News in brief

Hearing Oct. 4

QUEBEC (CP)—Preliminary hearing has been set for Oct. 4 in the fraud trial of four prominent Quebecers. They were arraigned Friday and released on $1,000 bail after waiving the reading of lengthy charges.

Warheads soon

NORTH BAY, Ont. (CP)—Nuclear warheads are expected to be fitted into Canada's 56 Bomarc anti-aircraft missiles "within two months," Air Vice-Marshal James Harvey, commander of the northern NORAD region, said here Friday. He said it will be "several months" before nuclear warheads are available for the RCAF's 63 Voodoo jet interceptors. The planes are based at Chatham, N.B., Bagotville, Que., Ottawa, North Bay and Comox, B.C.

Want harmony

OTTAWA (CP)—Backbench pressure from Liberal MPs has brought a pledge by Prime Minister Pearson that a system will be worked out to keep cabinet ministers and government supporters in closer harmony. The pledge was delivered Friday night at the opening of an unprecedented round of meetings in which Liberal MPs and senators were to air their grievances and give detailed study to the government's legislative plans and the party's political affairs.

Heat over

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Ocean breezes broke through the heat wave today, bringing relief to millions of tortured southern Californians. The weatherman predicted an end to the three-day siege today, with an expected high of 85. By Monday, he adds, the temperature should be back in the mid-80s.

Raps Indonesia

UNITED NATIONS (CP)—Lord Home, Britain's foreign secretary, rebuked Indonesia Friday for what he called a "stream of abuse and threats" directed at Malaysia. Home delivered a sharply worded reply in the United Nations General Assembly after Indonesia's Lambertus Palak blamed the crisis on Britain's desire to maintain her influence in the area.

Crime spreads

WASHINGTON (CP)—Mobster Joseph Valachi, who received Cos Nostra's "kiss of death" because a Toronto gangster said he was an informer, told congressional investigators Friday that high commission of organized crime has spread into Canada. Valachi named Vito Agueci, a convicted Toronto narcotics smuggler, as a member of the Cosa Nostra family that covered the Buffalo, N.Y., area taking in "all of Canada."

READY FOR FIRING — This RCAF Bomarc missile stands in firing position on its launching pad at North Bay, Ont. The North Bay SAGE base, an underground control centre from which the missile is aimed and fired, opened Thursday.

SEEKERS COMMUNIST HELP IN SEARCH — Mrs. Minnie Smythe, 74, talks with James Davis, Communist party candidate in the Sept. 25 provincial election, at a rally for Mr. Davis in Toronto. Mrs. Smythe begged for news of her son, Dan, who disappeared 26 years ago during the Spanish Civil War. Mrs. Smythe told the rally she blamed the Canadian Communist party for luring her son to Spain to fight for the loyalists. (CP Photo)

MAN WITH THE HARP — Prosper Ralston, 72, has been travelling throughout the world for years. He has become known as the Man With The Harp. This week he was on his way from Montreal to Prince Rupert to do some prospecting and maybe perform in some concerts with his harp. A native of Hamilton, he is travelling by offering two cents a mile for rides on trucks. Travel by truck is made necessary by his big harp, 10 suitcases of worldly goods and 13 five-gallon barrels of ore samples he has collected in a lifetime of prospecting. (CP Wirephoto)

Khrushchev may woo Chiang

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. — (NEA) — Soviet Russia, facing a complete break with Red China, is likely to seek diplomatic relations with Nationalist China. "A rapprochement between Moscow and Taiwan would hardly indicate that Premier Khrushchev has become fond of Chiang Kai-shek or that the Nationalist leader has gone soft on communism," an Asian diplomat said. "International diplomacy often makes strange bedfellows. Khrushchev and Chiang are tough realists whose national interests happen to coincide at the moment."

Washington's policy makers, who fear to "unleash" the Chinese Nationalists against Mao Tse-tung's Red regime, might thus discover one morning that they have been unleashed with Russia's backing. Chiang is said to be determined to invade China's mainland. The aging Nationalist leader told recent visitors to Taiwan that he hopes to be "unleashed" before he is too old to lead an army. He believes that now is the moment to mount the invasion. Premier Khrushchev, for his part, seems to have concluded that a reconciliation with Red China is in the cards as long as his foe and rival, Mao Tse-tung, rules in Peking.

The Russians apparently see Chiang Kai-shek as a much lesser evil than the ambitious Mao who rivals Khrushchev in his advocacy of the Marxist-Leninist revolution. Besides, the Chinese Nationalist leader can always be harassed by pro-Moscow Reds on China's mainland who will emerge into the open as soon as Mao goes. Moscow is now employing every means—even the threat of a military clash in Sinkiang and Manchuria—to topple Mao and reassert Russia's primacy in the Red world.

This is presumably what President Chiang Kai-shek's son, Gen. Chiang Ching-kuo, told President Kennedy when they met recently in Washington. The 54-year-old general subsequently said in an interview that "every means should be used to overthrow the Red Chinese regime before it becomes an atomic power." Could he have been thinking of possible Russian military aid when he suggested that one way to defeat Mao is "to pool our resources?" Gen. Chiang, a strong contender for Nationalist leadership when his father steps out, knows Russia and the Kremlin's top leaders. As a young man he spent 12 years in the Soviet Union, two of them as a student at the Leningrad Military Academy. He speaks Russian fluently. Chiang Kai-shek, as a matter of fact, was backed by Moscow until he clashed with the Russians in 1927. Stalin continued to recognize President Chiang's "corrupt" regime long after U.S. diplomats switched their support to Mao Tse-tung because they saw him as a "progressive agrarian reformer."

Stalin considered this globe too small to contain two Red giants and he always discouraged a communist revolution in China. He foresaw, perhaps, the mess in which his successor now finds himself. Diplomacy, indeed makes strange bedfellows. Even India's Prime Minister Nehru is seeking better relations with Chiang Kai-shek because he fears another attack by Red China. For years Nehru derided China's Nationalist leader as a "rightist" and "corrupt politician."

Officially, Moscow continues to denounce President Chiang's "Taiwan clique" and favor the admission of Red China into the United Nations. However, specialists on Russia point out that Stalin derided Hitler as an enemy of mankind until the day they signed the 1939 pact. Didn't Premier Khrushchev once castigate Yugoslavia's President Tito as a "lackey of American imperialism"? Now they proclaim their undying "socialist brotherhood." Tito will even meet next month with President Kennedy in an effort to sell him Moscow's brand of peaceful co-existence. Will it remain for Russia to unleash Chiang Kai-shek while Washington sleeps?

By LEON DENNEN

LEOPOLDVILLE, The Congo (AP) — The Congolese legislature is meeting in extraordinary session, but the legislators are sticking by their same old routines — harassing the government at every turn.

President Joseph Kasavubu summoned the 84-member senate and 137-member assembly to a special session to write a constitution for the three-year-old former Belgian Congo.

Premier Cyrille Adoula and his ministers were relieved by Kasavubu's instructions that the two houses were to sit as a single body under a single speaker and devote their work strictly to a constitution. But the legislators, who seem never to want to miss a chance to display contempt for the administration, met separately, elected their own Speakers and have yet to get together to talk about a constitution. "There seems to be some confusion," said speaker after speaker with uncharacteristic understatement during the debates. "Are we sitting in ordinary or extraordinary session?" Nobody knows for sure.

Extraordinary Congolese session is mixed up in ordinary fashion

BOOED MABOTI Deputies booed and banged the tops of their desks when Interior Minister Joseph Maboti, summoned hastily from his office, warned that all acts by Parliament in defiance of Kasavubu's decree would be void.

But to add to the mix-up, Justice Minister Justin Bomboko asked Parliament to amend a law passed by both houses last session because its phrasing was ambiguous. This can only be done by an ordinary session. Each side peppered the other with quotations from the Congo's "fundamental law" to prove the legality of its case. The trouble is that the fundamental law isn't a law at all. Formulated by Belgian jurists as a constitution for the independent Congo, it has never been ratified by the Congolese Parliament and the government use bits they find suitable, reject some parts and have been busy rewriting others. Some revised articles have been signed into law by Kasavubu. But nobody knows for sure which of the other articles are still in force. The result is a legal nightmare.

