on the main battle line. 'We intend to occupy the whole of Belgium,' declared General Von Luttwitz, German military governor of Brussels, a few days ago.

"Zeppelin airships played a considerable part in the siege of Antwerp. They dropped more than 150 bombs on the city Thursday."

MCGILL TOYED WITH 'VARSITY'

TORONTO MEN COULD ONLY GET ONE POINT TO CHAMPIONS TWENTY-FIVE.

Montreal, Oct. 11.—Ringing up the Intercollegiate Rugby football season, on the University campus on Saturday afternoon, McGill made a show of Toronto Varsity, by beating the latter by a score of 25 to 1. Never at any stage of the play was there any doubt as to which was the better team and what the outcome would be.

The teams presented a vastly different line-up from that which battled for the honors of the union in the memorable game played at Toronto a year ago.

McGill, through the infusion of new blood, is a stronger aggregation than that of a year ago, while, on the other hand, Varsity, although equal in strength, is a much lighter outfit than has represented the Toronto Varsity for some time. The visitors were badly out-generalled by the locals, who, mothered their trick plays, and at the same time bewildered their opponents through the numerous fake passes and line plunges they put over on them. Each count came through one of these plays, the points coming through four tries and five single points, while the solitary point scored by Varsity was a lucky one, and came through a long punt of McKenzie's to the deadline, after a penalty had put his team within a few yards of McGill's line.

On the offensive, the winners were much the stronger. They followed up in a much faster manner, and their tackling was more deadly than that of 'Varsity. On the defensive, at times, the visitors showed great strength, and for the first half gained their yards on downs more frequently than McGill. The local players were the better conditioned, and as the game progressed they wore their opponents down. Varsity showing greater signs of fatigue than McGill. Although the grounds were slippery and soggy, little advantage was to be claimed by either from this, as the halfbacks of both teams are fast, and will, no doubt, play faster on dry footing.

Although the conditions under which the game was played was anything but conducive to fast football, the play was replete with spectacular runs through broken fields and brilliant punting duels between McKenzie and Laing, in which Laing carried off the honors. Although rough play was conspicuous through its absence, frequent changes were made, players meeting with minor accidents through falls owing to the slippery grounds. Despite the disagreeable weather the attendance was well up to the standard of a year ago, when all the records for the campus were broken. Four thousand persons turned out to honor the champions in their first effort of this season's race for the Intercollegiate honors.

On the Varsity line-up only seven of the regulars of a year ago were in uniform, while McGill presented fewer newcomers. Rodden, Brown, Kennedy and Quilty, being the four who did not, at some time, figure on the team a year ago. The most noticeable absentee from the Toronto team were Jack Maynard, who played at halfback, and Pete Campbell, who played at quarterback. Crawford is one of the best quarters that Varsity has had in several years, and Lindsay, who replaced Maynard, was a tower of strength in his punting and tackling.

The score at half-time was 17 to 0.

Table with columns for McGill and Varsity players and their positions. McGill players include Flying wing, Quilty, Paisley, Laing, Jeffreys, Montgomery, Ross, McColl, Reid, Rodden, Kennedy, Waterous, Lemay, Hughes, Brown. Varsity players include Gage, Milne, Milne, Crawford, Hoerner, Gardiner, Nicholson, Sheeky, Slemmon, Hughes, Cassels, McMullen, Brian. Referee: Slater, of Queen's.

BRITISH AVIATORS LOSE MACHINES.

London, Oct. 11.—The British aviators who on Friday last made a successful flight to Dusseldorf and destroyed the Zeppelin, lost their machines after they returned to Antwerp, it is said. They landed between the outer and inner ring of forts before the German artillery commenced firing. The machines, which were in the open, were blown to pieces, and the aviators escaped in an armored motor car.

ARTILLERY PLAYING A BIG PART IN PRESENT WAR

DESCRIPTIVE ACCOUNT OF FIGHTING ON AISNE SHOWS THAT BIG GUNS ARE HANDLED WITH ACCURACY BY THE GERMAN GUNNERS.

London, Oct. 11.—The Official Press Bureau issues the following descriptive account communicated by an eyewitness with General Headquarters, which continues and supplements the narrative published Oct. 5, of the movements of the British force and the French armies in immediate touch with it.

"Comparative calm on our front has continued through the fine and considerably warmer weather. The last six days have been slightly misty with clouds hanging low, so that conditions have not been very favorable for aerial reconnaissance.

"In regard to the latter it is astonishing how quickly the habit is acquired, even by those who are not aviators, of thinking of the weather in terms of its suitability for flying. There has been a bright moon also, which has militated against night attacks.

German Bands Busy.

"On Saturday, Oct. 3, practically nothing happened except that each side shelled the other. Towards evening on Sunday there was a similar absence of activity. Opposite one portion of our line the enemy's bands played patriotic airs, and the audiences which gathered gave a chance to our waiting howitzers.

"Not only do their regimental bands perform occasionally, but with their proverbial fondness for music the Germans have in some places gramophones in their trenches.

"On Monday, the fifth, there were three separate duels in the air between French and German aviators, one of which was visible from our trenches. Two of the struggles were, so far as could be seen, indecisive, but in the third the French aviators were victorious and brought down their opponents, both of whom were killed by machine gun fire. The observer was so burned as to be unrecognizable.

"During the day some men of the Landwehr were taken prisoners by us. They were in very poor condition and wept copiously when captured. One, on being asked what he was crying for, explained that though they had been advised to surrender to the English they believed that they would be shot.

"On that evening our airmen had an unusual amount of attention paid to them both by the German aviators and their artillery of every description.

"One of our infantry patrols discovered 150 dead Germans in a wood one and a half miles from our front. We sent a party out to bury them but it was fired upon and had to withdraw.

"On Tuesday, the sixth, the enemy's guns were active in the afternoon. It is believed that the bombardment was due to anger because two of our howitzer shells had detonated right in one of the enemy's trenches which was full of men. Three horses were killed by the German fire.

