NON-FASCISTS CALL FOR A SHOWDOWN

Reject Italo-German Counter Proposals To Neutral Patrol Plan

London Still Regards Breakdown of Whole Non-Intervention Structure as Distinct Possibility Over Italo-German Refusal to Rejoin Neutrality Patrol—Three British Battleships Preparing to Join Mediterranean Fleet.

London, July 3.—Great Britain, France and Russia sought further support today among the twenty-seven nations represented in the Spanish Non-Intervention system.

Firm in their rejection of Italo-German counter proposals to the Anglo-French naval patrol scheme, envoys of the three powers hoped to line up other nations behind them in preparation for a showdown next week.

Opposing a plan that French and British warships extend their zones to fill the patrol gap on the Spanish Government coast left by withdrawal of Italian and German warships last week, the Rome and Berlin representatives requested that the whole naval patrol be abandoned and belligerent rights be granted to both Government and insurgent forces in Spain.

Thus, five hours of deliberation at the Foreign Office yesterday ended in deadlock, and the communique then issued by the directing sub-committee was being considered today by the twenty-seven members of the full committee pending a "full dress" session next week.

While the future of efforts to keep the Spanish war in Spain hung in the balance, the battleships Royal Oak, Warspite and Malaya were preparing to join the Mediterranean fleet.

Of the three vessels, the Admiralty said, the Royal Oak actually was on its way. As soon as the Royal Oak completes taking on stores at Plymouth she will sail but the Warspite must first test her new engines, possibly not leaving Portsmouth for two weeks.

An Admiralty spokesman said, "These are simply ordinary relief movements. There is no question of extra vessels being sent to Spain." Informed quarters said there was no chance of compromise on the basis of the Italo-German suggestions and breakdown of the whole non-intervention structure was still regarded in London as a distinct possibility.

Meanwhile, British ministers scattered over the country for their week-end engagements as usual. However, it was understood arrangements had been made for Royal Air Force planes to bring them back to the capital should an important development necessitate their presence. A cabinet meeting was scheduled for Monday.

Prime Minister Chamberlain, wearing checked cap and knickers, fished for trout in a placid stream twenty-five miles from London while the chancelleries of Europe pondered the latest situation in Spain's troubled waters.

Later in the day he planned a visit to his Birmingham constituency to attend a banquet in his honor. It was possible Chamberlain's speech there would touch on the situation.

FRENCH PRESS URGING MUNITIONS SHIPMENT

Paris, July 3.—France and Great Britain would be forced to resume "full liberty of action" towards Spain with the end of the non-intervention patrol, French newspapers proclaimed today with unusual unanimity from Right to extreme Left.

"Germany and Italy have taken upon themselves a heavy responsibility in torpedoing the non-intervention policy," wrote the Communist Party.

Claim German Police Planned Death Of Leading Soviet Cabinet Member

Russian Secret Police Chief Claims Secretary-General of Communist International Was Intended Victim of Plot Hatched by German Agents.

Moscow, July 3.—Russian Secret Police Chief Leonid Zakovsky recounted today an elaborate plot to kill Georgi Dimitroff, Secretary General of the Communist International, alleging the plan was plotted in 1936 at the orders of the Gestapo.—German Secret Police.

Dimitroff was to have been killed in Leningrad, Zakovsky said in a further elaboration of asserted spy activity in the Soviet Union. Zakovsky yesterday disclosed more than 120 accused spies had been arrested and more than seventy "liquidated"—(liquidation usually meaning execution).

Writing in the Communist Youth newspaper, Komsomolskaya Pravda, Zakovsky charged also that the Catholic Clergy in White Russia "carried out an important espionage role on behalf of Poland," and said a restaurateur recently had been executed after he confessed plotting to poison Air Force officers, allegedly at the instruction of Polish intelligence agents.

Of the asserted Dimitroff assassination plot, the Secret Police Chief related:

A Bulgarian named Pavloff was to have killed the Communist head at a supper party to which Dimitroff would be summoned ostensibly to report on the international situation.

Pavloff confessed along with two other members of the band.

"Pavloff is a professional murderer," Zakovsky said.

C. I. O. Organizing Officials Removed In Wholesale Purge

Youngstown Strike Director in Jail on Charges of Being Head of "Dynamite Ring" and Two Lieutenants Replaced in Disciplinary Move—Housecleaning Spreads to Automobile Workers—Communists Support C.I.O.

Youngstown, O., July 3.—A C.I.O. "purge" began today, as the union's axe fell on Gus Hall and two other strike captains in the Mahoning Valley steel sector.

John Owens, general C.I.O. strike director in Ohio, announced without comment the removal of Hall, now in jail under charges of heading a "dynamite ring," as strike captain in the Warren area. A joint leadership of Harry Wines and John Gracjic replaced him. Owens also strike lieutenants of their authority.

Communist participation in the strike was claimed in circulars distributed through the valley today. In the circulars Phil Bart, "Mahoning Valley Secretary of the Communist Party," said:

"Of course the Communist party and its members in the steel mills participated in the drive to organize steel and all other unorganized industries. The Communist party joins with all democratic forces in the struggle against reactionaries, open shop violence, and Fascism."

Philip Murray, chairman of the S.W.O.C. (The C.I.O. steel affiliate which called the strike May 27) said at Pittsburgh he "knew nothing about" the removal of the Ohio strike leaders.

Owens' "housecleaning" order was issued only a few hours after another prominent chieftain of the C.I.O. movement—Homer Martin, head of the automobile workers—Continued on Page 2, Col. 3.

DE VALERA HAS EARLY LEAD IN IRISH VOTING

Has Seventeen Followers Among First Thirty-Two Members Elected Under Complicated Proportional Representation Plan.

Dublin, July 3.—President Eamon de Valera's Fianna Fail today maintained a comfortable lead over William T. Cosgrave's Fine Gael as returns from Thursday's general election, held under proportional representation, were counted.

The standing, on the basis of complete returns from thirty-two constituencies:

Fianna Fail 17.
Fine Gael 8.
Independents 5.
Labor 2.
To come 106.
De Valera, in Clare, and Cosgrave, in Cork, both were among the first to be announced as re-elected. Sean Macentee, Minister of Finance, Oscar Traynor, Minister of Posts and Telegraphs, and Lord Mayor Alfred Byrne, independent, were returned from Dublin constituencies.

In Dublin Northeast, Cosgrave's lieutenant, General Richard Mulcahy, former commander-in-chief of the Free State army, was defeated by James Larkin, independent Labor candidate.

A plebiscite on the new constitution was held simultaneously with the election, and early returns showed two Dublin constituencies favored it while in Sligo a majority of 11,036 against it was returned.

A feature of the election was a large proportion of invalid ballots. Full results were not expected to be known until next week, including the fate of the proposed new constitution.