Fascism festers in Toronto

TORONTO — (TNS) — Fascism still festers in Toronto. It could be written off as the crackpot revolt of adolescents. Except for these facts: A teen-ager who reveres Hitler has given Canadian prestige a black eye by leading white mobs in Birmingham, Ala. Anti-Semitic literature of the vilest sort is sent through the mails to people who answered an ad in a Toronto newspaper. A number of Fascist groups, some with as many as 70 members are active in Toronto. Members range from radicals who look fearfully under the bed for Communists to "commandos" who do comic-opera training in the country at week ends.

The former leader of the Canadian Union of Fascists ran in the provincial election as a Social Credit Action candidate in the St. Andrew riding. He must rank as one of the shiest election candidates in history. John Ross Taylor, or just Ross Taylor as he identified himself to the returning officer, didn't even let his committee room know his home address and phone number. But for all that, his political colleagues are well aware of his credentials. Last year, Taylor was expelled from the Social Credit League of Ontario when his past was revealed. Taylor, 50, was one of Canada's leading Black Shirts in the '30s, and was arrested by the RCMP and interned during the war. He ran for the Social Credit Action splinter group, which was headed by a Toronto coin dealer and St. George riding candidate, Neil Carmichael. Carmichael, who was criticized for his anti-Semitic statements in the last federal election, said of Taylor: "Why rake up the past? That's over and done with now."

Taylor, who lives with his mother in an Ontario st. apartment, refused to meet newspapermen to discuss any of his present affiliations. David Stanley, the teen-ager convicted of inciting a Birmingham mob, is also no newcomer in fascist circles. He has been handing out Nazi literature for several years at Cedarbrae High School, which he attended until this summer. He founded the Canadian Youth Corps and one source estimates its membership at 70, mostly in Scarborough. One teen-ager, who has seen the initiation rites of the corps, said Stanley made the recruit put his left hand on the Bible, his right hand on a knife, and swear to preserve the white race an oppose the "Judea - Bolshevik conspiracy."

In April, Stanley ran an ad for several days in the Hobbies section of a Toronto newspaper inviting people who wanted to collect Nazi literature to write to a post office box number in Scarborough. A reply brought leaflets printed by George Rockwell's American Nazi Party, some of them with heavy overtones of sadism and sexual aberration. Stanley has also been distributing Rockwell's newspaper, The Thunderer. The Toronto newspaper involved no longer accepts his ads. Within hours of Stanley's conviction in Birmingham (he is out on bail and back in Toronto), Toronto teen age friend of his was phoned and asked to go to Birmingham to replace him. He refused. The caller was said to be the leader of a group called The Natural Order. Both it and the Canadian Youth Corp have met at a Vaughan rd. address. Another crackpot group with an international flavor is The Nordic Ring. It has an estimated 60 members here.

A WHITE CANADA Another group, The Canadian League, is dedicated to keeping Canada white. It was launched in Toronto three years ago at a meeting of about 70 in the Saskatchewan Room of the Royal York Hotel. It was addressed by Ron Gostick, editor of the right-wing Canadian Intelligence service, Eric Soanes, and Peter Lonsdale, who ran as Social Credit candidate in the Greenwood riding in the last federal election.

BENNETT'S PLATFORM VAGUE

VICTORIA — (TNS) — British Columbians still don't seem to know what the provincial election is all about. Nobody, so far, has really told them why there is an election. And the man who called it — W. A. C. Bennett — has produced no startling issues, no astounding new policies. Political observers have been surprised and disappointed by the dullness of the Premier's initial speeches. The lack of virility in Soared campaigning could hardly be attributable to over-confidence. The Soareds lost two out of three by-elections held since their last test at the polls in 1960. It can, then, only heighten speculation that the real reason for the election was simply this: now or never. Bennett perhaps believing that he couldn't win any later.

So it has been left to the opposition parties to supply the color and grab the headlines. The self-styled heir to the Premier's throne, New Democratic Party Leader Robert Strachan, has conducted a clever, well-paced campaign bringing out every few days a new plank in his platform and getting some very favorable publicity each time. The leader of the Conservative Party, Davie Fulton, astonished everyone by announcing right in Prince George that he would stop the mighty Peace project. While such a stand can only cost Fulton votes in the north, it has earned him tremendous admiration on the coast for having guts enough to say it.

COAST IS KEY And it's on the coast that this election can be won or lost — though not won by Fulton. Symptomatic of the restless dissatisfaction of Vancouver, its mayor, William Rathie, has become a Liberal candidate in the three-seat riding of Point Grey, a Soared stronghold cracked in a by-election last December with a spectacular Liberal victory.

North Vietnam crisis stops attack on South

WASHINGTON — (NEA) — One of the surprises of the South Viet Nam guerrilla war is that North Viet Nam hasn't taken advantage of the Diem-Nhu-Buddhist fight to launch decisive guerrilla attacks in the South. Reports now filtering out of North Viet Nam make the answer clear. Red Dictator Ho Chi Minh has a crisis of his own. Ho is sympathetic to Russia's Nikita Khrushchev in the fight with Red China's Mao Tse-tung. But he is dependent on military aid from Mao. Ho's North Viet Nam is wracked by a continuing food shortage. It has taken most of the government's efforts to cope with it, and it has been handled very poorly. Food stocks are at low levels. The last good harvest was in 1959. The 1960, '61 and '62 harvests were bad. The early 1963 harvest has been extremely poor. This fall's harvest will be another bad one. So food reserves are at a critical point. The outlook is bleak. Rations, already very small, are high. Ho has taken a series of remedial measures, some intelligent, some desperate. But they have not worked satisfactorily. The government has constructed ambitious irrigation systems, developed new agricultural land in the foothills. Thousands of peasants have been pressed into compulsory "volunteer" labor. Workers on the collectives have been told they can cultivate private plots on the side and sell what they raise for whatever they can get. Collectives have been told they will be paid higher prices for what they produce above the norm. Meanwhile "better" agricultural machinery has been manufactured and supplied to the co-operatives. The population, however, continues to grow by 3½ per cent a year. Unlike Communist China, North Viet Nam does not have the funds to buy food on the world's markets. Industrialization is limited and its growth has been slow. Foreign exchange income is insignificant. North Viet Nam began as a food-short country. But experts say that the basic problem is that Ho's advisers were Red Chinese. They pushed through the Chinese system of collectives which killed peasant ambition. The government decided to build industry by squeezing the money from agriculture. Officials forced the peasants to sell their products to the government at low prices. The peasants quietly revolted, cut back production and hid produce. They have, in effect, been carrying out slow but efficient sabotage.

JTB DEFECTS USUALLY BIDDERS
The transfer bid is not perfect, but it is remarkable to note the steady record of its success. When it does fail to produce a winning result the reason is most likely to be a mistake by its user, not a defect in the bid itself.
However, the Eastern experts have worked out a defense against the bid and I can report on the defense and its results. I have been would have bid two spades. After I bid two spades in the East seat Jackie Begin of Montreal held the South cards bid three hearts. West bid four spades and North saved at five hearts. The game was duplicate and all I could do was to doubt.

Jackie had a few anxious moments in the play. She had to hold the loss to two tricks and we cashed two spade tricks right off the bat. Then I shifted to the nine of diamonds. Jackie took the diamond finesse and her first hurdle had been passed. A trump lost to my ace and I led a second diamond which was won by South's ace. Jackie drew trumps and threw me in with her last diamond. I had to lead a club and this automatically left her only one club loser.

This gave her a minus score of 300 points, but most East-West pairs bid and made four spades for a score of 420.

