World News In Brief

Frankfurt, Germany, Sept. 18.—(Reuters)—Chancellor Konrad Adenauer has ordered an investigation into newspaper charges that former Nazis are working in the new German foreign service, a letter in today's Frankfurter Rundschau said.

The letter, from the west German foreign office, said Adenauer promised disciplinary action if the allegations are substantiated.

Frankfurt, Germany, Sept. 18.—(F)—Communist Hungary is drafting young Roman Catholic priests for military service, Hungarian refugee sources here reported today.

The informants gave this picture: Catholic orders are being dissolved and monks and nuns put under constant police supervision. Many have been sent to forced labor camps.

York, England, Sept. 18.—(P)—The Archbishop of York, Dr. Cyril F. Garbett, today called on the Church of England to advocate ways to restore the ideals of marriage and of the home.

Making divorce easy is not the answer, he said. Addressing the convocation of York, the Archbishop said: "The more easy divorce is made the more occasions for it the law permits, the more lightly will marriage be treated."

Hong Kong, Sept. 18.—(Reuters)—An explosion officially attributed to sabotage killed 22 persons and injured 564—281 of them seriously—at Nanning, in communist China's Kwangsi province, July 23. This was disclosed in Chinese communist newspapers reaching here today.

The blast from an explosives store, the newspapers said, destroyed 34 houses, damaged 464 houses and other buildings and left 2,119 persons homeless.

Berlin, Sept. 18.—(P)—Communist police occupied a steel plant in the Soviet-zone state of Saxony-Anhalt after workers rioted over production speedups, the west Berlin newspaper Nacht Deutsche reported today.

At the same time communist officials in east Germany have acknowledged a serious bread and meat shortage in the bread basket state of Mecklenburg. They are cracking down on "hostile elements"—recalcitrant farmers and lax administrators—whom the Reds are accusing of sabotage.

The Hague, Sept. 18.—(P)—Queen Juliana warned her people today to be prepared for new personal, financial sacrifices because of the contribution the Netherlands is expected to make to the defence of the western world.

She opened parliament in a joint session of both chambers, which took up budget allotting 28.1 per cent for defence.

Less Specialized Training In Schools Is Proposed

Saskatoon, Sept. 18.—(P)—More thoroughness in "the three R's" in secondary schools rather than specialized trade training was recommended yesterday by the Canadian research committee on practical education.

In an 11,000-word report on the state of Canadian education, the committee said thousands of Canadian young people just out of high school lack the ability to express themselves orally and in writing.

The report, the result of four years' work, was released simultaneously at the annual convention of the Canadian Education Association here, and the Canadian Congress of Labor meeting in Vancouver.

Research was begun in 1946 when the late Dr. Fletcher Peacock, Canadian educationist, obtained financial support from 57 business, labor and educational groups to find out what is wrong with Canadian education.

The committee pointed out two aims of secondary school education: to develop "socially-responsible citizens who can think critically and independently" and to develop "intelligent, co-operative and productive participants in the economic life of the community."

The committee found "grave deficiencies" in basic secondary education. Sixty-five per cent of Grade VII pupils left before they completed high school; thousands of them could not express themselves orally or in writing and lacked a grasp of the fundamentals of arithmetic.

To check the tendency of students to leave before completing high school, the committee sug-

Australian Election Is Saturday

Sydney, Sept. 18.—(P)—The Australian people will decide in a country-wide referendum next Saturday whether they want the Australian communist party outlawed.

They will be asked if they are in favor of having the constitution altered so as to give the Robert G. Menzies government power to ban the communists.

Australia has six state parliaments and a federal parliament which sits in Canberra. The constitution vests certain powers with the state governments and others with the federal government, just as the Canadian constitution splits powers between the Dominion and the provinces.

The last federal election, on April 28, 1951, re-elected the coalition government of Menzies' Liberal party and Sir Arthur Fadden's Country party. First elected in 1949 on an anti-communist platform, it promised to dissolve the communist party and remove communist agents from executive posts in key unions.

The government introduced the communist party dissolution bill, which passed both federal houses and became law in October, 1950, but the Australian high court found last March that the federal parliament lacked the constitutional power to implement the measure.

Powers to do so are vested with the states. But the states, some of which have Labor governments, refused Menzies' request to "refer" their powers to the federal parliament.

In the event of a deadlock of this kind, the constitution provides the remedy of a referendum. The government Liberal and Country parties are plugging the "yes" case.

The opposition Labor party, led by Dr. Herbert V. Evatt, is publicizing the "no" case. The government argues: "Communist activity in Australia has become a grave menace to industrial peace, to production, to national security, a friend of inflation and disorder and an enemy of defence."

"Unless Australia meets and defeats its conspiracy in the next year or two Australians may be in a defensive war, inadequately prepared and with insufficient resources."

The opposition case says: "The question is not whether we are against communism, but whether you approve of the government's referendum proposals, which are unnecessary, unjust and totalitarian, and could threaten all minority groups."

The Labor party "refuses to turn Australia into a right-wing totalitarian country in order to deal with a left-wing totalitarian threat."

gested that the school-leaving age, both urban and rural, be set at 16 "with certain specified exemptions" in all provinces.

Daily drills should be held on fundamentals on arithmetic and everyday problems all through high school.

"Both employees and employers attach primary importance to a solid grounding in the basic fundamentals of arithmetic and oral and written expression," said the committee after hearing views from employers and 26,343 graduates and non-graduates of high schools in every province except Newfoundland.

"Specific training for the individual pupil for particular occupation (should) be deferred as long as possible." The emphasis should be on "development of basic skills and sound work habits rather than highly specialized skills."

For girls, the report recommended that "home economics be offered in all secondary schools, and that more girls be encouraged to enroll in these courses."

Schools need to provide an "atmosphere of democratic freedom under wise authority" and encourage student councils, clubs and other opportunity for group action and responsibility, the committee declared.

After the student leaves school, a job placement service should keep in touch with him, and use his experience to improve the curriculum.

The report called upon schools to set up public relations programs to "impress upon parents, pupils and the community the benefits to be derived from better education."

Most Members Of North Atlantic Council Favor Admission — Norway And Denmark Are Opposed.

Ottawa, Sept. 18.—(P)—The North Atlantic Council suspended debate on the Greek-Turkish question at 11:30 A.M. EDT today, probably for at least 24 hours.

The adjournment of the biggest political issue now facing the 12 nations was granted at Denmark's request to allow the Danes to get instructions from home.

By D'ARCY O'DONNELL
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Ottawa, Sept. 18.—(P)—One of the most important issues facing the North Atlantic Council — admission of Greece and Turkey to full membership in the anti-communist coalition — may be largely settled today.

Indications are that most of the 12 members of the Council will back a United States resolution recommending admission of the two countries.

One source said a majority of the members are anxious to reach a decision here, but Norway and Denmark might ask that a final decision be delayed until they consult their governments.

This could mean the decision would be postponed until the Council's meeting in Rome next month.

Norway and Denmark have indicated they fear admission of Turkey and Greece would destroy the original concept of the Atlantic pact — development of a strong, well-knit Atlantic community. They would accept some sort of a military alliance with Turkey and Greece but not their inclusion in the Atlantic pact organization.

State Secretary Dean Acheson of the United States yesterday sponsored the move for the admission of the two members. He was promptly supported by Foreign Ministers Morrison of Britain, Schuman of France and Stikker of the Netherlands.

Canada, known to favor the U.S. proposal, will make her views known today along with the remaining seven members—Belgium, Denmark, Iceland, Italy, Luxembourg, Norway and Portugal.

Some indication of Britain's views on the question was given yesterday by Defence Minister Emmanuel Shinwell in a speech to a Women's Canadian Club luncheon.

The British Cabinet Minister said the creation of N.A.T.O. must not be regarded as exclusively intended for military purposes. He added:

"It's purpose is to create a great Atlantic community which may in due course extend beyond the Atlantic sphere, perhaps embracing many countries now outside N.A.T.O. and is designed not only for the purpose of defence against aggression but to promote social, economic and cultural ends."

The day brought these other developments:

1. In a broadcast over a CBC network, Foreign Minister Morrison called N.A.T.O. a supplement of the United Nations but said that in his view it has transcended the U.N. in importance. In present circumstances, it is, in my opinion, the most important of all inter-government organizations.

2. Prime Minister Alcide de Gasperi of Italy told a press conference he had appealed to the North Atlantic Council to back Italy in a drive towards full post-war sovereignty.

3. Canada and other small countries were reported to have urged at the Council meetings that the smaller Atlantic pact powers be given greater voice in the forging of big-three decisions that affect the entire western world.

Two Flight Cadets Killed In Crash

Parkhill, Ont., Sept. 18.—(P)—Flight cadets Bruce R. Cady of New Liskeard, Ont., and Gary S. Bryson of Kamloops, B.C., were killed yesterday when a wing of their R.C.A.F. training plane fell off and the craft nosedived into a farmer's field.

