This Season

With another successful year behind us, we continue working for the benefit of the Inuit to ensure that the year ahead will also be a good one, although it is never easy. But the more we work together, the more we can accomplish.

Two particularly memorable events took place near the end of 2006. The first was a field trip to all Nunavik communities, during which the Makivik executives had the pleasure of meeting students in schools throughout the region. We would like to encourage the parents to persevere in making sure their children to go to school and take education seriously because they are working for their future. We are most grateful to the teachers from Nunavik and also the teachers from down South who frequently leave their own families behind to make sure our children are properly educated.

The second major event this past December 1st was the signing of the Nunavik Inuit Land Claims Agreement. It was not an easy task to negotiate this agreement, although this process has resulted in even better relations with our neighbours: the Inuit of Nunavut, the Inuit of Labrador, and the Cree. Thanks to this new agreement, we the Inuit of Nunavik now have property we can call our own where we will not be dictated to concerning our rights to utilize them as our ancestors had for thousands of years. I would like to thank all of the Makivik staff and fellow board members who participated in making this dream a reality. Thank you to all the Inuit of Nunavik who demonstrated your strong support of this project. Thanks particularly to the spouses and children of the negotiators, political leaders, and others who had to spend extended periods of time away from home to see this agreement accomplished. Now is a time to be with family, so let's make it a happy time for all. We at Makivik Corporation would like to wish everybody in Nunavik a safe holiday season.

Pita Aatami,
Makivik President

En cette saison

Laissant derrière nous une autre année de succès, nous continuons de travailler pour le bénéfice des Inuit afin d'assurer que l'année qui vient soit aussi une réussite. La tâche n'est jamais facile, mais plus nous unissons nos efforts, plus nous pouvons accomplir.

Deux événements particulièrement mémorables ont pris place vers la fin de 2006. Le premier fut une tournée des communautés du Nunavik pendant laquelle l'exécutif de Makivik a eu le plaisir de rencontrer les élèves des écoles de toute la région. Nous aimerions encourager ici les parents à persévérer dans leurs efforts pour garder les enfants à l'école et leur apprendre que l'éducation est chose sérieuse puisque c'est la garantie de leur avenir. Nous sommes très reconnaissants aux enseignants et aux enseignantes du Nunavik, mais aussi à ceux et celles du Sud qui, souvent, doivent s'éloigner de leur propre famille pour enseigner à nos enfants.

Le deuxième événement majeur est survenu le 1er décembre avec la ratification de l'Accord sur les revendications territoriales des Inuit du Nunavik. La négociation a été ardue, mais le processus a permis d'améliorer encore davantage nos bonnes relations avec nos voisins, les Inuit du Nunavut, les Inuit du Labrador et les Cris. Grâce à ce nouvel accord, les Inuit du Nunavik sont maintenant propriétaires en bonne et due forme de terres que nous comptons bien utiliser en y exerçant nos droits comme l'ont fait nos ancêtres pendant des milliers d'années sans se plier aux instructions de quiconque. Je tiens à remercier tout le personnel de Makivik et mes collègues du conseil qui ont contribué à faire de ce rêve une réalité. Merci à tous les Inuit du Nunavik qui ont fortement prêté leur appui à ce projet. En particulier, merci aux épouses ou époux, et aux enfants des membres de l'équipe de négociation, des chefs politiques et de tous ceux et celles qui ont dû passé beaucoup de temps loin de leur famille afin de porter cet accord à son terme. C'est maintenant le moment de célébrer en famille et de profiter des instants joyeux. La Société Makivik souhaite à tous et à toutes de passer les fêtes dans la joie et la sécurité.

Le Président,
Pita Aatami

A Holiday Message from the Kativik School Board

We have three wishes for the New Year for the people of Nunavik: Healing, wellness and kindness. We wish you the courage to engage in the healing of your body and spirit. We wish you wellness so that you can enjoy the gift of life. And we wish you kindness — kindness to yourself and to the people around you. Kindness has a ripple effect… that could change our world.

God bless.

Joyeuses fêtes de la Commission scolaire Kativik

Voici nos trois souhaits de nouvelle année pour les habitants du Nunavik: Guérison, bien-être et gentillesse. Nous souhaitons que vous ayez le courage de guérir votre corps et votre âme. Nous souhaitons que vous nagiez dans le bien-être afin que vous puissiez mieux profiter du cadeau de la vie. Et nous vous souhaitons de la gentillesse — pour vous et pour les gens autour de vous. La gentillesse a des effets de répercussion… qui pourraient changer notre monde.

