Townships escape power blackout

Another new fan

HAPPY BIRTHDAY — Winnie Ann Hurley of Sawyerville recently celebrated her 100th birthday. That same week local country music stars Jerry and Jo-Anne released their new album, Down Home. Jerry and Jo-Anne, left, presented a copy of the new LP to Mrs. Hurley, seated, as a birthday present. In centre is daughter Mrs. Mary Ashe and on the right is daughter Violet (Mrs. T. French) and niece Mrs. John Reed. The back of the album is decorated with a map of Lennoxville of 100 years ago.

Newfoundland election March 24

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld. (CP) — Premier Frank Moores Thursday called a Newfoundland provincial election for Friday, March 24, and asked voters to put a stable government in office. He told a news conference that uncertainty following the Oct. 28 provincial election made it impossible for his Progressive Conservative administration "to govern in the unstable position that we presently find ourselves in."

Forest reform call issued

QUEBEC (CP) — Le Soleil published segments Thursday of the Quebec government's long-awaited white paper on forest policy. The newspaper says the document calls for a radical reform of the province's forest laws.

The newspaper says the policy document recommends establishment of a public forests management corporation and a product quota and control board to replace the concession system, which would be abolished within five years.

The white paper forms the second part of Quebec's proposed legislation to revise the province's forest laws, introduced last year by Kevin Drummond, lands and forests minister.

An earlier white paper, released in November, examined problems faced by Quebec's forest industry. The second paper, outlining solutions, has not yet been released by the government.

The newspaper says the policy paper also proposes:

—Classification of forest lands according to their utility and specific characteristics.

—Reorganization of regional tree-growers' associations and producers. —Complete revision of the laws regulating the use of forest lands.

—Consolidation and conversion of existing plants at all levels of the industry.

—A financial-assistance program for the pulp and paper industry.

—Organization of an integrated system of royalties.

Keep tabs on initiatives project

OTTAWA (CP) — The government is keeping close tabs on recipients of funds from the federal local initiatives program

Thursday. "To see that they stay on the track," Labor Minister Martin O'Connell told the Commons

Thursday. But he did not take up Conservative House Leader Gerald Baldwin's suggestion of a public enquiry into the $150-million program.

Mr. Baldwin referred to a "question of legitimacy" about some of the grants, which are aimed at spurring employment during the winter.

The Conservative cited a "telephone service" for homosexuals in Toronto.

Mr. O'Connell said every project is monitored and audited by the government to ensure they stick to their contracts.

The government has been chided in recent days for grants to a Toronto group said in the Commons to be satanists and to residents of Toronto's new-lifestyle Rochdale College.

The minister also confirmed that Jan. 31 was the deadline for applications and that projects must be completed by May 31.

He said all applications that will be approved have been identified. The department was in the final stages of sending its decisions to applicants.

He told the Commons Monday that all but $4 million of the $150 million has been allocated. But he said then that more-than-enough applications have been received to take up the remainder.

MONTREAL (CP) — The Eastern Townships escaped a blackout that darkened large areas of Quebec for several hours yesterday.

The only indication of trouble in Sherbrooke and area was a momentary power failure at 9:40 a.m., but other areas were less fortunate.

Snow and ice piled up by a 30-hour storm snapped a Hydro-Quebec line at Levis, opposite Quebec City, blacking out much of the province.

A Hydro-Quebec spokesman said here the conductor that fell to the ground was part of one of three transmission lines in a 735,000-volt network linking the huge Manicouagan hydro station in northeastern Quebec with Montreal.

The area blacked out stretched 350 miles from Quebec City to the Ontario border, although some areas in the middle of the belt escaped the effects or experienced only brief blackouts.

The power failed at 9:40 a.m. and some parts of the province were still dark late in the day. Downtown Montreal was without electricity for about two hours. Quebec City waited about three hours for power to be restored.

Hazardous weather warnings were issued across the province Thursday by the public weather office as combined snow, hail and freezing rain were whipped into drifts by wind gusting up to 50 miles an hour.

SNOW HEAVY

The Quebec City region was hit by 11 inches of snow within 24 hours while up to 15 inches were expected in the northeastern Sept-les region.

Not affected by the blackout were parts of the Saguenay, St. Maurice, northwestern Abitibi, Noth Shore, Gaspé and Eastern Townships regions.

In Quebec City, all government offices and schools were closed. Public transportation and taxis were operating but hilly streets were almost impassable.

Runways at Ancienne Lorette Airport outside the provincial capital were operational, but blocked access roads prevented passengers from entering or leaving the terminus area.

Police in Quebec City and Montreal reported no major problems or emergencies.

Newspapers also were affected by the blackout.

The Star and La Presse published only two of their normal three editions. Quebec L'Action cancelled publication and Quebec Le Soleil was late with one edition.

The normal 10 a.m. opening of the Montreal and Canadian stock exchanges was delayed about two hours. A spokesman said the trading board was operating but wire services carrying quotations from other exchanges and the Montreal computer were not functioning.

Two CNR electric commuter trains were stranded in the suburbs and had to be towed by diesel. They arrived downtown 1½ hours late. CP Rail reported all its trains, operated by diesel, were on time.

A spokesman at Montreal International Airport said control-tower operations switched immediately to emergency power but the terminal itself remained without power.

Some planes were so heavily iced overnight that de-icing chemicals were not effective. The aircraft were towed into hangers to thaw.

A spokesman for Voyageur bus lines said most buses were leaving on time from Montreal but services to Quebec City, Drummondville, Que., and the Maritimes were cancelled because of the weather.

Montreal radio stations, themselves on auxiliary power, advised listeners to take perishable food out of freezers and put it in snow.

Text of Quebec Policemen's Federation letter

Ex-cop to fight dismissal

By LEWIS HARRIS

LENNOXVILLE — Former Lennoxville constable Garry Derusha plans to take "a firm stand" at Tuesday's Lennoxville council meeting unless he is reinstated before the meeting, the former policeman said last night.

"I'm standing up for my rights as I see fit," Derusha said yesterday of the controversy surrounding his recent dismissal. "Should I not be reinstated before Tuesday's meeting, I'll be there, and I'll endeavor to get at the root of the problem," he promised.

Derusha was laid off on Monday by acting police chief Russell Wells, at which time, Derusha says, Wells told him that Lennoxville town council made the decision that Derusha be laid off. "The chief told me that it wasn't his decision, that council was responsible for my being laid off," Derusha said.

But last night Mayor Cecil Dougherty of Lennoxville told The Record, "Council hasn't dealt with it yet," and chief Wells said, "I'd rather not comment." Derusha and constable Maurice Kingdon spent the past few months organizing a union for the Lennoxville police. The Quebec Policemen's Federation and its president, Guy Marcell, contend Derusha was dismissed because of his organizing activities.

They sent a letter to Lennoxville town clerk Jules Gervais and a copy of the same letter to Mayor Dougherty.

RELEASES TEXT OF LETTER

Mr. Marcell's secretary released the text of the letter as follows:

"The Quebec Policemen's Federation

brings to your attention the firing of Constable Garry Derusha of Lennoxville.

"According to all our evidence, the policeman was dismissed by the chief of police because of union activities.

"We ask the Lennoxville Town Council to reinstate this policeman and that he be fully reimbursed for all lost salary and privileges. You must undertake to do all these things in order to insure your good government."

The letter is signed by Mr. Marcell. Another letter has been sent to the Quebec ministry of labor complaining of Derusha's dismissal, though the Quebec Policemen's Federation would not disclose its contents.

