World News In Brief

Cairo—(CP)—Former Wafdist minister Ibrahim Faarag was sentenced today to life imprisonment by a special revolutionary court for high treason and conspiracy with a foreign power against state security.

He was the third person convicted in a week on similar charges. More than a score of Egyptians accused of plotting against President Nasser's government are still awaiting trial before the three-man tribunal.

Taipei, Formosa—(AP)—Government sources said Nationalist Chinese gunboats seized an 8,200-ton Polish tanker Monday carrying jet fuel to the Red Chinese mainland.

The sources said the tanker Praca, en route to Shanghai, was intercepted east of Red-held Nanjing island as she tried to slip out of the Formosa Strait into the east China sea.

Washington—(AP)—Vice-President Richard Nixon left Monday night on a 72-day good will tour of the Far East as a presidential envoy to obtain the views of national leaders "on all the great problems which confront the free nations." Nixon was accompanied by his wife and a party of eight.

Los Angeles—(AP)—Los Angeles faced its third day of torrid fall temperatures today after Monday's high of 101 brought at least four heat prostrations. Monday's high here was the top ever recorded for Oct. 5. The previous high for the date was 97 in 1926. It was 98 here Saturday and 100 Sunday.

Cold War Started By Royal Visit

Canberra—(AP)—The question of who gets first chance to greet Queen Elizabeth when she arrives next February has set off a small-scale cold war in Australia's higher government levels.

The dispute came into the open today as a result of a question in the federal House of Representatives. The questioner asked Prime Minister R. G. Menzies whether the state government of New South Wales believes its local premier, rather than Menzies himself, should be first to greet the Queen. Canberra is in New South Wales.

Menzies avoided the issue of disagreement but admitted he was meeting Premier Joseph Cahill this week.

"The people who elect the New South Wales Parliament are the same electors who elect the Commonwealth Parliament," Menzies said, adding acidly: "It could hardly be accepted that the Australian government takes second place to any other government in this country."

Troops And Naval Vessels Moved To British Guiana

London—(AP)—Britain today dispatched the 9,100-ton cruiser Sheffield from Scotland to the West Indies, sending the warship to the doorstep of her leftist-threatened South American colony of British Guiana.

The admiral described the cruiser's departure as a "normal station move," but London newspapers already were blasting the government for the veil of official secrecy dropped over previously-reported movements of troops and naval vessels toward the troubled colony.

The cabinet met to consider the situation in the colony, where colonial authorities are reported thinking of firing—possibly even arresting—some left-wing ministers in the local British Guiana government.

Meeting with the cabinet were the first lord of the admiralty, J. P. L. Thomas, who has no cabinet rating, and admiral of the fleet Sir Rhoderick McGrigor, who as first sea lord is chief of naval staff.

The Daily Telegraph, one of the staunchest supporters of Prime Minister Churchill's Conservative cabinet, asserted the "official attempts" had not concealed "the facts . . . that British warships carrying troops are steaming at top speed for Georgetown, capital of British Guiana, in an attempt to forestall a threatened Communist-directed insurrection in that colony."

The admiralty, however, still refused to confirm or deny reports that the 8,000-ton cruiser Superb with 400 troops aboard and the 1,600-ton frigate Bigbury Bay are due at Georgetown Wednesday from Kingston, Jamaica.

British Guiana has been seething ever since the leftist Peoples Progressive party, led by American-born Janet Rosenberg Jagan and her East Indian dentist husband, Cheddi Jagan, won a sweeping victory in last April's colonial election.

Court Order Halts Strike Of Longshoremens, Leaves Issues Still Unsettled

Airplane Helps Unify Dominion

Montreal—(CP)—Prime Minister St. Laurent said Monday night the airplane has played a big part in developing Canadian unity.

"No country has so greatly benefited from aviation and the development of air transport" as Canada, he told a dinner given delegates to the International Air Transport Association convention by the government of Canada.

Delegates from some 120 countries and colonies, representing airlines carrying 85 per cent of the world's scheduled air traffic Monday opened the ninth annual meeting of IATA.

Air Transport, Mr. St. Laurent said, has opened up millions of acres of northern and helped bridge thousands of miles of sparsely-settled areas between populated areas.

In world affairs, the association, working to increase co-operation among air companies the world over, had shown countries could no longer afford "the luxury of hatred" in this age of shrinking distances.

"Even though complete unanimity is required at some of your special conferences before resolutions can be adopted," Mr. St. Laurent went on, "you have been able to reach agreement—a record envied by those of us who are to deal with international politics."

Examples of co-operation among IATA members "help us to resist the temptation to throw up our hands in despair before the apparent intransigence of some nations," the prime minister said.

Search for and rescue this week-end of seven persons lost for more than a month aboard a plane in northern Quebec was "another proof of the solidarity of air-minded people from all parts of the world."

Earlier at a press conference, Sir William P. Hildred, IATA director-general, protested "unfair" increases in airport charges by governments wishing to recoup expenditure on large modern airports.

"Sir William urged 'moderation' on IATA-member governments in considering increased landing fees or other charges. Airlines were easy victims for government trying to cover part of the millions spent on airport construction.

An executive report, presented to delegates Monday announced creation of a traffic advisory committee to replace the former traffic committee and deal with rates and fares, and enlargement of IATA's enforcement office which sees that conference resolutions are carried out.

Temporary Truce Effected By Injunction Obtained Under Taft-Hartley Law.

New York—(AP)—A court order today carried the promise of an immediate end to a multi-million-dollar waterfront strike from Maine to Virginia, but it left unsettled issues carrying the threat of bloody dock warfare.

Leaders of the AFL-ousted International Longshoremens' Association, complying with an injunction obtained under the Taft-Hartley law, ordered their men back to work after a five-day tie-up which paralyzed more than 100 vessels. The cost of the strike in New York alone was put at $7,500,000.

The strike forced about a dozen passenger liners to make their way in and out of New York without the help of tugs. There also were diversions of vessels to strike-free ports.

Last ship to manoeuvre into New York without tugs was the Cunard Line's 35,000-ton Mauretania, which accomplished the feat Monday in the face of strong winds.

Cunard's huge Queen Mary was diverted from New York to Halifax where she docked Monday with 1,834 passengers. Boat trains were made up to carry them to New York and to take Europe-bound travellers from New York to Halifax.

Even as President Eisenhower's first use of the labor law brought at least a temporary truce in the ILA's wage-contract dispute with employers, there were reports that New York stoppages might result from the ILA's fight with the AFL for control of waterfront labor.

ILA officers said their members might refuse to work alongside longshoremen who have quit the ILA to join the AFL. Large numbers of longshoremen have left the ILA in bolts which split some locals in two.

The rivalry between the ILA and AFL has led to extraordinary police precautions on the waterfront, where supremacy is often determined by brawn and brutality.

Federal Judge Edward Weinfeld Monday night ordered a 10-day halt in the strike to prevent "immediate and irreparable injury" to the national welfare. Weinfeld set next Tuesday for a formal hearing, at which he is expected to extend his order to the full 90-day period, expiring Christmas Eve, permitted under Taft-Hartley.

Weinfeld's order quickly was served on Patrick J. Connolly, ILA executive vice-president. Connolly then directed the return to work by an estimated 50,000 to 60,000 ILA dockers from Portland, Me., to Hampton Roads, Va.

Although Connolly said he did not expect longshoremen back on the job until tonight for Wednesday, leaders of the ILA tugboat division said tug crews would start berthing ships before dawn. The tugboat men quit work in sympathy with the longshoremen, forcing dozens of vessels to anchor just outside their piers.

The ILA's strike was a direct consequence of the failure of the union and the New York Shipping Association, representing 175 shipping and stevedoring companies, to reach agreement on a new contract. The two sides split on a wage boost, the ILA asking a wage-welfare package of 13 cents an hour, the employers offering an 8-cent package. The present basic rate is $2.27 an hour.

The AFL ousted the ILA two weeks ago for failure to rid itself of racketeering elements. The AFL then set up a new International Longshoremen's Association, AFL (ILA-AFL), to fight the cast-off ILA.

TB Threat In Infants Still Great

Miami—(AP)—General declines in tuberculosis sickness and death rates have thrown many children's doctors off their guard against the danger of TB in infants, a Richmond, Va., physician says.

Dr. Edwin L. Kendig of the Medical College of Virginia, charges that many pediatricians are guilty of "some actual neglect" to test all infants for possible tuberculosis.

He told the opening session of the annual meeting of the American Academy of Pediatrics in a prepared paper that tuberculosis infection in infancy carries a "grave" outlook. Earliest possible detection provided the best hope of success. He urged universal use of the tuberculin test on all new-patients more than a few months of age.

The tests consists of injecting a small amount of extract derived from dead TB germs under the skin of the patient, or "scratching" on the skin's surface. If the patient has TB at the time or has had it in the past an allergic-type inflammation will appear on the skin. Sometimes the test is done with a so-called "patch" technique in which a small strip of gauze impregnated with the material is applied to the skin.

"Use of the routine tuberculin test between 12 and 18 months of age," said Dr. Kendig, "provides an easy and satisfactory method or tuberculosis case finding in this age group."

He said he had sent a questionnaire to 2,500 practicing pediatricians and the 1,490 answers revealed "that only 55.5 per cent employ the tuberculin test routinely and that 21 per cent of those who do employ the test do so after the age of three years, too late to be of maximum benefit."

Dr. Kendig said "tuberculosis infection in infancy occurs more often than might be suspected." Out of one group of approximately 60 children seen at a "well baby clinic" during the four-year period, 11 per cent had already "acquired tuberculous disease, as manifested by a positive tuberculin test." Of this infected group, three-fourths became tuberculin positive before two years of age, the rest before they reached age three.

He added, though, that "even in extreme cases," treatment of the TB infants can be successful.

Witnesses Of Jehovah Win Superior Court Battle Over Quebec Regulation

Ottawa—(CP)—The Witnesses of Jehovah today won their extended battle against a restrictive Quebec City regulation in a 5-4 majority decision of the Supreme Court of Canada.

In one of its closest decisions in years, the court ruled that Quebec City has no right to interfere with the distribution of religious pamphlets on city streets.

The court overruled the decision of Quebec lower courts and granted the appeal of Laurier Saumur of Quebec, a Jehovah's Witness evangelist, convicted of distributing tracts without a permit.

While the court judgment dealt only with the Saumur case, it will have wider application. It will affect some 800 similar prosecutions now pending in Quebec courts.

In effect, the court ruled that no body or other body can interfere with freedom of religion.

The court, after splitting 4-4, finally rested its decision on the judgment of Mr. Justice Patrick Kerwin, a Roman Catholic.

Against the witnesses' appeal were Chief Justice Thibault, Mr. Justice Robert Taschereau, Mr. Justice Gerald Fauteux, all Roman Catholics, and Mr. Justice John R. Cartwright, an Anglican.

With Mr. Justice Kerwin in upholding the appeal were Mr. Justice Ivan C. Rand, an Anglican, Mr. Justice R. L. Kellook, a Baptist, Mr. Justice J. W. Estey, also a Baptist, and Mr. Justice J. H. Locke, an Anglican.

The Witnesses asked the court in December, 1952, to declare invalid a City of Quebec by-law prohibiting the distribution of pamphlets without a permit from the chief of police.

Mr. Justice Kerwin, in his deciding judgment, said he did not consider that the by-law should be declared ultra vires, but it should not be extended "so as to prohibit the appellant as a member of Jehovah's Witnesses from distributing in the streets of Quebec any book, pamphlet, booklet, circular or tract of Jehovah's Witnesses included in the exhibits."

US-Chinese Meeting Is Suggested

United Nations, N.Y.—(AP)—An influential United Nations diplomat has suggested privately that the United States and Communist China hold face-to-face talks seeking to work out their differences over who should attend the Korean political conference.

While making no formal proposal, this delegate, who was closely connected with arranging the Korean truce, said the two countries could thresh out the problem when and if their representatives meet to discuss details of time and place for the conference.

The chief United States delegate, Henry Cabot Lodge, has offered on behalf of the U.S. government to send an American representative to talk over these points with the Reds. The Communists thus far have ignored the offer.