Que Dieu vous bénisse.

A passing glance at one of the paintings done by Eddy Weetaltuk, hung on the wall in the Umiujaq airport terminal, is nice to see and perfectly suitable in this facility. It illustrates some people there to meet a young woman getting off an airplane with a dog team and its driver waiting to give her a lift into town. A closer look though, especially after watching the recent television show on APTN about the artist's life, called "Born in the Snow", may give this painting deeper meaning.

"Born in the Snow," is based on a diary, illustrated with his own drawings, that Eddy had written so people could one day know about his life. He experienced many significant events — some by choice and others by fate — that many Canadians only hear of in legend. For instance, he survived near starvation as a child during a famine that claimed three of his sisters, he travelled the world in the days when the world was a bigger place, he spoke multiple languages, and he faced combat on the front lines of war. Eddy finished editing his diary with the help of a descendants appreciate their efforts very much and preserve this for future generations. Eddy Weetaltuk apparently was not one to tell war stories. He hoped that one day his diary could speak for him. Marie-Claude Prémont was instrumental in the realization of "Born in the Snow" and got to meet Eddy during this project. She recalls, "He was not afraid of being different from others, and was always true to himself. He had a profound sense of not hurting others, which seems strange for someone who went to war."

Eddy Weetaltuk's concluding message in the video "Born in the Snow" was heartfelt: "Be yourself. Be proud of being Inuit and always remember that your ancestors had to fight every single day of their lives." ■

"Born in the Snow", produced by Productions Vic Pelletier, will be available for sale after its television premiere on TFO in April. Their catalogue of videos is now available online at www.cinefete.ca

Autumn and early winter is always a busy season for Nunavik Creations. We have been especially preoccupied this year at filling up Internet orders. We have been making a lot of sealskin mitts, slippers in leather and sealskin, nassait, parkas, and amautiit. There are always customers looking to buy our men's sealskin vests and parkas are also always in demand for fall and winter. Because of our regular lack of seamstresses, it has taken us longer to fill out our orders, which has slowed down our production of new products, especially sealskin bags.

We are looking for people who are interested in working as seamstresses, especially from Inukjuak, Salluit and Kangirsuk where our Nunavik Creations sewing centres are located. You don't have to be a full-time seamstress; it could be as the demand increases, which is often in the fall and winter. Just leave your name and phone number with Vickie Okpik at Makivik's Montreal office. The toll free number is 1-800-361-7052.

People often call Nunavik Creations wanting to know how to place an order. Their second most frequent question is whether we have retail outlets other than our boutique in Kuujjuaq. Some people are not aware that we have this boutique, although it is the only store we have. However, our user friendly website makes it very easy to place an order. You can simply go to www.nunavikcreations.com to fill out an order. From this website, you can also send any questions relating to our products. We do not send cash on delivery (COD) orders. Customers need to be able to provide a credit card number or send us a cheque.

Nunavik Creations was also invited to participate in the pre-Christmas craft fair at the McCord Museum in Montreal this past November 20th and 21st. We were particularly busy making smaller gift items for the fair such as children's mittens, tiny keychain kamiks and mittens, sealskin slippers, and nassait. Our booth was very popular and proved to be an attractive publicity activity for this Makivik subsidiary company. Many people were interested our brochure and some mentioned that they will likely make orders through the website. On top of this, the McCord Museum says they are interested in carrying our products in their own boutique. ■

Compensation for Victims of Crime

Mrs. Kinakia came home from work one day to find Mr. Kinakia drunk and angry. Before she knew what was happening, he started punching and broke her jaw. Sammy, a neighbour, came running into the house and tried to prevent Mr. Kinakia from injuring Mrs. Kinakia further. Mr. Kinakia shoved Sammy who fell down the stairs and broke his leg. The police arrived. Mr. Kinakia was arrested and Mrs. Kinakia and Sammy were treated at the hospital.

It was the first time that Mr. Kinakia had intentionally hurt Mrs. Kinakia. In addition to her broken jaw, she suffered mental shock and was not able to return to work for five months. Sammy had his leg in a cast for four months.