The letter sent to Lennoxville is in the mail and will arrive today, according to a spokesman for the Federation Mayor Dougherty, chief Wells and town clerk Gervais all said yesterday that no such letter has yet been received at Lennoxville Town Hall, though Gervais did refer to another letter sent earlier by the Federation to the town requesting the names of Lennoxville's policemen to facilitate the organizing of the new Lennoxville policemen's union.

"My money situation is fine," said Derusha in explaining his current situation. "I've no problem there. I can hold out for a long time, though not forever," he said yesterday.

"NOT MUCH DIFFERENCE"

"Besides," he continued, "on what the Lennoxville police pays, there's not much difference between my take-home pay and unemployment insurance."

He said the Lennoxville police force is one of the lowest paid in Canada. "There was a survey taken last summer and I think we were the fifth lowest paid force in Canada.

"There's no set salary," he said. "You get whatever comes along each year. When I started last June I got $95 a week, and we don't get paid overtime. Sherbrooke police make $140 a week and are ending their present contract. If I work an hour over, they tell you to leave an hour early the next day. We're not paid for going to court as most police forces are and we're not paid for being called out at night for special duty."

"And there's no chance for promotion."

Derusha said the difference between his former take-home salary and what he presently gets on unemployment insurance is $20.

"If I'm reinstated I'll definitely go back to the force. It would be silly to fight to get back on, then say no if I win," he said. "I'll definitely go back, only standing up," he emphasized.

Asked last night to comment generally on the Derusha situation, chief Wells said, "I'd rather not comment." He said he "didn't know anything" about a letter being sent to the Lennoxville town clerk from the Quebec Policemen's Federation and on the question of whether Derusha would be reinstated, he also declined comment.

"He's got nothing to worry about. He's still getting paid," said Wells.

"Sure I'm getting paid," said Derusha. "I'm getting my week's notice. I was let go on Monday and I'm being paid till the end of Friday."

Derusha's morale is still high. How does he feel? "I can't complain for an unemployed ex-policeman," he said.

Troops explode 300-pound bomb

BELFAST (AP) — Northern Ireland's biggest terrorist bomb so far—300 pounds of gelignite packed inside a stolen auto—was exploded by British troops Thursday as other blasts rocked Ulster and a soldier was gunned down.

Bomb disposal experts abandoned attempts to defuse the huge charge, planted outside a gasoline station at Newry near Northern Ireland's border with Ireland. Troops cordoned off the area for several hundred yards around and the detonation wrecked the gas station.

The soldier shot was hit when terrorists fired from the Irish republic at a border patrol near Clady in County Londonderry.

The army said he was not seriously hurt.

In County Tyrone, four gunmen planted a bomb in a customs post which was demolished by the blast. Three armed men blew up offices in Belfast. There were no casualties.

Troops said they found two arms caches in the capital, uncovering nearly 2,000 rounds of ammunition, a Sten gun and a new rifle.

The deaths early Thursday of two Belfast youths, believed killed in a shootout between guerrillas and troops and police in the capital, raised the death toll to 257 in 31 months of sectarian bloodshed. Fifty-one have been killed this year.

Mr. O'Connell said every project is monitored and audited by the government to ensure they stick to their contracts.

The government has been chided in recent days for grants to a Toronto group said in the Commons to be satanists and to residents of Toronto's new-lifestyle Rochdale College.

Told to cancel house raid

MONTREAL (CP) — Two policemen said Thursday they were told in September, 1971, to cancel a planned major raid on a 250-unit motel being used by prostitutes, not just to find another method of conducting the raid.

Constables Marcel Dufour and Guy Lessard, working under Insp. Gilles Bourgoin, said they had been watching the motel since July and had reported it was being used extensively by prostitutes working under several "madames."

The two men were testifying at a Quebec Police Commission inquiry into the conduct of Police Chief Jean-Jacques Saulnier.

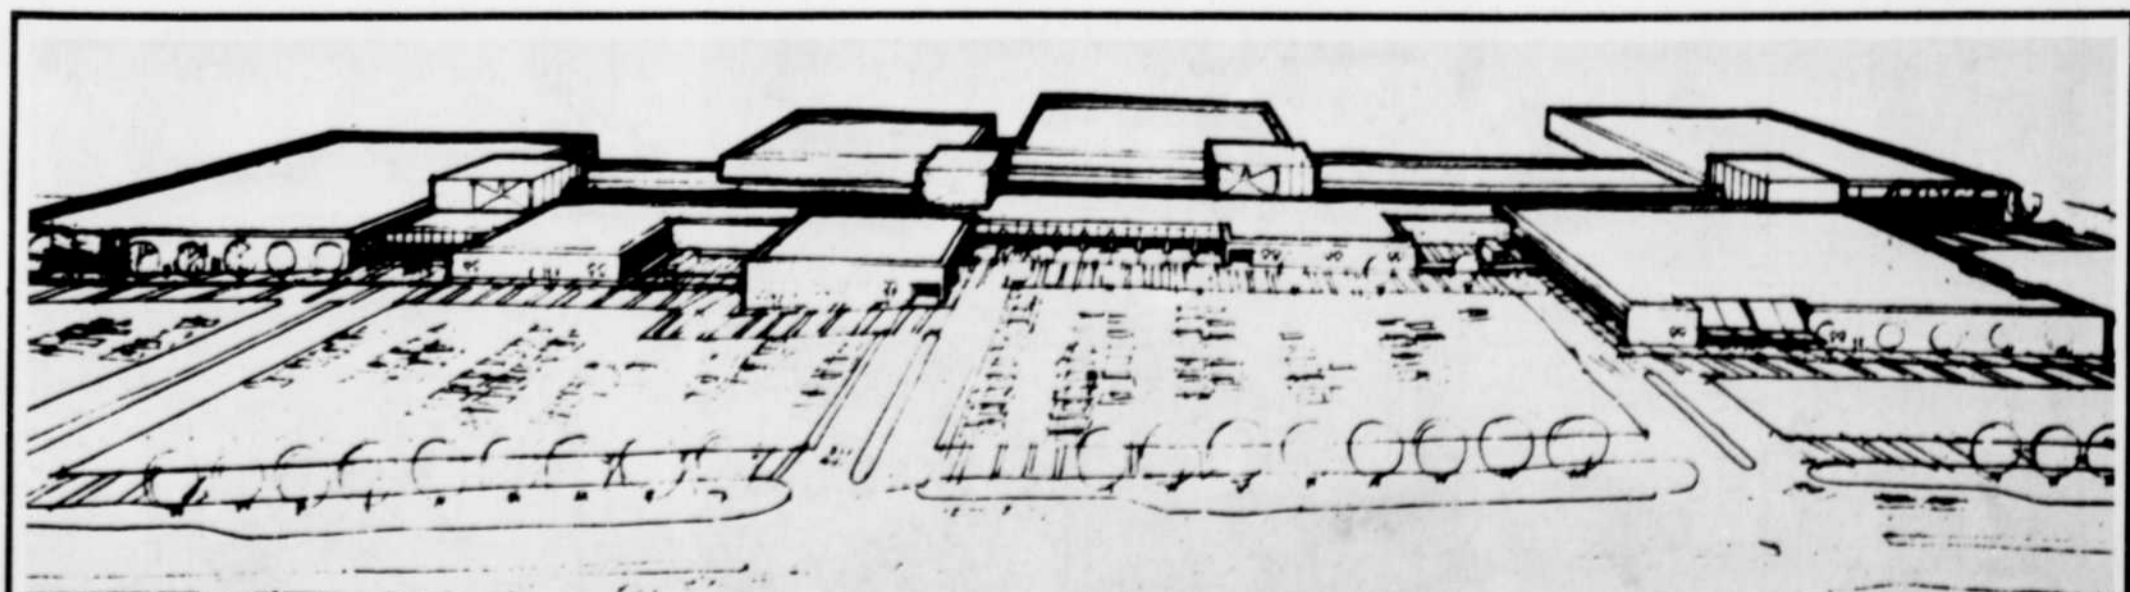

Constable Dufour told the inquiry he had given Insp. Bourgoin a verbal report on the progress of the investigation and each item mentioned in the report was discussed.