Fred Heaman, a farmer in this area 35 miles northwest of London, saw the crash of the Texan training plane.

"I heard the aircraft open its throttle," he said. "I looked up and saw the plane — and one of its wings going in the opposite direction to it. It must have been up 3,000 feet."

"Get out quick! That plane is going to crash right on top of our place!"

"The wing spun away northwards like a falling maple seed. The aircraft itself suddenly altered course and, falling end over end, crashed into the field. It landed with a terrific explosion, but there was no fire."

The plane struck the ground so hard that it buried its nose five feet in the plowed field on the farm of Andrew Schjeld.

Iran Cabinet Discusses Oil Crisis

Tehran, Sept. 18.—(P)—Iran's cabinet scheduled another meeting today to decide how to go about delivering a titanic ultimatum demanding that Britain revive collapsed oil talks.

The cabinet also met last night to talk over the latest developments in its dispute with Britain. Deputy Premier Hossein Fatemi said the cabinet decided to keep the ultimatum alive despite W. Averell Harriman's refusal to relay the note to London. A government source said that the United States trouble-shooter wrote Premier Mohammed Mossadeq that it would only make matters worse.

Mossadeq had sent the ultimatum to Washington for delivery to Britain in hopes of getting Harriman to enter the stalled negotiations again.

The ultimatum threatened to expel the 300 British technicians left at the nationalized Abadan refinery of the Anglo-Iranian Oil Company if London does not decide in two weeks to re-open negotiations.

Fatemi also said Harriman's letter asked Mossadeq to modify the terms of his note and was not a complete rejection of the ultimatum idea. The note was not made public.

The deputy premier said the government cannot tolerate the shutdown of oil shipments from Abadan because of Iran's deteriorating economic situation.

The oil industry is virtually shut down because of Britain's withdrawal of tanker ships and most of the technicians. Britain also has been gradually increasing economic pressure in an effort to bend Mossadeq to a compromise agreement. A.I.O.C. said yesterday it will have dropped 20,000 Iranian employees from the

Princess Returns To London To Prepare For Canadian Trip

By STUART UNDERHILL
Canadian Press Staff Writer
London, Sept. 18.—(P)—Princess Elizabeth, a Queen in the making, returns to London today from a Scottish vacation to complete preparations for her most exacting test—a month-long tour of Canada.

With her husband, the Duke of Edinburgh, she sails from England Sept. 25. Before they return in early November they will have visited every province in the Dominion and made a short trip to Washington.

The invitation to visit Canada is long-standing. It is 12 years since the Dominion had its last royal visitors, the present King and Queen. The ties of a young mother have prevented Elizabeth from going before this.

Since plans for the Canadian tour were first announced, the Princess has been in constant touch with her staff on arrangements, and has had the last word in deciding the program.

It has been planned in meticulous detail. Every moment of the tour, from the time the Princess and Duke step ashore at Quebec Oct. 2, has been accounted for.

Apart from the official program, ranging from formal receptions to

Oil Refinery Blast Takes Twelve Lives

Wood River, Ill., Sept. 18.—(P)—A terrific explosion rocked the big Shell Oil Company refinery here last night killing 12 workmen.

About 20 persons were injured seriously. The earth-shaking blast occurred in one of the refinery's large oil cracking units as a special night crew was cleaning it.

As flames washed out from the explosion enveloping workers, panic broke out.

"I saw men knocked to the ground," Willie Buchell, 47, a boilermaker's helper, said. "They were screaming and begging for help, running with their clothes afire."

Burchell was atop a pump house, 20 feet above the ground. Blocked by flames, he reached safety by sliding down a pipe to the ground.

Four bodies were recovered soon after the blast. Four workers died at a hospital several hours later. A hospital authority expressed fear the death toll might mount even more.

Twenty-six of the injured, all badly burned, were rushed to hospitals here and at Alton. Six others were treated at the refinery.

The four bodies recovered from the blast were so charred that immediate identification was impossible.

A flash following the explosion shot flames more than 50 feet into the air. It was quickly snuffed out by company fire-fighters, but the intense heat hung on keeping rescue workers from probing deep into the debris.

Cause of the explosion—the second major mishap at the refinery in less than a month—was not definitely determined. A company spokesman said a number of things may have caused it, including a pocket of gas or static electricity. A company official estimated damage might exceed $100,000.

The allied soldiers fought all day in mud and a steady drizzle in their unsuccessful effort to gain a hill mass west of Chorwon. Chorwon is the southwestern point of the Red's old iron triangle troop assembly area. The town is 18 miles north of parallel 38.

In the fighting west of Chorwon, the Reds held grimly to bunkers and trenches on the hill mass. Communist mortar and artillery fired anti-tank guns and mines helped check the allied thrust.

American and South African fighter pilots hurled fire bombs on the height in an effort to dislodge the Reds. Heavy allied artillery and mortar fire was poured on the communist foxholes.

Then the infantrymen tried again. They met with no better luck.

Elsewhere along the western front, allied patrols probed beyond the United Nations line with little enemy contact. One hill southwest of Chorwon was occupied against no opposition.

Sharp local clashes flared along the mountainous Eastern Korea warfront Tuesday.

Allied troops captured one peak with a five-mile view into enemy territory.

They won the commanding height after a savage three-hour hand-to-hand fight against bitterly-resisting Reds.

The hard-fighting United Nations forces swept nearly three miles Tuesday in the general area of the north-south Soyang river. Eighth Army sources did not pinpoint location of the peak.

A front-line officer in the Soyang river valley said, "We are pretty sure we have knocked out about two North Korean divisions on this sector alone." His estimate covered only one section of the eastern front. Equally heavy fighting raged on several other sectors.

Elsewhere on the eastern front, allies Monday seized two fog-

Colonization Fails To Draw Quebec Girls

By RICHARD DAIGNAULT
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Quebec, Sept. 18.—(P)—Dan Cupid is having a tough time in Quebec's northwestern frontier areas.

It is one of the problems faced by the Quebec government.

Colonization societies say young settlers and the sons of successful settlers are discouraged because so few girls are willing to share the task of raising a family in the new farming territories of Quebec.

They estimate there are three young men eligible for marriage for every girl in the settlement villages. In most cases, the girls would rather marry city youths than young men setting up homes on new land.

A spokesman for the federation of 17 Roman Catholic diocesan societies recruiting and encouraging pioneers says a possible solution is to encourage young women to serve as domestics in the homes of doctors, government agronomists and other officials in northwestern Quebec.

Possibly one of the basic difficulties is that a settler is still looked upon as a pauper in Quebec because of colonization programs organized for unemployed during depression years.

Actually, 30 per cent are people able to finance their own establishment. People who have seen settlers' farms know many now are profitably serving a growing market in the region's booming mining towns.

The government is ready to spend millions on land settlement and religious organizations devoted to the social welfare of settlers. It has boosted its health services in colonization districts by maintaining nurses—essential where no doctors are available to assist births.

Teachers are still scarce but every effort is made to provide "adequate education to children."

The government's approach to opening up new lands has changed drastically since 1867 when settlement was started to offset the movement of farmers to the cities.

Hit-and-miss tactics of early days now are avoided because lots are classified by farm experts long before a new settler arrives.

Agonomists describe Abitibi soil as rich and able to yield for a long time. Settlers are advised to concentrate on dairy farming because feed grains and hay grow best. Because of cold weather vegetables except potatoes, grow with difficulty.

Havana, Cuba, Sept. 18.—(P)—Strikes have hit every big beach and country club in Havana and now threaten to extend to restaurants, hotels and soda fountains.

The union of food workers ordered the club strikes after a similar dispute over a government order closing business houses Tuesday and Thursday afternoons during July and August.

In some clubs, society women kept the bars going and pushed mops.

Canadian Congress Of Labor Wins First Bout With Reds

Vancouver, Sept. 18.—(P)—The Canadian Congress of Labor has had the first 1951 convention tussle with its communist fringe and has floored it without working up a good sweat.

Despite a clamorous uproar by left-wingers, they managed to muster about 30 of 600 of votes at yesterday's opening session when the chips were down over the expulsion of the Red-line international union of fur and leather workers.

The net result was that only a scattering of party-liners remained today among convention spokesmen for the C.C.L.'s 350,000 members.

The 5,000-member fur and leather group was the last lingering voice of communism in the C.C.L., which has been systematically cleaning out its Reds for three years.

It followed into exile the 25,000-member United Electrical Workers and the International Union of Mine, Mill and Smelter Workers with 20,000 members. Like the fur-leather union, these were expelled during the last two years for the communist-line policies of their leaders.

The final heave of the fur-leather workers appeared to have left as the convention's major left-wing group a body of about 12 members of the United Automobile Workers from Windsor, Ont., reported to have slipped into the anti-Red U.A.W.'s 100-man delegation as the result of a local internal squabble.

It was from this bloc, boozing and celebrating against the anti-communist C.C.L. executive, that the fur-leather union drew its most solid support yesterday in a tumult that preceded the vote on the Red union's expulsion.