"Wednesday, the seventh, was uneventful. On Thursday, the eighth, the shelling by the enemy of a locality on our front, which has so far been the scene of their greatest efforts, was again continuous. Opposite one or two points the Germans have attempted to gain ground by sapping in some places with the view of secretly pushing forward machine guns in advance of their trenches, so that they can suddenly sweep with cross-fire the space between our line and theirs, and so take any advance of ours in the flank.

Mined Below Gun.

"It is reported that at one point where the French were much annoyed by the fire of a British machine gun which was otherwise inaccessible, they drove a mine gallery fifty meters (about 55 yards) long up to and under the emplacement and blew up the gun. The men who drove the gallery belonged to a corps which was recruited in one of the coal mining districts of France.

BRITISH AVIATORS' LEAGUE OF DEATH

THEY WILL DASH THROUGH ZEPPELIN AIRSHIPS IF LATER RAID LONDON.

London, Oct. 11.—It was announced by Walter Runciman, President of the Board of Trade, at a patriotic meeting in Kingsway Hall here last night "if Zeppelins raid London all the members of the British flying corps have pledged themselves to dash their machines right through the airships even if both are brought to earth."

"Any one passing through London," continued the speaker, "can see that we expect a visit by German aircraft."

German Artillery.

"The artillery has up to now played so great a part in the war that a few general remarks descriptive of the methods of its employment by the enemy are justified. Their field artillery armament consists of 15 pr. Q-F guns for horse and field batteries of divisions, and there are, in addition, with each corps three to six batteries of 4.3-inch field howitzers and about two batteries of 5.9-inch howitzers. With an army there are some 8.2-inch heavy howitzers.

"The accuracy of their fire is apt at first to cause some alarm, more especially as the guns are usually well concealed, and the position and the direction from which the fire is proceeding are difficult of detection. But, accurate as is their shooting, the German gunners have, on the whole, had little luck, and during the past three weeks an astonishingly small proportion of the number of shells fired by them have been really effective.

"Quite the most striking feature of their handling of the artillery is the speed with which they concentrate the fire upon any selected point. They dispense to a great extent with the method of ranging, known by us as bracketing, especially when acting on the defensive, and direct their fire by means of squared maps and the telephone. Thus when the target is found, its position on the map is telephoned to such batteries as it is desired to employ against that particular square.

"In addition to the guns employed to fire on the targets as they are picked up, others are told off to watch particular roads and to deal with any of the enemy using them.

Range-Finding Methods.

"Both for the location of targets and the communication of the effect of the fire reliance is placed on observation from aeroplanes and balloons and on information supplied by special observers and secret agents who are sent out ahead or left behind in the enemy's lines to communicate by telephone or signal. These observers have been found in haystacks, barns and other buildings with the advance of the German lines. Balloons of the so-called sausage pattern remain up in the air for long periods for the purpose of discovering targets, and until our aviators made their influence felt by chasing all hostile aeroplanes on sight, the latter were continually hovering over our troops in order to register their positions and to note where the headquarters, reserves, gun teams, etc., were located.

"If similar targets are discovered the aviator drops a smoke ball directly over it or lets fall some strips of tinsel which glitter in the sun as they slowly descend to the earth. The range to the target is apparently ascertained by those nearest the guns by means of large telemeter or other range finders, which is kept trained on the aeroplane, so that when the signal is made the distance to the target vertically below is at once obtained. A few rounds are then fired and the result is signalled back by the aviator according to some pre-arranged code."

DEMAND INDEMNITY FROM ANTWERP

London, Oct. 12, 4:15 a.m.—Germany has imposed a fine of £20,000,000 ($100,000,000) on Antwerp as war indemnity.

WINTER AND WAR.

There will be no cessation of the weather. The hardships of the millions of soldiers in the field will be greatly increased and the sick roll of the armies assume alarming proportions. Hardship is the lot of the soldier, but it will be the peasantry and the poor of the cities and towns that will suffer most. When armies pass over a country they strip it bare, and nothing is left in their wake but ruin and desolation. Thousands of the inhabitants are left without shelter and with little food. Winter means terrible privation to these unfortunate people. Food they must have and shelter and fuel, but how can these wants be supplied in the districts ravaged by the war? It is not probable that we will be permitted to learn much of the distress and suffering during the winter. The different governments will conceal the facts as far as possible. Imagination can scarcely picture the conditions that will prevail.

U. S. AND BRITAIN.

Of $2,465,884,149 of exports which the United States sent to the markets of the world in 1913, $597,149,059 went to Great Britain and $415,449,457 came to Canada, making Great Britain and Canada first and second best customers and purchasers of almost one-half of all that the United States had to sell abroad. At the same time United States bought from Britain $295,564,910 and from Canada $120,571,180. This was of a total importation of $1,813,000,000.

In population there are estimated to be ten million residents of United States who were born in other parts. Of these Germany claims 2,500,000, according to the last census, Austria 1,175,000, and Hungary 485,000, making 4,070,000 residents of United States whose place of birth is within the countries now at war with Britain. But offsetting this there are 1,350,000 of Irish nativity in United States, 875,000 English, 260,000 Scottish, 82,000 Welsh and no less than one million Canadians, a grand aggregate of 3,567,000 born within the empire and now resident of United States.

These figures, however, are powerless to express the fact that the Canadians, the Irish, English, Scotch and Welsh who have gone to United States have stepped easily and naturally into citizenship. The language of these two nations is the same. Their governmental systems and laws are in all essential respects similar. Their viewpoint upon the broad question of what constitutes national honor and international justice is identical. Their literature is interlarding and interchangeable and—most important of all—their interpretation of history synchronizes to an extent hitherto unapproached by any other two distinct nations. They are just completing a century of peace, amity and good-will toward each other.

Combining intelligence, education, homogeneity and the breadth of view acquired by the experience of the same democratic freedom under two flags, the British born in United States have become probably the most important factor contributing toward the amicable relations which exist between Britain and United States today.