"Insp. Bourgoin was reticent on one item," he said, "the one to open the doors of the 250 units and said he would discuss it with Mr. Saulnier."

Asked whether the raid could have been conducted without the item about which both the inspector and Mr. Saulnier had been reticent, Constable Dufour said it could have.

Constable Lessard said that during the entire investigation there had never been any question of cancelling the raid until the meeting with Mr. Saulnier.

DR. LAWRENCE E. LAMB

Hepatitis is inflamed liver

Dear Dr. Lamb — I am wondering if it would be possible for you to give some information on hepatitis.

Dear Reader — Hepatitis means inflammation of the liver. The two common forms caused by virus infections are serum hepatitis which is usually transmitted by needles, blood transfusions and similar procedures, the other type the result of contaminated water or food supply.

Because one of the functions of the liver is to manufacture bile and pass bile into the intestines, when this function fails there is often a build up of the bile pigments in the body causing jaundice. Hepatitis also upsets the normal digestive process, causing indigestion.

Most individuals with infectious hepatitis recover with adequate or normal liver function. It is a serious illness and requires the patient to follow his doctor's instructions carefully to achieve recovery. You only have one liver and it is a good idea to do everything you can to prevent permanent damage. Other causes of hepatitis are relatively rare in our society.

Dear Dr. Lamb — I am writing this letter for my 66-year-old aunt. A doctor told her that her high blood pressure was the cause of an arthritis flare-up in her knees. Her knees became large and puffed so that she could hardly stand. He removed fluid from the knees and then injected cortisone into them. Since that time she has not been bothered with arthritis.

This theory that high blood pressure will cause an arthritis attack is of particular interest to me as I am occasionally bothered by arthritis.

Dear Reader—It is always difficult to evaluate treatment of arthritis, since the rheumatoid variety may have spontaneous remissions even without any medicine being administered. The inflammation of single joints is sometimes markedly helped by injection of cortisone into the joint itself.

Blood pressure is very unstable and when one has pain which your aunt probably did, the blood pressure can become elevated.

Scouts in action

FIRST LENNOXVILLE
 Gerald Frost was the chairman for the annual Father and Son Banquet held recently in Gertrude Scott Hall and the popular event was a huge success.

Guests included Ed Mills, first vice-chairman of Sherbrooke district council, Dave Price, president of the Optimist Club of Lennoxville, Rev. A. B. Lovelace of Lennoxville United Church, Garth Smith and Herb Pratt, of Second Lennoxville Group, and Mrs. Dick Tracy and Miss Beverly Sawyer, local guide and brownie readers.

Mrs. Luella Brady presented the John Brady Memorial Trophy to scouts Pierre Gilbert and Alain Gosselin for outstanding achievement in scouting.

Miss Valerie Rawlings, YM-YW swimming instructor, presented Red Cross swimming awards to some scouts and cubs. Rev. Lovelace was the guest speaker, replacing Rev. Ralph Rogers of Stanstead who was unable to attend due to a storm.

Chairman Frost thanked all those who spend time working with the boys, and various reports were given. Vice-chairman Robert Sutor thanked the members of the Mothers' Auxiliary who served a most delicious supper.

The scouts had a display of all the necessary equipment needed for a winter's camping weekend. Also on display was one of the boats which the scouts built last spring. The cubs had a few handicrafts to show which they made recently.

Scouter John Hewitt showed an interesting film he had made of the activities concerning First Lennoxville Scouts and Cubs. The slate of officers for the 1972-73 season is: chairman, Robert Sutor; vice-chairman, Dick Tracy; treasurer, Colin Huff; secretary, Don Patrick; and public relations, Wayne Crack. The new officers will be inducted March 22.

SEVENTH SHERBROOKE CUB PACK
 A new game, hairs and hounds, was really enjoyed by the boys. Another game, poison circle, was also enjoyed and it proved interesting in that the larger cubs were eliminated and a smaller cub, Peter Desharnais, won the game.

The following awards were presented: Marc Bourke, green star; and Bruce Mayhew, tawny star.

Instruction on the conventional stars and badges was put aside so that the boys could use their creativity and skills in the art of building paper airplanes. John Hayes and Jim Leonard won the team prize, and John Hayes, Bert Perry and Russell Sangster tied for the individual honors.

The standing in points is: Blue 122, Tawny 112, Red 93, Brown 88, White 60 and Green 44.

Work begins soon on shopping centre

SHOPPING MAGNATE — Marcel Adams, owner of the company constructing Sherbrooke's new regional shopping centre, announced yesterday that the T. Eaton Co. will be one of two department stores at the new centre.

SHERBROOKE (I.H.) — Construction of a two-level, 120,000-square foot T. Eaton Co. store to be located in Sherbrooke's new regional shopping centre on Portland Street will begin in late spring or early summer 1972, with completion slated for sometime in mid-1973, Marcel Adams announced yesterday.

Mr. Adams is the owner of Smda developments, the company owning the land on which the shopping centre will be built and the company developing the shopping centre.

In addition, continued Mr. Adams, "a regional shopping centre always requires at least two anchors, one at either end. To complement the Eaton's department store, negotiations are currently underway with another Canadian company who will operate the second department store in our project," he said.

He promised to name the second department store when negotiations were complete. Adams pointed out that the new shopping centre is expected to cost "about $10 million and that in all there will be some 70 tenants covering approximately 450,000 square feet of space."

He estimated 600 new on-site jobs would be created and promised to "meet my obligations insofar as hiring local contractors, professionals, and full-time employees is concerned."

MAKES PLEDGE
 "We are well aware of these responsibilities and will live up to them," he said. "It is obvious that a project of this size can create a very beneficial impact on the economy of the region," he said, pointing out that the city would benefit in property taxation, sales tax and the stabilization of tax revenues.

returning to the Sherbrooke area in a full department store capacity after an absence of seven years," he said.

The small store the company had in Sherbrooke until 1965 was subsequently sold as it was not felt to give Eaton's adequate representation in this important market area," he explained.

The new shopping complex has been provisionally named Les Galeries Sherbrooke. "We didn't have much time to name it," said Mr. Adams, "and I'm willing to change the name. Let's say the centre's been baptized but the name hasn't been registered yet."

order that we may best add and complement the existing retail facilities in the region, and in this manner we hope to repatriate many millions of dollars of annual sales," said Mr. Adams.

Several other Eaton's representatives were unable to attend yesterday's meeting because of a power blackout in Quebec City and Montreal and road conditions between Sherbrooke and those points.

Both Mr. Adams and the Eaton's representatives thanked the city for its cooperation in the venture.

CONTEST PLANNED
 He then announced that a contest is being held to choose a name for the new shopping centre and the winner will receive "a small gift." Details of the contest will be announced at a later date, he said.

Snowshoe Club ends 94th season with film

SHERBROOKE — The last regular meeting of the 94th year of operation of the Snowshoe Club took place Wednesday, March 1, at the Prospect Street clubhouse.

Supper was served, followed by a lively sing-song led by chorister Newton Munkittrick with Wright Gibson at the piano. The business meeting was handled by president Frank Jenne. Second vice-president Fred Palmer then introduced David Donachie, president of Dave's Transport Inc. the guest speaker for the evening.