The vote itself was on an appeal from an expulsion order against the union last May by the C.C.L. executive council on the ground the union was following communist policies.

The appeal was carried by Robert Haddow of Montreal, Canadian chief, who accused the C.C.L. leadership of "Red-baiting" and "un-union-splitting."

Meanwhile, the convention heard from A. R. Mosher, veteran founder and president of the C.C.L., that the Congress leaders hope to engage in even closer co-operation with other Canadian labor bodies despite a Halifax decision of the Trades and Labor Congress of Canada last week to back away from the present co-operative setup.

The 70-year-old Congress head, Canada's chief exponent of absolute unity of labor in this country, said he is "worried" about the Halifax decision.

JACOBY ON CANASTA

TO WIN, COOPERATE WITH PARTNER

Before Canasta became popular some people used to wonder what would happen if an irresistible force met an immovable body. The old answer used to be that there is no such thing as an irresistible force or an immovable body. Now we know better.

It happens in Canasta all the time. The irresistible force is the player who always plays for a fast out; and the immovable body is his partner, who never adds to a meld and always plays for the pack. The result? Disaster.

I saw it happen again just the other night. The discard pile grew for quite a time, and then one player melded seven cards from his hand. He had two wild cards and a pair of natural cards left. He thought he had a fine chance to meld out in the next turn or two, and he would have been right with any other partner. But this time he was playing with the immovable body.

Old Immovable simply froze the pack when his turn came. He had a million safe discards. He might have a partner who was weak enough to meld, but he was made of sterner stuff. He would show the world. And he did.

Old Immovable didn't give the pack away. But his poor partner,

"I'm going along to make an impersonal appearance."

Something went wrong in clearing with the Nora Payes family, so the famous lark is now being called Nola Beach in Paramount's "Somebody Loves Me," the musical biography of Benny Fields and Blossom Seeley.

Hedy Lamarr has two story properties that she'll sell for $75,000. It's further proof that Hedy's design for living doesn't include Hollywood.

Never just a sound track. There's a big barbershop quartet scene in "Aaron Slick From Puncin Creek." A chorus of TEN men recorded the rich harmony.

One of the nation's top newspapers offered Rosalind Russell a fancy fee to by-line a daily Hollywood.

Science Progresses
For 50 years we have used little white tablets—acetylsalicylic acid—for relief of pain. Today this familiar pain-killer is available in a new form without the disadvantages of acidity, insolubility and bitter taste. It is called "DISPRIN" and is sold at druggists everywhere.

"DISPRIN" is available in Bottles of 26 tablets or Handy Packet Folders of 8.

Why DISPRIN? Because DISPRIN is soluble and substantially neutral. When taken in water as recommended, it enters the stomach as a true solution and not as undissolved particles. It is therefore less liable to cause stomach discomfort.

DISPRIN is readily absorbed. Because it definitely dissolves (not merely disintegrates) DISPRIN permits speedy absorption and gives fast relief.

DISPRIN is palatable. Even children will take it readily.

Perfume That Clings

Q.—Dear Claire: I adore perfume, but for some reason or other its fragrance just does not last on me. I have told several of my friends that I want a new perfume, but first I must find out about a lasting one.—Mrs. A. W.

A.—A particularly good idea for women who claim that perfume does not "stay with them" is a brand new fragrance medium by Houbigant called Liquid Skin Sachet. It smooths on the skin very easily and lingers longer because of its sachet base. It has a slower rate of diffusion and evaporation than any other type of fragrance. Try this Houbigant Chantilly Liquid Skin Sachet. Only $1.95.

CIRCO Assoc. Holds Banquet, Ladies' Night

More than 200 members with their ladies and guests gathered at the Pleasant View Hotel in North Hatley on Saturday to attend the 5th Annual Banquet and Ladies' Night of the CIRCO Long Service Association. An enjoyable social hour preceded the banquet. W. H. Griffith acted as Master of Ceremonies.

The banquet opened with "O Canada" and grace was said in English by R. F. Whitley, President of the Association, and in French by J. T. Fournier, Vice-President. The toast to the King was proposed by Mr. Griffith. A rousing song was led by J. Mitchell and F. Gelinas, assisted by J. Breton.

President Whitley welcomed the guests, and expressed his particular pleasure at having so many out of town members present. These included H. L. Traver, recently retired after many years service as Manager of the Canadian Ingersoll-Rand Branch at Timmins, Ont., and Mrs. Travers, F. G. Ferrabee, General Manager, and Mrs. Ferrabee, Montreal, and a group of members from Montreal Head Office, including Mr. and Mrs. G. E. Liddell, and the Misses L. Edwards, B. Bimson, F. MacDonald and E. Bennett.

A toast to the ladies was proposed by D. McLean and responded to by Miss B. Bimson. Vice-President J. T. Fournier introduced those who had become Members of the Long Service Association during the year 1951, including Messrs. C. Steele, J. Mitchell, H. Soper, H. Twyman, H. Swenson, G. Lane, N. Young, and Mrs. Young. Mr. Young expressed his pleasure at being present and congratulated the Association on the success of their events. He also gave a resume of his recent trip abroad, during which he visited England, France and Germany. He stated his opinion that, in comparison with the people in Europe, we as Canadians were extremely fortunate in living in such a wonderful country that had been spared the horrors and destruction of war.

Several musical selections were presented by "Giz" Gagnon and Rod Sterling, which were much enjoyed. These talented pianists also played for the singing and furnished the incidental music during the evening.

H. A. Burbank gave an address "Face to Face; or Memoirs of a Time Clock," in which he told of the life of a time recording clock from its installation until its final being discarded as worn out. He closed his remarks by presenting a pair of books ends decorated with Scotch thistles, which had formerly ornamented a time clock, to Mr. Dick. In accepting this gift, Mr. Dick recalled some of his early experiences as an apprentice, and said that the book ends would always be a reminder to him of the help he had received as a young man, from his older associates.

Mr. Soper spoke on behalf of the Association in thanking all who had participated in the evening's program, and Ashley Buzzell, chairman of the Social Committee, thanked all the members of the various committees for their contributions to the success of the evening.

Worth Of Membership In C. W. League Is Outlined By Mrs. F. A. Bussieres

Granby, Sept. 18. — Philosophy of the Catholic Women's League was discussed by Mrs. F. A. Bussieres, past provincial president and third national vice-president, at a luncheon of the Provincial Council of the C.W.L. held here.

The luncheon was one of the highlights of the Council's annual meeting, held on Sept. 14th and 15th. Miss Maureen Quinn presided.

"It will take but a few minutes of thinking aloud as to the logic of being a member of the C.W.L.," Mrs. Bussieres said.

"It is not enough to join the League with the object of being part of an honorable association for the purpose of employing one's spare time, much less, in order to meet pleasant energetic women in whose company one cannot but better one's personality. These motives are quite legitimate but they are secondary."

From there the speaker, going back through the ages, brought light upon the part women have played in human drama and proving that it is meet and just that we become and remain members of the C.W.L. for more solid reasons than sociability and kindred pleasures, pointing out that in accordance with the words of Pope Pius XII—"Woman must be made more conscious of her 'sacred rights, of her duties and her power to help mould public opinion through her daily contacts, and influence legislation and administration through the proper use of her prerogatives as a citizen.'"

In concluding, Mrs. Bussieres enjoined C. W. L. members to ask Divine help so that above all, God may make all good abound in them and that always having all sufficiency in all things they may abound to every good work.

Also addressing the luncheon meeting, Bishop Lawrence P. Whelan commented upon the great value of the work of the C.W.L., both in the spiritual and material order and urged special attention to the work for home and foreign missions in keeping with the wish of the Holy Father as expressed in his recent encyclical on this form of apostolate.

Other speakers included the provincial president, Miss Muriel Buck, who expressed thanks on behalf of the convention visitors for the welcome accorded to them in Granby; Miss Isabel Hutton, who brought greetings of C.W.L. members from the Atlantic to the Pacific; Rev. Father P. Nadeau, pastor of Holy Family Church and director of the St. Hyacinthe diocesan Council, and Miss Mary Ram-say, provincial vice-president, who extended felicitations to Bishop Whelan who recently celebrated the 25th anniversary of his ordination to the priesthood. Hide-And-Seek Game Claims Child's Life

A game of hide-and-seek resulted in tragedy for six-year-old John Lewis, of Laconia, N.H., on Saturday.

The boy, whose mother is the former Ruth Seguin, of North Hatley, was playing at the home of one of his young friends, and climbed into a trunk to hide.

When his three playmates could not find him, they notified his mother and finally the youngster was discovered in the trunk, suffocated. He had apparently become trapped, when he could not lift the lid of the trunk.

John was the oldest child in a family of four. His grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Seguin, of North Hatley, left for Laconia on Saturday, when notified of the tragedy. Mr. Seguin is postmaster at North Hatley.