In their influence upon the national sentiment, the Austrians and Huns who have been herded into the iron mines and coal camps of the eastern states are no more comparable with an equal number of British born than would be the same number of negroes when brought in ship-loads from Africa to the southern plantations. The Germans, it is true, have become more quickly Americanized than those from Austria-Hungary, but the overwhelming percentage of Germans in United States are there for the very reason that they sought an escape from the militarism and undemocratic institutions of Germany.

The people who imagine that the ravages of Bernstorff, the blithering of Ritter or the eruptions of a scattering of pro-German newspapers in United States could move public opinion in that republic to the point where there was any genuine sentiment against Britain are simply arriving at conclusions without knowledge or appreciation of the facts.

A REAL TRIUMPH.

Word has been received that heavy contracts for the British war office will be let shortly in Canada, and that enormous quantities of woolen goods and other supplies suitable for winter campaigning will be purchased, says the Vancouver Sun. This is significant of the new spirit which has arisen throughout the British Empire. It is not so long ago that in Great Britain there existed but small belief in the potentialities of Canada,

BLACK AND WHITE SCOTCH WHISKY. Quality and purity combine to make Black and White Scotch Whisky the standard of excellence. D. O. ROBLIN, Toronto. Sole Canadian Agent 333

The Dominion was never considered as a manufacturing country, but rather as a place where the principal industries were gold mining and selling real estate, with some capabilities as a wheat growing country. Now that this idea has been proved false, and Canada is at last understood for what she is, there is no harm done in mentioning the fact that Great Britain until recently held us in the light of a "raw product."

Today Canada is offered the opportunity of supplying manufactured goods to the British army. It is the first step in a trade relationship which must mean a tremendous impetus to manufacturing throughout the Dominion. We have "grown up" appreciably in the last two months. From a doubtful quantity, Canada has become a country to be relied on in every emergency, a country ready and willing to assist the Empire without counting the cost. The present crisis has been a revelation to Great Britain and perhaps to Canadians themselves. This may be deemed one of the chief triumphs of the war.

PRESS COMMENT.

It has been questioned whether a submarine leaving a German port could remain for any length of time off the Scottish coast and then be able to return home again. But nearly all the large boats are capable of much more than this. Their radius of action is 2,000 miles on the surface, using the oil engines, and when submerged the storage batteries give them a run of about one-tenth of this distance. While, too, it is necessary for a submarine to keep moving in order that she may continue to dive, she may stop her engines and sink to the bottom at will. The boats of several countries have for experiment remained for 24 hours under water resting on the floor of the sea. There is no reason, therefore, why the story of the submarine officer who, finding it too hot on the surface owing to the enemy's attentions, dropped to the bottom and waited there until after dark, when the danger had passed, should be doubted. He is said, when making his report, to have been asked what they did while on the mud. "I did fine," he replied, "we played auction bridge all the time, and I made 48, 11-1-24." Doubtless a very pleasant and profitable way of passing the time.—London Times.

The Prussian military camarilla not only aspired to the hegemony of Europe, but gravely considered how the United States should be attacked. Gen. von Edelsheim of the Prussian general staff, recently wrote and published a memorandum entitled "Operationen uber See," in which he considered in detail the main features of German operations against the United States. As illustrating the Prussian child-like faith in the invincibility of German arms, Von Edelsheim's article is really curious. He says that the Germans "have to ask themselves what force they can bring to bear in order to meet the attacks of the United States against their interests, and to impose their will." He says: "Our fleet will probably be able to defeat the naval forces of the United States, which are distributed over two oceans and over long distances." But he admits that operations on land would also be necessary, and he estimates that four weeks after the German battle fleet leaves German harbors German operations on American soil could begin. Among other things, he says: Considering the great extent of the United States, the conquest of the country by an army of invasion is not possible. But there is every reason to believe that victorious enterprises on the Atlantic coast, and the conquest of the most important arteries through which imports and exports pass, will create such an unbearable state of affairs in the whole country that the government will readily offer acceptable conditions in order to obtain peace. The Americans will not feel inclined to conclude peace because one or two provinces are occupied by an army of invasion, but because of the enormous material losses which the whole country will suffer if the Atlantic harbor towns, in which the threads of the whole prosperity of the United States are concentrated, are torn away from them one after the other. Therefore, the task of the fleet would be to undertake a series of large landing operations, through which we are able to take several of these important and wealthy towns within a brief space of time. By interrupting their communications, by destroying all buildings serving the state, commerce, and the defense, by taking away all material for war and transport, and lastly by levying heavy contributions, we should be able to inflict damage on the United States. Gen. von Edelsheim estimates the American army ready for active service against an invader at 20,000, and he says the American militia is not efficient, being armed with muzzle-loaders, and its training is worse than its armament. In fact, his whole argument is one of such crude miscalculation, that it is hard to believe he wrote "Operationen uber See" seriously. It sounds more like a satire upon the plan-making of the Prussian war lords. But the idea agitating behind the foreheads of the Prussian militarists is abundantly plain. If Britain and France could have been crushed by Germany, the United States would have been the next, in order that the Germans "might impose their will."—Toronto Mail and Empire.

Reference to "perfidious Albion" can arouse only the contempt of the neutral. Germany knew what Great Britain's alliances were and for what purpose they were made. The only nations which might have accused Great Britain of perfidy were France and Belgium if the British had not come to their assistance. Let Belgian neutrality be accepted as a pretext for the British. The cause lay deeper, admittedly, but Belgian integrity is a vital asset of the British Empire and toward France there was a positive material and moral obligation. The French fleet was in the Mediterranean because British diplomacy sent it there, and if British diplomacy had been recreant to that obligation British honor would have been a thing of no consequence for a hundred years. It's an inflated German who talks of "perfidious Albion." Under what obligations was Great Britain to Germany and how could it be "perfidious" where no obligation existed? One would conclude that the British had been the allies of the Germans and had taken the other side.—Chicago Tribune.

NOTICE.

The Sewing Committee of the Y. W. C. A. would ask all those who have work out for the Annual Sale to kindly send it in not later than November 1st. The Committee realizes that owing to the deplorable war and its many demands, the ordinary routine must of necessity be disturbed to a certain extent, still the aims and objects of the Association have not changed, nor has the work lessened in value; consequently, it has been decided that should conditions at the time warrant, the Sale will be held as usual on the first Thursday of December.

