ULTIMATUM TO HUNGARY FROM LITTLE ENTENTE

Surrender of ex-King and Demobilization Demanded

TWO DAYS' GRACE

Unless Satisfactory Reply, Troops Will Enter Hungary

LONDON, Oct. 27. — (Associated Press).—The Little Entente, composed of Rumania, Czecho-Slovakia and Jugo-Slavia, has despatched a note to Hungary demanding the surrender of former King Charles, the demobilization of the Hungarian army and reparations sufficient to defray the expenses of the Little Entente's mobilization, according to a Vienna despatch to the Central News Agency today. Unless Hungary replies satisfactorily within two days, the Little Entente troops will enter Hungary, the despatch said.

MOBILIZATION BEGUN.

PARIS, Oct. 27—(Associated Press)—Mobilization preparations are proceeding everywhere in Czecho-Slovakia, both in the Czech and Slovak districts, Premier Benes told the Chamber of Deputies in connection with the Little Entente's ultimatum to Hungary, according to a despatch from Prague today to the Havas Agency. The despatch quoted the Czecho-Slovakian Premier as saying that the Government would not refrain from the most energetic measures in carrying out the ultimatum, although all action would be kept within the terms of the Peace Treaties and within the agreement between the Little Entente and the Allied Powers.

WHERE WILL CHARLES GO?

LONDON, Oct. 27—(By John Steele, Tribune).—The British declare they will not have the former Emperor Charles in England, but they may provide some little island in the West-Indies or the South Pacific where he will be out of harm's way.

It is declared that Great Britain has been approached recently by Hungarians to see if Britain can suggest a king for the vacant throne.

It is suggested that Hungary will have to fall back on a member of the Belgian royal house or go to Scandinavia.

BOSTON RUMOR OF RED CONSPIRACY

Destruction of Buildings and Murder of Officials Feared

BOSTON, Oct. 27.—(United Press)—With additional guards on duty at the State House and bodyguards being offered some prominent men, rumors of a three-day Red plot to blow up buildings and assassinate officials flew thick and fast here today.

The report is that the Reds plan a three-day reign of terror in protest against conviction of Sacco and Vanzetti, Italian anarchists, accused of murdering a paymaster in a hold-up. The outrages are to start here, according to this unverified rumor, and spread over the country.

Charles A. Bancroft, head of the Department of Justice here, said: "The department knows of no international Red plot to bomb public buildings."

Colonel Alfred Foote, commissioner of public safety, admitted that his life had been threatened. He said threats were received soon after he began hunting for persons who stole seventeen sticks of dynamite from a contractor's magazine in Roxbury.

Judge Webster Thayer, who presided at the Sacco-Vanzetti trial, declined the offer of a personal bodyguard. The police, however, placed a guard about his home in Worcester. It was reported a number of other prominent men had been offered bodyguards but had declined them.

Governor Channing Cox denied he had been threatened with death, as reported. His bodyguard was not increased.

"GREAT CRIME WAVE" SWEEPING DOMINION

OTTAWA Oct. 27.—(By Canadian Press).—That the increased population in Portsmouth penitentiary was not due to the suspension of the Ticket of Leave Act but was due to a "great crime wave," which had not been checked, was stated here this morning by Judge W. P. Archibald, Dominion Parole Officer. The Ticket of Leave Act, he emphasized, was functioning as usual and an increased number of convicts were being released under its provisions every year. Judge Archibald made the statement in reply to a Kingston news despatch stating the high prison population was due to the suspension of the Ticket of Leave Act, and that 840 prisoners were now held there.

"The prison population trouble," Judge Archibald declared, "is not in the parole system, but it emanates from other sources. A great crime wave has swept over our Dominion, especially in Ontario, Quebec and the Maritime Provinces. This wave has not been checked.

The number of serious crimes committed every day of the calendar year is appalling, and it would not surprise anyone who understands the true situation to see the population of Kingston Penitentiary over 1,000 prisoners in the course of a year or so, unless, as we hope, the wave now at its height begins to recede. Repressive and punitive measures alone have never in past history reduced the volume of crime. The civilized world today would welcome the dawn of a better day, when more effective and regenerative treatment of the criminal can be demonstrated.

Russia To Acknowledge Imperial Regime Debts

COPENHAGEN, Oct. 27. —(Associated Press.) — A despatch from Reval to the Social Demokraten today quoted Maxim Litvinoff, chief of the Russian Soviet Legations abroad, as saying in an interview: "We have informed England and France that the Soviet Government is ready to acknowledge Imperial Russia's debt to foreign capitalists, but it would be absolutely necessary to confer regarding the ways and means of redeeming that debt."

FARMER-LIBERAL RELATIONS THEME OF OTTAWA GOSSIP

Debating Whether Progressives and Liberals are Separate Entities

ELECTION FACTOR

Opposition Dislikes and Denies Theory of Affiliation

OTTAWA, Oct. 27. — (From Our Own Correspondent.) — Whether the Progressive party is a really independent entity and, if so, to what extent, appears to be the principal theme of political controversy just now, particularly in Ontario.

Speaking on the budget last spring the Premier referred to the third group led by Hon. T. A. Crerar as a "dilapidated annex" of the Liberals aiming at fusion after, if not before the election.

Positive denials have come both from Mr. King and Mr. Crerar, the former of whom unquestionably would like to bring the Agrarians under his wing while their leader and other heads insist that they are determined to [illegible] promise to be a considerable figure in the voting in the East. The ministerial speakers and its publicity organization is dwelling with an increasing emphasis upon the allegation of frame-up, real or apprehended, and are citing certain evidence in support of this claim, one part of it being Mr. Crerar's original Liberalism while several of his lieutenants were of the same stripe.

ILLUMINATING DEVELOPMENTS.

The overnight despatches mention incidentally that Dr. Michael Clark, late chief of staff of the Agrarian party, may seek a Liberal nomination in Mackenzie and this is cited as evidence that the line between the two, as Hon. Mr. Taft would say, is "weak and almost imperceptible." This argument however loses some of its force from the fact that, if Dr. Clark ran in the constituency mentioned, he will be opposing John F. Reid, who, by all odds, is his successor in the Agrarian lieutenancy. Such a development would not be wholly consistent with alliance theory.

Both wings of the opposition are palpably perturbed owing to the noise being kicked up over the subject. The farmers point to the fact that Mackenzie King is being opposed in North York by the U.F.O., president while in Marquette Mr. Crerar has a straight Liberal as well as a Government opponent.

The three-cornered fight in York, whatever its outcome is not likely to see Mr. King in first place.

On the other hand Liberals, professedly at least, are grumbling over Crerar making his Ontario tour in places where the Liberal outlook is best and also claim that, in selecting their candidates, the farmers, in most cases, are putting up men of Liberal antecedents.

If the Government organization can convince the Ontario farmers who were Conservatives, that an alliance between King and Crerar or any tacit understanding is arranged for, they will go far to hold their present strength in the province which, obviously is a vital necessity if they are to win out.

HIGH SCHOOL BURNED.

BROCKVILLE, Ont., Oct. 27.—The high school at Athens, Leeds County, was totally destroyed by fire early this morning. The blaze was discovered in the cellar by a passer-by and the volunteer fire company of the village responded to an alarm but found their efforts were futile as all the water tanks were dry. They were consequently forced to stand by and see the building burn until only the stone walls were left standing. The cause of the fire is a mystery. Insurance of $30,000 was carried but this will not cover the loss.

Karl and Zita on British Warship

PARIS, Oct. 27.—(Associated Press.) — The Allied Council of Ambassadors today decided that former Emperor Charles of Austria-Hungary and ex-Empress Zita should be placed immediately upon a British monitor on the Danube, pending another meeting of the Council next Saturday, when a final decision regarding their disposition is to be made.

BIG FIVE LEADERS IN CONFERENCE ON STRIKE SITUATION

Not Settled Yet, Says Ben Hooper on Leaving Conference

FINAL EFFORT TODAY

Labor Chiefs are Pessimistic But Optimistic Rumors Prevail

CHICAGO, Oct. 27.—Ben. W. Hooper of the Railroad Labor Board left the conference of the big five union executives shortly after noon and said that the strike had not been settled yet, that settlement "could hardly be expected while he was at the meeting."

The final effort to bring peace in the railroad labor war was made here today, when Ben. Hooper, vice-chairman of the Railroad Labor Board, went into secret session with union chiefs.

Hooper attended the meeting of the union heads and general chairmen at the Masonic Temple.

While rumors persisted that labor chiefs met in an effort to find a way out of the October 30 strike their statements were pessimistic.

"Things look even worse than last night," L. E. Shepperd, head of the Conductors' Union, said. "I do not see how a strike can be averted.

"It seems that every step possible to obtain justice for the workers has been taken without success."

MADE NO PROMISES.

"Did you settle the strike?" Hooper was asked.

"Well you could hardly expect them to do that with me in there," he replied. "I was not sent by the Board but went on my own volition. I still believe that the only basis of settlement is the resolution recently adopted by the Board."

Mr. Hooper referred to the Board's request that the men refrain from striking and give the Board a chance to act on questions of further wage reductions or rules changes that the railroads may bring before it.

Mr. Hooper stated after the meeting that he wanted it understood that he had made no promises for the Board or for himself.

The union meeting broke up soon after Mr. Hooper left with an announcement that the five organizations would hold separate meetings about 1 p.m., and a joint meeting at 3 p.m.

BLOODHOUNDS FOR PRIEST'S MURDERER

Bishop Believes Crime the Work of Mentally Unbalanced Assassin

LURED TO DEATH

On Way to Administer Last Sacrament to Dying Man

LEAD, S.D., Oct. 27.—Bloodhounds sent here from Mitchell, S.D., are expected here today in an effort to trace the man whose call on Rev. A. B. Belknap here early yesterday was followed by the shooting of the priest on a highway just outside the city.

City and county peace officers worked throughout yesterday and last night in an effort to find something tangible in the many rumors which came to their attention.

Bishop J. J. Lawler, at whose residence Father Belknap made his home, expressed the belief that the crime was the work of a mentally unbalanced person. Rewards totalling $1,500 have been offered for the arrest of the slayer.

The circumstances of the tragedy bear a striking resemblance to the recent murder in California of Rev. Patrick F. Heslin. Like the California case, Father Belknap was called from his home before daylight ostensibly to administer the sacrament to a dying man. His automobile had been tampered with, apparently, and he was forced to accompany his strange visitor on foot.

Several shots were heard by residents and later the body was found in the highway.

GARNEAU MURDER TRIAL HAS BEGUN

Counsel for Defence Challenge Many on Jury Panel

QUEBEC, Oct. 27—The trial of Binet and Palmer, accused of the murder of Blanche Garneau in Victoria Park here on July 21, 1920 opened this morning in the Criminal Assizes before Mr. Justice Gibson.

The selection of a jury took up a considerable time, the counsel for the defence issuing an almost unbroken series of challenges. Thirty minutes had elapsed and only two were accepted, and even these had been challenged.

Roy Palmer, alias Cole stood in the dock at the right of Raoul Binet, alias Legault. The latter appeared unmoved by the proceedings. Palmer looked on with an air of detached interest and chewed gum steadily.

Neither prisoner spoke to the other but each chatted in whispers to his respective guard. Both men were clean and fresh looking. Palmer wore a spotless soft white collar and Binet a brightly striped silk one. Neither bore any appearance of having suffered from his long incarceration.

Binet and Palmer were represented by Laefare Roy, M. A. Lemieux and Armand Lavergne, and the Crown by Lucien Cannon, Aime Marchand and Arthur Fitzpatrick.

CONFIDENCE VOTE WON, BUT BRIAND'S POSITION SHAKEN

SENSATIONAL SESSION

Tiger Will Spend Winter in Paris Writing for Tardieu's Newspaper

PARIS, Oct. 27.—(United Press).—The French Senate gave Premier Briand a majority of 292 on a vote of confidence here this afternoon. The count was 301 to 9.

The Premier today addressed the Senate on the subject of his Washington trip, and asked approval of his attendance at the limitation of armaments conference.

Briand outlined the reasons why France must be represented. She must show her gratitude to the United States, he declared, and make clear her real faith in the friendship of the two countries. Also, France must make clear her sorrowful necessity for maintaining a large army.

BRIAND'S POSITION.

PARIS, Oct. 27—(By Wythe Williams, Special to the Montreal Star and Philadelphia Public Ledger, Copyright)—Premier Briand won last night by a comfortable and by almost his usual imposing majority.

Such a day as yesterday has not been seen in the Chamber of Deputies since the war. On the very eve of his departure for Washington the Briand Government sustained such a formidable onslaught that the result of last night's vote gives no proper indication of its real strength or lasting effects. Yesterday afternoon the betting was even in corridors of the chamber that the Briand ministry would be overthrown, and that in all likelihood Andre Tardieu would be called to power. At the very moment the voting began, the odds were great that even if M. Briand won, his majority would be reduced to such an extent that he would be compelled to qualify the sentiment expressed earlier in the week to the effect that he would not go to Washington unless he received the "complete confidence of Parliament."

The vote was such that it quite saves his face, but last night's feeling concentrated into a single paragraph which reads: "His trip was all planned and we would not cancel it at the eleventh hour, as much as we might have liked to do so."

MASTERLY DEFENCE UNSUCCESSFUL.

M. Briand's defense against M. Tardieu's brilliant onslaught of last night began amidst a tumult such as had not been heard in years. It was delivered in his usual masterly style, but for once, according to the spoken opinion of scores of deputies, it failed—despite the vote of confidence—to produce the real confidence that will sustain the ministry through trying moments when the question of the Pacific and disarmament proposals are well under way.

In other words, the French premier goes to Washington with his position under-mined. In fact it might well be termed shaky, for the real truth is that not even the most ardent Clemencist—which is exactly the same as a Tardieust, believed at any stage of yesterday's proceedings that the premier really could be beaten. They merely desired that which seems to have been achieved, namely, to put a mark upon him that will cause Americans to reflect upon what they themselves did to Mr. Wilson after he "voiced the will of the American people" in framing the covenant of the League of Nations and drawing the Treaty of Versailles. What M. Briand may decide upon at Washington may or may not prove to be the will of France. M. Briand, indeed, got the biggest scare of his political existence when Andre Tardieu got after him on both his external and internal policy. No speech has been made from the tribune of the chamber since the days of Clemenceau that is likely to have such an ultimate effect upon French politics.

CLEMENCEAU PULLS STRINGS

For almost the first time in his career, Tardieu was completely master of himself and therefore master of the situation. Usually halting and unimpressive, last night he dazed the chamber by his vigor and eloquence. The power behind him was of course Clemenceau. Up in his winter quarters a little bachelor apartment in the Rue Franklin that costs less than $200 per year sat the octogenarian who chuckled as report after report arrived from the Palais Bourbon.

"I am able to state that the entire Tardieu onslaught was prepared in collaboration with the Tiger in the last couple of weeks. Tardieu, with the Tiger in La Vendee, had just returned to Paris when the Tiger's funeral was all prepared so far as the deputies were concerned in the news that he was gravely ill. On the heels of this rumor the Tiger bounded into Paris and since Sunday has been holding forth at Rue Franklin with no illness and active as in the good old days.

From eight o'clock until eleven last night the Tiger counted forty callers who urged upon him the necessity of letting well enough alone—that is they pleaded that Briand be not further harrassed in his preparations for the sea voyage. The Tiger in his gayest mood heard them all, and promised nothing. His only news, good or otherwise, was that he intended to pass the entire winter in Paris as contributor to Tardieu's newspaper which starts next month.

CANADIAN BONDS AMONG LOOT OF MAIL ROBBERS

DRIVER QUESTIONED

Identifies Photo as Resembling One of Hold-Up Men

NEW YORK, Oct. 27.—Postmaster-General Hays arrived here today to take personal charge of the investigation of last Monday's registered mail robbery by automobile bandits, who held up a mail truck and escaped with five pouches filled with bonds, securities and currency.

News that the Postmaster-General was coming to take a hand in the case led to reports that the losses were even higher than the $1,000,000 figure intimated by post office authorities. The post office officials still withheld definite figures but statements issued by banks and brokerage houses showed a total known loss of $828,925.

This was exclusive of a large shipment of currency reported to have been included in one of the pouches and which was said to have been the main object of the robbers.

CANADIAN SECURITIES.

A number of Canadian securities are listed among those missing as a result of the robbery. A partial list published today includes the following securities: $1,000 Canadian National Railway, Grand Trunk Railway of Canada, six per cent. bond due 1936, No. 9150, $1,000 Government of Newfoundland 6½ per cent. bond, due June 30, 1936, No. D1167; $10,000 Province of British Columbia 6 per cent. bonds, due 1926, numbers 727-46 at $500 each; $1,000 Province of Ontario sixes, certificate No. 5166; $10,000 Canadian National Railway 25-year 6½ per cent. certificates, numbers 00403 to 004012 inclusive and $5,0000 Grand Trunk Railway of Canada, 15-year 6 per cent. certificates, numbers TM6572 and 3372 to 3375, inclusive.

Most of the securities, it was pointed out were listed in the owners' names and the thieves could scarcely hope to realize on them.

It was feared these securities might be destroyed.

GIVES MORE DETAILS.

Frank Havranck, driver of the looted truck, was called from his home for another questioning by post office inspectors today. Havranck has been under almost continuous examination since the robbery occurred, and yesterday added important details to his story of the hold-up. Among these was the detail of a black automobile which he said pulled ahead of the mail truck and slowed down, apparently for the purpose of aiding the bandits who came up in a green automobile.

The inspectors also let it be known that Havranck had given them a white muslin laundry bag which he said had been pulled over his head and tied before the bandits rifled his truck. The owner's name had been torn from the bag, but one letter at the end of the name—an "E" remained, and the bag is regarded as a valuable clue. Havranck also looked over rogues' gallery pictures at police headquarters and selected the photograph of one gunman, who, he said, closely resembled one of the hold-up men.

NOT OVER MILLION AND HALF.

NEW YORK, Oct. 27—(United Press). — Postmaster-General Hays here today took active charge of the investigation into the robbery of a mail-truck on Lower Broadway.

After checking up the list of securities contained in five pouches stolen by the three bandits who committed the robbery, Hays declared the loss would not run over $1,500,000.

Previous estimates placed it as high as $10,000,000.

ENGLAND BETTER

A gradual but decided improvement in the industrial and financial situation of Great Britain is taking place in the opinion of H. G. Mappin, manager of the Montreal store of Mappin and Webb, who returned from a business trip to England on the Empress of Britain yesterday, and is staying at the Ritz-Carlton Hotel.

Mr. Mappin found no difficulty in buying goods at reduced prices in Sheffield, the great English manufacturing centre, and said that low prices could always be relied upon owing to the anxiety of most firms to sell. Unemployment was still a serious problem, but the number of the unemployed was being reduced at the rate of 20,000 a week, and a distinctly hopeful sign was the opening up of blast furnaces in Sheffield that had been closed for months.

In that part of London known as the "City", wherein lie the great financial and business houses, Mr. Mappin found a spirit of optimism prevailing, with a general belief that while it will take a long time for the Old Country to recover from the existing depression, there are nevertheless distinct indications of steady improvement.

Japan Is Ready To Reduce Navy

ABOARD STEAMSHIP KASHIMA MARU, Oct. 26. — (By Radio) — Japan stands ready to cut down her navy if the Powers reach an understanding at the forthcoming conference at Washington on limitation of armaments and Far Eastern questions, according to Vice-Admiral Tomosaburo Kato, member of the Japanese delegation to Washington which is traveling to the United States aboard this ship.

DEVELOPMENTS IN IRISH SITUATION

CHURCHILL DRAWS COMPARISONS ON CANADA, IRELAND

Interesting Demonstration in Canada Club in Honor of Devonshire

FLAG WILL FLY

Refers to Canadian Election —Touches on Empire Burdens

LONDON, Oct. 27 (Star Cable by Windermere, Copyright)—The crisis in Irish affairs gave the keynote to a remarkable demonstration in the Canada Club last night in honor of the Duke of Devonshire. Winston Churchill, as Secretary of State, in proposing the Duke's health, spoke of the encouragement British ministers derived in their present anxieties from the reflection of how the French and British in Canada had been brought into harmonious co-operation in Canadian nationality under the British Crown. He said:

"The case of Ireland is not entirely parallel but we must be guided by the anxious desire to foster the true feelings of the Irish heart and lay aside, once and for all, the causes of mediaeval hatred which are the greatest impediment to co-operation of the English-speaking peoples of the world."

The Duke of Devonshire took up the same parallel when he deplored the hesitation of the British ministers of 1867, when they rejected the desire of the fathers of confederation to give Canada the title of kingdom.

Sir Hamar Greenwood seized upon this remark to insist upon the Irishman's attachment to the Crown. He frankly described the responsible British minister of 1867, as "the stupid Lord Derby," and made it evident that by adding to the Dominion status this dignity of kingdom, we should get nearer the heart of the solution to the Irish problem.

Sir George Perley presided in the absence of the Duke of Connaught, whose doctor forbids evening engagements for fear of bronchitis, and closed the Irish references by the heartily cheered wish that Greenwood might achieve peace in Ireland for which all the Empire devoutly prayed.

"Lord Ullswater and Sir John Simon spoke enthusiastically of their recent tours to Canada.

NO NEED FOR WORRY.

Churchill evoked much laughter by his allusions to the coming Canadian elections. "I must," he said, "be very careful lest my words may be thought interference in matters with which we have no concern." ("Cries of 'don't worry'" and "go to it").

"I am not going to worry. (Laughter). That is one of the advantages of the British Empire. Here is a great constitutional political struggle. Important economic and political issues are at stake and no one of us is worrying. We know that whatever happens the old flag will fly. (Cheers) That is why we do not worry."

He added grave words in view of the Washington conference regarding the burdens of the Empire. "We cannot hold our own in the complexities of the modern world if we regard the British Isles by themselves. They are a great state, but without Canada, Australia, New Zealand, South Africa and India, we are not equal to other great powers and friendly states. It is only when fortified by the majesty of the union of peoples of the British Empire, that we are able to meet our kith and kin in the United States on those terms of equality which are the essential preliminaries of even greater understanding." (Cheers).

DENTIST TRIES TO IDENTIFY VICTIM

Doctors Not Satisfied With Identification as Mrs. Higgins

NEW YORK, Oct. 27.—(Associated Press) — Examination of dental work in the lower jaw of the body of a woman found last Saturday in Long Island City was begun today by Chief Medical Examiner Norris in an effort to verify a second identification of the body as that of Mrs. Dolly Bulley Higgins. Dr. Norris was assisted by a dentist who had worked on Mrs. Higgins' teeth.

The body was identified for the second time yesterday as Mrs. Higgins, by Mrs. Anna Bailey, mother of Mrs. Higgins. This identification was corroborated by two friends of the family who had known Mrs. Higgins well.

A sister of Mrs. Higgins identified the body as that of her sister two days ago, but her story was discounted partly by divergence between her description of her sister and the description worked out by physicians of how the murdered woman must have looked in life, and partly by the fact that Thomas Higgins, husband of the missing Dolly declared the body was not that of his wife. The medical authorities examination of the body convinced them the slain woman was not more than 23 years of age, while Higgins said his wife was 31.

A man, who Mrs. Bailey said had paid attentions to Mrs. Higgins, is being sought by the police for questioning concerning the case.

BULGARIAN UNREST

SOFIA, Oct. 27 (Associated Press) A state of siege has been declared in this city and in Governmental departments along the frontier between Jugo-Slavia and Macedonia. Premier Stambulisky declared yesterday that the assassination of Alexandre Tsankoff, Minister of War, could not be attributed to politics. He said the criminals were agents of Macedonian elements endeavoring, despite the Bulgarian Government's prohibition, to form revolutionary bands to be sent into Serbian Macedonia.

LLOYD GEORGE ANSWERS IRISH POLICY CRITICS BY SETTING DAY FOR DEBATE

Premier Meets Challenge of Disgruntled Unionist Wing—Sinn Fein Delegates Declare Have Full Power to Negotiate Settlement—Claim Delay Is Not Particularly Significant

LONDON, October 27.—(United Press.)—Lloyd George will put the Irish issue up to Parliament, and may seek a vote of confidence on the motion to censure the Government regarding its conduct of the Irish peace negotiations when the latter comes up Monday, he announced today.

"The Irish peace negotiations are continuing," the Prime Minister told the House of Commons this afternoon.

Premier States Government Must Have Full Support of Parliament—Hopes For a Vote

LONDON, October 27.—(Associated Press.)—Lloyd George today proposing to the House of Commons that it set aside next Monday for a discussion on the motion of Unionist members of "Parliament condemning the present negotiations with representatives of Sinn Fein Ireland, said he hoped there would be a vote on the question.

Mr. Lloyd George, in making the proposal, declared:

"No Government can conduct negotiations of that kind without knowing that it has the support of the House of Commons, from which it derives its authority."

Just before he made the proposal Mr. Lloyd George was asked whether the Irish conference was still proceeding, to which he replied in the affirmative.

Mr. Lloyd George introduced his proposal with this statement:

"As it is evident that there is a section of the members of the House who have serious misgivings regarding the conference which now is proceeding between representatives of His Majesty's Government and representatives of the Sinn Fein members from Ireland, I think it is essential that we should know where we stand as a Government before we go very much further."

This statement evoked great cheering.

SINN FEIN DELEGATES SAY DELAY NOT SIGNIFICANT; CLAIM ABSOLUTE POWERS IN HANDLING SITUATION

LONDON, Oct. 27. — (Associated Press.)—The Sinn Fein delegates to the conference which has been holding intermittent sessions on the Irish question for the past fortnight, marked time today in anticipation of a communication from the Government fixing a date for a renewed sitting of the conference committee, composed of Prime Minister Lloyd George and Austen Chamberlain, for the Government, and of Arthur Griffith and Michael Collins, representing the Sinn Fein delegates.

The summons for a renewed session of this committee was expected by the Sinn Fein delegates last night, but up to 1:30 o'clock this afternoon no such summons had arrived at their headquarters. The delay, however, is said to have caused no further anxiety in Anglo-Irish circles, which claimed to attach no especial significance to it.

The Sinn Fein delegates attribute the recent delays in the conference solely to the Government and say the delegates from Ireland are anxious to sit long and often until a decision can be reached. They deny recent current reports that they are awaiting any communication from Ireland and claim absolute power to handle the question themselves.

The joint conference committee, which has held a few sessions during the past few days has not confined itself to the situation created by Eamonn de Valera's message to Pope Benedict but has discussed all the points involved in Mr. Lloyd George's original offer.

A renewed sitting of the conference as a whole to receive the report of the committee is not anticipated before next Tuesday.

LESS HOPEFUL TODAY.

LONDON, Oct. 27. — (Associated Press).—Lloyd George probably will have to abandon his visit to Washington, or at least postpone it until the closing sessions of the conference there, because of the critical situation in the negotiations with Sinn Fein Ireland, it was asserted by several well informed newspapers here today.

The Premier had made no public statement to this effect, but his political and personal friends were quoted as communicating the report to inquirers as if publicity was desired.

Everywhere it was admitted today that the Irish negotiations had made little progress, and, although hope had not been relinquished, there was a tendency to regard the outlook as being less favorable than it was a day or two ago.

Political writers remarked that if the negotiations broke down, the Premier's trip to America would be obviously impossible, while, if a break in the conference was avoided, it was difficult to see how a settlement could be reached for a considerable time. The accumulation of other pressing business was also urged in some quarters as contributing to the improbability that the Prime Minister would be able to carry out his desire to go to the Washington conference.

MANY CONFLICTING RUMORS.

Various reports concerning the Irish negotiations were current here today, but they carried little weight, owing to the secrecy observed by both sides.

The Daily Graphic printed a rumor that the negotiations had been suspended, and that an important communication was expected from Dublin.

Elsewhere it was stated attempts to find a desired formula by which the conference could be continued had failed, and that the Irish delegates were holding out for concessions that would counterbalance any lessening of their demand for independence.

It was said the Dail Eireann representatives were insistently urging the cause of the Catholic populations of the Counties of Tyrone and Fermanagh for inclusion in Southern Ireland, it being added that the Irish delegates were maintaining a stiff attitude in this particular. Another report declared the question of Irish unity was the main stumbling block.

In the meantime the restiveness of the English Unionists was manifested increasing, and although many Unionist members of Parliament refused to subscribe to the present wave of censure of the Government their suspicions toward the negotiations were said to be growing.

Newspapers, which at first minimized the importance of this Unionist "revolt" were treating it more seriously today.

The London Times asserted it was "considerable enough to cause much embarrassment to the Government and cannot be ignored." The newspaper, nevertheless, expressed belief that the revolt would rapidly disappear if there were signs the Irish conference was proceeding smoothly on its main business. It added that if the Sinn Feiners "pay attention to the state of political opinion here, they will recognize the importance of imposing no unnecessary delay."

Austen Chamberlain, Unionist member of the Coalition Government, yesterday received a number of Unionist agents from all parts of the country. These reported the difficulty they were experiencing throughout their constituencies in reconciling Unionist opinions to many acts of the Lloyd George administration. They urged the formation of a new Coalition party in which the Unionists would predominate, but Mr. Chamberlain's reply was non-committal.

GUESSES ON NEGOTIATIONS.

LONDON, Oct. 27.—(Special Cable by Sydney Thatcher to Montreal Star and Philadelphia Ledger. Copyright.)—Information that has trickled through the reinforced wall of secrecy that has surrounded the Irish peace conference indicates that the negotiations are in the most critical stage they yet have reached, even including that great crisis when Premier Lloyd George cancelled the invitation to the conference.

Everything points to the fact that the British have attempted to trade some parts of Ulster in exchange for the Sinn Fein's position of no alliance. That would make possible the inclusion of Southern Ireland in some form of a dominion, but would stir resentment in Ulster that might ultimately make the plan unworkable.

One British official told your correspondent that Ulster would not stand for the transference of one square foot of territory as at present allotted her and that Ulster's first response to a definite proposition of that sort would be mobilization of Ulster Volunteers.

"But would Ulsterites follow their leaders on an enterprise like that when there really seems to be some chance of settlement?" I asked.

"It is not a question of the leaders attempting to control their followers, but of the leaders being forced to follow the dictation of the rank and file or lose their leadership," he answered.

Whatever may be the consequences it seems certain that Lloyd George will be brought before the conference one of its most dangerous questions and demanded that it be settled without the usual sparring.

BELFAST MAKES CHARGES.

BELFAST, Oct. 27. — (Associated Press) — Reports in Belfast indicate that the Irish Republican army is very active in county Donegal. A company of volunteers, it is said, early this week took up quarters in the Milford workhouse, and these were followed by large bodies of officers who called on Milford traders and obtained signatures to agreements not to replenish the stocks with Belfast goods or deal with Londonderry blacklisted houses.

A force numbering eight hundred men is said to have marched through the village of Milford and to have proceeded to assigned quarters. The party described as "the flying column" is staying at the workhouse. The headquarters of the Letterkenny Irish Republican camp are said to be at the sumptuously equipped shooting lodge. Another camp is said to have been established at Carrick.

The volunteers are understood to be called up in batches of one hundred men for ten days' compulsory training.

STILL DISCUSSING DE VALERA NOTE

British Writers Seeking Cause of Message Which Upset Conference

MANY SOLUTIONS

Pique and Fear of Accepting Status Two Commonly Ascribed

LONDON, Oct. 27. — (Special Star Cable by Windermere, Copyright.)—Why did de Valera send to the Pope the message which has so dramatically held up the Irish peace negotiations? The most acceptable explanation is two-fold.

First, de Valera feels somewhat piqued at his non-inclusion in the conference delegation. Secondly, he suspects that the King's message to the Pope was another of "England's continuous efforts to enlist the Vatican in her ancient cause of denying Ireland her right of independence." When Lloyd George put into the King's mouth the traditional words of royal pronouncements: "My country and my people of Ireland," de Valera saw a sinister attempt to perpetuate in the eyes of the world the idea that Ireland's internal difficulties are at the root of the Irish problem, which Sinn Feiners vehemently deny.

An English Labor member of Parliament of high rank, who is a Roman Catholic of Irish descent, tells me de Valera has, by his implied rebuke to the Pope, done an unpardonable thing, which cuts him off from all good Catholics and ostracises him from the Vatican. Similarly the Pope has, by the wording of his message to the King, acknowledged Irishmen to be the King's subjects, and by implication, therefore, Irish Republican ideas are at an end for Catholics.

What will come next, nobody seems ready to predict at the moment.

WINDERMERE.

ANOTHER DEFENCE.

DUBLIN, Oct. 27.—(United News.) A statement defending Eamonn de Valera's letter to the Pope has been issued by the publicity bureau of Dail Eireann.

The statement declares that in his letter the Irish president did not reply to "a personal statement made by the English monarch," but to a "statement drafted by the British Cabinet while the peace conference was proceeding."

The Dail declares that the British interrupted the conference with their declaration that the Irish, "a subject people," had accepted their status as such, and that this necessitated de Valera's message "lest the world be misled."

Assertions that the Irish have accepted any settlement, the statement declares, only create mischief, and strengthen British opinion "against a just settlement."

LEVIES ARE HALTED.

DUBLIN, Oct. 27—The Department of Defense of the Dail Eireann, in response to many complaints of levies and forced collections for the "Irish Republican Army fund," in a statement issued today says:

"All responsible army officers already have been instructed that all such levies are unauthorized and are to be stopped. No pressure of any kind is to be used to make unwilling persons subscribe to our funds."

QUESTION OF SOUTH IRELAND.

CORK, Oct. 27—The Right Rev. Charles Benjamin Dowse, Bishop of Cork, addressing the Protestant Synod today, alluded to the Irish Conference. He expressed satisfaction that the Southern Unionists would have their views placed before the conference as a result of the Premier having yielded to the views of the Provost of Trinity College and the Archbishop of Dublin in having three representatives of the Southern Unionists sent to London with whom he could be in constant touch.

NO SIGNED TRUCE.

LONDON, Oct. 27 (United News)—The document containing the terms of the British-Irish truce has never been signed by either party to the agreement.

Austen Chamberlain, speaking for the Government in the House, has admitted after persistant heckling by the Opposition that although the truce has been recognized as binding, neither the Irish leaders nor any member of the British Government set his signature to the terms. He declared that the the truce was considered as a valid as terms would be published, and throughout his speech intimated that though it were signed.

CANADA'S FUTURE

Meddlesome Legislation Will Hinder Progress

TORONTO, Oct. 27. — Re-adjustment of the present system of taxation, settlement of the vacant land in Western Canada and the more scientific and intensive development of natural resources with their manufacture within the boundaries of the Dominion—such in the opinion of Sir John Willison is the basis upon which Canadian Governmental action within the next few years must rest, if she is to meet the tremendous financial obligations growing out of the war and reap that measure of progress which is hers by right of opportunity. In an address before a gathering of the men of St. Paul's Anglican church last night, Sir John severely criticized legislation of the "meddlesome" sort and emphatically declared that only when Governments in this country came to realise that regulations interferring with legitimate business were detrimental to the community as a whole, would industrial and commercial conditions return to normal.

TO PROBE ILL TREATMENT CHARGES AGAINST SPANISH.

LONDON, Oct. 27.—(Associated Press).—Great Britain has asked Spain to allow a British representative to proceed to Morocco to make an independent and impartial inquiry into allegations of ill-treatment by Spanish officers of British subjects who have enlisted in the Spanish Foreign Legion.

In the British subjects who enlisted for service in the Spanish forces against the Moroccans were a number of Canadians, who had served in the war. One contingent of 800 recruits sailing from New York, September 14, included 33 Canadian ex-service men and was in charge of Captain Donald McGregor, himself a Canadian veteran.

McGregor, who is a native of India, and was formerly in the British army in that country, enlisted in the Canadian army in the war and won his commission from the ranks. He had also seen service in the South African war.

SIX THUG GANGS WORKING ONTARIO

Need of Special Organization to Track Down Murderers

TORONTO, Oct., 27—(Canadian Press.)—Police authorities believe that six different gangs of bandits are now operating in Ontario, the points of operation being Ottawa, Kingston, Toronto, London and the border places of Sarnia and Niagara.