Post Office Opens First Post Agency

The Post Office Department has authorized a Postal Agency at the Belvedere Settlements, R.R. No. 1, Sherbrooke.

It will be known as Postal Agency No. 1 and is the first postal agency in the Province of Quebec.

The Postal Agency will give the same service that is being received on rural routes. In addition, patrons can purchase postage stamps at the Agency, and mail registered articles.

The Agency has 19 patrons and is supervised by Mrs. Gerard Groulx.

The Department furnishes free of charge, group mail boxes, in sections of 10, each client having his own mail box where he can mail or receive his mail.

Letters to and from the postal agency call for the same amount in stamps as elsewhere in the Province but there is a slight charge for delivery of parcels which are too large for the mail box. These, however, may be called for.

The installation of the Agency was made by P. B. de Cotret, Post Office Inspector, Montreal, and E. J. Desruisseaux, Postmaster, Sherbrooke.

AVOIDING HUNTING ACCIDENTS

With the opening of the hunting season approaching rapidly, the thought is bound to arise in many minds that the list of hunting casualties is growing each year. Like drowning during summer time, these casualties are due to negligence and imprudence.

At least ninety-five per cent of hunting accidents could be avoided if the elementary precautions concerning firearms were observed. Many of the victims are children who take hold of loaded firearms that parents have left in their car or house.

Parents must teach adolescents who are old enough to go hunting the art of handling firearms with care, and explain to them the dangers connected with a hunting excursion. In our village and towns situated close to a hunting territory, teachers in school might briefly discuss security with their pupils.

There are certain fundamental rules that every sportsman, young and old, must observe, whether he is alone or with others. There are no excuses for negligence while handling firearms loaded or not. First of all, always act as if the gun were loaded. Supposedly unloaded arms are often the cause of tragedies. How many people do you know who have lost their lives or are crippled for life for having forgotten this simple rule for prudence?

In sports circles, and in fact, at all times, it is a breach of etiquette and a very dangerous practice to point a firearm at another person.

A careful hunter never walks with a loaded gun even if it has a safety catch. Never should one climb a tree, or jump a fence with a loaded gun, especially never put away a firearm without unloading it.

Hunting is a combination of many healthful physical exercises: walking in the open air, the ability of aiming, the exploration of new forest territory, the study of fauna. It is also a most relaxing sport. Nevertheless, it should not be the cause of sickness or accident.

A hunting permit gives a hunter permission to kill certain animals at specific times, but it should not be an excuse to damage other people's property in breaking windows, public notices or telephone and transmission lines insulators.

Let's go hunting, but let's hunt so as to enjoy another season of it next year.

THOSE EXCESS PROFITS TAXES

The Trades and Labor Congress of Canada, during the course of its annual convention at Halifax, urged that a 100 per cent tax be placed on excess profits of corporations, the receipts from which would be used to subsidize food and other necessities of life to reduce their costs to the consumer.

An excess profits tax was imposed during World War II as part of the anti-inflationary campaign and as a deliberate effort to prevent fortunes being made out of the war. The time may come again, with or without war, when some similar impost will be necessary.

Admittedly such a tax does curb exorbitant profits, which are inflationary, but experience has proved that such a tax does not contribute to efficient production nor is it conducive to increasing production of vitally-needed commodities.

If a corporation is producing all it can on one-shift operation, under an excess profits ceiling, there is no inducement to produce more by extra shifts, as the profits to it cannot be enlarged. Also, as all the profits beyond a certain limit go in taxes, there is a tendency to extravagance and inefficiency in operations. The government thus loses out in taxes, rather than the company in profits, when inefficiency exists.

There is no question but that profiteering should be restricted, but there is a grave doubt that any relief will come to the consumer through an excess profits tax which causes inefficiency and tends to curb production.

ASIAN NATIONS CAN'T EXPECT TO EXIST ON REPARATIONS ALONE

By PETER EDSON

NEA Washington Correspondent
San Francisco—(NEA)—Japanese Premier Shigeru Yoshida and his peace treaty delegation return home to face a heavy round of negotiations with many of their 48 new allies. But even before that, Premier Yoshida must obtain ratification of the treaty by his own government.

One of the first major supplemental set of agreements which the Japs will have to negotiate are treaties of friendship commerce and navigation with the United States, the United Kingdom, France, Netherlands and other principal trading countries which before the war did big business with Japan. The treaty gives Japan four years in which to conclude such agreements.

Next will come agreements with the Asian countries for reparations.

Ahmad Subardjo, speaking for Indonesia, declares that he recognizes Japan cannot pay reparations now. But he reserves the right for his government to collect later, when the Japanese economy has more fully recovered.

Indonesia also wants Japanese fisheries restricted. And, incidentally, American tuna fishermen want Japanese canned tuna fish kept out of the United States, or at least subjected to an import duty.

Foreign Minister Carlos P. Romulo of the Philippines, making the only open reservations to the treaty, demands that the kind and amount of reparations to be paid by Japan not be restricted in any way.

DAWN OF A NEW ECONOMIC ERA

Premier Yoshida has assured Indonesia directly and all other countries indirectly that Japan will enter into all these new negotiations in good faith. What they amount to, in substance, is that an entirely new economic era is about to begin in eastern Asia. Pre-war patterns of trade are to be shifted entirely under the changed political conditions.

From the American point of view, the mainland of China has been lost as a trading area and as a political ally. Japan has been regained as an ally. In blanching this shift of alliances, case can be made that whereas China was a liability that would always have to be supported, Japan can be made into an asset that will pay its own way and contribute to free world security. In other words, swapping China for Japan may prove to be a net gain for the United States.

Premier Yoshida declares that the amount of pre-war trade between Japan and China, and its value to Japan has been exaggerated. This is a little hard to believe in view of Japan's war effort to conquer China. Nevertheless if Japan now feels that it can survive and prosper without China, well and good. But to do this, Japan may have to shift more of trade to the Philippines, Indonesia and the south-east Asian countries.

General Romulo seems to look on this possibility with some misgivings. He does not want the Philippines to become an economic colony of Japan, sending its raw material to Japan for processing and then bringing them back to the Philippines as manufactured goods.

FILIPINOS MUST GET TO WORK

One of the best preventives of this development may rest with the Philippine government and the Filipino people themselves. It involves their going to work as the Japanese people have gone to work, and by their own will and resourcefulness becoming a more self-sufficient nation.

If the Filipinos think they can get by forever on subsidies from the United States or reparations from Japan, they are in for a rude awakening. The United States has put nearly $2 billion worth of post-war aid into the Philippines. Much of this aid was squandered. When the Philippine President visited the United States last year, he had to be told in pretty blunt language that he was headed for trouble unless his government reformed its fiscal policies.

The amount of war damage inflicted on the Philippines has been estimated as high as $8 billion. U.S. aid has accounted for only a quarter of that. But if the Philippine government expects to collect the balance from Japan and live off of that country instead of by its own industry, it can have only a short term recovery.

The same thing is true of Indonesia. It is an infant nation. It needs and should receive all the help possible. But there is no permanent prosperity ahead for it if it relies too much on a reparations dole. The same would be true of Burma or any of the new states of Indo-China.

It will be up to the other Pacific countries to work for mutual advancement by lifting themselves up to or above the Japanese level, not by trying to keep Japan held down.

FREE GOLD MARKET

St. Catharines Standard

Report comes from Washington that the International Monetary Fund may give sanction to free sale of gold for industrial and artistic uses. It has long been demanded by gold mining interests in Canada, and the Dominion of South Africa took matters in its own hands some time ago and has been freely selling gold at the best price obtainable.

A. Rodney Adamson, Conservative Member of Parliament for York West, and regarded as authority on the gold situation, has some very trenchant things to say about the free market for gold. The financial ills of the mining industry would be cured overnight, if the government of Canada acted boldly. He demanded that Canada get "tough" with the Yankees on the gold issue and quit shilly-shallying. He added:

"Ours is the one country which can stand on its own feet in the present situation. We've got the lead, the uranium, the copper, the zinc, the timber, the aluminum, everything the world needs. But we should also have the commonsense to know that currency management has always resulted in ruin for the country which practised it."

Selling gold to the U.S. Treasury at an artificially depressed price is the equivalent of selling copper at the pre-war price of 12-18 cents a pound while the open market price for it is now 29 cents.

Again Communism enters the picture. Mr. Adamson recalled the old argument of Lenin that in order to defeat capitalism and the democracies it was necessary to destroy the value of their national currencies. And that is what inflation has been doing and the manipulation of currency in relation to gold.

According to the York West M.P. "Canada has been and is the supreme sucker of the IMF" while South Africa has shown the intestinal fortitude to demand consideration of her primary industry.

DANVILLE

The hills and vales of Danville
Are calling to me tonight;
The voice is the voice of childhood,
The land is the land of delight.

As far as the eye can reach,
As wide as the mind can span,
Mountain, meadow and lake,
Moorland, pool and fen.