He spoke to the gathering on the ins and outs of the furniture moving trade. A humorous film produced by Allied Van Lines on the moving of the home of a wife who was reluctant to leave her old residence was shown and enjoyed by all. Mr. Donachie then answered questions about his trade, and Lloyd Broadbent thanked the speaker on behalf of the Club for his talk and film.

President Frank Jenne, 80th president of the Club, then expressed his thanks to all the Club's various committees, the Red Party, his executive and to Mr. and Mrs. Lacroix, the able caterers, for their assistance and work that made for a successful year's operation.

The finals of the volleyball tournament were played, and captain Don McQuat and vice-captain Al Simmons then presented the various prizes.

Team No. 1, captained by Robert Woolerton, emerged victorious and its members were presented with suitable awards. Lyall Pariseau won the prize for 500, with Henry McBain receiving the booby prize.

Champlain launches night courses

LENNOXVILLE — Champlain Regional College launched its first program in the field of continuing education this week, with two courses being given Monday and Tuesday evenings in the Nicholl's Building at Bishop's University. Both are credit courses programmed over a period of 15 weeks.

Monday's lectures are in business administration, taught by Henry Leonard, who is an instructor at the University of Sherbrooke. Business law, scheduled for Tuesday evenings, is being taught by Thomas Leonard, who is a Sherbrooke notary.

James M. Strickland, Champlain's director of continuing education, says he is satisfied with the response shown thus far in the new program and notes that there is still time for newcomers to participate if they enroll this coming Monday or Tuesday, depending on their choice of courses. Commenting on future plans for this phase of instruction for the CEGEP, Mr. Strickland says there is an obvious need for English language colloquial level courses in this region, and that he hopes instruction could be arranged to meet the needs of those seeking educational advancement.

Anyone wishing information on Champlain College's part-time courses should contact the department of continuing education by telephoning 563-6433.

COLLEGIAL CREDITS PART-TIME — Courses in business administration and business law introduced this week by the continuing education department of Champlain Regional College are being welcomed by many who are seeking to gain college credits. Border meet Hawey BORDER (I.H.) — Ghislain A. Hawey, president of the Chamber of Commerce of the Province of Quebec, was the honored guest at a dinner gathering of the Border Chamber held at the Three Villages Sports Club in Beebe Wednesday evening.

There was a gathering of close to 90 persons. Members of the Border Chamber and ladies, mayors and Chamber members from Sherbrooke and Massawippi attended the meeting to hear Mr. Hawey's inspirational address.

Raymond Roderigue was master of ceremonies. He introduced Mr. Hawey and distinguished guests Denis Bourgeault, director of services of affiliation; Edgar Jarman, incoming president of the Sherbrooke Chamber; Capt. Edward Brown, president of the Massawippi Chamber; Remi Couture, president of the Border Chamber; and Mrs. Couture; Hugo LaPenna, mayor of Beebe, and Mrs. LaPenna; Gordon Booth, mayor of Ayer's Cliff, and Mrs. Booth; Edouard Girard, mayor of Rock Island; George McLaren, mayor of Ogden, and Mrs. McLaren; and E. J. Struthers, mayor of Stanstead.

Mr. Roderigue extended words of welcome to all the guests. He proposed a toast to Mr. Hawey and the provincial Chamber. The program was bilingual.

Guides enjoy hike

DERBY LINE, Vt. (I.H.) — The Derby Line Girl Scout Cadette Troop had a busy month of February activities, it is reported by girls of this troop.

Friday, Feb. 4, the Cadettes of Troop 249, Derby Line, held a weekend of camping at the cottage of the Cadette leader, Mrs. Roy Shattuck. The group left the village at 5 p.m. Mrs. Shattuck, Mrs. Roy Davis and Mrs. Robert Gosselin provided the transportation. At Derby the group was met by Mr. Shattuck and Brad, Mr. Davis and Jimmy, who took them a mile by snowmobile to the cottage.

Once settled, the girls held a dance and had a popcorn party. Saturday proved to be a cold, brisk day, and the girls were up early. They had breakfast and then were off on a hike. They hiked the Indian trail along the Clyde River into Derby Centre. In the afternoon one patrol had a sliding party and the other patrol hiked to a nearby farm for drinking water.

DAY ENDS HAPPILY
 The day passed quickly and soon it was supper time, prepared and served by the girls. Games were played and songs were sung and then it was off to bed.

Sunday the girls made candles and told stories. In the afternoon the snowmobilers returned to take the girls back to the parked cars.

Red Cross Month

Thousands of volunteers of the Canadian Red Cross Society work to help people in a great number of communities across Canada. They play a vital part in programs such as water safety, blood procurement, hospital visiting, international development and disaster assistance.

In the province of Quebec, 90 per cent of Red Cross work is carried out by dedicated volunteers who reduce to a minimum the cost of relief operations and extend Red Cross funds for many humanitarian actions. For instance, last year thousands of volunteer women made close to 86,000 children's garments for distribution to young disaster victims in Quebec as well as overseas.

Hundreds of hospitalized veterans were visited and comforted by Red Cross Corps members, all volunteers, and other women. When Red Cross visitors make their rounds, they undertake letter-writing and shopping and also provide small gifts of cigarettes, tobacco, fruit, candy and magazines. Their visits are anticipated by the patients, many of whom have few other contacts with the outside world.

The blood transfusion service, which this year celebrates its 25th anniversary, provides every hospital in Canada with all the blood and blood products they need. In Quebec alone, close to 225,000 units of blood were collected and provided free of charge to the 187 hospitals last year. This vital service maintained by volunteer blood donors contributes to the patients' recovery and very often in saving their lives.

In an effort to spare human lives, the Red Cross qualifies each year close to 500 new instructors in water safety and life saving techniques. They in turn pass on their knowledge to more than 150,000 children and youth. Last year, 104,000 of these Quebecers qualified in various Red Cross water safety tests.

These statistics may be impressive, but they cannot present a clear picture of the individual cases of persons restored to life because blood was there when they needed it. We will never know how many lives were saved because at one time or another a child or a youth had learned from Red Cross how to enjoy water sports without risk to their lives.

And for the disaster victims who have been clothed, fed and sheltered through the assistance of volunteer disaster relief committee members across Quebec, the Red Cross becomes a symbol of mercy.

The Red Cross also supplies sickroom equipment free of charge to those who need it. It helps youth develop qualities of effective leadership. It teaches people to care for the sick when illness occurs at home.

Without public support such programs could not exist.

The contributions of the Red Cross Society to the community, to the nation and to the world are many. March is Red Cross Month — a time to remember the work the Red Cross does, and a time to support the work with the same generosity that Red Cross volunteers bring to those in need in the community and other communities like this throughout Quebec and throughout Canada.

Opinion from the French press

This is a selection of editorials on current topics, translated from the French-language press of Canada.

Quebec Le Soleil: If it's true that Toronto goalkeeper Bernard Parent has signed a contract with the Miami club guaranteeing him a salary of $150,000 a season for five years as well as other benefits representing some tens of thousands of dollars, one can only worry about the future of professional hockey and the World Hockey Association, rival to the National Hockey League.

And it can also be asked how the city of Quebec, which has succeeded in obtaining a franchise, will be able to meet expenses in an organization made to measure for multi-millionaires who have money to throw out the window.

If in giving to each player more than his weight in gold they succeed in stripping NHL clubs of five or six of their stars, what will remain in a few years? What will be the quality of the game and how strong will the attraction of teams of the two rival circuits be for the population?

Professional hockey is entering a crisis from which it may never recover and its first victims will be the players themselves, especially if they have no financial guarantees covering all risks.

Do all the cities of the World Hockey Association have the means to support a professional club? Quebec with the Ramparts enjoys more than ordinary success. But it has been built on a young star named Guy Lafleur and another named Jacques Richard.