Toronto police said "wild cross country chases after bandits cost money, and most of this burden has been on the larger places, principally London. A fund should be appointed and held for emergencies. Then, in the event of such robberies as those at Wyoming and Queenston, the murder of night constable Beard at Napanee and the escape of the Murells the chase would not be impeded by reluctance to assume what are, after all, trivial expenses.

"The police of all the cities could use their own equipment, or hire more, and get help from others, if the provincial Government would foot the bills.

"A scheme of co-ordination of police, with the public at large meeting bills is the best way of fighting bank robbers and murderers.

"At the present time there is no organized chase of the Murrells or continued, persistent work on the case of the murder of Constable Beard at Napanee. The murderers in the latter case worked out of Kingston, according to the best information available. They were all armed with rifles."

CATHOLIC WOMEN'S LEAGUE.

"Six hundred years after the death of Dante," said A. T. Chapman in an address on "Dante and his Times" delivered to the American Women's Club, yesterday afternoon, "the whole intellectual world resounds with his name. We have Dante commemorations. Dante numbers of literary magazines, Dante articles and lectures galore. Yet to how large a percentage of even intellectual people Dante is but a name. But like Shakespeare, he has passed into the very fibre of our speech."

The speaker gave a comprehensive sketch of Dante's career and of the background against which his genius developed. Florence, the city of beauty and destined to be the cradle of modern art, was famous for its industrial guilds but it was to her money changers and bankers that she owed her position in the markets of the world.

"Profits were enormous," the speaker declared, "and if would make some of our banks and trust companies' mouths water to hear that 25 per cent on loans on real estate was a moderate rate. Interest on renewal abroad ran from 66 to 125 per cent and it is reported that some of the most glorious churches in Florence owed their existence very largely to usurers whose conscience became very uneasy as their latter end approached."

Life was intense and full of speculation and action. Abstruse questions such as Dante debated in his Divine Comedy were discussed in the streets, feuds and struggles between opposing factions were everyday occurrences; and it was to this intensity of thought and action that the poet owed much of his wonderful imagination and knowledge of men's minds.

The speaker concluded with a brief analysis of the works of Dante which he placed in three distinct epochs—the epoch of the worship of the real Beatrice in which the poet wrote the Vita Nuova with its Lyrics; the epoch of political turmoil and philosophical research, and the period of the Divine Comedy, embracing the return to the now allegorical Beatrice.

Mrs. M. W. Sherwood presided over a large attendance. The soloist for the day was Mrs. R. J. Needham.

AIR FORCE BALL.

Plans are nearing completion for the ball which will be held under the auspices of the Aerial League at the Windsor Hotel on Thursday, October 10, the eve of Armistice Day. The entire net proceeds will be devoted to the funds for providing entertainment for the 500 or more ex-soldiers who are still inmates at St. Anne de Bellevue Hospital, and who are, for the most part, mental cases. To this end the money will be turned over to the ladies' entertainment committee, which has for several years provided entertainment for the soldiers at St. Anne's and other institutions. The committee has always made a feature of Christmas Day festivities and it is hoped with the help of the proceeds of the ball to provide entertainment this year on the scale of previous years.

Special arrangements have already been made for Armistice Day, a whist drive and entertainment having been arranged for the bed patients at the hospital, and a special entertainment in the recreation hall by Montreal artists for patients not confined to bed. Refreshments are also being provided.

WESTMOUNT SOLDIERS' WIVES.

Of this $1,067 went in assistance to soldiers' families, $1,020 in donations to St. Anne's Military Hospital, and $491 in Christmas gifts to widows' families and returned men in convalescent homes.

The present officers were re-elected for the coming year as follows: Mrs. A. H. Thomson, president; Mrs. F. F. Bruneau, vice-president; Mrs. E. W. Barlow, recording secretary; Mrs. F. L. Chaplin, honorary treasurer, and Mrs. D. T. Kerr, corresponding secretary. Tea was served, Mrs. P. W. McLagan presiding.

Among the attractions are a tombola and country store, home cookery, fancy work, linen, candy, miscellaneous, toy and samples booths, a fish pond, sports section and dancing. Afternoon and high tea will be served.

Pelletier; first vice-president, Mrs. John Almond; second vice-president, Mrs. Gunning; secretary, Mrs. E. Bouthillier. The district was divided into blocks for organization purposes, and 25 captains were appointed to mobilize the women's vote.

PERSHING RACING TO WELCOME FOCH

Steamers Bearing French and American Commanders Neck and Neck

NEW YORK, Oct. 27., (United Press).—Indications at 9:30 a.m. today were that the French Liner Paris bringing Marshal Foch to America and the Shipping Board liner George Washington bringing General Pershing home were running a neck and neck trans-Atlantic race, and that they would enter New York harbor almost together.

A wireless from Captain Maurasu of the Paris received at the French Line offices here at 9:30 a.m., said the steamer would reach Quarantine at 2 p.m. tomorrow.

The George Washington, according to latest advices, will reach Ambrose Light at noon tomorrow, which would bring it to Quarantine about the same time as the Paris.

The George Washington is trying to beat the Paris to port so Pershing can welcome Foch as he steps ashore. The American Legion has wirelessed workers of the George Washington to do their best to help win. Reports that the Paris had slowed down to let the George Washington win were denied at the French Line office today.

EXPLOSIONS AND FIRE MENACE GREATEST OF DEEP-SEA ELEVATORS

Two Injured in Blaze in No. 1 Harbor Commissioners' Structure—3,500,000 Bushels of Grain Endangered —Shipping Moved to Safety

Two explosions and a fire occurred in No. 1, the largest sea-port grain elevator in the world at the Port of Montreal at 10.57 o'clock this morning, causing damage so far unestimated and injuring two workers.

The elevator contains over 3,500,000 bushels of grain.

The flames are thought to have originated in a conveyor on the eighth floor.

The cause of the first explosion is said to have been a spark in No. 10 leg of the massive structure. The fire which followed did not spread to the grain but broke out in machinery, leather belting, dust and fixtures. The fire was not visible from the exterior but was said by firemen to be extensive in some parts of the elevator.

The explosions were so violent that they shook buildings in various parts of the harbor and blew pieces of the corrugated iron roofing from the building. None of the vessels in the port were damaged and no loss was caused to property with the exception of broken windows in the neighborhood.

Two harbor employes were burned on the face and hands. They were Douglas Herbert, 25 years of age, of 2389a Waverley street, the electrician in charge of the grain elevator, and Peter Martin, about 30 years of age, of 40 Gordon avenue, Verdun.

Both men were taken in an auto to the surgical outdoor department of the Montreal General Hospital and they were sent home after treatment.

MANY WORKING THERE.

In No. 1 elevator, 160 men were working when the explosions and fire occurred.

Calls were immediately sent to the Montreal Fire Department following the shocks and special chemical apparatus was sent from stations in the central division. Later additional apparatus was called out by the sounding of a first fire alarm from the port, and Chief Chevalier of the department came to the scene.

Special squads of police from stations in the neighborhood of the harbor, were rushed to take charge of the crowd which gathered to watch the fire fighting. Harbor police under Col. Williams assisted in forming a cordon around the elevator and at a safe distance from it.

Although no such disaster was anticipated, Harbor officials and others would not make the official statement that there was no danger of the entire elevator exploding.

The elevator in which the explosion and fire occurred is valued at over $2,000,000, and is second in size to only one other in the world. It is said to be the largest in any seaport.

220 FEET HIGH.

It is 220 feet high at its highest point, and is filled with over 3,500,000 bushels of grain. Practically two-thirds of the elevator is of cement, but it is roofed and walled with corrugated iron.

This later fact probably prevented an explosion which would have crippled, if not completely wrecked, the port of Montreal. The explosion, as it is, blew out large sections of the corrugated iron at its weakest points. With cement to confine it, the explosive elements would have blown the whole building to fragments and scattered them for many hundreds of yards.

Several vessels were at the wharves alongside the elevator. Amongst these were the C.P.S. liner Minnedosa and the freighter Glencadan. After the explosion the Glencadan was moved away although not in any way injured.

The grain business of the port will not be affected in any way, M. P. Fennell, secretary of the Harbor Commission, said. The elevator has not been seriously damaged and work will be continued as usual.

Water was used sparingly by firemen in the interior of the elevator. Two streams were hoisted up the 170 feet of wall to the eighth floor. Another stream was used on the ground floor.

1,500 FEET OF HOSE.

Twenty-two loaded railway cars which had been stationed in the passage under the elevator were pulled out when the firemen had soaked them with water. They were not in any way damaged by the fire or explosion.

Firemen worked at the elevator for over two hours after the outbreak. One of the hoses which it was necessary to use measured over 1,500 feet.

W. G. Ross, president of the Harbor Commission, who happened to be downtown, came to the scene of the occurrence and watched the work of salvage and prevention going on. M. P. Fennell, secretary of the Harbor Commission, accompanied him.

General Superintendent Martin Peterson, of the Harbor Commission, was at a loss to determine the cause of the explosion, while Superintendent John McLean could not attribute any reason. Col. Williams, chief of Harbor Commission police, said that every precaution was observed. Smoking was not allowed either outside or inside of the elevator.

Lt.-Col. Matthews, of the Hall Engineering Co., who was in the elevator at the time remarked that it sounded like one long terrific rumble.

PRECAUTIONS TAKEN.

By a fortunate chance unusual steps to prevent an explosion in the elevator had been taken by the authorities of the port within the last few months. Last spring, as a result of the disastrous explosion in an elevator in Chicago, the Harbor Commissioners called into consultation a well known Washington grain elevator expert who has experimented with explosion prevention work.

He staged a mock explosion in the port for the benefit of the Commissioners and employes in the various grain elevators along the water front here. Foremen in No. 1 elevator, the G.T.R. elevator and No. 2 elevator, also the property of the Harbor Commissioners, attended the lecture and demonstration. As a result of it extraordinary measures were taken to clean the interior of the huge structures and the staffs in them were considerably increased.

"BUSINESS AS USUAL" IN GRAIN TRADE.

W. G. Ross, Chairman of the Montreal Harbor Commissioners, made the following statement in reference to the explosion at No. 1 elevator this morning:

"The elevator itself is intact and hasn't been damaged in the slightest particular. The damage done was caused to the machinery and belting in the cupola and will be repaired in a few days.

"In the meantime ships will continue to be loaded and unloaded just as all summer long."

SCENE OF EXPLOSION IN GRAIN ELEVATOR

This photograph taken from the roof of No. 7 shed shows the galvanized iron superstructure that surmounts No. 1 elevator and which was badly damaged in an explosion of grain dust caused by a spark from an overheated motor this morning. Fire followed in one of the bins. So far as has been ascertained the main damage was done to the conveyor system, though it has not been possible to examine what quantity of grain has been damaged. The cement part of the huge structure was not damaged. Below is a group of the workmen in the elevator at the time of the explosion. None of them was injured.

CALL POLICE TO CONTROL MEN AND WOMEN WHO WOULD GO ON THE STAGE

Dozen Officers Required to Keep Order When Theatre Issued Call for Amateurs for Coming Production—Hundreds Would Go on Stage to Earn Their Living

Stage-hands and employees of the Orpheum Theatre were obliged to send in two calls to the police this morning to clear the stage of unemployed who stormed the theatre in response to a call for fifty girls and the same number of men to appear in the production of "The Three Musketeers."

At half-past nine, when an impatient crowd of men and girls rushed past the helpless gate-keeper, tore through the theatre to the stage at the rear and began to make merry with the stage carpentry arrangements, two police officers from No. 5 station were sent to handle the mob, and when A. C. Blair, stage manager of the Orpheum, attempted to speak to the men shortly before eleven o'clock the police patrol was brought out to quell the riot. The applicants who were to apply personally at ten o'clock had begun to arrive an hour earlier and at half past nine they had stormed the front entrance, were oozing in a thin stream through the narrow entrance at the side, and the more athletic were climbing through the windows. The police quickly got the men outside the stage door on City Councillors street, here they remained for the rest of the morning, 250 strong.

As the morning advanced the news circulated that the theatre officials had secured all the people needed and a number of girls, disappointed in their quest, made their way home. The men, however, were not to be discouraged by rumors and stuck there until the stage manager, upon whom fell the difficult task of choosing suitable applicants, arrived shortly before eleven.

For the majority this was the first opportunity to go on the stage, and it was regarded as very much of a lark, particularly by boys of from sixteen to twenty, who formed a large proportion of the crowd gathered round the doors. A few, however, were laborers, lumber-jacks and skilled craftsmen who had come from grim necessity in the hope that they might earn enough during the week to provide them for a short time with food and shelter. These outsiders were regarded with good-natured tolerance by a small group of professionals who had made their way into the lobby of the theatre. One of these declared she was an oriental dancer by profession and she was quite sure that she would be taken on without difficulty. Others had acted as "supers" before and were confident of their ability to be transformed into dashing cavaliers once a spear was placed in their hands. When Mr. Blair came and attempted to address the men, an immediate rush was made in his direction, and it was necessary for the patrol to be summoned and kept in front of the entrance until the necessary number of supers had been chosen.

DESPERATE FIGHT WITH PAIR WANTED IN BANK ASSAULT

Police Rained Bullets on Two Men Who Had Been Living in Central Y.M.C.A.—Pair Captured After Thrilling Fight—Bank Claims One Identification

After a fusilade of bullets had been fired by city detectives on Drummond street last night, Norman Ryan, alias Norman J. Bell, alias Albert Shade, and Patrick O'Hara, were arrested at 10.05 o'clock last night, charged with being implicated in the hold up of the Park avenue Branch of the Canadian Bank of Commerce on Tuesday last.

They were living at the Central Y.M.C.A., Drummond street.

Ryan, known as the "Lone Bandit," is also wanted in Hamilton, Ontario, for holding up three different banks during the past few months. He was identified this morning by Eugene Laflamme, Bertillion expert at Detective Headquarters, from a circular received from the Hamilton authorities yesterday.

J. H. Carnegie, manager of the branch of the Bank of Commerce, held up Tuesday, identified Ryan today as the man who had entered the bank and who fled after a revolver duel.

According to officials of the Y. M. C. A. the two men registered at the Central Branch on Sunday night. They were assigned to room 407 and signed the register as coming from Brantford, Ontario.

When arrested Ryan had a Ludger automatic revolver and a 38 calibre Iyer Johnson in his pockets, and a stock of ammunition. O'Hara had an automatic revolver in his possession, fully loaded. Both men had railway tickets for Toronto in their possession. The third man alleged to have been implicated in the hold up had already gone to Toronto and the authorities in that city have been requested to apprehend him.

IN COURT THIS AFTERNOON.

Both Ryan and O'Hara will be arraigned in court this afternoon charged with the attempted murder of George Drew, teller in the Bank of Commerce and also with attempted robbery. The accused will also be charged with carrying loaded fire arms.

The capture of the two was the outcome of a plan laid by Chief of Detectives Lepage and his men. Information was received yesterday afternoon that the men wanted for the attempted robbery of the bank were staying at the Y.M.C.A. Plans to make the arrest were made at 7.30 last night, but the quarry did not show up until 10 o'clock. The two had been residing at the Y.M.C.A. but had not been in for the past two days. They had also removed their baggage. O'Hare came along first and was promptly arrested.

Detectives were placed at intervals along the street and a large number of constables were held in readiness at the St. Catherine street west station in case it should be necessary to surround the Y.M.C.A. building.

PUT UP FIGHT.

When the man whom the police allege is the Lone Bandit was stopped he did not submit without a fight. Five shots were fired at him by Detectives O'Donnel and Savard as the man attempted to escape. Detective Savard was hiding beside a tree when Ryan stepped out of the Y.M.C.A. building. Other officers were busy putting O'Hara into an automobile. Savard stepped out on the sidewalk and commenced walking towards Ryan. As he was within a few feet, Ryan stopped and looked at him. He rushed at the detective and pushed him aside. Detective O'Donnel, a little further down the street, saw Savard stumble and took up the chase. The fugitive started up the street. Savard started after him at the same time calling to O'Donnel.

The suspect the officers allege, pulled out a revolver. The officers did likewise. "Shoot, O'Donnel, shoot," yelled Savard.

O'Donnel shot twice the bullets penetrating the coat of the surrounded man. Savard by this time was within six feet of his quarry and he drew his gun. He called to stop, but in return the man turned around and attempted to get an aim at Savard. Savard then fired three shots in quick succession, these shots also passing through the man's coat tails.

FIGHT BEHIND HOUSE.

The chase by this time had lead across Drummond street, opposite the Y.M.C.A. and behind an old house. Here the chased turned around and turned his gun on Savard. The officer made a leap and bore the man to the ground at the same time grabbing the revolver. O'Donnel, piled on top of the struggling men. The guns were taken away from Ryan and handcuffs put on him. In the scuffle he got hit in the face, and the officers thinking he was wounded carried him to the waiting automobile and rushed him to the hospital. Here it was found the man was not wounded and he was taken to Detective Headquarters. While being taken to headquarters Ryan told Savard, that "he was just as glad they got him, or else he would have got them."

CAREER OF ONE MAN.

The career of the man identified as Ryan reads almost like a chapter from the history of Jesse James. In July of this year he is alleged to have held up the Bank of Hamilton in Hamilton, Ontario and at the point of a revolver got away with $4,000.

On Oct. 13 he held up another branch it is alleged of the Bank of Hamilton, but was driven off by the fire of a revolver in the hands of the manager. The next day he successfully held up it is said the Union Bank in Hamilton and got away with $1,900. Since that time a search of the country has been made for him. A peculiar feature of the working of this man it is claimed is that he always works alone.

Very little is known of O'Hara, although this is not believed to be his right name. He claims to come from Detroit. He was the first man to be arrested. Detective Tierney, watching for the man, was stationed just below the Y.M.C.A. building on Drummond street. He saw O'Hara pass him on the street and went after him. O'Hara started to run in the direction of Sherbrooke street. Tierney called on him to stop but he ran on. Tierney drew his revolver and fired two shots. Constable Fayette, chauffeur for Chief of Detective Lepage was coming down the street towards the man. As the fleeing man was passing Fayette the constable took a swing at him and knocked him against a tree. Detective Robillard was behind the tree and jumped on O'Hara. This man has not yet been identified as the man who waited in the car for Ryan.

THE NAMES GIVEN.

When arrested the prisoners gave their names as Albert Shade of Chicago and Patrick O'Hara of Detroit. Immediately the men were arrested wires were sent out to different points in an effort to identify them.

On the circular which bears the picture of Ryan taken in the Rogues Gallery the following warning is issued. Kindly use every effort to locate this man, and take every precaution in arresting him, as he is usually armed with a gun and would not hesitate in shooting to gain his liberty.

The officers who worked on the case were Sergeant of Detectives Mercier, Detectives O'Donnel, Savard, Gursky, Robillard, Weston, Gauthier, Tierney and Janvier Nassa.

Chief of Police Belanger this morning congratulated the officers on their fearless work last night. Chief of Detectives Lepage also thanked his men for the splendid manner in which they co-operated with him in the work.

Seagull Dies as Result of Fire in Harbor Elevator

A tragedy occurred in connection with the explosion in No. 1 elevator this morning. A seagull happened to be hovering near the top of the elevator. Splinters of debris which flew in all directions caught the bird on the wing and it fell to the water.

It was picked up by men working on the wharf. Examination proved that one of its wings and legs were broken. It died a few minutes later.

LIBERALS SPLIT IN TWO DISTRICTS

Hochelaga and St. Denis Have Confusion Owing to Choices

A convention of Hochelaga electors will be called early next week by the Liberal organization, said Hon. Severin Letourneau, organizer, this morning, for the purpose of choosing the official party candidate. The convention last night, at which J. T. Dery who was elected, claimed to be a straight Liberal, Mr. Letourneau said was not called by the organization, but he was unable to make any statement as to Mr. Dery's position."

But the convention in St. Denis, Monday night, when Dr. Arthur Denis was chosen candidate by a majority of 12 over Leonce Plante, was the official convention of the Liberal organization, said Mr. Letourneau. In this case too he was not able to make any comment, but it is pointed out by other politicians that should local Liberals vent their dissatisfaction with the canditure of Dr. Denis by nominating Mr. Plante, it will split the Liberal vote and make even more certain the election of the Liberal-Conservative candidate.

PREMIER DENIES EVER QUESTIONED FARMER LOYALTY

Prime Minister Charges Crerar with Inventing Statements Alluded to

EXPLAINS REMARKS

Certain Section That Migrated from U.S. Don't Take Proper Interest

SAULT STE. MARIE, Ont. 27. — (By a Star Staff Correspondent.)— The effort that is being made by Hon. H. A. Crerar to stir up feeling against Right Hon. Arthur Meighen in the West by misrepresenting what the Prime Minister has been saying regarding the population of the Prairie Provinces, received a blow last night here, when before four thousand people, the Premier repeated his remarks and absolutely denied that he had ever questioned the loyalty of the seventy per cent of the inhabitants of the last two of the Prairie Provinces who had immigrated from the United States to the grain growing lands of Canada. Mr. Meighen declared that his assertions had always been and he still maintained it, that those people did not take the same interest or have they the same regard for the great industrial part of this country that the that of Canadians would have.

The Prime Minister summed up Mr. Crerar's statements about him by the terse remark "when Mr. Crerar rethinks what I say he usually invents what I say first," a statement which drew forth rounds of applause, which were repeated when the Prime Minister went on to quote the statement made by the leader of the Agrarian party in New Brunswick in December 1919, to the effect that if they could not make shoes as cheaply in Canada as they could in the United States, then they had not reached in Canada the time when they should be making shoes, and applied that statement to other industries that had to be protected because they were in competition with the vast industries of the United States who by mass protection could turn out goods cheaper than could be done in Canada.

ARGUMENT APPEALS.

Such an argument appealed strongly to the hundreds of workers in the big steel plant who were present and brought home to them the fallacy of the policy advocated by the Farmers party.

The Prime Minister was stopped by questions on two occasions one dealing with the unemployment and the issue of protection and the other with the application of the eight hour day. And to both of these he rapped out a quick reply and turned the interruption into an instrument with which to further drive home his argument, that without protection there would be much more unemployment and fewer hours to work in.

The meeting was one of the largest and most successful held by the Prime Minister on his present tour, the audience frequently breaking in with hearty applause. The rapid fire speech of the Hon. Dr. R. J. Manion of Fort William, in which he traversed a great part of the field of politics, was also received with much enthusiasm, while the straightforward address of T. E. Simpson the Government candidate, evoked such a response that it is almost certain he has the majority of the electorate behind him.

When the Prime Minister arrived in Sault Ste. Marie he was greeted by bands and taken on a parade through the streets afterwards visiting the Algoma Steel plant and the Spanish River Pulp and Paper Mills during the process of production in both cases and meeting a large number of the workers.

BORN UNDER PROTECTION.

Near the platform was a large banner declaring "the Soo was born under protection ask F. H. Clergue," the founder of the great Algoma Steel plant which, with the Spanish River Pulp and Paper Mills, provide two of the chief industries of the Soo. Now they are running full time the town is a busy one, and the majority of the residents are strong believers in the protective system.

T. E. Simpson, many times mayor of Sault Ste. Marie, who won the seat in the last election by a majority of over two thousand votes, is again the Government candidate. He is being opposed by Major Harry S. Hamilton, Liberal nominee, and Thomas Urquhar, who is a joint Labor and U.F.O., candidate, but the general belief is that the Government will retain the seat. In the neighboring constituency of East Algoma, G. B. Nicholson, who won the seat for the Government in 1917 by over a thousand majority is being opposed by Dan Wright as the U.F.O., and Labor candidate. There was a Liberal candidate, N. C. Hocken, of Parry Sound, nominated, but he has withdrawn.

ENORMOUS MEETING.

The meeting in the Skating Rink last night was attended by nearly four thousand people. It was presided over by Ald. F. Davey, chairman of the local association and as the Premier came to the platform he was received with rounds of cheers.

T. E. Simpson, the Government candidate, paid tribute to the Prime Minister's ability and then spoke of the efforts made to secure orders for the steel plant during the transition period between shells and peace requirements, and of how Government orders for rails had been given the effect to keep things going totalling 200,000 tons out of 225,000 tons placed. He declared that there was one city in Canada whose future absolutely depended on the continuation of the national policy of protection, it was the Soo.

Touching on the Patents' Act, Mr. Simpson remarked that last year 9,000 of patents were issued from the Dominion Patents' Office, of which over 90 per cent were issued to U.S. citizens, and the result was that most of the patents were manufactured in the States and sent over to Canada, and 90 per cent of the steel tools used here made across the border, although patented in Canada. He was working to get the Patent Act tightened up so that when patents were granted in Canada the article should be manufactured in Canada within two years. If this were done it would mean the establishment of an immense number of industries to supply the articles used in Canada and which were now shipped in from the United States. He, with others, had recently seen the Prime Minister on this and believed the Patent Act would be tightened up in this direction. Concluding with a brief reference to the tariff, Mr. Simpson remarked that the Government collected more customs duty on silk goods than on all farm implements that came into the country with the exception of threshing machines and windmills.

Dr. O. J. Manion, of Fort William, Minister of Civil Re-establishment, declared there was not one principle of Liberalism that he was disobeying in supporting completely the program of the Government. He was not speaking of Mackenzie King, but of those who were looking at the best interests of the country. He spoke of the work of re-establishment since demobilization which had cost $458,000,000 and maintained that Canada had done more for her returned men than any other country.

CRERARISM OR CANADIANISM.

Dr. Manion declared that there could not be a proper development of its natural resources under a free trade policy. It seemed as if the decision in the election would be between Crerarism and Canadianism.

The Prime Minister said he was eager to speak on the record of the Government because for so long the varied winds of the Opposition had been perambulating the country scattering misrepresentation and misinformation, spending hundreds of thousands of dollars in propaganda to instil and sow prejudice in the public mind against him and his Government. Now that the trying and troublesome times of war were over, the hustings were open, the battle was called, the challengers of the last few years were being taken up and he was there to tell them what had been done.

Why should they be afraid of the records of the Government when the Liberal papers in all parts of the country supported and approved of the acts done by the Government, and one of them declared in an editorial that the Government had accomplished more big things for the good of the country than had been done since Confederation. The people were learning to believe that there was something to be said for an administration that could look back eight years and could present an unstained record. It would be strange in days of peace and quiet but in times of colossal expenditures and big undertakings it was a thing that the people of this and future generations would look back with honor and pride.

DISCUSSES TARIFF ISSUE.

The Prime Minister entered on to a discussion of the tariff issue, and a member of the audience asked if it was true there were double the number of men in proportion to population, unemployed in the United States as compared with Canada and being assured by the Premier this was so, asked, "They have a very high tariff, if we have protection or a higher tariff are we going to have more men out of work?"

The Prime Minister, "the reason is not because they have a tariff, Great Britain had no tariff up to just this summer and they have three or four out of work to one we have in proportion to population. Why ours is less than the United States is because provision was made by the Minister of Labor in very large degree, who as a practical labor man out of the union ranks, determined before the end of the war that something had to be done to provide for the distribution of labor throughout the country to keep to the utmost labor employed in Canada. He established at the expense of the country, incorporation with the provinces' employment bureaus throughout the Dominion, through which 800,000 Canadian workmen had obtained work free of cost. The labor situation has been better handled in this country than it has been in the United States." (Cheers).

The voice: "How many men have been taken back in Britain since protection was put on?"

The Prime Minister: "They are going back fast. The conditions were improving and they adopted the policy in order that they might improve. The best answer to my friend is this. How many men would be at work in the city of Sault Ste. Marie if there was no seven dollars a ton duty on steel rails?" (Cheers).

ATTACKS CRERAR'S POLICY.

The Prime Minister afterwards continued his tariff argument, pointing out the impossible position of the Liberal candidate in East Algoma, who had declared against the program of Mackenzie King, and urging the electors to rather support the Government policy, and ensure the continuance of the system that was essential for the prosperity of that city and the whole nation.

Then he attacked the Hon. T. A. Crerar's policy and repeated what he said the other night because Mr. Crerar had misquoted him. "I said then, that in the western provinces, and two of them in particular, the great majority of the population have come from the country to the South and they don't take the same interest, have not the same regard for the great industrial part of this country that the rest of Canadians would have and who would expect them to. Now Mr. Crerar says that I have charged the western farmers with disloyalty and he stands in righteous indignation on behalf of the West to defend them against this awful imputation. When Mr. Crerar resents what I say, he usually invents what I say first. I never uttered the word disloyalty. I never challenged their loyalty, but I do say that not only those people, but, and more to his discredit, Mr. Crerar himself has very little regard for the conditions of industrial Canada.

"Any man who gives utterance to this sentence in the very town in New Brunswick in which last night he so indignantly reprimanded me on December 10, 1919, 'If we cannot make shoes as cheaply here as they can make them in the United States then we have not reached the time in Canada when we should be making shoes,' can make this statement with just the same propriety. 'If we cannot make rails in Canada as cheaply as they can make them in the United States, then we have not reached the time in Canada when we should be making rails.'

"I ask the people of Sault Ste Marie is a man who makes that statement; who declares we should not make anything here unless we can make it as cheaply as they can make it in the tremendous plants over there, that we ought not to be making it at all, taking an interest in industrial Canada?

"He is only in the position of every recent immigrant to this country, but the position is far less creditable to him. If his policy was carried out we would have no industrial Canada today but simply be a peasant nation and a supply depot for the United States. His position is one of very little concern for the works of industrial Canada and I might add as well that if the Farmers reason it out aright they have very little concern for themselves."

TAKES UP FARMER PROGRAM.

The Prime Minister went into detail regarding the Farmers' program and compared it with the speeches being delivered by Mr. Crerar declaring that every sentence of his speeches was a vague and by no means courageous appeal to prejudice. He never got to grips with the question and told the people what he wanted and what the effect was going to be to them. His policy was free foodstuffs. If the farmers of Canada wanted the duty on hay, butter, flour, wheat, pork, beef and other foods wiped away and there were only low duties on them now, the right thing to do was to vote for Mr. Crerar, and those behind him in the West, led into almost a state of frenzy by propaganda, would effect it. Six months of experience of that policy would do more to convince them than all the argument he could address between now and the day of judgment.

A voice: "How much tariff would the steel plant need to give their employees eight hours a day?"

The Prime Minister: "I don't know, but if they had none they would not have one hour a day."

A voice: "Why can the pulp mills give an eight hour day and the steel mills have un-Christian hours of eleven or thirteen?"

The Prime Minister: "The question of hours a day has nothing to do with the tariff. The only thing the tariff effects is this: it makes it possible to employ men at all. The pulp industry is here because the pulp cannot be exported under the provincial law. That is another form of protection. It is anything on earth but free trade but it is continued by a leader who talks free trade, but is afraid and dare not practise it."

The Premier concluded a lengthy and a vigorous speech with an appeal to the electors to weigh over all the arguments that he had put before them, and to vote as Canadians who desired to see their industries develop and the whole Dominion prosper.

The meeting, concluded with rounds of cheers for the speakers, and the singing of the National Anthem.

VIEWS ON ALLIANCE

Northcliffe's Personal Opinion Regarding Anglo-Jap Pact

HONG KONG, Oct. 27—(United Press)—The Anglo-Japanese Alliance was strongly condemned in a statement here by Lord Northcliffe.

The British publisher declared the alliance had not only outrun its usefulness, but was undoubtedly a dominating factor in preventing an unfettered attempt by Britain, Japan and the United States to solve the problems of the Pacific.

"The prolongation of this alliance," Northcliffe said, "merely serves to irritate public and official opinion in the United States, humiliates China, and adds nothing to Britain's greatness in Asia. There can be no solution of Pacific problems which does not rest on the solid foundation of Anglo-American friendship and co-operation."

SAYS RADIUM DOOMED AS CURE FOR CANCER

President of College of Surgeons Says Use Ineffective

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 26. — (Special to The Montreal Star and Philadelphia Ledger. Copyright.) — Dr. John B. Deaver, newly inducted president of the American College of Surgeons, last night expressed the fear that radium is doomed as a cure in the treatment of cancer.

"At times when its use could have been most valuable, radium failed utterly in the treatment of cancer," Dr. Deaver declared.

"I almost hesitate to express the fear that I have that nothing can be looked for from radium in the future to be of any advantage in the treatment of cancer."

Dr. Deaver made this statement during the course of an address on old methods versus new in "surgical diagnosis," at the formal opening of the session of the Eleventh Annual Congress of the American College of Surgeons.

Military experts in 1860 thought it impossible for one man to direct an army of 100,000.

NO C.L.P. CANDIDATES

Manitoba Section of New Body to First Perfect Organization

SASKATOON, Sask., Oct. 27.—Accepting an unanimous nomination to contest this constituency as Government candidate in the Federal election, Hon. James R. Wilson, M.P., referred to the Wood-Crerar movement as a "disgrace to the men who are back of it."

"It has sprung solely from the commercial activities," said Mr. Wilson, "the class cry and class distinction have been the ruin of some of the countries of older lands."

The speaker referred to the Right Hon. Arthur Meighen as a man who was sympathetic to the Western Provinces, and said that Mr. Crerar, as president of a company which had leased a terminal elevator at Fort William, had made $700,000 on an investment of $68,000 yearly lease on overages and screenings.

NOT TO HAVE CANDIDATES.

WINNIPEG, Man., Oct. 27.—The Manitoba section of the newly organized Canadian Labor party will not place candidates in the field for the Federal election, Charles Dickie, provincial president, announced yesterday.

"The party will confine its immediate efforts to perfecting its organization in the hope that it may prepare the ground upon which the political power of the workers may be eventually unified upon a national basis, and lay the foundation of an organization in which, linked up with a movement from coast to coast, unhappy local feuds maye be forgotten," Mr. Dickie stated.

The statement says "the new body is to be a non-party organization which will make its appeal for support on the ground that a most serious danger confronts this country in the event of free trade or any sudden or drastic reduction of the tariff. The league is pledged to support a reasonable protective tariff sufficient to enable Canadian manufacturers as well as Canadian farmers and other producers to compete in the Canadian market on at least equal terms with those of other nations."

Low, ex-M.P., was unanimously chosen as the Liberal candidate in the forthcoming election at the convention here yesterday which was made necessary through School Inspector G. G. "Government ownership is not a deliberate policy," he said, " but a legacy. We must develop Canada's industries in order to increase the market for the farmers."

He said Mr. Crerar's policy advocated free trade with Great Britain in five years and yet on the same day, a despatch had appeared from Great Britain announcing that free trade Great Britain had placed customs duty on 6,000 items. He also criticized Mr. Crerar on his stand on the Rumanian loan by saying that he was a member of the Government when it was made and sat at the table that passed it.

BUSINESSMEN TO FIND JOBS FOR ALL

TORONTO, Ont., Oct. 27. — Toronto businessmen are going to handle unemployment during next winter. They are going to take the matter out of the hands of the municipal authorities, so far as possible. This was decided upon at a meeting of the federation of Toronto Businessmen's Association last night.

The aim of this commission will be to seek the co-operation of such bodies as the Rotary Club, the Kirmish Club, the Board of Trade, and the Canadian Manufacturers' Association in trying to secure suitable employment for every man in the city during the winter months.

BOTTOMLEY CLASHES WITH MAGISTRATE

Makes Dramatic Outbursts at Hearing of Libel Action

LONDON, Oct. 27.—(By Canadian Press Cable.) — Dramatic passages marked yesterday's proceedings in the Horatio Bottomley-Bigland libel action, when Horatio Bottomley, M.P., and publisher of the weekly "John Bull," was called to the witness box for cross-examination by Comyns Carr.

Mr. Bottomley, when told by the magistrate, Sir Charles Biron, to answer questions and not make speeches, declared he was entitled to say what he did and that any judge would uphold him. He also declared: "The bias I have had from the Bench is intolerable." Sir Charles told Sir Ernest Wild, Bottomley's counsel, that he must keep his client in order, as Mr. Bottomley did not seem to know how to conduct himself in the court-room.