Vistas of gray and yellow,
Visions of pink and brown,
All blend in rosyate splendor
As the autumn sun goes down.

The greedy swift-winged hawk
Quivers over the lake,
And here and there a whip-poor-will
Is calling to his mate.

A partridge is slowly winging
Over the distant sea,
And a robin quaintly singing
Vesper songs to me.

As the dial of time moves backward
By a wave of Aaron's rod—
The world grows young and tender,
Recreate, by the Grace of God.

Spirit of the Village of Danville:
We welcome thy presence tonight,
A cup to thee, for Auld Lang Syne,
And thy maidens, angels of light.

Beyond thy vales, inlaid with mist,
Sweet-scented by daffodils;
Beyond thy meadows violet-kissed,
And the distant cloud-clapped hills;

Beyond thy mountains, weary and old
And the blue expanse of sky;
Some day, when God wills, we shall behold
— The splendor of Eternity.

EXPERT ADVICE ON A

BIDDING PROBLEM

"What is wrong with the way we bid this hand?" asks a San Antonio reader. "Should North bid only two diamonds instead of jumping to three diamonds? Should South pass at four spades instead of bidding the slam? Where did we go wrong?"

"South had a fairly good play for the hand, in any case. He won the first trick with the ace of hearts, drew three rounds of trumps, and then began on the diamonds. All would have been well if trumps had broken 3-2, or even if West had held long diamonds as well as the trumps. Unfortunately, West ruffed the third diamond and took the setting trick with a heart."

I don't see anything wrong with the bidding. In fact, I compliment my San Antonio friend on the way they handled a difficult bidding problem. North's jump to three diamonds is quite correct despite the fact that he has poor support for spades and lacks a solid suit of his own. If he fails to bid three diamonds at his first turn he must overbid later on to make up for his original underbid. The immediate jump usually works out better.

The trouble came with the way South played the hand. At the second trick he should simply ruff a heart in dummy. Then he continues by drawing three rounds of trumps. When the trumps fail to drop, declarer begins on the diamonds. He discards his second low heart on the king of diamonds and his last low heart on the queen of diamonds. West ruffs that trick, but there are no further tricks for the defenders.

Curiously enough, the slam can be made also by leading a low trump at the second trick. West can win, but cannot take a heart trick because dummy still has a trump to stop the suit. At best, West can return a club. Dummy wins, and South then draws all of the trumps. Declarer follows with three top diamonds, a diamond ruff, and then a club to dummy in order to cash a low diamond. My opinion is that the actual declarer would have seen the right line of play if he had just taken a little time for thought. Even if you hate to play bridge slowly, nobody can blame you for giving a slam hand a second look.

CARD SENSE

Q—The bidding has been:
North East South West
1 Diamond Pass ?
You, South, hold: Spades A-J, 9-8-3, Hearts 8-2, Diamonds 9-7-2, Clubs 7-5-4. What do you do?

A—Bid one spade. The hand is too strong to pass, so your only question is whether to bid one spade or one no-trump. In situations of this kind it is always correct to show a higher-ranking suit than bid one no-trump.

TODAY'S QUESTION

The bidding is the same as in the question just answered. You, South, hold: Spades 7-5-4, Hearts 8-2, Diamonds 9-7-2, Clubs A-J-9-6-3. What do you do?

Answer Tomorrow

"Pigeon's milk," the first food of the newly hatched dove, which it gets from the parent's mouth, is an actual form of milk secreted in the crop of the adult bird.

The Record Short Story

LOCAL NEWS

By ISABEL JOHNSTON

It was Saturday night — date night — and Connie — for all her pretty wavy hair and soft brown eyes — was spending it reading about other people's fun. The local news column described the gay dinners and card parties the young married set were giving, the picnics, roller skating outings and jitterbugging the high school crowd enjoyed — and of course, the relatives visiting their home folks again. Connie Bradshaw's name was not mentioned.

At 22, Connie was stranded, lonely, in her own home town. The boys and girls of her high school days had gone on to colleges and jobs in distant cities. She was left, keeping house for her father, too old for the high school gang, a misfit among the young marrieds.

She had joined the Garden Club, the civic association and the choir, but her associates in these organizations were all settled older people, resigned spinsters or middle aged couples. When Saturday night came, they sat at home or went out with their own groups. The only girl friend Connie had now was a lonely young widow, twelve years older than herself.

Connie sighed—and then came to an item that made her heart lift. Douglas Carr was back in town and they all wished him well, and great success in learning the business in his father's store. Douglas Carr in town again!

Connie remembered the tall, lanky boy who'd been a baseball star, class president and chairman of dances. His name brought back all the fun she'd had in her high school days—when she had belonged to a group, too!

Connie hadn't known Douglas well. In high school she had been a shy girl, but well liked in a quiet way she had enjoyed all the group activities. She'd only admired Douglas Carr from afar—the way half the girls in class did. But now she felt as if one of her intimates had come back to town. Maybe he'd feel lonely, too—with all his old high school pals gone. Maybe, maybe, they could get together and have fun.

The prospect of Douglas Carr in town spurred Connie out of her moping. She called her girl friend, Jean, and suggested a movie. On their way to the show, Connie told her about Douglas.

"Don't you want me to invite you two to dinner?" Jean asked. "That would be lovely, but maybe we'd better get reacquainted first."

They didn't run into Douglas in the movie. Nor did Connie meet him when she did her daily marketing. Finally she nerved herself to go into the Carr hardware store for a screwdriver she didn't need.

Douglas, broader shouldered than she remembered him, was doing some business behind a desk. He came forward graciously and waited on her. He was very pleasant, but he didn't suggest they get together for a talk about old times. Of course, he'd been to college. No doubt high school days didn't mean as much to him.

Connie didn't talk about Douglas to Jean after that, but one afternoon as they loafed and read magazines together to while away the time, Jean suddenly looked up from the local paper with excitement.

"Here's an item about Douglas Carr," Jean said—and then stopped as if embarrassed.

"What is it?"

"His fiancée is visiting his family for the week-end," Jean admitted reluctantly.

LABOR DAY PARADE

Labor Day, Monday, Sept. 3, was observed in Granby by a parade of floats, the crowning of a "Queen of Labor," and several religious ceremonies. The weather was unkind in the morning, but early in the day, Miss Madeline Gird was crowned, "Queen of Labor," by last year's queen, Miss Therese Lachance.

She was welcomed by His Worship, P. H. Boivin, Mayor of Granby, who remarked upon the religious character of the day, which he said was a worthy example.

Marcel Boivin, M.P., for Sherbrooke County, also made an address, offering his best wishes to the workers in their march towards better working conditions. Other speakers were Edouard Dumas, S. Gladu, organizers and presidents of syndicates in Granby.

Eight floats were in the parade, the winner was called "Princess of the Eastern Townships" and was entered by the City of Granby. Sunday evening religious ceremonies took place in the Arena, when midnight mass was celebrated, thousands partaking of communion.

More than 200 enthusiastic railroaders visited Granby on Labor Day. These were delegates of the National Railway Historical Society, which is an American organization composed of 800 members, dedicated to the history of railroads and the preservation of out-dated locomotives and rolling stock.

Arriving in a specially chartered train of the Montreal and Southern Counties Railway Company, the coaches were accompanied to suit the occasion, the delegates were given a civic reception at the City Hall.

The group, led by the president, E. J. Hooper, and O. A. Boivin, general superintendent for the Montreal district of the C.N.R., was met at the station by His Worship P. H. Boivin, Mayor of Granby; Marcel Boivin, M. P., for Sherbrooke County; Dr. P. A. Leduc, and George Avery.

At the City Hall, Mr. Hooper was presented with a golden key to the city and a certificate making him an honorary citizen. Mayor Boivin, in his words of welcome, said that he was happy to meet those who were interested in the history of railroads in North America, and added that the next time they had the honor of a visit from our American cousins he hoped they would be traveling in modern trains.

Marcel Boivin, M.P., and Dr. P. Leduc also welcomed the visitors. After inspecting the railway yards and equipment, the delegates returned to Montreal, where they are holding their annual convention.

FLEMING—WRIGHT

DOROTHY DIX

Past Mistakes

Should Girl Tell Fiance
Of Her Indiscretions?

DEAR MISS DIX: About a year ago I thought I was in love with a not-too-nice young man. My moral conduct with him, I am afraid, was not what it should have been. Since then I have really fallen in love with a much nicer man. We intend to be married but I have never told him of my former affair. I have never told anyone, and am trying to erase it from my memory. I am sure my fiance would never be guilty of a similar offense, and I know my confession would not interfere with his marriage intentions. However, I am afraid to shatter his illusions about me. What can I do?

GERTRUDE
ANSWER: Keep your secret to yourself! The only good your confession will do is to give you a moral purging and make you feel very self-righteous.

HE'LL HAVE PERMANENT DOUBTS
The young man, on the other hand, will always have the knowledge of your wrongdoing with him and it is bound not only to shatter his illusions about you, but to leave a permanent doubt in his mind about your future trustworthiness. No matter how much he may claim this is not so, once the seed for such thoughts is sown, nothing can eradicate it.