THINK CENSORSHIP IS POOR POLICY

New York, Oct. 10.—The Times says today: One of the worst features of this war is the evil influence of the blind censorship. English and French alike must know, that if they desire to promote and stimulate belief in foreign lands in their combined power, the suppression of all trustworthy information is poor policy. Some already infer that falling fortunes in the field have led to the tightening of the censorship, but we have no proof of that. With the Germans the case is somewhat different, as with hostile nations on both sides of them, and their ocean cable cut, they have at best limited means of censorship, and it is had for all parties of communication and the hampering of accredited correspondents have led to a greater outpouring of sheer falsehood than ever before.

Crippled With Rheumatism

And Skeptical After Trying Many Medicines—Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills Cured Him

When the kidneys fail to purify the blood the poisons left in the system cause pain and suffering, such as backache, lumbago and rheumatism. Read how this skeptic was cured by Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills. Mr. F. W. Brown, Kingsbury, Que., writes: "I have been completely cured of backache and lame back by using Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills. I also recommended the pills to a man who was a cripple from rheumatism. He was skeptical, as he said that he had tried nearly everything on earth. Finally he consented to try them and to his surprise was greatly benefited in the first week, and the pains left his legs until he was so supple he could walk without pain or difficulty. Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills have worked wonders in this place, and we think there is no medicine like them." Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills, one pill a dose, 25 cents a box, 5 for $1.00; all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Limited, Toronto.

VISITING EXPERT HAS HIGH PRAISE FOR CANADIAN RY.

Mr. A. E. Goff, of the Great Indian Peninsula Ry. has just concluded a tour of the Dominion. He declares that he has been greatly impressed with the progress made by Canadian Railroads and by the Grand Trunk and Grand Trunk Pacific in particular. The immensity of the Grand Trunk System's mileage and the unlimited possibility of further extension first impressed him, he says.

"Next, the remarkable engineering obstacles of bridging and tunneling that have been overcome in linking up so huge a system, apart from the venture of undertaking at a time when the present rapid development could hardly have been foreseen.

"I was particularly struck with the good understanding which exists between the executive and the staff. The result of this mutual confidence was manifest in the local enthusiasm and efficiency of the various departments of work at headquarters in Montreal, as well as elsewhere, and made for a general 'esprit de corps' which is not often met with. Outside the office atmosphere, the same spirit was evinced, between the travelling public and the staff. The hotels of the Grand Trunk are wonderfully homelike and surprisingly cheap. The 'Chateau Laurier,' one of the finest hotels in the world, is suitably located and a truly magnificent building. The method of dealing with passenger's luggage strikes one as remarkably simple and effective and is a real time and money saver. On the commercial side, the grain elevator added to the many things that interested a stranger, and so did the large freight terminal I had the privilege of going over. Another noticeable feature that impressed me not a little, was the unsolicited effort made by one and all to see that traffic, not merely in a concrete sense, but in individual merchandise was expeditiously transported. This regard for commerce has evolved itself into a system known as the 'Manifest Freight Service' whereby it is within the region of possibility to keep an eye, not only on each whole train-load of important merchandise, but on each car-load as well from the moment of despatch from the shipping point, as they term it in Canada, to destination.

Pension Commissioners—Mr. Cockfield, E.A., and Mr. Hopkins, B.A., (both re-elected). Executive Committee—Dean Laird, Miss Gale, B.A., (re-elected), Mr. Silver, B.A., (re-elected), Miss Lawless, (re-elected), Miss B. Grant, Mr. Adams, Inspector McQuat, (re-elected), Inspector Rothney, (re-elected), Mr. Howe, Miss Hendry, Miss Winn, (re-elected), Mr. Kneeland, B.C.L., (re-elected), Miss Robins, Miss Griggs, (re-elected), and Inspector Parker.

After the routine business had been dispensed with, a short but interesting address was given to the meeting by Dr. Parmelee, after which the session adjourned. An executive meeting was then held, at which a number of important matters were discussed. Some two hundred teachers visited Spencer Wood where they were received by His Honor the Lieutenant-Governor and Lady Langelier.

AT THE AUDITORIUM

The Kinemaolor pictures and the Strand War Series are still included in the programme of the Auditorium. Theatre this week. The Strand War Series will be particularly interesting for they include absolutely new photographs taken at the front by the company's correspondent.

The vaudeville will also be of a higher quality as the manager took great pains in making the choice. One of the most attractive acts will, no doubt, be Miss Sonia Roskolnikoff, a Russian violinist, who is considered an accomplished artist by many theatre managers. Miss Ruth Blaisdell, a vocalist, has a great reputation in vaudeville circuits and will also make a big hit in our city. She is possessed of a beautiful soprano voice.

The Jundts have the most wonderful balancing act in vaudeville and are at the same time renowned equilibrist.

Wilson and Auburn will have the comedy end of the bill and those who have heard these actors tell us that they can take care of it too. They have "brand new jokes" with them. Burns and Foran are great dancers with novelty effects in their act. They have also several songs.

PACIFIC COAST TO SUPPLANT EUROPE AS TOURIST MECCA.

A telegram received by the local Grand Trunk Railway officials today confirms the opinion already held by transportation experts that the European War is likely rather to increase travel to the Panama Pacific International Exposition, opening in San Francisco on Feb. 20th, next year, than reduce it. The flood of American and Canadian tourists to Europe will be far less than in ordinary years, and the inquiries flowing into headquarters in San Francisco prove that the thousands of travellers who ordinarily flock to the various pleasure resorts of the Continent, will turn their faces towards the Pacific Coast in 1915.

"Under worst possible conditions," wired Mr. G. H. Perry, Director of Exploitation for the Exposition, "we shall lose only about 6 per cent. of our promised exhibits from Europe, and we have the assurance, from all participating nations now involved in the struggle, that their plans will not be seriously interfered with. We have heard from Exhibitors Committees in both Germany and Great Britain within the past few days, requesting that the space originally reserved for them be held and in the case of the German Committee an intimation was given that increased space might even be asked for. Requests for space and for additional space from manufacturers and producers in this country and South America and of European nations not at war show marked increase since war broke out."