Later Mr. Bottomley made another dramatic outburst and protested that "this thing is degenerating into a scandal. I am being accused of stealing this money and putting it on the horses."

The crowds in Bow street outside the court room were smaller than usual but the arrival of Mr. Bottomley was signalized by cheering. The court room itself was crowded, with women in the majority.

VETERANS DISCUSSING UNEMPLOYMENT ISSUE

Disapproval of British Scheme of Affording Relief Expressed

TORONTO, Ont., Oct. 27.—When the unemployment situation was under discussion yesterday at the annual convention of the Army and Navy Veterans, delegates expressed disapproval of the system attributed to the British Government of affording relief. Speakers understood the purpose was to dump British unemployed into the Dominions and that course was characterized as unfair.

A resolution dealing with the unemployment question will be laid before the convention today.

During the afternoon there was an impressive ceremony arranged by the ladies auxiliary which took the form of a memorial service for the fallen veterans.

NO WITNESS HEARD IN LIBEL ACTION

Verdict for Plaintiff, with No Damages—Claimed $20,000

WOODSTOCK, Ont., Oct. 27.—Justice H. M. Mowatt, of Toronto, the newly appointed judge of the Supreme Court of Ontario, began his career as a Supreme Court judge when he conducted the fall assizes at the court house, Woodstock, on Tuesday and incidentally the lone case which he had to try turned out to be one without a parallel in the legal history of the Province, indeed in the opinion of the prominent jurists who were present, it was one without a parallel within the knowledge of the legal profession.

The case was the libel action of Homer D. Neely, barrister of Woodstock vs. the Sentinel Review Publishing Company and the unique feature about the case was that not a single witness was brought forward to give evidence on either side, the case resting entirely upon the plea of counsel to the jury.

The presentation of the case hinged entirely upon the interpretation of points of law and in the end the jury brought in a verdict in favor of the plaintiff, without damages, and a recommendation that the costs be paid by the defendant.

The judge, however, intimated that this recommendation was beyond the power of the jury and that he alone had the right to determine which party would pay the costs, that he would give his decision on this point later.

The action for libel against the Sentinel Review was taken following an article which appeared in the columns of that paper several months ago in connection with failure of the Ingersoll Daily Chronicle. H. D. Neely brought action against the Sentinel Review for libel, claiming damages in the amount of $20,000.

MANITOBA WHEAT CROP SHOWS BIG INCREASE

Some 10,583,000 Bushels More Than Preceding Year

WINNIPEG, Man., Oct. 27.—Manitoba's wheat crop for the past season totalled 48,125,000 bushels, or an average of 13.75 bushels per acre, according to the Provincial Department of Agriculture. This is an estimated increase of 10,583,000 bushels over the 1920 figures. The total acreage planted was 3,500,000 in comparison with 2,705,622 acres last year. The increased acreage is due, it is stated, to the fact that more farmers operated during 1921 than in 1920.

The oats acreage also is greater than in 1920, but the average yield is 27 bushels an acre compared with 30.75 last year. Barley shows an increase with the average yield estimated at 21.50 bushels compared with 21 bushels in 1920.

NEXT WEEK'S SHOWS

"Abraham Lincoln" Here Next Week; A Play for Everyone

JOHN DRINKWATER'S much-heralded play, "Abraham Lincoln," with Frank McGlynn in the name-part, will be the attraction through the week beginning on Monday night, Oct. 31, at His Majesty's theatre. This play brought home to the author's own countrymen a keen knowledge of the place the great President had gained as a world figure. It is said that the power of the drama is such that, beginning in the humble home of the country lawyer at Springfield, it carries through to the tragic denouement with ever-increasing force and sends the spectators from the playhouse with an overpowering realization of what Lincoln's great soul brought to his people and to the world at large. Drinkwater, being a man of the theatre, realized that to succeed, "Abraham Lincoln," the play, must entertain, and he has so well devised it that the appeal of the drama seemingly reaches all classes of playgoers as well as students and statesmen. William Harris, Jr., has mounted the play with distinction, and in keeping with its unusual quality. The company which will come here in support of Mr. McGlynn is the same which has been appearing with him since the first performance in New York, with some few exceptions.

Variety at the Princess

Next week the Princess will offer what looks like a most attractive program. Bostock's Riding School presents an unusual act in which five circus performers show how circus riders are trained for their work. It provides laughter and no little excitement. With Marion Forde at the piano, Miss Ethel Forde and Mr. Sheehan are offering "Footsteps and Fantasies," a combination of song, dance and music. Johnny Burke, who has been away from vaudeville a few years, will be seen in a military; Val and Ernie Stanton, "The English Boys from America," offer a smart talking act with music and dance; Irving Newhoff and Dode Phelps have decked themselves out with songs by William B. Friedlander in their new vehicle "Tuneful Tales"; Green and Myra, two musical comedy favorites, have a comedy singing, dancing and talking act, "Merry Moments"; Althea and Lucas & Co. present a sensational athletic exhibition.

* * *

"Three Musketeers" at Orpheum

Next week there will be a production of quite exceptional magnitude for stock at the Orpheum theatre, when the management will present "The Three Musketeers." The Universal appeal of this famous romance, its widespread popularity with all classes everywhere, and its tremendous hold upon the public, generation after generation, are facts that admit of no denial. On the screen, recently, it has proved a powerful magnet. In reviving the stage version the Orpheum management believe they will be giving the public something it will keenly appreciate. Mr. William Naughton will have the role of the dashing, fiery d'Artagnan, and the balance of the cast will be in competent hands, it is declared. There seems to be no reason why the Orpheum Players should not give a good account of themselves. Special scenery is being made and the staging and mounting will testify to the efforts of the direction to give the production as adequately as possible.

* * *

"Mid-Channel" Film at Loew's

The film adaptation of Sir Arthur Wing Pinero's famous story "Mid-Channel," one of Ethel Barrymore's greatest stage successes, will be featured at Loew's next week, with Clara Kimball Young in the leading role. "Mid-Channel" deals in an intimate way with the shoals and jagged rocks in the seas of domesticity and answers many of the problems of married life as it exists today. Ralph Whitehead, a musical comedy artist, featured in a dozen or more Broadway productions, will headline the vaudeville. Mr. Whitehead will be remembered here for his success in "You're in Love" and in "Tillie's Nightmare" with Marie Dressler. His specialty is character impressions. "Straight,"—a comedy dramatic sketch, will feature Frank Dixon and Margaret Murphy; Conne and Albert will offer a skit, "Schooldays;" Lyndall Laurell and Co., will present some acrobatic feats in a novel way and Jim and Irene Martyn, in a kaleidoscope revue, will introduce some novel scenic effects. Brownie, the wonder dog, in a new screen comedy and other attractions will complete the bill.

* * *

"Garden Frolics" at Gayety

The Gayety management announce the new joy festival, bubbling over with novelty, "Garden Frolics," consisting of vaudeville, burlesque and circus combined, presented in ten gorgeous and imposing scenes. Lou Powers, a popular comedian, is well known among theatregoers in burlesque, and dainty Pearl Hamilton assumes the principal female role, in conjunction with Donna Hage, an English prima donna, Lillian Bessent, who registers strongly with "blues," and twenty-six chorus girls. The circus scenes show Ed. Holder's famous trick mule, who "defies all riders." This will play at the Gayety Theatre one week starting Monday, next.

St. Lambert Operatic Society Will Repeat "Iolanthe" in St. Denis

With an active membership of close to 100 voices, the St. Lambert Operatic Society has decided to accept no other applications for membership until the present opera, "Iolanthe," has been produced. "Iolanthe" is considered to be one of Gilbert and Sullivan's best works, and judging by recent rehearsals, the St. Lambert chorus should surpass their previous records. During the past six years this society has successfully produced "The Chimes of Normandy," "Mikado," "The Gondoliers," "The Yeoman of the Guard" and "Iolanthe," all under the musical direction of Dr. F. J. Illsley, F.R.C.O. They also hold the distinction of being the only local organization who have given regular productions of Gilbert and Sullivan operas.

During the period of the war and before their reorganization in 1916, they produced many minor operettas for the benefit of the Canadian Red Cross Society with considerable financial success, but since that period have enlarged their field of distribution to take in local charities. The business affairs of the Society are managed by a committee elected from among its members, and this form of government has proved very successful in the past. The Society is purely amateur, but among its members are to be found many of Montreal's prominent church soloists. According to present plans, they will produce "Iolanthe" at the St. Denis theatre some time in December under the auspices of the Kiwanis Club, of Montreal. Full particulars will be announced later.

ABCOUP, Fars, Oct. 27. — Fishermen discovered near here yesterday a skeleton which from the clothing still clinging to it was identified as that of Jose Dumont, a French aviator, whose aeroplane was last at 6m. Sept. 27. The remains were taken to Lima, where they will be buried with military honors.

J. J. Shubert Sees Better Times for The Theatre in Store

GENIAL, burly, quiet of voice and with a disarming manner, J. J. Shubert, executive head of the big Shubert theatrical firm, chatted for a few minutes yesterday about the work involved in re-costuming "The Passing Show" and about theatrical matters in general.

Mr. Shubert is essentially a man of action. Nor has he much time to spare for leisurely discussions. But he can be busier than most people without any apparent effort. Within twelve hours of the receipt of the news that the entire costumes and electrical effects and properties for "The Passing Show" had been destroyed by fire, he had on board a special train trunks containing hundreds of new costumes, new electrical effects and everything requisite to enable the show to proceed, together with the executive heads necessary to ensure the proper distribution and utilization of the new material.

Naturally it would have been a sheer impossibility to have made new costumes and fittings in the time. Mr. Shubert took brand-new dresses from shows in preparation,—the new production for Eddie Cantor, for instance, — and entire new acts from these shows, and by dint of refitting the costumes and rearranging the program, succeeded in giving a performance which, under any other circumstances, would have been impossible. This not only keeps the entire company in employment, but enables him to keep faith with the public.

* * *

"And, talking about the public," says Mr. Shubert, "I find that when they have plenty of money they are willing to pay almost any price. In fact, they don't want to pay too little, but when they are short of money they begin to pick and choose. I cannot say that there is any marked depression in the theatrical business, save in the Middle West. This is due to, and a natural reflex of, business depression. In New York we find that the public will support good shows just the same as ever. In the other big theatrical centres it is the same, save for the Middle West.

"I would not say that there is any marked depreciation in the quality of the attractions shown. The plays are, perhaps, as good as before. But the high cost of productions, which has not gone down, has prevented us from doing as big things as before at the former prices.

* * *

"The cost of transportation, the cost of stage help, the cost of material, scenery, etc.,—all these things have gone up and are staying up. The actors' salaries are about the same, but it is the heavy increase in the overhead that is responsible for the present prices, generally speaking. This hits us everywhere. For instance, the replacing of the costumes burned in this Passing Show will cost me at least $75,000. I cannot do it for less than that. But I'm glad to have been able to keep the show going, no matter what it has cost."

Mr. Shubert sees in vaudeville the big future. It is, he says, THE thing. He and his brother have very heavy investments in their new vaudeville circuit, and they are looking forward confidently to success in this connection.

* * *

One leaves Mr. Shubert with a general impression of a man who knows his own mind, has confidence in his own ability, reliance upon his associates, and a fund of optimism that would uphold a regiment in distress. He picks his words carefully, and he speaks with authority. But it is to his work as a man of action, decisive and effective, that I imagine he owes his success.

Miss Helen Agel To Dance at the Y.M.H.A. Benefit

Among the artistic interludes arranged to take place at the Y.M.H.A. benefit dance, in Roseland Hall, on the evening of November 1, are several dance numbers by Miss Helen Agel. She will interpret "Loin du Bal" (Toe Dance) by Vestoff; and also Dalby's "Out of the East" (an East Indian Dance). In reporting the performance of Miss Agel at the Strong theatre in an entertainment held under the auspices of the Equal Franchise League, the Burlington, Vt., Free Press stated: "Miss Agel's gift of the art of dance is something rare and beautiful. The poetry of motion is hers." This will be the initial introduction of Miss Agel to a Montreal audience.

HELD FOR GIRL'S MURDER.

MADISON, N.J., Oct. 27. — (United Press).—Suspected of hacking Janette Lawrence, 12, to death with a pen-knife after attacking her in Kluxon Woods, Frank Jankona, 20, is held in jail here, police announced today. Jankona was arrested late yesterday after Frank McGrory, an acquaintance of his, told Captain Brex of the Newark detective bureau that Jankona had confessed the crime to him.

AT THE MOVIES

TAKEN from Peter B. Kyne's popular novel, "Cappy Ricks," the latest screen vehicle for Tom Meighen, will be shown at the Capitol Theatre, for a week, beginning Sunday next. It is a story of the sea, filled with drama, rapid action and with an appealing love motif. The picture cast supporting Meighen, includes Agnes Ayres, Gladys Granger, John Sainpolis and Ivan Linow. "Tin Cans" with "Brownie" himself is the laughable comedy on the bill, while the usual popular features, including "Topics," Capitol Tours and Capitol News, will also be shown.

For lovers of song and dance John Arthur, manager and producer, promises "Ye Olde Tyme Hallowe'en," with Marjorie Pringle, Hunt Dumbrill and a company of ten. Neil Quill, in her second Capitol season, with the Capitol Ballet, will provide a special ballet divertissement. An overture by the Capitol orchestra under the baton of J. J. Shea, will conclude the program.

"Passion" continues to draw capacity audiences to the Allen Theatre. This remarkably dramatic story of the life of Madame du Barry possesses the double fascination of historical romance and thrilling play of wits between man and woman. It is admirably acted. Pola Negri, in the leading role, accomplishes an artistic triumph of stage portraiture for the screen. Her pre-eminence is easily understood after one has seen her throughout this film. The entire cast—and it is one of the largest ever assembled for a motion picture, is composed of artists who understand their work thoroughly and who co-operate to form an impressive and convincing stage picture. The demand for seats is so large that the management contemplate holding the film here for at least another week.

* * *

"The Face of the World," which opened a four-day run at the Strand yesterday, should please practically every class of motion picture enthusiasts, as the keynote of the production is variety. Those who go to see a picture for its scenic beauty will find this in the scenes at the beginning of the picture. And the growing generation who delight at the showing of the artists' quarters of Greenwich Village, with all their glamor, will be absorbed by the fascinating scenes taken in the centre of New York's Bohemia. Those who seek the pleasures of society life of a great city's exclusive "400" will also be thoroughly satisfied. One thrill rushes upon the heels of another from the wrecking of an automobile to the burning of an hospital, and from the battlefields of France to the devastation of Russia. "Children of the Night," with William Russell, is another good picture on this same program.

* * *

The struggle of love against the iron wall of Chinese tradition which exacts from its victims sacrifice without question is the vital dramatic theme on which "Where Lights Are Low," is based. Sessue Hayakawa has the leading role in this production, which is one of the principal items on a double bill at the Regent for the balance of this week. The other attraction is "The Lyons Mail," adapted from the stage success of the same name and featuring H. B. Irving.

* * *

The Norma Talmadge latest screen revival at the New Grand of "The Isle of Conquest" is playing to capacity houses at this popular little West End theatre. This picture presents the situation of a woman who hates all men and a man who has lost faith in woman being thrown together on a tropical island, there to work out their destinies. The dramatic strength of such a situation has been ably presented by author, adaptors, and director and the part gives Miss Talmadge full opportunity to score dramatically. Fascinating Constance Binney appears in her latest picture, "The Magic Cup." This is a romance of the pawnshop which narrowly escaped being a tragedy. The magic cup was an old silver goblet, the one and only heirloom of a little scullery maid in a New York hotel. Whenever she needs money in a hurry, she gets a loan on her goblet, and it has saved the day for her so many times that she calls it her "magic cup."

* * *

Constance Talmadge in her startling success, "Dangerous Business," and Thos. H. Ince's version "The Three Musketeers," with Orrin Johnson, Dorothy Dalton and Louise Glaum, will be the two chief attractions at the Papineau Theatre tomorrow and Saturday. Today's programme, which will be offered for the last time this evening, includes Vivian Martin in "Song of the Soul," Eileen Percy in "Hickville to Broadway" and Buster Keaton in "Hard Luck."

* * *

Dealing with the human emotions in a characteristic manner, Elinor Glyn's original picture story, "The Great Moment," written expressly for Gloria Swanson, who has the leading role was shown with no inconsiderable success at the Belmont Theatre last evening. "The Great Moment" deals with the love trials of Nardine Pelham, a gypsy, portrayed by Miss Swanson, and Bayard Delaval, a mining engineer, played by Milton Sills. There are several very dramatic situations. Cosmo Hamilton's "Eve In Exile" and a Christie comedy "The Reckless Sex" are also included on this bill for the balance of the week.

* * *

Mack Sennett's comedy, "A Small Town Idol," with Ben Turpin, Marie Prevost, Phyllis Haver and Charlie Murray, will be the feature picture at Loew's Court next Sunday, Monday and Tuesday. On Wednesday and Thursday, Norma Talmadge in "The Isle of Conquest" and Wanda Hawley in "Her First Elopement," a comedy drama, will constitute the big double feature bill. Bebe Daniels will hold the centre of the stage on Friday and Saturday, November 4 and 5, in "Ducks and Drakes," a domestic drama.

* * *

"Variety is the spice of life" Realart certainly believes in this as regards their young comedienne, Wanda Hawley. For everyone of the player's stories has been radically different from the others—and now they are shifting leading men to give still further variety. Wanda Hawley is not going to get stale with her public—there isn't a chance. Jerome Patrick is the latest actor to play opposite her in "Her First Elopement" which is being shown at the Holman theatre from Wednesday till Saturday.

MUSIC

"Manon Lescaut," by Puccini, the opera with which the Scotti engagement opens tomorrow night in the St. Denis Theatre, has not been sung in this city since it was given some ten years ago by the Montreal Opera Company, the performances at that time being the first witnessed here. The plot is founded on the novel of Abbe Prevost, as is also the libretto of Massenet's "Manon," and it is worthy of note that Mr. Scotti, who sings the role of Lescaut tomorrow, took part in the first performance at the Metropolitan in 1907, when Lina Cavalieri sang Manon and Caruso had the part of the Chevalier des Grieux. Briefly, the story is as follows: Act 1: A scene before an inn at Amiens. Manon arrives with Lescaut, her brother, who is bringing her to a convent to complete her education. When however, he sees that Geronte, who is rich, finds her fair, he is willing that Manon should elope with him. But Des Grieux has also fallen in love with Manon, and she with him. The result is that these two run away in Geronte's carriage. Act II: Manon is living with Geronte, having been enticed away from Des Grieux by the greater luxury that the more wealthy man is able to offer her. Yet she was happier with Des Grieux and confides this to Lescaut, who hurries away to tell Des Grieux where Manon can be found. Des Grieux comes, and the lovers are surprised by Geronte, who sends for the police to arrest Manon on the charge that she is an abandoned woman. She is sentenced to be banished to Louisiana. Act III: A street near the harbor of Havre. Des Grieux and Lescaut try in vain to effect Manon's freedom, and Des Grieux pleads with the captain of the ship to be taken also. Act IV: A plain on the borders of New Orleans. Manon and Des Grieux are together, but the hardships of her banishment have proved fatal to Manon, and she dies.

HARDWARE PRICES MUST COME DOWN

Local Dealers Say Downward Movement Not Yet at End

PRICES STILL HIGH

Canadian Manufacturers Base Cost on Those of U.S.?

Hardware prices have been coming down for the last five months but they must come down still further, say wholesale and retail hardware dealers in Montreal.

Increased cost of labor and the policy of Canadian manufacturers of raising and lowering their prices without regard to the cost of production, according to the fluctuations on the American market, are the reasons given for the high prices yet prevailing. Another reason is that nearly all metals come from the United States. A tax of 30 p.c. on all imported goods plus the rate of exchange will mean that the Canadian dealer has to pay something like forty-five per cent. on the original cost as invoiced in the United States.

Speaking of the trade in hardware and the attitude of the public one retailer said: "Hardware prices have been gradually dropping, but I believe that they are now stabilized for this year. It would be hard to specify just what decrease there has been as there are so many brands and so many articles classed as hardware.

PUBLIC BUYS AS MUCH.

"As to what we sell most, kitchen utensils, it is safe to say that the public is buying just as much as it did at pre-war prices. During the war prices increased as much as 150 p.c. The decrease has varied from fifteen to twenty per cent. on tinware, wire goods, cutlery and tools. This has been due to the drop in the sheet metal market. It will take one or two more years before the pre-war level will be reached."

EXPLAINS ELECTION LAW.

An explanation of electoral law is to be given to all women who care to attend a meeting Saturday afternoon at 3 o'clock in the Knights of Columbus Hall on Sherbrooke street, it was announced this morning at the National Liberal and Conservative headquarters. The speaker will be J. H. Michaux, advocate, and the address will be under the auspices of the Women's branch of the party organization. A large gathering of women electors is expected, in view of the registration which commences Monday, and forthcoming Federal elections.

Thrift Hints

The thrifty man or woman is always looking out for some means of saving a few pennies here and there in the course of everyday life, and they do this because they have found that those few pennies soon mount up into a big sum and spell success.

The Montreal Star Want Ads are the greatest penny-saving device that was ever invented, and, in realizing this, the thrifty housekeeper or business man is always quick to make full use of them when any need arises.

In the first place, they cost but a trifle, and, in return for that trifling few cents of initial expense in the placing of a Star Want Ad, they bring in returns of many hundred per cent.

PETITION SCRUTINY OF OLD ACCOUNTS

NEW YORK, Oct. 27.—(Canadian Press) —An inquiry into the administration of the estate of Francis Noisseux, a horse dealer of French Canada, who died here nearly seventy years ago, is being sought by his great grandson, Anglebert J. Prefontaine, with a view to seeking information concerning the disposition of deeds to valuable New York City property, supposed to have been in Noisseux's possession when he died.

Noisseux, according to his great grandson, came here frequently to sell horses. On one of these trips, in August, 1843, he died on the street, and, it is asserted, his relatives in Canada did not receive any notification of the disposition of his estate here.

Surrogate Cohalan yesterday reserved decision on Prefontaine's petition to compel the present Public Administrator to account for the acts of William M. Mitchell, who occupied that position when Noisseux died. Prefontaine declares that Mr. Mitchell became administrator of his ancestor's estate and took possession of his property and effects, failing later to file an accounting with the Surrogate's Court.

GUILD EXHIBITION OPENS AT GALLERY

All Provinces Represented in Collection of Fine Work

The Canadian Handicraft Guild exhibition which opened today at the Art Association promises to be one of the most interesting in the history of the Guild. Practically every province is represented, the exhibits including the work submitted for the annual Dominion prize competition, in addition to choice pieces loaned by the Art Association and friends of the Guild.

Of local interest is a unique display of Russian embroideries, the work of Russian women who have settled in Montreal and who carried off four prizes for the exquisite embroideries in color on the white linen. Montreal women also carried off second and third prizes in the embroidered pictures section, the second prize being awarded for a representation in colored wools of Solomon's Temple which earned the praise of Professor Traquair, Architectural Department, McGill, who commended it for color, proportion, and design, and the third for a floral panel. The first prize in this section went to the Maritime Provinces for a landscape scene worked in silks.

Honors in the rug section go to Prince Edward Island which carried off two first prizes for hooked work rugs.

From Nova Scotia comes wonderful knitting, a special prize being awarded for lace yokes resembling the finest valenciennes, while New Brunswick and Ontario respectively carry off first prizes for embroidery. Very handsome quilts are shown, the first prize in the crochet section going to Alberta for a handsome specimen in this work. Examples characteristic of the various provinces were also on view, many loaned by friends of the Guild. Among them was a beautiful quilt of Mount Mellick work from Nova Scotia, loaned by Mrs. W. D. Lighthall.

Discharged soldiers' work is also figured, a set of chevrons worked in gold by a blinded Canadian soldier trained in St. Dunstan's winning a first prize, while Private Michaud, of Montreal, obtained first prize for raffia work.

The exhibition, which is open from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m., is free to the public today and on Saturday, while on Friday the Art Gallery fee will be charged, the fee going to the gallery.

THREE CANDIDATES FOR TERREBONNE

Political developments in Terrebonne County indicate a three-cornered fight in that constituency at the forthcoming Federal elections, betweeen candidates supporting the Government, the Mackenzie King platform, and an independent candidate.

A meeting representing prominent Liberals and Conservatives was recently held, and the nucleus of a third political organization formed. The object of this organization is to put a candidate in the field to contest the seat in the interest of the independents, and J. A. Beaulieu, K.C., well known Montreal lawyer, is the unanimous choice of the group. Mr. Beaulieu contested the seat in 1915, against G. Rochon, who was returned by a small majority.

J. E. Prevost, present member, will seek re-election on the Liberal plank, while the Hon. J. A. Fauteaux has announced his intention of contesting the seat in the interest of the Meighen Government.

WAGES, UNEMPLOYMENT AND POVERTY.

DURING the war, and after it, wages rose to unprecedented heights, due more to the scarcity of labor than to any other cause. During the high wage period the added cost to production did not greatly hinder trade, because the Governments, to a large extent, were the employers and not in competition as to selling prices.

Now everything is changed. The Governments have gone out of the manufacturing business and trade has settled back on private capital.

In England the work-people, blind to the changed circumstances, have stubbornly refused to recognise facts and have preferred idleness on Government doles to a sensible acknowledgment of changed conditions, with the result that the country is in a deplorable condition. The saying that all men are naturally lazy would seem to be proven by the fact that millions are parading the streets submitting to the starvation of their families as long as they can get Government half-pay for loafing. They do this rather than do as the Germans and French are doing. The Germans are working fifteen hours a day to bring back prosperity, and it is coming back with a rush, notwithstanding the mark's downfall.

Canadians are showing a tendency to get into the loafing class, although many of the unemployed are out of work through no fault of their own. If they would look facts in the face in recognition of the necessity for reduced wages and modified conditions they would help themselves and the country, although they might lessen the activities of the walking-talking delegate.

GERMANY'S ONE-ACT PLAY.

THE German Cabinet has protested, by resigning, against the partition of Upper Silesia that the Allied Powers agreed upon; and that protean and elusive will-o'-wisp German honor being duly satisfied, the Ministers have returned to power.

Such a gesture could not be made seriously in any country save Germany. To the ordinary mind it suggests the theme of a Gilbertian opera rather than a "fait accompli" of statesmanship. If Hans himself was fooled by these cheap hypocrisies there might be some excuse for trying them on the Allies, but he is under no such delusion. At present he has lost most of his interest in politics and his only desire is to get to work and to earn enough million marks every week to supply the frugal needs of himself and Gretchen.

It is just three weeks since Berlin began preparing the ground for her protest by cabling to the world sinister rumors of impending revolution. Germany would never accept the proposed solution of the Upper Silesian problem, for it meant her economic strangulation. The Cabinet would fall and the State without a rudder would drift on the shoals of ruin and bankruptcy. Revolution would overthrow the new Republic and some awful catastrophe such as the plague or the return of William Hohenzollern would follow.

The protest of resignation was not made in any belief that the settlement as proposed by the Council of the League of Nations would seriously injure Germany's prospects. Wirth knew that it would be bad tactics to minimize the effect of the partition of Silesia. He bitterly criticized the transfer to Polish rule of the towns of Kattowitz and Konigshutte, each of which voted by an overwhelming majority to remain with Germany. He claims that the new partition will only permit Germany to mine 11,500,000 tons of coal annually, while Poland will be able to mine 20,000,000 tons.

Yet even granting the correctness of these figures, Germany has many things to remember. In the first place, the output of the mines is dependent on several factors of which industry, harmony and determination—all of which the German people have in at least as large measure as the Poles—are by no means the least. Moreover, transfer of territory does not mean severance of economic conditions. Under the terms of settlement the whole district of Upper Silesia is to remain something like a Free Port, whose inhabitants can deal without hampering restrictions in the commodities on which the industrial life of the region depends. The railroads must be operated as a unit, electric power and water supplies cannot be disturbed and German currency will be used.

In the face of such a settlement it is ridiculous for Germany to talk of ruin on account of the partition of Silesia. The Council of the League of Nations has taken a bold step in disregarding the boundaries that were drawn on the widely advertised principle of self-determination and have offered the first settlement of its kind in history, which has been based upon economic considerations.

Chancellor Wirth having played his little act should now lose no time in calling for a conference with the Poles—a policy to which he has already given his approval—and endeavor earnestly to make the most of the natural resources at his command for the rehabilitation of the country. Germany should eschew politics and protests for a time and apply herself to industry. If she does this her "other obligations" can be allowed to take care of themselves.

BRIAND AT WASHINGTON.

BRIAND'S victory in the French Chamber is far more than a splendid personal triumph—it is a long step toward stability. Briand is probably the strongest single personality in French politics. Clemenceau captured the imagination of the world when he tore his way into the Premiership at the most critical moment of the war, and then—having disarmed the "defeatists"—attacked the German invaders with Tigerish ferocity until they were hurled back. But Clemenceau was always the destroyer. He had never for long commanded the confidence of his fellow-countrymen before the war. And he did not keep it long once peace was signed.

The smaller men who are fighting under the flag of Clemenceau are no match for Briand. Poincare is the best of them; and Poincare remains in the shadow. Consequently if the jackals had pulled down Briand on the eve of the Washington Conference, there would have been none to replace him. Doubtless this fact had much to do with the sweeping majority he received from what is, politically, a hostile Chamber. It is notorious that normally the majority of that body is against his group. But he dominates largely by pure personality—and availability.

He will now come to Washington with the weight of French confidence behind him. A critical and by no means friendly Chamber has decided that after all he is the man best fitted to speak for France. He seems to have been fairly frank in telling the Chamber how he will speak. For instance, he repudiated the Tardieu suggestion that he ought to have a European alliance behind him; and he expressed his confidence that the friends of France in the United States would not refuse her the national security she needs. That security, he added, is for France "the one question of utmost importance" in relation to disarmament.

* * * *

There is a sense in which France will be outside the questions chiefly at issue in Washington. While she has her commitments in Cochin-China, and holds a number of island groups in the Pacific Ocean, she is not strictly a Pacific Power. She has no navy that could operate there, and she could only serve a naval ally by furnishing the latter with convenient bases. This is the extent to which she could carry out a policy much talked of a few weeks ago—a rapprochement with the United States as against Britain and Japan—but which has since been earnestly repudiated in high quarters.

We do not speak of this silly idea because we ever entertained the smallest belief that it had any real support; for it was perfectly obvious from the first that any such alignment would be fatal to France and worthless to the United States. If France were abandoned by Great Britain in Europe, her position would be gravely and imminently precarious, while if Britain were driven into the arms of Japan—supposing such a calamity to be even remotely possible—the immense naval superiority of the Anglo-Japanese "alliance" would absolutely prevent any American ships from so much as reaching the nearest French bases.

France has just one place in the orientation of nations; and that is beside Great Britain. With British support, there is no real danger to France on the Continent of Europe for at least a generation. But if British friendship were alienated—let us say, by some such folly as that referred to above — then the French would find themselves alone on a Continent containing at least two great areas of hostility, Germany and Russia, and with not a chance that even the most eager American assistance could reach them unless the British Navy permitted. It may be unpleasant to say such blunt things as this; but in these pregnant days when the Great Powers are again playing with the awful issues of peace and war, it is just as well to make them clear from time to time.

* * * *

Briand will bring, however, a phase of the disarmament question to Washington which it will be highly important for the other Powers to consider most carefully. We cannot expect France to disarm, or even greatly to reduce her armaments, unless civilization guarantees her against German "revanche" and Russian anger. This is a policy which would cost civilization so little and yet would earn her such enormous returns that it is simply amazing that there is hesitation anywhere about taking this highly profitable and wholly unhazardous step.

The twin treaties by which Britain and the United States guaranteed France against a German attack were the handiest embodiment of this policy. If Britain and the United States had ratified them, they would never have been called upon to make them good. The very fact that these two Great Powers stood pledged to rush to the defence of France if she were again assailed by Germany, would put so suicidal an idea wholly out of the German mind. Not even a mad German militarist would dream, in our time, of calling down such swift and certain ruin upon his Fatherland.

These treaties were hung up because the American Senate was bound to ratify nothing that bore the name of "Wilson." They were not rejected in any proper sense by the American people. They never came up for serious discussion. They were simply buried under the ruins of the Versailles Treaty. It is altogether likely, if the Harding Administration were now to dig them out from under the debris and recommend them to the Senate, that the American "twin" would be adopted without much opposition.

If the Disarmament Conference can bring Britain and the United States to agree upon such action, it will have accomplished a very great deal toward the military disarmament of Europe—toward enabling every European country to get back to work and pay its debts. This is not the biggest thing it can do—the biggest thing it can do is to secure a naval understanding between Britain, the United States and Japan—but it is by far the next biggest benefit it can confer on harried, debt-burdened and "war-scared" humanity.

THE WORLD'S PRESS

Not "Made in Germany."

Lawrence Telegram: The panorama that unfolds on every hand in the New England countryside in these October days shows that the secret of dye-making to perfection is still held by old mother nature.

The Yanks Are Coming Home.

Cleveland Plain Dealer: In Europe there is a unanimous desire for the retention of the Americans. The soldiers themselves wish to stay. In America no one, except a small group of determined politicians, cares a rap whether they stay or not. But political demands seem to outweigh all other considerations, and the Yanks are coming home.

A Worth While Bonfire.

St. Louis Globe-Democrat: Germany, Austria and Poland are in very similar case and it is inconceivable that they will ever be able to carry on without recalling their tons of fiat paper and by giving one mark or crown for each one hundred, one thousand or other amount. When the paper thus withdrawn will be burned it will create a bonfire that will mean loss to many but hope to the nations who thus apply the torch to their inflation.

Isolation of the U. S.

Boston Globe: Our Government cannot expect to treat the rest of the world so cavalierly and expect the world to take our proposals for disarmament in the temper in which the American people want those proposals taken. It begins to wear the look of dictatorship — the dictatorial tone being not so much in what is done in our name as in the notices our Government serves of what it will not do. We have to consider whether we are getting into the position of the late Germany as regards the affections of the other nations. We have to consider whether those who "encircled" Germany could not "isolate" the United States in a manner and degree not at all traditional and not in the least agreeable.

Plain Living and High Thinking.

Boston Transcript: Mr. Harding said: "I doubt if there is as much plain living and high thinking in academic shades as there was once, or might well be now. . . . . Much of the unrest of the world today is chargeable to our living too rapidly and too extravagantly, and colleges have seen the reflex of it." This is a phase of "back to normalcy" which cannot too often be emphasized in our day. It is so many years ago since one heard a good deal about the "simple life." But who hears about it today— and how many lead it by choice? Inasmuch as plain living and high thinking are apt to go together, when plain living is voluntary, one supposes that the college, even in these degenerate (?) days, is somewhat freer from the vices of high living than is the rest of our community.

Canada and Protection.

L'Evenement; If ever Canada abandons her protective tariff we shall be delivered into the hands of the most powerful trusts in the world. The Canadians will in this case be ridding themselves of the pigmies to throw themselves at the feet of the giants if they remove the tariff barriers which protect our new-born industries. The counter-effect of such a change would be more terrible in its consequences than this forecast represents. The ruin of our industries and the atrophy of our agriculture would result in the rapid deterioration of our 45,000 miles of railways. Lines running west to east would be paralyzed almost at one stroke, and our commerce would go from north to south and vice-versa—a condition which would soon carry us to the doors of national bankruptcy. And French-Canadian nationality would commence its awful agony."

Wilson the Pioneer.

Springfield Republican: The conventional Mr. Lansing thought it a horrible blunder for President Wilson to attend the Paris Peace Conference. Everyone else who was critical of Mr. Wilson thought so too. Even now people are found saying, "What an awful mistake Wilson made in going to Paris." There are probably many persons who will believe to the end of their days that if President Wilson had stayed at home and exercised his right of guidance and supervision over the American delegates at a distance of three thousand miles the Versailles Treaty would have been beyond criticism and a blessing and joy forever. A most remarkable effect of President Wilson's course, in view of the condemnation he got, is that the British and French Prime Ministers, who are the real rulers of their respective countries, are determined to imitate him by coming across the Atlantic to attend the Washington Conference.