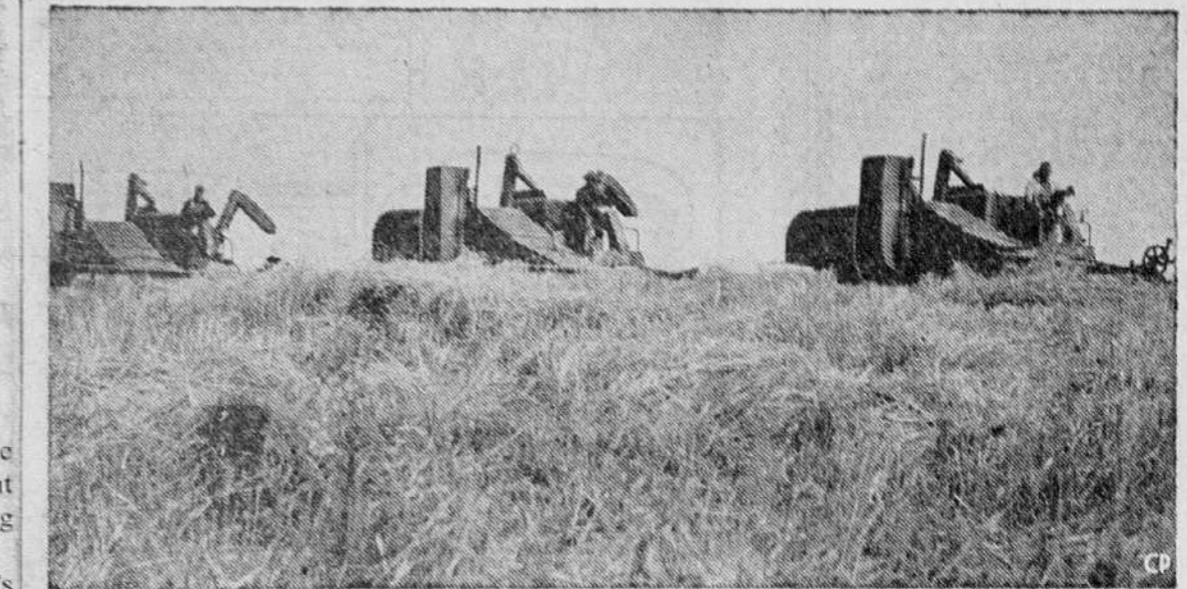

Chances for the peace conference, scheduled to open Oct. 23, appear dim at present because of Communist insistence that neutrals be invited. The UN already has adopted a U.S. plan banning neutrals.

Lodge told the General Assembly that the conference itself could take up the question of whether to invite such countries as India. It was a problem for "both sides" and both would be represented at the conference.

The new idea suggested by the prominent neutral is that "both sides" take up the issue when they meet to discuss technicalities. If they reached agreement, the U.S. could report the result to the General Assembly and any necessary action could be taken.

The U.S. delegation, saying it had not been approached formally with the idea, withheld comment. A British spokesman said it was "a little early" to comment on the suggestion. His delegation preferred to wait until the Chinese Reds replied to the latest U.S. note on the conference.

That note offered to send a U.S. representative to Geneva, San Francisco or Honolulu to talk over technical details with a Chinese Red delegation.

Break Near In Kansas Kidnapping

Kansas City—(AP)—A missing spokesman at the home of the wealthy parents of six-year-old Bobby Greenlease aroused speculation today that a break might come at any time in the nine-day-old kidnaping case.

The spokesman, Robert Lederman, hasn't been seen at the home of the 71-year-old father, Robert C. Greenlease, since early Sunday morning. Other associates of the family, considered among the ten wealthiest in Kansas City, met all queries about Lederman with the statement that he was resting and couldn't be disturbed.

Lederman, because of his close ties with the family, frequently has been mentioned as a possible intermediary.

Stirring more mystery about the quiet efforts of the family to get their son back was a visit to the home Monday night by President Eisenhower's banker brother.

Arthur B. Eisenhower spent 15 minutes at the home. As he left, he told reporters he could give them no information.

Last week when Joseph Williams, president of a trust company, visited the home, the father said he had made arrangements to get money day or night to meet ransom demands. Eisenhower is executive vice-president of the same bank.

The FBI here and at Washington met all queries about the case with "no comment." The federal agency declined to say whether it had entered the case officially under the Lindbergh law, which allows it to enter the case after seven days on the assumption the victim has been taken across a state line by that time.

Kansas City Police Chief Bernard Brannon said he had "no knowledge" of an approaching break. He said his force still was keeping hands off at the request of the family.

The boy was kidnapped by a woman from the exclusive French Institute of Notre Dame de Sion a week ago Monday. The woman, posing as the boy's aunt, had a cab wait for her while she went into the private Catholic school for the boy.

She told the nun in charge that the boy's mother had suffered a heart attack and she had come to take Bobby to the hospital. Then they drove off in the cab, getting out at a nearby parking lot. From there the trail was lost.

Two Megantic Co. Men Are Killed

Thetford Mines, Que.—(CP)—Maurice Filion, 22, and Rea Veilleux, 25, both of St. Coeur de Marie, Megantic County, died in hospital Monday from injuries suffered Saturday when the automobile in which they were passengers collided with another car. Two other passengers were injured. The driver was not hurt.

Untidy Rest Rooms Criticized

Victoria—(CP)—Untidy rest rooms and unnecessary flying of the United States flag were criticized Monday during sessions of the Canadian Tourist Association's annual convention here.

Delegates heard a report from Mrs. Florence G. Montgomery, managing director of the British Columbia Restaurant Association, and chairman of the Tourist Association Committee on Canadian cuisine.

She said the result of questionnaires showed the majority of American visitors were satisfied with Canadian food, but many offered suggestions regarding prices, variety of dishes, more fresh fruits and salads. A large number complained about the condition of rest rooms in Canadian eating places.

Mrs. Montgomery reported "excellent improvement" in Canadian cuisine, with regional dishes being featured in various parts of Canada.

Leo Dolan, director of the Canadian government travel bureau, told delegates "you pay no tribute to American citizens when you fly their flag for commercial purposes."

He called for more "Canadianism" and less "Americanism."

"Let us have just a little more of the touch of Quebec, of places like the Old England Inn in Victoria and of today's fish menu at the convention luncheon. These are Canadian."

To increase the tourist trade, Canada must increase promotion, spend more money and make the country "more attractive in some ways," he said.

Ralph R. Moore, Alberta's deputy minister of economic affairs, was elected president of the association for the coming year.

George Leveille, director of the Quebec publicity bureau, was named first vice-president. Gordon Wood, of Trans-Canada Airlines, Montreal, was named second vice-president and Frank S. Carmell of the Eaton Co., Toronto, third vice-president.

The convention was moved here after a three-day session in Vancouver.

Five Killed In Collision

Sarnia, Ont.—(CP)—The death toll rose to five today in Monday night's two-car collision near here. Three generations of a Sarnia family were wiped out on their way to a bingo game and two others were critically injured.

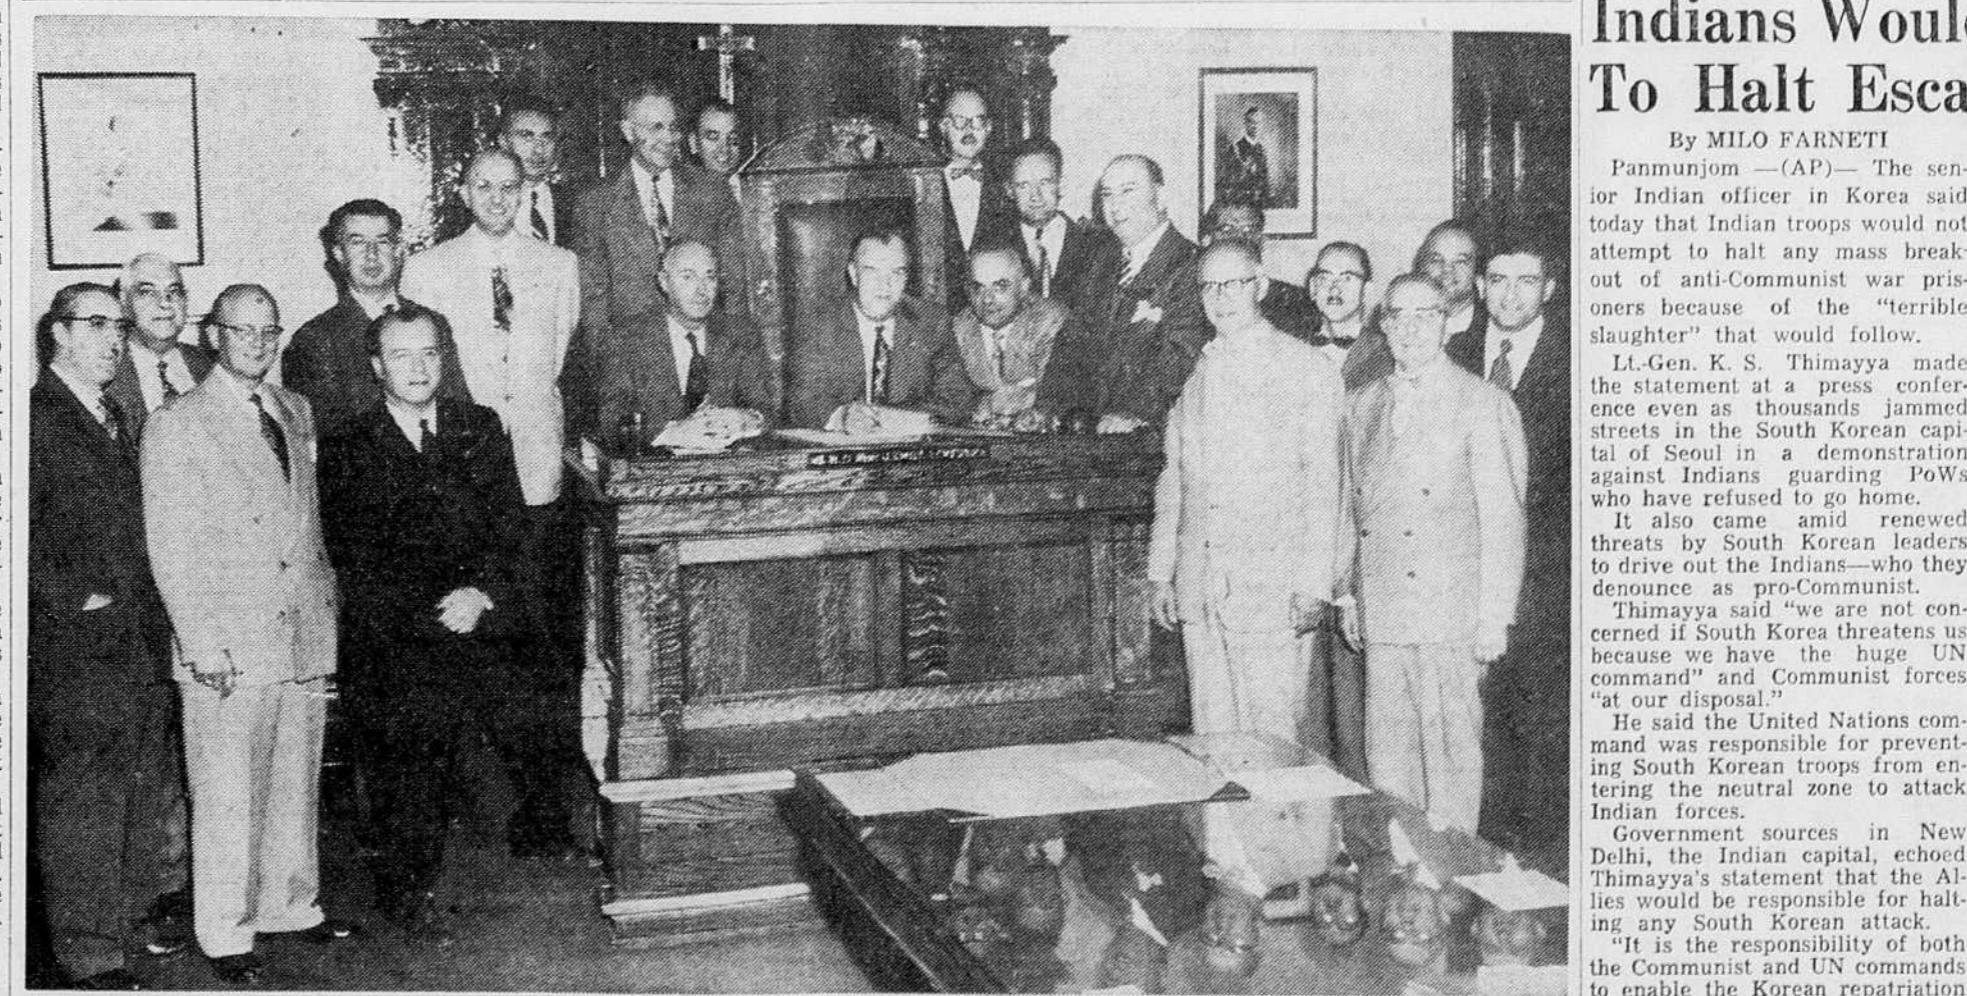

Ambrose Stack, 33, died in hospital early today of multiple injuries. Killed at the scene were Arnold Wiles, 43; Mrs. Mary Walsh, 42; Mrs. Julia O'Connell, 62, and the six-month-old daughter of Mrs. Pauline Kettle, 18, one of the two injured.

Mrs. Kettle and Jack Miller, 23, are in hospital in critical condition.

All are from Sarnia with the exception of Miller who is from Bright's Grove, about 18 miles west of here.

Police said all those killed and Mrs. Kettle were in a car driven by Wiles which attempted to pass a transport on a level stretch of the Plank Road. They crashed head-on into an auto driven by Miller. Stack was a passenger in Miller's car.

Arthur Ward of Sarnia, driver of the transport which Wiles tried to pass, said he could see the accident coming. He put on his brakes, but the two cars hit right alongside his cab. Both vehicles were demolished.

Queen Will Have Specially-Built Rover For Tour

By GORDON TAIT

Sydney — (AP) — Even a Queen has only two hands.

That's why her majesty will have a specially-built Land Rover for her tour of Australia next year.

Visits of royalty take a lot of advance planning, and already Lt. Gen. F. H. Berryman, director-general of the royal visit, has solved the problem of how the Queen can hold her skirts down, hold her hat on, hold onto the vehicle and still spare a hand to wave.