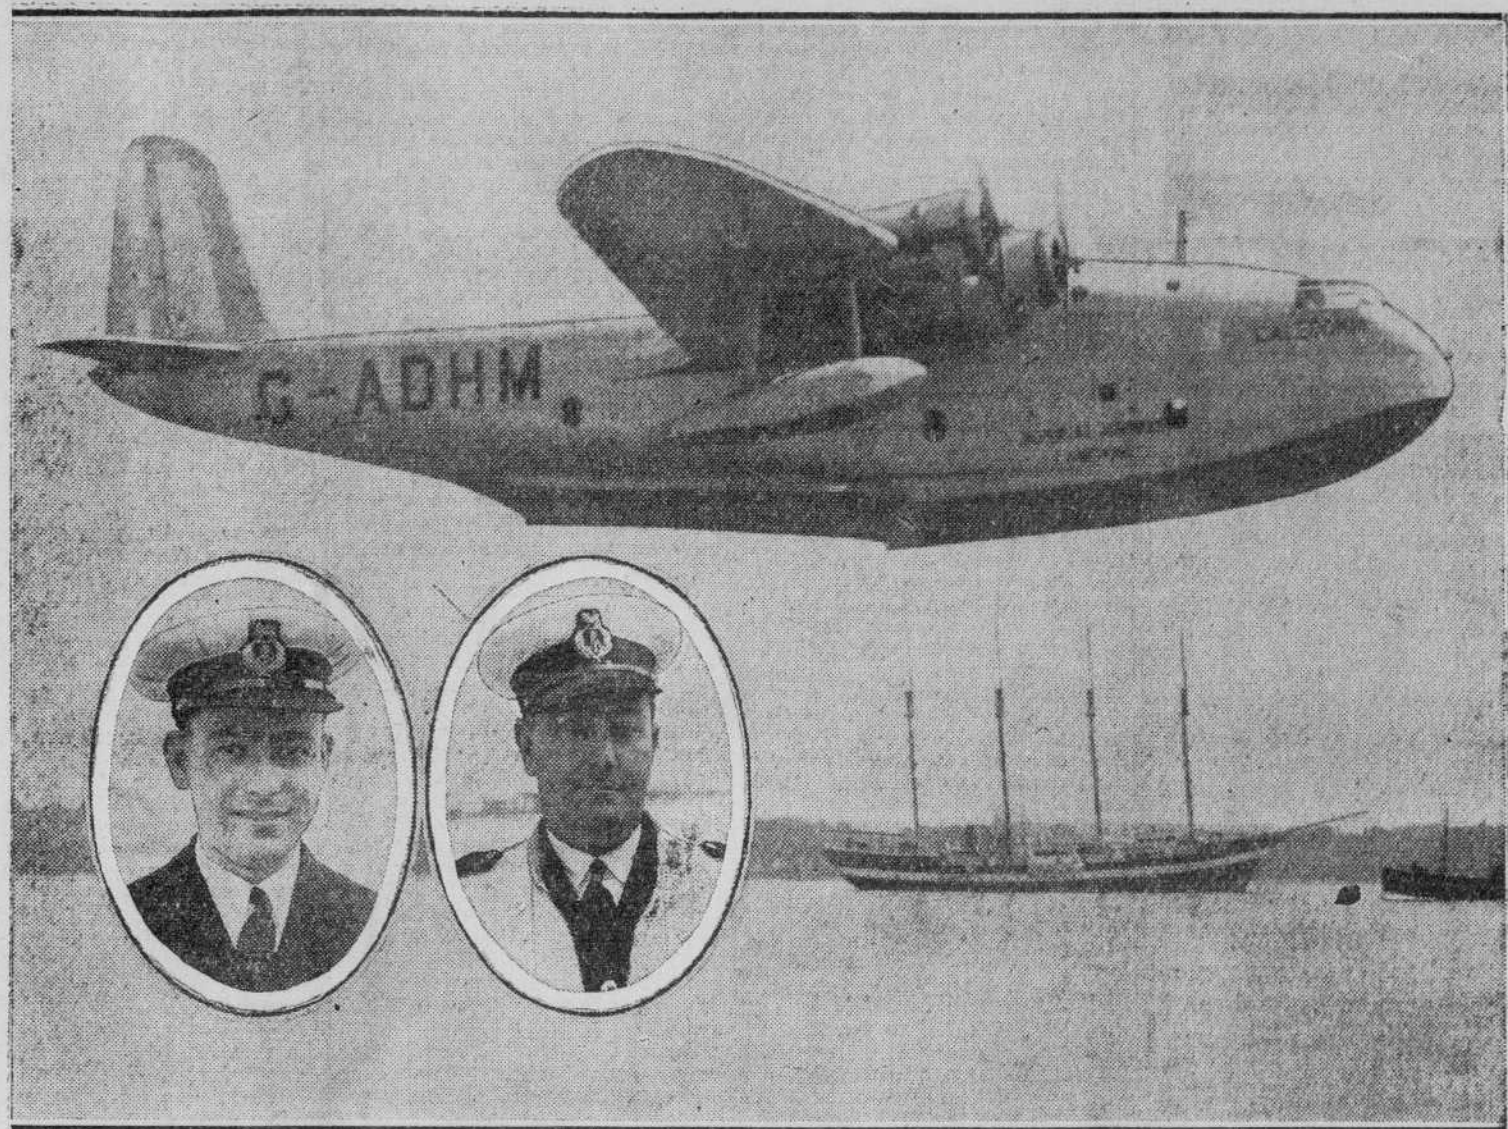

In County Clare, de Valera polled 14,012 votes, almost double the number of his nearest opponent. Cosgrave received 9,508 votes in Cork, about 1,000 over the nearest Government candidate.

The new Dail will have 138 members in comparison with the 163 who formerly sat in the Parliament.

On the constitutional question, a majority of 11,026 votes was rolled up in South Dublin favoring the document.

TO INAUGURATE TRANS-ATLANTIC SERVICE

The giant Imperial Airways flying boat Caledonia will take off early Monday morning for Botwood, Newfoundland, in the first of a series of experimental flights being undertaken jointly by Imperial Airways and Pan-American Airways blazing the trail for a regular trans-Atlantic passenger, mail and express air service. The picture shows the Caledonia taking off from Southampton water for her test flight. Inset are, right, Capt. A. S. Wilcockson, commander, and C. H. Bowes, second pilot, who are to handle the controls for the test. The Pan-American Clipper III left Port Washington, N.Y., today for Newfoundland in preparation for an eastward Trans-Atlantic flight Monday.

MISSING IN MID-PACIFIC

While navy planes and coast guard ships prepared to comb the mid-Pacific ocean in search of Amelia Earhart, shown above, and her companion, Fred Noonan, forced down by lack of fuel in a round-the-world flight, amateur radio operators were seeking to intercept further messages giving her exact location.

LOST LIFE WHEN AUTO HIT TREE AT BISHOPTON

Philippe Poulin, Residing Near Leeds, Fatally Injured in Accident Caused by Punctured Tire Early Last Evening.

Philippe Poulin, fifty-six years of age, of the parish of Le Sacre Coeur de Marie, near Leeds died in the St. Vincent de Paul Hospital early this morning from injuries suffered last evening near Bishopston when the car in which he was an occupant swerved off the highway and crashed into a tree following a front tire blowout.

The driver of the car, George Rancourt, of St. Victor de Beaus, and two other occupants, Damase Flute and Senose Biller, also of St. Victor, escaped unhurt.

The accident occurred at 7:30 o'clock. Rancourt lost control of the wheel when the tire punctured. Continued on Page 2, Col. 6.

STARTS FIRST LEG OF GREAT ATLANTIC TRIP

Pan-American Clipper III Leaves Port Washington, N.Y., for Botwood, Nfld., in Preparation for Ocean Trip on Monday.

Port Washington, N.Y., July 3.—The flying boat Panamerican Clipper III left the harbor here at 7:25 a.m., E.D.T. today on the first leg of an experimental flight to England.

The big ship rose smoothly from the water after a short run, starting the 3,500-mile trip exactly on schedule.

The crew went aboard at 7 a.m., warmed the four engines, made a preliminary taxi to the starting position, and started away with no ceremony.

The seven men aboard, delighted to be off on the new trans-oceanic venture, apparently were more interested in the fate of their mutual friend, Capt. Fred J. Noonan, Amelia Earhart's companion on her world flight, than in their own hop.

They were Capt. Harold E. Gray and his crew of six in Panamerican Clipper III, making the same type of experimental flight to Europe that Captain Noonan and other Pan-American Airways fliers made to Manila two years ago in preparation for the present trans-Pacific air service.

Today's flight by the Americans was being watched by a British crew leaving Southampton, England, in an Imperial Airways flying boat, H.M.A. Caledonia. The American route for the day was 1,072 miles to Botwood, Nfld., with a stop enroute at Shediac Bay, N.B.

Russia Acts To Preserve Orient Peace

Russo-Japanese Tension Was Eased by Russian Announcement of Intention to Withdraw Naval Patrols from Disputed Amur River Islands.

Tokyo, July 3.—Russo-Japanese tension eased today after Soviet Russia agreed to withdraw naval patrols from the disputed Amur River islands between Siberia and Manchoukuo.

The Foreign Office announced the incident, growing from a clash between Russian and Japanese-Manchoukuoan forces June 30th, was settled, explaining the Soviet Government had promised to recall her forces from the trouble zone.

A wave of relief swept over the nation when newspaper extras made public the agreement reached in Moscow. One of the best indications that the situation was no longer considered dangerous was seen in Premier Fumimaro Koyama's departure for a week-end of golf and swimming in the country.

Though the settlement apparently removed any immediate danger of war, there was apprehension over possible effect on other questions involving the two great nations, particularly renewal of negotiations for a permanent fisheries treaty to end another long-standing dispute.

ANNOUNCE DATES OF CHORAL FESTIVALS

Quebec Competitions to Be Held During Month of March in Next Two Years, Executive Decides.

Moose Jaw, Sask., July 3.—Dates for musical festivals during the next two years in Quebec were decided upon here yesterday at the 12th annual conference of the Western Canada Music Festival Association.

Represented for the first time at the Conference was the Quebec Association which held its first festival this year in Montreal. The organization was represented by R. Willis, Montreal.

The next Quebec festival will be held in Montreal March 14 to 24 next year and the 1939 festival will be held in Montreal March 6 to 16 of that year.

Adjudicators for 1938 will be Sir Hugh Robertson, Glasgow, Scotland, who will adjudicate choral and vocal competitions; Maurice Jacobson, London, instrumental and choral adjudicator; and Stewart Wilson, London, who will also adjudicate vocal competitions. Mr. Wilson is new to Canada, but Sir Hugh Robertson has been in Canada on several occasions as adjudicator. Mr. Jacobson has been here once before.

In 1939, the same three British adjudicators who last winter toured Canadian festivals will return: Dr. J. F. Staton, George Dodds and Arthur Benjamin.

Paris, July 3.—Prime Minister Mackenzie King and Ernest Lapointe, Minister of Justice, left Paris at noon today for Cherbourg where they will board the Empress of Britain homeward bound.

Wall Of Flame Prevented Rescuers From Reaching 18 Entombed Miners

Thirty-Seven Lives Claimed by Two Disastrous Explosions at Stoke-on-Trent, Eng., Mine—Rescue Workers Battle Until Exhaustion to Save Trapped Comrades.