The Police of the Prairies.

Detroit Free Press: The distinguished record of the "Scarlet Riders" is a source of pride to Canadians. Its earnest, fearless control of the lawless elements of the rude frontier was a leading factor in its rapid development. The mounted officers preserved order, administered justice and safeguarded the settlers to such good point that pioneering was made less hazardous, to the end that the sparsely-settled regions were filled readily. The officers, never numerous but always effective, did good work in the Riel Rebellion, the Fenian Raids and the various Indian uprisings that molested the security of the early institutions. The traditions of the service are carefully preserved, in the spirit of the present personnel, and in a wider sense by novelists and scenario writers who have dwelt profusely on its romantic exploits. No body of law officers in history ever received greater recognition, and we might say, more justly deserved it.

The Singer in the Street.

O singer in the street, either be still
Or sing some other song that does not stir
With the slow scent and the wild hands of her,
The wild small hands that life could never fill.
For beauty is insatiable: O sing,
Lest longing destroy me, of some other thing.

—Humbert Wolfe, in The Westminster Gazette

TALES OF THE OLDEN DAYS

The bitter conflict which raged between "The Shiners" and the French-Canadian raftsmen during the early days of the lumbering industry on the Ottawa, often resulting in bloodshed, is still talked of in those parts of the valley where the raftsmen in the days of the thirties and forties were wont to congregate and settled their differences. How the term "Shiner", as applied to the English-speaking raftsmen of the period, had its origin, is somewhat difficult to explain. There have been several versions of its derivation, the most popular being that concerned with a tavern kept by a man named Benedict at the head of the Little Chaudiere. The raftsmen of Irish birth used to be paid off at Bytown (Ottawa), and made Benedict's tavern their headquarters on these occasions. He had a large family of strapping sons who were hard-hitters and able to keep the customers in order. As they both feared and respected Benedict, they resorted greatly to his tavern and there made away with many of the silver British half-crowns in which they were paid. Benedict never gave them rum without the money and when they called for a drink they laid down the half-crown and generally made use of this expression: "Give us some rum; here's your shiner." "Shiner" appears to have been the name which the raftsmen conferred upon these newly-coined pieces and it gradually came to be associated so closely with the raftsmen themselves that they received the same appellation.

* * *

Another, and not so likely, explanation which has been offered credits the origin of the term "Shiner" to the general aversion of the raftsmen to any person seen to be wearing a black silk hat. This article was known by some as "a stovepipe", by others as "a shiner" and when any person in the Ottawa district appeared wearing a silk hat, he was invariably, according to an old Upper Ottawa captain, cheered to the echo with the cry "Teo, teo"!, by men of both nationalities. Many of the so-called French-Canadian "greenhorns" who ascended the river to become raftsmen wore the top hat on their first trip. They were not, however, long permitted to enjoy its splendor, for the first sight of it was a signal to raise the cry of "Teo" and the hat was soon knocked down over the wear's head and face, generally in good humor, much to the amusement of the crowd and to the chagrin of its owner. This repugnance to the top hat so generally expressed ultimately led, according to this authority, to the leaders being dubbed with the same name as that borne by the object of their attacks.

* * *

Possibly the most peculiar outgrowth of this strife was the connection which arose between the term "Shiner" and the name of Peter White, one of the leading lumbermen of the Upper Ottawa and the father of Hon. Peter White, Speaker of the House of Commons. Mr. White never had any connection with the Shiners, although on one or two occasions he had difficulties with them in which he conducted himself with so much courage as to win their admiration and respect. The Moores were the only other lumbermen who shared his immunity from attack. It consequently came to be understood that Mr. White's property, unlike that of many other early lumbermen, was entitled to respect at the hands of the Shiners. He was a very strict disciplinarian, most religious and a great temperance man and it used to be a matter of great wonder to others that he could exercise such an influence over the wild fellows who gained their livelihood in the "shanties" and on the rafts. It is likely from this feeling of respect which the raftsmen entertained for Mr. White that the term "Shiners Peter White" arose.

* * *

Another informant has it that it was because Peter White generally wore a black silk hat in his travels that the connection between "the Shiners" and that gentleman became fixed. If seen wearing his "shiner", he received the usual attention, with the exception that no attempt was made to damage the headgear. All this he took in good spirit and many times he was seen to raise his "shiner" in compliment to the raftsmen's cheers.

* * *

When Peter White first settled at Pembroke, very little lumbering was done on the Upper Ottawa and it seemed such an out-of-the-world place that when the common salutation on the river "Who are you going up for?" was made, the answer generally was "Peter White".

If any of the raftsmen went into a tavern and had no money, he would say to the proprietor "Charge it to Peter White", which was usually sufficiently strong intimation to the tavern-keeper that he would never get paid for his rum.

If a man was asked to give his name and did not desire to do so, he would reply "Peter White".

"Peter White" consequently became a by-word on the river and was coupled with the term "Shiner" in spite of his pronounced opposition to their activities.

* * *

Mr. White used to give an amusing instance of the general use of his name in this way. He was travelling between Quebec and Montreal by steamer and when asked by a newly-appointed purser for his fare and his name, gave the latter as "Peter White". "None of that nonsense," said the purser, "I have had too much of that already. Give me your real name." It was only with much difficulty that Mr. White succeeded in convincing the purser that he was the real, Simon pure Peter White.

* * *

Nearly all the hard fighting between the Shiners and the French-Canadians was done in the seven miles lying between the foot of the Calumet and the head of the Portage du Fort rapids. In this territory the greatest delays in handling timber took place at Dirge Bay, Mountain Boom and Roche Fondu, and the raftsmen were more in contact with each other here than at any other point on the river.

The differences between the two classes were not those of religion, for fully three-quarters of the Shiners shared the beliefs of their adversaries. They seem to have been due to the employment of French-Canadian labor for a comparatively short period in the spring when the "run" of timber was under way. The wages given to these "greenhorns" were much higher than those granted the men in permanent employ, for the reason that the former had work for but a short period and at the expiration of which they had to pay their passages back to the place where they had been hired. The Shiners could not see the justice of this arrangement, in view of their constant employment and added experience, and claimed that many of the French-Canadians would later return and secure employment as "old hands", yet at a lower rate of pay than the Shiners received. The latter claimed that the Frenchmen were thus gradually cutting down the scale of wages generally. The result was an expressed determination to drive "every infernal Frenchman" off the river. To this end many were the battles fought, many the lives mysteriously lost on both sides, and great the property of lumbermen destroyed. Yet after years of struggle the Shiners failed utterly in their avowed object and descendants of the French-Canadian raftsmen still work on the river, side by side and in much greater harmony with the descendants of "The Shiners."

THE OTTAWA CANDIDATE.

The Editor, Montreal Daily Star:

Sir,—I note that you mention Dr. R. E. Chevrier as Liberal candidate for Ottawa in the coming Federal election. May I be permitted to correct this error by stating that Dr. Chevrier is not the candidate for Ottawa, but Mr. E. R. E. Chevrier, barrister, formerly of the firm of Belcourt, Ritchie and Chevrier, and now senior partner in the firm of Chevrier & Laurier. As the latter is a relative of mine, I am in a position to make the correction.

RETURNED SOLDIERS' DRESS.

The Editor, Montreal Daily Star.

Sir,—The letter in The Star in which two men "dressed as returned soldiers" are described as collecting subscriptions for the soldiers in this hospital, and pocketing the proceeds, fills us all with unmitigated horror at such a hideous display of moral depravity.

Yet we are puzzled, and inquire what is meant by "dressed as returned soldiers?" Bountiful and benevolently paternal as our Government is, we have not heard that it has issued a distinctive dress for returned soldiers. They all look very much like other people, those whom we met on our travels.

WHEN THE SCOTS MARCHED PAST.

The Editor, Montreal Daily Star:

Sir,—During the march past of the local militia units after the church parade I was in a good position, fifty yards or so east of the Art Galleries. I was greatly struck with the generally smart appearance of the various units, but the big attraction for me was to see my old regiment go past. When they came into sight a low ripple of applause ran along the lines of spectators, and my Scots heart swelled with pride as I saw the familiar faces of the brawny Pipe-Major and company, with their feather hats an' a', an' a'.

Shades o' Rab Roy! The military band was playing "Colonel Bogey."

On they came, fifty yards from the saluting base—thirty—ten—and ten beyond. Heavens! the Highlanders had gone past to an American march played by a military band!

As I slowly wended my way homewards memories of past reviews crowded my mind. Valcartier camp in August, 1914, with the Duke of Connaught and that lad Sir Sam Hughes; Salisbury Plains, with the King, Lord Roberts and Gen. Alderson; Lord French in Flanders, and so on, ad lib.

I was reared within a mile of a large Scottish garrison town, with its continual reviews and ceremonials, and I have never, never seen a Highland regiment march past to any other music than the pipes. I sincerely trust the regiment is not forgetful of traditions, or maybe the next ceremonial will see our braw, braw lads go past in "breeks."

THE CHURCHES AND REVIVAL.

The Editor, Montreal Daily Star.

Sir,—The words spoken by S. J. Moore and Dr. Wallace at the Baptist Convention at St. Thomas regarding evangelism and revival will meet with hearty agreement from all sincere Christians regardless of denomination. How far the proposals will go remains to be seen.

If the work of today was as sincere and honest in the eyes of God as the activity is pronounced before men, there would be less cause for regret at the lack of results. An appeal to officers of churches may be considered proper in ecclesiastical circles, but how far are they willing to go and how able are they to take up the task that they are called upon to perform? The writer has witnessed the results of the moving of the spirit of God among the people on many occasions, but regrets he has also witnessed the counteracting of such work by those in authority in the Church. Human leadership in the Church has sometimes been responsible for the quenching of the Holy Spirit and preventing what would have been a great work of God. Personal popularity and denominational advantage has become so prominent among many who are standing in the forefront that one questions whether their leadership is not more important in their own eyes than the glory of God. If Gabriel were to come right from the presence of God and enter some of our assemblies, what a cold reception he would have! There might be a little politeness shown, but there would be little love, and any anxiety on his part to be "a workman approved unto God rightly dividing the word of truth," would probably be met by a spirit of jealousy and prejudice.

The writer is not a pastor, nor is he an officer, but only an ordinary member of one of the local churches desiring to see the work of God prospering in our midst, and willing to co-operate with those who are like-minded, believing that the only remedy for the Church is an outpouring of the spirit of God and that such will come when the people of God lay aside all craftiness and humbly and prayerfully wait upon God.

LANGUAGE OF UKRANIA.

The Editor, Montreal Daily Star:

Sir,—Mr. A. J. Kibzey apparently did not realize that Mr. J. A. Whitaker took part in the controversy rather as an ally than foe. Mr. Kibzey in his reply says that it is nothing to be proud of to display ignorance. If anyone displays absolute ignorance, it is Mr. Kibzey himself. First, there is no such language as Ukranian. The people living in Ukrania, that is, in the southern part of the province of Kiev, and in the districts of Poltava, Kharkov, and Kherson and Ekaterinoslav, speak "Little Russian," also called "Ruthenian." As to the cities mentioned by Mr. Whitaker, which Mr. Kibzey claims to be "Ukranian," these are Polish and were since immemorial days. According to Herodotus, Ptolemy, Strabo, Ptolomee, and also to the Ruthenian historian Nester, the Bulones—Polans or Poles, were living between the rivers Oder and Dnieper. Only in 981 a part of Eastern Galicia called "Red Castles" was conquered from Poland by the Ruthenians, after many changes in 1340 was returned to Poland, and since that time is and was an integral part of Poland. Lwow or Leopol, was founded by a Norman, a Ruthenian Grand Duke Leo, but Stanislaus was named in honor of St. Stanislaus, bishop of Cracow, Przemysl, derived from the Polish of Przemyslaw. Whatever Mr. Kibzey's opinion about it is can in no way alter the history of past centuries. Mr. Whitaker in his reply to Mr. Kibzey's letter alludes to the fact that the former says "Metropolit, meaning as much as cardinal." I am quite sure that Mr. Kibzey forgot to look in his American Encyclopaedia before he wrote such nonsense. The man in question has no more right to call himself a cardinal than to sign under his name archbishop of Lemberg (German for Leopol — Lwow) only his Grace Archbishop Bilczewski has the right to do so.

Mr. Kibzey will do best before starting to write about subjects maybe dear to his heart, but about which he does not know everything, to look in more than one encyclopaedia. The reading on Poland and Russia in, Larousse, L'Aldmirault, Brittanica, Brockhaus, Meyers, and such works as Histoire Generale, of Lavisse et Rambaud, and the history of Poland by Roepell, a German, will do him a lot of good.

FEW GERMAN TOYS FOR CHRISTMAS

Claim Made That Customs Regulations Prevent Big Trade

Santa Claus will carry very few German and practically no Japanese toys in his pack for Canadian children this Christmas, in the opinion of a German trade representative in the city, and a prominent Japanese merchant, Yoshida Manzo.

Although German manufacturers are making toys to supply the world, practically no firms are trying at the present time to sell their goods direct to shop-keepers in the Dominion, because of the customs regulations which went into force early last summer. This regulation bases the customs duty on goods imported from Germany at 50 per cent. of the pre-war rate of the mark. On a purchase of goods worth $7.50 in our money the customs duty might amount to something like $40, he said, about six times the sum which the local dealer paid for the article in Canadian money. This had rendered it quite out of the question for German manufacturers to send toys here. He stated that in the last few years rapid strides had been made in the German toy industry, particularly in the manufacture of dolls. A number of lady artists had opened studios in the large German cities and were making dolls with faces so lifelike that they would astonish little girls accustomed to the pre-war factory product. These were sold in Berlin for as high as 200 marks—an unheard of price previous to 1914, when ten marks was considered an extravagant charge for a doll.

The high cost of living in Japan, and the consequent excessive expense of production in that country is given by Yoshida Manzo as the reason for the decline in the number of Japanese toys which will be placed on the Christmas market. During the war Mr. Manzo, stated, the Japanese produced an enormous quantity of cheap playthings to replace those which had formerly been made by Germans and Austrians and could no longer be obtained. Now this emergency production has practically been discontinued, he said, for living costs have so risen in the Flowery Kingdom that the Japanese can no longer make and sell it a profit European dolls and harmonicas. Men's suits are 40 to 50 per cent. higher in Japan at present than they are in the United States, and sugar which sells for 5 cents a pound across the border is 35 cents a pound in Japanese money, or 18 cents in American currency. Meat is 55 cents in U. S. funds. On account of a cost of living increase, out of all proportion to the rise in their salaries, many Europeans were leaving Japan, he had been told, and it was hopeless for Japanese manufacturers to attempt to compete with prices asked for goods from central Europe. As for the toys peculiarly Japanese, which can only be made by workmen who have had long training, these are coming over in as large quantities as usual, for Canadians are ready to pay high prices to get them.

ANNOUNCE JAPS TO EVACUATE SIBERIA

TOKIO, Oct. 27.—The intention of the Japanese Government to evacuate Siberia, turning over the responsibility for peace to the Merkuloff Government at Vladivostok at an early date is announced by the War Office, in confirming the report printed in the Hochi Shimbun that Japan would be impelled to carry out the evacuation prior to the opening of the Washington Conference, because of the alleged insincere attitude of the Chita administration in the Dairen conference.

KINGSTON PRISON WELL POPULATED

KINGSTON, Ont., Oct. 27.—The population of Portsmouth Penitentiary has reached the highest point in more than forty years, the number of prisoners being over 840. It is stated that this is due to some extent to the suspension of the operation of the Ticket-of-leave Act, passed in 1899, which was a great reformative force, and also an effective means of keeping down the annual expenditure for prison maintenance.

RESTORE CERTIFICATE TO CAPT. BRADLEY

VANCOUVER, B.C., Oct. 27. — The Supreme Court has quashed the suspension of Captain J. Bradley and restored his master's certificate. The Marine Court, after investigation of the wreck of the Canadian Government steamer Canadian Exporter on Willapa Bar last July, suspended the captain for six months on the ground that he was guilty of negligence.

A Telephone Conversation

"Hello, Jack, this is Bob speaking. Just got in from Boston. Before I forget it, is there a really good place in Montreal to have shoes repaired? I just noticed that the soles on my pet shoes are getting thin."

"Sure there is."

"Well, we have a fine place in Boston but I didn't know if you Canadians had one of these shoe repair factories."

"Say, we're probably as far ahead of you on shoe repairs as we are on prohibition."

"Where is this wonderful place?"

"Darned if I know. They have several places, but you only have to phone them. Name is Shoe-Craft and the number is Uptown 869."

"Do they put the soles all the way through?"

"Sure. I always have mine rebuilt the first time the soles wear out. Costs three dollars and a quarter, but it's worth it."

"What's that number again?

"Uptown 869. Call them up and then come on up to the house."

"Righto. Bye-bye."

A CONSTANT READER.
Ans.—A is right. He died on October 13, 1905, at the age of 67, in the foyer of the Midland Hotel at Bradford, England, after having played Tennyson's "Becket" at the Bradford Theatre Royal. He collapsed immediately after the fall of the curtain.

BUSINESS WOMEN'S CLUB.

Would you kindly advise me, through your columns, if there is any business woman's club in the city, something along the lines of the Canadian Club? It seems to me that many business women would enjoy such lectures as we often now seem to have the monopoly of, and if such a club is in existence, or could be formed, I for one, would gladly appreciate being a member. BUSINESS WOMAN.
Ans.—The only one I know of is the Business Women's Unit of Montreal, a branch of the Catholic Women's League of Canada.

HE IS COLD.

I have been keeping steady company with my boy friend for the past three years—he has come for our engagement, as he has bought me a diamond ring for Christmas, which I admire myself. He is very good to me in many respects. He claims he cares for me better than any one else, and wants me to be his wife. He gives me everything he can and spends most of his time with me. The question is this: Does he love me or not? He will not say he does, as he says he does not know. He claims he loves me but this does not satisfy me, as he is not affectionate at all. He does not spend any time making love (kissing, etc.) He says he does not do this because he does not feel the way and it does not occur to him to do these things like the average person in love does.

Do you think our marriage would be a happy one with this drawback, as I am of a very affectionate disposition and do like being petted and loved, etc., especially by the one whom I expect to marry. Is it possible for a boy to love a girl and at the same time feel this way? "LOVE."
Ans.—It is not usual for a man who is really "in love" to be averse to any demonstration of it, but possibly he is not as old as he seems. If you care for him, and he is so good to you, I think I would "take a chance" on his "coldness."

WHEN GIRLS ARE SILLY.

1. Should a girl speak to a boy first when she meets him on the street? 2. Is it correct for fifteen year old girl to be accompanied home by a boy after the rink. 3. Is it right for her to correspond with a boy of her own age? 4. What colors should girls of the following descriptions wear: (1) Fair hair, grey-green eyes, and a sallow complexion: (2) dark hair, brown eyes and a dark complexion? 5. When other girl friends begin to act silly with boys, what should the girl who does not wish to be counted "slacker," do? PICKLE AND PEPPER.
Ans.—1. Yes. 2. No, if she conducts herself modestly. 3. Yes, if she writes sensible letters. 4. The choice of a blonde is generally more limited than that of a brunette To the blonde, particularly the blue-eyed one, every shade of blue, from the paisley shade of sky-blue to the darkest peacock, is becoming. Heliotrope and mauve are also the blonde's portion, and a very youthful blonde may, sometimes, wear scarlet successfully. A touch of scarlet on a hat being striking without being bizarre. But black is the definite as well as to the woman in her last bloom, is exceedingly flattering. When combined with silver for the blonde, and with flame color or burnt orange for the brunette, it is very distinctive. Scarlet and pink, coral and rose, are the prerogatives of brunettes; and orange and amber light up the beauty of a dark woman. Yellow, nasturtium, orchid and purple are suitable. 5. She should intimate to her friends quite quietly and without making any fuss, that she doesn't like this sort of thing, and that if they persist in it they will not have her company any more.

GAELIC SONGS.

In reply to A.B.R. I trust the following may be helpful:
FEAR A' BHATA.
(Gaelic with word for word translation.)

'S tric mi sealltuinn o'n chnoc a's airde,
Is oft I look from the hill which is highest,
Dh'fheuch am faic mi fear a' bhata;
Try to see I man of the boat
An tig thu'n dugh, no'n tig thu mairean,
Comest thou today, or comest thou tomorrow,
's mur tig thu idir, gur truagh a fa mi,
If not comest thou (at all), that sad am I.

Chorus.

Fhir a' bhata na ho ro eile,
Man of the boat na ho ro eile,
Fhir a' bhata na ho ro eile,
Man of the boat na ho ro eile,
Mo shoraidh slan dhut, 's gach ait an teid thu,
My farewell health (to you), each place goest thou.

I climb the mountain and scan the ocean,
For thee, my boatman, with fond devotion;
When shall I see thee? today? tomorrow?
Oh! do not leave me in lonely sorrow.

Chorus.

O, my boatman, na ho ro eile,
(Three times)
May Joy await thee, where'er thou sailest.

Broken-hearted, I droop and languish,
And frequent tears show my bosom's anguish:
Shall I expect thee tonight to cheer me?
Or close the door, sighing, sad and weary.

Chorus as above.

Vair me o ru o ro, Sad am I without thee.

When I'm lonely dear white heart
Black the night or wild the sea,
By love's light my foot finds

GENERAL SIR HECTOR MACDONALD.

Referring to the above signed "Scottie," I do not wish to have an argument with anyone, but merely to correct the letter which appeared in your column on Oct. 13, that General Macdonald died from his own hands in Paris, and was buried in Edinburgh, Scotland. The late Macdonald died a natural death in the Ritz Hotel, Paris, his body being taken to Edinburgh where it lay in state. Thereafter buried, only to be removed again to Dingwall, Rossshire, by request of relatives of whom I am one, my father being a first cousin of Fighting Mac, and who holds his pictures signed by his own handwriting thus: "Your Affectionate Cousin," "Heccie," as he was called in childhood days. Macdonald monument stands high over Heriot Mount, Dingwall, overlooking the Cromarty Firth, the Sutters and entrance to the North Sea. It needs no further statement, but if the perfect truth of this is required to be verified, I am sure you are at liberty to use my name. Perhaps "Falls of Ragie Strathpeffer and Scottie" may be interested to know a Dingwallian is in their midst and a descendant of Fighting Mac.

HEALTH TALKS

By JOHN B. HUBER, A.M., M.D.

CATCHING ON?

I am gratified to have received many letters anent my little piece in this column regarding the Italian way I advised to go into the country. The following is in answer to questions since received.

Now, I beg of you, if you are going into farming, go into it whole-heartedly or don't go into it at all. Also be prepared to work, otherwise you will lose your farm in bankruptcy proceedings, and your last state will be worse than your first. There must be hired men who will work faithfully and hard for you, but in the nature of things they must be rare. I will tell you why presently. The city parks are filled nightly by men who are raising an awful wail about unemployment; there isn't one of them who couldn't get a place on a farm if he would work for the wage which the farmer could afford to pay him. Do your own work then on your own farm!

One August afternoon I took a rig and drove down through what was at one time a river bed, some of the most fertile land on the globe, all alluvial soil, hardly a rock the size of a football to be seen for miles. Do we own it? Not much we do! I observed people most industriously growing tobacco and onions—penniless immigrants several years ago—the man and his wife, his children, his sisters, his wife's sisters, the parents on both sides, people whose various languages I could not understand except to be sure they were not speaking English.

Then I drove into the city and came upon jobless, sickly, emaciated people on the corners, hands in tumors pockets, hat slouched over their ears, all complaining bitterly that the country was going to the dogs. Well, if they work, isn't that good for the country?

All inquiries addressed to Dr. Huber in care of the "Health Talks" department will be answered in these columns in their turn. This requires considerable time, however, owing to the great number received. So if a personal or quicker reply is desired, a stamped and self-addressed envelope must be enclosed with the question.—The Editor.

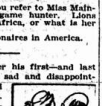
On the day after his first—and last—boxing match a sad and disappointed man hobbled off to see a doctor. His head was bandaged, his arm was in a sling, his face was a mass of court plaster and he had borrowed a crutch.



"Hurt yourself?" queried the doctor.
Hurt himself? The patient grunted. Of course he'd hurt himself!
"Feel any pain?" asked the doctor.
Feel any pain!—The patient gave a second disgusted grunt. He couldn't feel anything else.
"Looks as though you've had an accident," observed the doctor.
"Oh," replied the patient, finding his voice at last. "Not at all."
"Then, perhaps," suggested the doctor, "you've been indulging in some rough sport?"
"That's it," said the patient, "I've been blowing bubbles."

"Only think, Mrs. Brady," Mrs. Murphy said, "that great pianist down the street has practised so hard during the last six months that he has paralyzed two fingers."
"That's nothin'," Mrs. Brady promptly replied. "Me daughter, Bridget has practised so hard for the last six months that she's paralyzed two pianos."

More Truth Than Poetry

LIT !

"If you are feeling low and glum,"
The doctor said one day,
"Just cut a ray of radium
And care will pass away.
It brings a feeling of content
Especially to scribes,
No lagelitude will fag a gent
Who radium imbibes."

"A ray of radium," said I,
"Sounds rather small to me;
I think I'll take a fair supply.
Say two—or maybe three."
So three I ate—I gulped them down.
And through the gathering gloam
(The radium stage was well grown)
Set out to walk back home.

A friend I met, he looked unwell—
I spoke about the heat;
But with a wild and fearful yell
He fled across the street.
I met a lady that I knew;
Here face turned ashen gray,
She gave a gasping wail or two
And fainted dead away.

The children ran as I passed by,
A dog came up behind,
And when upon me fell his eye,
He furled his tail and whined.

Eat radium, gentle friends, with care,
If you, like me, are thin,
Keep off the public thoroughfare,
It shines right through your skin!

THE REMEMBERED KISS

By RUBY AYRES

CHAPTER XLVI.

Molly came to my door presently.

"Let me in," she entreated; "I want to speak to you. Let me in."

"Go away—go away," I answered fiercely. "You promised me that you wouldn't let any one of them talk about me. You've broken your word."

"I've never broken my word in my life," she answered. "Let me in, only for a minute. Lorna, I beg of you."

"Go away—go away," I said.

Rupert came next. His methods were needless but much more effective, for he simply said he would break the door down if I didn't open it.

He had something of father's hot temper, and after a little hesitation I turned the key and let him in.

He looked white and worried.

"I don't understand you at all," he began agitatedly. "I only acted for the best! I thought it would help you. If you knew what that skunk Harry Loughland has been hinting ever since he came here."

I looked up at him with haggard eyes.

"What has he been hinting?" I asked.

"He as good as told Molly yesterday that Patrick had left you. I overheard what he said. He hinted that there had been something between you and Scott before you were married. That you and Patrick had only married to get the money, and that there had been some agreement between you that afterwards . . ." He clenched his teeth. "I wish I'd choked the brute," he broke out passionately. "Why do you have him here? Why don't you turn him out?"

"Because I don't care if he stays or what he says," I answered recklessly. "Why need you care? It probably is true that Patrick has left me. . . . Didn't you hear in London before you came out here?"

He made an impatient gesture.

"There were rumors, but there always have been about Loughland. It's a case of giving a dog a bad name with him. He's quite a decent chap if you know how to take him."

I laughed.

"And it was you who told me that he drank and gambled and was up to his eyes in debt," I taunted him. "It was you who said that it would do me good to be married to a man of his type—that it would wake me up and knock the nonsense out of me. You've changed your mind."

He colored.

"Perhaps I have," he said. "And, anyway, it's not Harry Loughland's place to come here and behave like a dirty cad. Why did Lucile Roper clear off so suddenly? Why, because he told her that yarn about you and Scott . . ."

I gave a little wail of protest.

"Oh, no, no!" I said.

"It's true, I tell you," my brother protested obstinately. "She was keen on Scott herself, and so it wasn't likely she was going to stay after hearing such a thing . . ." He began to pace up and down my room agitatedly. "I sent for Patrick for your sake," he went on after a moment. "I sent for Patrick because I know he'll kick that precious brother of his out of the house when he hears what's been going on."

There was a little silence, then I said quietly:

"You seem very sure that he will come."

"I am sure," Rupert answered.

"I'm not," I said.

He turned round and stared at me.

"I don't understand," he said, after a moment. "Any one would think that you hope he won't; that . . ."

"I do hope he won't," I interrupted passionately. "I don't want him to come—I never want to see him again. I would rather have died than have allowed you to ask him to come, if I'd known."

My brother's face grew stern.

"You mean . . . my God, Lorna, it's not true about Scott, is it?" he asked hoarsely. Some one knocked at the door.

"Please ma'am, a telegram."

Rupert opened the door. I watched his face almost in terror while he read the message.

"No answer," he said laconically, and handed it to me.

It had been sent off from Holyhead, and only consisted of four words.

"Starting at once—Loughland."

There was a tragic silence. Rupert was looking at me with abashed eyes. I felt as if something within me wanted to scream and cry and rave against the bitterness of this humiliation, but I held myself with iron restraint.

"Please go away," I said, and Rupert left me without another word.

I dressed and went down to supper. It was an uncomfortable meal to which Harry Loughland did not put in an appearance.

They had all been very clever, I thought; but I would be cleverer still. I would outwit them at the last moment. If they thought I was going to stay quietly here until Patrick turned up to look after me they were mistaken. I slipped out of the room at the first opportunity and upstairs.

Mr. Scott met me on the landing. I would have passed him, but he prevented me.

"Is Loughland coming?" he asked hoarsely.

"Yes."

"When?"

"On the night boat."

I heard him draw in his breath.

"Do you want him?" he asked, and I cried out vehemently:

"No—no—no!"

He took my hand and raised it to his lips.

"Come away with me," he said in a passionate whisper. "I love you, I adore you. Lorna, if you had married me you would have been happy now; and it's not too late . . . Come with me—come with me."

I suppose I was mad, for though his words did not touch my heart in the very least they seemed to take a grip of my imagination.

I wanted to hurt Patrick, and in order to succeed I did not care how desperately I hurt myself.

Francis loved me and nobody else did in the whole wide world.

He went on talking, urging, pleading for what seemed an eternity, though it could not have been more than a few seconds, and then I found myself in my room with the door closed and the promise I had just given ringing in my ears.

Patrick had left me, and now I was going to leave him.

I was terrified lest I should forget Mr. Scott's instructions. When at last, at 2 o'clock in the morning, I was all ready, my limbs shook as if with ague.

It was a queer, stuffy sort of morning for March. I had had my bedroom window open all night, and yet I hardly seemed to be able to breathe, and though it was still quite dark, of course, there was an odd sort of red light in the sky—the sort of light that one sees in summer before a storm.

As I crept down through the house every board and stair seemed to creak beneath my weight. I found the front door unbolted—Mr. Scott had seen to that—and I dragged it open.

Everything was so silent. There was not a leaf stirring or the tiniest breath of wind . . . the darkness frightened me, and I stood trembling afraid to go on. Then through the darkness I saw the glow of a light, and knew Mr. Scott was there at the corner of the road.

The clock in the hall struck half-past two—another four hours and Patrick . . . I could not continue along that line of thought; I still loved him—and if you have ever tried running away from the man you loved, with a man for whom you care less, than nothing, you will know how I felt.

I reached the corner of the road breathless and frightened; I clung to Mr. Scott for a moment, unable to speak; if he had been any one else in the world I should have been just as glad to have seen him; I was terrified of myself and of what I was doing.

I have always remembered with gratitude that he did not try to kiss me; if he had, I am sure that even then I should have turned back; but he just helped me into the car beside him, wrapped a rug warmly round me, and we started.

That drive was a nightmare; the lurid glow in the sky frightened me—it looked somehow like wrath; I drew Mr. Scott's attention to it.

"It's the dawn coming up, that's all," he said.

"It looks like a storm," I answered, "and I'm so terrified of thunder." I shut my eyes and tried to keep them shut.

Everything was very silent; the only sound the soft purring of the engine. My nerves were strained to snapping point; I felt as if I were shutting my eyes not only to the darkness but to the future as well.

What was I doing? To what folly was I going? The questions rocked to and fro in my brain.

I thought of Aunt Anne and mother and Molly, and wondered what they would all say if they could know.

We seemed to rush on through the warm darkness for hours and hours. The curious red glow I had noticed in the sky had increased and was fringed with a sort of tattered gray. Mr. Scott looked down at me and asked if I were cold.

I laughed nervously. It seemed such a platitudinous question, considering the circumstances.

I said "No," and then I said "Yes," and then I said "I don't know," but the mere fact of speaking seemed to have thawed the numbness of my heart and I broke out tremblingly:

"Oh, take me back—do let me go back—I can't go on—oh, I'm so afraid," I can't go on—oh, I'm so afraid."

He did not answer for what seemed an eternity; then he slowed the car a little, and, half turning, put an arm round me.

"You're tired and frightened," he said. "It's only a little farther—look it's getting light."

I could see his face quite clearly now in the grey dawn—stern he looked, but his eyes were very kind as they met mine, and suddenly he broke out:

"You shall never regret trusting yourself to me—I swear that, never for one moment shall you regret it, Lorna!"

I shivered and looked away from him. It seemed useless to tell him that already I was terrified at what I had done.

PETER RABBIT LISTENS TO THE WRONG VOICE.

It Was Louder Than the First Voice and Peter Liked the Sound of It.

Peter Rabbit didn't play fair. No, sir, Peter didn't play fair. People who have too much curiosity about other people's affairs seldom do play fair. He didn't mean to be unfair. Oh, my, no! Peter didn't mean to be unfair. When he left Chatterer the Red Squirrel sitting on the old stonewall on the edge of Farmer Brown's Old Orchard he intended to go straight home to the dear Old Briar Patch. He was a little disappointed, was Peter, that Chatterer hadn't told him just where his new house was. Not that it really mattered; he just wanted to know, that was all. With every jump away from the old stonewall that desire to know just where Chatterer's new house was seemed to grow. Peter stopped and looked back. He couldn't see Chatterer now because the bushes hid him. And if he couldn't see Chatterer, why, of course Chatterer couldn't see him.

Peter sat down and began to pull his whiskers in a way he has when he is trying to decide something. It seemed as if two little voices were quarrelling inside him. "Go along home like the good fellow you are, and mind your own business," said one. "Steal back to the old wall and watch Chatterer and so find out just where his new house is; he'll never know anything about it, and there'll be no harm done," said the other little voice. It was louder than the first voice and Peter liked the sound of it.

"I believe I will," said he, and without waiting to hear what the first little voice would say to that he turned about and very carefully and softly tiptoed back to the old stonewall. Right near it was a thick little bush. It seemed to Peter that it must have grown there just to give him a hiding place. He crawled under it and lay very flat. He could see along the old stonewall in both directions. Chatterer was sitting just where he had left him. He was looking in the direction that Peter had gone when he had said good-bye. Peter chuckled to himself. "He's waiting to make sure I have gone before he goes to that new house of his," thought Peter. "This is the time I'll fool him."

"You ought to be ashamed of yourself, Peter Rabbit; this is none of your business," said that little small voice down inside.

"You're not doing a bit of harm. Chatterer has no business to try to keep his new house a secret anyway," said the other little voice inside. And because of his dreadful curiosity Peter liked the sound of that little voice best and listened to it, and after a while the first little voice grew discouraged and stopped.

Chatterer sat right where he was for what seemed to Peter a very long time. But by and by he gave a sudden funny little flirt of his tail and ran swiftly along the old wall a little way. Then with a hasty look around he disappeared in a hole. A minute later he popped his head out for a hasty look around and then disappeared again. He did that two or three times as if he was anxious. Peter chuckled to himself. "That's his new house right there," said he to himself, "and now that I know where it is I think I'll hurry along home to the dear Old Briar Patch."