The special Rover will be built up at the back, above waist level; it will have a rail to hold. That will leave her the choice of waving or holding onto her hat, if it's a windy day.

"She chose a Land Rover in preference to a closed car because she wants to see — and be seen by — as many people as possible," the general explained.

The matter of the car is only one of his problems.

Take the schedule. Berryman says it will be split-second — so precise it will even take into account the number of seconds it will take her to walk down the ramp from the royal plane to the ground.

The Queen will travel 14,450 miles during her visit, which will last from Feb. 3 through April 1. Eight hundred miles will be by train, 1,150 by ship around the coast and through the barrier reef, 2,500 miles by car — 2,000 of them in cities — and 10,000 miles by air. The air mileage will be run up in 35 separate flights.

A special guard is being trained to make the trip, to be specially designed. It will have a private room for the Queen, a compartment with four seats where the Queen, her husband and their personal staff can sit; plus a small compartment back in the plane with a writing desk for the minister in charge and the director-general. A Royal Australian Air Force nursing sister will be a member of the crew.

But it will take more than one plane and one jeep to help the Queen see the country. Along with the Dakota will be a fleet of Bristol freighter aircraft. And some of the 115 or more other cars the entourage will use — mostly jeep and utility truck types — will be ferried between stops by the planes.

★ IN HOLLYWOOD ★

by Erskine Johnson
NEA NEWS CORRESPONDENT

Las Vegas—Rita Hayworth was voted Hollywood's No. 1 Miss Nasty in the public relations department by the Hollywood Women's Press Club less than a year ago.

But she was Miss Charm of 1953 with the Press and Las Vegas press agents for her Sands Hotel marriage to Dick Haymes.

If the most surprising production of the year, supervised by Publicist Al Freeman and Sands boss Jack Entratter.

"You have to beat Rita over the head to get her to smile for a news camera," her movie bosses complained.

But in Las Vegas she smiled prettily, and often, for a battery of 18 photographers during the ceremony.

She responded to Freeman's two-day "Outline of Events—No Restrictions on Any Picture Taking" schedule like an actress emoting for her favorite director and gaily sipped champagne and lunched with the press guys and dolls after the "I do" lines were spoken in the Press Room of the Sands Hotel.

As the wife of Aly Khan, Rita turned down several six-figure checks to tell her life story—the story of dark-haired Rita Casiano, the Tijuana night-club dancer, who became a red-haired film glamor queen and then, for a time, a princess.

"That's my private life and I'm not talking about or writing about it," she snapped.

"Keep the press photographers away from me," she's told her Columbia studio bosses for the last eight years.

"Pictures of my children? Definitely NO," she's always said. Glamorous Putty

But in the deft hands of Las Vegas press agent Freeman, Rita was glamorous putty. Awaiting Dick's divorce in a luxurious suit, at the Sands Hotel, she permitted news photographs of her two daughters, Rebecca, 8, and Yasmin, 3.

The "No-restrictions-on-any-picture-taking" word to the press, before and after the ceremony, was an eyebrow-lifter from Las Vegas to Hollywood to the Riviera where she once played keep-away with the European press.

The wedding had no "frills," as Rita requested, but the show was a press agent's dream and a bonanza for the makers of film and flashlight bulbs.

Never has any movie queen performed so graciously for the press.

The Sands Hotel, thanks to Rita, racked up more publicity than any of her expensive movies. If there had been time, I'm sure she even would have accepted Abe Schiller's invitation to go fishing on Lake Mead in the Flamingo Hotel's boat, followed by a squadron of press boats as imposing as the Pacific fleet.

Or she might have sat atop an 1890 fire engine at the Last Frontier Village. She was in that kind of a mood.

Why the "new" press-loving Rita?

I asked her that question.

All she would say was, "It's love."

But she has been in love before Dick is hubby No. 4, but never with the press.

Odds Are Better On No. 4

Maybe, just like in the Las Vegas casinos, she figures the odds are better on No. 4 as a hard-way bet. She and Dick reached the altar the hard way, guided by a mob of attorneys who took Dick through his six-week Nevada divorce from Nora Flynn Haymes. Now they will fight to keep him from being deported from the U.S. on a charge that he re-entered the country illegally after following Rita to Hawaii last May.

The lawyers' fees, I'm sure, will be a staggering amount when Rita and Dick open their mail next month.

But in Hollywood there is another explanation for Rita stepping out of the "Miss Nasty" with-press role.

She's feudied with her Columbia studio bosses many, many times, and has refused to cooperate with the high-powered studio publicity department, it's said, as one way of striking back in the getting-even department.

Starring as Miss Charm of 1953 for Press Agent Freeman and Hotel Boss Jack Entratter at her marriage to Singer Haymes, it's claimed, was another personal victory for her over Columbia studio.

"It's love," says Rita, about the new Rita.

Maybe Hollywood is wrong. After all, she permitted Hubby No. 2, Orson Welles, to saw her in half in his USO magic show.

It's been three years since Director Fred Zinneman or anybody else in Hollywood heard from Ivan Jandl, the Czech youngster who scored with Montgomery Clift in "The Search." Ivan, somewhere behind the Iron Curtain near Prague, is now 15 years old.

North Hatley, Oct. 6. — The North Hatley Consolidated School was proud of its senior team of square dancers when, it came home with the first prize from the contests held at the School Fair, in Ayer's Cliff. The winning team included Margaret McClellan, Carleton Majaury, Faith Clark, Ronnie Knutson, Gail MacNaughton, Johnnie Lundberg, Elizabeth Little and Richard McNab.

Two other teams were entered and according to their coach, conducted themselves creditably, although not winning in their classes.

The intermediate team included, Pat Hornett, Murray Gardner, Russell Marlowe, Maureen Guild, Sue Ann Bryce, Syd Majaury, Jindy Reed and Dickie Johnson.

In the third and youngest team were Karen Pike, David Benton, Susan St. Pierre, Tommy Beane, Nancy Carroll, Winston Knapp, Carol Simons and Blaine Lowell.

Development Of Bromptonville Power Site Discussed At Council Session

For over an hour the aldermen debated electricity problems, especially the question of developing the Bromptonville site, at their regular session last evening and finally arrived at the conclusion to ask the engineers charged with preparing the plans to report on the situation as it stands at the present time.

This decision took the form of an amendment to the original resolution of Ald. Paul Hamel, chairman of the gas and electricity committee, that local contractors be requested to submit prices on the cost of the Bromptonville development.

As a preliminary to his motion, Ald. Hamel said that the cost of purchased power had caused a reduction in the profits of his department during the current year despite the fact that revenues reached a record figure.

The logical thing to do, he maintained, was for the city to develop one or more of the power sites it owned and he felt the Bromptonville location, because of its high potential output—approximately 12,500 horsepower—should receive the preference. Therefore he made the motion that contractors be asked to submit quotations on the probable cost on the basis of plans prepared by a local engineering firm which had been entrusted with the job some time ago.

Ald. Thibault asked if definite plans were ready and what estimate the engineers had given.

Oh, yes, the plans were ready, replied Ald. Hamel. As to the probable costs, there was a difference of opinion, he continued. A local engineer had estimated the outlay at from $2,000,000 to $2,400,000 while the Montreal consulting firm of Beauchemin and Hurter, in their survey of the system, had put the figure at closer to $4,000,000.

This was why he wanted firms to tender on the project, so the council would have an idea of the outlay actually required.

Ald. Everett Nicol said he failed to see how developing Bromptonville could add to the municipal revenues, as Beauchemin and Hurter said the city would get no net revenue for a period of approximately 25 years.

This was only a minor problem for Ald. Hamel. Admittedly the Beauchemin and Hurter report had been unfavorable to the Bromptonville plan but the engineers told him privately that it was a good business for the city.

Last year the city generated 13,000 horsepower from its five plants at a cost of $149,000 but had to pay $342,000 for 11,000 horsepower you purchased.

"With flow conditions what they are on the St. Francis you cannot make power as cheaply as you can buy it," Ald. Nicol asserted.

"Sure you can," Ald. Hamel hit back.

At this point, Ald. Cadorette, who had obviously something to say, was able to get in a word.

"You mean, Ald. Hamel, that Beauchemin and Hurter said something in their report, but told you privately that the facts were different? If so, I think we should get our money back."

Ald. Hamel started to hedge somewhat and said that "one engineer had told him."

When asked to give a categorical "yes" or "no" to the question: "Did an engineer of the firm of Beauchemin and Hurter tell you that Bromptonville was a good business deal?" he just shrugged his shoulders.

Ald. Carrier Fortin stressed that he had no preconceived views of the Bromptonville project, but felt that the council should be very careful before undertaking it. The local water supply must be improved and it must be determined in advance if the municipal revenues could stand the double drain of developing Bromptonville and improving the water supply.

"Additional power facilities are very good, but they are only secondary to water. We can get along very well with electricity produced at Shawinigan Falls but we cannot drink water from Shawinigan," he concluded.

It was then realized that the original motion had never been seconded and Ald. Thibault gracefully accepted the task so that the question could be brought to a vote, even in he was not too favorable to the idea.

For this he was politely thanked by Ald. Hamel.

Ald. Labonne entered the debate for the first time. He did not believe that contractors would be prepared to go to the trouble of preparing estimates unless there was a reasonable possibility that the city would go ahead with the project. The engineers should finish their plans and other needs of the electric department should be studied so that the development could go ahead on a comprehensive basis.

He got into a series of arguments with the electric department head as to the wisdom of calling tenders at this stage, Ald. Labonne insisting he was not opposed to the Bromptonville scheme but just wanted a sensible approach.

He then made a motion to amend Ald. Hamel's project so that the engineers be requested to give a report on progress to date.

This was seconded by Ald. Carl Camirand and a vote taken. Aldermen Labonne, Rousseau, Bradley, Camirand, Nicol, Cadorette, Fortin and Cayer favoring the amendment with Aldermen Hamel and Thibault opposed. The original motion was then defeated on the same vote reversed.

After this had been disposed of, Ald. Labonne made a brief statement denying reports in a local newspaper that the city Council had to approve the school tax rate set by the school boards. The council had nothing to do with it and could only collect the taxes imposed by the commissions.

A contract was given to Stanislas Grondin for the construction of a municipal garage at a cost of $46,750 and certain technical amendments were made to the zoning by-law.

Mayor Emile Levesque, who has been in hospital for over a week, was welcomed by his colleagues.

Candle-Lit Ceremony At Induction

Three new members of the Sherbrooke Lions Club were inducted last night at an impressive, candle-lit ceremony conducted by the New Hampshire Lions induction team.

International Counsellor Basil Joannides of Manchester, N.H., headed the 16-man team and the marshal was Garson Reese, also of Manchester.

The new members were Bill Travis, Ernest Pelletier and Roland Mathurin.

Magog and Coaticook clubs were represented at the meeting by their respective presidents, Al Swoger and Pierre Chapuis, and large delegations of members from both clubs. Several New Hampshire clubs and the Northampton, Mass. club also were represented at the well-attended meeting, over which Sherbrooke president Jean Gauthier presided.

Eddie Caron, inter-club chairman of the Sherbrooke club, welcomed the visitors and a presentation to Mr. Joannides was made by Cecil Dunn of Sherbrooke.

Roland Savoie led a rousing song, after which the meeting was turned over to Mr. Joannides for the induction.

Before proceeding with the initiation, Mr. Joannides read a letter of greetings from Mayor Joseph Benoit, of Manchester and, on behalf of the mayor, presented Mr. Gauthier with a key to the city of Manchester.

Lights then were dimmed until the Mayfair room was illuminated only by the glow of a candle at each table. To the orchestral accompaniment of "Land of Hope and Glory," the new members were conducted by Mr. Reese from table to table, at each of which a stop was made while a member of the induction team read one paragraph of the Lions Code of Ethics.

When this ceremony was completed, lights were turned on again and past district governor Paul Bretschneider received the pledge of each of the new members, who then received their pins from their sponsors.

Women Service Clubs Form Groups To Make Dressings For Cancer Patients

Public education to bring cancer to the light of the people and to let them know and encourage them to seek advice of a doctor, was stressed last night by F. Lyle Pattee, executive secretary of the Canadian Cancer Society, Province of Quebec.

Mr. Pattee, speaking to a group of ladies representing clubs of the city, at the local Cancer Society office on Wellington street, said that cancer education in Sherbrooke was a local task, and could be carried on through the members, in schools, industry, and in the home.

Hundreds of substances that can induce cancer have been found and now it is only a matter of time before a cure is found, said Mr. Pattee. But until a cure is discovered, the help of responsible citizens and especially that of the women is in great need.

Looking over some statistics, Mr. Pattee announced that last year in Montreal groups of women had made 1,500,000 dressings for cancer patients. Since Sherbrooke had a demand for 2,000 of these dressings, the Montreal office decided to call upon the local women and ask them to adopt the idea of making dressings which would be distributed to local cancer patients.

The response is terrific. Thirteen of these charitable organizations were represented at the first monthly meeting of the society and all agreed to do their part in the fight against the second greatest killer—cancer.

Plans were formulated for the setting up of groups of ladies to make dressings. The committee formed to work on this includes:

marks, spoke of the growth of Lionism, largest service club in the world. Lions, he said, in 45 countries are "unselfishly giving their time and their love, and are spending their money for others less fortunate than you and I."