Montreal, in an extraordinary way, has met the challenge of professional baseball with a losing club. Will Quebec be able to do the same in hockey? Nothing is impossible.

The moment those who embark on this affair judge they have solid enough ground to launch it, it remains only to wish them the full success they anticipate.

But whatever happens it is up to the current NHL players to ask themselves if, in letting themselves be bought at a high price, they are not exposing themselves to killing the golden eggs — Raymond Dube (Feb. 24)

Trois-Rivieres Le Nouvelliste: "A group of concerned businessmen" in Montreal have just launched a campaign to withdraw the right to strike by public service employees.

These concerned businessmen are counting on a million telegrams to be sent to Mr. Trudeau and Mr. Bourassa.

We will not subscribe to such a request, at least as it is formulated.

We voluntarily recognize that the exercise by the public service of the right to strike has proved disastrous. We have another striking example of it with the blue collar workers who have imperilled the health and security of Montreal citizens. A responsible government cannot tolerate this kind of pressure exerted to the detriment of the population.

In our opinion it is urgent not to withdraw the right to strike for employees in the public service but rather to replace it with other mechanisms which, while protecting the workers, will fully ensure the protection of the public.

Unanimity seems to favor creation of an arbitration tribunal formed by representatives of labor and management whose decisions would be binding.

Undoubtedly, demands would quickly become reasonable knowing in advance that the arbitration court would base its decision on logical and realistic criteria—rise in cost of living, financial situation of the employer, etc.—before giving its enforceable decision. That would end the hypocrisy and exaggerated haggling.

Quebec risks being thrown into complete anarchy as hospital employees, teachers and civil servants prepare to exercise their right to strike.

If the Bourassa government lacks the courage to assume its responsibilities fully, it should admit its defeat and have the elementary decency to cede its place — Sylvio Saint-Amant (Feb. 24)

Montreal Le Devoir: Success? Half-success? What are the results of the Nixon visit to China?

The two parties at the Peking conversations judge the experience successful enough and the results conclusive enough to consider staying in contact by various means, including the sending of a high-level American representative to Peking from time to time.

An objective reading of the communiqué reveals, nevertheless, that on the question of Taiwan the rapprochement between the two capitals is most marked.

Incontestably it is a victory for the Peking regime. But Mao Tse-tung and Chou En-lai had the intelligence and wisdom to obtain this victory on the most honorable conditions possible for the United States.

Still, it must be emphasized that the agreement in principle remains very vague, that the specific means are still to be determined.

For the rest of the questions studied, the diplomatic tour of the horizon last week does not seem to have led to other rapprochements.

—Claude Lemelin (Feb. 28)

Montreal La Presse: According to a Gallup poll a substantial majority of Canadians share the federal government's preoccupation with control of foreign investments.

The truth is that Canada with good reason fears isolation. It does not belong to any of the great economic families which lead the game.

The polemic with Mr. Connally, secretary of the treasury, above all proved it is not sufficient to maintain good relations with the state department (Canada has some obliging friends there) to ensure favorable treatment in all circumstances. It thus emphasized the delays in our country in focusing on a genuine "national" economic policy.

The first reflex has been to search immediately for new markets for Canadian products.

These gropings, even if they should help us find new avenues, will not abolish a permanent reality—the overwhelming presence of a giant at our doors.

These slow ways and uncertainties should not prevent the Bourassa government from establishing as soon as possible its own arrangements. With good reason, Mr. Bourassa refuses to be drawn into a crusade against foreign investment.

Doesn't opening the door completely risk aggravating the dependence of a province where only 15 per cent of industry is in the hands of French-Canadians?

The question is not simple.

If, in the name of Canadian identity, a strongly centralized economic policy becomes popular in Ottawa (it matters little whether it's propounded by the Liberals or the NDP) Quebec must ensure that it will not work systematically against its particular interests.

This preoccupation must guide the thinking not only of the Bourassa government but all parties in Quebec. In one form or another, in a legislative committee or otherwise, this question must be inscribed as the priority — Guy Cormier (Feb. 24)

"Coax me!"

Publishers' dilemma

I had a call the other day from an old friend, a magazine publisher in deep distress who had calculated what the planned increase in the postal rate would do to his enterprise: namely, transform it from a robust property into something altogether marginal. And you will remember that when Gardiner Cowles announced the liquidation of Look Magazine, he placed the blame on the shoulders of the post office. Indeed, the projected increase in postal rates for magazine publishers, over a period of five years, is about 150 per cent.

What to do? My friend was soliciting support for a measure pending in Congress which would subsidize magazines as educational matter. After all, the rationale goes, if it is the business of the government to subsidize education, as everybody nowadays agrees that it is, what is more educational than reading matter? And anyway, at the proposed $50 million dollars per year, aren't we talking about less than the price of one torpedo boat, or whatever?

My friend being a stout believer in the free enterprise system, I recalled once again La Rochefoucauld's dirge, "Sad is the lot of the woman who is at once passionately inflamed, and inflexibly virtuous." But actually, it requires something less than inflexible virtue gently to resist the temptation, which is, after all, forever to shield the consumer from the true cost of what he seeks to do, whether to ride a subway, attend college or buy Time Magazine.

Here are some interesting figures just out of the Magazine Publishers Association, which give us an idea of what happened to magazine publishing during the five years between Jan. 1, 1966, and Dec. 31, 1970. In 1966 — I round the figures off — the magazines surveyed took in advertising revenue of $720 million. Five years later, that sum was down — to $714 million. Revenue from subscription was $203 million, almost three times the single copy revenue of $75 million. Five years later, these revenues had risen substantially to a total of $370 million. Subscription revenue was now over three times that which a publisher gets from sales at the newsstands.

During those five years, postage rose from $74 million to $96 million, a very substantial increase, but only a hint of what was

On the right with William F. Buckley Jr.

— is — to come. And during that period, profits collapsed — from $99 million to $37 million.

So that, one calculates, 66 per cent of magazine revenues came from advertising, and 23 per cent from the readers, who pay about one third the cost of producing the magazines they fiddle. The profit is down to a dangerous level — 2.6 per cent. Profits were down 50 per cent between 1969 and 1970.

What is wrong with that picture seems plain enough. It is the heavy reliance on the advertiser and the under-reliance on the consumer. For some reason, the traditional psychology in America calls for making the product cheaper to the reader if he will permit you to wrap it up, put a stamp on it and deliver it to your door. Thus the notices we are all forever receiving: $5.29 for 52.9 weeks of the National Weekly, saving you $15.28 over the newsstand price.

Now, when the post office decides against subsidizing publishers, the publishers protest. They have every reason to protest the impacted inefficiencies of the post office, which the post office gets away with only because it is non-competitive. If Pan American were the exclusive transatlantic carrier, it would take us 27 hours to fly London-New York, and cost a thousand dollars.

But they cannot, with very good conscience, ask the taxpayer to share the cost of delivering Mrs. Jones' Cosmopolitan merely because she refuses to waddle over to the newsstand to buy it, or to pay the extra cost of having it delivered to her house.

The answer is surely that which British publishers are increasingly relying on: Magazine subscriptions should be sold at $X — plus postage.

Reader forum

On the right to strike

Dear Sir,
On Feb. 23, a group of concerned businessmen in Montreal inserted a full page advertisement in two morning newspapers, one French, one English.

The advertisement was requesting people to wire Trudeau and Bourassa to withdraw rights of all public employees to strike. "Fight for your right!" it read, and stated that a million telegrams would be needed.

Snow removal crews are back at work and Montreal has dug out of the mess which originally prompted the ad, but — Canadian citizens have gone without mail for weeks when the postal workers were out on strike; the air traffic controllers were out on strike. Nothing worse than a delay in air services has happened — yet.