Great success of the young Tenor—PIERRE DUVAL

After a magistral debut in Spain in the opera "La Favorita" the young Canadian tenor Pierre Duval sang at the inauguration of the Glynboarne Festival in Scotland.

Back in Montreal he also sang in recital with the symphony orchestra under the direction of Wilfrid Pelletier.

Soon after he was called to London, England, in July to substitute for the celebrated Italian tenor, Franco Corelli, in the recording of a D.E.C.C.A. album of the opera "I Puritani" with Joan Sutherland as his partner.

His outstanding achievements add to the pride of the Montreal Conservatory in producing this fine operatic singer.

About Television

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP)—The annual fall television explosion will soon be over and the new and old shows established in their evening networks spots. The next loud noises will be the complaints that it is not fair to judge a series, anywhere from 13 to 36 programs, on the basis of one show.

The pleas will come from parties whose initial offering received harsh treatment from reviewers. Such a cry has never once passed the smiling lips of anyone connected with a show that drew rave notices.

It probably is a bit unfair to condemn—or to praise—on the basis of one program. But there is impressive evidence indicating that it is the method used by the public in picking its pet shows.

By the end of next week, all network programs will be settled in their time periods. By the middle of October, most "heavy viewers" will have decided which of the competing programs they will follow. The report by a national rating service which estimates audience sizes will be issued a couple of weeks later.

Historically, the evidence indicates, it takes about three weeks of sampling the new schedules of the networks for the audience to make choices. And the ratings indicate the

Urges an inquiry into proposed PQ pension plan

The Provincial Association of Quebec Life Underwriters has called for the establishment by the Quebec government of a special committee of inquiry to "receive the views of all interested individuals and organizations", once the details of the proposed pension plan have been made public.

A press release from the Association quotes its representative, Claude McCabe, speaking to a meeting of the Sherbrooke branch Friday morning.

Must pay for crash damages

A Superior Court Judge has ordered former Lennoxville contractor C. M. Winget to pay $10,103.93, interest and costs to the C.P.R. for damages caused during a collision at a level crossing October 10, 1958 between a C.P.R. diesel and a Winget bulldozer.

Mr. Justice Gaston Desmarais in his September 24th judgment on the level-crossing crash between Johnville and Lennoxville concluded: "The said collision was due to the sole fault, negligence, imprudence and want of skill of the defendant himself and the employee Owen Ball."

According to the judgment the diesel train had the right-of-way. Furthermore the judge stated that the defendant had ignored the warning of a section foreman telling him of the oncoming train, and noted that inside the bulldozer's enclosure, the driver was unable to hear the train signalling its approach.

Is fined for impaired driving

A Windsor resident pleaded guilty to a charge of driving a car while his faculties were impaired by alcohol, and was sentenced to pay a $50 fine and costs in Sherbrooke Sessions Court Friday.

Ferdinand Godbout 50, was arrested in Windsor the night of September 27 in his parked car.

Mr. McCabe, the release said, told the group that "considerable concern has been caused by recent press reports to the effect that the Quebec government is considering a fully funded plan operated by the province."

"This seems to indicate the possibility that a major part of the pension business in the province would be taken over by the government from the insurance companies, trust companies and private pension funds operating in the province."

"Such a takeover by government would undoubtedly cause serious reduction in the accumulation of private capital greatly needed for investment in the province," the statement continued.

The Association commended Premier Lesage for his decision to refer the proposed pension plan to the advisory council and other reputable economists for study of the effect such a plan might have on the economy of the province.

Supporting the recommendation for a public inquiry into the proposals, the release quoted Mr. McCabe as saying, "the need for a full scale public inquiry into the matter of pensions before final decisions are made is vividly illustrated by current developments at the federal level. The federal government has caused a storm of protest across the country because of its apparent haste to proceed with the national pension plan without opportunity for public inquiry into all its implications."

87 tomorrow

Mr. Hollis Placey, who will celebrate his 87th birthday tomorrow, is receiving the congratulations of his many friends.

Fall, winter program of YWCA is extended in scope and size

The fall and winter program of the Sherbrooke branch of the Young Women's Christian Association has taken on a new look this fall according to YWCA president Miss M. Cornwall-Jones.

While still offering such old favourites as sports and swimming, the program has been extended to include activities for the young and old, married and single, sports-minded and domestic women.

Activities now range from keep fit classes, handicrafts, sewing, and bridge to English and French-speaking conversation classes.

For the pre-school and school aged children the YWCA is offering a varied and interesting program this fall.

Nursery Play School has been extended to four mornings a week to accommodate the large increase in tiny tots.

One of the six participating agencies aided by Community Chest funds, the YWCA offers Red Cross Swimming classes to school children every afternoon.

The Sherbrooke-Lennoxville Community Chest annual drive for funds continues to October 8. The objective is $24,000.

On Friday there is synchronized swimming classes for both juniors and adults. Saturday mornings the out of town children come to take advantage of the Y pool.

Fun Club is held each Saturday morning for seven to 11 year-olds. It is hoped that the 14-year-old group will begin soon.

The Y teens are once again a busy group and a leadership course has been started. Saturday night dances are also held by this group.

Adults are catered to in the new fall program as well, says

Maple crop in Townships down in '63

Eastern Townships maple syrup production of 1,041,000 gallons for the year 1963 was slightly lower than the previous year's according to a Department of Industry and Commerce report released recently.

This represents 1,022,000 gallons of syrup and 196,000 pounds of maple sugar. Last year's total production says the department's report, amounted to 1,060,000 gallons and compares with the 1961 figure of 1,004,000.

The maple sugar made this year in the area indicates a sharp drop over one year ago when production reached 313,000 pounds although two years ago the region turned out only 168,000 pounds. Syrup made last year was 1,029,000 gallons and 987,000 gallons the preceding year.

The total value of Eastern Township sugar products made in 1962 was $3,946,000 and $3,769,000 in 1961. Figures were not available for 1963.

The average price for syrup paid Quebec producers in 1962 was $3.69 per gallon, against $3.74 in 1961. The average farm value of maple sugar was estimated at 49 cents against 47 cents in 1961 according to the report.

From the 6,388 farms in the Townships reporting in 1961 the report shows a total production of 775,735 gallons of maple syrup and 467,409 pounds of maple sugar made that year. In 1961, the release reveals that the 5,417 farms reporting produced 986,874 gallons of syrup and 167,556 pounds of maple sugar for the year.

Highest producer of maple products over the ten year period for the region was Arthabaska county. It made 90,595 gallons in 1961 and 119,033 gallons of syrup in 1961. Arthabaska produced an additional 196,584 pounds of maple sugar in 1961 compared with 28, 217 the following year. Sherbrooke County, the smallest of the Eastern Townships' producers, gathered 7,018 gallons of syrup in 1961 against 10,295 gallons ten years later. The maple sugar made here was 535 pounds in 1961 and 3,068 in 1961.

The first English language lecture, one of a series offered free to the public by the University of Sherbrooke, will be given by the Canadian poet A. J. M. Smith, Thursday evening, Oct. 10.

Russians among photography pioneers

Russia's large wheat purchases have been making news lately and perhaps it would be timely to discuss Russia's role in the history of photography.

Photography began in Russia in the year 1839 with the calotype process which involves a paper negative. The process is described in a scientific paper sent to the Russian Academy of Science. This article was written by Fox Talbot, an Englishman who patented the process, although it had been claimed as an earlier discovery by Rev. T. B. Reade.

The first photograph was produced in Russia by U.F. Fritsche.

In 1881 Boldyrev of St. Petersburg coated a transparent and flexible non-flam film base first with collodion and later dry gelatine emulsion. He successfully demonstrated it at the 1882 All-Russian Industrial Exhibition, but owing to the lack of money, was unable to put it into industrial production.

This was a forerunner, and the first example, of roll film, as distinct from the glass negatives in exclusive use at the time.