He was just getting ready to start when Chatterer popped out of his hole and sat upon a big stone. He was talking out loud and Peter listened. Then his long ears began to burn, for this is what he heard:

"I'm glad that Peter's not a spy,
For spies are hateful as can be.
It's dreadful how some people try
Affairs of other folks to see."

Chatterer whisked out of sight and Peter hurried to get away. His ears still burned, and somehow he didn't feel so tickled over the thought that he had discovered Chatterer's secret as he had thought he would. And over in the hole in the old stonewall Chatterer the Red Squirrel was laughing as if there was some great joke. There was, and the joke was on Peter Rabbit. You see, he hadn't discovered Chatterer's new house at all.

NEXT STORY: HOW CHATTERER HAD FOOLED PETER RABBIT.

READ YOUR CHARACTER

By DIGBY PHILLIPS

No. 70—Big Ear Mounds

You simply coin this phrase "ear-mound" to get around the less understandable medical or anatomical phrase that you'd have to use otherwise.

Look around among your friends and see if some of them have not faces which are prominent right in front of the ears, and their heads likewise a little prominent in back of the ears; in short, whose skulls apparently have bumps or mounds developed right where the ear is attached.

This skull development is what we choose to call the ear-mound.

Strangely enough it indicates two things which in the mind of the average person are very far apart, but which in reality are much the same, destructiveness and executive ability.

Have you ever noticed that where you find one of these characteristics or tendencies you usually find the other? They occur in varying degrees of combination, controlled by the balance of the individual's other faculties, his intelligence, his practicality, his reasoning powers and his moral qualities.

But executive ability is simply the higher order of controlled destructiveness. The good executive is the one who destroys the obstacles in the path to the results he wishes to achieve. He is essentially an eliminator, sweeping aside ideas and emotions of others, or customs and habits of others which interfere with efficiency in the tasks to which he has set them. He has the energy to overcome obstacles whether they are people, ideas or things.

FASHIONS FOR TODAY.

A Sleeveless Cape Completes This Smart Street Costume.

"Long but not too long," appears to be the final dictum on skirt styles for fall and winter. Women on this side have not taken to the very long skirts sponsored early by some of the French dressmakers, and it is interesting to observe that recently quite a number of the French designers have expressed themselves as favoring reasonably short skirts for street wear and tailored apparel generally. Formal evening gowns may be long and stately, if resigned for women of tall and commanding presence who wear such gowns well, but the suits or frocks meant for utility wear certainly look better and are more comfortable if several inches from the ground. The ultra short skirts, however, are as objectionable as the very long ones, and this season seems to have arrived at a happy medium.

The frock shown in the sketch is just about right as to length for a young, slender figure. The skirt features the uneven hem line, at the longest points being about seven inches from the ground and at the shortest, nine inches.

This little frock is so smart that at first glance it is difficult to realize that it is simplicity itself as to line. It is a straight line model, featuring a waist line that is a little lower than normal. It buttons a little to one side, and is finished with belt, collar and sleeve bands of fur. The sleeveless cape completes the outfit. It is of self fabric lined in contrasting shade, cut somewhat circular and longer in the centre back than at the sides. The loop and long end bow finishing the frock in front might be of self fabric or of silk or velvet matching the cape lining in color. The frock would be smart made of duvetyn in any of the popular street shades.

MACKENZIE KING CHARGES PREMIER WITH INSOLENCE

Accuses Meighen and Minister of Militia of Deceiving People

MUNITION ISSUE

Liberal Leader Goes Into Whole Story of Discovery at Levis

ORONO, Ont., Oct. 27. — (By a Star Staff Correspondent).—Charging the Prime Minister and the Minister of Militia with having deceived the people of Canada, with having wasted public funds accusing Hon. Hugh Guthrie with giving a false explanation and Right Hon. Mr. Meighen with insolence, Hon. Mackenzie King dealt at length with Mr. Meighen's reply to his questions regarding the importation of munitions at Levis, in his address to an audience which packed the Mechanics Hall here last evening.

Mr. King was received with generous applause. Following an eulogy of the ability and qualities of the local candidate, W. T. R. Preston, he told at length the story of his discovery while looking around the harbor at Levis, of a Canadian Government Merchant Marine vessel discharging quantities of high explosive shells and of his learning that five ship loads had come into port in recent months and that they were being distributed to military depots throughout Canada. Mr. King had then addressed to Mr. Meighen a public letter asking for information and had first of all received an insolent reply and later the statement that had just been made public, while Hon. Hugh Guthrie had also made a public statement on the subject.

SAYS REPLIES CONTRADICTORY.

The explanation of the Prime Minister and that of the Minister of Militia contradicted each other, Mr. King maintained Hon. Hugh Guthrie had described these munitions as a gift from Great Britain to Canada. Now the Premier said they were Canada's own property, being part of war supplies credited to her on account of supplies furnished England by Canada, and which of course were furnished out of monies appropriated by the Parliament of Canada and raised through taxation or by loans upon which interest is being paid at the present time.

Why, he asked, had the Premier contradicted the Minister of Militia's statement? Because Hon. Mr. Guthrie's statement was false. Mr. Meighen's letter declared that no war material had been purchased since the Armistice. Why then were large sums of money voted in 1920 and 1921 for the manufacture of munitions at Lindsay and Quebec? And why was nothing said at that time about a credit on which Canada could draw for stores or munitions overseas? The sum of $1,180,024 was voted in 1920 for munitions to be made in Lindsay and Quebec, at that time the Minister of Militia had stated in the House that all Canada's heavy ammunition was made at Quebec. Last session nearly half a million was voted for munitions.

CHALLENGES PREMIER.

"In view of these purchases amounting to nearly two millions in nine years, can Mr. Meighen say that no war material of any kind has been purchased since the Armistice?" he asked, or Mr. Guthrie say that not a dollar has been spen on munitions? I challenge Mr. Meighen or Mr. Guthrie to deny that these appropriations were made, and that most of this money of the people has already been spent on them. Mr. Guthrie through his interview led the public to believe that he had told Parliament all about the so-called gifts of war material from England. You may read the utterances of the Minister of Militia in Parliament from beginning to end and you will find no mention anywhere of any gift of ammunition.

"And it so happens that the cargo of the Canadian Runner, which occasioned the present disclosures, contained nothing but high explosive shells. The only war stores or supplies referred to by Mr. Guthrie in Parliament were aeroplanes, guns and paraphernalia of war of the kind which is generally referred to as equipment, as distinguished altogether from ammunition.

"Mr. Meighen says at the beginning and close of his letter that no war material of any kind has been purchased since the Armistice. Apparently 2,355 tons of ammunition had already reached Canada, entirely for the use of the artillery, and other cargoes were coming in. This, while Canada was professing sympathy with disarmament, these credits in England did not appear in any public accounts, although similar credits on Quebec and Lindsay duly appeared there. All of these munitions were being transported and stored at great expense to the Canadian people, although Parliament had not appropriated a dollar for that purpose."

SAYS PEOPLE DECEIVED.

"Enough has been disclosed," Mr. King declared, "to show that Parliament and the people have been deliberately deceived by the Government with respect to vast expenditures of public monies on ammunition and warlike stores, and to reveal a scandal unparalleled in the politics of our country. Till Mr. Meighen and Mr. Guthrie are able to show wherein these shipoads and partial cargoes of munitions are necessary to the one arm of the Canadian army, or as Mr. Meighen describes it, are capable of use by them for I am told high explosives of the kind can only be used in war and are not suitable for training purposes, they must rest under the indictment of having wilfully wasted millions of dollars of the money or credit of the people of this country, at a time of our country's greatest financial need.

"Mr. Meighen had stated that he was disposed to think Mr. King could have got the information he wanted from the Minister of Munitions. "I intend writing Mr. Guthrie tomorrow morning," said Mr. King, "and ask him for a detailed statement of how much war material has been brought over, and how much credit still remained to draw against. I will give him a day or two to reply perhaps three, but if I do not have a reply by then, well, I will know the reason why. I have my own view of what is back of all this. The people will discover before this election is over what is back of it. But first of all I want that statement in detail."

FREE TRADE NOT ISSUE.

The Premier's talk about free trade, he maintained, was a scheme to turn public attention away from matters like this munition scandal. The cost of living depended on the cost of Government, and the woman voter could see the connection between politics and daily life when she considered the rising cost of food and clothing. No wonder skirts were getting shorter every season. Free trade was not an issue at the present time, but the tariff was. The country was honeycombed with combines and merger profiting by the tariff to keep up prices. It was the influence of these combines that was keeping Mr. Meighen in power. The only hope Mr. Meighen had of returning to power was in three cornered contests and he believed that all over the country Farmer candidates were being put up by the Tory interests, and those who supported the third candidate would find they had been deceived.

W. T. R. Preston, Liberal candidate for Durham County, prophesied that under Hon. Mackenzie King's permiership after the forthcoming election, a similar trade revival would take place as was seen during Laurier's premiership. He accused the Government of having bolstered the Military Service Act on the grounds of lack of reinforcements overseas, while 22,000 Canadian troops were performing for the movies in England. He charged the Borden-Meighen Government with having deceived the people and the soldiers scandalously at the 1917 elections. He promised the farmers of Canada the establishment of cold storage warehouses in England for the benefit of Canadian producers, and other lesser booms subject to his election as member for the county.

STORM WREAKS HAVOC IN STRAIT OF GIBRALTAR

CADIZ, Spain, Oct. 27.—A severe storm today caused the loss of a number of fishing smacks in the Strait of Gibraltar. While the crews of most of them were saved, several fishermen are known to have been drowned, and numerous small craft are still missing.

At San Lucar de Barrameda a hurricane broke a number of vessels from their moorings and drove them ashore, but no loss of life was reported. A Corunna a fishing fleet suffered considerable damage from the storm but most of the vessels were able to enter port. The trawler Dolores lost three of her crew, while the trawler Urbano, which went to her rescue, foundered with a number of men on board.

KILLED IN BATTLE WITH NEGRO.

ST. JOSEPH, Mo., Oct. 27.—A. M. Hall, a police desk clerk, was killed; Thomas Johnson, chief of detectives, was probably fatally wounded, and Clay C. MacDonald, chief of police, and Edward Eads, a detective, were slightly wounded here yesterday in a gun fight with Carlos Henderson, a young negro, who barricaded himself in a house, and was later shot to death after the fire department had set fire to the house.

The first man to show pictures of objects in motion was Edward Muybridge, an Englishman.

BAR CIVIL SERVANTS ACTING IN ELECTIONS

Premier Drury Sends Warning Out in Circular

TORONTO, Ont., Oct. 27.—Civil servants are being warned in a circular authorized by Premier Drury to take no part in elections. The circular says:

"The attention of the Government has been drawn to statements that certain officials in the employ of the province are taking an active part in the political campaign. I think it therefore, advisable to make it perfectly clear to all parties concerned that the desire and direction of the Government is that public officials will not participate in election campaigns and those who fail to heed this requirement will be held responsible for their actions. I wish to point out that the position taken by the Government in this mater is in accord with the resolution adopted by the Legislative Assembly on the seventeenth of March, 1897, known as the Garrow Resolution."

Mr. Drury in his circular recites the Garrow Resolution and adds: "There should be no doubt that the terms of this resolution would preclude any employe from being a candidate in any provincial or dominion election, and, in adition to the resolution itself, is incumbent on the Government to see that public officials refrain from active participation in politics, as by doing so they impair their usefulness and give occasion for demands for their removal."

The use of the ring in the marriage service began in ancient Egypt.

ABOLISH QUEENSLAND LEGISLATIVE COUNCIL

Second reading of the bill was secured Tuesday after application of the closure by a vote of 39 to 30.

Science Proves the Danger of Bleeding Gums

Medical science proves that unhealthy gums cause serious ailments. People suffering from Pyorrhea (a disease of the gums) often suffer from other ills, such as rheumatism, anaemia, nervous disorders, or weakened vital organs. These ills have been traced in many cases to the Pyorrhea germs which breed in pockets about the teeth.

Four out of five people over forty have Pyorrhea. It begins with tender and bleeding gums. Then the gums recede, the teeth decay, loosen and fall out, or must be extracted to rid the system of the infecting Pyorrhea germs.

Guard your health and your teeth. Keep Pyorrhea away. Visit your dentist often for tooth and gum inspection, and make daily use of Forhan's For the Gums.

Forhan's For the Gums will prevent Pyorrhea—or check its progress—if used in time and used consistently. Ordinary dentifrices cannot do this. Forhan's will keep the gums firm and healthy, the teeth white and clean.

EXECUTIVES OF BIG BROTHERHOODS MEETING TODAY

Men Who Have Power to Call Off Strike Holding Conference

THREAT OF JAIL

Failure of Union Chiefs to Obey Injunctions Contempt of Court

CHICAGO, Oct. 27. — (Associated Press.)—Executive committees of the big five brotherhoods, the men who possess the power to call off the railroad strike scheduled for next Sunday, met with their five chiefs today in conferences said to have been called at the instance of the Railroad Labor Board.

The proposition said to have been made to the railroad employes after yesterday's public investigation, is that they could call off the strike and entrust to the Labor Board adjustment of the complaints which led up to the strike vote.

Whether the brotherhood chiefs consider this a "satisfactory settlement" of their grievances, which they have insisted upon before revocation of the strike call, is the question to be decided.

T. C. Cashen, head of the swichmen, asserted after yesterday's session of the Board's investigation, that nothing had been brought out which would affect the strike call.

Members of the Board announced after the hearing that they would make known their decision on the threatened strike, which the railroad executives said is in violation of the Board's wage cut July 1, today or tomorrow.

CAUSES REMOVED.

In labor circles early today reports were current that the brotherhood leaders had been quietly told by some of the Board members that the chief issues leading up to the strike vote, further proposed cuts in wages and elimination of time and a half for overtime, were removed as causes of the strike by the Board's announcement on Tuesday.

The brotherhood leaders at the investigation yesterday, with the exception of W.G. Lee of the trainmen admitted that the proposed reductions and changes in rules were as influential in the strike vote as the wage cut of July 1, already in effect.

At the same time T. Dewitt Cuyler, chairman of the Association of Railway Executives, told the Board that none of the carriers had any intention of trying to make further changes in wages or working conditions without due process through the Board.

MAY GO TO JAIL.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 27. — (United Press.) — Railroad brotherhood chiefs may be sent to jail if they refuse to rescind their strike call and a tie-up of the mails and inter-state commerce results, it was indicated today at the Department of Justice.

Attorney-General Daugherty has decided if that walk-out develops, he has ample authority to obtain court injunctions restraining any interference with the mails or inter-state commerce.

Any failure of the union chiefs to obey the injunction would in all probability be classed as contempt of court and the leaders could be imprisoned, it was stated at the Department.

RAILWAYS SEEK MEN.

DETROIT, Mich., Oct. 27. — The Michigan Central Railroad advertised here today for men to fill the places of employes who have been called out on strike October 30. The appeal was directed especially to former employes. Advertisements for men for the Ann Arbor Railroad appeared at Owosso.

The Grand Trunk in a communication addressed to all employes, declared the threatened strike a violation of the Transportation Act, and in defiance of the Labor Board, and called upon the workers to reconsider their decision to walk out.

MANY APPLICATIONS.

NEW YORK, Oct. 27. — Preparations for supplying the Metropolitan area of New York with the necessities of life in case of a widespread railroad strike were being energetically pushed today. The port of New York authorities finished installing telephones and office equipment for an emergency headquarters, occupying the entire top floor of a large downtown office building. Final organization of the various committees which will handle food and fuel supplies in Greater New York and coordinate the work of motor trucks, canal barges, automobiles and airplanes in providing emergency transportation, was perfected at meetings of State, Federal and municipal authorities.

W. J. Fripp, general manager of the eastern section of the New York Central Lines, said there were so many applicants for jobs held by possible strikers, that the road hardly knew what to do with them. The same situation exists at Buffalo, he said.

STRIKE AGAINST JOBS.

BOSTON, Oct. 27.— The threatened railroad strike will be a strike against every man's job, Elisar J. Rich, general counsel for the Boston & Maine Railroad declared today at the annual meeting of the Associated Industries of Massachusetts.

"It is a strike," he said, "against the health, safety and welfare of every man, woman and child in the United States, for not only will many be without the means of buying the necessities of life through lack of employment, but all will be obliged to pay enhanced prices for the necessities of life.

"The issue is sharply drawn and must be resolutely met." Mr. Rich said it would be "not an unreasonable prophecy" that next year would be one of prosperity for the railroads of the United States as a whole.

He said the New England railroads, through reductions of short distance rates, were making a determined effort to get back some of the traffic which had been lost to motor trucks and water transportation.

NORTHCLIFFE OPPOSES ANGLO-JAP ALLIANCE

Believes Pact Has Outrun Usefulne, He Says at Hong Kong

LONDON, Oct. 27 (Associated Press) — The Anglo-Japanese alliance "undoubtedly is the dominating factor which now prevents an unfettered attempt by Great Britain, Japan and the United States to solve the problems of the Pacific," declared Lord Northcliffe to a Reuter correspondent, who interviewed the noted British publisher in Hong Kong yesterday. The interview was cabled to London yesterday.

According to the correspondent's despatch, Lord Northcliffe gave as a reason for his opinion that the alliance placed the United States "on side of the very definite arrangements for the control of China."

"During the last two years," the publisher is quoted as having said, "I have been gradually coming to the conclusion that the Anglo-Japanese alliance has outrun its usefulness. Japan faithfully carried out the compact during the war, and she has been well rewarded for her services. The purpose of the Washington Conference is to reach a mutual agreement, but the United States is handicapped by an arrangement already made by Japan and Great Britain concerning the chief problem of the Pacific.

"A prolongation of the alliance only serves to irritate public and official opinion in the United States, merely humiliates China and adds nothing to the prestige of Great Britain in Asia."

"It cannot assist in establishing cooperation as a means of helping China out of the present chaos, and it prevents reconciliation of the diverging interests of Japan and the United States. At present China cannot give satisfactory national guarantees, so there is urgent necessity for making international assistance to China a practical possibility."

"I hold that there can be no solution of the Pacific problems which does not rest on the solid foundation of Anglo-American friendship and cooperation. Unfortunately the Anglo-Japanese alliance has been prolonged beyond the point where it is understood by the Americans or is liked by the Chinese."

TWENTY-TWO KILLED IN VADO EXPLOSION

Many Still Missing—Believed Fires Started by Bolsheviki

ROME, Oct. 27.—(Associated Press) —The forest fires in the vicinity of Vado, which caused a disastrous explosion in the Sant Elena fortress two days ago, is generally believed to be due to a Bolshevist plot, says a despatch to the Messagero today. The police, however, have been unable to determine definitely the origin of the fires, the despatch said.

Up to midnight last night twenty-two bodies had been recovered from the wreckage of the explosion, and many others, reported missing, are believed to be buried under the debris. Three hundred and fifty injured persons are being treated at hospitals.

BRIAND IS GIVEN CONFIDENCE VOTE

French Premier Victorious After One of Stormiest Battles of Career

GREAT TRIUMPH

Will Take Passage for New York Saturday to Attend Conference

PARIS, Oct. 27.—(Associated Press) —Premier Briand will take passage for New York on Saturday on his way to attend the conference on the limitation of armaments at Washington, with the prestige of one of the greatest victories of his political career, in which he has already fallen from power and been recalled as head of the Cabinet six times.

The majority in the Chamber of Deputies, which seemed to be moving away from the Premier yesterday after Andre Tardieu's scathing attack on the Cabinet, dwindled into a little minority after the Premier in masterly fashion, had replied yesterday to all the criticisms against his administration.

M. Briand received a final vote of confidence, 381 to 186. The first test of strength came on the question of priority for the order of the day, the Premier making the demand. This was voted 339 to 178, many of the deputies abstaining. The specific resolution read:

"The Chamber, approving the Government's declarations and confident of its firmness, in agreement with our Allies, to assure realization of rights which have been recognized by us and to continue to defend the prestige of France abroad and maintain energetically peace in the interior, passes to the order of the day."

Many of those who voted against priority, voted with the Government on the question of confidence.

WARM COUNTER-ATTACK.

Political passion had been worked up to the highest pitch by the aggressive attacks of M. Tardieu and when M. Herriot, leader of the Radicals, opened a counter-attack yesterday, it soon became a tumult which required more than an hour to calm. M. Herriot, alluding to M. Tardieu's criticism of France going to Washington alone, said it was astonishing that he should propose that the Premier proceed to the conference with the European coalition behind him.

The Premier, when he reached the same subject, very independently indicated to the Opposition that personally it was a matter of indifference whether he went to Washington. But he felt that France's interests were at stake, and if the Chamber thought someone else was better qualified than he, the Chamber should send him.

M. Briand informed the Chamber, with special reference to M. Tardieu, that the French delegation to Washington would be quite equal to defending the interests of France on the Pacific, as well as any other question and would treat all subjects in the broadest spirit possible. Yesterday M. Tardieu had expressed doubt as to the competence of the French delegation.

"There is one question of the utmost importance to disarmament, namely, the security of France," the Premier continued. "I am sure it is not in the minds of our friends in the United States to refuse the national security we need."

Turning to M. Tardieu, he urged him to remain tranquil, saying:

"The valise which I have packed to go to Washington might quite as well serve for my return home."

After recess, M. Briand, who appeared to have lost control of the Chamber yesterday, seemed to have regained it by what his friends regard as one of the greatest oratorical efforts of his life. He argued that if his and other French Governments had had difficulties in dealing with the Allies and Germany since the Clemenceau Cabinet, it was due to the faulty Versailles treaty, for the errors in which M. Tardieu, his bitterest critic, was partly responsible.

TRYING TO SETTLE LABRADORS LIMITS

Sir P. McGrath Searching Records of Hudson's Bay Company

WINNIPEG, Man., Oct. 27.—(Canadian Press).—Sir Patrick McGarth is at present in Winnipeg, having been commissioned by the Newfoundland Government to search into the records of the Hudson's Bay Company to find, if possible, facts pertinently bearing upon the question of the Labrador boundary. This question is soon to come before the Privy Council in nature of a suit between the Dominion of Canada and the Crown colony of Newfoundland.

Sir Patrick has come to Winnipeg, he said, because since it has become the headquarters of the Hudson's Bay Company, it is assumed that records of great importance are filed here.

TARDIEU'S SPEECH MISINTERPRETED

French Policy to Work with Japan and Other Associates

PARIS, Oct. 27.—Statements made by M. Tardieu in the Chamber on Tuesday were variously interpreted and some of the versions sent out of Paris are said to have placed a construction upon his address which would seem to have placed M. Tardieu as favoring French support of Japan against the United States.

M. Tardieu asserted the future was full of peril, and that the Allied Powers might at some time become confronted by a combination of nations "extending from the Rhine to the Pacific." He asserted that Germany, Bolshevik Russia and China might be aligned against members of the Entente at some time in future. For this reason he advocated the sending of a strong French delegation to Washington.

"The question of the Pacific," said M. Tardieu, "is not only a technical problem; it is also a racial problem which may create local misunderstandings similar to those from which national conflicts often have resulted. It is a problem of the races, which William II. of Germany formerly tried to exploit against us at the time when Theophile Delcasse, former Premier and Foreign Minister, was seeking alliances in Europe.

DANGERS OF TOMORROW.

"We are all the more obliged to have an opinion on this problem of races, since Great Britain in the Anglo-Japanese alliance, on one hand, and France in the Franco-Japanese accord of 1907, on the other hand, have taken positions regarding it. We are also obliged to have an opinion on it because of the fact that if one considers it with a little perspicacity one sees possible dangers of tomorrow—the great and redoubtable dangers that may one day menace, not only ourselves, but our Allies. This danger consists of a coalition extending from the Rhine to the Pacific and bringing into association the still unrepentent Germany, the Boshevik dictatorship and Chinese anarchy.

"I say, in the presence of this possible risk, in the presence of the situation of Japan, which has been a loyal ally, in the presence of difficulties that may put in opposition to each other Japan and the United States, to which goes out the eternal gratitude of our hearts, there is urgent necessity that the French Government have with our allies a well thought out policy on this question. It should be a policy that would permit us to count upon Japan, in accord with our allies and associates, to meet the eventual danger."

CONVICT FACES CAPITAL CHARGE.

GUELPH, Ont., Oct. 27.—Accused of murdering a taxi driver at Carthage, Missouri, last May, Walter Mullin, who is serving a twelve months' sentence at the Ontario reformatory here for robbery at Peterboro, will likely be extradited and taken back to the United States within a few days.

TALE OF FIGHT TOLD IN BARREN NORTH

Portable Wireless Gave News Daily to Surveyors on Mackenzie's Banks

TORONTO, Oct. 27.—Government surveyors and engineers carrying their lines across the far northern banks of the great Mackenzie river during the past summer knew the result of the Carpentier-Dempsey fight as soon as the crowds on the streets of eastern Canadian cities. They received the news daily from Japan, China and the Philippines and every 24 hours they checked their time with the chronometers at Annapolis, Md. All this they did by means of a portable wireless receiving set carried by one of the three Dominion land survey parties. One member of that group, Fred V. Seibert, D. L. S., passed through Toronto yesterday on his way back to Ottawa from the bleak barrens of the sub-Arctics. Mr. Seibert, in a brief interview referred to some of the things accomplished since last June by Dominion engineers operating in the Mackenzie basin. He explained that his colleagues and himself had seen lakes of 30 or 40 miles radius that had never been known to exist; inland areas, home of the Dog Ribs or other obscure Indians, that had never before felt the pressure of a white man's foot and magnificent waterfalls. One waterfall, formerly unknown, is on the Beaver River and measures from 300 to 400 feet across and falls perpendicularly for a depth of 60 feet.

HUGHES' MINISTRY HANGS IN BALANCE

Labor Leader Would Omit Naval and Air Appropriation

SYDNEY, N.S.W., Oct. 27.—There was a vote in the Commonwealth Parliament last night designed to seal the fate of the Hughes' ministery. Treasurer Cooks' budget had shown a deficit of nearly £750,000 sterling. Labor leader Charlton moved a reduction of the estimates with the object of wiping out the deficit and omitting appropriations for military, naval and air services. He said that the workers wanted not only the limitation but the abolition of armaments. The motion was defeated 39 to 19.

Mr. Age, leader of the country party, then moved that the Government reconsider the estimates and proposed that by a general policy of economy the deficit be wiped out absolutely. This motion is being considered.

Nominated as Conservative Standard-bearer for Federal Contest

The candidate chosen for Hochelaga division by the National Liberal and Conservative party was J. R. Ayotte. The convention of electors took place last night and from the sentiments shown a vigorous contest will be conducted in that constituency. Hon. Rodolphe Monty, Secretary of State, congratulated the convention on its choice, and reviewed the political questions of the day.

Several names were put before the convention, but finally Mr. Ayotte was unanimously elected.

F. J. Bisaillon, K.C., the chairman, in the course of his remarks said that the women voters should not hesitate to register their votes and for that purpose their names would be inscribed on the electoral lists.

Mr. Ayotte, was one of the representatives of the Tenants' League on the Charter Commission which sat at the city hall last year.

SIX HEIRS OR SIXTY

Estate of Late L. P. R. Belair in Court

Confirming a judgment of the Superior Court, the Court of Appeal has rendered judgment in the case of Dame Corinne Paquin and Dame J. Phelan, which arose out of the division of an estate of $140,000, left by the late Louis Plessis Raymond Belair.

The question at issue was whether, from the interpretation of the will, the estate should be divided among six heirs or sixty.

In delivering judgment in the former sense, Mr. Justice Martin declared that the Court should not attempt to find out what the testator intended to say but should endeavor to ascertain what he intended by what he did say.

MRS. MERCADO'S DEATH.

The body of Mrs. Armando Mercado, formerly of Caracas, Venezuela, and living lately at 21 Pine avenue west, who died on Sunday at the Women's Hospital, will be sent home via New York tonight. Mrs. Mercado, who was only twenty years of age, was married a year ago in Venezuela. Her husband is also a native of that country. The young couple came to Montreal two months ago when Mr. Mercado secured a position with the policy department of the Sun Life Assurance Company. He will accompany the remains.

MRS. ROWAN BURIED.

The funeral of the late Mrs. Thos. Rowan took place from her residence, 3 Pine avenue west, at 8 o'clock yesterday morning. The body was received at St. Patrick's Church by Rev. Father McShane who celebrated Mass. A large number of relatives and friends attended and followed the body to its place of interment at Cote des Neiges Cemetery.

FAIL TO FIND CAUSE.

Two mysterious outbreaks of fire which occurred in the furniture shop of the Dominion Stove and Furnishing Co., 926 St. Lawrence Boulevard, which broke out three quarters of an hour between one another were carefully inquired into by Fire Commissioner Latulippe yesterday afternoon but no light could be shed on how they originated.

ILLEGALLY ARRESTED.

The Court of Appeal has condemned Jean Isaac, former chief constable of Notre Dame de Grace, to pay $350 to Eugene Riel for false arrest. Riel declared that in 1900 he was illegally arrested for an alleged assault on Bel-, on which charge he was honorably discharged by the magistrate.

QUEEN ANNE PERIOD

Prose of That Time Discussed in Lecture

"The present school system reduces all children to an intellectual level of mediocrity and its effect is to start the pupils with an equal handicap in the race of life."

The inefficiency of the present educational system was one of the by-paths down which Sir Andrew Macphail led his audience at a lecture delivered before the St. James Literary Society Tuesday night. There was a record attendance and not a vacant seat when the speaker was introduced by the President, Walter Johnson, K.C.

The subject of the address was "The prose-writers of the Queen Anne period" and while Sir Andrew referred to the giants of that age the greater part of the address was taken up with caustic and humorous comment of such seemingly widely diversified subjects as "education of a past age in Prince Edward Island," "the public schools of today," "Canadian slang and Canadian literature," with interesting anecdotes of the speaker's forbears. The incisiveness of his diction, his contempt for shams and hypocrisy and the depth of his reading, which was evident from the abundance of his similes and references, lifted the lecture out of the ordinary run of "literary papers" while the irrepressible humor of the speaker, underlaid with a religious fervor, lent the address distinction.

Of the prose writers of the age Sir Andrew placed Dean Swift on the topmost rung. Below him, in his estimation, came Daniel Defoe, for whose Robinson Crusoe the lecturer expressed a warm affection stating that with Aesop's Fables it was the constant companion of his bedside in times of sickness. Next in order the lecturer classed Laurence Sterne, and gave high praise for Samuel Johnson, "every one of whose sentences makes a living appeal." He touched lightly upon Fielding and Richardson and at the bottom of the list put the master Addison who, he said, should be read as an example of style, but did not interest on other grounds.

MAJOR MARY BOOTH TALKS OF HER WORK

Daughter of Salvation Army Head Delivers Address in Montreal

The work of the Salvation Army at the front was the subject of an address given last night by Major Mary Booth, C.B.E., second daughter of General Bramwell Booth, before a large audience of Salvationists and others, in the Windsor Hall.

One reason for the Army's success in its war work, said Major Booth, was that, whereas, a soldier was only a number in the eyes of the authorities, in the eyes of the Salvation Army he was somebody's brother, son and boy. Religion was always kept well to the fore by the Salvation Army, while other organizations indulged in concerts and theatricals, because it was felt more in keeping with the fact that the men were facing death and temptation.

Major Booth concluded with a few words of praise for the Canadian hospitals overseas, for the Canadian Red Cross, and for Canadian chaplains' work.

Lt.-Col. O. F. Brothers presided at the gathering, and with him on the platform were Brig.-Gen. C. L. J. Armstrong, and A. J. Meiklejohn, of the Kiwanis Club.

At the conclusion of her address Major Booth paid a visit to the Last Post Fund exhibition at the Windsor Hotel and complimented the committee on the variety of the war trophies and souvenirs. A subscription was handed to the fund on behalf of the visiting party, before its departure.

A disappointing attendance was recorded by the exhibition authorities for the first day of its opening yesterday, and they have issued an appeal for better patronage in view of the worthy nature of the cause.

MASTERPIECES DESTROYED.

ANTWERP, Oct. 27. — Fire badly damaged the Royal Museum of Fine Arts here last night. Several of the priceless masterpieces in the building were destroyed.

CHURCH UNION

Supported by Rev. Canon Shatford, D.D.

Church union was advocated by the Rev. Canon Shatford, D.D., speaking at the Jubilee Service held at St. Matthew's Presbyterian Church last night.

"We have the same bible," he said, "the same gospel, practically the same sacraments, and we have the same common creed in seeking a basis for union. If we can reach a common basis and agree to work side by side in the contentment of working in the unity of spirit, there will come then the unity of faith."

Amongst the many clergymen present at the service were: Rev. J. E. Ireland, Grace Church; Rev. T. R. Perry, Centenary Methodist Church; Rev. John T. Linton, Baptist Church; M. S. Saunderson, Congregationalist Church; S. S. Burns, Chalmers Presbyterian Church; Rev. Angus McCallum, Victoriatown; Rev. Geo. Peck, Bethany Church; Rev. Wm. Hood, St. Columbia Church; Rev. W. R. Cruikshank, former pastor, and the Rev. Geo. Mingie, secretary of the Lord's Day Alliance.

NEW BRITISH TRADE OFFICER IS HERE

Capt. Edwards leaves for New York November 1, where he is to visit friends, and then for Washington.

CEDAR RAPIDS POWER.

A litigation arising out of the sale of the Cedars Rapids Power in 1911 has been finally disposed of by the Privy Council, the textual judgment of which has just been filed in the Superior Court here. The appeal taken to the Council was maintained, and a judgment of the Superior Court in 1918, and confirmed by Court of Revision, was set aside. The present judgment orders that C. Dessaules and J. Domville render an accounting of the sale of the property rights in question, which brought $500,000, or, in default, pay the sum of $300,000 to O. deBeaujeu, Marie deBeaujeu, and Gertrude deBeaujeu.

LAYS CORNER STONE.

H. B. Wood, chairman of the Montreal Presbytery's Finance Committee, will lay the corner stone of the new French Presbyterian Church, being erected at the corner of Wellington and River streets, Verdun, on Saturday, at 3 o'clock.

M-S-K SYSTEM OF FINANCING HOME BUILDING

WIVES

Have you ever thought about owning your own home? Isn't it the ONE thing you have always wished to Own? It surely must be your wish every time the rent is due. And, supposing rents continue to increase? It's up to you to manage somehow, for, after all, home worries are chiefly your worries.

Isn't it delightful to visit friends or relatives who own their own home? Their home is permanent, their surroundings are permanent—their very security is permanent. They have no rent worries, no moving worries and no worries over the future. Always a home of their own. How did they get their own home? Not because they received it for nothing, but because they practiced thrift and gradually paid for it. It probably meant a sacrifice at the time, but look at them now.

We believe you wish to own your own home and you should. Your personal security as well as the future security of your family depends upon it,—or, better still, demands it. Say something to your husband about it. Insist upon having something to say about it. Remember this,—wives who never say anything about it are still worrying with rent, but wives who had something to say about it, now live in their own homes.

Have your husband immediately purchase one of our modern brick homes under the M-S-K system of financing home building. It's the opportunity of your lifetime. You have six to choose from, —single or two-family homes. Our costs are the lowest and our terms are the best. You do not have to have money — $30 as a first payment is sufficient. If you own a lot all you then need is a firm determination to save $10 per week. If you do not own a lot, stick to your saving determination and we will arrange the lot for you. Buying a home from us is no trouble whatsoever and owning your own home certainly should not frighten you.

Over 500 applications for homes have been received by this Company during the past four weeks and this should mean something to you. WE ARE ERECTING FOURTEEN NEW HOMES NOW. WILL YOUR HUSBAND OWN ONE OF THESE HOMES?

LIVES ARE LOST IN FLORIDA HURRICANE

Tampa Panorama of Destruction—Streets Washed Into Bay

TAMPA, Fla., Oct. 27.—Property damage in that section of the Florida peninsula swept Tuesday and Tuesday night by the tropical hurricane is estimated at $5,000,000 by insurance men here who have been analyzing reports reaching Tampa from other sections. The damage in Tampa is estimated at between $1,500,000 and $2,000,000. The known death list today stood at five, which included two at St. Petersburg and three in Tampa, and vicinity.