If you are sincerely sorry for your past conduct, and convinced that it was a mistake that will not happen again, you should be able to take up your marital obligations as a good wife.

DEAR MISS DIX: About six months ago my sister was writing to a boy who doesn't have a very good reputation. When my parents found out, they didn't approve of him at all. When they see us talking to this boy, or to his friends, they call us in the house and give us a lecture. We think he is a nice boy, but they won't believe us. How can we convince them we are right?

ANSWER: From your letter, I assume that you are of a very tender age, Trudy, and cannot be the judge of character you believe you are. Your parents are much more qualified to estimate the calibre of this—or any other—friend than you. Abide by their judgment.

Very occasionally, it is true, parents make a harsh decision on the reputation of their youngsters' playmates, but in the vast majority of cases there is a definite reason for them to demand that you avoid some companions. The damage that can be done to your own reputation by associating with boys or girls of questionable repute can be irreparable and a girl can suffer no greater loss than that of her character.

Choose your friends carefully; be proud to bring them home to meet your parents. Conscientious parents, fully aware of the problems confronting teenagers, should exercise every precaution in the guidance of their young, and careful supervision of their children's associates is a most important part of their job. So, even though you feel they are unjust at times, and their restrictions irk you, remember it is your future that is at stake. Don't gamble with it!

DEAR DOROTHY DIX: When my husband and I plan to go for a ride on Sunday, visit the park, etc., we always include my parents. Now my husband is starting to rebel. He says he would like to spend some Sundays with just his wife and children. Then, too, he feels we are neglecting his parents because there is not enough room for all. I am inclined to agree with my husband, but if we don't take my parents on each trip, they complain of being lonesome. They make me feel so guilty.

ANSWER: Though you are to be highly commended for the great consideration shown your parents, your husband is entirely right. He is entitled to some Sundays alone with his own family. Breaking a long-established custom is always hard, but it must be done. Your parents are a little selfish to monopolize all your husband's free time like this, and since they have each other, surely they can't be too lonely.

Plan a special excursion next Sunday. Tell your parents that on this occasion your husband prefers to have just you and the youngsters in the car, and you will at least have an entering wedge in breaking tradition. If your mother is at all an understanding person, tell her frankly that your husband is tired by Sunday, and would like a smaller group in the car. A satisfactory compromise might be reached by alternating Sundays, one with your family, one alone, with a third possibly devoted to his family.

BRAVES EDGE OUT 6-5 WIN OVER A'S; MEET HERE TONIGHT

Locals Failed To Take Advantage Of Quebec Wildness; 15 Left On Bases; Late Rallies Just Miss

By LEN O'DONNELL

Quebec, Sept. 18.—George McQuinn's Quebec Braves came through with a real display of fighting ability here last night when they managed to stave off two late game rallies by the Sherbrooke Athletics to eke out a 6-5 verdict for their initial win in the best-of-seven final playoffs in the Provincial League.

The series will be resumed in Sherbrooke this evening with Roland Gladu's squad holding a 3-1 edge in the closely fought playoffs. If the Braves should win the teams will meet Wednesday evening in the Capital City.

"Goose" Gosselin worked seven innings for the Athletics and was lifted for a pinch hitter in the big eighth. Flanagan tolled the last innings. Gosselin was charged with the defeat and gave up all of Quebec hits. Manager McQuinn commenced the tilt with his youthful Lewis boy, Georges Maranda, on the mound, but was forced to call upon Jim Espinola and Bill Conroy in the late stages of the game.

The Athletics failed to take advantage of the wildness of Maranda, who issued eleven walks, and left a grand total of fifteen players stranded on the bases. Failure to hit in the clutch proved the big difference as far as the A's were concerned.

Joe Andrews was the big gun for the Braves with a circuit blow and three bingles in the first and second innings. He also drove in four runs while Maranda picked up two and shoved the fifth tally across the plate. The sixth Quebec run was scored when Ballester dropped an easy fly ball.

The Athletics turned in their worst exhibition of baseball, so far in this series, and it was only in the last two innings that they showed any signs of playing ball. Time after time they had easy opportunities of scoring but failed in the clutch. They left two players stranded in the second.

Toronto Ulster Win First Soccer Game

Montreal, Sept. 18.—Two goals by centre forward Jack Douglas in the second half last night gave Toronto Ulster United a 2-1 victory over Vancouver St. Andrew's in the Dominion challenge cup soccer final and left the Toronto team in a favored position.

The first game of the three-game series ended in a 1-1 draw Saturday. A tie or a win tonight for the Ulstermen will give them the Dominion title.

Last night's game at the Westmount Athletic grounds was played in chilly early fall weather, under lights, before a crowd of about 1,800.

The young and speedy Vancouver team scored the only goal of the first half, after 17 minutes Vancouver inside right, went into play. A shot by George Steel, the net off Jock Perrett, Toronto's left fullback, as he tried desperately for the ball.

Ulster goaler George Anderson made a fine save just before that when he tipped Don Matheson's hard shot over the bar.

Late in the half Hugh Suttie, Ulster inside right, missed a chance to even the count when his shot hit the crossbar.

The hard, rugged play of the Ulstermen began to tell in the second half, in which they held a good margin of the play and withstood Vancouver's late drive. An increasing wind was in the Ulstermen's favor.

S. Davidson, right half, hooked a high shot that goalie Bob Newbold of Vancouver just managed to clear. Then, at the 11-minute mark, Douglas headed in a long corner shot from Jack Long.

A few minutes later Newbold had to make a smart save on a shot by Douglas. After 21 minutes of play Douglas scored the winning goal, teaming with Suttie and beating Newbold with a low shot to the corner of the net.

Walter Novak gave goaler Anderson a close call late in the game and then Paul Fabris, who replaced George Steel at inside right for Vancouver in the second half, just missed heading in a shot.

OPERATION FOR REYNOLDS

New York, Sept. 18.—(AP)—Allie Reynolds, bothered by an aching right elbow all season, plans to undergo an operation in November.

The New York Yankee right hander has been suffering from a calcium deposit in the elbow. He missed part of the spring training and was out for two weeks during the season because of the pain and a swelling in the elbow.

Espinola put the tying and winning tallies on the bases. Manager McQuinn tried a little bit of strategy by yanking Espinola and calling in left handed Bill Conroy to face Nantel, but Gladu not to be out done sent Roche to hit and he obtained a walk to load the bases with only one away.

Gonzalez failed to deliver, when he was called out at the plate, and then Metzig drove out a hard hit ball and when Roche failed to slide into second the game was over and the Braves had chalked up their first win.

Yankees Trim Cleveland Again To Widen Lead In American League; Dodgers Lose Game, Campanella

Cleveland's vanishing Indians are rid of New York for the season but they may have left the pennant behind in the Yankee stadium.

As they have done in all but one of their 11 games in the Yankees' home grounds, the Indians lost again yesterday. This time they dropped a galling 2-1 tussle that put them a full game behind the front-running New Yorkers as they faced the rugged Red Sox in Boston today.

It may be a case of out of the frying pan into the fire for the beleaguered Tribe. Boston, winner of six of its last seven starts, and fresh from a 12-5 romp over Chicago White Sox, is only 1 1/2 games behind Cleveland in this tense three-team American League race. Another Red Sox-Indians clash follows tomorrow.

It was Phil Rizuto who beat the Indians yesterday with the shortest of hits. The winning blow — a deft squeeze bunt that didn't even reach the pitcher's mound — brought in Joe DiMaggio with the payoff run.

It came in the last of the ninth after Cleveland manager Al Lopez had ordered pitcher Bob Lemon to walk Bobby Brown on purpose with runners on first and third and one out.

The victory went to Eddie Lopat who squelched the Indians with three hits to reach the 20-win mark for the first time in his career. The only Cleveland tally came in the sixth and it took an error to get the run across.

A 13-hit Red Sox attack, featured by the clubbing of Ted Williams and Clyde Volmer, gave Ray Scarborough his 12th victory. Williams had a perfect day at bat with two singles, a double and his 30th homer in four official times at bat. Volmer batted in five runs with two singles and his 22nd homer.

Brooklyn Dodgers not only had their National League lead cut to four games over New York Giants as they bowed to the Cubs, 5-3 in Chicago, but lost the services of Roy Campanella for at least two days.

Brooklyn's star catcher was laid low by a pitched ball which struck him on the left ear and sent him to the hospital. The pitch, delivered by Turk Lown in the second inning, knocked Campanella unconscious. X-rays taken later showed no fracture but Roy was held overnight for observation.

The Dodgers gave Don Newcombe a 3-0 lead over the New first innings but the righthander wilted in the seventh. Two-run homers by Hank Sauer and pinch-hitter Gene Hermanski turned the tide.