Also in pre-revolutionary days, Russian inventors produced a number of original cameras, and different parts of them, one of which had tremendous interest. It was the roll-film camera, built in 1875 by L. V. Warnerke. A portable-type, in 1879 was built by D. P. Yezuchevsky and won a prize in the Geographical Exhibition in Venice. The camera was intended for expeditionary work.

In 1882, F. A. Yurkovsky, a Vitebsk photographer, invented the first instantaneous roller-blind shutter, the basis for our present day focal shutter.

Equipment for color photography includes I. Yamovsky's chromograph, 1895, and E. Kozlovsky's three-color camera, a one shot camera patented in 1899 which used a beam-splitting system utilizing semi-transparent mirrors.

Also in 1899, J. F. Alexandrovsky, a Russian technical college student, invented an exposure meter which used a photo element to determine exposure.

This was the first of its kind and was patented in Germany and in Russia. The system is widely used today.

Photographic design and production, in the early stages, were slowed by a lack of funds, although, as we can see, there was no lack of interest.

Just to show how things have improved, from 1930 to 1941, 30,000 cameras were made, and in 1955 alone, nearly 1,000,000 were manufactured.

NATURAL WEALTH — Rich, golden wheat swaying in the breeze contrasts sharply with the deep blue sky. A proper camera angle makes the stalks of wheat look like they were touching the clouds. The picture was taken with a Rollicord camera, lens setting F22 in order to give great depth and sharpness to the scene; shutter speed 1/125th of a second.

Sunday Sermon Subject for September 29, 1963

Man's right and privilege of identifying himself, here and now, with the eternal things of God's spiritual creation, will be set forth at the services in all Christian Science churches this Sunday, in the reading of the week's Lesson-Sermon on the subject "Reality." A prayer from Psalms will keynote the Bible selections: "Open Thou mine eyes, that I may behold wondrous things out of Thy law." Correlative passages from the "Christian Science text book, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy, will include: "If the disciple is advancing spiritually, he is striving to enter in. He constantly turns away from material sense, and looks towards the imperishable things of Spirit."

Q — I have heavy legs and although I know I must wear short skirts to be in style, I don't like the way they look. Can you suggest a shade of stocking that might make my legs look slimmer? — Mrs. J. H.

A — Dear Mrs. J. H. — Your stockings aren't the real problem, although you should not wear very light shades and should stick to stockings that have seams to create a slimmer illusion.

By wearing short skirts because everyone else does, you make a mistake. You may be in fashion, but not in style. Fashion is only good style when it is becoming to the wearer.

Fashions come and go. When you wear what is right for you, you have style, whatever the current fashion. Solve your problem by wearing your skirts an inch or so longer than fashion dictates. No one will be around with a tape measure and the overall look will be much better for you.

Everything today has to be "quick and easy" or "instant," so it's not surprising that there is a new manners book, called "The Collier Quick and Easy Guide to Etiquette." The book may be excellent, but the title could be misleading.

Anyone who thinks there is some quick and easy formula to good manners is bound to come up missing.

Above all else, good manners take some time.

It takes time to hear the other person through without interrupting, and it takes time plus patience if the other person happens to be a bore.

It takes time to do the small favors for others that are such an important part of good manners—the troubling to put yourself out for someone else.

It takes time to write the thank-you notes, the bread-and-butter letters, the words of condolence, the letters of congratulation that etiquette demands and that friendship dictates.

It takes time to call on a new neighbor, to visit the sick, to take an elderly person for a ride, to entertain a friend's house-guest or help a newcomer to get acquainted.

It takes time to keep in touch with friends.

It takes time to entertain the unexpected guest, and to make him feel that he has not intruded.

Good manners, in fact, are so much a matter of "taking time" to be gracious and friendly and helpful that the more we rush around the more our manners suffer.

How often we make and hear such excuses as, "I've been meaning to write you for such a long time—but I just haven't had a moment," or "I'm ashamed I didn't get by to see you when you were in the hospital—but I've been so busy."

Personals

Mr. E. D. Bradley of Queen Street, North, was at home to friends September 25 on the occasion of his 87th birthday. A surprise birthday party had been arranged. Food Tips

Green peppers will be at their peak flavor for the next while. They're always popular when stuffed with a savory filling and baked. Try Salmon-Filled Peppers for a tasty luncheon or supper dish to serve 4.

Saute 1/2 cup minced onion until soft in 2 tablespoons butter. Blend in 2 cups flaked canned salmon, 1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce, a dash Tabasco sauce, 1 teaspoon salt, 1/2 cups cooked rice and one, 7/2-ounce can tomato sauce. Heat mixture through. Meanwhile, cut a thin slice from stem end of 4 large green peppers. Remove seeds; simmer peppers 5 minutes in boiling salted water. Drain; fill with salmon mixture; sprinkle buttered dry bread crumbs on top. Bake about 20 minutes, covered, in preheated moderately hot oven, 375 deg. F., then uncovered another 10 minutes until topping is browned.

Today's recipe

BARBECUED SPARERIBS

Cut 4 lbs. spareribs in serving size portions. Simmer them in enough water to cover plus 2 tsp. salt for 1/2 hour. Combine 1 clove garlic minced, 1 1/2 cups catsup, 2 tbsp. vinegar, 1/2 tsp. salt, 1 tsp. dry mustard, 1/2 tsp. black pepper, 2 tsp. any thick steak sauce and 1 cup strained honey. Cook over low heat for 5 to 7 minutes. Drain spareribs and place in shallow baking pan. Pour sauce over them and bake in 400F. over 45 minutes or until tender basting frequently with the sauce. Makes 4 to 6 servings depending whether or not they are meaty and on appetites.

PLUM BUTTER

Wash 5 lbs. blue plums and remove all blemishes. Put in kettle and barely cover with water — best about 1 inch below surface of plums. Bring to boil and boil until soft enough to press through a sieve or colander to remove pits and skins. Measure pulp and add 1/2 cup honey for every cup pulp, return to heat and cook until thick as desired. Seal while hot in sterilized jars.

HONEY FRENCH DRESSING

Blend 1/4 cup of liquid honey with 2 tsp. salt, 2 tsp. paprika, 1 tsp. dry mustard then add 2 tbsp. tomato catsup, 2 tbsp. lemon juice then 1/4 cup vinegar and 1/2 cup salad oil. Beat thoroughly with rotary beater. Store in bottle with tightly fitted lid. Shake well before using.

Getting into the medical field you can't find a better thing to ease the throat when a cough is evident than honey and lemon dissolved slowly in the mouth.

The coin

by winifred
mother, f.r.n.s.

On Sept. 25, 450 years ago, the vast western ocean which was unknown to Europeans was sighted from the Isthmus of Panama by the Spanish explorer, Vasco Nunez de Balboa.

He named it Pacific because of the apparent calm of its waters and took solemn possession of it in the name of his sovereign, Ferdinand V of Spain.

His reward was decapitation, not by native Indians but by the Spanish authorities "in violation of all forms of justice."

However, the coinage of Panama has perpetuated his name.

Sixty years ago, when the District of Panama seceded from Colombia and became an independent nation, it was decided to name the monetary unit of the country the balboa, with a value equivalent to the U.S. dollar.

Panama is one of the few countries still issuing coins in fine silver. There are four silver coins, one balboa, and half, quarter and tenth balboas. All have a helmeted bust of Balboa on the obverse with the coat of arms of the republic on the reverse.

Panama does not issue a balboa every year and the most recent set of coins, issued in 1962, has three silver coins—the half, quarter and tenth balboa.

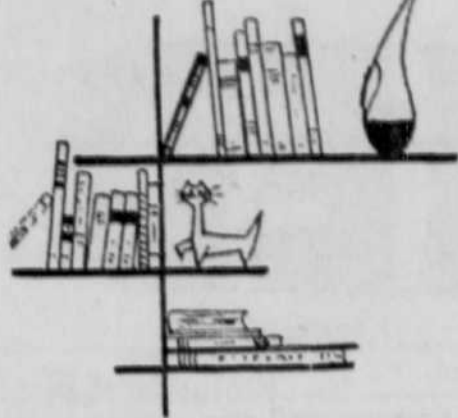

In addition to the silver there are two minor coins, a cupro-nickel of 5 centesimos and a bronze of 1 centesimo (1/100 of a balboa).