SCENE OF DESTRUCTION.

TAMPA, Florida, Oct. 27.—Five persons are known to be dead in this city and St. Petersburg, across Tampa Bay, as a result of yesterday's storm which caused a local property damage estimated between $1,000,000 and $2,000,000.

LAKELAND, Florida, Oct. 27.—South Florida spent today in recapitulating the damage, estimated to run well into millions of dollars, caused by the Gulf hurricane which on Tuesday tore across Florida's peninsula. At times attaining a velocity of seventy miles an hour, the gale carried destruction in its wake but only in few instances, according to late reports, causing loss of life.

Of the cities and towns within a radius of forty miles of Lakeland, Tampa appears to have suffered the greatest damage. The Bay Shore Drive residential section from Franklin street to Port Tampa is a panorama of destruction. Trees are down, houses with roofs torn away and foundations weakened from the tidal wave that swept over the sea-wall from Tampa Bay have collapsed and logs and other debris swept in on the onrushing water crest, over what were once beautiful lawns of the Hyde Park section, one of Tampa's most fashionable suburbs.

Along the waterfront large sections of the sea-wall were swept away and parts of streets were washed into the bay, houses immediately adjoining the boulevard were crushed in by the sea without apparent resistance.

SUNSET BEACH DESTROYED.

Sunset Beach, a popular resort near Tampa, was completely destroyed. Small houses were torn down and washed away and the white sands of the beach now show no vestige of ever having been inhabited. The damage in the city proper was for the most part confined to the unroofing of houses. A warehouse occupied by the Gulf and Southern Steamship Company, however, was destroyed as was part of the Mallory Line docks.

The telephone and electric light wires dangle in a tangled mass, giving little hope of an early resumption of service. Conservative estimates place the damage in Tampa proper at several million dollars.

The storm travelling north appeared to concentrate its full force on Ybor City, a section of Tampa. Nearly 500 houses were wrecked in that section. In the Palmetto Beach section approximately four square miles of ground was inundated. Women and children in this section were rescued by a band of forty volunteers and carried to safety in the highlands of the city. All the dwellings in the Palmetto section were completely demolished and it is feared that some of the rescuers may have perished. The boats brought into play were swept out from shore and wreckage gave evidence of their fate.

The anxiety felt for the safety of some 300 students of Southern College at Clearwater Beach was relieved this afternoon when messengers reached Tampa stating that all the students were taken across the bay into Clearwater early Tuesday.

FRUIT CROP DESTROYED.

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., Oct. 27.—The entire waterfront of St. Petersburg was wiped out by the storm on Tuesday, the worst gale the city has ever experienced, according to a message received by the Times-Union last night.

The message which was sent by a resident of St. Petersburg who went by automobile to Brooksville said Passagrille was also reported wiped out.

St. Petersburg," the message said "is badly damaged and observers driving through the county report fifty per cent of the citrus fruit gone. The previous storms no comparision. The city in total darkness for at least two days."

SACRAMENTO SUFFERS.

SACRAMENTO Calif., Oct. 27.—Numerous houses were unroofed, windows were broken and other damage, as yet unestimated, was done by a strong wind approaching the strength of a tornado which swept through the southern and eastern part of Sacramento yesterday. The wind tore a path approximately three quarters of a mile wide through the district.

A torrential rain fell after the wind storm and flooded streets and gutters.

MILLION AND A HALF LOSS.

FORT MYERS, Florida, Oct. 27. (Via Puntarassa Cable Station). The fiercest gale this section has known in several years raged here for 36 hours beginning at midnight Monday and attaining a maximum velocity of one hundred miles an hour. Transmission service was prostrated, while the property loss for Lee County is expected to total well over a million and a half dollars. Reports from Sanabel and Captive islands said the water covered the entire islands. Estero island, near here, on which several beach resorts are located, was badly damaged, the cottages and other buildings being wrecked.

KENNEDY'S CANADIEN HOCKEY FRANCHISE TO GO TO DUGGAN

NOTMAN HAS BROKEN NOSE; OTHERWISE M'GILL IS STRONG

Jeff Notman, the heaviest man on the McGill line, was taken out of the game yesterday suffering from a broken nose. The big wing man, determined to be on with the regulars when the game started on Saturday next, plunged into the workout with all the strength that he is capable of showing, and when the mass was untangled after the first scrimmage it was found that he was suffering from an injury that would probably keep him out of the game for some time.

A very heavy workout was indulged in by the whole team, Shaughnessy sending in several different shifts of men to try them out. The coach is still confronting quite a problem in choosing his team, as there are several very good candidates for every position on the team.

It is very likely that Flanagan will be on the side lines when the game begins this week-end. The star player has recovered altogether from his injuries, but owing to the fact that he cannot stand a hard game the coach will not take any chances unless he is absolutely needed on the field.

The backfield will probably consist of the same men who starred in the contest against Queen's last Saturday. Carroll seems to have a strangle hold on the centre half position, while the other two halves will also be the most likely candidates to start in the game. One addition to the squad will be Jeff Russell, who only went into the game last week for a few minutes. Russell is considered to be the best line plunger in the intercollegiate at the present time, and the blue and white are due to get some nasty jolts when he hits the line.

Five coaches were out with the squad at the practice yesterday. Eddie Brown, the American coach, spent all afternoon watching the wings and giving them pointers on how to improve their work. Brown was the best end in America in his time, and, as that position corresponds to the Canadian outside wing, he is capable of giving the best of advice to the candidates.

"Monty" Montgomery and "Dud" Ross kept their eyes on the line to watch their work at opening holes in the second squad and plunging, and they were quick to detect any weakness in the shifts. The work on supervising the whole squad fell to Frank Shaughnessy, and he put the men through a strenuous couple of hours. The second team performed under the watchful eye of Coach Bill Hughes, the former Winged Wheel mentor, giving the intermediates one of the hardest drills they have had for some time.

The outside positions on the senior team are still causing some worry to the coaches. Last week Murphy was moved to the end of the line, but it weakened the middle position so much that Shaughnessy has moved him back again. It is entirely probable that Russell will go in to the place left vacant by Murphy, and he should make a good stab at the work, as he is fast and a vicious tackler. For the other outside position Robertson seems the logical choice again, as his work last week was good. However, there are quite a few others fighting for the job, and one of them may get it. Emo is one who can tackle and has plenty of weight, and he is favored by many to catch the place.

So numerous are the men trying for the positions that the number of men carried on the trip tomorrow will probably be far greater than is ordinarily the case. Almost two full teams will go to Toronto, and every position will have a capable substitute ready to step in if the regular does not last.

The newcomers who were out with the team last week, have made good, and some of the former regulars will be watching the game from the side lines. The inside wings are filled so capably by the McComb brothers that they have shut out all the other aspirants. Lasler who played at middle last week, showed that he was not in his proper position on the team, and will probably be held in reserve to replace one of the McCombs if they should have to leave the game.

McGregor has been at the practices this week, but the coach does not think that he is in fit shape to go through a game, and will not start him. He will be in uniform in any case, and may be shot into the line when his experience and fighting spirit will be valuable to the team. With McGregor definitely off the lineup, Livshin will be left to snap the ball out from centre.

The remainder of the positions on the team will be the same as last week if the line-up at the workouts is any indication of the coache's intentions. Ambridge at middle is hard to be improved upon, while Baillie has shown that he is undoubtedly the best quarterback in the college.

The team leaves tomorrow morning for Toronto, and will rest up in that city in preparation for the game. The rooters' club will have a big delegation on hand at the station to send the team off and will send up quite a large number tomorrow night.

The above picture of the former rugby football captains of McGill shows the generals of the university teams as far back as 1877. Dr. Torrance (third from the right in the top row) is the oldest living representative. Gordon W. MacDougall, of this city, was responsible for the gathering, mentioning the fact to C. F. Kemp and Walter Molson, who immediately made arrangements. Among the better known of the figures in the above photograph are: Dr. Young, J. Kerry, Dr. Torrance, H. R. Trenholme, E. H. Hamilton, Dr. Nagle, Chas. Gaudet, Gordon W. MacDougall, Dan Gilmour, George Laing, "Monty" Montgomery and "Dud" Ross.

VARSITY AT ITS BEST SURE OF WIN AGAINST M'GILL

TORONTO, Oct. 27.—(Star Special.)—Varsity, fighting with their backs to the wall, will open the Intercollegiate season here Saturday, when they take on McGill, their ancient rivals, and with fine weather one of the largest crowds that ever attended a rugby game in Canada should be on hand. Those in charge of the game expect to even exceed the 18,000 paid admission at the Varsity-McGill game in Montreal recently.

Varsity, at present, is the only intercollegiate team that has not registered a win this year. Queens having beaten them at Kingston, while McGill beat Queens at Montreal and tied with Varsity. Therefore a win for McGill would put the local students out of the running here on Saturday. However, the local collegians can't see anything but a win for the blue and white, although they are not over-rating Shaughnessy and crew, assisted by their American coach.

Those who were fortunate to be present at last night's secret practice at Varsity saw an old-time Varsity team in action—speed, speed, and more speed. They waded through the second team like a duck taking to water, and their snappy playing was much admired by the favorite few. Their week's lay-off has brought them back fresh and eager for the fray, although several are still nursing minor injuries. There is no question about them not being in condition, and unless all signs fail, local rugby fans are going to witness the fastest and most spectacular game of the season on Saturday.

FRENCH CANADIAN UNIVERSITY WANTS TO ENTER COLLEGE HOCKEY

The University of Montreal has made formal application to the Canadian Intercollegiate Hockey Union for permission to enter a team in the intercollegiate series this winter.

A special meeting of the governing body for college hockey has been called, to take place in Toronto on Saturday. McGill seems to be very favorably disposed towards admitting the new college to membership in the Union, but the success of their application depends on the attitude of Queens and Toronto Universities.

DUGGAN TO ACQUIRE FRANCHISE OF CANADIEN HOCKEY CLUB THIS AFTERNOON

The Star has it on the very best of authority that unless something intervenes, Mrs. Kendall, widow of the late George Kennedy through his brothers acting as agents will dispose of the Canadien franchise in the National Hockey League this afternoon to Thomas J. Duggan and others supposed to be the Mount Royal Arena Company. The purchase price is kept quiet for the present. Mrs. Kendall it appears found tris the most advantageous offer of half a dozen made to her. Mr. Duggan, it is said, will in all probability leave the city immediately afterwards to decide the matter of artificial ice for the arena.

M. A. A. A. CHARGED WITH EXTRAVAGANCE DEMAND SCRUTINY

Due to a demand on the part of the life members of the Montreal Amateur Athletic Association at a special meeting last night—called by a few of them and attended by a large number—that the books of the Association be closely scrutinized in order that the exact position of the M.A.A.A.'s finances might be known to them, a committee was appointed to confer with the board of directors and make a report to the life-members at a later meeting.

The reason that it should be necessary to make such a demand is to be found in the original purpose of calling last night's meeting. The Association has made an appeal to the life-members, who were no longer paying fees, to come to their aid in liquidating the capital indebtedness of the athletic organization, allowing it to get on its feet once again. This appeal was made in the form of a proposed assessment of the life-members, and the fact that it should have been put in such a way rather incensed some of those present last evening.

After W. R. Granger, chairman of the committee which had called the meeting, had declared the meeting open, and after W. A. Coates had been asked to take the chair at the meeting, Mr. Granger put a motion before the gathering to the effect that an assessment of $50 payable in five years' time should be made on life members. Mr. Granger pointed out that although the word assessment was used, there was nothing compulsory in the request. He did not want anyone to misunderstand the term.

LOOKED LIKE A "TOUCH."

Remarking that it appeared to him to be a "touch," Samuel M. Baylis rose to his feet and suggested a policy of retrenchment to tide the association over their present crisis. That the active members should be the ones to bear the burden of the debt was another statement he threw out to those present. The life-members, he said, were and should be for all time, the moral support.

As the one and only way to get over their difficulties, Mr. Baylis proposed a drastic increase in the fees of the active members. The young fellows of today, he claimed, were much better spenders than the older men. He had noticed that. On top of these suggestions, Mr. Baylis made an amendment to the motion of Mr. Granger to the effect that a careful scrutiny should be made into alleged deficits, to attempt to outline a policy of retrenchment, and that if this latter were impossible, then raise the fees of the active members.

JAMES A. TAYLOR SPEAKS.

The matter was open for discussion. Jas. A. Taylor got to his feet and while, he said, he was perfectly willing to dig down in his pocket and pass over his amount to the association immediately, on account of the advantage he took of the different parts of the building, yet he was in sympathy with those who did not do this and demanded that the association be more economical.

As an instance of the amount of money being spent, he spoke of the salary list, which, he said, was 46 per cent of the subscriptions and 29 per cent of the total receipts. He also advised a careful audit of the books to see if some economy could not be practised. Something more than an assessment was needed. If we were merely an assessment that was made, the association would be in the same predicament a few years hence as it was today.

Charges that the board of directors of the M.A.A.A. were "running wild" and were "spending money right and left when they could have done without this," were made with strong emphasis by Fitzjames E. Browne, the next speaker, who did not mince matters. "They must learn to cut the coat according to the measure," he said, "which they were not doing."

GENERAL ROSS SPEAKS.

All discussion took on a different tone, however, after the words of Brig.-Gen. J. G. Ross had been brought home to those present. Everyone knew that the matter had been settled, as least for the time being. Gen. Ross, in a quiet and convincing manner, proposed yet another amendment to Mr. Granger's motion; that a committee be appointed to confer with the board of directors, to scrutinize closely the books of the association and to make a report at a later meeting. In this way the life-members would be made acquainted with the financial standing of the M.A.A.A. and would be left to judge for themselves whether or not it was justified in asking their support.

There was much applause at this sub-amendment, and subsequent speakers put themselves on record as being greatly in favor of what Gen. Ross proposed.

Mr. Granger, in saying a few words in favor of the proposal of Gen. Ross, stated that already it was expected that an increase of five dollars a year would be imposed upon the active members at the annual meeting.

Mr. Granger also stated that the association was quite able to pay its current expenses and apply some thousands to paying off debt. But the life-member scheme, and increased active membership fees proposed were for the purpose of paying off $160,000 worth of mortgages within the next five years so that if a new clubhouse were to be built the slate would be clean.

THE CAPITAL DEBT.

The remainder of the meeting was spent in argument on the advisability of allowing the capital debt to carry on or get it off the association's mind. Opinion seemed to be divided, but though Mr. Baylis appeared to think that there was no necessity to remove the capital debt, W. E. Findlay was of the opinion that if the association wanted to go ahead instead of dropping back, the burden of the debt should be dropped and, in this way relieved of a great weight, the association could make rapid strides to the fore.

The committee to look into the affairs of the M.A.A.A. closely was then chosen and consists of the following: Brig.-Gen. J. D. Ross, T. Yates Foster, J. A. Taylor, W. A. Coates and Brig.-Gen. W. O. H. Dodds.

TORONTO WON'T GIVE GUARANTEE FOR ENG. RUGBY

The action of the British Rugby Union of Ontario in refusing a guarantee to the Montreal Club, after having said they would do so, is considered by the executive of the latter as not calculated to put English Rugby in this country on a better basis than formerly, and not in the interest or the spirit of the game.

After a considerable amount of correspondence Montreal agreed to guarantee a "Toronto" team $300 to come and play a game here. They did this in complete ignorance as to the likelihood of the sount being raised at the gate, English Rugby being on a very unstable basis in this city at the time, and the sum being guaranteed by members of the Mnotreal club and a few supporters out of their own pockets.

The game was played in the spring of this year, and after it was over the $300 was handed over to the Ontario officials. With the coming of the fall season the Montreal club wrote to the Ontario Union and expressed their willingness to come and play in Toronto on the 15th, 22nd or 29th of November.

There are six teams in Toronto, and English Rugby is on a sound footing. For some reason none of the dates were accepted, and now the British Rugby Union of Ontario say that they will give Montreal the amount asked "provided the gate realises that amount."

Under these conditions the Montreal Club will not think of travelling to Toronto and are regretting the guarantee they made Toronto in the spring.

LOWER CANADA TAKES SENIOR RUGBY HONORS

The senior title of the Interscholastic Football League was captured by Lower Canada College yesterday afternoon. High School put up a good fight, but lost out in the end by a 12—5 score.

As usual, the collegians were the aggressors. Their backs got away for a number of end runs, which the blue and white aggregation failed to block. Finally early in the game Mickles crossed for a touch, and converted it from a difficult angle. With odds against them, High School put their backs to the test, and the battle was carried into Lower Canada's territory. Mickles again saved the day by kicking long punts, which eventually forced the blue and white warriors to rouge. When the teams retired at half time the score read, 7—0.

On returning to the fray, after the rest period, High School showed that they intended to fight to a finish. Right up until three minutes before the final whistle they held the collegians at bay right on their own line. However, they had to concede the fall to the collegians for being offside. Without further ado the Lower Canadians sent Mickles over for the last score of the game.

LAST OF LOCAL BIG 4 RUGBY GAMES OUGHT TO BE VERY GOOD ONE

Participating in their last home game of the interprovincial Rugby schedule, the M.A.A.A. knights of the gridiron will be seen in action at the association's Westmount grounds on Saturday attempting to stay the wrath of the Tiger from Hamilton.

The fact that the latter team came within a hair's breadth of defeating the supposedly unconquerable Argonauts of Toronto in Hamilton last week-end, will bring the local fans out to have a look at this improved and fast travelling squad. At the beginning of the season the Tigers were picked on paper to practically win the championship, but their first game against the Argos when they were defeated by a wide margin took the wind out of everyone's sails. But when the Argos advanced again, the Tigers held their own and the victory was more or less of a toss-up.

The men from the Ambitious City when they arrive here for the game will be out to give the best exhibition of play that can be shown local fans and though it is generally conceded that they are a stronger outfit than the locals, they will be forced to show their gilt-edge wares to down the M.A.A.A. boys.

Of course, there is a certain amount of grim determined spirit among the Winged Wheelers, and this might upset the "dope." Certainly they have been doing their best to improve the playing of the men and have introduced some more talent for use against the Bengals.

But if there is any misgiving, who can be blamed? Anyone would be ill at ease with a flock of "savage beasts" prowling around the city loose.

On account of this being the last of the Big 4 games in this city and in view of the fact that it is the second to last big Rugby game of the season here, it is expected that a good crowd will turn out at the Westmount grounds. The advance sale of tickets is reported to be going very well, and ought to take a spurt in the next couple of days.

The last big practice takes place tonight.

TOO MUCH BETTING, SAY WINDSOR CITIZENS

WINDSOR, Ont., Oct. 27. — Horse racing in this city seriously interferes with business, according to replies received so far by H. E. Austin, secretary-treasurer of Retail Merchants' Association, in answer to questions sent out Monday to members of the Association.

Some 200 merchants who have already replied are almost unanimous in saying that the races affect their business unfavorably. The reason given is that their customers bet their money, and let their bills and other accounts run. All express the belief that there are too many days of racing, and also too many race tracks.

That the city derives any temporary or permanent benefit from the tracks is denied by most of the responses, some of them declaring that the benefits derived by some few merchants is more than offset by the losses of the others.

Sharkey First Opponent For Bantam Champ

NEW YORK, Oct. 27.—(United Press)—Jack Sharkey, New York, bantamweight, will get the first crack at Johnny Buff's crown. Tex Rickard has signed them to go fifteen rounds for the title in the Garden on November 11.

N.Y. Boxing Clubs Can Have One Show a Week

NEW YORK, Oct. 27.—Boxing clubs operating in New York State are forbidden to conduct more than one show each week under a ruling of the State Athletic Commission, effective beginning November 7.

The new ruling will affect several of the smaller clubs, and also will interfere with plans of Tex Rickard to hold two bouts weekly at Madison Square Garden throughout the winter.

Boxers' Managers Can Have 1-3 Cut and No More

NEW YORK, Oct. 26.—(United Press) Managers of boxers will not be allowed a "cut" of more than 33 1-3 per cent of their charge's earnings, according to a new ruling of the New York State Boxing Commission.

MONT. SWIM CLUB WON SR. WATER POLO CONTEST

The Montreal Swimming Club defeated the M.A.A.A. in the opening senior water polo game at the Laurentian Bath last night, the final score being M.S.C., 1; M.A.A.A., 0. In the intermediate game, which was played previous to the senior contest, the M.A.A.A. had no trouble in running up a tally of thirteen whilst the new intermediate M.S.C. players went scoreless. The senior game was one of the best seen in a local tank since the start of the game here. The M.A.A.A. won the toss and started with the advantage of defending deep water. On the face off Frank McGill secured the ball and passed to George Hitchin, and the tosser then came back to McGill, but he shot wide of the mark. The play kept well in M.A.A.A. water until John Kerry outswam his cover and secured the sphere and made a well-timed pass to Clary Bran, who batted it past Frankie Carlin for the one goal which proved a game winner. Bobbie Logan and George Hodgson started an attack which looked dangerous, but Tom Walton saved and cleared to Walter Foran. The teams changed ends and it was expected that the strongest team the M.A.A.A. ever had in the water would sure run up a winning score. The Winged Wheelers were disappointed, however, as the M. Girl C. covered close and permitted very few shots at Walton, and the session went without a score. The third period proved the ability of Frank Carlin as a net guardian; he stopped fully half a dozen shots and kept cool all the time. The play was mostly in the deep water with M.A.A.A. defending hard, and the period also went scoreless. The duel in street swimmers worked like Trojans throughout the final quarter in an effort to even up the score, but on the other hand the M.S.C. boys showed their mettle and kept them out, winning one of the closest games ever played. Armand Garipey, the appointed judge of play, failed to show up and George Moore was obliged to handle the game alone, which he did to perfection. The score shows, the intermediate game was only a work-out for the experienced Winged Wheelers. The M.S.C. are breaking in a new set of players and they had no chance at any stage of the game, which hardly could be called a contest. The 13 to 0 score can fairly be taken as a criterion of the comerits of the two sets of players. The kindest word which can be said for the scoreless team is that they stood defeat like good soldiers, and this spirit will make them winners before the end of the season. The teams, officials and summary of both games was as follows:

Senior.

The National A.A.A. is planning to hold a big swimming gala on the night of November 17, at their club house natatorium on Cherrier street. An extensive program has been prepared and has been submitted to the Amateur Swimming Association asking that body's sanction for the events named. A number of the events will be for ladies, as the N.A.A.A. have quite a number of excellent girl swimmers and divers. Invitations are being sent out to all the aquatic clubs, affiliated with the C.A.S.A. asking them to have entrants for the various events. The program will be announced just as soon as sanction has been received from the amateur governing body, which is expected to be a few days at most. This will be the first important aquatic meet to be held by the N.A.A.A. this season, and the new bath committee is working hard to make it a great success.

GOLF INTERFERES WITH ANIMAL LIFE; O. BREAULT'S "KILL."

The golf-bug appears to be getting a hold on most human beings, but it was never imagined that it would interfere with animal life. Yet it is a fact that it was due to golf that a deer met its death in the Maritime Provinces.

According to word received here, O. Breault, well-known locally as a golf professional, and before that Spalding league hockey player, recently shot a 250 pound deer on the links of the Moncton Golf and Country Club, Moncton, N.S. The deer came out on the open course and Breault who was at the door of the clubhouse about to have a round on the links, ran in for his gun and shot the animal. Moral: If there had been no golf links nor golf professional, there would have been one more deer in the world.

Loyola Lost and Drew with Westmount

The intermediate and junior Rugby aggregations of Loyola College faced Westmount seniors and juniors, respectively, yesterday afternoon. The purple and white seniors gave the visitors a 23-5 walloping. Murphy, Cummings and Reiffenstein were responsible for Westmount's score, while Anglin was the only Collegian to make a try.

SECOND GAME.

A very interesting junior game was put up by these two schools. The result was an 11 all tie. Laing, of Westmount romped over early in the fray for a try. Ahearn lost no time in falling on a fumbled ball behind Westmount's line thus accounting for the Collegians' first score. Ayer crossed for Westmount's second try, which was converted. Just before the final whistle blew, Leacy was shoved across for a try that tied the score.

New Features in the M.A.A.A. Magazine

Several new features make themselves evident in the October number of the Winged Wheel, now being sent around to the members of the M.A.A.A., and notable among them is an entertaining and humorous article entitled "Sailing, Sailing," by Napier Moore, of New York. Mr. Moore is well known in this city, and M.A.A.A. readers of the official magazine should enjoy the new article, which will be continued for some time.

The October number is up to its usual standard, having, among other things, several old sport records which will recall the days gone by to the older members.

SCHOONERS LEAVE HALIFAX.

HALIFAX, N.S., Oct. 27.—The international champion fisherman, Bluenose, went out of the water for half an hour yesterday while she was officially taped to ensure that her measurements fell within those of the deed of gift of the International trophy. The result was as follows:—

Overall length, 143 feet 1 inch; maximum allowed, 145 feet.

Water-line, 110 feet 6 inches; maximum allowed, 112 feet.

Draught, 15 feet 4½ inches; maximum allowed, 16 feet.

Schooner Puritan May Be Next U.S. Challenger

HALIFAX, N.S., Oct. 27. — The schooner Puritan, halibut fisherman out of Gloucester, 140 tons, with an overall length of 137 feet and waterline of 105, arrived last night, and in the minds of a group of Gloucestermen, who have been in Halifax attending the International races, is their prospective challenger for next year's races for the Halifax Herald Cup.

She will be launched before next March is gone they say; and they add, she will be a money maker, even if she should not be a cup winner. Already the necessary money has been subscribed.

Captain Jeffrey Thomas will be quarter-owner and skipper of the Puritan. The other three-quarters will be divided in "sixteenths," and some of them will be owned, it is said, by Captain Benjamin Pine, W. J. Cooney, George Roberts, Alexander MacDonald, David Hartigan and Captain Robert Wharton.

O.H.A. HOCKEY PROSPECTS.

TORONTO, Oct. 27. (Star Special) — There is every indication that more teams than ever before in the history of the O.H.A. will play in the association this winter. Something like sixty-eight teams entered the intermediate series last season, and this number should be surpassed by at least fifteen the coming winter. There should be a like increase in the junior series.

President A. E. Copeland will represent the O.H.A. at the C.A.H.A. meeting tomorrow. Abbie Coo, Manitoba; William Northey, the Allan Cup trustee, while president Granger of Montreal will be in the chair.

Phil O'Dowd in New Pugilistic Find

NEW YORK, Oct. 27.—(United Press) New York was saying many nice things today about the new pugilistic find—Phil O'Dowd, Columbus. The Ohio bantam clearly outpointed Joe Lynch, former champion, in a twelve-round bout last night, and won a popular decision. O'Dowd "left-handed" the former champion to defeat, and won all but four of the twelve sessions. Lynch floored the Ohio boy in the fifth round, but instead of hurting him it made him come back stronger.

OTTAWA GOING STRONG.

OTTAWA, Oct. 27. — The Ottawa rugby team, under the watchful eyes of coach "King" Clancy, held one of its best practices to date in preparation for the coming battle with the Argonauts. All the players connected with the team put in an appearance. Following line formations and signal work, the squad was sent through a driving workout with the St. Brigids twelve of the O. R. F. U. The latter had all their regulars on deck and a real battle ensued, until darkness set in without either team having crossed their opponent's line. Walter Gilhooley, whose return strengthened the Senators considerably, went up to flying wing and gave a creditable performance, although his long lay-off showed him not to be in the best of shape as yet.

One more practice will put Ottawa right on edge. The team is confident that a victory will ensue when they take the field this Saturday to battle with the great Argo machine.

A Frenchman has perfected the smallest bicycle motor made to be attached to ordinary bicycles.

BASKETBALL

The Hurons basketball team took the Shaw Memorial Church five into camp last night by the score of 35-29. R. Murray starred for the winners, scoring 18 points. All teams weighing 133 pounds and under and wishing games please write to Sec. J. Davies, 178 Fourth Ave., Maisonneuve, or phone Main 6000, Local 36, between the hour of 12.30 and 1.30 p.m.

JOHN S. REARDON WON.

LEXINGTON, Ky., Oct. 27.—Running one of the best races of his career, John S. Reardon took the Winchester Purse at a mile and a sixteenth at Lexington yesterday afternoon. Though leading all the way, he was closely followed by Lady Madcap, which made a game effort in the final furlong and lost the decision by only a head. The two had raced together from the start, but John S. Reardon managed to keep his head in front under a hard urging by Scobie. Rouleau was third and ran a dull race.

INTER-COLLEGE TENNIS MATCH GOING ON NOW

The intercollegiate tennis meet between McGill and Toronto Universities started this afternoon on the local college courts. Both of the teams are composed of a clever set of racket wielders, and the tournament is expected to be keenly contested.

Ramsay, who won the singles title here a few weeks ago, in competition with Queen's and Royal Military College, will be the leader of the McGill team. Crocker is still at McGill but is ineligible to take part in intercollegiate competition. The team winning the meet will be intercollegiate champions, as McGill has already eliminated the other college teams.

CRAIG CAMPBELL'S SOCCER GOSSIP

Regardless of the D.F.A. secretary's opinion, the council of the Province of Quebec Football Association are deeply concerned in the financial statement, and are not yet officially aware that there is no surplus from the Scottish tour to be distributed to the provincial associations. All this was expressed at last night's meeting, the members being not at all pleased with Secretary Roy's remarks which appeared in The Star. The board strongly supported the action President Mitchell has taken, and endorsed his letter which is now on its way to Winnipeg, asking for the financial statement to be here as soon as possible, as one member expressed it the "sooner the better."

Some extraordinary evidence was given in the case of Pinkney, of Tetreaultville, charged with playing against Grand Trunk A, while under suspension. Pinkey himself admitted the offence, but the representative of Tetreaultville, Sparrow, denied any such thing, and further said that Pinkey was addicted to saying he had played with other clubs as well. The chairman thought the matter so serious that he put the case back for J. Sparrow to get evidence in support of his charge.

Stirling, of St. Paul Town, ordered off two weeks ago, could not be present, but the club's president said that no one scarcely knew what Stirling had been put off for, and that after the match Referee Bob Walker had confessed he was a little hasty in his action. Referee Walker will be asked to attend the next meeting, the case being adjourned until then.

Eddie French was exonerated from doing any intentional harm by turning out for Rosemount Jrs., he being a senior man.

O'Neill, of C.P.R., was suspended until November 15. This is rather unfortunate for O'Neill, as he had been picked to represent Ireland against Scotland on Thanksgiving Day. Grand Trunks tender for this match was accepted.

The new rules governing transfers of players were received from the D.F.A., and read, though the substance had been communicated before these go into effect next year.

J. Ryder made application to be placed on the list of referees, pointing out that he had been out of the game since 1919, and then was only dropped on the casting vote of the chairman. The circumstances regarding Ryder's removal from the official list will be gone into, and possibly reopened next meeting.

Senior League was granted permission to play a game on Thanksgiving Day morning, also Sons of Scotland versus Grenadier Guards, to aid the medal fund. While the Guards have not definitely been selected, it is thought that they will supply the opposition.

Teams for the Thanksgiving Day international are:—

Scotland—Smith, Adam Smith, Ure, Foy, Montgomery, Ramsay, Geordie Adams, Dick, Renfrew, Drummond and Tommy Forrest. Reserves—Robertson, Paton, Craigie and McDougall.

Ireland—R. Hughes, McElligott, Joe McCullough, Topping, Bailey, Mickey Hughes, McCullough, McBride, S. Cree, Dickson and Tate. Reserves—Burke, McCarthy and A. Cree.

The Third Division met and picked a team to play against the champions. Ingram, of Aylwin will be reported to the P.Q.F.A. for sending word to Secretary Doyle that Aylwin would default two games to Grand Trunk A. Robins lose two points for playing an ineligible man. This Division will ask that James Ryder be reinstated as a referee.

The team to represent the rest of the Fourth Division against the champions, Grenadier Guards II., is:—Smith (R.C.D.); Baker (M.M.G.); Cummings (N.E.); Bowers (Buffs.); Casewell, (M.M.G.; Owens (N.E.); Whitehurst (N.E.); Cornell (Tetreaultville); Stott (Buffs.); Leith (R.M.R.); and Lawrence (R.C.D.).

The game takes place on the Shamrock grounds, Thanksgiving Day; kick-off 10:30 a.m.

Benefit game will be played at Riverside Park, Longue Pointe, on Saturday for Jas. Maclachan, between Grenadier Guards and Locos.

"UNO'S" SOCCER TALK

It must be said that the P.Q.F.A. exercised a wonderful restraint in dealing with the D.F.A. last night with reference to the much overdue statement of finance which was promised one month after the annual meeting, which was held in Toronto in the early days of August. The trees are quickly casting off their autumn raiment, and still the much solicited and eagerly waited for document is still in the course of preparation. In plain English, the P.Q.F.A. do not propose to stand for it much longer, the being of the belief that the non-publication of the balance sheet is holding up the game throughout the Dominion to public ridicule.

It is quite certain that no business concern would tolerate such seeming laxity; but as far as the P.Q.F.A. are concerned, they do not assume that there is anything irregular, save the much belated issue of the financial statement and in the telegram which President Tommy Mitchell sent to Davy Roy he made it abundantly clear that they were with the D.F.A. to the last ditch, although the President was not overwhelmingly pleased about the statement made by Secretary Roy to a Star representative which appeared in our issue of yesterday. The "insinuations from the East" was matter to which Tommy Mitchell rightly took exception, and he did take umbrage at the published statement that his telegram to Davy Roy was the first that official had received, overlooking the fact entirely that there might have been a carefully planned hold-up of the P.Q.F.A. mail.

Said Tommy Mitchell: "I notice from the press that my telegram was the first intimation which the D.F.A. had received. Fortunately, we have copies of the letters we sent to the D.F.A., and we are going to keep them, too."

A blind man could not fail to see that there is a pyrotechnic display in prospect if the contending parties stick to their guns. And then the battle will be decided according to the quality of ammunition in possession of those taking part in the conflict. In a week's time a preliminary statement is promised, and it was in common fairness to the D.F.A. that the P.Q.F.A. held their horses last night.

It may be as well to state that Tommy Mitchell's most recent telegram to Secretary Roy was the third communication sent to him, not the first, as he is quoted as having said in the course of an interview. Tommy Mitchell pounced upon the statement that it was a well-known fact there was no money to divide as the result of the Scottish tour. "We don't know that yet," said Tommy Mitchell, and then he read to the Board a letter which he proposed to address to Secretary Roy and Dan McNeil, pointing out with reference to the now famous tour, that The Star's statement was the first indication the P.Q.F.A. had had of the financial side of what might well be dubbed the great convention. "Why should you make such a statement to the press," reads a passage in the president's letter to Secretary Roy, which will be posted today, "without informing your provincial associations? I withhold further comment until I hear your statement."

"Do you approve that letter being sent?" asked President Mitchell, and there was a unanimity of opinion that the letter as read should be forwarded. There was a momentary silence which was broken when the president, almost in an undertone, observed, "I don't like it, fellows, having to wait so long. I don't think it is fair."

There followed a conversational exchange of opinion, the burden of which was what possible hindrances there could be to the publication of a financial statement. I was able to inform the Board that there had been a laxity on the part of many in rendering their accounts to the D.F.A., which only provoked the statement: "Then why the dickens don't they tell us so?" The P.Q.F.A. handled the matter last night very judiciously, and Tommy Mitchell's letter to Davy Roy made it abundantly clear that we in the East—where the insinuations come from—are not hostile to the D.F.A., but are prepared to support them if they will support the P.Q.F.A. Nothing unreasonable in that, is there?

But listen! Are we all quite certain that the Provincial Associations have anything whatever to do with the tour of the Scots? The D.F.A. as such didn't finance the project. They couldn't. There wasn't as much in the bank to the credit of the D.F.A. as would have provided regular meals to the Scottish players for a month. The money was found elsewhere. By whom? And if Davy Roy held himself responsible for a few thousand dollars, having paid the piper, is he not entitled to call the tune? You remember Mr. Cahill's letter? You remember in what manner the contract for the American end of the tour was signed? I think it would be well to suspend our judgment for yet a little.