8TH R.R. AT ST. LOUIS BARRACKS

MOST OF 9TH VOLTIGEURS WILL BE RELEASED FROM DUTY.

Members of the 8th Regiment Royal Rifles, numbering 150, who have been doing duty on the Citadel in command of Major O'Meara and officers, including Capt. Wilkinson, Capt. Fletcher, Lt. Anderson and Lt. Dunn, will be transferred to the St. Louis Barracks today. It is understood that the headquarters of the 9th Regiment Voltigeurs, which have been at St. Joseph de Levis since the war broke out will also be removed to the Citadel today where a portion of the regiment will do duty with the 87th.

Excepting about 350 men and ten officers, all the members of the local French-Canadian corps will be released from garrison duty today, but the officers will report at headquarters weekly.

PRESENTATION TO PORTNEUF RECTOR

Portneuf, Oct. 11—It is with universal regret that Rev. and Mrs. Buckland have been called away from Portneuf to a new field of labor. For nearly four years they have both won the sincere love and respect of their congregation.

Before leaving, Rural Dean and Mrs. Buckland were presented with an affectionate address, signed by the church warden on behalf of the people and also a well-filled purse. Rev. Buckland, in acknowledging the kind gift said that he and Mrs. Buckland deeply regretted leaving Portneuf, but truly felt they were answering the "divine call," thus compelling them to accept the call to New Carlisle. We hope and trust that God's blessing will ever be with Rev. and Mrs. Buckland in their new field of work.

LOCAL BALL GAMES POSTPONED AGAIN

Some day those remaining games on the schedule of the Quebec City and District League will be played, but if the usual Sunday rain or lack of grounds prevails every week-end, there is a sneaking suspicion that the baseball dates will clash seriously with those of the N. H. A. fixtures at the Quebec Arena. Jimmy Van Dolson again lost an opportunity to pitch his game on account of yesterday's rain and now Van is thinking of leaving to skate or snowshoe in order to be prepared in case the games are played on Christmas Day.

JURY RETURNS TRUE BILL AGAINST DION

ACCUSED OF MURDER OF ST. SAUVEUR GIRL — OTHER CRIMINAL COURT CASES.

In the Court of King's Bench, criminal side, on Saturday afternoon, the Grand Jury returned a true bill against Joseph Dion, accused of the murder of Miss Marie Blanche Dubois. The trial before a Petty Jury will be started today.

The prisoner, it will be recalled, is held for the murder several months ago, the Dubois girl whose body was found in the shoe store conducted by herself and brother in St. Sauveur, her skull having been battered in, evidently with a hammer, on a Sunday morning.

Dion still protests his innocence and invokes an alibi. He has for his defence Mr. J. A. Lane, while the Crown Prosecutors are Messrs. W. H. Davidson, K.C. and A. Lachance, K.C.

Two trials for murder are to be heard during the present term of the Criminal Court. One of them is the case of John Farrell, the Chateau Frontenac engineer who died in hospital from fatal wounds received at the hands of Jones, it is alleged, in the engine room of the hotel.

Chaufeur Gagnon, the chauffeur who is accused of having caused the death of three persons in an auto accident in St. Sauveur during the month of August will have to face a charge of involuntary homicide.

A NEW MOUNTAIN IN BRITISH COLUMBIA

Mount Bruce—Altitude 11,500

Mrs. E. T. Parsons, of Berkeley, and Miss Lullie Nettleton, of Seattle, have returned from a mountain-climbing expedition in the Southern Selkirk. The trip was notable in that unmappped country was traversed and the ascent of one of the highest peaks of that region was made.

Leaving Invermere, B.C., the party, consisting of E. W. Harnden, of Boston; Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Gleason, of Boston; Mrs. E. T. Parsons, of Berkeley, Cal., and Miss Lullie Nettleton, of Seattle, went to the head of Horse Thief Creek, forty miles in. The first ascent of the unmappped peak was made September 2nd, taking nine hours from the base camp. The route lay over the magnificent Starbird glacier and embraced steep, icy slopes and interesting rockwork. The party was roped in alpine fashion, as the snow slope below the summit required the greatest care.

On the summit ice axes were planted and the mountain was christened Mount Bruce, in honor of Robert Randolph Bruce, of Wilmer, B.C.

The view from the summit is described as wonderful. Glaciers of stupendous sizes and hundreds of peaks, varying from 9,000 feet altitude to 11,000 or 12,000. Most of them are unnamed and unclimbed. Allowing for corrections, the aneroid readings gave the altitude of Mount Bruce as 11,500 feet.

On September 6th, an attempt was made upon Mount Jumbo from a base camp below the terminal moraine, of the Jumbo glacier. The party came within 500 feet of the summit, the final section of the route lying plainly before them when a storm broke loose and they were obliged to retreat to camp.

Mr. Howard Palmer, the well-known mountaineer, has estimated that there are no fewer than 40 peaks in the Selkirk Mountains, whose altitude exceeds 10,000 feet. The rock from which these mountains have been carried, shows 45,000 feet or about nine miles in depth. No volcanoes have been found, so that geologists are still undecided as to how this gigantic group of mountains came into existence. The Range is crossed at Roger's Pass, by the C. P. R., which is, at this moment, driving a tunnel nearly five miles long in order to reduce its grade, and eliminate a large number of snowsheds, required to protect the track.

ANTWERP REFUGEES REACH LONDON.

London, Oct. 10.—Seven trains bringing refugees from Antwerp arrived here last night and were met by representatives of the war refugee committee. A majority of those who came in on the trains were of the well-to-do class and did not need assistance. The others, however, bore sterner evidence of the experiences they had undergone. Many of these carried their belongings in brown paper parcels slung over their shoulders. The distressed ones were provided with warm meals at the stations and then sent by omnibus to various institutions pending arrangements for their housing.