The 1962 coins were struck at the Royal Mint in London, England, and the engraving and reproduction are exquisite.

Modern Panamanian coins are not expensive but there is one unusual coin of Panama which commands a premium.

This is a very small silver coin issued in 1904, with a face value of 2½ centesimos, or 2½c, which has become quite scarce.

Because of its small size it became known as the "Panama Pill."

Pierre Berton: Caveat mooches

THE BIG SELL by Pierre Berton McClelland and Stewart, 240 pp., $5.00.

Are you included among the mooches, the eggs, or the suckers? If so, you need this book. In fact, even if you are among the hardheads when it comes to salesmen, this book can be useful to you, if only because of the additional ways of being hard-headed it supplies.

The advertising gimmick Mr. Berton and his publishers are using to promote this book is a $50 cheque that may be used toward the purchase of a copy of The Big Sell, which for the "big sucker trade" is listed at $52.50.

If anyone should be glibbie enough to return this cheque, made out on the "Mooches Bank," it will not only provide Mr. Berton with a start on another book on this subject, but it will also help prove his statement that "a salesman has three things working for him: The little bit of larceny that lurks in almost every man, the little bit of trust that is also in him, and the little bit of yearning—for a bargain or a financial windfall or a better life."

Though Mr. Berton's book could hardly be called either an extensive or an intensive study of the subject of the hard sell, it does give, in broad, general terms, an anecdote-sparked picture of the pressure-selling peril in which most of us average citizens live.

Unfortunately, explicit of the pitfalls as it is, this book will probably not be of much use to the housewife who invariably can't say "no" or the fall-guy always trying to outsmart the smart operator—except perhaps to give them the dubious consolation of knowing they are not alone in their folly.

In short, that theirs is not the only Canadian home in which payments are still being made on water softeners, milk-mixing machines, and cases of Nutrio-bio which they will never use.

"Pierre Berton has long been fascinated by human folly . . ." it says in "A Note About The Author" which appears on the final page of Mr. Berton's latest book, THE BIG SELL (reviewed elsewhere).

Personally, I was as fascinated by this statement about Mr. Berton as he apparently is fascinated by human folly. The reason I found it so fascinating is that it seems to me that Pierre Berton has recently been guilty of the greatest folly I can imagine. Ungloved and without seconds, he entered the ring with the Great Canadian Moral Conscience—and as a result ended up with his shoulders pinned to the mat.

I resurrect this already much hashed-over fact not to continue flailing the man, but to ask "why." Why would Pierre Berton, as well aware of human folly as he is, commit such foolishness himself as the dynamite-charged opinions he expressed in MacLean's Magazine?

I suspect that hidden in his latest book lies the answer, or answers, to that question.

On page 16 of THE BIG SELL we read, "The specialty salesman . . . as soon as he starts knowing some success . . . steps on his own feet. He does something to prevent his own success. And he's always a guy who spends more money than he makes and, if he's making too much, he finds reasons why he can't go work."

Was success—and money—too much for Pierre Berton? Mr. Berton is obviously a very ambitious man. At the time when he wrote his ill-fated column he had reached the top, or near the top, in all of his chosen fields, author, columnist, panelist—you name it, he had succeeded in it.

Is it possible, then, that having succeeded so conspicuously in so many things, he had begun to feel that uneasiness, even desperation, which every ambitious person knows when there are no more mountains to climb? Did he have to create his own mountain by throwing everything away and starting again? Only his analyst—if Mr. Berton has one—could answer that, but it does seem one plausible answer to my question.

My second answer, however, seems to me even more plausible. To put it bluntly, I think the truth of the matter is that Pierre Berton fell victim to the "big sell" himself. In other words I think the great Canadian public pulled the greatest confidence game on record—with Pierre Berton as the Duke Egg.

Look at the facts. Month after month, year after year, Canadian readers and viewers accepted Pierre's columns as gospel, his pot-boilers as best-sellers and his uneven TV shows as must-viewing. They meekly lapped up his opinions, his criticisms and his occasional insults.

In short, they conned Pierre Berton into thinking that he could do, say or write anything he pleased.

And then, to quote an expression often used in Mr. Berton's book, the scales fell off their eyes.

According to THE BIG SELL, the record pay-off by a Duke Egg has been $100,000. I think the Canadian people must have set a new record when they conned Duke Egg Berton not only out of his popularity, but what was probably the highest income in the entertainment world.

Canadian authors are having their work serialized on CBC-TV, on Thursday Night specials. It begins with 10 episodes from SON OF A HUNDRED KINGS by Thomas Costain, followed by WINGS OF NIGHT by Thomas Radford, STRANGERS IN STE. ANGELE by Phyllis Lee Peterson and finally CARIBOO COUNTRY.

Ivor Whitehouse Collecting in the Townships

The opening meeting of the St. Francis Collectors Club was fairly well attended, and plans were made for the coming season. The final report was given for the annual picnic held in July and it was noted that approximately 80 people attended this year and that the expenses were kept to a minimum.

The picnic will no doubt become better known and enjoy larger attendance in the future now that it has become established as a regular feature of the Club's activities.

There was a lengthy discussion about the possibility of holding a stamp show and exhibition this fall, and while final plans have not been made, the show will take place on Nov. 16 in St. George's Parish Hall, Lennoxville. Collectors are urged to participate in this show and to display their stamps.

The Club will extend an invitation to other clubs to share in this effort.

The use of any type of frame was approved as the club does not possess standard frames. This will mean that everyone entering the show will be able to design his own to fit his needs. The writer made a frame for the picnic last July that should be within the reach of most collectors.

This frame was made up on a large piece of cardboard and covered with a yellow-backed paper, although any other color would do. The pages and stamps were mounted on this, and the entire frame covered with saran plastic such as is used in many kitchens. The plastic is perfectly clear and can be pulled tightly over the frame and sealed on the reverse with any type of tape.

You could use a thin building board such as the ones tinted with green, a four-by-eight sheet of this material if cut in half would give you two very good frames. Those of you who have proper frames with glass can probably do a better job, but it must be remembered that they must be transported.

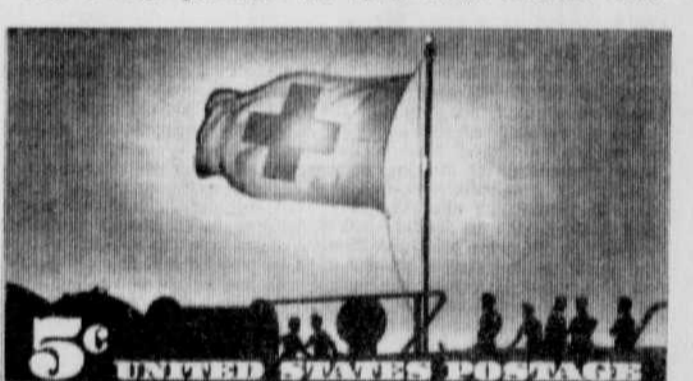

It is hoped that a number of collectors will take this opportunity to show their unique pieces of philatelic material, and at the same time show others just what stamp collecting really means.

There will be a bourse with several dealers present and no doubt an information booth. The entrance will be free, I believe, and this should stimulate attendance.

The souvenir sheet issued for Stampex at Newcastle-on-Tyne this fall is very attractive and features the Red Cross set of stamps from Great Britain printed in photogravure by Harrison and Sons. The policy of having a souvenir sheet for the annual Stampex show in London each spring has spread to the other shows and these sheets have become quite popular. The stamps are reproduced with the permission of the postmaster-general and other postal administrations and so are semi-official items. A rather interesting sideline collection can be made of these sheets and the cost is low, although some sheets are scarce and difficult to obtain.