Stoke-on-Trent, Eng., July 3.—With eighteen men trapped inside by flames and deadly after-damp, the Bryno Chesterton pit was to be flooded today—the only way authorities could extinguish fire that burned in the coal after two explosions yesterday.

A death list of thirty was officially issued when four men were taken dead from the mine; eight died in hospital of wounds and all rescue efforts to get the eighteen inside out alive failed before a wall of flame in the shaft.

A terse official account posted at the pithead gave little indication of the drama of the underground blasts and the sheer heroism of rescue workers who battled until exhaustion to save their trapped comrades.

Rescue parties rushed into the blazing pit while other crews started to save their trapped comrades.

STAVE MILL AT LA PATRIE WAS RAZED BY FIRE

Machinery, Shop and Office of International Coöperage Company's Mill Destroyed in $10,000 Blaze—Rebuilding to Commence Immediately.

La Patrie, July 3.—Fire of unknown origin completely destroyed the stave mill, together with the machinery, shop and office, of the International Coöperage Company on Wednesday night.

Apparently raging for some time before it was noticed, the fire was discovered about midnight by John Coleman and Hector Nicholson, who immediately gave the alarm. But by that time the flames were beyond control. Volunteer fire fighters managed to rescue the office effects and a number of valuable tools belonging to the foreman, G. C. Beard, and the townspeople saved the company considerable additional loss by removing a large number of staves beyond the reach of the flames. The smoke stack alone was unharmed and remains upright.

According to the manager, L. J. Fairfield, the loss is about $10,000, partially covered by insurance. Mr. Fairfield stated that operations to rebuild would commence immediately.

derer for the Bulgarian political police," Zakovsky said. "After failure of the Reichstag trial (Dimitroff was cleared in the German fire episode of 1933) and Dimitroff's expulsion, Fascists in humiliation appealed to this Macedonian terrorist for help.

"He was communicated with in Sofia and sent to the Soviet republics with instructions to kill Dimitroff.

"He met Dimitroff in Moscow but conditions were not favorable. Then he went to Leningrad, where he laid the plot to assassinate Dimitroff and others of the party in his apartment, after which he was to escape abroad through a visa procured by one of the foreign consulates."

Zakovsky, in his reference to the clergy, alleged some had used confessionalists in order to enlist counter-revolutionaries on behalf of Poland. All these priests were arrested. Zakovsky wrote, and he mentioned "liquidation" of one such group of ten. They had organized to disrupt traffic on a key military railway in the event of war, he charged.

ed sealing-off operations. There was another explosion. Four men of a five-man crew were killed, the captain groping his way to the surface too dazed to speak.

Colliery officials were among the party of seventeen entombed by the blast. The pit became a raging inferno, preventing rescue crews from working for more than a few minutes at a time.

Pitiful scenes always part of a mine tragedy were repeated, with wives and children waiting fearfully at the mine head for news of their menfolk. Each additional stretcher brought fresh misery as its tragic burden was identified. Similar scenes were reported at the North Staffordshire Royal Infirmary as the ambulances brought the badly burned men for emergency treatment.

The Earl of Harrowby, Lord Lieutenant of Staffordshire, today received a message from the King expressing sympathy over the explosion.

"The Queen and I are deeply grieved to hear of the disastrous explosion and the resultant loss of life," the sovereign said. "Please convey our heartfelt sympathy to the bereaved families and keep us informed of the progress of rescue work and the condition of the injured."

FISHERMEN OF DOMINION ONCE MORE IN MONEY

Value of Production of Canadian Fishing Industry During Past Year Showed Increase of Fourteen Per Cent. Over Previous Twelve Months.

Ottawa, July 3.—Canada's fisheries added their name to industries emerging in 1936 depression depths. They experienced the most successful year since 1930, the Dominion Bureau of Statistics reported today.

Total value of production in 1936 was $39,164,618, the total representing the value of fish as marketed, whether sold for consumption fresh, or as canned, smoked, dried and other forms. It showed an increase over 1935 of $4,736,764, or fourteen per cent., and an increase over 1932, low year of the depression, of $13,207,509, or fifty-one per cent.

Total quantity of fish of all kinds taken by Canadian fishermen during 1936 was 11,088,279 cwt., with a value at the point of landing of $22,088,742, compared with a catch of 9,592,017 cwt., and a value of $20,765,787 in 1935.

The salmon, lobster and cod fisheries were of chief importance, the value of output of the three fisheries, combined, representing fifty-five per cent. of the total fisheries production of the Dominion. The marketed value of salmon was $13,867,513, of which 96 1/2 per cent. is exported to British Columbia, and the remaining 3 1/2 per cent. distributed among the four Atlantic coast provinces. The lobster fishery on the Atlantic coast had a production value of $4,383,428, and the cod fishery a value of $3,331,750.

Practically all of the cod is taken on the Atlantic coast, the largest share being credited to Nova Scotia, with Quebec second. Other leading fisheries, with production values of over $1,000,000 each, are those of herring, sardine, whittfish, halibut and haddock and pickerel. The salmon and herring include both sea and inland, while the whittfish and pickerel were taken in the inland waters only. The other kinds mentioned above are of the sea fisheries.

Among the provinces, British Columbia, by reason of the wealth of its salmon fishery, is much in advance of any other province with respect to value of fisheries production, while Nova Scotia, with its lobster, cod and haddock fisheries, is second, and New Brunswick, with the sardine and lobster fisheries, third. Compared with the preceding year, increases in value of production are recorded for all of the provinces, British Columbia, the leading province, showing an increase of fourteen per cent., and Nova Scotia, second in importance, an increase of thirteen per cent.

In the primary operations of catching and landing the fish the value of the capital investment, as represented by the vessels, boats, nets, traps, piers and wharves, freezers, was $27,218,026, of which $22,544,459 was invested in the fisheries and $4,673,569 to the fisheries of the inland waters. The total value shows an increase over the preceding year of $744,943.

Fishermen employed during the year totalled 71,735, those engaged in the sea fisheries numbering 58,371, and in the inland fisheries, 13,364. There were 3,173 more fishermen employed in 1936 than in 1935, the number engaged in the sea fisheries showing an increase of 1,538 and in the inland fisheries an increase of 1,640.

Value of the capital investment of the manufacturing branch of the fisheries industry in 1936 is placed at $18,476,823, an increase over the preceding year of $1,332,017. The large increase is due chiefly to the salmon canneries, which, although fewer in number than in 1935, had a much larger output, and, consequently, a greater capital investment. During the year 15,110 persons were employed in this branch of the industry compared with 14,361 in 1935.

the short hop to Foyines, Irish Free State, from where they will take off Monday across the Atlantic, simultaneously with an eastward crossing to Foyines by the Pan-American Clipper.

The clipper, a 22 1/2-ton Sikorsky S-42B, is powered with four Pratt and Whitney engines, of 800 horsepower. She has a cruising range of about 3,000 miles at 160 miles an hour. The Caledonia is a twenty-ton ship.

At the completion of the double crossing, the observations of both crews will be combined in preparation for the establishment of a trans-Atlantic passenger service. Neither passengers nor mail are being carried on the experimental flights.

Stamptown, July 3.—The Imperial Airways flying boat Caledonia was fueled for flight today to Foyines, Irish Free State, hop-off point for a scheduled start Monday over the North Atlantic in a commercial flight trial.

The strike started in the Company's Auburn plant with three hundred quitting work and establishing picket lines, demanding increased wages and improved conditions. They were joined by three hundred from the Bonner-Worth plant yesterday.

Distress Signals Flash Over Pacific From Lost Aviator

warship Achilles, the San Francisco Coast Guard reported.

The Achilles, many miles south and east of Howland, messaged: "Unknown station heard to make: 'Please give us a few flashes if you can.' Signal on 3105 kilocycles. This station was KHAQQ twice and disappeared. Nothing more since then."

The Achilles' message said the radio was heard on 3105 kilocycles, which is the frequency assigned to Miss Earhart's plane for night communication.

In the Earhart was generally believed to have come down in shark-infested waters within a radius of one hundred miles northwest of Howland Island after having overshoot the tiny target on a 2,570-mile hop from Lae, New Guinea.

A heavy smoke belched from the funnel of the gleaming white, 250-foot cutter Itasca, visible for nine miles from its Howland Island anchorage, as it ploughed forward on a smooth sea in quest of the $86,000 Earhart "Flying Laboratory."

While the cutter hunted by sea the woman who started a world flight "just for fun," a United States navy flying boat sped over the 1,500 mile distance from Honolulu.

The navy minesweeper Swan joined the hunt from a position halfway between here and Howland. The flying boat itself undertook a hazardous night flight to join the search. Carrying a crew of eight, it left the Itasca at Pearl Harbor and headed directly for the island of land which the veteran aviator and her navigator missed.

Throughout the night, the Itasca, stationed at Howland originally to assist the aviator and Noonan, scoured the waters watching for distress flares.

In the glare of a rising sun, officers of the Itasca said, Miss Earhart apparently overshoot the island, a mere sand spit a mile and a half long and but two feet above the water, and was forced down a short time later.

Exactly where she alighted, no one could say, and just how long the twin-engine ship could stay aloft was a disputed point.