The doctor treating Mrs. Kinakia and Sammy suggested that they could be eligible for compensation under the Québec Crime Victims Compensation Act so she filled out medical reports for the application. In particular, Mrs. Kinakia should be eligible to receive benefits equal to 90 percent of her net income (based on a maximum annual income of $56,000), for the time that she is unable to return to work. Sammy was unemployed but he should receive compensation worth 90 percent of minimum wage and, because his glasses were broken in the fall, he could also apply for compensation to have them replaced.

CHARLIE SHIPALUK

In addition to claiming compensation under the Crime Victims Compensation Act, Mrs. Kinakia and Sammy have the option of suing Mr. Kinakia in court. If Mr. Kinakia has a well-paying job or important assets, such as a house, court could be an option. If Mrs. Kinakia or Sammy sued Mr. Kinakia in court and received less than they are entitled to under the Crime Victims Compensation Act, they could still make an application under the Act to receive the difference. On the other hand, if Mrs. Kinakia or Sammy decides to first claim under the Act, they may also institute civil proceedings against Mr. Kinakia if they think they have a case for more compensation than awarded under the Act.

Mrs. Kinakia and Sammy may apply for compensation under the Crime Victims Compensation Act and/or sue Mr. Kinakia for compensation in court irrespective of whether Mr. Kinakia is actually prosecuted or found guilty of the criminal offence. Mr. Kinakia could actually be found not guilty because the criminal court was not convinced of his guilt beyond a reasonable doubt but still be ordered to pay compensation because the civil court found it more likely than not that he caused the injuries.

Generally, claims under the Crime Victims Compensation Act must be made within one year of the offence. Mrs. Kinakia and Sammy have three years to start proceedings in court. The sooner they start their claims, the better.

There is no need for Mrs. Kinakia or Sammy to hire a lawyer to help them fill out the Crime Victims Compensation Act forms. These forms

A Youth Wish List, for Adults

At the end of a one-week healing workshop in Kuujjuaq, youth participants came up with the following list of things that they want to tell the adults in their lives.

We love it when you:
- Love us
- Care about us
- Stay clean and sober
- Manage your anger
- Buy us presents / things that we need
- Buy food instead of drugs and alcohol
- Take care of your babies
- Show us how to be strong men and women
- Cook for us
- Teach us our culture; take us camping, fishing and hunting
- Say "I love you" and other kind things
- Spend time with us and listen to us.

We never want to see or hear again:
- Fighting
- Drinking and drugs
- Going nuts, mood swings
- Hitting, slapping and punching
- Sexual abuse and rape
- Smashing things
- Not loving us and leaving us
- Not caring about us

What we want you to know about us is:
- We are not babies anymore
- We are allowed to make mistakes
- We can handle ourselves but we still need your help
- We care about you
- We have feelings / we hurt too
- You are the parents. Not us.
- We are not slaves
- We are lovable
- We may get lost but we will find our way
- We are responsible

COMPLIMENTS: MARY PILURTUUT

Nunavik mayors' meeting

Complimentary to periodic meetings in the communities, Air Inuit conducts a "round up" year-end meeting with all Nunavik mayors such that customer and community concerns can be effectively addressed by your airline and communicated to you. Early in the New Year a formal response to the raised issues is prepared and distributed to the participants. The meeting was held this past November 16th in Montreal and included, for the first time, the presidents of the community landholding corporations.

of a new $52-million Nunavik Inuit Trust to be created over nine years including interest and $33-million to Makivik over three years including interest.

Resource royalty sharing

With respect to the rest of the Nunavik Marine Region (NMR) (i.e., government-owned lands and the NMR seabed), Makivik will receive 50 percent of the first $2-million of resource royalties received by governments and five percent of any additional resource royalties received by governments in any particular year.

Because Makivik owns surface and subsurface of 80 percent of all islands in the NMR, no royalties arise in relation to these islands for government and, instead, Makivik will get all revenues from any minerals discovered there.

Land ownership

Makivik will own 80 percent of all islands offshore Quebec consisting of at least 5,600 square kilometres. This includes subsurface ownership. The government retains 20 percent of these islands consisting of Killiniq Island, Ottawa Islands, and small portions of Diggs and Akpatok Islands where there are murre colonies, and a very small portion of the old airstrip on Akpatok Island because it may be contaminated. Gillies and Taylor Islands are not available for ownership since they remain privately owned by U.S. citizens.

(An interesting comparative note: in the JBNQA, Nunavik Inuit only obtained ownership of 1.5 percent of all the lands north of the 55th parallel.)