The United States post office department has advised that it will participate in the Red Cross centenary with a commemorative stamp to be issued Oct. 29. The stamp will point out the role of the Red Cross in the historic Cuban prisoner exchange program.

Between December of last year and July of this, 1,113 Bay of Pigs prisoners and 7,857 Cuban civilians were transported to freedom in the United States. The stamp will show a group of refugees on the deck of the S. S. Morning Light, silhouetted against the sky. Above them flies the Red Cross Flag.

The stamp will be based on a photograph made by Rudolph Vetter at the moment the craft docked at Port Everglade, May 24, 1963, carrying 751 refugees.

Teenagers tackle love, segregation

ANYTHING FOR A FRIEND by Russell F. Davis, Crown, 190 pp., $5.00.

Not everyone enjoys stories about teenagers: their brash and fumbling, and usually frustrated, attempts at love-making, their desire to be sophisticated while still requiring mother to dry them behind the ears.

Their sudden spurts of puritanical moralizing can be aggravating to someone who has passed that particular epoch in his life, but in the hands of one who knows about teenagers, they can make a fascinating story.

Though I am not personally attracted to stories about the human race at this period of its development, Anything for a Friend, by Russell F. Davis, is one novel that is an exception. Mr. Davis knows teenagers. Moreover, under the satin bedspread lies the sad line of our own wish to be truly Christian and humanitarian and to treat all men as equals.

Clarence, the dauntless hero of this novel that dares to show us all as we are, becomes the unwilling anti-segregationist, the pawn in the hands of the high school senior student Joblinski. "The Body" who manoeuvres him into taking a Negro girl to the prom in a segregationist district.

Besides being a "body," and so the envy of all the high school boys, Joblinski is a

Reassessment

Does religion belong on the college campus?

GOD ON THE SECULAR CAMPUS by Richard Butler, O.P., Doubleday, 191 pp., $4.75.

The author of God on the Secular Campus, Father Butler, draws upon his long experience as a university chaplain to describe the religious life on the contemporary campus. He marshals some imposing statistical data to support his startling observations and conclusions.

As a matter of historical fact, the writer points out, higher education was always religiously orientated. But today the situation has changed, he claims.

"Academic secularism, education devoid of the study of God and of man's essential relation to him, is a brash newcomer on the educational scene."

Most contemporary educators, Father Butler writes, would divorce religion and secular interests, and would separate God and education.

For a time, the courteous nod of approval given by the universities of religious efforts on the campus was sufficient to allow groups to continue on a more or less "social club" basis.

However, the writer feels that the current restlessness among the students, and the demands of their families, are forcing most of the religious foundations to ask for an increasingly important academic position. He concludes that the whole matter of the place of religion in secular institutions of higher learning must be reconsidered.

This conclusion is based upon the writer's critical observations. For instance, in the classroom the religious student is not well grounded in the reasons for the faith that is in him. He is not prepared for a contest of intellect and rhetoric with an opponent more than twice his age and with at least that much more experience in argument and articulation.

With such a student an imposed position of passivity, with the odds against him, there can be no contest, only a conquest. This, for the sake of emphasis, may be more caricatured than characterized by the author, but serves as one of the many illustrations Father Butler uses to call attention to the need for a re-evaluation of religion on the secular campus.

Although Father Butler writes from his experience as a Roman Catholic chaplain, his references are so general that members of all faiths will find this book relevant and pertinent.

It should be noted that this book is concerned only with state universities. But the writer's critical analysis of higher education—the textbooks, the student, the administrators—is certainly applicable to many other university campuses.

I am recommending this book not only because it is well written and well documented, but because those of us who live in the shadow of a university will find between its covers much food for thought.

Eleanor Roosevelt's last advice for her American countrymen

TOMORROW IS NOW by Eleanor Roosevelt, Harper and Row, 139 pp., $3.75.

This is an exhortation to the American people by a perceptive and far-sighted first lady, the late Eleanor Roosevelt. In the warmth of goodwill she warns that America is becoming stagnant with self-satisfaction in the status quo.

Along with the remarkably rejuvenated, only yesterday war-torn countries, and the upsurging new nations, Americans, too, must look forward or they will soon have to look backward.

She probes sluggish American industrial expansion, narrow American nationalism, prejudiced social relationships, inadequate and undemanding educational standards. She points to many unhappy but compelling facts.

This book, however, is not an indictment. Rather, it is a thoughtful chiding and a heartfelt challenge to change a settled, self-centred way of life for one that is more self-effacing and dynamically outgoing.

In the United Nations—a United Nations of all nations—she can visualize a world-wide, concerned parliament of man. Her views, debatable as they may be, are clearly and honestly stated.

Tomorrow Is Now has a prophetic ring that brings to the present an age-old precept—only by losing themselves in helping others can Americans hope to save themselves and thereby uphold the ideals on which the United States was founded.

This last book of Mrs. Roosevelt's is imbued with such an intense urgency that it gives the startling effect of accelerating time.

Monica's her name

20th-century Dickens a horse lover

COBBLER'S DREAM by Monica Dickens, Michael Joseph, 221 pp., $4.25.

This is a book about a "Home of Rest for Horses." The distressed horses at the home have an assortment of off beat and distressed human friends, and this charming, fresh, altogether satisfactory story tells us how they all get themselves straightened out.

The home is administered by Captain, an ex-army officer, who was honorably let out of the army because he shot a fellow-officer in the leg in a jealous rage over a girl, Roxanne. Roxanne disappeared and the Captain waits for her to turn up, because he believes her love for horses will bring her eventually to the farm.

He is assisted by teen-aged Dora, who chucked fashionable boarding school to come to the farm, feed the horses and clean the stables. Slugger Jones and Tiny, Slugger's wife and an ex-lady wrestler, are on the staff, as are Mr. and Mrs. Catchpole, "shrunk from a lifetime's laundering, neckless and pottering like some small field animal in aprons."

Paul arrives seeking refuge for the blind jumper Cobler's Dream, and lives in fear that his kind co-workers will discover that he has been in Borsial Prison.

Assorted other people come and go: young Callie, who has a beloved horse and nowhere to keep him; Mrs. Berry, who makes her own clothes out of chintz remnants left over from her bedroom curtains and who rescues decrepit horses from Ireland.

This old menage is discovered and publicized on a television program which stars Paul and Cobb and a mule "who had been found in a canal one night by a man who had gone there to drown himself, but became so interested in the mule's rescue, with ropes and tractors, that he only remembered after he had gone home to dry his feet what it was he had come for."

The "Night Raiders", a group of wild and vicious teen-age horse stealers, precipitate the climax for Paul and Cobb. Each character ends up getting pretty much what is coming to him. The humans in this book are all rated sympathetically or not in direct ratio to the way they feel about horses, but they are all worth knowing. They are never introduced. The reader just comes on them at their work and it takes a little time to find out where everybody fits in.

Monica Dickens is the great-granddaughter of Charles Dickens and she appears to be writing in the same tradition. She has the same knack of giving to her overdrawn and slightly ridiculous characters the quality of poignancy and realism that the older Dickens had. She shows the dark side of the 1960s, yet, like her grandfather, amid sordidness or indifference she lets little blooms of gentle sensitivity spring up.

She, too, has a cause. Instead of child labor she is holding up for appraisals the treatment of animals, especially horses, in a country noted for its love of animals. ELEANOR MCKIM.

Take it from Kathy

By KATHY PETERSON

Dear Kathy: My biggest problem is my hair. Every time I wash it, it gets fuzzy and hard to manage. Can you help me?

Experiment, experiment, experiment. The first few tries aren't enough to teach you to do anything expertly.

• Are you aiming for a style that's too elaborate? Something simple that stays put is much more attractive than a fussy coiffure that never quite makes the grade.

• A good cut is half the battle. Very thick or curly hair often needs thinning and shaping and this should be done professionally. A long, loose mane won't hold a line well, no matter how carefully it's set.