An Antwerp real estate man, who escaped on the last train leaving the besieged town, said: "Fierce fighting was going on almost at our doors when we left. The noise of the big guns was like continuous thunder. Life in Antwerp for the past week had been a continuous nightmare. Considerable destruction to houses had been done by bombs dropped from Zeppelin airships.

"For a fortnight it had been impossible to obtain a warm meal in the city. The town has been virtually in darkness for two months." The refugees included a number of Belgian soldiers and a party of forty Ursuline Nuns.

BRAVES NOW TWO GAMES AHEAD IN WORLD'S SERIES

JAMES HELD ATHLETICS TO TWO HITS AND DEAL'S DARING BASE-RUNNING WAS A FACTOR IN BOSTON'S SECOND WIN.

Philadelphia, Oct. 10.—In a pitchers battle with a dramatic climax usually reserved for baseball fiction, the Boston Nationals defeated the Philadelphia Athletics here today in the second game of the world's series by a score of 1 to 0.

Royal Rooters, the Braves will receive the greatest welcome ever given a baseball team when they appear on the field at Fenway Park on Monday. Close to 40,000 fans are expected to greet the players in the third game of the series.

For eight innings today the two teams battled behind the pitching of James and Plank without the semblance of an advantage. Then came the break in the game and once again the Mackmen saw another world's series contest slip from their clutches to the credit of the Stallings' clan.

The receipts for the second game amounted to $49,639, of which the National Commission received $4,963.90; the players $26,805, and the clubs $17,870.10.

It was Deal, however, who upset Plank's expectations and the Athletics chances. He drove a long double over Strunk's head and a moment later stole third when Schang threw low to Barry to catch Deal off the base.

Umpire Hildebrand called "play ball" at precisely 2 o'clock. The veteran Eddie Plank was given hearty encouragement as he walked to the pitchers box. Mann, who heads the Boston batting order when the opposing pitcher is a left-hander, let the first pitched ball go by, as it was wide.

The Athletics veteran twirler was working as smoothly as at the beginning of the game when Maranville faced him at the opening of the 9th inning. The phantom-like shortstop went out Barry to McInnis and Deal, substitute third baseman in place of "Red" Smith, stepped to the plate.

The only errors crept into the game in the eighth inning, but they resulted in no runs. Cather was out, Barry to McInnis. Whitted shot a hot grounder to Barry who made a great stop, but a wide throw to McInnis, who had to extend himself to get it.

Deal, however, who upset Plank's expectations and the Athletics chances. He drove a long double over Strunk's head and a moment later stole third when Schang threw low to Barry to catch Deal off the base.

Manager Stallings and the players on the bench were wild with joy, and the Boston rooters made an awful din as they realized that a run was about to be made. James struck out for the fourth time, but this did not lessen the enthusiasm of the Bostonians.

Deal, however, who upset Plank's expectations and the Athletics chances. He drove a long double over Strunk's head and a moment later stole third when Schang threw low to Barry to catch Deal off the base.

Deal played far off second base and Schang made a quick throw to trap him. Deal instantly saw the play and dashed for third. He was about half way down the path when Barry got Schang's throw, and he stood holding the ball as deal slid into third base.

back to first by the narrowest margin. He was out a minute later on a force hit by Cather, Barry to Collins.

"Home Run" Baker tried to hit the ball out of the park in the Mackmen's half of the fifth. He caught one of James' swift balls with a resounding whack but the ball lofted too high and Whitted waited for it to come down in centerfield.

Boston again got two men on in the sixth. Whitted sent a little fly to Collins. Schmidt was struck on the shoulder by one of Plank's slow balls but Umpire Hildebrand did not let him take first, deciding that Schmidt had let the ball hit him.

The American Leaguers got their second and last hit in this session. James fell the victim to strikes for the third time and Mann also struck out. Baker tossed out Evers.

by waiting and getting a pass. Walter Schang brought groans by striking out, but an instant later these were turned to cheers as Barry flashed to second for a clean steal. Walsh was sent in to bat for Plank and received a base on balls. It was up to Murphy and the crowd held its breath. Murphy waited and then caught a pitch on the end of his bat and the ball shot out to Maranville.

The little felder was fully alive to the situation. He leaped into the air, brought down the ball, touched second forcing out Walsh, and made a lightning throw to first for a double play, ending the game.

BOXING BOUTS AT ARENA TONIGHT

THREE CONTESTS SCHEDULED —LEVISITE WILL FIGHT IN AFTERNOON

The boxers scheduled to perform in this evening's boxing tournament at the Quebec Arena arrived in the city yesterday, feeling fit for their respective contests. In the lightweight class Curley Hume, of England, will clash with Eddie Pisoni, an Italian, who is said to be a champion in his own country. This bout will go ten rounds. Mike White and Kid Harris are expected to furnish an interesting six round exhibition. There also promises to be some excitement in the ten-round bantamweight contest between Jos. Sirosi, the Quebec bantam and Kid Harris, of Montreal.

In the afternoon at the Arena, a certain Levisite, who cherishes the hope of some day establishing his mark in the heavyweight class, will be given an opportunity of showing his worth as a boxer when he hooks up with Cleve Hawkins, a colored milt artist from the United States. The bout will go three rounds.

HAMILTON TIGERS DOWN ARGOS

ARGONAUTS WENT DOWN ON HOME GROUNDS IN BIG FOUR OPENING

Toronto, Oct. 11.—The Hamilton Tigers beat Argos 20 to 5 in the opening game of the Big Four senior series before 3,200 people yesterday.

The game, which started under ideal weather conditions, wound up in a fierce thunderstorm, which left the field a quagmire. The Tigers were always in front. Several times the Argos threatened them seriously, but as usual penalties for off-side interference prevented them really closing in on the champions. The Tigers play did not reveal any particular weakness in spite of the loss of several of last year's stars. Their back-field played a remarkable game and their line had the best of the argument in line plunging. Lawson played a good steady game on the back division for Argos, and Smith and Bickle were good too. Capt. Murphy will probably be Argos best man. Davidson distinguished himself by some grand tackling.