A total of 150,000 different "good" acts were completed by the Lions last year and more than $9,000,000 was spent. A total of 915 new clubs were chartered last year.

Cheaper Food Prices Are Forecast In Address By IGA President Grimes

A prediction that food prices will go down and news that IGA in the Eastern Townships had more than doubled its outlets in the short period of district operation featured the first local convention of retailers of the Independent Grocers Alliance, held last night in the New Sherbrooke Hotel. Upwards of 200 IGA grocers, their store personnel, families and friends attended, a 100 per cent representation from the 49 E. T. stores doing business under the IGA banner.

Guest speaker was Donald R. Grimes, of Chicago, president of IGA. In an address "Food Trends and Forecast," which he had delivered at the IGA international convention in late summer and which was aired locally last night over C.K.T.S., Mr. Grimes said that as our standard of living continues to increase the housewife becomes more and more conscious of buying better foods at lower prices.

She is asking why consumers pay an all-time high price for food when the farmer pays less for his crops. She is finding out that the price the farmer gets for his product represents only 15 per cent of the price of the processed item sold in the food market, that labor costs in the processing plants—in the warehouses—retail stores—are up 18 per cent, transportation is up about 12 per cent and the cost of paper and supply items which are included in packaging and distributing food products is up almost 26 per cent. And taxes have increased.

Said Mr. Grimes: "If we figured out all of the hidden taxes that can be found in food prices (and bread alone has 151), we would conclude quickly that taxes represent a very large portion of the price the consumer pays on many food items. As a matter of fact, the price that the consumer pays for taxes alone on some processed items is greater than that which the farmer gets for the raw material of these items."

The home-maker of today is vitally interested in getting food prices reduced. Therefore, we in food distribution really have something to think about. Costs of food distribution are still too high and can be reduced and that's our constant objective in IGA.

"The consumer can help also if she will purchase the plentiful food items that are being advertised. If she doesn't buy these items, the government will have to buy them and this means that taxes must be raised. If the price the consumer pays is to be substantially reduced, economy in government is essential.

"Food distributors have been working over the years to get their costs of doing business down because competition in the food business is terrific. The operator with the lowest costs can sell at lowest prices and in the era just ahead only low cost operators can survive.

"Now based upon the foregoing plus the fact that many of our crops are in a surplus position and that we are facing a minor adjustment period as the result of conversion to some extent from civilian goods—I predict that the price of foods will slowly go down."

Mr. Grimes, who was accompanied by Sherbrooke by Clifford Rutledge, Chicago, director of installations for IGA, said that the IGA aim in the next ten years is to have 10,000 stores doing $10,000 of business a week. He showed colored slides which gave pointers on how each IGA dealer could improve his business and service, emphasizing that most efficient operation is possible only through retailers' dealing through the wholesale house.

The speaker was introduced by J. F. Armstrong, president of G. T. Armstrong & Sons Limited, sponsors of IGA in this area. On behalf of the Armstrong Company, sales manager W. H. Cohoon announced that since the start of IGA operations in the E. T. on February 5, when there were 24 IGA stores, the number of IGA stores has risen to 49.

He stated also that by the spring of 1964, 75 fully-equipped IGA stores will be in operation to serve Mrs. Housewife in the Eastern Townships. This unit is only part of thousands of retail stores from coast to coast in the United States and Canada whose aim by 1963 is to be part of a team of 10,000 doing $10,000 a week. The IGA group will then be the largest independently owned retail group in the world.

Other speakers were: Mr. Rutledge, Bert Beswick, Swift Canadian Company, Reg. Allatt, Allatt's Bakery, and J. Emile Blais, of Thompson and Alix. Afterwards, refreshments were served by the Armstrong Company.

PUBLICITY MAY STOP KOREAN BUILD-UP

Reports are mounting that the Communists North Korea are building up their air force in violation of the truce terms. Knowing the Reds as we do, the Western powers cannot feel any great surprise.

The accounts seem authentic enough. The young North Korean Red pilot who recently flew his MIG jet fighter to a UN airport said the build-up is going on steadily. Our own aircraft, flying at high altitudes and checking by radar, confirm the story.

The Red pilot said he believed the illegal movement of aircraft to new bases close behind the truce line was a preparation for renewal of hostilities. It is unlikely a pilot of modest rank would be privy to secrets of the Communist high command. But he may be making a highly informed guess, and we must act on the assumption that he may be right.

We all remember that the Communists used the truce device again and again against Chiang Kai-shek's National Chinese, cloaking a military build-up which enabled them to strike with decisive impact. They could be planning the same sort of strategy this time.

Certainly they have stalled over the holding of a Korean political conference in a manner suggesting they don't much care if it ever comes off.

On the other hand, the present activity may simply represent the Communists' exaggerated notions of what is necessary to a proper defence of North Korea against surprise assault by the UN, or perhaps Syngman Rhee's South Korean armies. To us this idea may seem fantastic, but the Reds, and especially the Chinese, are super-sensitive to the presence of large armies near their borders.

In the end, we can merely speculate over Red intentions, and if they are bad, speculation will give us no protection. Red fighters poised close to the truce line are a grave danger, a peril we did not have to endure during the war when our bombers smashed all North Korean fields and kept the Communist air force pinned to Manchurian bases.

As soon as the evidence has been accumulated for presentation, we should submit it in protest to the neutral armistice commission. If necessary, our protests should carry all the way to the UN council tables in New York. The spotlight glare of world publicity may stop what no ordinary complaints would likely interrupt.

"PROSPEROUS" M. P.'S

Looking for some way in which to honor the memory of the late Gordon Graydon, one hundred of his friends have hit upon the idea of raising a substantial sum for his estate by private subscription. Interesting and desirable as this project is in itself, says The Toronto Star, there is a fact associated with it which too many people do not realize, namely, that men in public life often serve at a sacrifice of their own private businesses and with no adequate compensation as the ultimate result of their public services.

Everyone has heard people talking disparagingly about "those politicians" who get $6,000 per year as members of parliament, $2,000 of it non-taxable. Many envy them their stipend; some criticize them for voting it to themselves. Apart from that, the word politician is used too often in a derogatory sense. The politicians who make democracy work, and in Canada they are, by and large, a fine body of people.

The case of Gordon Graydon is a reminder that being an M.P. is usually no gold mine. The member often has to let his private business fall behind. Mr. Graydon had no chance to develop his law practice as he otherwise might have done. There are many handicaps. A member has to live in two places — his home town and Ottawa. He has to spend money at intervals on getting elected. He is a shining mark for everybody collecting funds for anything. That experienced old political war horse, Col. Kennedy, says "the man does not live who can serve his people in public life and make any amount of money — that is the simple fact of the situation." The statement is too sweeping, but it is true of the average member of parliament.

His job is not a bed of roses. His constituents are always after him for this and that. And he gets more criticism than thanks for what he does. Few do as much or as well as Mr. Graydon did. But many are devoted to their work at Ottawa to an extent which interferes with their own business and family life.

FRINGE BENEFITS STUDIED IN SEARCH FOR NEW TAX SOURCES

By DOUGLAS LARSEN NEA Washington Correspondent Washington — (NEA) — In its eager search for new tax sources, the Internal Revenue Service has turned a hard eye on the whole area of fringe benefits.

It's a complex, controversial subject. New legislation would probably be needed to make them an important new tax source. But it could be made to produce untapped millions for the U.S. Treasury, IRS officials believe.

There are a thousand-and-one examples of so-called fringe benefits. Dining rooms for executives serve meals at prices below what it costs to buy and prepare the food. At the end of the year, an executive saves maybe a couple hundred dollars this way. Yet he pays no tax on this equivalent of extra income, although the company includes it as an expense for its tax purposes.

Transit company employees get free rides for themselves and their families. This is worth a couple hundred dollars a year.

Department store employees receive big discounts on their purchases at the store. Restaurant employees get free meals.

Those are some of the smaller items which come under the general category of fringe benefits as the IRS expert analyzes it. Court cases and previous rulings have pretty well marked them as a factor in reportable income. And new laws could make them reportable income.

Wage-Earner Benefits Are Expanding

A relatively new and expanding field of other benefits going to just about every wage earner in the U.S. is what really interests IRS officials. Health insurance plans are an example.

A firm pays all or part of an employee's hospitalization and medical insurance. IRS sees it as a form of compensation. But it isn't reported as an employee's earned income, in most cases.

Another firm maintains elaborate medical facilities for its employees and their families. This form of free medical attention is worth a great deal to the employee. It's a real, tangible form of compensation, IRS officials point out. Yet it is not taxable and the company charges it off as an expense.

The cost is deductible by the firm and the recipient pays no tax on it.

Recreation facilities and low-cost cafeterias are two more examples of increasingly popular benefits companies are providing. Many firms are providing free or low-cost vacation facilities as a form of compensation, but not taxable under current regulations.

Executive vacations and recreation have also become an especially popular tax gimmick by large corporations. This gets into the whole area of just what are legitimate business expenses, which the IRS is also looking into very carefully with an eye on extra revenues. There have been widespread abuses of the business-expense deductions, it is felt.

Retirement Plans Are To Be Studied

Also in the category of fringe benefits is the retirement plan. The problem of taxing retirement funds and payments is also very complex. But tougher interpretations and new laws could produce more revenues for the treasury, revenue service officials believe.

The previous tax exemption of most fringe items is one of the things which has made them an increasingly important question in union bargaining. Any fringe benefit a union wins for its members is enhanced by being tax free.

There's no official estimate of what the total value is of all fringe benefits given to all employees per year. A rough guess places it near the billion-dollar category. If the average U.S. wage earner gets $20 a year worth of them, the total is more than $124 billion.

This at least makes it an interesting source of previously untaxed income, revenue service officials believe.

One of the problems of trying to tap this source is its cost of administration. It could be prohibitively high. Some way would have to be found to include it in the present pay-as-you-go system.

Certainly the idea would be fought by the unions and other groups.

CITIES STAGNATE FROM CENTRE

Windsor Star It is a feature of cities in these modern times that they stagnate from the centre out. If one wishes to prove this for himself all he need do is to take a walk in practically any city on this continent and see conditions which exist within a few blocks from the main downtown section.

Mr. George W. Barton, traffic expert from Northwestern University at Chicago, was saying nothing new when he remarked upon this to the International Municipal Congress in Montreal. But he was telling it to an audience composed of those most interested in the problem. And he was not wrong when he attributed this condition to traffic conditions.

The reason property adjacent to the downtown business district deteriorates in value simply is its inaccessibility. Instead of new business buildings, stores, etc., being erected on it, these tend to go to outlying parts where clients and customers have easy access.

The problem is one of primary concern to businesses in the downtown area, because they find customers and clients going elsewhere when they would be glad to come downtown except for the traffic situation. But it is of equal concern to the community as a whole.

As much of the downtown area is allowed to depreciate into slums or semi-slums, assessment values diminish. Potentially very valuable property returns less and less to city exchequers. Instead of fine office buildings, stores and apartment houses, the areas are filled with decrepit old buildings. Instead of fine, prosperous thoroughfares, the streets become skid rows; a source of crime, disease and unhappiness.

This continuous and enlarging stagnation of cities cannot be halted without a determined and successful solution to traffic difficulties. It isn't just a matter of civic pride and convenience that these be overcome. It is good business, from an economic viewpoint, to keep valuable property from becoming almost valueless.

Construction Work Has Started On Huge N.B. Military Camp

By JACK MacBETH Ottawa. — Work has started in the heart of New Brunswick on Camp Gagetown, the biggest military construction project in Canada's peacetime history.

The camp is situated in an area where nearly two centuries ago a small band of sturdy United Empire Loyalists hacked slowly into the green wilderness. Nowadays the same wooded hills again echo to the sound of the ax, the saw and falling trees as skilled woodsmen, some descendants of the early settlers, clear the ground.

Covering 436 square miles and costing an ultimate $40,000,000, the camp will dwarf Canadian Army camps of the past and will approach the size of many similar installations in the United States. Camp Gagetown will offer almost every type of training ground a military commander could imagine. There are hills rising to 1,500 feet; there are marshes, lakes and streams; open fields and dense woods.

A divisional training ground, it will be equipped to handle 15,000 men. But most important is the camp potential function as a jump-off depot for shipment of troops to Europe in event of another war on that continent.

Climatically, troops will be able to train in zero weather on snow-covered ground, or they can go through their exercises under a baking sun. About 17,000 acres have been burned over in the past by forest fires.

A senior army officer was asked if there would be facilities for guided missiles and rocket training. He replied "perhaps," but added that the army's chief training ground for these weapons is at Cold Lake, 150 miles northeast of Edmonton.

Cost of the Gagetown project has been broken down this way: construction, $25,000,000; land, $10,000,000; miscellaneous, more than $1,000,000. As a start, only 4,000 acres are to be cleared, but this area will increase as the camp grows.

When completed, the camp will be twice the size of Wainwright in Alberta; three times the size of Camp Shilo in Manitoba; four times Camp Borden in Ontario and seven times Camp Petawawa, Ont.