• Remember — the fatter the roller, the looser the wave. You may want to use large rollers at the top and small ones for stubborn, hard-to-curl ends at neckline. Run the comb through each strand in the direction you'd like it to take in the finished hairdo, just before rolling. Most important: make sure rollers are lined up evenly.

• Brush and test to see which way the hair wants to fall. You'll battle forever if you try to fight the natural tendency of the hair.

• A cream rinse does wonders to tame a new permanent or to smooth hair full of static electricity. Some girls use a little lemon juice or vinegar as a substitute. This also cuts the soap, and assures a good rinse. Hair pomades or hair sprays can help, too.

DEAR KATHY: Don and I have been going together for seven months. He joined the service. At Christmas, he will have a leave.

His parents live in another state. He has left the decision up to me to where we should go for Christmas, home or here. I know he should be loyal to his parents, but I love him very much and would like him here with me. What would you advise? Please answer as soon as possible.—Helpless.

Dear Helpless: A decision like that should be made by the boy. Be generous enough to make him feel he can choose freely without hurting you.

The loyalty he shows his family is a good indication of the feeling he'll have for the family he builds later in life.

If you continue to date and marry, you'll become his family and deserve first consideration. Another later leave could be spent with you.

Christmas is a very special time for families. I hope that you will not only make him feel free to go home, but sincerely encourage him to do so.

Escapees saw prison bars

Sherbrooke municipal police are searching today for two prisoners who broke out of the Sherbrooke Winter Street jail early Friday night.

A third inmate who took part in the break-out, 33-year-old Raymond Lemire, was captured about an hour after his escape as he was leaving his brother's home in Sherbrooke, police said this morning. Lemire will appear before the court either today or Monday to answer to a jail-breaking charge.

Still at large are Raymond Denaull, 24, and a 16-year-old youth who recently escaped from Shawbridge, an institution for young delinquents.

The youth was one of three captured Friday at Scotstown. He was temporarily housed at the prison before being returning to Shawbridge. His name was not released.

Raymond Lemire and Raymond Denaull were both serving sentences for a break-in and attempted robbery at the Laiterie de Sherbrooke.

Police said this morning the three prisoners broke out between 7.30 and 8.30 p.m. The prisoners saved the bar of the window and got into the prison courtyard.

They broke into a shed, found a ladder and climbed over the wall.

Municipal police were called in at about 8.40 p.m.

Friday night's break-out was the second in three years at the Winter Street Jail.

WORLD SERIES OPENS IN NEW YORK WEDNESDAY

The annual baseball classic of the year will bring together two tough competitors in the Yankees and Dodgers. The Yanks will be seeking another world championship, their 21st in the past 41 years.

The 1963 Series should go the limit of seven games. The Yanks hold a lethal weapon in the home run as anyone on the team can belt the ball out of the park. Except for the long ball, a department in which the American champs clearly excel, there is little to choose between the two teams.

Sandy Koufax will be the Dodgers' starting hurler and if the Series should go the limit then the Yanks will have to face the classy southpaw three times. Everything points to a pitchers' Series and runs will be scarce.

With four games slated in Yankee Stadium the Yanks are naturally favored. The Houk clan has been noted for breaking up a pitcher's duel with a single blow and with the exception of Bobby Richardson and Tony Kubek they pack home run power. The Dodgers on the other hand have only two legitimate long ball hitters in Tommy Davis and Frank Howard.

The first two games will be in New York, Wednesday and Thursday, with Friday off for travelling. In Los Angeles the next three are slated with the last two back in Yankee Stadium. The games in the East will commence at 1 p.m. while in Los Angeles it will be 4 p.m. EDT.

Maybe with all the good hurlers slated for action we will see another perfect game. Don Larsen of the Yanks is the only pitcher to hurl a no-hitter in World Series. He did it in the fifth game of the 1956 classic against the Dodgers. We think we will see a terrific Series and from here we favor the Yanks to win.

What could be the last ace in these parts this season was registered at the Dufferin Heights Golf Club Thursday when John Daley of Madden, Mass., scored a hole-in-one on the par-three eighth hole.

Daley playing with Gordon Norres, Syracuse, N.Y., Robert Lewis, Lyndon Centre, Vt., and Howard Witherbee, Lyndonville, Vt. Daley used a four-iron to accomplish his feat.

It seems that the barbs of Phil Watson have left Gump Worsley more than a bit sensitive about his physical proportions. He still bluffs when anyone mentions Watson to him. The Gumper claims he is about the same weight as usual.

He feels good and claims his weight hasn't changed for years. He is a natural chunky little fellow who possesses plenty of wit. He doesn't approve of the face mask. He doesn't like it as he claims he can't see with it. Coach Blake states that Worsley will be their number one man in the nets when the season starts.

Contrary to public opinion there are fewer serious injuries in boxing than in any other body contact sport, says Dr. Alfred Ayelle Jr., medical examiner for the Pennsylvania State Commission.

Dr. Ayelle backs up his contention with statistics over a 10-year period. He says boxing's perils to life and physical well being are grossly exaggerated in the public mind. He claims that the National Board of Insurance Underwriting. In 3,254 bouts between Sept. 1953 and March 31, 1963, writers lists six other sports as more hazardous than boxing there occurred one death resulting from combat injury.

The Mont Orford Ski Club, seeking an extended term on their lease with the Provincial Government, was asked by the Department if they were interested in taking over the golf club on the same basis. This would mean that the Ski Club executive would operate the golf club under a similar lease as the skiing development.

This seems to be a good thing and the new group would be in a better position to make improvements, much needed at the golf club. We understand that the new layout is badly in need of changes in order to put it on a par with the other 18-hole layouts in the Townships.

The government has been looking after the upkeep but it seems they have been slack in making much-needed repairs around the club house and course. If the club is taken over we are told that certain changes would be made towards improving everything in general. It is hard to understand why the government hasn't looked after the course. After all it is a Provincial Park and comes under the direct guidance of the department.

The ski layout is considered today as one of the top places in the Province but it is due mainly to the efforts by the members of the club. It seems the government wants to get rid of the golf club and they figure the same organization is in a good position to take over.

No doubt some of the golfers feel it would be a bad thing but if they are sure the necessary improvements will be made at no extra cost to them we can't see why they should be against it.

US nails down Davis Cup round with England

BOURNEMOUTH, England (AP) — Chuck McKinley and Dennis Ralston nailed down victory for the United States with a Davis Cup doubles win over Britain Friday, as the Yankees took a giant step toward spending Christmas in Australia.

McKinley and Ralston, the American doubles champions, trimmed Mike Sangster and Bobby Wilson 6-4, 6-8, 9-7, 6-2, for an insurmountable 3-0 lead. McKinley and Frank Froehling won both singles matches on Thursday. The remaining two singles today are a formality.

The Americans now meet India in Bombay next month for the right to challenge Australia for the Tennis Cup. They are heavily favored to defeat the Indians.

JPSET BRITISH
McKinley was the major factor in the American win. He often upset the British pair by hanging pace at critical moments.

The British pair hit their peak in the second set, which they took after the Americans had laved off six set points, and then went ahead 2-0 in the first.

Bishop's opens football season today

Bruce Coulter's Bishop's University Gaiters face their first test of the 1964 season when they host the Rosemount Nationals intermediate football squad this afternoon at Lennoxville.

Coach Coulter's early optimism has been turned to pessimism after two weeks of practice. Four hopefuls quit the squad this week, and five others have been sidelined by injury and illness. Ends Dave Little and Pete Watson, newcomers Dorion Armstrong and Ron Kaulbach, and tackle Mike Lavery are all out for several weeks. In addition, star lineman Rick Canings is playing with a broken wrist.

Shortage of manpower is not the only element of worry for the coach. Coulter has been dissatisfied with recent team practices. Neither the defence nor the offence has been performing up to par, which the test may well reveal today.