One of her last messages indicated the plane was within one hundred miles of Howland Island.

As Los Angeles, Mrs. E. S. Earhart, her stepmother, said resolutely: "I am sure Amelia will come through."

Paul Mantz, technical adviser to the aviator, who twice crossed the Atlantic, said in Burbank, Calif., the plane's six gas tanks would give it buoyancy to stay aloft "indefinitely."

George Palmer Putnam, husband of the missing flier, was in constant communication with Coast Guard headquarters at San Francisco. He expressed belief his wife and her companion would be found safe.

The plane had a two-man rubber lifeboat, life belts, flares, a signal kit and emergency food and water rations.

Handwinds and static combined to plague the flier, almost from the time they left Lae. They were unable to communicate with the Itasca because of the static and increased fuel consumption.

"We have had no position, speed or courses from Earhart's plane," said the Itasca radio headquarters in San Francisco.

Within 100 miles of shark-infested waters around Howland, however, there are no regular shipping lines, and tramp freighters seldom course through it because it is barren of inhabited islands or ports.

The nearest land is tiny Baker Island, 100 miles south, but there is no other for hundreds of miles.

Howland Island is a treeless sand spit located strategically on a direct air line from Honolulu to Australia. Plans have been made to lay out a permanent United States airfield.

At San Francisco Lieutenant Frank Johnson, explaining that the Earhart plane presumably came down at a point one hundred nautical miles from Howland Island, said he had estimated the drift would carry a floating plane westward at the rate of two knots an hour, about fifty miles a day.

Within ninety days, Johnson estimated, the floating plane might reach the Gilbert Island, 420 miles to the west.

Premier King has been going places since he left Canada. In London he met and discussed Empire matters. Then he decided to head towards Germany, where he met Hitler and Goering at Berlin. In Germany, he was taken on a tour of labor camps. He talked with labor headquarters' officials and he afterwards visited the Berlin Zoological Gardens, finally sitting down to dinner with members of the Anglo-German Association.

It can hardly be expected that Premier King's visit to Germany will alter Canadian or world history, but it can do no harm. There is one thing that is certain and that is that Premier King will do all in his power to strengthen good-will between Canada and Germany. If he can do anything to add to Canada's trade relations with Germany his visit will not have been in vain.

At all events Premier King has been able to extend his holiday. He did not visit Stalin and Mussolini, but that may be reserved for a later trans-Atlantic jaunt.

There is no telling, perhaps some day Premier King will decide to sit back and write his memoirs. If he does he can tell about the discussion he and Chancellor Hitler had over a cup of tea and just what the purpose was behind his visit to Germany.

Industrial Employment in Canada.

The monthly tabulation of data from firms throughout Canada by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics reveals a considerable expansion in industrial activity at the beginning of June, the gain exceeding that recorded at June 1st in any of the last sixteen years during which such information has been collected.

The figures collected by the Bureau show a rise in the payrolls of the co-operating employers from 1,041,800 at May 1st to 1,087,735 at the first of this month, making an increase of 75,935 persons or 7.3 per cent. The number of persons reporting at June 1st was 10,478. In comparison on June 1st, 1936, there were 9,960 reporting employers and their payrolls showed a total of 936,513 persons compared with 940,218 in the preceding month. There was thus an increase of 124,222 persons on industrial payrolls on June 1st last over the same date of 1936.

As a result of the rise in payrolls during May, the Bureau's index of employment, after adjustment for seasonal variation, advanced from 109.4 to 112.6, bringing it to a higher point than in any month since August, 1930. Analyzing the improvement, the Bureau notes marked gains in manufacturing, especially in the food, lumber, pulp and paper, iron, steel, clay, glass and stone divisions, and in the non-manufacturing industries important increases in logging, mining, transportation, building, highway construction and maintenance, services and trade. The expansion in construction was particularly noteworthy, greatly exceeding that indicated at June 1st in other years of the record. The trend was decidedly upward in each of the five economic areas into which the country is divided for the purposes of record.

On The Use Of Words.

Grenville Kleiser.

Beware the squandering of words. Have times of silence and times of speech. Avoid extremes. It is better to be silent much than to talk much. Talkativeness is depleting to both talker and listener. When you are inclined to verbosity, put a seal upon your lips and take mental stock of yourself. The words you use proclaim you to the world. They disclose unmistakably your taste, temperament, education, ideals and degree of culture. Choose words with the same discrimination that you choose friends. Realize the significance and power of words as living things. Study words daily and always use them worthily. Correct a fault in your speech the instant you detect it. Eternal vigilance is the price of great accomplishment.

You think in words—with words you talk, command, appeal, convince, persuade. Study words so that you can use them significantly, effectively, worthily. Study them in your dictionary and in the works of standard writers. Be discriminating in the use of words. Make lists of the best words and incorporate them in your speech. Begin with a list like this: Extenuate, revere, beguile, poignant, admirable, trenchant, umbrage, incredulity, facetious, sequestered, vagary, fidelity, obliquity, fantastic, radiance, ubiquitous, dissent, rectitude, duplicity, illustrious, fragile, chronicle, voracious, meticulous, scrupulous, lucid, venerate, aversion, ingenious. Daily study of words is a delightful and profitable pastime.

Be selective in your reading of daily news. You do not want a constant mental picture of the world's crime, disaster and distress. Direct your attention to the beautiful, encouraging and ennobling. Read editorials that are constructive, informing and inspiring. Read for useful knowledge and mental culture. Do not read anything simply because you have to read something. Better sit in quiet communion with your own thoughts, with your eyes closed, than to gorge your mind with evil, calamity, tragedy and human depravity. There are great projects, vital problems, new discoveries and world questions which make interesting and profitable reading. Be selective in your choice of subjects.

To cultivate a beautiful garden you must uproot all weeds and other unlovely things. This is best done not by sitting down and studying the origin of such weeds, and ascertaining their names and number, but by patient and diligent work in pulling them up by the roots and ridding your garden of them forever. Likewise to cultivate a beautiful mind you must uproot and cast from you all mental weeds and other unlovely thoughts, such as pride, envy, impatience, fear, resentment and selfishness. Then you must plant and carefully cultivate in your mental garden seeds of kindness, goodness, love, purity, humility, reverence and righteousness. As you persevere in this work, your mind will gradually unfold into beauty and fragrance and your life will be blest.

EDITOR'S NOTE-BOOK

Two recent cables show Great Britain is still leading the way. One tells about the Coronation Scot, London, Midland and Scottish express train, slipping off 138 miles in 149 minutes, an average speed of eighty miles per hour, with the high speed on the run 114 miles per hour. The other item is about the inauguration of a new air mail service to South Africa and to fourteen other countries of the Empire at the ordinary rate of three cents per letter.

This will be a week-end when Canada becomes an annex of the United States. The Americans seem to enjoy celebrating Independence Day in an independent country.

What would be finer than to see an imposing monument erected to the memory of the late Sir Robert Borden. Certainly the war-time Premier is deserving of public recognition.

WAITING.

Serene I fold my hands and wait,
Nor care for wind nor tide nor sea,
I rave no more 'gainst time and fate,
For what is mine shall come to me.
I stay my haste, I make delays,
For what awaits the eager pace?
I stand amid the eternal ways,
And what is mine shall know my face.
Asleep, awake, by night or day—
The friends I seek are seeking me,
No wind can turn my bark astray
Nor change the tide of destiny.
What matters if I stand alone?
I hail with joy the coming years,
My heart shall reap where it has sown
And garner up the fruits of tears.
The waters know their own and draw
The brook that springs in yonder height,
So flows the good with equal law
Unto the soul of pure delight.
The stars come nightly to the sky,
The tidal wave unto the sea
Nor time, nor space, nor deep, nor high,
Can keep my own away from me.

SOVIET ANTHRACITE USED IN UNITED STATES.

The importation of anthracite coal from the Soviet Union into the United States increased from 133,170 tons in 1929 to 403,193 tons in 1936.

And the importations to date this year indicated that Americans will burn more Soviet coal in 1937 than they did in 1936.

Anthracite from the Donetz Basin has not only virtually wiped out the sale of English anthracite to this country, but also cut deeply into the consumption of Pennsylvania black diamonds in the industrial sections of New England.

And it has done this in the fact of a $2.24 excise tax per ton, which makes the price of Soviet coal in Boston from 50 cents to $1 higher than the price of Pennsylvania anthracite.

Consumers are said to be glad to pay the higher price for Soviet coal because of its low ash content.

Another factor which enters into the case is the cost of transportation.

A ton of coal could be shipped by water from the Black Sea to Boston in 1931, according to a Tariff Commission report, for $315, whereas it cost $4.28 a ton to haul coal from Pennsylvania to Boston by rail.

And still another factor is the wage scales which the unions have obtained for their members in the mines and on the railroads.

All that has to be figured into the cost of bringing coal to the surface and delivering it to the consumer.

And because of its higher price, Americans are turning from their own hard coal to the anthracite which the Soviet authorities are throwing on the world market, with the aid of German and American mining machinery.—Detroit Free Press.

AMAZING CHINA.