But it will be some time before the camp will be completed, at least three years or more. Roughly oval in shape, the site lies between Fredericton and Saint John. It is bordered on the east by the St. John river and on the west by Highway No. 2A. The Canadian National Railways' valley line, linking Fredericton and Saint John, runs along the northern fringe.

This makes it ideally situated as a jump-off for overseas action. An official, noting the position of the CNR track, said the railway has agreed to improve this section of the line, bringing it to "full transcontinental standards." The Canadian Pacific Railway also could serve the camp area through Fredericton Junction, if that became necessary.

Camp Gagetown is about five miles from the Fredericton municipal airport. At present Trans-Canada Air Lines operates a daily service through the airport from Montreal to Halifax. By road the camp can be reached from Montreal either through Riviere du Loup, Que., Edmundston, Woodstock and Fredericton, N.B., or through Maine.

Thus, along the ground or by air, men and equipment could move quickly to the port of Saint John and onward.

Clearing operations are well under way. Giant piles of timber, some as high as 75 feet, are ready to be burned. Actual construction of the camp is scheduled to start next spring.

Col. Basil Campbell, assistant deputy minister of defence, says the first troops should be able to move into the camp some time in the spring of 1956. He is supervising the current phase of the project.

Meanwhile, he says there still are a few problems which must be overcome. Biggest is the matter of land titles.

He said there originally were 1,083 individual properties in the area taken over by the government. Settlements have been reached in more than 600 cases. Another 125 settlements are expected, covering properties still to be appraised. The overall problem of settling the land question may "take months," he says.

For the most part residents were happy with the settlement, but some persons were holding out for more money.

Originally, four possibilities were considered for the site. Two were quickly eliminated, leaving the area finally selected and one near Saint John.

The government asked an independent team of six engineers from various parts of New Brunswick and Nova Scotia to survey the possible sites.

In a lengthy report, the engineers said they had compared them on the basis of 11 factors: General topography; character of the terrain and the wood on it; water supply; sewage disposal; electrical supply; telegraph and telephone facilities; railroad and highway facilities and proximity to embarkation ports; proximity to TCA, climatic conditions; accessibility to the training grounds and availability of building materials.

With only two exceptions—telephone and telegraph facilities and building materials—the engineers ruled in favor of the present site.

The name "Gagetown" itself was born several generations ago. A group of 17 families, stubbornly loyal to the British crown, had

IT'S YOUR DEAL...

By OSWALD JACOBY and ALFRED SHEINWOLD

"An argument arose recently in our poker game that requires the attention of an expert," writes a Chicago correspondent. "In a game of dealer's choice, the dealer announced seven-card stud with deuces wild. Our betting limit is one white chip for the first three rounds, and two white chips for the last two rounds or whenever there is an open pair on the table.

"The dealer gave everybody two down cards and one up card, and naturally there was no open pair at this moment. Somebody opened with a bet of one white chip, the next player called with one white chip, and I threw in three white chips—calling the bet and raising it two white chips.

"This is what caused the argument. I said that the limit applied only to the original bet, but not to the raises. The others said that whenever the limit for a bet was one white chip there was the same limit for a raise.

"Who is right?" "The other players were right. The limit for raises is the same as the limit for a bet. Hence our correspondent could put in two white chips at most—calling the bet and raising it one.

Each player has the same right to raise, of course, and the eventual bet may get to be quite high. For example, the next player may call the bet of two white chips and raise one more, making a total bet of three white chips. Then the next player might raise again, to four chips, and so on. But nobody can raise the previous bet by more than one chip.

Q—Is it right for a player who goes out to throw in his hand face up so that all the other players may see his cards?

A—No. The player should fold his hand face down and thus make sure that nobody else sees his cards. If his cards are seen, some active player may have an advantage, and some other player a corresponding disadvantage. The player who is going out has no right to do anything that gives an advantage or a disadvantage to anybody who is still in the pot.

declined to accept the result of the American revolutionary war. They moved northward to the hilly country along the lower reaches of the St. John river. Some 250,000 acres of land were made available by the British government.

This represented part of an original 400,000-acre grant awarded to senior officers of the British 44th regiment. Among them had been Gen. Thomas Gage, successor to Lord Jeffrey Amherst as commander of British forces in America.

In his honor, although historians doubt that he ever visited the area, the United Empire Loyalists named their settlement "Gagetown," and it quickly grew into a thriving, happy community. That was in the late 1780s.

Today, as civilization moves in to the site of the hydrogen bomb and the threat of another world war, Canadians have turned again to this quiet corner of a quiet province.

"Is the Lieutenant still on? ... Can you manage to look like a lawyer for a while tomorrow? Got a sim lead, I'm going to try something in the Chronicle."

In the quiet office Lieutenant Linstrum poured over a sheaf of stage-prop briefs, uncomfortable in his role.

He said, "Doc, this setup looks screwy. How you get any results playing these games I'll never know."

"A whispered 'Shhhhh' came from behind the slightly open inner door. "There's someone coming."

"A little, mild-mannered man entered. "Solicitor Linstrum?" "Yes?"

"I've come about your ad in the Chronicle. I lived most of my life in Lancashire."

Doc Hawes stepped into the office. "Oh, it's our 'Mr. Harris. How are you, sir?"

The man was startled, ran. "Grab him, Lieutenant. That's our firebug!"

At police headquarters, the Lieutenant asked, "Mind telling me now, Doc, how you baited this fish?"

"Simple," said the Doc, smiling. "Few men can resist the chance at some easy money. Here's the ad I ran in the Chronicle."

The little rectangle read: "Atorney, settling large estate, requires point of information that can be supplied only by a former resident of Lancashire, England. Most liberal reward." "Lieutenant?"

"About twenty years."

Ton of Money It takes 30,000 silver dollars to make a ton.

Best Students Cross-eyed and near-sighted children are usually the best students.

Enriches Woodwork Newly finished woodwork is often antiqued to give it a rich tone.

SHOOT STORY

The Firebug

By Daniel Shifren

Dr. Hawes made whipping motions his staff interpreted as "Grab the extension, quick!"

Sadie Pruitt lifted a phone; then Hewitt Stevenson, Dr. Hawes' expert in things linguistic.

Lieutenant Linstrum was saying "Doc, against my better judgment, the commissioner and the rest of the boys thought you ought to be called in on this case."

Dr. Hawes had been a psychiatrist until one of his cases caused him to see the application of psychology to criminal detection.

"Lieutenant, don't tell me only the commissioner. How about the business men whose properties are endangered by this firebug?"

The Lieutenant's voice cracked. "The business men too!"

Doc suppressed a laugh. "The case interests me. But first, your department lets the story out to the papers that Doc Hawes has been called in." The howl was just what Hawes expected. "Listen. Lieutenant, I like publicity, as you may have heard, but that doesn't matter here. I know these arsonists. Play ball or I can't be much help."

Hawes observed the pleasant reactions in his staff, waiting for the silence to break.

"Okay, Doc, I hope you know what you're doing."

Stevenson had the tape recorder ready; the front-page story in the Chronicle was spread out.

The waiting was getting to be monotonous. Doc eyed the phone morosely. But this time it pealed.

The stranger said, "Dr. Hawes, I've been an admirer of yours ... Doc knew who it was immediately. "Do you have any ideas on nabbing the culprit?"

To keep the man talking, Doc Hawes asked who was calling and wanted to trace the call, and for Stevenson to start the recorder.

"My name is Harry," said the stranger. "Just an admirer you see."

"Thanks for your interest, Mr. Harris. No, I don't have much of an idea. This arsonist is a very clever man and is going to be hard to catch."

Hawes heard a delighted laugh. He fed the conversation until Stevenson signaled "enough."

Stevenson played the tape back. "Initially, that's Lancashire, glossed over some by residence in America. Afraid that's all I have on this one, Doc."

"You mean Lancashire, England," Stevenson nodded.

Sadie Pruitt said the call had fizzled. It had come from a drug store.

"Is the Lieutenant still on? ... Can you manage to look like a lawyer for a while tomorrow? Got a sim lead, I'm going to try something in the Chronicle."

SKILL AND LUCK GO TOGETHER IN GAME

"What about this young team that won the national championship this year?" people often ask me. "Were they good, or were they lucky?"

The answer is that they were very good and shrewdly lucky. Even a very good team has to be slightly lucky to win its way to the championship, but no team can get there on luck alone. The youngsters are fine players, and they will do us credit in the world championship match next year in Europe.

Today's hand was played in the team championship by William A. Rosen, the 24-year-old college student who won the two principal events in the national championships. He got to a perfectly normal but very difficult contract in today's hand, and he played it with flawless technique.

The opening bid and the response were merely exploratory bids and were not intended to guarantee real suits.

West opened the deuce of hearts, and Rosen won in his own hand with the king. It was clear that he would get to dummy only once or twice at most. One diamond finesse wouldn't do him much good even if it worked, so Rosen led the jack of diamonds from his hand at the second trick.

East took the king of diamonds and led another heart, dummy winning with the ace. Now Rosen used this entry to dummy for a suit in which one lead from dummy could do some good. In other words, he led a club from dummy. East played low, and declarer put up the king, winning the tricks.

There was still work to be done. Declarer cashed the ace of diamonds, dropping West's ten, and the low diamond to dummy's nine, and returned to his hand with the queen of hearts to cash the queen of diamonds. Having taken seven tricks, he got out with a low club, hoping that the opponents would have to give him two spade tricks.

East took the club trick with the ace and returned a club to West's queen. West cashed his last heart and then led a low spade. This gave South his choice. Should he play the ten or the queen of spades from dummy?

This was actually no problem at all. East surely had the king of spades, for otherwise he would have led a spade after he had taken his ace of clubs. Hence Rosen played the ten of spades from dummy and thus assured his contract with two spade tricks.

CARD SENSE Q—The bidding has been: North East South West 1 Heart Pass 1 Spade Pass 1 N.T. Pass

You, South, hold Spades K-Q-J-8-7-3, Hearts Q-J-3-2, Diamond 4, Clubs 7-6. What do you do?

A—Bid four hearts. You want to be in a game opposite almost any kind of opening bid. There is no point in bidding only three hearts since you wouldn't dream of passing three no-trump and it would be tragic if your partner decided that this was the one time in ten years that it might be wise for him to pass a forcing bid.

TODAY'S QUESTION The bidding is the same as in the question just answered. You, South, hold: Spades K-Q-J-8-7-3, Hearts 9-2, Diamonds K-5-4, Clubs 7-6. What do you do?

Labor, Capital Discussed In Optimist's Talk

At their weekly dinner meeting in the LaSalle Hotel, Sherbrooke Optimists last night heard an address concerning labour relations delivered by W.F. Clifford, personnel manager of the St. Lawrence Paper Co., East Angus.

President of the Club, Paul Nadeau, opened the meeting and Ivan Dugre introduced other guests, Arthur Weldon of Montreal and Lionel Caron, Sherbrooke.

Introduced by Henry Crocheffiere, Mr. Clifford spoke about the "Labour Problem" which, if ironed out, will ensure industrial peace which is what allows us to "get on with our jobs."

"The capitalist of today, he or she who invests capital in a given enterprise, realizes full well that there are two kinds of capital required to run a business," Mr. Clifford said. "There is capital as it is commonly known, cold hard cash, but there is also another kind of capital, capital presented by the loyalty, integrity and enthusiasm of the workers employed in a business without which it would be impossible for a business to function."

"We thus arrive at the realization that the true position of management is that of a "trustee" of the interest of both—with a duty to ensure that each receives the fair share of the earnings of the business by way of dividends, wages, improved working conditions and other amenities."

Mr. Clifford referred his listeners to the past progress in which they might find a formula which will solve the "apparently conflicting interests of management and labour and enable them to work together in confidence and harmony."

Defining first the meaning of "organized labour" he said that "it does not embrace only the workers employed in an industry but also their executives, agents and organizers."

Of the slow although steady progress as shown by organized labour, it can be said that "the industrial policy of a progressive concern should make provisions for something like a bill of rights, obtained through and with the aid of proper governmental legislation to represent and protect the employees from all spheres of the industrial wheel, and some kind of judicial tribunal for the protection of the rights of both the workers and management against encroachment by either parties."

The speaker was thanked by Amedee Roy.

LEGION PLAY AT DRUMMONDVILLE: Branch 51 of the Canadian Legion at Drummondville again came through with a successful play, when they presented a three-act comedy recently in the Legion hall. The play is the story of a young Canadian family and an amazing miracle that changes their lives. It depicts the life of Henderson Ruggles, breadwinner of the family whose ambition is to make his family happy, but who is constantly being nagged, kept on the verge of bankruptcy by his wife, all of which provides some hilarious scenes. The play is scheduled to be presented in St. Hyacinthe, October 15th, Richmond, 29th, and Drummondville, November 29th. Shown in the above picture are the amateur actors who have pooled their talents to present this amusing tale. They are in front, from left to right: Ellen Messier, Harsell, Fredi Spence, Jean Ray, Pauline St. Martin, Sue Simson, H. B. Wolsey, Eddy Innes. Third row, same order: Charles Harsell, George Cartwright, Henri Lecuyer, Tony Brady, Keith Fraser, Jack MacPherson, Garnet Woolsey, and Ben Messier. (Les Studios Drummond Photo)

S. P. C. A. Asks For Unwanted Young Kittens

The Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals asks that owners of female cats give their kittens to the Society, either for humane destruction or to be placed. If they cannot place the young cats themselves, the S.P.C.A. will see that the animals are dispatched painlessly by a veterinarian or placed in homes where they will be treated kindly.