I cannot say I am ultra enthusiastic over the team selected to represent Scotland on Thanksgiving day against Ireland. The backs are good individually, but I doubt very much if they will form an effective combine. The Scots will have a slight pull in the half-back line, but the all-Irish team should keep them on the move. When the names of the Scots' eleven were announced, exception was taken to the choice of Renfrew, of Beloeil. Now, there is no question whatever that the lad is Scottish by birth. He was born in Bannockburn, and there is no denying the fact that he is registered by the P.Q.F.A. as an Irishman. But why did not Joe McQuade, Prendergast and Co., with their keen sense of Irish humor, pick Renfrew for their team? Then they would have brought matters to a head. They missed the opportunity of a lifetime.

Syracuse Press Speaks Highly of Herscovitch

Benny Cohen, the popular local boxing referee and matchmaker, who has just returned from Syracuse, where he saw Moe Herscovitch step into the ring with Roy Manley, has brought back with him some newspaper clippings which show how much is thought of the former M. A. A. A. boxer and Canadian Olympic team fighter over there.

According to the majority of newspapers Herscovitch at the worst drew with his opponent, who was, however, given the verdict by the judges. The following are some of the opinions of the Syracuse sport writers:

Charles J. Kenney, writing in one of the papers, says in part:

"To my mind Moe Herscovitch would have stopped Manley had he started his activities earlier.

"The jury decided in favor of Manley, and that goes for the well-known record, but I think that Herscovitch earned no worse than a draw.

"The last two rounds showed Herscovitch in the ascendency, carrying the fight all the way. Manley put up a humdinger of a performance, but I didn't think he was entitled to better than a draw."

The Syracuse Journal says:

"Moe Herscovitch, Montreal welterweight star, was the victim of tough luck in the shape of a judges' decision which awarded the victory to his opponent, Roy Manley, of Wilkes Barre, after a furious 10-round mill. The fans were pleased that the verdict went as it did, for Manley is tremendously popular here, but at the same time the prevailing opinion was that the Canadian boy was entitled to nothing worse than a draw."

Loyola Rugby Men Defeated Bishops

SHERBROOKE, Oct. 27. — Loyola College defeated Bishop's College university yesterday afternoon on the university grounds at Lennoxville by a score of 10 to 6. It was a gruelling contest and the game ended with the Bishop's lads making a great effort to cross the Montreal line for the winning touch. The whistle blew on the second down with the Bishop's boys only three yards out. For the last half of the final quarter Loyola were penned within their twenty-five yard area and stubbornly opposed the determined efforts of their opponents to buck their way through.

NEW ORLEANS, La., Oct. 26.—Chuck Wiggins, of Indianapolis, was awarded the decision over Martin Burke, of New Orleans, after a 20-round fight here.

Baby Grand Won; Bull's Eye's Record

LAUREL, Md., Oct. 27.—J. S. Cosden's four-year-old fencer, Bull's Eye, captured the $5,000 Patuxent Steeplechase Handicap at Laurel yesterday and set a new track record for the distance, about two miles. His time was 3.54 3-5. The son of Wrack scored by only a nose over J. E. Didener's Joyful, the two having it out all the way from the last jump to the finish line. Phoenix was third.

E. F. Whitney's Carmandale again raced in good form and won the six furlong handicap from Minute Man and Measines among others. He led all the way, but had to be put to a hard drive to save the victory by a length.

The handicap at a mile and a sixteenth was won by Commander J. K. L. Ross' Baby Grand in a finish that was hard fought for a furlong or more. The Archer was second, a nose back of the winner, the two having been but inches apart all through the stretch drive. Bridesman was third. Baby Grand shook off one challenger after another, but was tiring at the end, and The Archer would have been a winner in a few more strides.

Start Case re Violation Of Jersey Boxing Laws

JERSEY CITY, N.J., Oct. 27 — Witnesses believed to know whether the affair of July 2 between Jack Dempsey and Georges Carpentier of France was a prize fight or a boxing match, were summoned to appear today before the Hudson County grand jury.

Justice Swayze directed the grand jury last month to investigate with a view to determining whether the State law permitting only boxing contests had been violated.

INTERNATIONAL BANK MOOTED---DETROIT UNITED SLUMP

DETROIT SLUMP EFFECTED CHECK ON LOCAL LIST

A further sharp break in the price of Detroit United shares on the local market this morning tended to unsettle the market to some extent and effected a falling off in activity. By the heavy selling of the stock it was evident that the Street as well as shareholders of the company were disappointed with the manner in which the board declared the December dividend. A cash disbursement was looked for. Instead the board declared subject to aproval of the Michigan Public Utilities Commission, a dividend in scrip of 2½ per cent. The stock opened at a heavy overnight loss at 64, fell to a low of 62, firmed to 64¼ and closed at 64, leaving a net loss of 8 points. Yesterday the issue opened at 77, this making the loss to this mornings close a full 13 points.

In view of the incident, it was at first feared that the whole list might suffer more seriously as a result than actually was the case. The general price range this morning was steady to firm, although it was apparent that caution was being displayed by traders.

The paper group acted fairly well. Laurentide, the active leader, ranged at 78 to 77½ to 78¼, a net gain of ¼. Abitibi was 32⅝ to 33, up ⅛. Brompton held steady at 23⅛; Riordon at 5; St. Maurice 98; Wayagamack, 46; and Spanish River pref., 73¾ to 74¼, up ⅛.

Atlantic Sugar was active throughout the session, the price being firm at 31 to 30½ to ⅞, up ⅝. National Breweries showed no price change of note ranging at 56 to 55¾ to 56. Dom. Glass was 60½ to 61, down ½.

Steel of Canada continued in prominence but with narrow price range at 61⅝ to ⅛, unchanged. The Car issues hardened, the common rising 2 net points to 18, and the preferred advancing 1¼ to 46. News that the company had received orders to repair 1,000 cars for the Canadian National Railways seemed to be construed favorably.

Asbestos also continued in favor with a slight price advance of ⅜ net point at 55⅜. Brazilian was up ¼ at 23⅝; Canners, 27; Can. Gen. Electric 94, up ½; Montreal Power, 85⅝ to ¼ to ⅝, unchanged; Ogilvie 177, unchanged; Quebec Railway, 24 to 23⅜ to 24, down ¼; Dom. Textile, 136⅞, unchanged; Wabasso Cotton 47, up ½; and Steamships pref. 53½, unchanged.

SIR LOMER GOUIN HEADS TITLE GUARANTEE CORP.

The final negotiations for the formation of another large financial institution were completed here today, when the first board of directors were elected of the new Title Bond Guarantee and Trust Corporation of Canada, Limited.

The new organization brings together a group of very prominent English and French-Canadian financiers and banking interests and the company will specialize in an entirely new line of business for the Province of Quebec, as it is the intention to undertake the guarantee of titles and mortgages. On this account, under the company's rules, it will assume liability for all titles to property on which it passes itself and in connection with any mortgages placed through it, it will guarantee the principal and interest of the mortgage itself.

It is understood that the organization of the new company has been carried through by E. R. Decary, N.P., who for the past few years has served as chairman of the Administrative Commission of the city of Montreal. Mr. Decary, in the development of his practice as a notary, has seen the urgent need of a strong company to undertake the work of the new firm and for this reason has brought together a number of the leading interests of Montreal and Quebec.

At a meeting of the shareholders today the first board of directors and officers of the new company were elected as follows: President, Sir Lomer Gouin; vice-presidents, Sir Herbert Holt, E. R. Decary, N.P.; directors, Robert Adair, Hon. Geo. Amyot, T. S. Darling, J. N. Dupuis, Sir Geo. Garneau, Aime Geoffrion, Sir Charles Gordon, C. H. Hosmer, T. B. Macaulay, A. D. MacTier, Col. Walter Molson, Sir William Price, Donat Raymond, Senator J. M. Wilson.

The head office of the new corporation will be located in Montreal, in the premises formerly occupied by the Bank of Ottawa. The capital of the new company is $1,000,000, entirely subscribed.

WALL ST. STRONG WITH ADVANCES IN SOME STOCKS

NEW YORK, Oct. 27.—Over night developments in the railroad labor situation involved an extension of the short interests in the early stages of today's stock market. Railroad shares were less affected than those industrials and specialties which featured the recent rally. Oils, steels and equipments gave way fractionally to a full point.

Pressure was most marked against Mexican and Pan-American Petroleums, Royal Dutch, Bethlehem and Crucible Steels, Baldwin Locomotive, Great Northern and Northern Pacific, National Cloak and Suit pfd., Famous Players and U. S. Realty also were heavy. A moderate reversal in German marks featured the early dealings in foreign exchange.

The opening losses, however, were usually confined to a half point or less in active issues. Mexican Petroleum opened at 105¼, unchanged, and then sold off to 104¾. Baldwin made an early low below 89. Steel common lost ⅛ at 78⅛, and independent steels showed about an average loss of about ½ point.

Northern Pacific was off ⅛ at 71⅛, and Southern Pacific was unchanged at 76¼. There was still an excellent demand for lower priced oils, and 4,500 shares of trans-continental appeared in the opening quotation at 9⅝, up ⅛.

Prices held fairly well in the first hour. Pools in some stocks ran their favorites up to new highs, but the general disposition was to wait some definite news from the wage conference. A pool in Houston Oil ran that stock up to 80¼, which represented an advance of 100 per cent over the year's low. Asphalt was heavy, however, and profit-taking was apparent in other oils.

Kelly Springfield was soft and sold off nearly a point from the opening at 42⅜ to 41½. Good buying of Kelly Springfield has been going on for several weeks past.

The market continued to be influenced during the dull forenoon by fragmentary reports from the railroad labor hearing. These were more or less conflicting, and the trend of prices reflected this uncertain condition.

Among favorites oil, steel and equipments groups irregular extensions to the early reaction prevailed. Shippings, chemicals and food issues also eased on small offerings, but rails were only occasionally quoted at trifling changes. The few strong stocks comprised Houston Oil, International Paper, Chandler Motor and Kresge, these gaining 1 to 2½ points. Call money opened at 5½ per cent.

Traders found it a difficult matter to make money in the market during the morning's trading. Some stocks were run up, but the moves were not of long duration. There was an extremely thin market in some specialties on both the buying and selling sides. Railroad stocks advanced slightly on a Chicago despatch that the Railroad Labor Board has prepared an order, declaring the strike illegal and directing brotherhood heads to call it off.

The tone of the market in the early afternoon continued firm. The most active features of the list included: C. P. R. 111⅝ to 112¼; Northern Pac. 71 to 72⅝ to ⅜; Gt. Northern 69⅝ to 70⅝; Scotia 23; Union Bag 66; Union Oil 22⅛ to 23⅝; Studebaker 73⅝ to 74⅝ to ⅛; Sinclair 23 to 22⅞ to ⅜; Royal Dutch 43⅞ to 44⅝ to 45; Rubber 49⅞ to 49 to 50 to 49⅝; Retail Stores 52⅛ to ⅞ to 52 to 53 to 52⅝; Reading 68⅞ to 70⅝; Pan-American 45⅛ to 44⅞ to ⅝; Alcohol 46⅛ to 45½ to 47⅝ to ⅛; Int. Paper 53⅛ to 53 to 53⅞ to 54⅝; Houston Oil 77⅝ to 80⅛ to 78⅛ to 79⅞; Crucible 62⅞ to ⅛ to 63⅝; Chandler 44 to 45 to 44⅞; Cent. Leather 28⅝ to 28 to 29⅛ to 28⅝; Baldwin 89⅛ to 88⅞ to 89; Beth. Steel B. 53⅛ to 52⅞ to 53⅜ to ⅝; Asphalt 58⅝ to 57⅝ to 58⅝. Money was 5½ per cent.

WINNIPEG RAILS PREF. HAD TWO POINT RISE

A two-point advance in Winnipeg Electric Railway preferred was the principal feature of the trading in the unlisted section of the Montreal Stock Exchange today. The stock was regarded as having been out of line for some time back, in view of the excellent showing of the company in the matter of earnings and the improved margin in favor of the dividend. It is understood the technical market position of the stock has materially improved, and that there is very little stock offering around present levels.

Sales yesterday were at 76, and today at 78 and 78⅛ for an odd lot. The bid price was advanced to 79 at one stage of the session, but at noon the offering price was 78½. Argonaut Gold was strong at 40 to 39½, and some Cuban Sugar preferred came out at 13. Sales were:—

Argonaut Gold—5,000 at .40, 500 at .39½, 500 at .39½.

Mining Notes

TIMMINS, Ont., Oct. 27.—That the Hollinger Consolidated Gold Mines will sink another big central shaft to greater depth than ever before attempted in connection with gold mining in Canada is now assured. Since the discovery of the mine in 1909, and the commencement of production on a quite small scale in 1911, the development of the Hollinger has been confind to a zone lying between surface and a depth of a little over one-quarter of a mile.

KIRKLAND LAKE, Ont., Oct. 27. — In spite of rumors that a consolidation of the Teck-Hughes and the Orr Gold Mines might be under consideration, it is learned in well informed circles that such a possibility is quite remote.

ELK LAKE, Ont., Oct. 27. — It has been learned on good authority that the prospects are good for a mill being installed during the coming winter on the Trethewey property in Gowganda.

COBALT, Ont., Oct. 27.—During the week ended October 21 no ore shipments were reported from the Cobalt District over the T and N. O. Railway. Silver production continued at about normal, however, as a result of regular operations in the reduction plants on the mines.

TORONTO, Oct. 27. — An important strike is reported on the Davidson Gold Mines at Porcupine. Drillers, working on the six hundred foot level, ran into an ore shoot. The face of the drift, five feet wide, is with free gold. The vein is large, but outside of the drift its actual dimensions are not yet known.

LARGER DECLINE FOR MONTREAL CLEARINGS

Chartered bank clearings in Montreal for the week ended today showed a decrease of $37,992,882 from a year ago, equal to 28.63 per cent. The figures for the week were $94,681,201 as compared with $132,674,083 in the same week last year and with $134,179,180 in the corresponding week of 1919. The decrease for the week just ended is somewhat heavier, proportionately, than has been the case for several weeks past.

Topics of the Street

There was a falling off in volume of business on the local stock market this morning amounting to 1,998 shares, the total shares changing hands being 4,994 as compared with 6,942 yesterday morning.

Detroit, the weak spot, was also the active leader with 940 shares. Other prominent issues included: Atlantic Sugar, 700 shares; Mont. Power, 518; Laurentide, 397; Quebec Railway, 265; Nat. Breweries, 245; Dom. Glass, 200; St. Maurice, 180; Brompton, 135; Brazilian, 110; Steel of Can., 106, and Abitibi, 97 shares.

The sharp break in Detroit United shares had a decidedly embarrassing effect on the market today, which had been proceeding towards the development of a more optimistic feeling with a fair degree of success. To have Detroit break nine points overnight and make an extreme decline of eleven points from yesterday's close was decidedly disconcerting to the list in general and to Detroit's reputation in particular.

The price of the shares touched an extreme low of 50 last month, and before the month was over had rallied nine points. Since then the recovery of the stock has been steady on assurances that its position has improved, the recent deals with the city being interpreted in a constructive light.

Latterly belief in the resumption of cash dividends did a good deal to stimulate buying, and the stock moved up this week from 72 to 77½, a total recovery of 27½ points from the low. At this morning's low the stock had lost 15½ points of the gain.

The unpopularity of stock dividends was again exemplified by the break. It is not the first time the market has displayed its dissatisfaction on that point. The sharpness of the disappointment was illustrated by the way the fairly firm market of yesterday had faded away with the resumption of business today, the announcement of the stock dividend having been made after the market closed yesterday.

The local market for Detroit has undoubtedly become restricted by its recent record. It is regarded as a bad actor from a trading point of view. The uncertainty concerning what may occur at Detroit is now operating as an adverse factor. The fact that a very large proportion of the stock issued in lieu of a cash dividend comes back on the market is development which helps to depress the price.

There is very little doubt that the Detroit incident had a dampening effect on trading in the general list. It is believed, however, that this will be only of a temporary character. The development of a better toned market along with the attraction of more public buying was making satisfactory progress, but it is the history of practically all reconstructive efforts that something occurs to throw the machinery out of gear. One notable feature was that the incident was not responsible for any important price setbacks elsewhere in the list. The circumstances surrounding the Detroit situation and its uncertain phases are pretty well appreciated here as appertaining solely to that issue. The company has been in the municipal stew pot for an extended period, and it has been extremely difficult to call the turn.

Canadian public utility issues have solved their problems, and are on the way to improved market conditions. When Detroit will get straightened away is one of the big problems.

Despite the business depression which closed down a great many Canadian factories and mills during the past year and curtailed the operations of others, power companies went ahead increasing their earnings where they might have been expected to show a decrease had not new uses for electric energy cropped up.

This is an illustration of how the larger centres of population are annually increasing the uses to which power is put. New devices for the convenience of the household are being placed on the market and many of these involve the use of electricity.

In manufacturing lines great progress has been made in the application of electricity to machinery. In place of the central power unit individual motors are now adjusted to various machines which give a better and more economical use of power.

Another development of the period of business depression has been the conversion of many small manufacturing plants from steam power to electricity. During the war these plants were operated at high pressure and there was no time to make a change. The opportunity came when business slackened and many managements availed themselves of it to make the change, the high range of profits made during the war activity providing the means in many instances.

This serves in some measure to explain the attractiveness from the investors viewpoint of the various power utility securities which are now figuring in the market.

With such a remarkable record as that provided by the older companies there is every reason to believe that the future has just as much in store for new comers in the field. The availability of attractively prices power is recognized as one of the greatest assets any community could possess and the development of manufacturing and distributing centres such as Montreal, Toronto or Winnipeg will progress in ratio to the provision of the necessary facilities.

OIL MERGER ASSERTED

NEW YORK, Oct. 27.—N. Y. American says: Officials of the Union Oil Company of Delaware and The Royal Dutch Company have reached an agreement whereby control of the Union Oil Company will pass to the Royal Dutch. This information was received by the New York American from an absolutely reliable source yesterday. The plan to sell control of the Union Oil to Royal Dutch has been hanging fire for some time.

VANDERLIP PLAN INTERNATIONAL BANKING HOUSE

WARSAW, Oct. 27.—(Special Cable).—Frank A. Vanderlip, former president of the National City Bank of New York, has arrived in Warsaw after surveying the financial and economic situation in nearly every capital of Central Europe and the Balkans. He has completed the initial plan of a draft to organize "the Gold Reserve Bank of the United States and Europe."

Vanderlip's plan, which was worked out with Harry Stewart, a Chicago banker, provides for the establishment of a banking corporation with a paid-in capital of $1,000,000,000 in gold and branches in every country, including Germany.

In many respects the proposed bank will resemble the United States Reserve Banking System.

Mr. Vanderlip has sent a draft of the plan to Colonel Browning, the American representative at the Portorosa conference.

In a letter he expressed the opinion that the conference would be a great opportunity for the welfare of Central Europe. While the authors of the plan refrain from claiming they have discovered a panacea for the financial and economic ills of Central Europe and the Balkans, Vanderlip told me he is certain that the Gold Reserve Bank will enable Central Europe and the Balkans to stand again on solid ground in calculating budgets with some assurance that their calculations won't be upset by fluctuating currency.

As America is now the predominant holder of the world's gold, Americans would in all likelihood constitute the majority of the original shareholders.

Although the plan provides for American participation and control this wouldn't be perpetuated beyond the period of re-construction of the European nations.

One of the features the plan offers to participating Government is one half and later three quarters of all earnings after eight per cent. had been paid on stock.

On the other hand, the Governments will furnish suitable banking buildings, grant territorial right for the ground on which they stand, undertake to enact no legislation against the free circulation of notes issued by the bank, against making contracts payable on these notes, or opening dollar deposit accounts in other banks. Neither would the Governments impose any taxes whatsoever on the bank.

To eliminate rivalry of the nations in the management of the bank, Vanderlip suggests it receive its corporate existence through the League of Nations. Mr. Vanderlip and Mr. Stewart will leave here to discuss their plan with German financiers.

REPUBLIC STEEL RESUMES

YOUNGSTOWN, Oct. 27. — Republic Iron and Steel has placed four of its new sheet mills at Niles in operation and is now operating eleven sheet units. The remaining four mills will be started early next week.

SLOWING UP NOTICED IN AUTOMOBILE WORKS

NEW YORK, Oct. 27. — The "Iron Age" todays says: A noticeable slowing up at automobile works has reduced bolt and nut business from that source, though there have been some fresh sheet orders from the leading makers of low-priced cars. The November program of this interest calls for but 50,000 machines, or less than half the production of recent months.

October is proving one of the best months of the year for export business, meager as that is still. Germany is less of a disturbing factor, prices there having advanced sharply. Some South American wire orders have come to this country from districts recently supplied by Germany.

In rails 5,000 to 6,000 tons are under negotiation for Japan and some low bids have been developed.

Railroad car purchasing includes 1,000 for the Erie and repairs for 2,500 for the Baltimore and Ohio. The Illinois Central is in the market for 1,000 cars, the Lackawanna for 500 and the Burlington for repairs to 500.

Basic pig iron is weaker in the central west and a $19 Valley price has returned after two months of a $19.25 market. There are evidences of a widening of the field of Buffalo competition in higher silicon irons, at the expense of Valley furnaces, also of southern Ohio irons going farther afield. In eastern Pennsylvania sale of 3,000 tons of basic iron was made at $20.50 delivered.

WHEAT PRICES OPENED STEADY, BUT DECLINED

The following noon grain letter was received from Chicago by E. C. Morris, Manager for Logan and Bryan, at their Board of Trade branch office:

Wheat—Hedging by the northwest and the expectation of overnight selling orders acted as a weight on the market the early part of the session and prices declined without much resistance. On the break, there was buying on resting orders and by commission houses believed to be acting for St. Louis shorts. Receipts were estimated 40 cars. Receipts in the southwest were much lighter, while the Northwest and Winnipeg had larger runs. Overnight shipping demand here was slow, with sales reported 2,000 bushels. Foreign news continued bearish, with foreign exchange rates lower and Argentine prices at a decline. Wheat crop of the southern republic said to be officially estimated at 207,000,000 bushels against 200,000,000 bushels raised last year. Some local experts believe this excessive in view of the reduced acreage reported. Swedish agrarians are reported campaigning to have their Government place a ban on importations of American wheat.

Corn—Trade moderately active, with overnight orders forcing a lower range of prices early, on the decline, there was covering by shorts and some commission house buying. Receipts estimated at 150 cars. Cash market steady with country offerings to arrive more liberal.

FLOUR MARKET QUIET

NEW YORK, Oct. 27—(Special to The Star).—The flour market is almost lifeless. In the export division operations are lacking. Shippers declare that it is practically impossible to arouse any interest abroad even in Canadian flours, which are offered quite freely at prices much below similar American grades. The recent developments in the cash wheat situation abroad and nervousness over financial markets are believed to be the principal causes for the poor foreign demand.

N.Y. BUTTER MARKET FIRMER

NEW YORK, Oct. 27—(Special to The Star).—The butter market is somewhat firmer on account of delays in transit. Canadian boxes are held at 44½ to 46 cents, according to grade. Canadian cheese are still offered at 14 cents f.o.b. Montreal, American money. Late sales of cheddars and splits are reported locally at 21 to 21½ cents, duty paid.

EGG MARKET FIRM

The Department of Agriculture, Ottawa, reports the egg situation as follows: Toronto firm and unchanged. Sales reported of straight gathered at 52c f.o.b. country points. Montreal firm and unchanged. Chicago current firsts, 48c to 50c. Refrigerators unchanged. New York unchanged.

Canada's Trade Makes Favorable Progress

Official figures issued by the Government dealing with Canada's trade for the twelve months to the end of last September, show a more favorable position in respect of this country. In the year there was a trade balance favorable to the Dominion of $70,182,593, while in the twelve months to September 30, 1920, the trade balance was $116,860,719 on the unfavorable side. This indicates an improvement in Canada's trade position in the year of $187,043,312. While the excess of exports for the year just ended is not a particularly large one, the tendency seems to be a growing one, and the reversal is already finding reflection in the course of New York funds here, which are now well under 10 per cent discount.

The export and import figures for the year compare with the previous year as follows:—

| | 1921. | 1920. |
|---|---|---|
| Exports. .. .. | $976,060,649 | $1,208,919,175 |
| Imports .. .. | 905,878,056 | 1,325,779,894 |
| Balance .. .. .. | * $70,182,593 | †$ 116,860,719 |

*Favorable trade balance.

WOOL MARKET STEADY

OTTAWA, Oct. 27. (Canadian Press) Canadian wools are moving steadily in all but the lower grades. More movement in coarse, low combing and low medium combing has been expected for some time, but has not yet materialized. Some low mediums are selling, but rather slowly. Quotations have not changed, range from 19c to 20c for fine medium down to 10c for coarse. The Boston market is reported as having been rather quiet during the past week, apparently because of the lack of optimism shown by the clothing manufacturers. Another Government wool sale is to be held there shortly. The English markets report activity but with no increase in prices.

N.Y. CENTRAL SEPT. NET

NEW YORK, Oct. 27. — New York Central for September shows net after tax of $5,322,916, increase of $595,368, compared with a year ago.

IDLE CARS DECREASE

NEW YORK, Oct. 27. — Idle cars on railroads of country totalled 316,377 on October 15, or 29,543 less than on October 8.

RUBBER TRADE FACING GREAT CRISIS IN G.B.

NEW YORK, Oct. 27. — A despatch from London to the Journal of Commerce says that the rubber industry is facing a great crisis. Official intimation has been received from the Rubber Growers' Corporation to control production and prices. The reason given for abandonment is "insufficient support." It must not, however, be assumed that all efforts to put the industry on a better footing are at an end. The first meeting of the Rubber Shareholders' Association has been held and an influential committee elected to work on a voluntary basis. The chief object of the association, to use the words of D. F. L. Zorn, who presided, is "to render the great body of shareholders articulate and to provide them with, as it were, a nerve centre, so that decisions of vital importance to the rubber planting industry may not be made without the shareholders themselves having a proper voice in the matter."

How far the work of this purely voluntary association, with a subscription of an equivalent of $2 annually and a liability of 20 cents per member, will be able to influence the course of affairs cannot be foretold. There is, however, no attempt at disguising the gravity of the situation, but the possibility of getting anything like unanimity appears hopeless after the experience of the Rubber Growers' Association, whose scheme did not err on the side of being unambitious. It involved the proposed control of 2,200,000 acres for five years and the provision of share capital to the extent of two million sterling, with borrowing powers to a further £8,000,000, on which it was proposed to raise a minimum of £3,000,000 in the first instance, a similar corporation to be formed simultaneously to include Dutch-owned estates.

In explaining the cause of the failure of the scheme to mature, the association, in its circular, states that a substantial section of producers in Britain and Holland are strongly against any form of control which would interfere with their own discretion, either as regards production, extension of planted acreage or any other matters. Others favor restriction only if made compulsory by legislation. Many private owners and local companies in British Malaya especially, would welcome restrictions on condition that financial assistance is provided for those who require it. A large body of directors and shareholders, mainly in Britain, have indicated their willingness to sink minor criticisms and support the formation of a rubber producers' association in the interests of the rubber plantation industry as a whole.

LARGE FALL WHEAT ACREAGE

COBOURG, Ont., Oct. 27.—(Star Special).—Owing to the recent heavy rains some additional fields of fall wheat have been sown during the past fortnight in Ontario. The acreage of fall wheat in this district is reported to be greater than usual this year. In some places there is a fear expressed that some of the early sown crop has made too much growth for wintering well.

GRAPE SALES DOUBLED

HAMILTON, Oct. 27. — Virtually doubling the volume of ... year as compared with 1920, the present season of the Niagara District Grape Growers' Association, which ended yesterday, is conceded to have been the most gratifying in the organization's history.

The Strength of Water Power Securities

Strikes, deflations, inventories to mark down, and all other afflictions of the average industrial security have had but little effect upon strategically located Water Power Companies.

The services of Power Companies have been but little affected by changing business conditions. On the contrary, most of them are showing steadily increased earnings, both gross and net.

Our experience which extends over many years, convinces us that they are the most desirable securities, combining safety with a generous interest return.

EAST NOMINATING FIFTEEN FARMERS

FREDERICTON, N. B., Oct. 27. — (By a Star Staff Correspondent)—The agrarian party organized in York-Sunbury riding, fell down in the business of advertising Hon. T. A. Crerar's appearance here tonight, and the meeting has been cancelled by the progressive leader. When Mr. Crerar reached the city at noon, he found that a few handbills had been issued in desultory fashion and that even these failed to give the time or place of the meeting.

Arrangements are not being discussed for a meeting here on Mr. Crerar's return from Prince Edward Island, next week. York-Sunbury was won last May by Colonel Hanson, government candidate, who has not yet taken his seat in the House. He is again a candidate and is likely to be opposed by Ernest Stairs, U. F. candidate. It was announced today that there will be four Progressive candidates in New Brunswick, nine in Nova Scotia, and two in Prince Edward Island.

Mr. Crerar speaks at Sussex tomorrow.

HONG KONG, Oct. 26—(Montreal Star and Philadelphia Ledger Cable. Copyright.) — Lord Northcliffe, in a conversation with your correspondent, while en route to Canton, said he had been pressed by Japanese newspaper correspondents on the question of the Anglo-Japanese agreement and that he had informed them he had gradually come to the conclusion that the agreement was out of date. He considers the United States unduly handicapped at the Washington conference by the agreement, and finds Britishers throughout the Far East strongly opposed to a continuance of the agreement, as are Americans and Chinese.

EXPECTS PEACE IN ASIA-MINOR SOON

Greek Consul Here Says Turkish-Grecian War Nears End

HELP FROM RUSSIA

Declare Turks Supplied With Guns and Material by Bolsheviki

Peace between Greeks and Turks in Asia Minor may be expected at any time and there is not likely to be any more fighting there on a major scale, declares A. Macheras, Greek consul-general in Montreal. The Greek army has been successful in establishing itself in a permanent line which crosses Asia Minor roughly north and south, reaching from Isnik in the north to the Italian sphere of influence in the south.

Openings for peace negotiations are expected from the Turks before long, and at the present time the Greek premier is visiting London and Paris with a view to making the necessary arrangements from the Allied point of view.

The Greek armies advanced as far as Angora, destroying rail communications, and Mr. Macheras believes that the Turks are now too poorly supplied with munitions, uniforms and other warlike impedimenta to enable them to carry out any important offensive.

"The recent tales of Turkish successes have been absolutely untrue," declared Mr. Macheras yesterday afternoon, "and whatever fights there have been were only isolated guerilla affairs.

"The Turks have undoubtedly been supplied with materials and money by the Bolsheviki in Russia," he continued, "for we have captured Turkish guns that bore the marks of Russian origin and manufacture.

BRITISH CONCERN.

"The Greek armies are the vanguard against Bolshevist attempts and propaganda against Egypt, India and other parts of the Orient, and because of this the British Government is vitally concerned in our success. We have been fighting now since 1911, ten years of almost continuous warfare, and have spent many men and much money in fighting the Turk. With moral and financial backing from Great Britain and France we believe that we can now hold the territory we have won in Asia Minor, and so continue to act as a barrier against Bolshevists and Turks.

Talking of the territory already won, Macheras explained that it gave Greece an additional population of about 2,000,000, with a rich and fertile country. Including the new country the population of Greece is now about 8,000,000. Though Italy actually occupied only the littoral of Asia Minor, the Greek armies had not ventured to enter their sphere of influence in the hinterland.

TRADE FACILITIES BILL PROGRESSES

Given Second Reading—Scope May Be Extended Later

LONDON, Oct. 27.—The Trade Facilities Bill passed the second reading in the House of Commons without division last night.

In the course of the discussion of the bill, which extends the exports credit scheme and provides guarantees for loans for the stimulation of trade in connection with the Government's unemployment policy, it was announced in behalf of the Government that it was not intended that the provisions of the bill should be extended to Russia.

This decision is likely to be severely criticized by the Liberal and Labor members, and apparently has some connection with the rumor, not confirmed up to the present, that the Government contemplates withdrawing its trade delegation from Moscow.

Sir Robert Horne, Chancellor of the Exchequer, in moving the second reading of the bill which provides for the extension of the export credits scheme and the scheme for guaranteeing loans up to a limit of £25,000,000, said any Government or any undertaking in any part of the world might apply for a loan. He would favor proposals from the Dominions.

"It is our duty as well as our interest," said Sir Robert, "to develop the great estate we own throughout the world; these possessions were our best customers and proved in times of difficulty our most loyal and attached friends."

He added that help would not be given under the bill to countries able to raise money on their own credit, but there were many Crown Colonies which required help which the bill afforded. It would be a condition of any loan that material to be purchased with the proceeds would be bought in Great Britain if obtainable in Great Britain. If the bill should prove to be fruitful its extension would be considered at the next session.

BRITISH WOMEN SUPPORT PREMIER

Latter Will Go to Washington With No Uncertain Mandate

LONDON, Oct. 27. — (Associated Press.)—A nation-wide appeal for British women to demonstrate their support for the statesmen at the Washington Conference is contained in a letter to the London Times signed by Lady Astor and Mrs. Margaret Wintringham, members of Parliament, and three other prominent women. The letter urges "the press, clergymen, teachers, parents and school children to help to get every woman to seize this opportunity of expressing hope for the success of the conference, and adds:

"We believe that the Prime Minister will go to Washington with such a mandate from the women of this country as shall ring through the world."

On the supposition that the steamer carrying the delegates will sail November 5, the letter suggests that on November 3 every woman and every girl over 14 years of age send a signed postcard bearing "Godspeed" addressed to the Prime Minister or chief British delegate aboard the Aquitania at Liverpool.

The movement is advocated as a response to United States women who have "called across the sea."

The other signers of the letter are Millicent Fawcett, suffragette and publicist, Agnes Maude Royden, preacher and publicist, and Ethel Snowden wife of Philip Snowden, former Socialist member of Parliament.

FRAE AULD SCOTIA

MRS. McCLUNG TALKS TO SCOTS

Alberta's Woman Legislator Pays Her First Visit to Glasgow

IMMIGRATION LAWS

Preservation of the Ancient Languages, Gaelic and Braid Scots

GLASGOW, Oct. 8—(Star Special. By Mail.) — Mrs. Nellie MacClung, M.L.A. for Edmonton, has been talking to us about British Empire affairs, and especially about the work of women in the Legislative Assemblies of Canada. Mrs. MacClung has interested us considerably, especially as some of the subjects which are in the forefront in the places from which she comes are of almost equal public importance here. Legislation affecting the welfare of children and the protection of girls are, she says, naturally, women's work; and the men in the Legislatures are glad to have their help in such matters. On questions such as these she has never found any antagonism between the sexes. She is to concentrate on such subjects, and also on Old Age Pensions, a scheme for which is to be introduced into Canada. Besides, she is a keen prohibitionist and will never modify her opposition to the use of alcohol, while she is anxious to formulate a new immigration policy which will get Canada the right people, and set them in the right places. As Mrs. MacClung is a woman of wide experience her opinions are worth putting on record; as they have been by the newspapers here. She has been married for twenty-five years and has four sons and a daughter. She is Canadian-born, of Scottish and Irish parentage, and her mother came from Dundee. One of her sons served in the Princess Pats during the war. She took part in the famouse War Conference at Ottawa in 1918, and she has written seven novels. Who is more qualified to talk to us Scots on Empire subjects?

TALKING TO SCOTS.

So she has been giving us some bits of her mind. This was her first visit to Scotland, but her heart had been thrilled with what it was to be a citizen of the British Empire. One of the reasons why the world had gone wrong was because women, through no fault of their own, had lagged behind and let men go ahead and take control of everything. The world had been suffering for a long time from too much masculinity. Speaking about Canada, she thought Britain could do with a little more information about the Dominion. Britain required some place into which it might overflow, and Canada needed and wanted people from Britain. But she was beginning to see that there was a deliberate propaganda to insert a wedge of hatred and supicion between the English-speaking nations of the world.