Resource and land management

There shall be three new management regimes created. The Nunavik Marine Region Wildlife Board (NMRWB) will have three Nunavik Inuit members, three government members, and a chairperson nominated by the members. This board will receive $2.4-million for implementation funding per year as well as a one-time payment of $5-million for a Nunavik Inuit wildlife research fund to be managed by the NMRWB

The second regime is a Nunavik Marine Region Land-Use Planning Commission (NMRPC) with two Nunavik Inuit members, two government members and a chairperson. It will receive $500,000 for implementation funding per year.

Makivik Donations "Wish List"

The main agenda item for the Makivik board of director's early October meeting is the adoption of the corporation's annual operations budget. Although earnings from investments in the stock market remain relatively low, This past October Makivik was able to commit larger amounts toward donation requests, thanks to the success of certain subsidiary companies. The breakdown of this beneficiaries'"Wish List" is as follows:

Pukik's Qarmaq for the Public at Large

The Pukik Cultural Committee made a qarmaq in Inukjuak, which was officially opened on November 9th, 2006. Daniellie Inukpuk cut the ribbon with a panak (snow knife), which was held on each end by Alacie Aculiiak and Elisapee Inukpuk. The Qarmaq is approximately 23 feet in diameter. The men of the Committee (Daniellie Inukpuk, Josephie Nalukturuk, Adamie Niviaxie and Lazarusie Epoo), decided to make it similar in shape to a traditional igloo. These men, along with help from local community workers, built the structure out of wood framing, plywood, sod, fibreglass, as well as canvas material on the ceiling to lighten the load. They had originally planned to use sod on the roof, but realized that the sod on top would get too heavy, especially with the additional weight of melting snow.

At a cost of a little over $15,000, this project was made possible with funding from Canadian Heritage, Makivik Corporation, and the Pituvik Landholding Corporation. Hunter Support, the Co-op Store and the Northern Village of Inukjuak provided additional assistance. They were also able to cut costs by providing services in-kind and by getting percentages off for the purchase of materials.

Inukjuak has named its local cultural committee "Pukik". This particular committee had decided to build the qarmaq to show the younger generation what was used in the past. Each year they create a different traditional Inuit project. Previous to the qarmaq, they made a seal skin tent and a kayak.

Each Nunavik Inuit community has a cultural committee. These were established at the request of the elders during one of the Avataq elders' conference. The cultural committees act as an intermediary between the elders and the community. These committees are aimed at keeping our culture and language alive and visible through the organization of local projects for the teaching of traditional skills and language.

This qarmaq in Inukjuak is to be used by the public at large for activities such as elders' tea parties and story telling, as well as teaching traditional Inuit culture. Anyone interested in knowing more about the Pukik Cultural Committee may contact Nancy Palliser at the Avataq Cultural Institute by calling 819-254-8919 or by email: nancyp@avataq.qc.ca.

Information Campaign for Residential School Survivors

During the 2006 pan-Nunavik Makivik executive field trip that took place this past November, Makivik legal council Jocelyn Barrett took advantage of the chartered Air Inuit Twin Otter to provide information sessions for those individuals who were interested in knowing more about the Residential Schools Settlement Agreement. In some communities there were as many as 50 interested persons at the information workshops. (In the meantime, the Makivik executives visited schools to speak to students about the importance of education and also went on local FMs to talk about various subjects of interest to beneficiaries and respond to numerous important calls from Inuit.)

BOB MESHER

The main topics discussed at the information sessions were in relation to the background of this issue, an overview of the Agreement, the approval process and related timelines. Approximately 350 Nunavimmiut resided at federal residential schools. Workshop participants also learned that, although all parties have signed it, the courts must approve the Agreement before it can come into effect. Local social workers were also invited to the information sessions to provide emotional support to former students whose feelings of distress may have resurfaced during these sensitive meetings.