A woman who had led a very secluded life suddenly inherited a lot of money, and she decided to see the world. Eventually she wound up in China, where she was fascinated by the ancient Chinese method of transportation. She watched the coolies pulling the jinrikishas; it was the strangest sight she had ever seen.

When she returned home she was in great demand by her neighbors. They wanted to know all about her fascinating trip.

"Tell me," asked a friend, "did you like China?"

"It was marvellous," replied the traveller, ecstatically. "China is the most marvellous place in the world. On my word of honor, they like horses over there that look just like men."—Christian Science Monitor.

FEARS BELGIAN MISSION TO U.S. MAY FAIL

Mr. Van Zeeland is the bearer of a message from Europe to Washington. In the name of England, France and Belgium, he will sound out the country to find out if Washington will not be willing to participate in a world economic conference in the near future. But there are difficulties in his path.

Having accepted this mission chiefly at the instigation of England, the Belgian Prime Minister does not conceal its difficulties. The Imperial Conference at London is over. Mr. Van Zeeland is able to realize how difficult it is to obtain the consent of the Dominions to the abandonment of the path of economic imperialism to which they have been committed since the Ottawa agreements.

At Paris, where he stopped some time en route for the United States, he learned from Mr. Yvon Debois, French Minister for Foreign Affairs that Paris is ready to discuss the world economic situation at the pleasure of Mr. Roosevelt, but he does not believe that the time is propitious. The talks, he added, will deal with tariff reduction, quotas and other artificial checks upon trade.

Mr. Van Zeeland holds little hope of obtaining the consent of the United States to the projected world economic conference. This is what he himself said on his departure from Europe. According to recent statements, Washington at the moment does not believe in the efficacy of such a conference.—Le Droit, Ottawa.

Psalms CXXXVI; 1: "O give thanks unto the Lord for He is gracious, and His mercy endureth forever."

This whole Psalm is a song of praise for all the blessings and the loving-kindness of the Lord to Israel in the course of her wonderful history. Can we not imagine the enthusiasm with which the multitudes crowded the Temple courts, and joined in the glad refrain: "His mercy endureth forever?"

Many centuries have rolled by since these words first found their place in the old Hebrew liturgy, but their essential message remains as true to human nature and experience, as though they were written yesterday! It is, surely, something more than coincidence that two nations with so many interests in common, with similar laws and institutions, and close ties of blood should celebrate the anniversaries of their coming to age only three days apart—the First and the Fourth of July!

It were needless for me to do more than point to the contrast between our three thousand miles of undefended frontier and the European scene—jealously, distrust, espionage, armaments and fortifications! In the past hundred years and more, our differences (such as they were) have been settled without conflict; and our appreciation of each other's good points has grown from decade to decade. Not that we have any cause for complacency. Far from it! We have sins and shortcomings that call for drastic treatment; and problems social, political and legal to solve, before we can legitimately glory in our status as democracies. But we are on the way; and, as the European situation grows more and more menacing, we are beginning to realize, as never before that Peoples of good-will must "get together," lest "government of the people, by the people, for the people" perish from the Earth!

It is not so very many years ago that the term "splendid isolation" was applied to Great Britain. Her insular position for many centuries preserved her from the worst evils of European conflicts. Today, when vast machines can fly from Moscow to Los Angeles, not even the United States can afford any longer to shut its eyes to the sinister possibilities arising out of the world situation. Democracy's chief foe, however, is Faction. "United we stand, divided we fall!" A thorough house-cleaning is in order; and, permit me to suggest that the process of cleansing and restoration should be, first and foremost, in the spiritual and moral sphere.

We have, here on this great continent of North America, every reason to rejoice in our material progress; but we have yet to learn that national riches are not to be compared with national character! In the last analysis the chief glory of a people is their growth in national righteousness, and in faith and obedience towards God. For History proclaims in every chapter that if the Ideal of a country be high and righteous, that country will become great and strong and free, but that, if her Ideal be selfish and evil, she will be a nation of slaves, and her greater her glory and power, the greater and more terrible will be her downfall.

Now, the primitive and possibly the most natural Ideal for a strong and virile people was the War Ideal—such as that of France in the Napoleonic epoch, and of Germany, Italy and Japan today. Many, indeed, are the empires that have cared little for any annals that were not written in blood. Such was Rome in her flood-tide of conquest; and dramatic, indeed, is Gibbon's picture of her decline and fall. Such

PARLIAMENT HILL HEARS...

By Wilfrid Eggleston

When I passed along Senator Mullins' anecdote of the cowboy who carried a cheque in his pocket worth $1,600 for five years, apparently oblivious of the value of money, I never expected to hear further details about the cheque, nor an explanation of how it finally came to light.

But evidently it was a rather famous cheque, because in the mails this week I received from a retired R.C.M.P. officer at Lethbridge the other half of the story which Senator Harry Mullins, perhaps, didn't know.

What Senator Mullins did know—and what I wrote a couple of months ago—was that many years ago as a cattle buyer he had issued a cheque to a rancher for a little bunch of cattle for the sum of $1,600, that the cheque failed to turn up, that he eventually wrote it off his books, that some years afterwards they wired his bank in Montreal to see if it was still good, and Colonel Mullins having been located, redeemed it.

The retired "Mountie," Thomas Randle, who kindly wrote to me from Galt Hospital, Lethbridge, says that the cheque was originally issued to a Peter Hall on Milk River in Southern Alberta. He proceeds to give us the full details:

"At that time I was in the N.W.M.P., stationed at Pendant D'Oreille on Milk River, forty miles east of Coultas. A certain rancher named George Haycock, who owned a ranch near Bread Creek, got hung up in the stirrups of his horse up in the Cypress Hills and was practically dragged to his death. He lay for eight days in Medicine Hat hospital before passing away. He originally came from Brighton, England, was of good parentage and was highly respected and loved by all who knew him.

"After his death, Cecil Rice-Jones was appointed executor, having been a school-mate at Brighton. He came down from Medicine Hat to take charge of affairs and wind them up. That was the country we still unsurveyed, so that we may class them as squatters. Haycock had a nice bunch of cattle and horses and a very comfortable ranch house with outbuildings, corrals, sheds, fencing, well and the creek, and most suitable for ranching, having open range too was Assyria in her palmy days. In the Hall of Sargon, we find the royal tyrant represented as butchering his captives with his own sword. Did it thrive, that city of blood? Read the book of the prophet Nahum for answer. How soon it passed away, and only the fame of its atrocities survived its ruin!

Great as may be our follies and weaknesses, it cannot be said that the Ideal of the Anglo-Saxon peoples is the War Ideal. We may look back with a certain pride to battle-fields like Talavera, Waterloo, Mons, Vimy and Ypres. But in all of these we were fighting for the liberties of Europe, as well as for the safety of our Empire. And even when, as sometimes occurred, we did use force for selfish ends, we are still able to say, as a race, that we never drew the sword without deep reluctance, not out of coward fear, but because we really wanted to know that we were in the right.

Our besetting sin, then, is not blood—nor the War Ideal; but the special danger of our age and civilization is the danger of materialism, the insidious influence of the Wealth Ideal. We are too often like the Rich Fool in the parable, who pulled down his barns and built greater wherein to bestow all his fruits and his goods. The Anglo-Saxon peoples have, between them, about seventy-five per cent. of the world's monetary gold! We are altogether too much given to the cult of the Almighty Dollar. And, as Our Lord made very clear, Mammon is a deadly foe. He was the god of ancient Babylon, and mighty Tyre, and the curse of medieval and early modern Spain—as one may see from the careers of the "conquistadores"!

Parkman records the words of Cortez: "If the King of Mexico have any gold, let him give it to me; for I have a disease of the heart which can only be cured by gold!" It was this "disease of the heart" that impelled the conquerors of Mexico and Peru to their careers of shameless avarice. And, in our own day, this same "disease" breeds giant trusts and conscienceless labor agitators and crafters, and corrupt politicians, and dealers in spurious stocks and shares.

Bear in mind that swollen fortunes are no certain indications of national strength. Pagan Rome was never so strong as when her leaders came from their plow-shares, and never so weak as when, with all her colossal wealth, she had scarcely a freeman left!

What, then, should be the true Ideal for a nation! Let the cynic scoff as he may, the only Ideal worth having is Duty, Righteousness, the Law of Christ. It is purity of life, honesty in trade, and constant allegiance to truth.

For, there is a Law above all the enactments of parliaments and law courts; a Law written by the finger of God upon the human heart, and by that Law, unchangeable and eternal, men come to know, that no iniquity and no idolatry can ever be anything to a man or to a nation but a delusion and a snare. If a nation be not the uplifter of righteousness and judgment it is doomed to inevitable disaster!

Let us, then, pray the Great Arbiter of Nations to continue His mercies and loving kindness, to bless the work of our hands, and that we may be active in good works, striving to carry out our share of God's great plan for Humanity. Let us heed the admonition of Micah, the Prophet, and learn "to do justly, and to love mercy, and to walk humbly with our God."

and no barbed wire impediments. "When Rice-Jones came and looked over things, he said he would remove the livestock to his ranch at Grayburn and sell the fixed property for a certain sum. He came to the police to let us know. At that time this Pete Hall was about the only prospective purchaser. So the proposition was put to him, and it was just what he desired. So one day at an appointed time he was to meet Rice-Jones at police camp and settle up.