Cases investigated by the S.P.C.A. show that there are men who will take kittens by the hind legs and tear them in two and women who, in fits of anger, will smash young cats against the wall and kill them.

It is far better to permit the S.P.C.A. to pick up unwanted animals and thus help to stamp out this terrible cruelty. Anyone wishing to get rid of cats is asked to phone Inspector F. J. Thompson at 3-2172 or Mrs. J. W. Neilson at 3-3228. This work is made possible by donations of animal lovers in this district.

Fire Prevention Is Everybody's Business

This is Fire Prevention Week. This is also the time of the year when several unnecessary fires break out.

Director Percy Donahue and his staff are asking the co-operation of every citizen to help make this week—and every week—a fire prevention week.

Today four groups of firemen are circulating in the city, putting up posters, inspecting, and safeguarding the community.

This afternoon the schools will be inspected and these inspections will continue for the next couple of days.

Leading fire inspecting groups are: Capt. E. Fortier, L. P. Harton, Capt. Charles Audet and Capt. H. Donahue. Fire Inspector Wilfrid Lapierre is accompanying Capt. Donahue.

Fire prevention is an all-out joint effort. School children, property owners, tenants, and even visitors are asked to remember that a lighted cigarette butt, thrown away carelessly, may burn down a house and take a life or lives.

Do be careful.

Scouters Will Hold Conference At North Hatley

Most of the 24 Scout districts of the Province will be represented at the 18th Provincial Scouters Conference which will be held over Thanksgiving week-end at North Hatley, according to an announcement from Provincial Scout Headquarters. G. Robley Mackay of Montreal, the Provincial Commissioner, will be general chairman, and it is expected that 175 or more adult leaders of Wolf Cubs, Boy Scouts and Rover Scouts will sit down for the opening dinner on Saturday at 6 p.m.

The guest of honour will be R. D. F. Bourne of Hamilton, Ont. He is Assistant Regional Commissioner for Rover Scouts in South Central Ontario, and was born in Longueuil, Que., and started his Scouting career in 1910. John L. MacGregor, Executive Commissioner for Training at Canadian Scout Headquarters, will speak after lunch on Sunday; and Major General D. C. Spry, C.B.E., D.S.O., C.D., retiring Chief Executive Commissioner for Canada, will be introduced by Jackson Dodds, C.B.E., of Montreal, Deputy Chief Scout for Canada, and will bid farewell to Scout leaders in this province before he leaves next week to take up his new duties in Britain as Director of the International Scout Bureau.

After the opening dinner on Saturday evening, the conference dance will be held. Sunday's programme will include divine services at 8 a.m. and a Scouts' Own at 10 o'clock conducted by Rev. Elton Scott of Bishop's College, Lennoxville; morning and afternoon conference sessions on the theme of the conference—understanding and training boys—and informal talks, singing and practical demonstrations. The conference findings will be reviewed on Monday morning by Mr. Bourne, and General Spry will speak following the closing luncheon at noon, after which the delegates will disperse.

At a recent meeting in Montreal, Mr. Mackay stressed the importance of this annual gathering and expressed the hope that all districts would be well represented by both uniformed leaders and interested laymen.

"I suppose I'll have to buy another tent," said the father, E. R. Hudson, 40-year-old fencing contractor.

But the New South Wales housing minister, Clive Evatt, promised the much-enlarged family a house. He said the state government is building three houses at Gilgandra and the Hudsons will be allotted the first one finished.

COURT ORDER HALTS

Glasgow — (AP) — Britain's dock troubles spread to Glasgow today as 3,000 longshoremen quit work here to force two union members to play back dues.

The strike affected 20 ships and brought the busy port to a standstill.

Further south, a wildcat strike of more than 5,600 men at the twin ports of Liverpool and Birkenhead went into its second day, leaving 47 ships idle.

The dockers walked off the job Monday to enforce reinstatement of a 29-year-old longshoreman who was said to have been fired after refusing to switch from one ship to another.

By midday of Liverpool's 15,000 dock workers stayed on the job.

The Scottish strike began at the Shieldhall dock. Strikers said two men employed at the dock have consistently refused to pay up their union dues despite repeated demands from the Scottish Transport and General Workers' Union.

Halifax — The last of five special trains bound for New York with passengers from the liner Queen Mary, left here Monday night while poor flying weather delayed the departure of other passengers.

More than 1,800 persons were cleared through customs and immigration after the 81,000-ton Queen, second largest ship afloat, docked here in a diversion from New York where a dockers' strike tied up the waterfront until today.

Thousands of people flocked to the Seawall to see the palatial, multi-decked ship sitting majestically alongside piers 20 and 21, two of Halifax's largest.

The liner will not go to New York this trip despite the end of the United States strike, Cunard officials here said.

The Queen Mary will remain here until Thursday afternoon, when she will begin the eastern run across the Atlantic. The Canadian National Railways announced in New York Monday that four boat-trains will leave the American city tonight with more than 1,000 passengers for the ship.

Stevadores handled baggage and mail after the liner docked Monday, despite instructions from International Longshoremen's Association headquarters in New York that they refuse to work diverted ships.

The stevedores have also begun unloading the Queen Mary's cargo.

Lebanon Sends Symbolic Tree To Granby

Granby, Que. — (AP) — Granby will soon be on a level with Washington and Cairo as far as a certain type of cedar tree is concerned.

The tree, gift of the Lebanese government, will be planted in this Eastern Townships centre Saturday by Ramez Shamma, Lebanese consul-general in Canada.

As the tree is symbolic in Lebanon, a special act of Parliament was necessary before it could be taken from the country. Only two others have been sent out since the state gained independence seven years ago, one to the White House and the other to former King Farouk's palace in Cairo.

The tree was brought to Granby by Wafiq S. Ajouz, general inspector of the Middle East Airlines and a close relative of Mido Ariss, a Granby resident.

Mr. Ajouz also brought a Lebanese flag, a gift from Mayor Abdul Karim Sibai of Beirut, to Granby's mayor P. Price Boivin.

New Garage On Lennoxville Road Serving Motorists

Eddie Paquin Operates White Rose Station

Motorists of Sherbrooke and district will receive fast, efficient, and courteous service at the new Paquin garage, on the Sherbrooke-Lennoxville highway.

Eddie Paquin's new White Rose station has a spacious garage, where a staff of specially-trained mechanics will give your car first class service. In addition, there is a section set aside for paint jobs only.

The garage is modernly equipped with the latest tools and equipment. Upstairs in the garage is the office and a stock room, where new and used car parts will be sold. The office is finished in varnished plywood.

Two gas pumps will provide the required gasoline, while a hydraulic hoist will serve motorists who wish to have their oil changed, tires repaired, or any other service which involves lifting the car.

On the side of the station is a large parking lot where Mr. Paquin keeps an assortment of second hand cars. These cars are selling at very low prices. Paquin garage also buys old wrecks, which are rebuilt and then sold.

Eddie Paquin is not new to the garage business, having been connected with that line all his life.

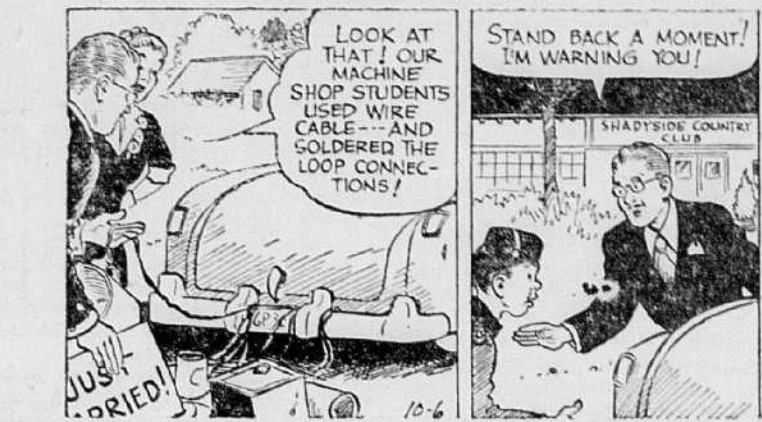

After taking a brief rest, he is starting up in business again and will continue to give the same good and dependable service as in the past.

Prof. Angus Banting Guest Speaker At Brome County Farm Forum Rally

Knowlton, Oct. 6 — The fall rally of the Brome County Farm Forum was held in the Knowlton High School on Wednesday evening, September 30, with a good attendance present.

M. Donald Hastings, county president, was chairman for the evening, which was opened by singing O Canada. A sing-song followed, with Mrs. G. Claude Whitcher at the piano. The new provincial secretary, Keith Russell, was introduced by Stanley Hardaker, of Knowlton. Mr. Russell gave a very informative talk in regard to the Farm Forum program.

Prof. Angus Banting of Macdonald College was then introduced by Karl Steimbach, of Mansonville, a former pupil of Prof. Banting. The guest speaker gave a review of the plowing competition held at Macdonald College earlier in the year, and also ploughing matches. He also stressed the many precautions to be taken with tractors to prevent accidents. One of the worst habits is allowing children to ride or play on them.

Prof. Banting brought greetings from Dean Britain and expressed the latter's regrets in not being able to attend. The guest speaker then presented a very handsome trophy to the team from this county which won the Tractor Ploughing Competition at Macdonald College this summer. The members of the team were called to the front for the presentation, namely Fred Shufelt of East Farnham, Edgar Lawrence of Sutton Junction, Allen Whitcher of Foster, and John Beerwort of Brome Center, who was unavoidably absent, was represented by his mother Mrs. R. Y. Beerwort. These young men were congratulated for their fine efforts on this first competition. The trophy will be held one month by each of the four members of the team, and it will then be put in the Knowlton High School for exhibit until next year.

The chairman Donald Hastings extended an invitation to any members to go by bus to the International Ploughing Match at Coburg, Ont., next week. The bus will be leaving Sutton on Wednesday night, spending Thursday at the match and leaving Thursday night to arrive home Friday morning.

Alfred Smith of Sutton Junction gave a report of the booth conducted at Brome Fair by the County Forum. Mr. Smith, who gave much of his time during the four days, stated that the sum of $250 had been cleared, and that there was still quite a bit of maple syrup on hand to be disposed of. A hearty vote of thanks was tendered Mr. Smith for his untiring efforts.

G. Claude Whitcher of the Farm Forum Council, was asked to give a report of the recent meeting at Macdonald College when he attended as county representative.

Following this interesting report Mr. Whitcher called on Keith Bradley to come to the front and accept a gift from the Brome County Forum in anticipation of his approaching marriage on Saturday. Mr. Bradley kindly thanked the assembly on behalf of himself and his bride-elect.

Among the Forum's representatives from the county were Sutton, Sutton Junction, Knowlton District, Dunkin, North Potton, Mansonville, Shonyo Mountain, Beaver Pond, East Farnham, and Creek Forum. Members of the Frost Village Forum in Shefford County were also guests, as well as many other interested friends.

Fish Finding Device Being Tested At Nfld.

St. John's Nfld. — An electrically-operated device for finding fish has been tested in Newfoundland waters, and results are said to have been favorable.

Known as a "fischlupe," the mechanism sends signals to the bottom of the sea which bounce back and are picked up by an oscillator attached to the bottom of the trawler.

The signals—actually images of light—are relayed to the wheel house where an indicator equipped with cathode ray tube reproduces the image.

Any fish or other obstructions between the bottom of the ship and the sea floor are clearly shown on the glass screen.

Capt. Baxter Blackwood, skipper of the trawler which gave the "lupe" its first test, says that with experience it will be possible to identify different kinds of fish, density of the school and the area over which it extends, and distance from the bottom of the ship.

The device may have the effect of replacing deep-water trawls with ones close to the surface. Research is presently under way in England to develop a floating trawl.

Capt. Blackwood says the lupe "takes the guess work out of fishing."

Receiving were Mrs. E. T. Harbert, regent, wearing a gown of silver grey velvet, and Mrs. E. Hall, wife of Major E. P. Hall, second in command of the Sherbrooke Regiment, who was in black taffeta.

The gleaming gold damask cloth formed the rich setting for the colorful arrangement of gladioli, 'mums and Burgundy candles in silver candelabra and the silver punch bowl on the large table in the mess, against a background of Union Jacks and portraits of royalty on the walls. And in the billiard room, the table featured a large crystal epergne of bronze and yellow baby 'mums, snowberries, oak leaves and fruit which harmonized with the deep wine candles in crystal holders.

The flower arrangements were the donation of Hovey's, florists.

M. N. D. Alumnae Reminds Members Of Reunion

A cordial invitation has been extended to all former pupils of Mont Notre Dame to attend the annual reunion of the Alumnae Association to be held at the Convent on Sunday, October 12.

The day's activities will begin with a special Mass celebrated in the convent chapel at 8:30 after which the retiring alumnae will be guests of Reverend Mother Superior and the religious of Mont Notre Dame at breakfast served in the refectory.