Anyone who feels they need emotional support due to events related to a residential school experience may visit a social worker or they can call the National Survivors' Support Line at 1.866.925.4419. More can be learned about this issue by calling the Indian Residential Schools Resolution Canada at 1-800-816-7293. BOB MESHER

Remerciements et meilleurs voeux de Saputiit

Les membres de l'Association jeunesse Saputiit du Nunavik aimeraient remercier les organisations du Nunavik et d'ailleurs qui ont travaillé de concert avec eux sur différents dossiers et dans divers domaines. Nous tenons tout particulièrement à remercier :

La Société Makivik — pour sa collaboration et son aide financière suivies dans tout le travail que nous faisons ;

Air Inuit Ltd. — pour l'appui constant de son personnel aux services du nolisement, des passagers et de l'administration en ce qui concerne nos projets et activités, surtout Vivre sa vie 2006 ;

La Commission scolaire Kativik — pour tout le travail que nous accomplissons ensemble maintenant et que nous ferons dans l'avenir ;

L'Administration régionale Kativik — pour l'appui soutenu offert en tout temps ;

Le gouvernement du Québec (Secrétariat à la jeunesse) — pour les bonnes relations de travail qui nous aideront à construire le Québec plus fort de demain ;

La table du Québec du Forum jeunesse — pour toute la compréhension, la patience et la coopération qu'ils nous ont témoignées ;

Le Conseil national de la jeunesse inuite — pour les efforts consacrés à renforcer la voix des jeunes Inuits à l'échelle fédérale et à donner à la jeunesse inuite la capacité de se prendre en main ;

Le Conseil jeunesse de la Conférence inuite circumpolaire — pour la poursuite des travaux sur les dossiers mondiaux et, en particulier, sur la sensibilisation au changement climatique ;

Tous les comités jeunesse du Nunavik — pour vos efforts et votre détermination, et en vue d'une année 2007 encore plus active ;

Nous espérons n'avoir oublié personne. Nous apprécions la collaboration de chacun et de chacune et anticipons le plaisir de travailler de concert avec vous tous en 2007. Que la Nouvelle Année soit joyeuse et pleine de succès.

À toute la population du Nunavik, et aux jeunes en particulier :

Nous voulons connaître vos idées et que vous atteigniez tous vos buts en 2007. N'abandonnez jamais la partie, vivez votre vie à plein rendement, le monde vous attend. Il n'en tient qu'à vous de réussir.

À tous et à chacun, l'équipe de Saputiit souhaite la meilleure des santés et le plus grand succès en 2007!

Nunavik Youth Update

Quebec Youth Forum

A meeting of La Table des Concertation des Forum Jeunesse Régionaux du Québec (TCFJRQ) was held in Mont-Ste-Anne, 30 minutes drive outside of Québec City, on September 23rd and 24th, 2006. These quarterly meetings are traditionally held in the central localities such as Montreal and Quebec City, but for the past two years they have taken place in other smaller towns.

Jonathan Epoo, president of the Saputiit Youth Association, and Adamie Padlayat, youth liaison officer for Makivik, represented the Nunavik Youth. They gave a brief report of the activities that Nunavik youth have had success in such as the Living Life project where six youth kayakers paddled the shores of Nunavik to promote healthy living, did radio talk shows on suicide prevention, and attracted community feasts. Another report was about the Inuit Circumpolar Youth Council meeting in Barrow, Alaska, where Inuit from Arctic Canada, Greenland, Russia and United States gathered and talked of our diversity and unity.

One of the main subjects that they wanted to speak to the TCFJRQ about was a desire to access the unused portion of the Quebec Youth Investment Funds. There are three most northern regions of Quebec that would gratefully benefit, considering the lack of infrastructures for youth and very high expenses that rapidly soak up other available moneys. These regions were represented by the Jamesian Youth Council for youth in the James Bay area, the Cree Nation Youth Council specifically for the Cree youth, and our own Saputiit that speaks for the Nunavik youth. Except for all but two or three regions, it was agreed that this surplus would go to our northern areas of the province. This has been approved and, at the time of writing, Saputiit was eagerly awaiting the contract from the Youth Secretariat of Québec.

Jonathan and Adamie had another meeting with the representatives from the James Bay and Cree territories of northern Quebec: John Matoosh, president of the Cree Nation Youth Council, along with Andrew Neeposh, the Cree regional coordinator, and Jean-Phillip Boivin and from James Bay area. This second meeting was to discuss cultural and social issues, including suicide prevention and other topics that our northern Quebec areas have in common.

Voters in Training Workshop

Jonathan Epoo, Adamie Padlayat, and Saputiit's youth investment fund coordinator Attasi Pilurtuut attended a Voters in Training workshop in Québec City held on November 2nd and 3rd, 2006. TCFJRQ, Elections Québec, Centre de développement pour l'exercice de la citoyenneté CDEC, Regroupement des maisons de jeunes Du Québec, and the Montreal Youth Forum funded these workshops.