MONTREAL RUGBY-FOOTBALL CLUB SEEMS TO HAVE A TEAM THIS YEAR

Ottawa, Oct. 11.—The rejuvenated Montreal team established itself as a dangerous factor in the Inter-Provincial Football Union Saturday afternoon by defeating the Ottawa's in the opening game of the season at Lansdowne Park. The Winged Wheelers outclassed Ottawa after the first period and were finally winners by a score of 18 to 7. They outkicked and outran the home team, which only had a few of last year's regulars in line. Besides, Montreal shot through the Ottawa defence for big gains on trick plays. Coach McEneaney developed a variety of fake backs and combination plays that had the home team bewildered at times. Both clubs suffered through injuries in the third quarter. Montreal had to drop Art. Brophy, their brilliant centre half, owing to a sprained ankle, and Bert Stronach retired from the Ottawa team with one of his bad knees torn again.

The field was wet as the result of heavy rains and one of the smallest crowds on record was in attendance.

with the German rearguard west of Suwalki and to the southeast of Wirballen.

Of the battles in Galicia and Poland the Russian staff has decided to say nothing for the present, but the Austrians declare that a recent attack on Przemyśl has been repulsed and the Russians have evacuated the western front which the Austrians occupied.

The Austrians also claim victories over the Russians at Lancut and Dynow, in Galicia. It is known that they have received reinforcements, which Petrograd admits has compelled a change in the plans of the Russian army.

The Montenegrins claim a victory over the Austrians in Bosnia, where they say the Austrians tried to cut off the Montenegrin army proceeding to Sarajevo, but were defeated with heavy losses.

More alarming reports come from Italy of the spread of cholera in Austria. It is said that there are many cases of cholera in different parts of the country.

The Russian government has thought it necessary to take precautions for the protection of the Austrian legation at Bucharest. Turkey, too, is making preparations of a warlike character. The Young Turks are said to be largely under the influence of the Germans, Enver Pasha, the Young Turk leader and Minister of War, having lived for many years in Berlin.

A despatch from Athens says that the Turks are displaying great activity in Syria, Palestine and northern Arabia.

London, Oct. 11—The Bordeaux correspondent of the Times has sent the following despatch: "In official circles here it is recognized that the fall of Antwerp may prolong the war. The Germans are certain to fortify the forts which will become a base for Zeppelin attacks against the British coast. And yet it is obvious that under the present conditions the Germans cannot recapture the city by way of the Scheldt river."

London, Oct. 11—The Rome correspondent of the Exchange Telegraph Company says that according to a Vienna message cholera is now spreading over the entire dual monarchy, new cases averaging forty daily.

London, Oct. 11—A despatch to Reuter's Telegram Company from Bucharest, Roumania, under date of yesterday, relative to the death of King Charles, says: "The Council of Ministers met in extraordinary session today, the leaders of all parties being present. It was decided to convoke parliament tomorrow to proclaim Crown Prince Ferdinand King and to administer the statutory oath to the new monarch."

ILLUSTROUS VICTIMS.

Rome, via Paris, Oct. 11—"The appalling tragedy now waging in Europe may have been the last blow to the heart of aged King Charles of Roumania," says the Tribune. "Also, the relatives and intimate friends of Cardinal Ferrata say that the origin of his illness was due to the weakening of his organism by excessive work in his attempt to master the situation and co-operate with the Pope in trying to end the conflict. "Thus the illustrious victims of the war, among the non-combatants, number already a Pope, a King, and a Cardinal, the Papal Secretary of State."

CARDINAL FERRATA'S FUNERAL TOMORROW

Rome, Oct. 11—The funeral of Cardinal Ferrata, the late Papal Secretary of State, will be held on Tuesday. Many prominent persons including the diplomatic representatives of Austria, Spain, Brazil and Argentina have made official calls upon the family of the Cardinal who also have received many telegrams of condolence.

COMBAT CONTINUES IN EAST PRUSSIA.

Petrograd, Oct. 11—The following communication, under date of Oct. 9, has been made public by the Russian General Staff: "The combat on the East Prussian frontier continues with the same obstinacy. The German troops are retiring from Lyck and are blowing up the bridges behind them. "In several passes between Ivanogrod and San Domir artillery battles are occurring with the enemy which is approaching the Vistula."

UNMARRIED MAN TOOK OTHER'S PLACE.

London, Oct. 12—"Lots were drawn by four officers," says the London Daily News Ostend correspondent, "to decide who should remain in command of Fort St. Marie, north-west of Antwerp, the officer thus chosen being sworn to fight to the death. "The lot fell on a married man with a family. An unmarried officer immediately offered to take his place and the officer who originally was chosen reluctantly accepted. The three officers then retired, bidding a touching farewell to their comrade who remained behind."

HOLLAND CROWDED WITH BELGIAN REFUGEES

London, Oct. 11—A despatch to the Exchange Telegraph from Rotterdam says: "Baron Von Schuster, civil governor of Antwerp, has advised all refugees to return to Antwerp at once. "The southern frontier of Holland is still flooded near Roosendaal. The Hazelton Herald says: It is understood that the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway Company has succeeded in placing bonds to the extent of sixteen millions of dollars, the Canadian Bank of Commerce subscribing for the entire issue, which is backed by the Dominion Government. There has been an enormous reduction in the working force on the railway during the past spring and summer, owing to financial stress and the inability of the company to secure funds to keep the work going on the large scale. No doubt some such arrangement has been made, as the company is now going ahead with its program as originally laid out, and the forces are being brought up to the old strength.

(Drawn up in the French Language)
At a meeting of the City Council of the City of Quebec, held at the City Hall in the said City of Quebec on the twenty-first day of August, one thousand nine hundred and fourteen (1914) in conformity to law, and in virtue of a By-Law passed by this Council pursuant thereto, and after the due observance of all the formal-ties prescribed by the statute in such case made and provided, at which dere); Trudel, Verret, Walling, (19).