Tommy Brown hit his ninth homer of the season in the 10th inning to give Robin Roberts his 20th victory and the Philadelphia Phils a 2-1 triumph over St. Louis Cardinals.

All other teams enjoyed an off day.

Injury To Campanella May Hurt Dodgers In Bid For N. L. Pennant

Chicago, Sept. 18.—(AP)—Just before the league-leading Brooklyn Dodgers took the field yesterday night, the season finale against Chicago Cubs, husky Roy Campanella, frisky as a colt, chortled: "Don't worry about those New York Giants catching us—we're really seven games ahead of them. Those seven more they lost than we have are gone forever." Actually, the Brooks now lead by four games.

Today, Campanella — rated as perhaps the best catcher in baseball — was resting in a Chicago hospital after an accidental beaning by the Cubs' Turk Lown. The Dodgers felt as though they also had received a collective black-jacking. Roy's condition was pronounced fair, but when he will return to the Brooklyn lineup is questionable.

Without Campanella, the Dodgers, who play the Cardinals at St. Louis tonight, conceivably could back away from the National League pennant which the Giants alone believe they, themselves, might somehow miraculously snatch.

The husky Negro's absence was felt immediately yesterday as the Dodgers blew a 3-0 lead and lost to the Cubs, 5-3. Big Don Newcombe, who had whipped the Cubs four times previously this season without defeat, apparently missed the behind-the-plate generalship of Campanella, who was felled in the second inning.

The doctors at Illinois Masonic Hospital had a tough time convincing Campanella he got a severe knock on the noggin.

"He's so impulsive we think he'll be in the hospital only overnight," the hospital superintendent, William Tenny, said yesterday.

Preliminary X-rays failed to disclose any fracture, but Campanella, now batting .325 and with 31 home runs, had bleeding from his ear as well as lacerations on the ear surface. He also had a swollen left jaw.

Campanella has worn a protective pad sewed into the lining of his cap since he was hit in the head by a pitch thrown by Bill Werle of Pittsburgh two years ago. However, Lown's high inside pitch struck just below the cap.

There's still an outside chance that Stan Musial could be beaten out of his fifth batting title just as Brooklyn could be beaten out of the pennant. But it isn't enough to make the St. Louis Cardinal cloutier jittery.

Stan's average dropped three points during the last week, but after Sunday's games he had a .367 mark. That kept him 21 percentage points ahead of Philadelphia's Richie Ashburn.

Musial made eight hits in 26 times at bat last week. Ashburn belted out 11 in 23 times up to advance from .340 to .346.

Monte Irvin of New York Giants moved up from ninth place to tie for fifth among the leaders when 11 hits in 28 times up, lifted his average from .309 to .313.

Closest to Ashburn among the leading regulars were Jackie Robinson, Brooklyn, .336, and Roy Campanella, Brooklyn, .325.

Ashburn became the first National Leaguer to get 200 hits this season, raising his total to 206. Musial was second with 195. Musial continued to lead in triples with 12 and to trail Kiner in runs scored, 121 to 116.

Ferris Fain Widens N.L. Batting Lead

Chicago, Sept. 18.—(AP)—Ferris Fain, Philadelphia Athletics first baseman, stretched his lead this week in the American League batting race to 19 points at 341.

Fain, who last week held a 332 percentage, broke sharply away from George Kell, Detroit, 322; Minnie Minoso, Chicago, 321; and Ted Williams, Boston, 319. Last week these three were tied for second place.

Rounding out the top 10 batters in statistics released today were: Gil Coan, Washington, 316; Johnny Pesky, Boston, and Gil McDougald, New York, tied at 314; Larry Doby, Cleveland, 312; Bob Avila, Cleveland, 309; and Nellie Fox, Chicago, 305.

Dom DiMaggio of Boston leads in runs with 108 and most hits, 182; Gus Zernial of Philadelphia leads in home runs with 32, and runs batted in 124. Minoso paced the stolen base field with 29.

Boston's Ellis Kinder tops the pitchers with 11 and 2 record for an .846 average, while Vic Rasch of New York leads with 151 strike outs.

Philadelphia—Marvin Edelman, 161; Philadelphia, outpointed Herman McCray, 152; Philadelphia (8).

Crow Helps Vermont Golfer To Victory

Barre, Vt., Sept. 18.—(AP)—Allan MacDougall of Montpelier won the Midway golf club championship Sunday.

But would he have won if a tame crow hadn't gotten into the match on the 37th green?

MacDougall was even with Billy Bottomley at the 37th green. Both had landed long approach shots. As they walked to the green the tame crow suddenly swooped down and half rolled, half carried Bottomley's ball into the rough.

The golfers were at a loss what to do. There's nothing in the rule book about tame crows. Finally the contenders declared the hole even.

Bottomley dubbed his next drive and MacDougall took the 38th hole and the match.

Textile Ekes Out A 5-4 Decision Over Rubins In Softball Playdowns; Teams Tangle Again Tomorrow Night

Dominion Textile took a one-game lead in the finals of the Sherbrooke Industrial Softball League, defeating Rubins 5-4 at Dufresne Park last night.

Textile had a two-run lead going into the third inning, getting three runs on one hit and two errors. In the first half of the third Rubins tied up the game at 2-all, getting three hits, one of them a homer by Gagnon, the Rubins outfielder.

Errors by the Textile infield in the fourth and fifth innings added two more runs to Rubins' total, but the Textile crew got one of these back on two walks and a hit in the fifth.

The Rubins' crew had a 4-3 lead going into the seventh inning, and Ronald had two men out with one to go for the ball game, but he had the bases loaded when Gagne, the Textile batter, hit to third, and the throw to first by Pelletier was wild and one run was scored. The return throw by Pelin, Rubins' first baseman, to Pelletier to cut off the runner going to third, was also fumbled, and Textile scored the winning run, both the tying and winning runs being unearned.

Rubins played a good brand of ball and were unlucky to go down to defeat. Textile missed Rene Pepin mostly for his hitting power. The two teams meet again tomorrow night at Dufresne Park.

N.H.L. Schedule Will Be Changed For Tour

Montreal, Sept. 18.—(AP)—A change is being made in the National Hockey League's 70-game schedule to make it possible for Princess Elizabeth and the Duke of Edinburgh to see a game here.

The touring British Royal couple will see Detroit Red Wings play Montreal Canadiens Oct. 22. Monday games usually are played in Detroit but in exchange for the home date, Canadiens will play the preceding Saturday in the motor city.

The 1951-52 season, third to feature 70 games, will open in both Montreal and Detroit Oct. 11 and close March 23. Chicago Black Hawks will play in the Montreal premiere, while Boston Bruins will be in Detroit.

Holders of the Stanley cup, Toronto Maple Leafs, will play host to Chicago in their curtain-raiser Oct. 13. The sixth N.H.L. club, New York Rangers, will see action first at Chicago, Oct. 14.

Boston will have its first home game Oct. 14 against Canadiens, while the New York premiere will be 10 days later against Bruins.

SHUTOUT FOR SAWCHUCK

Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., Sept. 18.—(AP)—Terry Sawchuk registered his second straight shutout for Detroit Red Wings as the National Hockey League champions defeated Indianapolis Capitals, their American Hockey League farm team, 5-0 in an exhibition game at the teams' fall training camp here.

Forward Gordie Howe paced the Red Wings with two goals and one assist.

Dick Irvin Has More Than Sixty Players Out For Canadiens' Workout

Montreal, Sept. 18. — Coach Dick Irvin looked over more than three score hockey players yesterday at Montreal Canadiens' opening training-camp session and smiled happily.

"Lots of big, young fellows out there; good players, too," he said. "Never saw so many big boys at the camp. It's tough that the new rule allows us to dress only 15 and goaltender this season instead of 17 as before."

The count showed 61 in action, the big squad working out in relays on the Montreal Forum ice. Three more players will report. Among them are Butch Bouchard, towering defenceman.

Last year's regulars looked to be in top physical shape. Typical among them was Maurice (Rocket) Richard, star right-winger, who at 184 pounds over his normal hockey weight.

"Just the way they should be," said Coach Irvin. "I'd rather they wouldn't have their weight down too fine now."

The players did a lot of skating, puck-carrying and shooting. Starting tomorrow there will be two workouts daily, except Wednesday when there'll be a special arranged golf tournament.

One of the likeliest looking youngsters at yesterday's workout was Eddie Litzenberger from the Regina Pats' juniors. The tall, rangy rightwinger showed good speed and smooth skating.

"He looks and acts like Gordie Howe," said Irvin. "And he still has more weight to fill out as he grows older. I think I'll try him out at centre as well as a right wing."

Irvin was also pleased at the speed shown by Eddie Mazur, called up late last season from Victoria of the Pacific Coast League, and at the rugged play of Gordon Cowan, a husky teammate of Litzenberger from Regina. Doug Anderson of Edmonton, appearing to be carrying too much poundage, worked out strenuously.