The workshop activities were facilitated by Akos Verboczy and Caroline Rioux. Based on a program that originated in the United States but adapted to the realities of Canada and our provinces, including Quebec, Voters in Training is designed to assist youth organizations to get young people involved in national, regional and local elections.

Voters in Training is a non-partisan and non-profit program in citizenship education. It provides a series of extracurricular or in-class activities, including a mock election; and in-class activities that can be integrated into courses of History, Citizenship Education, English, French as a Second Language, and so on. It encourages students to become curious about current events and democracy and to become critical thinkers and debaters. The program is aimed toward youth under age 18 who are in school, but it is hoped that it will also be available in the youth centres of Nunavik. Voter in training offers free-of-charge to participating institutions the official electoral material of the Directeur General des élections du Québec, an educational kit, and personalized support to facilitate the organization of activities.

From The Great Whale to The Thames: Kuujjuaraapik Students Experience London

In the spring of 2006, the secondary-three English class from Kuujjuaraapik's Asimauttttaq School raised funds to go to London, England. One purpose of the trip was to reward the students for attending school on a regular basis and being more actively involved in their studies and schooling. The criteria for going were that they had to attend classes at least 75 percent of the time, be passing in their classes, be involved in helping out with the fundraising project, and not cause any problems for any teachers in the school.

Their resourceful teacher Dave Nguyen told Makivik Magazine, "I decided to take them to London, England because I wanted to give them the experience of a life time. Most of the students may never have an opportunity to visit other countries because it's almost impossible for them to attain a passport. Also financial situations limit where they can travel because it cost approximately $2,000 per return ticket to Montreal. But with a generous donation from Makivik, which contributed $10,000, it was made possible."

Since the project went extremely well and it helped to make such a positive change in the school and community, their teacher says he has decided to pursue another fundraising project this year as well. But instead of just taking his own class, Dave says said he has decided to do it for all of the secondary students. Their estimated budget for the trip will be around $77,000 and they had already managed to raise approximately $12,000 within the first three months of the school year. ■

Christmas Party for Postsecondary Students

Much fun was had at the annual postsecondary Kativik School Board Christmas party for postsecondary students and their families, which took place this past December 1st at the Union Church in Ste. Anne-de-Bellevue (on the west end of Montreal Island), located near KSB's Student Services Department.

ALLISON FLOWERS X3

This joyous event was a welcome distraction from the usual student toil of writing term papers and studying for exams. Holiday music playing in the background, beautifully lit candles, and a Christmas tree on the side all contributed to the right spirit for lots of excitement and laughter. The party fun included games with fabulous prizes and a gift exchange. Always in the right place at the right time, Santa Claus himself also made an appearance with hearty good wishes for all. ■

Four Common Parasites in Caribou from Nunavik

Warble flies

The warble is a fly larva found on caribou. It is yellow-white, oval about two and a half centimetres long located under the skin. Its presence may vary from one larva to as many as 100. The presence of holes in the skin is due to larvae. There is often swelling or fluid nearby. Caribou, when harassed by flies, may feed less and can be weakened due to high infestations. Meat from caribou infected with warble flies is okay to be eaten.

Liver flukes

Liver flukes cause lumps of various shapes in the liver. Inside the lumps (cysts), you can see two to three flat worms of approximately two to three centimetres in length. Highly infected livers occur mostly in older animals.

Liver flukes cannot infect humans. The cysts are easily removed from the organ if it is not too heavily infected. Cooking kills the parasite. However, do not feed the infected parts to dogs.

Tapeworm cysts

Tapeworm cysts are caused by a parasite named Taenia Krabbei. They are located in the caribou's heart and muscles and look like white or yellow spots of five millimetres in diameter. Humans cannot be infected with tapeworm cysts. Cooking kills these parasites. Again, dogs should not eat the infected parts.

MANON SIMARD X3

Besnoitiosis

Besnoitiosis is caused by a very small parasite that lives in the cells of animals. In highly infected cases, caribou lack patches of hair on their face or lower legs and the skin may be thick. When the animal is skinned, many grainy white cysts are present on the bone and feel like sand paper to the touch. Presence of the parasite is also associated with green and yellow fluid under the skin.

The meat of infected caribou is good for human consumption. Do not feed infected parts to dogs. ■