"He came along as instructed. There were five of us to act as witnesses. He proved to be a Dane with very little education, a picturesque but uncouth chap. He pulled a Bull Durham tobacco sack from his pocket and tossed it to Rice-Jones, who emptied the contents on the table.

"Lo, and behold! Here was this old cheque signed by Colonel Harry Mullins. Well, Rice-Jones asked a friend: 'Eventually he said to Hall: "If I didn't know this man was still in the cattle business in Winnipeg I wouldn't take that cheque." Hall looked up in wonderment at the lot of us.

"The cheque was paid all right, but Rice-Jones gave Hall a real bit of advice on banking matters, and thereafter, once a year, after selling his beef, he used to pay a visit to the Bank of Montreal at Lethbridge."

The correspondent adds that Hall is still ranching near the boundary and has quite a bunch of cattle. He himself, seventy-three years young, hopes to be in the saddle for the Cardston celebration, the Calgary Stampede, and the Old Time Ranchers' celebration.

Aside from his historic significance as Canada's birthday, July 1 is a date of some importance in Canadian political life. "The most dramatic scene I recall in the House of Commons was on July 1, 1926," says Hon. Fernand Rinfret, Secretary of State, "when the Liberal Opposition defeated the 'shadow' Meighen Government by one vote."

In the election which followed, the supporters of Rt. Hon. Arthur Meighen were supremely confident that, in spite of their technical defeat in the House, Meighen would sweep the country and come to power as Conservative Prime Minister for a four or five year term. "There is a Gallery anecdote regarding election night of 1926 which suggests how disappointing the results were in some quarters when returns began to show beyond a

PROMINENT PEOPLE OF THE EASTERN TOWNSHIPS

A man who serves his community and helps to make life better for his fellow-men is an asset to any city. In E. J. Page Sherbrooke has just such a citizen.

Humble though his beginning in business was, Mr. Page is today one of Sherbrooke's public-spirited citizens and a businessman who has made his mark in the business life of the community in which he has been a guiding figure for many years.

E. J. Page, whose full name is Edwin John Little Page, was born at Melbourne on September 24, 1870, the son of Dr. Henry Little and Letitia Ann Armstrong Page.

Known to his friends as E. J. Page, few of his acquaintances are aware of the name Little, which has been borne by members of the Page family for many generations. Mr. Page is directly descended from Puritans who landed at Massachusetts Bay in 1636.

Equipped with a modest education, the early part of which he received in the East Ward School, Sherbrooke, Mr. Page began work, when but twelve years of age, in the printing-room of the Old Sherbrooke Gazette, which was founded one hundred years ago this summer.

Some years later he went to Boston, where he spent ten years with the publishers of "Youth's Companion." Determined to make his mark in life, Mr. Page, while living in Boston, attended night school in order to equip himself for the career which he had decided to follow. He also spent five years with the firm of R. G. McLean, Toronto, returning to Sherbrooke in 1902.

Convinced that Sherbrooke offered the business opportunities which he sought, Mr. Page founded the Page Printing and Binding Company. At first his business was conducted along humble lines. He began by taking over the job printing department of the Sherbrooke Record and adding the Tomlinson Bindery to his plant.

Today Mr. Page is one of the best known and most important printers in the Eastern Townships. He and his business partner, Alderman J. R. Sangster, have seen their firm expand at a steady rate, the Page-Sangster Printing Company, Limited, one of the most modern and up-to-date printing plants of Quebec Province bearing testimony to their business integrity and fair dealings.

Along with his strictly commercial activities, Mr. Page has taken time for participation in the civic, patriotic and charitable activities of Sherbrooke. During the "flu" epidemic of 1918 Mr. Page was chairman of the Sherbrooke emergency committee, which did much to relieve suffering and distress among the afflicted and their families.

The Sherbrooke Young Men's Christian Association, the Sherbrooke Rotary Club, the Sherbrooke Chamber of Commerce and the Sherbrooke Rotary Club have all found in E. J. Page an adviser and friend of lasting good.

The Eastern Townships Associated Boards of Trade, of which he is a past president, and the Eastern Townships Settlement Society have also benefited by his association with them, while he has likewise made a valuable contribution to the Eastern Townships Agricultural Association, sponsors of the Sherbrooke Exhibition.

In social and recreational groups he has long figured prominently and is a member of St. George's Club, Sherbrooke, the Sherbrooke Country Club, the Sherbrooke Snow Shoe Club, of which he is a past president, the Massawippi Fish and Game Club and the St. John's Lodge of the Free and Accepted Masons.

Mr. Page has also given freely of his time to all worthy movements, the Sherbrooke Salvation Army claiming him as one of its most loyal friends.

Whenever called upon to act upon civic committees, Mr. Page has always been found ready to comply and he has done much in this respect. Mr. Page is the type of man who can be relied upon to do his best in any undertaking. Endowed with a keen sense of humor, E. J. Page's company is a pleasure on any occasion. He is an interesting speaker and well versed in all matters of the day.

Such a man is an asset to any community and the people of Sherbrooke are happy to claim E. J. Page as one of their own. They appreciate his services, enjoy his companionship and trust that his active association with Sherbrooke will continue for many years to come.

doubt that Meighen was defeated and Mackenzie King would have a substantial margin of seats.

The Mail and Empire, Toronto, staunch supporter of Meighen, wired its Ottawa correspondent, the late Tom Blacklock, who is remembered with much affection in the Gallery, for a "lead" to its main story on the election.

Tom, who had listened lugubriously to the returns for some time had gone along to Meighen's house before the telegram arrived.

He finally wired back: "Broken-hearted; cannot write a lead."

There is another story about the same occasion which suggests similar grief in another Conservative quarter. The correspondent of the Gazette and R. E. Gosnell, another revered old-timer of the Gallery, sat down after the election avalanche had fallen to figure out something appropriate to the occasion.

R. E. Gosnell, it is said, after grappling with the problem for a while, came triumphantly to the surface with a long Latin quotation with which he started off the historic dispatch to the Montreal paper! Needless to say, it never saw print.

FINE HEADWAY IN CENTENARY ORGANIZATION

In a Little Over Three Weeks from Today Curtain Will Be Raised Upon Great Spectacle that Will Review Hundred Years of Sherbrooke's History.

Every day the wheels of the Sherbrooke Centenary machinery spin with added momentum. The mammoth celebration is drawing near. In a little over three weeks from today the curtain will be raised upon the great spectacle that will review the hundred years of history since Sherbrooke made its bow as an industrial centre.

The celebration will be the most colorful event of its kind in Eastern Townships' history. Excellent headway has been made during the past few days with the elaborate scheme of decorations, and Sherbrooke is rapidly donning a gala attire. The brilliant lighting effects will bear out the truth of the oft-repeated claim that Sherbrooke is "The Electric City of Quebec."

Tomorrow the Centenary organizers, a number of young ladies wearing historical costumes, a representative delegation of citizens and the members of the Sherbrooke Harmony Band will journey to St. Johnsbury, Vt., to attend that city's sesqui-centennial celebration. Citizens desiring to make the trip, particularly young ladies who have period costumes, are requested to meet at the City Hall. The delegation will leave at ten-thirty o'clock tomorrow morning. Special arrangements have been made at the border so that the caravan of cars will not be unnecessarily delayed. The band will play in the evening and two sections in the afternoon.

It was announced at the City Hall this morning that Miss Mimi Shea, who has been chosen to portray the role of "Miss Quebec" in the Centenary Pageant, had selected her attendants, namely, the Misses Gilberte Masse, Therese Lemay, Isabelle Gregoire, Jacqueline Prefontaine and Madeleine Delisle.

Plans for the industrial exhibit during the Sherbrooke Fair were discussed yesterday afternoon at a meeting of the Centenary Committee of the Sherbrooke Chamber of Commerce. The meeting was presided over by J. H. Codere and J. W. McKee. It was decided to arrange the exhibits from the Eastern Townships under various classifications according to towns, and manufacturers of Sherbrooke who have not yet reserved space will be canvassed during the coming week. It is hoped that these will co-operate to the fullest extent to make the exhibit one of the outstanding features of the Fair and a revelation of what the Eastern Townships possess from a manufacturer's viewpoint.

Rehearsals for the gigantic pageant, an outstanding feature of the Centenary Celebration, are going ahead steadily under the direction of Frank Hemingway, Pageant Master. The large open-air theatre that is being constructed especially for the staging of the pageant is expected to be completed by the middle of the month.

One of the most interesting scenes in the pageant, Leon Trepanier Centenary Organizer stated this morning, will be that entitled "The Passage of Francois Hertel."

the French officer and explorer. This scene depicts a clash between French soldiers and Indians. Hertel, accompanied by a group of Abenaki Indians and French soldiers, left Three Rivers on January 28, 1690, for Salmon Falls in New Hampshire, which he reached only at the end of March following a long and hazardous voyage by way of the Magog and St. Francis rivers. He attacked the fort on March 27th, killed forty-three enemy and captured forty-three prisoners. He was attacked by a detachment of two hundred English soldiers upon his return, and with the help of the Abenakis killed about twenty men and forced the others to flee. FRED S. BROWNE URGED TO HEAD DISTRICT FARM

Petitions Containing Over Two Thousand Signatures Forwarded to Ottawa Seeking Selection of Assistant Superintendent as Head of Lennoxville Experimental Farm.