She believed that Germany's deliberate intention was to do by fraud, and craft and guile what she had failed to do by force of arms. That was to conquer and take possession of the industry of the world. For herself the message she brought was the message of Empire—that we must trust each other—our very existence depended upon this.

A BITTER EXPERIENCE.

Which is all very well and very inspiring, but it would be interesting to have the opinion of Mrs. James Galloway, a Glasgow woman, upon the opinions of Mrs. MacClung. Mrs. Galloway has somewhat different notions about the greatness of Empire bonds and aspirations. She has had some of a kind different from the experiences of the M.L.A. for Edmonton. With her husband and family of three little boys, she sailed from the Clyde on the liner Tunisian, on August 27, and arrived at Quebec on September 4. There their troubles began. They had all been passed at Glasgow as medically fit, but at Quebec two of the boys were found to be not very well. So mother and boys were taken to the Government Immigration Hospital, while the father was detained at the Government Immigration quarters on the wharf. The father states that he was kept three days before anything was done, and then he was told that his wife and children could remain at the hospital for three months at a cost of £120; or, alternatively, he could have them sent back to Scotland. In the latter case he would have to sign a confract agreeing not to again send them to Canada for one year. This contract he signed under protest. So now Mrs. Galloway and the children are home again, and there are stories of how Mr. Galloway himself "was practically kept a prisoner under the most degrading conditions, and had to pay for his imprisonment." He is still in Canada and has obtained employment, but there is a demand for an investigation. It seems to be a case for Mrs. MacClung.

THE QUARRIER BOYS.

On the other hand, we have just had the jubilee celebrations of the Orphans' Homes of Scotland, otherwise known as Quarrier's Homes, and in the course of these Canada came in for much praise. To the boys and girls rescued from poverty and all kinds of degrading prospects, it is the great land of promise. All over the world, said some of the speakers, there were to be found prosperous happy homes built up by those whose early lives had been spent at the Homes at Bridge-of-Weir. All through the fifty years the aims and ambitions of the founder have been kept steadily in view, and the Homes have continued to take in poor and neglected children, train them up as good citizens and send them out into the world as thoroughly competent men and women of high moral character. The great majority of them have gone to Canada, and they have been made heartily welcome. Not only so, but ever so many of them keep in touch all their lives with the institution to which they owe so much, and send home great stories of how good Canada is to them, and what great opportunities it has given them. If any Canadian visits Scotland he should not miss Quarrier's Homes, if only because of the many good citizens they have sent across the seas.

THE GAELIC.

The Highland Mod at Glasgow is over, and there is some criticism of the way in which the competitions were managed. At the annual business meeting, held afterwards, it was pointed out that there should not have been any judges who had no knowledge of the Gaelic language. The executive committee, it was urged, should take into consideration the whole subject of adjudication. No one suggested that anyone had obtained a prize this year who was not entitled to one, but it was urged strongly that they should abolish the system of having as judges of Highland music men who did not know the language of the Highlands. A small committee of five or six who knew the language would, said one speaker, even if they were not highly expert in music, be more capable of deciding where the prizes should go, than any people who were ignorant of the Gaelic. It was absolutely impossible, said another speaker, for a man who knew a song only by translation, to interpret Gaelic sentiment in the singing of the song in Gaelic. All of which seems to be ordinary common sense, and the most surprising thing about it is that the question has not been raised before now. Indeed, very few people can have been aware that singing in Gaelic was being judged by men who did not know Gaelic.

THE ORIGINAL TONGUE.

Another man, Professor W. A. Craigie, of Oxford University, has the old Scottish language on the brain, as it were. Some people say the Gaelic is the old language of Scotland, but Professor Craigie—who is a great authority on the subject—says it is the Braid Scots, and he wants to save that language for posterity. So he proposes to make a big new dictionary of the language as it existed from the 14th century to the close of the 17th—say from the year 1300 to the year 1700.

About a hundred years ago, a certain Dr. Jamieson compiled what is known to this day as "Jamieson's Scots Dictionary." It is the great book of reference on the subject, but since its time plenty of material has been discovered, and is not available in any kind of handy form. Something has been done, however, in the way of organizing Professor Craigie's ideas, and he is now appealing to all who know and care for the old language of Scotland to help all they can, so that rapid progress may be made. This is a chance, especially, for those who have old books, and manuscripts and local and family histories, in all of which old and now unknown words may be found.

ST. ANDREW'S.

Speaking of old times, there have been some interesting discoveries at St. Andrew's—one of the oldest and most remarkable places in Scotland. The people there are restoring their ancient church of St. Salvador, which dates from 1455, if not earlier, and they have found what they think is the grave of the Scottish prince—perhaps, they say, that of David, Earl of Moray, son of James II of Scotland. This David was born at St. Andrew's in 1456 and died next year. So that he never figured in Scottish history. Besides, his burial place has never been known, but it has always been considered likely that it was in this particular church — the principal church—in these days—of the place. Until now, there has been no proof, but on this grave, discovered in the wall of the ancient edifice, there are the letters "D. A." The rest of the inscription has mouldered away, and cannot now be read. Whether or not the child of 1456 was buried there does not matter much now-a-days, except to the antiquarians and the historians. It would matter more if the authorities would get on with the "restoration" of the old church, which was at one time one of the first in Scotland, but is now a scene of desolation, internally, at least. WATTIE.

A feather or plume was the predecessor of the bow now put on men's hats.

VESSEL BATTERED BY ARCTIC GALES

Hudson's Bay Company's Steamer Brings Rich Cargo of Furs

VANCOUVER, October 24.—(Star Special.) — Bringing a valuable cargo of furs from the frozen Arctic the Hudson's Bay Company's power schooner Lady Kinderseley, Limited, limped into port yesterday. Her sails show signs of tremendous Arctic gales which she had successfully fought and her propeller had two blades badly bent from striking blocks of sunken ice. Once Captain Foellmer decided they would have to winter in the Arctic. That was early in September. The ice was closing about them and they tied up at Cross Island on their way from Herschel Island to Point Barrow, remaining there several days before they were able to creep out and get clear of the floes. Storms battered the little craft and at one time it took both the anchor and the engines going at full speed to hold her in the teeth of the terrible gale.

The Captain has on board a young Polar bear that was brought across from the mainland on a boat to Point Barrow by Eskimos and which is still very savage. It will be added to the collection at Stanley Park. The officers tell of having a wedding on board, of meeting many of the native Eskimos, of fearful days and nights of storm, of creeping among ice floes in fog, of having engine trouble and of the completion of a successful voyage after being the first vessel to make the round trip in one short season as far as Herschel Island and carrying supplies to all Hudson's Bay fur trading stations en route.

WEDDING ON BOARD.

The schooner carried Dr. and Mrs. Doyle from Herschel Island to Point Barrow, there Mrs. Doyle, who was very ill, went into hospital. On the same trip they carried Miss Roberts, who had gone North by way of Mackenzie River to marry the missionary at Point Barrow, a Mr. Merriath. The ceremony took place in the saloon of the Lady Kinderseley and was the occasion of much merriment. Captain O'Kelly, of Hudson's Bay fur department, and his wife, travelled south with the boat as far as Akutan, where they were to take the Victoria to Seattle.

There was little animal or bird life anywhere, although they saw some ducks in the Arctic. They had fresh reindeer meat at Point Barrow, which they liked very much and at other times they ate caribou, Polar bear meat, walrus and wild duck.

CARGO OF REINDEER FOR BAFFIN ISLAND

Expected to Supply Meat to Western Market in Few Years

CROSS WITH CARIBOU

Company Hopes to Make Vast Northern Areas Productive

WINNIPEG, Man., Oct. 25. — The Hudson's Bay Company's steamship Nascopie has sailed from Norway with a full cargo of reindeer to initiate the reindeer culture project of the Hudson Bay Reindeer Company in Baffin Island, it was learned today.

The animals will be bred for dairy products, meat, hides and draught purposes, and if the venture proves a success, will supply the western Canadian market as well as the northern people within a very few years, it was stated. The Hudson Bay Reindeer Company was incorporated under a Dominion charter last May, with Vilhjalmur Stefansson, the organizer of the reindeer scheme, as one of the directors. It has obtained a large grazing territory on the south part of Baffin Island to carry out the plan.

Special officers were sent to Norway to select the reindeer herd, which was inspected by a doctor, an officer of the Dominion Department of Agriculture before shipment. A resident manager of the ranch will be retained by the company and several families of Laps are being brought out to act as herders and protect the herd from wolves and other wild animals. It is proposed to interbreed the domesticated reindeer with the wild caribou of the north, combining the productive qualities of the domesticated with the vigor of the northern animals.

The Hudson Bay Company is the first to undertake stockbreeding of this kind in the far north, it was stated, and it proposes to utilize its resources to make productive the vast areas of the Canadian Northland now unproductive even of fur-bearing animals.

To give the industry a proper start, careful study of reindeer breeding has been made by company officials not only in connection with the Alaska reindeer industry, but in Europe, it was stated. Immediate attention will be devoted to raising stock for consumption in the north, and if the animals prove successful in production of dairying and other commodities, arrangements will be made for distribution throughout Western Canada first, and latter to other points, it is understood.

HONOR NORTH BAY CHINAMAN.

NORTH BAY, Ont., Oct. 27. — Few funerals in North Bay have been so largely attended as that of the late George Young, Chinese victim of bandits who on Monday morning raided his mother's laundry and left him dead with a bullet through his heart. St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, where services were conducted yesterday in both English and Chinese, was packed to the doors and automobiles waited outside on the street.

C. C. BALLANTYNE STARTS CAMPAIGN

Moderate Protection Policy of Meighen Government, He Declares

RAIL SITUATION

Condemns the Uncertain Planks in Liberal Platform

With a stinging denunciation of what he described as the shameless and unfair tactics of the Mackenzie King Liberals in endeavoring to place the blame of the railway muddle and the huge railway deficits on the Meighen Government, the Hon. C. C. Ballantyne, Minister of Marine Fisheries and Naval Service, opened up his heavy guns in the local St. Lawrence-St. George campaign last night, when he addressed an enthusiastic audience in the Rose Room of the Windsor Hotel.

The meeting was largely attended and Mr. Ballantyne received an enthusiastic reception. A feature was the large number of ladies in attendance. Other addresses were given by Mrs. John Scott, the chairman, E. W. Sayer and Arnold Wainwright, K.C., who explained the requirements of the law governing qualifications and regulations for voters.

"I desire to make it clear," said Mr. Ballantyne, "that neither the present Government or the previous Government are primarily responsibe for the railway muddle that Canada now finds herself in. It is ludicrous to hear the prominent Liberals who were responsible for the unwarranted and grossly extravagant railway construction and expenditures when their party was in power under Sir Wilfred Laurier, now seeking to place the blame on the present Government, accusing us of extravagance, calling for economy and trying to impress the people that they are the only party that can get Canada out of the difficult railway situation."

Hon. Mr. Ballantyne referred at length to the heavy expenditure for the construction of the eastern section of the Grand Trunk during the Laurier regime. Interest alone on the $168,000,000 which it had cost up to December last, he declared, would amount to $82,000,000 which is greatly in excess of the original estimate of the actual cost of the line.

LIBERALS LIKE FARMERS.

Discussing the tariff question Mr. Ballantyne openly charged the King Liberals with adopting a policy practically the same as that of the Grain Growers of the west, knowing they could not defeat the Government in the election and wishing to align themselves with a third party so as to snatch power. "I do not wish to call them harsh names" he added "but I feel I should call them by their proper names of political humbugs and fakers." If the Laurier Liberals did not feel satisfied with their present leader and with the fiscal policy adopted, as appearances indicated, it was their duty to say so and refuse to have anything to do with either.

The Liberals, continued the speaker, had asserted that if Canada had not defeated the reciprocity bill of 1911 there would have been no Fordney bill. He did not believe that such arguments would go down with the Canadian people. America had built up their great country by their wise protective policy. It was no unfriendly act, but simply a step in protecting the American people. He found no fault with this, but he did say that it was time Canada wakened up and protected her industries, her farmers, her fishermen and her diversified interests.

"The Meighen Government will protect these" continued Mr. Ballantyne. "We are not going on bended knee to plead with the United States to consider the position of our farmers, fishermen and manufacturers and ask that things be made as they were before. If King and Crerar wish to do this, Meighen doesn't, and his party doesn't. We want to deal on fair and equitable terms. It behooves the Canadian to exercise the same initiative and ability to take care of himself as has the American."

Mrs. Scott, while expressing gratitude at the practical abolition of the "sex-line" deplored the fact that so many women in the city and country had as yet no realization that they were entitled to vote. She referred to the fact that previous to the last election, Hon. Mr. Ballantyne had promised that one of the first things the Union Government would do if returned to power would be to give women the franchise. Her reasons for supporting the Meighen Government were, first out of gratitude. It would be a shame, she said, if as soon as they were given a gun they turned round and used it first on the person who gave it to them. Her second reason was because Mr. Meighen had courage, and the third because she knew what she would get if Meighen were returned.

MR. BALLANTYNE'S ADDRESS.

Hon. C. C. Ballantyne expressed his pleasure at seeing so many women present, and reminded them that the Union Government under Sir Robert Borden had given the franchise to women for the first time in Canada's history. While Mr. Lemieux and other prominent Liberals criticized the action of the Union Government in giving the votes to women, Mr. Ballantyne stated that there was nothing that the Government of which he was a member had done that possessed such merit and justice as placing the women voters of Canada on equality with the men, and to have the full right to exercise their franchise.

Dealing with the tariff situation, Mr. Ballantyne said that never in the political history of Canada had the country's fiscal policy, that has been in existence for the last fifty years, of moderate protection, been so threatened and challenged as at the present time. It would be well for the men and women voters of Canada to study for themselves the views and fiscal policies of the three parties that will appeal to them for support on December 5th. Mr. Ballantyne stated that the policy of the Meighen Government was to have sufficient protection to keep industries going that are now established here, and to encourage the establishment of new ones, giving employment to their own people by the preservation and maintenance of the policy of moderate protection. The Crerar-Wood Progressive party, which was largely composed of free trade and radical grain growers, were out for a policy which they did not hesitate to proclaim of absolute free trade as their ultimate goal. "I want to make it clear here that this party does not include thousands upon thousands of good farmers throughout Canada who are in favor of stable government and moderate protection, and whose support the present Government can very largely depend upon.

"The King Liberal party is the remnant of a once great party, and the principles and policies of the King Liberals are entirely different from what we have known as the Laurier Liberals. That great statesman the Right Hon. Sir Wilfrid Laurier has passed away, and so have many of his policies. The present leader of the Liberal party, Hon. William Lyon Mackenzie King, was elected as their leader at a Liberal convention held in Ottawa in August, 1919. At that convention a tariff resolution committee was appointed. After days of serious consideration the committee reported on a new fiscal policy, which was confirmed by the general convention and approved.

LEADER VACILLATING.

"Mr. King, as you know, is very vacillating" in his speeches. When he is in the West he proclaims from the house tops the Liberal policy as adopted when he was elected leader, and asks the grain-growers of the West what difference there really is between the Liberal fiscal policy and that of the Agrarian group! There is, of course, practically no difference, and the Liberal party decided upon this new fiscal policy fully conscious of what it meant, and the desire to have their platform identical with that of the free trade radical grain-growers. When Mr. King is in the East he talks of placing certain articles manufactured by our big industries on the free list, and of a 'tariff for revenue,' but that in principle he is against the policy of protection.

"He and his followers have so many different views on this question that I say tonight that the only fair and honest way to judge the Liberal party is by their approved fiscal policy, which I have read to you, and which they have solemnly pledged themselves to implement if they are placed in power. How the Liberal party would raise the necessary revenue which now requires $575,000,000 and out of this amount $140,000,000 for interest on the public debt, and $31,000,000 for pensions, is beyond my comprehension.

"The present Government has adopted all the sources of indirect taxation that can be created, such as income tax, business and sales tax, etc. If the Liberals come into power and place all agricultural implements, cement, etc., on the free list, and make a substantial reduction in the tariff, and then increase the British preference from 33 1-3 per cent to 50 per cent, every voter in this country will be able to see at a glance what great financial difficulty the country would be in, and that our present industries would get into a bad state of stagnation; the unemployed situation would become considerably more serious, and no new capital or industries would be established in this country.

"I therefore appeal not only to the men and women voters of St. Lawrence-St. George, but to all those who have the interests of the country at heart, to vote for the Government candidates, and the present Government which stands for a wise policy of moderate protection.

"My opponent in St. Lawrence-St. George, Major Herbert Marler, Notary, is a friend of mine, and one of our prominent citizens. I have this, however, to say to my opponent tonight that the electors of this important division want to know not what his personal views may be or on the new policies he states he stands for, and the appointment of a tariff commission, but 'do you stand for your leader's policies, and especially his fiscal policy?' We simply want 'no' or 'yes' to this important question. If Mr. Marler does not believe in Mr. King's, or the Liberal party's fiscal policy, then his only course is to run as an independent candidate, or retire from the field.

"How can Liberals claim they are for protection? At the last session of Parliament, Mr. Fielding moved a motion favoring the 1911 Reciprocity pact on which the Liberals were hopelessly defeated. Then again, in Parliament on May 19, 1920, on the Budget debate, Mr. Fielding moved: 'The House is of opinion that pending a wider revision of the tariff substantial reductions of the burden of Customs taxation should be made.'

"Now let us look for a moment at the Fordney tariff, which has struck such a blow at Canadian export of wheat, potatoes, fish, etc. Take fish, for instance: during the war, in 1918, there was a friendly arrangement made between Canada and the United States, which received the approval of the President under the War Measures Act, and went immediately into force on a reciprocal basis as follows: the privileges granted to the Americans were these:

"Under the Treaty of 1918 American fishing vessels were only allowed to enter Canadian ports for wood, water, shelter, and repairs, and they had to take out a license at the rate of $1.50 per registered ton. Canada in 1918 granted further privileges to United States fishing vessels that they would not be called upon to take out a license; that they were at liberty to enter Canadian ports, take on provisions, crews, dispose of their catches in Canadian territory by the payment of the regular Customs duties, or ship their fish in bond to the United States. In lieu of this, Canada was granted by the United States a privilege which she had not heretofore enjoyed, and that was that her fishing vessels could clear from the fishing banks direct to an American port and discharge their cargo of fish. Previously Canadian fishing vessels had not been allowed this privilege, but had to enter a Canadian port, discharge their cargo of fish, and if it was for export to the United States reload it on a Canadian mercantile trading vessel, and then send it to an American port. It therefore was a great advantage to Canadian fishermen to be allowed to have their fishing schooners clear direct from the fishing banks to American ports and return again to the banks, and besides this Canadian fresh fish was admitted into American markets free of duty. A treaty was drawn up based on these reciprocal concessions, one country to the other, and while awaiting the approval of the American Government, without warning of any kind, without even the usual courtesy of informing a friendly nation that these privileges were going to be cancelled, the Fordney bill was introduced and carried, which abrogated at once all these special privileges granted to Canadian fishing vessels, and a duty of one cent per lb. was placed on fresh fish. This is a great hardship to our vast fisheries, both on the Atlantic and Pacific oceans, and especially as 44 per cent of the value of our fisheries are exported to the United States. Notwithstanding this harsh and unfair treatment at the hands of the United States, Canada still allows them the special reciprocal advantages which I have just referred to. The Canadian Government has of course entered the usual protest against the action of the American Government, but so far there has been nothing to indicate that the Americans will modify the imposition of one cent per lb. duty on fresh fish, or allow Canada to again resume the privileges which she has enjoyed since 1918."

FORDNEY BILL.

"Now let us turn for a moment from fish, and see what the Fordney Bill means on certain other articles which affect the agricultural classes of this country. Wheat was formerly on the free list, it is now dutiable at 35c per bushel. The value of our wheat exports during the last twelve months amounted to $91,000,000. Take potatoes, formerly free, and now dutiable at 25c per bushel, of which our exports amounted to over $8,000,000. In a word, the amount of Canada's exports to the U. S. for the twelve-month period, formerly free, and now dutiable, of food stuffs, amount to $168,000,000 and in the face of this new U.S. emergency tariff, the platform of the Liberals and the United Farmers advocating the free admission of food stuffs from the U. S. is certainly nothing short of nonsense. The total value of Canadian exports to the U. S. for the year ended March 31, 1921, was $542,000,000. Canada buys from the U. S. twice as much as she exports, and yet in spite of the discriminatory tariff of the U. S. against Canada's farm products, food stuffs, and manufactured articles, the Liberal party and the Crerar party want to approach the Americans again on bended knee for a reciprocity treaty which this country rejected so decisively in 1911, and are prepared to give them further concessions by placing all farm implements, cement, etc., on the free list, as well as bringing about a general reduction of the tariff.

RAILWAY SITUATION.

I now wish to say a word or two in regard to the railway situation. We all recognize the seriousness of the railway problem that confronts us. Speaking for the Government, I desire to make it clear that neither the present Government under the Right Hon. Arthur Meighen, or the previous Government under the leadership of Sir Robert Borden, are primarily responsible for the railway muddle that Canada now finds itself in. It is ludicrous to listen to prominent Liberals who were responsible when their party was in power under Sir Wilfrid Laurier for the unwarranted and grossly extravagant railway construction and expenditures, now seeking to place that blame on the present Government, accusing us of extravagance, calling for economy, and trying to impress the people that they are the only party that can get Canada out of the difficult railway situation. Let me briefly show you tonight how the Liberal party were responsible for this extravagance: The Grand Trunk did not desire the Grand Trunk Pacific-Transcontinental scheme which was adopted by the Laurier Government in 1903. They merely wished a connection from their present line at North Bay with the West, and did not think of building or operating the expensive line which was projected from Moncton to Winnipeg. Sir Alfred Smithers has publicly stated to the Grand Trunk shareholders that the plans of the late Charles M. Hays were changed under strong political pressure, while W. H. Biggar, K.C., Vice-President and General Counsel of the Grank Trunk, stated before the Grand Trunk arbitrators recently that the changes were more or less forced upon them by Parliament when the Bill was before the House. Thus there is no question as to the responsibility for the Grand Trunk Pacific enterprise which Chief Justice Taft described as "the tragic part of the story of the Grand Trunk Railway of Canada." He, too, publicly states, in his dissent from the award, that the Government was not content to allow a mere connection of the Grand Trunk in Ontario with the coast, but insisted on the more elaborate and expensive plan.

"The Eastern section of the Grand Trunk Pacific (Winnipeg to Moncton) known as the Transcontinental Railway, estimated to cost 61 millions, cost 168 millions up to Dec. 31st last. Interest charges have not been reckoned on construction, but were simple interest charged this of itself would, by this time, amount to 82 million dollars or more, which is greatly in excess of the original estimate of actual cost. The Grand Trunk agreed to equip and operate this eastern section, and after seven years' free rental to pay a rental of 3 per cent on construction. Afterwards it agreed to take out a lease of the section between its Lake Superior branch and Winnipeg on a rental to be decided by Sir William Whyte as arbitrator. This latter it failed to do as, later, it failed to take out a lease or to equip or operate the Eastern division. It thus became necessary for the Government to operate the line between Moncton and Winnipeg, on which operation deficits now amount to 14 million dollars!

The Western section (Winnipeg to Prince Rupert) was constructed by the Grand Trunk Pacific, and the extent of Federal aid was supposed to be limited to the guarantee of bonds on the prairie section to the extent of $13,000 a mile and the guarantee of three-fourths of the cost of the Mountain section. The Grand Trunk Pacific enterprise was aided by loans and advances from the Government during the war, and when the Government found that these were being used to pay dividends instead of operating deficits, further aid was declined, and in March 1919, the Grand Trunk Pacific was abandoned by the parent organization, and the Government had to undertake the operation of the Western division as well.

Up to December 31st last operating deficits amounting to almost 27 million dollars had piled up. The total of Dominion aid to the Grand Trunk Pacific to the end of last year was 145 millions including loans and advances of 53 millions (which also included the operating deficits); the Government purchased 33 million dollars worth of securities. About 15 million dollars worth of bonds were bought because it was found that through faulty draftsmanship of the agreement the Government was committed to implement to par the amount the G.T.P. received from the sale of its first mortgage bonds, and after approximately five million dollars had been paid out in this fashion the Government decided it would be better to buy the bonds than to continue to make up the deficiency of private purchasers. Included in the total of 145 millions is an item of 43 millions worth of securities guaranteed.

"The Grand Trunk found the G.T.P. such a burden that failing to induce the Government to relieve it of its obligations, it simply defaulted in operation. The Government declined to relieve the Grand Trunk of its obligations in respect of its subsidiary concerns. The Grand Trunk made it plain that to go on meant the bankruptcy of the system, as the Grand Trunk Pacific was subsidiary to, and its stock wholly owned by the Grand Trunk Company.

These facts clearly show that the Liberals are responsible for the unfortunate railway situation and surely, the party that got us into this muddle is not going to get us out of it. The Government are now called upon to administer a railway system of 18,000 miles. The Government have entirely freed the management of the railway and of the ships of any political influence or interference and should get the credit of having taken this great step. The Government recognizes the importance of and the seriousness of the present railway situation. We are open to receive, and will welcome, all suggestions that can be given to us to help solve this great question. If any individual or group of men can show the Government a way whereby these railway deficits can be lessened in a manner satisfactory to the people of Canada, the Government are ready to welcome all such suggestions, and if practical, put them into effect. The railway question is best left for a proper solution in the hands of our capable Prime Minister the Right Hon. Arthur Meighen and his Government than in the hands of those who plunged the country into this great and unnecessary railway construction and the enormous debt and deficits that have followed as a consequence.

Hull Liquor Sellers Get Jail Terms

OTTAWA, Oct. 27.—(Canadian Press.)—The imposition of jail terms for the selling of intoxicating liquors in contravention of the Quebec Liquor Act continue to be the rule in the Hull Police Court since the beginning of the week. Yesterday afternoon Judge Morin sentenced Napoleon Richer, Hull, to one month in jail after finding him guilty of selling liquor without a license in July. Richer's sentence marked the fifth jail term imposed on illicit liquor sellers in the course of two days. Of the 54 actions instituted by the Quebec Liquor Commission through its Hull representative, eight have so far been disposed of with a result that there were six convictions and two acquittals.

William the Conqueror is said to have introduced horse-shoeing into Britain.

U.S. MOTHER WILL BOARD METAGAMA

Joins C.P.S. Liner at Quebec to Accompany British War Mother

POSTPONE INQUIRY

Wreck Commissioners' Court Will Sit at Later Date

Special arrangements have been made by the Canadian Pacific Steamship Company to permit Mrs. Blanche Bellak, head of the Philadelphia branch of the National American War Mothers, to board the liner Metagama at Quebec and accompany the British War Mother to Montreal. The steamer sails from Liverpool tomorrow.

Permission was granted by officials on account of the international significance of the meeting between a representative of American gold star motherhood and Mrs. Julia McCudden, who lost three sons and her husband in the war, and who comes as representative of the British people to lay a wreath on the tomb of the unidentified American soldier in Arlington cemetery on Armistice Day.

When Mrs. Bellak boards the steamer in Quebec she will present Mrs. McCudden with a huge bouquet of white carnations in the name of the Philadelphia chapter. The white carnation is the official flower of the war mothers. Mrs. Bellak stated yesterday that she would also present to Mrs. McCudden a testimonial greeting from the national organization.

POSTPONE INQUIRY.

The inquiry into the dispute which arose last week over the refusal of two pilots to take out the freighters to which they were assigned was delayed this morning pending further instructions from Ottawa. Dominion Wreck Commissioner Captain L. A. Demers was on hand this morning, also some of the witnesses and the pilots in question. The court was not opened however and an announcement will be made later today in this respect.

The point to be raised is an interesting one since it is admitted that under certain circumstances a pilot may refuse to take a boat out when he thinks that by so doing the ship is liable to come to grief. In both cases the captains of the ships claim that the weather was good enough for safe navigation and Captain Demers will have the task of determining whether the pilots used good judgment or not.

WHITE STAR WIRELESS.

Special arrangements have been made by the White Star Line for the publication of the Ocean Times daily on the White Star Dominion liner Canada running between Montreal and Liverpool. # LABOR MEMBERS CAUSE DISORDER

Two are Ordered to Leave British House—Unemployment Bill Discussed

LONDON, Oct. 27 (Special to the Montreal Star, Copyright)—There was an exciting scene in the House of Commons yesterday afternoon during the debate on unemployment bill when two Labor members were ordered to leave the House for insulting remarks.

J. H. Clynes, the leader of the Parliamentary Labor party, had just spoken strongly condemning the Government's unemployment program, stating the grant being made by the Government was "contemptible." He stated that the Labor party would take no further part in committees in this stage of the proceedings as the Government had announced that it could not make further grants.

Labor moved an amendment increasing the grant to each dependent child from one shilling to seven shillings, six pence. Dr. McNamara stated that such action would increase the cost of the bill by 9,000,000 pounds. Another amendment on the docket called for a raise of from one to two shillings for a dependent child, but Dr. McNamara said it would add 1,600,000 pounds to the bill's cost.

The amendments were voted down, whereat Will Thorne, a Labor member, became excited and called out:

"You are a lot of political tricksters."

"Withdraw!" the chairman asked, but Thorne said: "I withdraw nothing." Whereat the chairman ordered him to leave the House.

At this Jack Jones, another Labor member, jumped up and shouted, "We took you for gentlemen." On Jones' refusal to withdraw, he was ordered out also.

"This is a great victory over starving children you have won," Jones shouted back.

RETURNED MEN IN POLITICS.

OTTAWA, Oct. 27.—More than 200 returned men attended a meeting last night at the Ottawa Reform Association of the Soldiers' Re-Establishment Association, an organization recently formed which is looking to the better treatment of the returned soldiers over re-establishment on the land and related matters. The meeting was addressed by Hal. B. McGiverin and E. R. Chevrier, the Liberal standard-bearers in the city. They affirmed by resolution that they endorsed the Liberal platform, and said quite frankly that the reason for their doing so was that the Liberal platform was the one which appealed most to the returned men.

"Not mine, but Thine," who only pray
"Let this cup pass," and cannot see
The purpose of Gethsemane.

DORMITORIES FOR DISABLED SOLDIERS

Basement of Church to Be Opened as Shelter for Unemployed

The opening of dormitories in the basement of Trinity church, St. Denis street, for the accommodation of disabled ex-service men suffering through unemployment is one of the latest plans of the Disabled ex-Service Men's Association for the relief of its members during hard times.

The use of the basement has been granted to the association through the kindness of Rev. Canon Almond and it is hoped that about 100 beds can be installed there during November and the work of the association centralized in an office in the same building.

Following the Poppy Day campaign on Armistice Day all soldiers' organizations in the city will be asked to meet to appoint a representative on the Central Administrative Board of the Disabled Ex-Service Men's Association to assist in carrying out the plans for the winter.

The association is at present carrying on with an office staff of two men, one elected by the members and one appointed by the advisory board. Over 500 men have been placed in positions and over $3,000 has been spent in relief, chiefly in the supplying of food and groceries in cases of need and in the distribution of meal tickets to men who had reached the limit of their resources and were unable to find work.

The need of dormitories for the unemployed during the cold weather is increasingly apparent and it is felt by the officers of the association that the establishment of 100 beds would do much toward the improvement of conditions for the disabled soldiers searching for work under great handicaps.

A nominal charge will be made for the use of the beds, with possible exceptions in the case of those whom the Association know to be unable to meet the cost.

BUDDHISM LOSING GROUND IN CHINA

Buddhism is undergoing a renaissance in China, Rev. G. E. Simmons of the Diocese of Honan, China, last night told those in the Diocesan Theological College hall at the informal meeting with missionaries on furlough held in connection with the Triennial Meeting of the Woman's Auxiliary to the Missionary Society of the Church in Canada.

As a result of missionary efforts, the speaker said, the Buddhist leaders were realizing that they must exert themselves to hold the mass of the Chinese and temples were being restored in an attmpt to retain the interest of the people.

The Right Rev. J. Hamilton, Bishop of Mid-Japan, also spoke.

A room ten feet wide, ten feet long and ten feet high contains 75 pounds of air.

PREMIER EXPECTS $4,000,000 A YEAR FROM LIQUOR TRADE

Speaks at Banquet to Provincial Minister of Roads

QUEBEC ROAD POLICY

Expects Tourists Will Leave $35,000,000 Here This Year

A probable revenue to Quebec province of $4,000,000 a year from the liquor business was indicated by Premier Taschereau in a speech at the banquet last night to Hon. J. L. Perron, Minister of Roads, at the Place Viger Hotel.

The history of road building in the province was outlined by Mr. Perron, who said that apparently the first money ever spent by a provincial Government on Quebec roads was in 1896, by the Conservative Government, which authorized the expenditure of $30.50 for the year.

The Premier said that the interests of the province demanded an interest in Federal affairs, because the levying of necessary provincial taxes was being prevented by the heavy Federal taxes, and also because of attempts against provincial autonomy by the Federal Government.

Sir Lomer Gouin congratulated the Premier on this stand, and added that the growth of the country, and therefore of the Federal Government, only followed the growth of the provinces. He would like to be able to say that Canada's health was as good as that of Quebec.

CAMPAIGN PROGRESSES.

"We are going before the electors on the old Liberal party program," claimed Sir Lomer. The campaign was progressing well, and nearly all their candidates had been nominated. They would continue to call themselves Liberals, and he did not know for what reasons their adversaries had changed their name; some of the reasons, he thought, had brought blushes to the cheeks of their good friends. He hoped that in four or five years, by the efforts of the forthcoming Parliament, Canada's prosperity would be brought back. He expressed confidence in the return of the Liberal party, a feeling shared by Hon. Rodolphe Lemieux, who in his address claimed there would be a King-Gouin Government after December 6.

Hon. Mr. Perron said the Good Roads Act of 1912 had placed farmers in touch with communities and markets and had been to their benefit. More than any propaganda, it had kept men on the land and prevented farm desertion. He said that 90 per cent of the $35,000,000 spent by the Government on roads went back to the farmers for materials and labor.

The tourist traffic had also come about by reason of the highways, and it had been estimated that tourists would leave $35,000,000 in the province this year.

He foresaw highways from Levis to Gaspe, and Levis to Montreal along the south shore of the St. Lawrence, from Montreal to Mount Laurier, to Sherbrooke and to Ottawa. The voice of Mr. Sauve, leader of the Opposition, was the only discordant one concerning provincial roads. He had complained of the surface of some of them. Mr. Sauve was not well informed about road construction and should not complain that the surface of roads ten years old had suffered from the heavy truck traffic which since then had come into vogue. The two ton truck had come in modestly, but since then it had grown by degrees to fourteen tons. These heavy trucks naturally broke up the lighter roads, "and those who break glass must pay for it."

IMPROVED ROADWAY.

The speaker ridiculed the suggestion that the Provincial Government is making money out of the municipalities. It was lending money to them at 3 per cent and paying the balance and sinking fund.

There were now 3,750 miles of improved roadway, costing 35 millions. This national asset would not be allowed to deteriorate, and the roads department would give the benefit of its experience to the municipalities, encouraging them to improve their roads according to their means.

It was proposed to maintain in good condition roads already built, and according to Government resources, continue to improve rural roads for the farmers, and lastly go on with the system of regional roads as finances permitted.

The cost of roads should be distributed so that those who use them most should pay most, and a fair system for all could be established.

Hon. Mr. Taschereau congratulated Mayor Martin on his recent election and hoped that he would give the city all that they desired for it, that it might continue to be the pride of Canada. He should give it sane, prudent and economical administration.

CALGARY Alberta, Oct., 27.—A. J. Samis, city commissioner and an independent candidate in West Calgary, was endorsed last evening by the convention of the Liberals of the riding.

Other western nominations reported are:

Saskatoon—John Evans, Progressive.