The program will be resumed in the afternoon with registration at 2:30, and Benediction of the Most Blessed Sacrament and veneration of the relic of Blessed Marguerite Bourgeoys at 3:00. A short business session, presided over by the president, Mrs. William H. Veilleux (Stella Hawkins) will be held at 3:30, to be followed by the election and installation of a new slate of officers. After presentation of class emblems to the students of the graduating course a period of school day reminiscences between former pupils and teachers will be the order of the day, doubtless to continue during tea to be served in the gymnasium at 5:30.

An event of historical importance is presently being marked by the religious of the Congregation of Notre Dame, that of the arrival from France 300 years ago, on September 21, 1653, of Marguerite Bourgeoys, the founder of their Order. From the very modest beginning in 1653 of a school in a stable in Ville Marie, the Sisters of the Congregation of Notre Dame now teach throughout Canada, in the United States and have missions in Japan.

THREE EXCITING FLAVORS

Autumn Season Is Time To Prepare Home For Winter

Wood Paneling Can Enrich Any Room

Nothing else can transform a room quite so completely as wood paneling. And part of the beauty of it is that it's so easy, and takes so little time, to install. Saw, hammer and nail-set are the only woodworking tools needed.

The home handyman who picks tongue-and-groove lumber for paneling has a great variety of woods and widths to choose from. Narrow widths are becoming popular in modern settings, and are an advantage in that they can be "blind nailed" through the tongues so that no nail heads show on the faces of the boards.

The simplest way to panel with tongue-and-groove lumber is to fasten the boards horizontally. No furring strips are needed on plaster walls, for the boards can be nailed directly to wall studs. Windows and other openings in the walls create no problem, because the paneling, being flush on the wall, can be butted against door and window trim.

Vertical paneling, on the other hand, must be nailed to furring strips that are first nailed horizontally to studs. These 1x2-inch strips bring the wall out nearly an inch, of course, so that it extends beyond window and door trim.

The easy way out is to use vertical paneling only on walls having no openings.

To apply paneling vertically, remove baseboards, then fasten horizontal furring strips two feet apart, driving nails at an angle into the studs. When all strips are nailed, cut paneling to length and lay out boards on the floor (connect tongues and grooves) the length of the wall.

If the space left for the last board in the lineup is much too small to fit the board, it is best to trim a little wood off both this board and the one at the opposite end, for equal balance.

Next, place the first board in a corner and face-nail it at the groove edge. Corner moldings cover this face-nailing. All other succeeding nails can be driven through the tongues. Use five-penny finishing nails.

Horizontal paneling is fastened in much the same way, except that there is no need to lay the boards out on the floor to test them for fit. The problem here is to obtain boards as long as the wall. If they can't be had, then staggered end joints butted at wall studs will have to do.

There are many "natural" finishes for paneling. One calls for simple sanding and waxing; another for plain clear lacquer; a third involves staining the boards before nailing, then sanding and waxing after they are in place. Shellac also makes a fine finish when steel-wooled to a dull gloss.

The latest trend is to combine rubbed-on pigmented coatings with final, clear finishes. The color is obtained by mixing oil colors with white enamel undercoat. The mixture is wiped on with a lint-free rag, against the grain of the wood.

Dark wood may be bleached to receive the color. Where a darker finish is desired on light wood, the oil colors are combined with natural-toned wood filler instead of enamel undercoater.

"Hokus-Pokus Show" Given At Magog

Magog, Oct. 6.—The Junior Red Cross is an important organization in the Magog High School, and the students give much of their time each year to further this worthy cause. The ways and means of raising funds for the J.R.C. vary considerably, but the most recent was a "hokus-pokus show" given last Saturday afternoon at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ronnie Minor on Merry Street South by their daughter Daphne and Sandra Olney.

The show consisted of sleight of hand tricks, card tricks, riddles, etc., and lasted for one half hour. A well planned event with lots of laughs and excitement, every boy and girl who attended found the show really worth while. Admission was fifteen cents, and the sponsors cleared $3.65. Of course, there were handicaps that kept the crowd down, but despite these, this first show encouraged the children enough to attempt another.

Progres de Magog and The Sherbrooke Telegram.

President Jack Peters of the Kiwanis Club paid tribute to the newspapers at his club's last Tuesday's dinner, and later stated that he and his members realize the importance of the press, and hope that everyone will stop to think of the importance attached to good newspaper coverage. He said his club has benefited tremendously from the support given by the local papers, and he and his members wished to show their appreciation at tonight's 6:30 dinner meeting at the Union Hotel here.

Oyster And Ham Supper At Magog Is Big Success

Magog, Oct. 6.—The fourth annual oyster and ham supper sponsored by St. Luke's Men's Club of St. Luke's Church in Magog was another success last Saturday, when a crowd of nearly 300 rallied for the two hour serving, 5.30 to 7.30 p.m.

The men's annual supper is an anxiously awaited event in Magog each year, especially for the women who appreciate the novelty of the event. Everything is prepared by the men, cooking, serving and all. The waiters even go so far as to wear white shirts and black bow ties.

Welcoming the guests were president John Medlyn and vice-president Roy Badger.

Fire Prevention Week At Magog Well Under Way

Magog, Que.—Chief of Magog's police and fire departments, Telesphore Lavoie and his ten men staff have started fire prevention week with a splash. Pamphlets have been distributed from door to door in the city cautioning people about the constant danger of fire, and questionnaires were given to the children in the schools to have filled out at home and return to their teachers who will in turn return them to the fire department.

Sunday, special appeals were made in each of the Magog churches, asking that everyone co-operate with the city in helping prevent fires. Also, the fire reels will tour the city with banners, reminding the citizens of their duty in helping prevent fires.

THE ALE OF PERFECT FLAVOUR

People In U. S. Multiplying Very Fast

Washington — (AP) — The people of the United States are multiplying faster than the experts thought they would.

Will the food supply keep pace with this rapid growth?

Agricultural economists in Washington are confident it can.

A year ago, the census bureau looked ahead and estimated that the population of the United States would reach 190,000,000 by 1975.

The bureau recently revised its thinking and has come up with a new forecast—close to 221,000,000 by that same year, if the trend of the last three years holds.

That would be about 61,000,000 more than now live in the United States.

Other nations—India and China—reached might proportions many years ago. They have been plagued with famine off and on for centuries. But U.S. government economists say they have slight fear that hunger ever will invade the United States.

India and China, they point out, were guilty of land waste and archaic farm practices.

The current food problem here is not one of shortage, but of surplus.

The carry-over from the 1952 United States wheat crop totalled 559,000,000 bushels, while this year's crop may produce an 800,000,000-bushels surplus. As a result, wheat farmers have voted to accept government production controls.

Agriculture department economists are training an eye on the future when the surplus problem conceivably could give way to shortage.

They conducted detailed studies of anticipated food needs on the basis of the census bureau's 190,000,000 population estimate for 1975.

These showed that such a population would need 27,500,000,000 pounds of meat.

Should the population actually rise to 221,000,000 in the next 22 years, it would require about 31,987,000,000 pounds—or roughly 50 per cent more than the United States produced last year.

It is clear that only a fraction of the additional food supply can come from pressing new lands into crop production.

There were 360,000,000 acres planted or growing in July. This is pretty close to maximum.

But government economists retain their optimistic outlook when they glance back over the record.

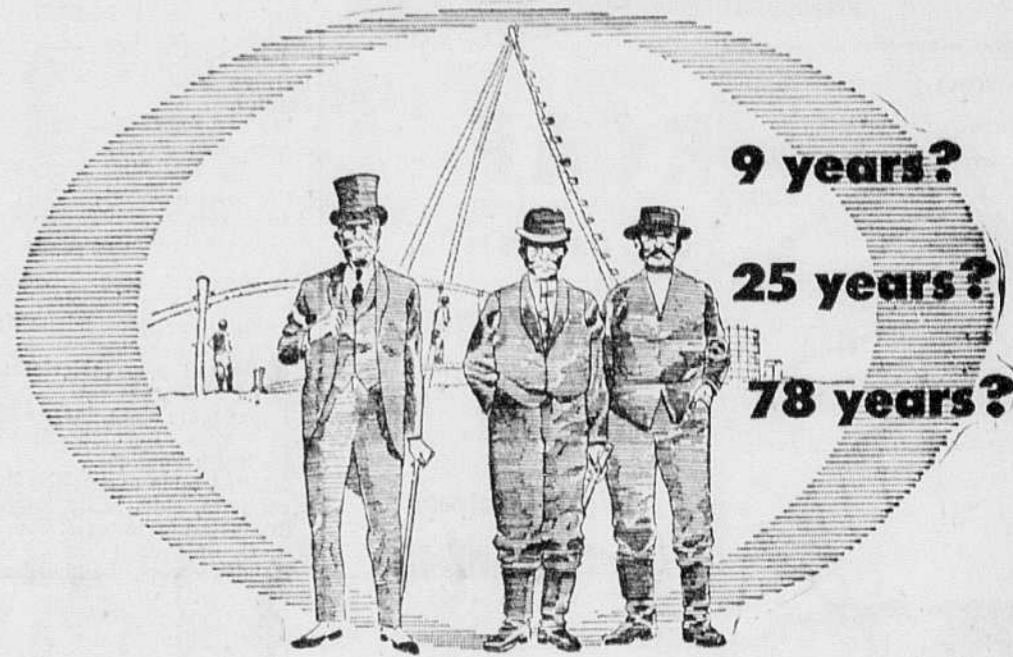

Through application of scientific methods, U.S. farmers were able to boost their average crop yield by 32 per cent an acre between the 1935-1939 and 1947-1951 periods. They also increased their average livestock production by 17 per cent a breeding unit.

How long does an oil well last?

The average well goes dry in 20 to 30 years. To keep your car rolling and your home warm, a new well must be found to take its place. That's why the search for oil never ends; why Imperial, for instance, spent almost $50 millions to find and develop new oil in western Canada last year.

Oil has become one of Canada's important industries. How many of these questions about it can you answer?

Which of the following contain petroleum

- lipstick? binder twine?
- printing ink? insect spray?

Oil is a part of all the products named and of hundreds of others which contribute to our everyday living.

In 1946 Canada produced less than 10% of the oil she used. How much of her needs does she produce now

- 18%? 40%? 55%?

About 40%—and we use twice as much as in 1946. Today's production would meet 80% of the demand at that time.

How many service stations would you say Imperial operates across Canada

- 12,500? 10,000? 0?

None. Approximately 10,000 stations carry the Imperial Esso sign, but they are operated by independent dealers, each in business for himself.

In oil field language, a "roughneck" is one of the crew of a drilling rig. What is a "toolpusher"?

- tool salesman? drilling foreman? motor mechanic?

Drilling foreman. Oil field slang is colorful. A "Christmas tree," for instance, is a combination of pipes and valves to regulate the flow of oil from a well.

Opinion surveys show that most Canadians believe a business is entitled to a profit of 15¢ on a dollar of revenue. Last year Imperial earned

- 7 1/2¢? 11¢? 19¢?

In 1952 Imperial earned a profit of 7 1/2¢ of each dollar received. Of this, 4¢ was paid to shareholders; the remaining 3 1/2¢ was used to replace worn-out equipment and to make sure we can supply your future oil needs.

Montreal Royals Down Kansas City 5-3 To Lead Little World Series 3-0; LaSorda Chalks Up Victory

Montreal — (AP) — Montreal Royals took a stranglehold on the little world series title Monday night by routing Kansas City Blues 5-3 to lead the best-of-seven affair 3-0.

It's a world series in more ways than one as the Royals, Governors' Cup winners of the International League, are the No. 1 team of Brooklyn Dodgers while the Blues are the top farm team of the New York Yankees.

The Yankees knocked the Dodgers off in six games in the world series.

Only 5,413 fans watched the contest in chilly weather. Little Tommy Lasorda (15-8) voted the International League's best left-hander, handcuffed the Blues on eight hits as he travelled the route, fanning five and walking three.

Left Bob Wiesler (8-7) allowed Montreal only five hits in the six innings he toiled but was charged with the loss. Mel Wright worked the last two innings without yielding a hit.

First baseman Rocky Nelson, recently sold to Cleveland Indians of the American League, led the winners at the plate. He had two singles and drove in three runs.

The Blues catcher, Jim Robertson, had a perfect three-for-three night while Bob Cerv hit his 25th home run of the season.

The Royals opened the scoring in the first frame with a pair of tallies. Leadoff man Roy Harris drew a base on balls and advanced to second when Dick Whitman was hit by one of Wiesler's wild heaves. Don Hoak then received a free pass to load the bases and Nelson's scratch infield hit drove in the two runs.

Whitman was replaced by Frank Marchio in left field when he bruised his arm going after a ball. Cerv clouted a homer over the centerfield fence in the third inning but the bases were empty.

Montreal made it 3-1 in the third when Marchio reached first on Wiesler's error and came home on Nelson's second single.

An error cost Kansas City another run in the fourth when Sandy Amoros singled and advanced to third when Elston Howard let the ball roll through his legs. Amoros scored on "Hartsfield's scratch hit."

The Blues got their second tally in the fifth. Robertson singled and came home on Jim Brideweser's sizzling liner to centre.

The Royals added another counter in the fifth when Hoak led off with a double to left and scored when Robertson threw wild to Moose Skwron at first.

The Blues scored again in the sixth when Vic Power, the association's leading batter, got his first hit of the series. Power advanced to second on Lasorda's wild pitch and tallied on Robertson's single to centre.