Considering the projected reconstruction of Bickell's Bridge on St.

the City of Quebec and the said
Municipal Council ordains and enacts
as follows:
(1)—To widen the road leading to Bickell's Bridge, on Limoulois Ward side, it is necessary for public utilities ends, to purchase, on cadastral lot 2a of St. Roch north, a strip of land of about 4136 superficial feet; and, St.
Roch Ward side, a strip of land of about 10410 square feet, proving part of cadastral number 3, for St. Roch Ward and another strip of land of about 3575 superficial feet on cadastral number 4 of same ward; as all is demonstrated on the plan bearing the date of the 4th of July, 1914, and prepared by Land Surveyor G. K. Adde and deposited in the office of the City Engineer;
(2)—For the above mentioned ends, the city shall purchase amicably, by exchanging or expropriating said strip of land;
(3)—The amount to be paid for the said strips of land shall be taken from the monies the city is authorized to borrow in virtue of Act 4, George V.,

Correspondence

MAIL FOR CONTINGENT
To the Editor of The Chronicle:
Dear Sir:—What an absurd report to circulate, that the correspondence of the Canadian Expeditionary Force would be forwarded free by the Canadian Post-Office. How could Mr. Wiggs, of the Mechanics' Supply Co. have suggested such a thing? The Quebec Post-Office authorities have every reason to be annoyed by the rumor, especially as their connection with the Mechanics' Supply Company is not at all clear to the lay mind, though we cannot believe that there is the slightest scandal in it. If the soldiers are to be treated by the Post-Office as they have been treated by all other corporations with which they have had to deal, they ought to pay at least one hundred and fifty per cent more than ordinary people for the privilege of sending their letters. Five cents for a letter, and three cents for a post card should be fixed as the lowest rate to be paid by the Canadian soldiers. It would be a great pity if in this particular matter alone, of mail, nothing could be made out of our patriotism. What are we sending our Canadian Contingent for, if we aren't to make all we can for Canada? "Advertisement and Gift" is a rallying cry to which few of us fail to respond. I am, sir,
Yours truly,
BUSINESS AS USUAL.

DUTIES OF CATHOLICS IN THE PRESENT WAR

PASTORAL LETTER IS READ TO THE FAITHFUL OF THE ECCLESIASTICAL PROVINCES OF QUEBEC, MONTREAL AND OTTAWA.

The following Pastoral letter, signed by the Archbishops and Bishops of the Ecclesiastical Provinces of Quebec, Montreal and Ottawa was read to the faithful of the Roman Catholic churches at all masses yesterday morning in Quebec City as well as in every parish in the Province. The object of this epistle deals with duties of Catholics during the war and concerns the patriotic war fund. Sunday, October 18th, at all the masses in all churches and chapels of the diocese a collection will be taken up on behalf of the soldiers and unemployed of each of these dioceses. It is understood that one-half of the collection will be handed to the Treasurer of the Patriotic Fund and the other half distributed in each diocese to those other families which, on account of enforced idleness or from other causes, shall be reduced to poverty especially during the winter months:

Pastoral Letter
Of the Most Reverend and Right Reverend Archbishops and Bishops of the Ecclesiastical Provinces of Quebec, Montreal and Ottawa, regarding the duties of Catholics in the present war.

We, by the Grace of God and of the Holy See, Archbishops and Bishops of the Ecclesiastical Provinces of Quebec, Montreal and Ottawa.

To the secular and regular clergy and to all the faithful of our dioceses, health and benediction in Our Lord. Dearly beloved Brethren:

For the past two months, and God alone knows how long the scourge will last—war has been raging in the greater part of the Continent of Europe. It is our earnest hope that all the woes following in its wake may be, in the end, God's means to work out the moral and social regeneration of nations. The pall of death spreads over countries hitherto most prosperous, and mournings thicken in homes least known to distress. The cannon has sown desolation in families past number; by thousands arives bewailing the loss of their husbands, and mothers that of their children, and orphans that of their parents. Cities destroyed by fire, monuments overthrown; heaths extinguished; fields laid waste; factories closed; trade obstructed; whole battalions mowed down like the grass of the field; the flower of each nation torn and scattered to the four winds of heaven; what ruins, dear Brethren have accumulated in this short time!

We cannot close our eyes to the fact that this conflict, one of the most awful yet seen by the world, will make its recoil felt in our country. England is engaged in this war, and who does not see that the destiny of every part of the Empire is bound up with the fate of her armies? She counts very rightly on our co-operation and this co-operation, we are happy to say, is being generously offered to her, both in men and in money. Already, with the reservists of the allied nations, naturalized or living amongst us, several thousand of our own compatriots have volunteered to go to the war, and others perhaps, will follow. Nearly all of them have left behind them families depending upon them for their support. How many of them will ever return to take up again the task of bread-winner for the family? As beyond the seas, our own industries will be paralyzed; they will suffer from the impossibility of employers to obtain raw material from the countries now at war; and also from the absence or notable reduction in number of skilled workers. In the fatherless homes, mothers will lament that they have not the food which their children ask. On our streets, men without work will seek perhaps in vain for employment to assure their daily bread.

Already of course, the civil authorities have specified measures of human prudence to obviate the worst contingencies: the suppression of luxuries and superfluous expenditure; the practice of rigorous economy; the development of our national resources, and the increase of exportations to foreign markets. They have also opened, under the title of "The Canadian Patriotic Fund" a first source of protection in behalf of the families whose members have gone to the war. Though their appeal has reached the principal centres of the land, it was difficult, however, for them to make this appeal heard in the more remote country parts.

Your pastors, dearly beloved Brethren, whose traditions are to watch over the material welfare, as well as the moral and spiritual health of their flocks, believe that they are simply fulfilling a duty by soliciting from each one of you a contribution to this eminently national work. The proceeds will be divided into two parts. One half will be handed over to the Manager of the Patriotic Fund for the purposes for which it is, or may be legally destined. The other half will be distributed in each diocese to those other families, which, on account of enforced idleness or from other causes shall be reduced to poverty, especially during the hardships of winter. Not one of you, dearly beloved Brethren, but understands the deep sentiments of Christian charity inspiring this measure