The Gaiters open the Ottawa St. Lawrence season against the Aggies at Macdonald on Saturday, October 5.

Meanwhile, the Bishop's Satans kicked-off the soccer season with an away doubleheader this weekend. Friday, they encountered the cadets from College Militaire Royale (C.M.R.) and today they journey to Macdonald.

Coach Peter Kogler has been plagued by dissension on the squad, and is pessimistic about the team's chances in the two games. C.M.R. and Macdonald are considered among the weaker teams in the conference, and Bishop's must emerge with double victories to be a contender this year.

Ticats, Rough Riders are favored in weekend games, Als to use Rabb as quarter, Argos at Ottawa today

The tension of a three-way scramble for first place dominates action in the Eastern Football Conference this weekend.

Toronto Argonauts, the only club without a share of the lead, visit Ottawa Rough Riders this afternoon and Montreal Alouettes are at Hamilton for a tangle with the Tiger-Cats Sunday.

Ottawa, Hamilton and Montreal each has eight points on four wins. Toronto has four points on two victories.

Argos, crushed 50-0 by Calgary Stampeders in an interlocking contest last Sunday, have brought three quarterbacks to Ottawa but coach Nobby Wirkowski is waiting until game time to announce his starter.

Don Fuell worked at the quarterback spot almost exclusively in Toronto workouts earlier in the week. Sandy Stephens and Jackie Parker took over Thursday night with Fuell returning to his usual spot at defensive halfback.

Bookies in Toronto have made Riders 7½-point favorites over Argos for this outing but Rider coach Frank Clair admits he's a little worried about the "hungry" look of the Toronto squad after dropping three games in a row.

"This is the worst possible time to play a team that has potential like Argos," Clair said. "They've just been humiliated and they're liable to take it out on us."

Wirkowski has at least three lineup changes planned. Offensive guard Gerry Patrick, end Maury Schleicher and line-backer Ed Hoerster will be replaced by newcomers Ron Hatcher, normally an offensive halfback, may be used as a corner line-backer.

Clair will stand pat with the squad that turned back British Columbia Lions 23-17 at Ottawa last Monday night.

Montreal coach Jim Trimble, who has made almost as many quarterback switches as Wirkowski this season, plans to go with Warren Rabb against

CBC to carry World Series

Starting Wednesday, Oct. 2, at 12:45 p.m. EDT, CBC Radio and CBC television will carry the 1963 World Series between the New York Yankees and the Los Angeles Dodgers.

The first two games, of the best, four out of seven series, Wednesday, Oct. 2, and Thursday, Oct. 3, will be played at Yankee Stadium, New York City.

On Saturday, Oct. 5, the Series shifts to Los Angeles where the teams meet in the Chavez Ravine Stadium. The fourth game is played on Sunday, Oct. 6. The fifth game, if necessary, will be played in Los Angeles on Monday, Oct. 7. Games six and seven, if necessary, will be played in Yankee Stadium, New York, on Wednesday, Oct. 9, and Thursday, Oct. 10.

Broadcast time for all games in New York is 12:45 p.m. EDT. Broadcast of all games in Los Angeles begins at 3:45 p.m. EDT.

Hamilton, Rabb showed up well in a 25-17 win over Calgary last Tuesday night after he replaced starting quarter Bubba Marriot.

Clark MISSING
Als will be without halfback Don Clark, out for the season with a knee injury and halfback Bobby Lee Thompson, who sprained ligaments in his foot. Ferdie Burkert will go in at fullback, allowing Dave Hoppman to shift to Clark's spot.

Tiger-Cats are being quoted as seven-point favorites in the place teams.

While the players' wives have been figuring out what to do with the $13,000, the athletes have had to keep right on

Six starters are listed in Sunday's big class for purse of $400, total of 140 horses to compete on weekend

An Invitation Handicap Pace for a purse of $400 Sunday afternoon is the main event on the weekend at the Sherbrooke Race Track. Six of the top pacers have filed their entries for the event.

This evening a field of 80 horses will battle it out for the major share of the purses. The two main races are a Pace for $300 and a Trot and Pace mixed event for a similar amount in the Eighth.

In the big class Sunday afternoon anyone of the six could pull out with the victory. El Dora's Irishman, who drew the second spot, will get away along side of McElwyn Song Flair Wick in third, Fanny Clap fourth, Mr. Sand fifth and Brightside on the outside.

In the last meeting of these horses Hebert's Mr. Sand paced home ahead of the field in 2:08 4/5 followed by Bob Goudreau's Fanny Clap and Lague's Brightside third. It was a real battle and was only decided in the stretch.

Fern Poulin's El Dora's Irishman won in 2:10 in his last outing and with second position could set an early lead as the fleet-footed brown gelding gets away from the gate in fine position. It will be a real battle for the first spot as they reach the turn.

Mr. Sand, Fanny Clap and Brightside along with Flair Wick are strong at the finish but the outcome of the race will depend strictly on the first half. A good fast half will change the whole picture in the race to the wire.

It is the first time for sometime that all classes have eight horses entered with eligibles for each race. In the two main classes, in the Eighth and Ninth, should be a real battle as anyone of the field is capable of winning the race.

On Saturday two trots with two mixed events and the rest paces comprise the program while Sunday afternoon there is two trots, one mixed and the balance of the classes are all paces. It is a well balanced card which should meet with the approval of the railbirds.

World Series player pool may reach $13,000 each for winning players, top hurlers to work in tune-up

NEW YORK (AP)—A record $1,000,000 player pool probably will be hanging in the balance in the World Series between Los Angeles Dodgers and New York Yankees opening Wednesday in Yankee Stadium.

Depending on the generosity of the players in slicing the melon, each winning cut could reach as high as $13,000 and each losing slice could be worth as much as $9,000. Both would be records.

The players presumably already have had their meetings to decide how many shares will be distributed. However, the office of Commissioner Ford Frich closely guards such information in recent years and prefers to make a separate announcement after the series is over.

At the moment the record for a winner is the $11,231.18 by the Dodgers when they beat Chicago White Sox in the Coliseum in 1959. Last year's cheques for $7,257.17 for each San Francisco Giant was the losing record.

If that player pool does hit the $1,000,000 mark, 70 per cent goes to the two contesting clubs (60 per cent to the winner and 40 per cent to the loser). The remaining 30 per cent of the pool is scattered among the second, third and fourth place teams.

While the players' wives have been figuring out what to do with the $13,000, the athletes have had to keep right on working. The Dodgers had the Phillies in Los Angeles for the last three games of the season.

TUNES PLAYERS

Manager Walter Alton will use the three games to tune his players for the series. Johnny Podres, likely pitcher in the second game at Yankee Stadium, was to work Saturday. Don Drysdale, the probable for the third game, and Sandy Koufax, who will open against Whitey Ford, will share the work in Sunday's finale.

The only matter of concern to Alton was the condition of third baseman Ken McMullen, a valuable 21-year-old rookie. McMullen came up lame with a pulled hamstring in the left leg in the Thursday night game with New York Mets.

At the moment the Yankees are as healthy as they have been all year. Outfielders Mickey Mantle and Roger Maris are back in action although they may be a bit rusty from long inactivity.

Ford was due to try for his 25th win today although he will split the game against Minnesota with Al Downing. Jim Bouton, slated to face Drysdale in the third game, will work against the Twins in the final Sunday.

Melbourne, Australia—Kimp Amarfo, 128, Ghana, stopped Leo Espinosa, 125, Philippines, 6.

Speedy Scot wins in 1:56

LEXINGTON, Ky. (AP)—Speedy Scot, harness racing's amazing three-year-old, trotted the fastest mile ever in a race Friday when he won a prep for the $55,000 Kentucky Futurity at the Lexington Trots. His time was 1:56.

With Ralph Baldwin in the sulky, Speedy Scot led all the way, winning with apparent ease.

Speedy Scot stepped the first quarter in a blazing 25 4/5 seconds and the clock went blank.