Prison employees are striking here and there across the country. No prisoners have escaped — yet. But even if no one escapes, in a civilized and supposedly humane country even a prisoner is entitled to being protected from being assaulted by other prisoners.

We have had hospital staff going on strike, and menacing the well-being of the sick, and teachers going on strike, which is, to say the least, discouraging to the student who is trying to get an education.

Whatever may be our opinion regarding the value of the unions, if we are to give workers the right to join a union then we must also give workers the right to not join a union if they prefer this. The only way to do this is to have certain types of labor unionized and others not.

I would suggest that all Canadian citizens should get behind the Montreal campaign to do away with the right to strike in all public service and other essential service.

Yours truly,
(Miss) D.M. Clouston,
Lennoxville

History today

Expel royal family

The Turkish National Assembly passed three revolutionary laws 48 years ago today — in 1924 — expelling the royal family already in exile, abolishing high religious ministries and secularizing education. At the end of the First World War, the capital city of Constantinople was controlled by the Allies and the Greek army marauded the Black Sea coast. Mustafa Kemal Pasha organized a rival government in Ankara and repudiated the sultan who showed no signs of defending the nation. Within a few years it was the legal government, and built the foundations of modern Turkey.

1960 — The elevation of seven new Roman Catholic cardinals included the first Negro, the first Japanese and the first Filipino.

1959 — The United States launched the Pioneer Four satellite that went into orbit around the sun instead of orbiting the moon as intended.

1945 — The Canadian and U.S. armies joined forces as German troops fled in full retreat all along the Rhine River in the Second World War.

1943 — Mitchell Hepburn, former Liberal premier, resigned from the Ontario cabinet. He had held the post of provincial treasurer.

1847 — The United States issued its first postage stamps.

Annual church congregational meetings

St. Andrew's, Tomifobia

TOMIFOBIA—The annual vestry meeting of St. Andrew's Church was held on Feb. 16 at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Embury and was opened with prayer by Captain Ronald Smith.
Mrs. Rupert Huckins was appointed vestry clerk and read the minutes of the 1970 meeting which were approved. The financial statement given by Wm. Embury showed all commitments paid.
Re-appointments were Jack Keeley minister's warden and Wm. Embury people's warden. Mr. and Mrs. Keeley were appointed delegates to the Synod and Mrs. Keeley was appointed correspondent for the Diocesan Gazette.
Mrs. McTavish of Georgevill was reappointed auditor. The meeting closed by all repeating the Grace and lunch was served.

Christ Church, Inverness

INVERNESS — Christ Church, Lower Ireland, held its annual vestry meeting on Thursday evening Feb. 10, 1972 at the Johnson home.
Archdeacon Marston acted as chairman, and opened the meeting with prayer. Mrs. Russell Marshall, as vestry clerk, read the minutes of the last meeting, which were approved.
The church's financial reports, and that of the guild showed that they had had a successful year.
Mr. Russell Marshall was re-appointed rector's warden, as was Miss A. P. Johnson as people's warden.
Improvements on the cemetery fence and grounds were discussed, and it was decided to carry out these plans later in the year.
Mr. Kenneth Kelso was appointed Synod Delegate and, Miss A. P. Johnson as substitute. Mr. Forest Wright agreed to continue as Cemetery Caretaker, and Mr. Kenneth Kelso as Sexton.
Before the meeting adjourned appreciation was expressed to the Johnsons for the use of their home and for the delicious meal served prior to the meeting, to the fifteen people present.

Keeping both feet on the floor

By Ann Landers

minutes later. My daughter said he was in her bedroom looking at her bulletin board. What do you think?

—Old-Fashioned Mother in Little Rock

Dear Old Mother: I think these kids can use all the information they can get, plus a little closer supervision. They sound healthy, normal, eager and ready to sample all of life's goodies. Continue to keep the lines of communication open between you and your daughters and write again if you feel the need.

Dear Ann Landers: Our son is three years old. For the past six months he has been waking up between 3 and 4 o'clock in the morning — screaming. He says he is afraid of the dark. I try to comfort him and tell him there is nothing to be afraid of but it usually takes about 15 minutes to quiet him down.

This past week my husband has been very short-tempered about these nightly outbursts. He works hard and needs his sleep. He says it's my fault because I have been catering to the boy — that from now on the child will get a hard spanking when he screams at night and then he'll learn not to bother us. The last three nights it has been worse than ever. After the spankings the child cried for at least a half an hour.

I have pleaded with my husband to leave a small light on but he says the boy will be a sissy, that he has to learn there is nothing to be afraid of. This problem is creating trouble between my husband and me. I wish you would tell me who is right and what should be done about the child's fear of the dark and the nightly screaming spells.

—Michigan Mother

Dear Mother: The child's fear of the dark and the nightly screaming spells are symptoms of other problems. I hope you can persuade your husband to go with you to a counselor to discuss it. If he won't go — go without him. I suggest a dim light in the boy's room until he settles down. The spankings should be terminated immediately. They will only add to the child's anxieties and he has enough already.

add three diamond tricks to the heart trick already in and score 100 points.
South would probably complain about the fact that East could produce a high heart on the first lead of the suit and congratulate East on his fine play of the diamond jack. A low diamond lead would have done East no good since South would hold back his king and West would be forced to take the trick.
Someone might point out that there were nine tricks in top cards at no-trump.
How many of you readers have seen that four spades could and really should have been made?
South should hold the first trick. The best continuation is another club. South wins in dummy and discards a low heart. Then he plays two rounds of trumps followed by three rounds of hearts and is able to ruff the third lead.
Back to dummy with the last trump and a diamond is discarded on the 13th heart. East never got the lead!

Seed and crop fair results

COOKSHIRE — The twenty-first annual seed and crop fair was held in the municipal community centre in Cookshire on Monday, February 28 under the auspices of the Compton County Agricultural Society. This fair is open to all farmers and their sons living in the area covered by the Compton County Agricultural Society, but exhibitors must be members of that society.

This year proved to be a better year than last year. There were more exhibits, and they were of a better quality. Oats, other grains, grasses and clover, hay, silage, potatoes, carrots, beets were on display. There were 17 exhibitors and 84 exhibits. An unusual brand of beans was shown, which drew considerable attention for no one seemed to know its name, not even the exhibitor. One lady said she thought they were called Valentine beans.
There was also a judging competition for the farmers' sons and daughters, divided into two sections, those over 16 and under 25, and those between 12 and 16 years of age.
The president, Mr. Fred Burns, stated that he was indebted to Mr. Malcolm Fraser and to Mr. D. J. Macmillan for their time and talent in organizing the fair, as he had not been able to devote much time to it, due to other commitments at the time. He also thanked Mr. Richardson for judging and all others who had helped to make the fair a success.

In his remarks at the evening session, Mr. W. S. Richardson stated that the exhibits were above the average this year; the potatoes were extra good, also the vegetables and hay were good. There were five exhibits of ensilage, and it was hard to select the best of them as all were so good. This year, only half a bale of hay was judged instead of a whole bale; this gave the exhibition a chance to see if there was any mould in the centre of the bale.

Mr. Richardson told a couple of interesting stories to illustrate the point that proper training is very valuable, waste nothing, and make proper use of everything.

A film from the Canada Department of Agriculture was shown, and much enjoyed. It was entitled Science for the Farmer, and showed the different kinds of wheat, the methods used to obtain cross-bred strains which would resist rust, new varieties of potatoes and the different types of soil, different diseases which attacked potatoes, sheep on our Western ranges, hogs, turkeys, hens, geese, cross-bred buffalo and cattle. Spraying machines for apples were also shown, and the culture of insects to destroy insects. It was stated that Canada has the best to offer from celery to tobacco.