Others of the new and not-so-new players at camp were:

Gene Achymichuk, Crow's Nest Pass, B.C.; Fred Burchell, Montreal Nationals; Dick Gamble, Quebec; Billy Goud, Montreal Royals; Stan Long, Victoria; Art Leyte, Quebec juniors; Marty Pruneau, Quebec; Art Rose, Montreal Royals; Herb Simon, Sault Ste. Marie; Lloyd Ferguson, Edmonton; Dollard St. Laurent, Montreal Royals; Orval Tessier, Cornwall, Ont.; Gordie Knutson, McGill University; Ducky Moore, Montreal Canadiens; Jimmy Moore, Cincinnati Mohawks; Ernie Roche, Cincinnati Mohawks.

Cowansville Lions Open Fall Season

Cowansville, Sept. 18. — Contrary to general opinion Lions do not growl, they roar, and so it was on Sept. 11 as Cowansville Lions gathered at the Ottawa Hotel to open their fall and winter season of socialability and to help publicly, when and where they may be called upon.

Following the usual pattern the season opened with a visit from representatives from the Canadian National Institute for the Blind, with Mr. L. A. McClintock, field organizer, for guest speaker, who outlined the aims and activities of this most worthy institution. Mr. McClintock was accompanied on his visit by Mr. Y. DeSeve, field secretary, of Granby; Mr. Tony Zepinski, music teacher, and Mr. George Cohen, of Public Relations, of Montreal. Mr. DeSeve spoke briefly concerning his interest in eight specific cases of sight conservation in Cowansville, which he, and Lion John McClure cared for during the summer and which have previously been reported for public approval. Those present were also greatly interested, and pleased by hearing Mr. Zepinski play for them on the piano two fine numbers, which proves again the ability of a sightless man to entertain those more fortunate.

Mr. Robert Stocks, of Cowansville, was another guest, who reported on his trip to the Canadian National Exhibition, in Toronto, Ont., where he represented the Lions in a public speaking contest. "Bobby" stated that he had had a wonderful experience and was royally welcomed by the Ontario Lions, with but 60 odd contestants, he found the going too much to bring home a prize.

While checking his address to the group through his Braille notes, Mr. McClintock, a member of Rotary in Montreal, stated that although educated as a lawyer he left this field to associate himself with the C.N.I.B., to contribute his help to welfare work among the blind. He quoted the blind beggar reference from the Bible stating that in biblical days blind people could only find help, and a living through begging, but in more recent times the Blind had been trained in many useful undertakings and managed to work and live as others. In referring to news items, and human interest stories about the Blind, Mr. McClintock said, "The Blind do not like over sentimentality, it makes them sick. We have blindness and we make the best of it."

Both Mr. McClintock, and Mr. DeSeve referred to past help given to the C.N.I.B. by the Lions and said they did hope that the drive planned by the club for next month would prove a success as the public donations were the back bone of their existence.

Perhaps "Bambi," Mr. George Cohen's seeing eye dog, stole the greatest part of the meeting. She is a beautiful lady, and the love and affection shown by her for her master was a revelation. Thoroughly trained in her duties, she is the only eyes of Mr. Cohen, who relies completely on her judgement. Bambi made the headlines in the Montreal papers recently on the occasion of a hold up on Beaver Hall Hill, when she very possibly saved Mr. Cohen from serious injury by pushing him into a doorway until the shooting was over. She is the finest lady to ever attend a Lions meeting.

The entertainment was under the direction of Lion Spencer. The speaker was thanked by Lion John McClure, and congratulations are in order to the new President Charles Basham, who conducted the meeting in a fine manner.

Speculation Grows That Either Warren Giles Or Ford Frick Will Be New Baseball Commissioner

Chicago, Sept. 18.—(P)—Speculation is growing today that either Warren Giles, president of the Cincinnati Reds, or Ford Frick, president of the National League, will become the new baseball commissioner.

The highly-secret business of selecting a successor to A. B. (Happy) Chandler is expected to come to a head in Chicago Thursday.

The 16 major league club owners meet then to vote for a man to hold the biggest job the sports world has to offer. They are ready to boost his yearly salary—possibly to $75,000.

And just what will be asked of this man? The owners can ask no more than he be a fair, impartial man of integrity. The book of baseball laws is already there for him to abide by.

The confirmed report that Gen. Douglas MacArthur had turned down an offer of the job several weeks ago seems to have steered baseball men away from so-called big-name candidates.

The owners now are said to be agreed almost unanimously that the commissioner this time be a dyed-in-the-wool baseball man.

This, at the outset, would appear to eliminate such rumored nominees as James A. Farley, Milton Eisenhower, president of Pennsylvania State College, Benjamin H. Reese, who retired this year as managing editor of the St. Louis Post-Dispatch, and others.

In stacking up the strongest speculation and reports now current, Giles and Frick emerge as probably the only two serious candidates.

The distinguished-looking, silver-thatched Giles—one of the most respected men in baseball and a member of the major league's four-man executive committee—has been rumored far enough ahead in the race to muster the needed 12 votes out of 16.

There are other reports that say the same of Frick, the 56-year-old former newspaper baseball writer who has been president of the senior circuit since 1934.

Frick is said to have had the backing of 11 of the 16 club owners in 1944 to succeed the late Kenesaw M. Landis. But the owners finally decided to go outside baseball ranks, and named Chandler.

coming out with a new book called "How to Sleep Without Pills." No doubt the Browns and Rangers taught him that, too.

Peewee Reese, hearing of the death of Bill Klem, recalled one time when he had directed a questioning glance at the old arbitrator after a third called strike. Bill just said: "Young man, don't blame me, it was the pitcher who fooled you."

Myles Lane, the Canadian-born former Dartmouth football and hockey star, has succeeded Irving Saypol as United States attorney for the southern district of New York. There's a smart young man with a good sports background to put on your list if you're looking for a league president, commissioner, etc.

Sports Roundup

By HUGH FULLERTON JR.

New York, Sept. 18.—(P)—Wonder if Governor Frank Lausche's withdrawal as a candidate for the baseball commissioner's post means that the club owners have crossed the Ohio Governor off the list for Thursday's election or that he has learned he has a good future in politics?

Also wonder if it is significant that the U. of Michigan football brochure arrived in an envelope stamped "Second class mail?" Ohio State and Illinois, to name two, are strictly first class this season.

Follow Official Precedence Table For Royal Visit

By GEORGE KITCHEN
Canadian Press Staff Writer
Ottawa. — Canada's official table of precedence, which bears the King's approval, will be used in all federal functions for Princess Elizabeth and the Duke of Edinburgh during their October tour of the Dominion.

The table, which originated in the early days of the British monarchy, determines the order of presentation of officials and other high-ranking persons at royal and state functions. It was put into law in Britain about the 16th century.

In Canada, the table places the Governor-General first — in the United Kingdom the sovereign has first rank — followed by the Prime Minister, the federal Cabinet and the Lieutenant-Governors of the 10 provinces. Members of the church, the judiciary, the military and the state follow in an established order.

Curiously, though Ottawa is a national capital, the Canadian table gives no place to diplomatic representatives. However, by courtesy, they are placed behind the Lieutenant-Governors.

The provinces have their own tables of precedence. They are based on the federal table, but vary according to provincial custom. They will be used when the Princess and the Duke attend provincial functions.

Generally, the provincial tables place the Lieutenant-Governor first, followed by the Premier and members of the provincial Cabinet. From there on, the order closely follows that set out in the federal table.

There is no table of precedence for municipal ceremonies. However, officials here say that even the tiniest hamlet can adopt the official table to local use.

For example, the mayor of reeve would come first as the highest municipal official. The members of his council, in a sense his cabinet, would be next, followed by council general or foreign representatives, local church dignitaries, military officials and so on.

Table of precedence. Here is the official table: Governor-General or official administering the government.

Prime Minister of Canada. Members of the federal Cabinet according to seniority.

Lieutenant-Governor of Ontario. Lieutenant-Governor of Quebec. Lieutenant-Governor of Nova Scotia.

Lieutenant-Governor of New Brunswick. Lieutenant-Governor of Manitoba.

Lieutenant-Governor of British Columbia. Lieutenant-Governor of Prince Edward Island.

Lieutenant-Governor of Saskatchewan. Lieutenant-Governor of Alberta. Lieutenant-Governor of Newfoundland.

Diplomatic representatives, according to date of appointment to Ottawa.

Archbishops and Bishops according to seniority.

The moderator of the Presbyterian church in Canada, the moderator of the United Church in Canada, and the corresponding head of the Baptist church in Canada.

The Chief Justice of Canada. Former Prime Ministers of Canada, according to seniority as members of the King's Privy Council for Canada; provided that they have been Prime Ministers of Canada for at least one year.

Members of the Privy Council not of the Cabinet according to seniority.

The Speaker of the Senate. The Speaker of the House of Commons.

Premiers of the Provinces. Chief judges of the courts of law and equity according to seniority and the judge appointed to perform the duties of Chief Justice of Quebec and Montreal.