The petition urging this appointment reads: "Owing to the retirement of Mr. J. A. McClary, who has for many years so ably filled the position of superintendent of the Lennoxville Experimental Station, we the undersigned farmers of the Eastern Townships, wish to lend our support to the appointment of Mr. F. S. Browne as his successor.

"For some fifteen years, Mr. Browne has been first assistant to superintendent at this farm. This long experience has qualified him for the position of superintendent. During his stay in Lennoxville, Mr. Browne's work and expert knowledge of agricultural problems have been of great assistance to all farmers with whom his duties have brought him in contact.

"In the counties of Stanstead, Sherbrooke, Compton, Richmond, Shefford and Brome about fifty per cent. of the farms are owned and operated by farmers who are English-speaking. Unfortunately during the past few years the number of English-speaking officials of the Federal Department of Agriculture has gradually decreased until now their remain only a very few. In fairness to the large percentage of the English-speaking farmers we respectfully ask that this petition be granted."

In supporting their request for the appointment of Mr. Browne, the petitioners state that in the Province of Quebec there are seven experimental stations, six of which are operated by French-speaking technicians while a large number of the employees of the seventh farm, that at Lennoxville, are French-speaking. Thus they feel that in seeking the appointment of Mr. Browne as superintendent of the Lennoxville Farm they are only asking justice for the great number of English-speaking farmers in the district.

Mr. Browne, as the petition argues, has been for a long time associated with the Lennoxville farm. He knows the farmers of the Eastern Townships and their problems. He has given faithful service to the Government and he is in direct line for the appointment.

One of nature's most rare and beautiful flowers, "The Night Biting Cactus," which is a species of the cactus and blooms once in five years, blossomed last night in the greenhouse of Mr. C. A. Peterson. Mr. Peterson stated that he had had the plant in his possession for nearly five years, and this year is the first time it has blossomed. The first blossom appeared on Wednesday night, and was dead in the morning. Last night the second blossom began to open about eight-thirty o'clock, and by morning, it, too, was dead. The plant stands about four feet high, and unlike most plants, the stalk and flower grow from one of the large leaves instead of from the centre stalk. The stalk itself is a deep pink and about half an inch thick. When open the flower spreads about ten inches, and is a creamy white, with long pointed waxy petals; while the outside petals are a deep pink like the stalk. The pistil and stamen are very long and lacy, and the flower is most delicate in every detail.

Mrs. C. C. Short, of Philadelphia, Pa., is a guest at the home of her niece, Mrs. Harry Webster, and Mr. Webster.

Mrs. R. E. Mosher is spending the week-end in Massawippi with her mother, Mrs. Elmer McClary.

Standing in the doorway, Carol was the centre of everyone's eyes.

CHAPTER XIV

"I bet on the winner, darling," cried Madison. Two thousand dollars I bet—Duke was good enough to let me bet one after the race started and then when Stardust was ahead at the half, let me double it. Did you ever hear of anything so decent as that?"

you. It's the two of you who must decide. "I will decide," said Carol, firmly. "All I want is to be let alone." Hartley was deeply hurt. Some way this didn't check with what the doctor had said. Carol saw what she had done and was sorry—it was all that Duke; whenever he was near her, she seemed to lose control of herself. Her voice was softer when she spoke.

fore he had finished and Duke had run to the phone, and asked the operator to connect him with his room. He was so jubilant that he fairly yelled when Tip answered. "Don't unpack my things. Take the bags down, as are. I'm off to California with Madison." "Oh no, you're not," came a voice he did not recognize. He wheeled around. In the doorway stood Carol. He knew it was no time for words. In one leap he was across the room and out into the hall. "You come back," shrieked Carol. He was already turning the corner far down the corridor. "Come back," she shrieked again. He was out of sight. She tried to call again but she could not. There was only one thing to do. Picking up the train of her negligee and throwing it over her arm, she ran after him. When she reached the top of the long stairway leading to the lobby, he was at the bottom. She ran down quickly. She saw Duke go into the next room. She followed. It was filled with people sitting at little tables, drinking cocktails. She was not conscious of them any more than she was of her flimsy garments. All conventions were forgotten. She must get Duke. "Come back here, you!" she shrieked in so loud a tone that it could be heard above the chatter and the laughter, above the tinkle of the ice in the glasses, above the music of the orchestra. She only half knew that the music missed several bars, that everyone in the room had turned and was staring at her. The one thing she fully knew was that Duke had disappeared. Then she felt some one take her arm in a firm grasp. "Take the other," said Dr. Beard to the masseuse who had rushed up to her. "Let me go," cried Carol struggling with them. She managed to free her arm. She swung it around and hit the masseuse squarely in the eye. "Miss Clayton," came a sharp cry. Automatically she looked in the direction of the sound—right into a camera leveled at her. There was a sound like an explosion, a sputtering light went off. The man who had called to her was running from the room. What a picture he had for the sensational papers!

Carol's nerves seem to be completely out of control. And now she has let herself in for a scandal. Will it affect her marriage to Hartley? Will she follow him and Duke to California? Don't miss Monday's swift-moving instalment. (To be continued)

McKENNEY ON BRIDGE PASSES PARTNER'S DOUBLE

Opponent Ignores Call for Takeout When He Sees Chance to Collect High Score in Penalties

By Wm. E. McKenney, Secretary, American Bridge League. Bridge players more and more are coming to appreciate the value of an informative double as a means of reopening the bidding, after an opening bid has been overcalled by an opponent, and partner in his turn has passed.

South had a choice. He might bid a spade, or double and see what his partner had to offer. He wisely chose the latter course, and North, with his four hearts, an ace and a queen outside, and shortage in his partner's suit, left the double in for penalties.

McKENNEY ON BRIDGE PASSES PARTNER'S DOUBLE Opponent Ignores Call for Takeout When He Sees Chance to Collect High Score in Penalties By Wm. E. McKenney, Secretary, American Bridge League. Bridge players more and more are coming to appreciate the value of an informative double as a means of reopening the bidding, after an opening bid has been overcalled by an opponent, and partner in his turn has passed. In such a case it does not necessarily follow that partner has a bust hand. He may be short the strength for a free bid, or may be anxious to play against opponent's suggested contract. In either case a double by the opening bidder will disclose the true situation. West, with a good five card suit and an outside king-queen, could not be blamed for his overcall. Lighter ones are made without penalty every day. Over his bid, North himself was not strong enough to double, nor could he make another bid, and East, of course, had nothing to say. South had a choice. He might bid a spade, or double and see what his partner had to offer. He wisely chose the latter course, and North, with his four hearts, an ace and a queen outside, and shortage in his partner's suit, left the double in for penalties. The opening diamond lead was by South with the queen, which now returned his club. This the declarer wisely read as a doubleton, and when North permitted the king to hold the trick, he led two rounds of trumps. In this way he was able to make five tricks, going down 500 points. Had he not taken two rounds of trumps when he obtained the lead, he would have won only four tricks, as South would have ruffed a club. While North and South could probably have a game in no trump, the penalty was at least as great, and the risk much less. Tomorrow's Radio Programme. ATTRactions AT THE LOCAL THEATRES At The Granada An intimate picture of the lives of members of a Flying Squadron behind the lines during the World War is the dramatic theme presented in "The Woman I Love," starring Paul Muni, Miriam Hopkins and the young English favorite Louis Hayward, which opens at the Granada Theatre tomorrow. Muni, winner of the Motion Picture Academy's award for the best acting of 1936, appears as a pilot of an observation plane, who with Hayward as his flying mate, is known for his daring and breath-taking aerial exploits. The two men are devoted friends, but a tensely gripping situation arises when Hayward unwittingly falls desperately in love with Muni's wife, played by Miss Hopkins, and she with him. The aviation angle of the film is particularly interesting in view of the fact that in most pictures dealing with war-time air fighting the featured craft have been pursuit planes. In "The Woman I Love" the less picturesque but equally useful observation planes have the leading roles. The added attraction is "The Go-Getter," a story of Cappy Ricks. At The Premier George Bancroft, in a role reminiscent of his memorable portrayals in "Underworld," "Dragonet," and "Docks of New York," heads the large cast appearing in Columbia's "Racketeers in Exile," opening at the Premier tomorrow. Appearing opposite Bancroft is Wynne Gibson, his co-star in the famous "Lady and Gent" of several years back, and Evelyn Venable, last seen opposite Jack Holt in "North of Nome." Directed by Erle C. Kenton from a story by Harry Sauber, "Racketeers in Exile" relates the story of "Big Bill" Waldon, racketeer and public enemy, who hides out with his mob in his home town when G-men turn on the heat. When, at a church social he discovers he has the gift of oratory, he launches on a new racket—as a fake evangelist. When Bill falls in love again with Evelyn Venable, his childhood sweetheart, his character takes an unexpected development, and the story races to a stirring climax. Supporting the three stars are Marc Lawrence, George McKay, John Gallaudet, Helen Lowell, Gray Owen and Jonathan Hale. Added attractions are "The Cherokee Strip," a story based upon the opening to settlers in 1859 of free land in what was then the Indian Territory and is now the State of Oklahoma; and the first chapter of a South Sea Island serial, "Robinson Crusoe of Clipper Island." PUDDLE SAVED LIFE OF MAN. Bowmanville, Ont., July 3.—A puddle of water, less than two feet deep, saved the life of Bob Cavies, fifty-two years old, when he landed in it after falling eighty feet from a bridge. He was removed to hospital suffering from injuries to his hands, scalp wounds and minor cuts. Sports; News; KDKA: News; Sports Final. They can hurl death at the enemy from three 30 calibre and one 50 calibre machine guns as well as a Thompson sub-machine gun and the four automatic pistols of its crew.