Mr. Macmillan, the agronomer, was then called upon to distribute the prizes. He requested that all members plan to attend and participate in the agriculture meetings which will be sponsored by the government in the near future.

The list of some of the special prizes is as follows: best display in hay, 1st, Wesley Bowker, 2nd, Walter Hodgman; best exhibit of potatoes, 1st Mrs. Franklin Kerr, 2nd Donald Fraser; best exhibit of silage, Fred Burns; highest aggregate in regular classes, 1st Wesley Bowker, 2nd Donald Fraser; judging competition, seniors, David Fraser; juniors, James Fraser.

It can happen to you!

ASTRO-GUIDE By Ceann

Saturday, March 4

The Day Under Your Sign

ARIES (Born March 21 to April 19): Put in your bid for something you really want but don't be unrealistic if you find it is unobtainable.

TAURUS (April 20 to May 20): If you listen carefully the first time, repetition of instructions won't be necessary. Taurus's heart is fast.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21): Study of philosophy can be mentally stimulating and provide new inspiration in your daily living.

CANCER (June 22 to July 22): If you are alert, you could "time to go" a conversation that could mean cash in the bank ultimately.

LEO (July 23 to Aug. 22): Be more realistic. You tend to see yourself as you imagine others see you, and you may be wrong.

VIRGO (Aug. 23 to Sept. 22): Don't be surprised or disappointed if the boss doesn't show enthusiasm for your idea. Try again later.

Sunday, March 5

The Day Under Your Sign

ARIES (Born March 21 to April 19): Tackle creative projects even though it is only a simple effort of some sort. It could lead to other things.

TAURUS (April 20 to May 20): The surprise is something coming into the lives of many Taurus's that will be very exciting, so be alert.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21): Don't fret if you must adopt a simpler mode of living until your financial situation straightens out.

CANCER (June 22 to July 22): Problem keeps you keyed up. Dig deep for all the facts before making a decision or move of any kind.

LEO (July 23 to Aug. 22): Friends and family are asked to be patient with you during this period.

VIRGO (Aug. 23 to Sept. 22): Be alert if you are open to job offers this week. Outlook is optimistic for change in many Virgo charts.

Monday, March 6

The Day Under Your Sign

ARIES (Born March 21 to April 19): Accident is on love! A romantic prospect you hadn't expected to hear from again may suddenly call or write.

TAURUS (April 20 to May 20): There's no time like the present to finalize deal you've been "kicking around" in your mind for some time.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21): You have the green light to go ahead with project that you've had on the fire for a while. (Similar to Taurus.)

CANCER (June 22 to July 22): Others seek your advice but you don't feel qualified - or inclined - to give it. Be more flexible.

LEO (July 23 to Aug. 22): As long as you've taken care of your responsibilities, you can relax and enjoy life with a clear conscience.

VIRGO (Aug. 23 to Sept. 22): If schedule allows it, staying at home and dismissing all disturbing thoughts may be the thing to do today.

The people of this area were deeply shocked to learn that Mr. Lucien Dumas of this place had lost his left hand in an accident on Saturday last. It appears that Mr. Dumas was operating his tractor-driven snowblower to clean his driveway. Upon reaching the main road it was necessary to change the direction of the chute. Omitting to shut off the power, his mittened hand slipped and in an instant his hand was mutilated so badly by the blades of the fan, that later on, his hand was removed at the Hotel Dieu Hospital in Arthabasca.

At this moment a well-planned community effort is under way to assist Mr. Dumas in his great loss. We sincerely hope for the success of this project.

Two well-known residents of this section are in the Jeffery Hale's Hospital as surgical patients in the persons of Mr. Albert Carroll, and Mr. Stanley White - Rooms nos. 221 and 222.

We are pleased to report that Mr. Westen Dacres has improved very much in health following treatment in the Sacre-Coeur Hospital in Plessisville.

Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Nugent, Lennoxville, Mr. and Mrs. Vic Lowry, and children of Kinnear's Mills were Sunday guests of Mrs. Dora Henderson and Delbert.

Spray painting requires technique

Reminiscing with the Colonel

Baking Bread

"It's no wonder I went into the restaurant business. I was six when my Daddy died and Mom had to work to keep us, so I was left to cook and be housemaid at home with my little brother of three and my baby sister. I recall, one day when I was about seven, Mom was off working at the cannery in Henryville, and I decided to bake light bread. I set my yeast, made my sponge and I baked the prettiest loaf of light bread you ever laid eyes on. I wanted to show it to Mom, but she wouldn't be back from Henryville for two or three days. So we set off, my brother and me taking turns to carry the baby, and we walked through the woods and fields to Henryville, to show my Mom that loaf of light bread."

The Colonel still takes great pride in his cooking. That's why all over Canada, the Colonel's boys are cooking Kentucky Fried Chicken just the way he taught them, using his special recipe. You can be sure that wherever you buy Kentucky Fried Chicken it'll taste "finger licking good". After all who knows more about Kentucky Fried Chicken than Colonel Sanders and his boys.

Aerosol spray cans have come a long way since the old bug bomb, the spray can containing an insecticide.

Everything from paint to cosmetics is in spray cans now. You can varnish, wax or lubricate with the push of a button.

In painting, spray technique is available to everyone without the need to invest in expensive equipment. However, this is strictly for small jobs. Paint purchased in this manner is far more expensive than buying it in cans and brushing it on. If you must do a lot of spraying, buy paint the regular way and rent a sprayer.

For small jobs, however, the extra expense may be worth it to you if time is important. There are products that should be sprayed on for best results. Fast-drying lacquer is one such product. It is difficult to brush on without marks and bubbles.

Don't use a spray can of paint the way you would an insecticide. The sprayed material cannot be allowed to drift all over the air.

Most spray cans work the same way. Remove the cap and there is a button that you press down with your finger to release the spray. The material comes out of a tiny hole in that button. Remember where the hole is and keep it lined up with your work.

The can must be shaken thoroughly before using. That little metal ball you hear clanking away inside is to help you mix the paint as you shake it.

Check any other instructions the manufacturer has provided, such as temperature at which to use the product and the temperature at which it can be safely stored.

Before you paint, try the spray can. See what shape pattern you get by working it out on a piece of cardboard. Check the heaviness of the coating at various distances.

When you paint, work from left to right. Move the can across the surface in an arc. Don't twist the can. Move the can past the right edge before releasing the button.

Overlap the first stroke with the second by about a third. Hold the can at right angles. Tilting it will result in thicker paint at some points and running.

Use plenty of old newspapers and masking tape to protect surfaces surrounding the one you are painting.

Work in an area that is well-ventilated but not drafty. Most painting products are inflammable. Turning them into a fine mist makes them even more dangerous.

When you have finished spraying, turn the can over and press the button a few times. This will clear it of material and keep it from clogging. Then cap the can and store it away out of reach of children.

Lighting makes a difference

Stark white kitchens are long gone and no one mourns this fact, especially the housewives who had to work in them. Today's kitchens are warm and welcoming. This has been accomplished by using colored appliances, rich wood cabinets and decorative wall treatments.

Lighting, naturally, has kept pace with these changes, and that dreary white fixture in the centre of the ceiling is now an antique. The ultimate in modern kitchen lighting is a fully fluorescent lighted ceiling that banishes all shadows which makes the entire kitchen an enjoyable place to do work. A fluorescent ceiling consists of deluxe warm white fluorescent lamps mounted on the ceiling and are concealed from view with a plastic diffuser panel. The panels can be marked off with wood grids or false beams for an added decorative touch. These special home fluorescents are designed to give a warm, flattering light.

Supplementary fluorescent lighting should be used to light special work areas such as the counter-top region. Deluxe warm white fluorescents placed on the underside of the cabinets will spill light down over the counter where you need plenty of light in order to work comfortably.

Pull-down fixtures, pendant fixtures or any other type of decorative lamp that is used in the dining portion of the kitchen should use Shadow Ban bulbs which emit glare-free light.

In planning your kitchen lighting, you must first decide on where your work and activities are. Deciding on the areas that involve visual work and those areas which require just decorative lighting, is a major step in achieving good lighting.

Kitchen lighting should be functional as well as decorative, say lighting experts. This kitchen employs the latest in lighting — a fluorescent ceiling composed of deluxe warm white fluorescents covered by a plastic diffuser panel. Counter tops have been well-lit by a row of fluorescent lamps concealed under the kitchen cabinets. The furred-in area around the sink is lit by a spotlight, so the housewife will not be working in her own shadow.

City hospital gets new care unit

By LEWIS HARRIS
SHERBROOKE — The first patient will be admitted to the Sherbrooke Hospital's new medical intensive care unit tomorrow, but the hospital held an open house yesterday to display the new unit.

"This satisfies a dream we've had for five or six years," Dr. John Taylor, a specialist in internal medicine at the hospital, said yesterday.

The new unit comprises 10 beds, four of which will be used exclusively for acutely ill cardiac patients.

Each patient will benefit from sophisticated equipment and facilities such as piped oxygen, compressed air and suction. The term "piped" means that supplies of oxygen, compressed and suction air are available to a doctor in each room by simply connecting an outlet on the wall.

"Over the past 10 years, there's been a definite change in the approach to cardiac patients," Dr. Taylor said.

"Intensive observation in the first few critical hours and days has led to a decrease in the mortality rate of coronary patients."

Each of the intensive care beds used for coronary cases has a monitor which keeps constant watch over many factors and a central electronic monitoring system worth $35,000, keeps constant tabs on all patients.

USED IN COMA CASES
The other six beds in the 10-bed unit will be used for medical cases inducing deep coma, such as drug overdose. Earl Gould, executive director of the hospital, said yesterday.

"It's a real thrill," Dr. Taylor added, "and I think a word of appreciation is due the hospital board of governors.

"They spared no expense. They told us to go out and buy the best equipment we could and that they would foot the bill. The same equipment is in the process of being installed in the Royal Victoria Hospital in Montreal."

The electronic monitoring system continuously checks on pulse rate, arterial and venal blood pressure, and change in heart beat rhythm, for all coronary patients.

One of the monitor's most intriguing aspects, explained Dr. Taylor is "an electrocardiogram with a built-in memory device which displays data for 12 seconds prior to an abrupt change."

'LIKE INSTANT REPLAY'
"It's like an instant replay of a doctor in each room by the doctor explained. 'If someone's heart stops beating, the 12-second period before the arrest immediately shows up on the screen.'

The new unit was built without government financial assistance and was paid for through publicly-supported financial campaigns and from bequests.

Bright table lamps, antique clocks and other accoutrements add to the home-like atmosphere in the new unit, Mr. Gould said. "We're trying to get away from a totally impersonal atmosphere."

The new unit will do much of the work previously done by the adjacent intensive care unit, which, said Dr. Taylor, "was not really suited to care for serious coronary cases."

"In the intensive care unit, you might have someone with a bone fracture lying beside a coronary

TRAINING — Sherbrooke hospital nurse Christine Cantin is one of several nurses being trained to use the sophisticated new machinery in the new Medical intensive care unit. A patient. But the new unit allows us to treat serious coronary patients on a more individual basis," he added.

Both Mr. Gould and Dr. Taylor paid special tribute to Dr. T. James Quintin, "one of the prime movers" of the new unit. Dr. Quintin retired two years ago but "was one of the first to appreciate the value of a medical intensive care unit and made many contributions to Sherbrooke Hospital and the community," said Mr. Gould.

BOUNDARY (IH)—Members of the Border Curling Club were weekend hosts for the ninth annual Canusa Bonspiel. There were four trophies in the competition played for by 16 teams.

The Canusa Trophy was won by a rink from the Town of Mount Royal skipped by Dave Kirkbridge and his team of Creighton Heavey, Shirley Heavey and Muereta Kirkbridge. A Lennoxville team won the Beebe Trophy. Bill Fuller skipped, and his team were

Peter Cross, Margaret Fuller and Carol Cross. The Newport Trophy went to Skip Lyle Longworth's rink from Winchester, Mass. On his team were Dick Schmader, Stephanie Schmader and Kay Longworth. Harry Blaine's rink won the Frontier Trophy. His rink were Fred Roffrey, Georgette Roffrey and Donna Strickland. All four trophies were presented Sunday at the conclusion of the curling weekend. The Canusa Bonspiel is the largest of the season at the Border Club. Events started Thursday evening with curling and a get-acquainted party. Saturday evening there was more curling and a dinner, followed by a dance. Almost every member of the Border Club was involved with Ayer's Cliff and Newport, Vt., adding international significance to the weekend of events. Saturday evening there was more curling and a dinner, followed by a dance. Almost every member of the Border Club was involved with

Gaiters fight for playoffs

LENNOXVILLE (AR)—The regular Quebec University Athletic Association hockey schedule winds up this weekend with only the fourth and final playoff spot undecided.

Fighting for a berth in post-season play are Bishop's University Gaiters and University of Montreal Carabins. The top three positions are occupied by Loyola College Warriors, Sir George Williams University Georgians and the Green and Gold from the University of Sherbrooke.

Action tonight will be decisive for the fourth place contenders. At Bishop's, the Gaiters will try to make it two wins in a row against the powerful Sir George team. Meanwhile, the Carabins host Three Rivers Patriots in a game which holds the key to the Gaiters' hopes. Montreal currently holds a three-point edge over Bishop's, although the latter have a game in hand. Should Three Rivers manage a tie or a win, the Gaiters could squeeze into the playoff picture by winning their two remaining games. A victory for the Carabins would clinch fourth place.

Stamina takes title

SASKATOON (CP)—There was little doubt Vera Pezer's Saskatchewan rink was the best in the Canadian Women's curling championship. The other eight rinks agreed.

"They had the stamina," said skip Lee Tobin of Quebec who finished fourth Thursday in the 12th annual round robin competition with a 6-3 record. "There was no doubt about it, Saskatchewan is the best."

WON IN PLAYOFF

Saskatchewan, which won the title last year after a playoff with Alberta and B.C., concluded the 1972 championship with eight wins and one defeat. Its only loss was to Quebec in the first round. The championship attracted about 16,000 fans and was a national women's attendance record, said Sylvia Fedoruk, president of the Canadian Ladies Curling Association.

Pipers see action on all fronts

LENNOXVILLE (BP)—Alexander Galt Regional High School teams enjoyed mixed fortunes Tuesday winning one contest and dropping another.

In an exhibition game against Lessard Bus Lines, AGRHS junior girls basketballers lost by a close 29-23 margin.

Barb Coates netted eight points for the losers, while Karen Cook, Sue Berwick, and Chris Abram scored four points each. Connie Bailey and Kathy Bliss hooped two and one points respectively. High scorers for LBL were Sue Leech with 12 points and Carol Gregson with eight.

Regional High School lost one basketball and three hockey games against AGRHS teams.

In the absence of president Ben Heath, vice-president Harold Carter chaired the meeting. The date of April 25 was announced for the banquet and annual meeting. A committee was set up to decide on a place for the affair, and the secretary and other directors were assigned to contact speakers who were suggested from the floor. Earl Sykes agreed to get the names of the trophy winners of the 1971 season and give them to Paul Bedard who will order them.