CHICAGO HOLDS ITS SLIM LEAD OVER NEW YORK

Ninth Inning Rally Enabled Cubs to Nose Out Pirates—Giants Trimmed Boston—Yankees Retained Their Four-Game Margin in American League.

Although they're nearly a thousand miles apart and haven't even seen each other in almost two weeks, Chicago's clouting Cubs and New York's tough Giants are swinging at anything and everything in sight to be on top of the National League in time for the United States July 4 holiday and the big league baseball deadline.

Tradition has it that the outfit at the head of the parade on July 4 will be in the same spot on closing day.

In the American League the Yankees, despite an eight to three setback at the hands of Washington's Senators yesterday, are breezing along on a four-game lead, clinching the July 4 "championship."

But over in the National League, the Cubs are holding the reins only by a measly half-game over the Giants.

After galloping over the "Gas House Gang" of Cardinals three in a row, the Cubs opened against the Pittsburgh Pirates yesterday, and held onto their league lead with an eight to seven decision on the strength of four homers, not the least important of which was Augie Galan's game-wrecking poke with a mate on base and one out in the ninth.

The Giants began a series with their second-division rivals of the week, Boston's somewhat punchless Sox, and finished on top by six to two.

Bump Hadley's luck ran out on him in Washington, despite Joe DiMaggio's seventeenth homer of the year, and the Nats had little difficulty fashioning their victory.

That defeat didn't change the American League standings, since the second place Chicago White Sox also were taking one on the chin. Before Jim Walkup's six-hit elbowing, the Sox were stymied and dropped a four to two verdict to the Browns.

Boston's Red Sox found Philadelphia Athletics a cinch and came through with an eight to four victory in their series opener. The Brooklyn Dodgers' rookie Luke Hamlin blanked the Phillies with seven hits for a three to nothing win.

Cold weather postponed the Tigers-Indians tag-team, and the Cardinals and Reds weren't scheduled.

ROYALS STRENGTHENED THEIR GRIP ON SECOND PLACE
They're tagging Asley Donald with the nickname "horse-shoes" around the International League these days, but the slender Newark righthander is out to prove his perfect record isn't just pure luck.

It took a tremendous home run by another stellar recruit, the University of Maryland's Charlie Keller, to bring home the winning margin however. Charlie clouted out his four-bagger with two mates on base and Newark trailing three to two in the last half of the sixth.

The defeat dropped the fourth place Chiefs a full game, as the second place Montreal Royals, who defeated Rochester by seven to two, and a half game behind the idle Buffalo Bisons.

Hod Lisenbee pitched seven-hit ball for the Royals while his mates clouted young Howie Krist for ten. The Wing righthander matched stride for stride with the veteran Lisenbee for seven innings, but blew up in the eighth when the Royals landed on him for four runs. Bernie Cobb and Sammy Bell paced the Montreal attack, each getting three hits, with Bell driving home a like number.

The Bisons were rained out at Toronto and Jersey City and Baltimore were not scheduled.

CITY TRANSIT MOVED TO TOP OF CITY LOOP

Eight to Five Decision Over Westward Put Transit on Top Rung of Softball Ladder—Hoboes and Paton Chalked Up Victories.

City Transit forged the front of the pack in the City Softball League pennant chase by handing Westward an eight to five setback on the Parade Grounds last evening. At the same time Hoboes were busy downing the Beavers to the tune of seven to six and Paton in trouncing Lennoxville by ten to five.

The new loop leaders came from behind to erase a four-run Westward lead and clinched the verdict in the seventh stanza when N. Burns connected with one of Slater's slants for a four-base blow, driving F. Kirby and "Guidoo" Roy across the plate ahead of him.

Burns scored three times for Transit, Kirby and Roy each twice and R. Dufour once. R. Dion slammed a two-bagger for the winners in the fifth frame. Scorers for Westward were McLean, Coates, Corcoran, Heath and Humphrey.

Hoboes jumped into a one-run lead in the initial inning and stayed out in front for the remainder of the game, although the Beavers staged a two-score rally in the fifth. The victors garnered eleven hits from the offerings of L. St. Francois, including Pilon's circuit clout in the second and Maurice Pilon's double in the third, while Pilon allowed nine hits, among them Terrey's homer in the fifth and two-base blows by Wooten and W. Jowett in the first and third innings, respectively. Boisvert tallied twice for the Hoboes and Parsons, Lemay, Blais, Pilon and Beaudry each once, while scorers for the Beavers were C. Mutchler, twice, and M. Soles, St. Francois, W. Mutchler and Terrey.

Paton bunched thirteen hits for a total of ten runs, while Lennoxville were only able to realize five markers from the same number of hits. Bob Lessard laced out a home run for the Millmen in the first inning. Yergeau and Bibeau each scored twice for Paton, and Jowett, Lessard, Laverdiere, Houde, Murphy and Desruisseaux once each, while scorers for the visitors were Hadlock, McMullen, Povey, Bozer and Reid.

U.S. DRIVERS HOPE TO COME THROUGH ON TURNS
Westbury, N.Y., July 3.—With crack drivers from Germany, Italy and England expected to dominate the going, today's first renewal of the 300-mile George Vanderbilt Cup auto race over Roosevelt raceway resolved itself into one problem for the American aces seeking to keep the major share of the $70,000 prize money on this side of the Atlantic.

Admittedly the brightest Alfa-Romero of Italian cup-defender Tazio Novolari and his teammate, Giuseppe Farina; the sixteen-cylinder Auto-Union of Bernd Rosemeyer and Ernest von Delius, and the long-nosed Mercedes-Benz cars of Rudolf Caracciola and Richard Seaman possess more speed in the open going.

But the foreign entries in this ninety-lap grind ease up when they come to the turns. There are seven on the three and a third miles course.

That is where home-breds like Red May, of California; Wilbur Shaw, the "native son" who won the Indianapolis classic on May 31; Billy Winn, of Detroit, and "Babe" Stapp, of Dallas, Texas, may come through. They are used to wheeling around turns, banked, hair-pin or gentle, with a heavy foot on the gas-pedal.

TENNIS PLAY AT WIMBLEDON NEARS ITS END

Dorothy Round, English Girl Who Held the Title in 1934, to Meet the Polish Lass, Jadwiga Jedrzejowska, for Women's Singles Crown.

Wimbledon, July 3.—Wimbledon's two weeks of tennis, which constitute the greatest tournament in the world, come to an end today with Dorothy Round, English girl who held the title in 1934, playing Jadwiga Jedrzejowska, of Poland, for the women's singles title.

Today also, Don Budge, of California, sought to add two more titles to the men's singles crown he won yesterday.

Yesterday Budge gave the United States Davis Cup hopes the greatest boost they have had in years when he routed Baron Gottfried von Cramm, of Germany, 6-3, 6-4, 6-2, to complete a conquest of the world's best tennis players. Today he and Gene Mako take on the defending doubles champions, George Patrick Hughes and Charles R. D. Tuckey, of England, in an effort to win a second crown and lift the Davis Cup prospects to an even higher level.

Hughes and Tuckey were named for the British Davis Cup team yesterday and are expected to play doubles in the challenge round. Budge and Mako yesterday eliminated the powerful German team of Von Cramm and Heinrich Henkel, their likely rivals in the Davis Cup inter-zone matches, in five hard sets.

In still another final match, Budge and Alice Marble, United States women's singles champion, oppose the French mixed doubles team of Yvon Petra and Mme. René Mathieu.

The women's doubles title was at stake in a match between Mrs. Phyllis Mudford King and Joan Pittman, England, and the Franco-Belgian pair of Mme. Mathieu and Edeline York.

CRICKET
QUEBEC RETAINED CRICKET TROPHY
Montreal, July 3.—The Lord Atholstan cricket trophy, competed for annually by Ontario and Quebec, remains here another year.

The Quebec cricket team which won the prize at Toronto last year retained it yesterday when the annual inter-provincial match, started Thursday, was completed.

Quebec was forced to draw by the Ontario eleven. Scores were Quebec 197 and 96 for two wickets; Ontario 254.

Rain had forced postponement of play on the opening day after the home eleven had run up a first innings score of 197. Ontario's start yesterday was shaky until Skipper W. E. N. Bell went up to score 121, the only century of the match.