The fourth game of the series will be played at Kansas City Thursday. Ed Reebuck (15-4), a 22-year-old right-hander, will face Bob Ferris (5-5), the tall, lean right-hander he defeated in the opener.

S.H.S. Juniors Down Stanstead From Walking Race

Sherbrooke High was host to the junior boys from Stanstead College, handling the border town boys a 12-5 defeat.

The opening kick-off was received by the High School boys but their first two plays never got started due to fumbles. However, both fumbles were recovered by them, which were due to opening game nervousness.

When Stanstead took over, although fumbles were not prominent with them, they did not get very far at the start. Sherbrooke got possession of the ball for the second time and they settled down, making consistent gains from then on. About halfway during the first quarter, B. Sackstein took a pass from B. Forret at centre field and ran it all the way for the first touchdown. The convert was kicked by B. Forret and S.H.S. were ahead 6-0.

In the second quarter, after another High School fumble, Stanstead marched down the field to the S. H. S. six-yard line. With their backs against the wall, the S. H. S. team held and no score was made. The Sherbrooke boys came up with some fast running and good tackling when twice the same pass play was intercepted and the Stanstead intercepter seemed away and in the clear.

The same pass play was intercepted again in the third quarter and this time Berret ran it out for the Stanstead touchdown. The convert was blocked by Patton, who played very well from his centre secondary spot throughout the game. The score still was 6-5 for S.H.S. In spite of great defensive

Don Cockell Wins Over Bacilieri

Leicester, England — (AP) — British heavy-weight champion Don Cockell won a 10-round decision over Italian champion Uber Bacilieri in a non-title bout Monday night.

"Fat boy" Cockell, 215, slammed the game 195-pound Italian from beginning to end but couldn't knock him out. It was Cockell's first fight since he defeated American Harry Matthews in Seattle, Aug. 8.

efforts by Stanstead, a fast S.H.S. backfield found the holes opened by their linemen and Redway finally carried the ball over on a 30-yard run for the second S.H.S. touchdown. The convert was made by Forret, the score 12-5.

In the last quarter none of the offensive efforts paid off for either team. The officiating was ably looked after by W. Berwick and M. Coates.

Yankees Dressing Room

By TED SMITS
New York — (AP) — Casey Stengel, first major league manager ever to win five straight world series, told admiring friends Monday he has no intention of retiring, and praised his 1953 New York Yankees by saying "this club can do it easy."

Yankee reserve melted in the lavishly appointed dressing rooms. There was yelling and shouting, the flash of photographers' bulbs, and general hilarity.

Stengel was the centre of one group. Billy Martin, his spectacular young second baseman whose single in the ninth won the game, was the centre of another.

"I couldn't believe I did it," said Martin jubilantly. "It was a fast ball I hit. It was the biggest thrill of my life."

"This fellas, this Martin, has become a helluva ball player," said Stengel.

Stengel said that he took Whitey Ford out of the game in the eighth, and sent in Allie Reynolds because "I thought maybe he'd get caught if I let him in. They had big hitters coming up."

Stengel's manager, Chuck Dressen of Brooklyn Dodgers and Walter J. O'Malley, president of the Dodgers, were quick to offer their congratulations.

"You've got the best team I've played against in all these five years," said Stengel, grasping Dressen by the arm. "Your club can do everything—and mine can't."

"Next year," said Dressen quietly.

Yankees, who normally leave ball games, even world series games, as sedately as bankers filing out of a board meeting, were whooping it up as they came up the tunnel from their dugout and ran into a mass of photographers and newspapermen.

Martin took a terrific pounding on the back from his teammates before he got into the Yankee rooms.

Martin's screaming single, his 12th hit of the series, broke the record for a six-game series, and tied the record for a seven-game series.

It looked innocent enough at the time, when Ford failed to tag up after a long 370-foot fly ball by Berra in the second and was doubled at the plate. But as the game wore on, that run loomed larger and larger.

After Furillo's tying homer, the run was big enough to sprout goat's horns on Ford's brow for the rest of the winter. Fortunately for the chunky southpaw, Martin came to the rescue.

Carl Erskine started Monday's game but was in no way the trim fire-baller who struck out 14 Yankees Friday afternoon. The Yanks ripped into him for three runs and tied the first four innings as he tried to come back with only two days rest.

Stengel, only manager ever to win five straight pennants, let alone five series, would have been second guessed if he had lost this game.

For Old Case lifted Ford, who was trudging along with a 3-1 lead after seven full innings. Hank Bauer just yanked the fans to their feet with a sensational grab, near the right-field wall of Bobby Morgan's long pinch-hit fly when Stengel made up his mind to call for Allie Reynolds.

The Chief scraped through the eighth, although Bauer had to back to the wall for one catch and had to run down the foul line to grab another.

In the ninth Gil Hodges went out but Duke Snider, three times a strikeout victim of Ford, walked on a 3-2 pitch. Furillo also worked the count to 3-2 and then hammered a home run into the lower right-field seats about five rows past Bauer's desperately clutching hand.

Undisturbed by these heroics, Reynolds calmly struck out Billy Cox and Labine to break Red Ruffing's series career record with 62 strikeouts.

Martin's hit gave Reynolds his seventh World Series triumph, tying another mark held by ex-Yank Red Ruffing.

It seemed everybody broke some kind of a record. The clubs got 120 hits, a new high, and 17 home runs to erase another old standard.

Brooklyn, which never has won a series, now has lost seven straight although their series batting mark of .301 was among the best of all time.

It was the seventh straight American League series victory, making the standings read 33-7 in favor of the American. The National hasn't won since the St. Louis Cards whipped the Boston Red Sox in 1946.

The six-game hit mark broken by Martin was held jointly by Dave Robertson of the 1917 New York Giants and Monte Irvin of the '51 miracle Giants. But the all-time high for any length series is 12, held jointly by Joe Jackson, Buck Herzog, Sam Rice and Pepper Martin.

When manager Chuck Dressen of the Dodgers visited Stengel's clubhouse after the game to extend congratulations, Old Casey said "You're the best team I've played against in five years."

Stengel explained he had yanked Ford for Reynolds "because I was afraid he'd just caught."

The players have not announced how they split up their money.

set last year by the Brooks and Yanks.

Whatever Casey Stengel said to Ford in the fifth produced the right thing. All the time the Dodgers had two on and two out with the count one ball and no strikes on Gilliam. After Stengel's conference with Ford, Gilliam fanned on three straight pitches.

Allie Reynolds set a series strikeout record of 62 by fanning Billy Cox and Clem Labine in the ninth after Carl Furillo's homer.

Reynolds also tied Red Ruffing's series mark of seven victories for a pitcher. Ruffing, incidentally, had set the old strikeout mark of 61.

Rizzuto's infield hit in the eighth was the 116th for both teams, establishing a series record for six games. The old mark of 115 was made by the Yankees and Giants in the 1938 series. Later hits boosted the total to 120.

Billy Martin's Bingle In Ninth Gives Stengel's Crew Classic After Furillo Homered To Knot The Count

By JACK HAND
New York — (AP) — Bill (The Kid) Martin's record 12th world series hit in the last of the ninth gave Casey Stengel's proud New York Yankees an unprecedented fifth straight world championship Monday with a 4-3 victory over Brooklyn in the sixth game at Yankee Stadium.

Lashing back after Carl Furillo's two-run homer off Allie Reynolds tied the score in the Dodger ninth, the Yanks snuffed out Brooklyn hopes with a stunning comeback against reliever Clem Labine.

Hank Bauer walked on a 3-2 pitch and Yogi Berra flied out deep to Furillo before Mickey Mantle outsped a slow roller off the glove of third baseman Billy Cox. It was scored as a single and Bauer moved to second on it.

Martin, finishing the series with a .500 batting average, looked at a called strike and then slammed a line single to centre that scored Bauer with the winning run of the series.

With the hit, Martin tied the all-time record for most hits in a series, 12, and established a mark for a six-game set. He won for his delicious Yank mates full pay shares of about $8,000 from the record player pool of $694,341.61.

This game, finished under lights because of dark, threatening clouds, saved its drama for the final moments. Until the ninth it looked to the 62,370 fans like a routine 3-1 triumph for the always-winning Yanks who now have a 16-4 record in series competition.

Martin's hit saved Whitey Ford from going down in the record book, guilty of one of the most momentous blunders since Fred Merkle failed to touch second.

It looked innocent enough at the time, when Ford failed to tag up after a long 370-foot fly ball by Berra in the second and was doubled at the plate. But as the game wore on, that run loomed larger and larger.

Dodgers Dressing Room

By WILL GRIMSLEY
New York — (AP) — "It was a blankety-blank 250 hitter that beat us," fumed Brooklyn's Charlie Dressen. "It wasn't Mantle and it wasn't Berra."

"It was that little cuss out there on second base (Billy Martin) who won this series. He's the best blankety-blank man on their club."

It was so quiet in Brooklyn Dodgers' dressing room you could hear the little Brooklyn manager cracking his knuckles against the desk and unhappy Duke Snider mumbling to himself.

The Duke, whose four home runs made him the batting hero of the 1952 series, struck out three times as leadoff man as New York Yankees whipped the Dodgers 4-3 in a wild sixth-game finish Monday and kept intact the Dodger record of never having won a world baseball championship.

But the entire Brooklyn squad praised Martin, whose ninth-inning single brought home the winning run and at the same time tied the record for the most hits in a single World Series—12.

"That little guy Martin is mean on the field," continued Dressen. "He's always trying to do something whether he's at bat or in the field. Always figuring out ways to beat you."

But catcher Roy Campanella said it was a good pitch—a sinker which he called for and was just right. He just got hold of it, that's all.

Allie Reynolds And Johnny Mize May Quit Yanks; "Big Jawn" Has Offers For Two Jobs With More Pay

New York — (AP) — Big Johnny Mize has reiterated his intention to end his active career in baseball, and Allie Reynolds may join him in retirement.

Reynolds, New York Yankees' great right-hander, told newspapermen after Monday's final world series game that he will quit if his back fails to improve during the winter.

"My back has been bothering me ever since I hurt it in that bus accident last July, he said. "I've had muscular spasms, on and off, ever since. For a time I couldn't even run, let alone pitch."

Allie, a wealthy oil man, said he plans to rest all winter.

Mize, who will be 41 in January, left no doubt about his intention. "I know I can still help the club, especially as a pinch-hitter," he said, "but I don't think it will be worth it. I've got two offers now, both of which will pay me more than I'd make playing with the Yankees next year. One is an all-year-round job, the other for five months."

Mize, who appeared only as a pinch hitter during the series and failed to land a safety, declined to identify the offers, but said they would be in baseball. He said he is open to all offers, including a managing job in the minors if he can be a playing manager. He put in 18 years in the big league, including three in the service.

Earle Sande Finishes Third In His Comeback Attempt; Rides Again In 7th At Belmont; Earns $25 For Win

New York — (AP) — The little guy who lent him a saddle. "How was the saddle?"

"I was so nervous I didn't know whether I had a saddle or not," replied Sande—the same saddle-smith who rode immortals like Man O' War, Zev and Gallant Fox to some of their greatest victories.

Mrs. Liz Person, an owner who won last Saturday's Belmont Futurity with Porterhouse, said: "I have a lot of horses, Earl, and you can ride any one of them you want."

Sculock, who lent Sande pants and a whip besides the saddle, walked over to the idol of the roaring '20s and said: "They're yours any time you want them."

The only piece of equipment Sande did not borrow was his boots. They were the same ones he wore when he rode his last race in 1932.

Ted Atkinson, who was two years old when Sande rode his first race in 1917, offered Earl a pair of goggles, but he replied that he wouldn't know what to do with them.

He won $25 for the effort, but the sound of the flying hooves must have been worth more to him than the money. He was as happy and nervous as a schoolboy. "I hope I can do as well when I'm your age," said Ovie Sculock.

Hogan, with a handicap of plus 2, will play an 18-hole stroke round at Fort Worth Oct. 25.

British golfers will play off their club handicaps over any course they select Oct. 24 or 25, taking out as many cards as they wish at 35 cents each.

Those who beat the net score chalked up by Hogan will receive a certificate signed by the Texan.

Stampeders Edge Roughriders 9-8

Regina — (AP) — Calgary Stampeders joined battle with Saskatchewan Roughriders Monday for third-place position in the four-team Western Interprovincial Football Union, edging the Roughriders 9-8 to climb to within one game of Frankie Filchock's charges.

The win, Stampeders third in 11 starts, saved them from playoff elimination. With only five games remaining in the 16-game schedule, the Roughriders, with a hit-and-miss record, including a 19-3 win over the league-leading Edmonton Eskimos last Saturday, are faced with the possibility of finishing in the cellar as they did last year.

Calgary's touchdown was scored on a pass by quarterback Frankie Albert to import end Al Endress. Glenn Christian converted, and later kicked from 32 yards out for a field goal.

Del Warden picked up the first Saskatchewan points in the first quarter when he tackled halfback John Henry Johnson behind the line for a safety, moving Riders into a 2-0 lead. Bobby Marlow went over for a touchdown in the final period and Warden converted.

'The Brai' Big Factor in Yanks' Victory; Dodgers List Him As Most Hated Of All Yankee Players

New York — (AP) — The Dodgers "is" dead and Billy (the Brai) Martin, the "dead end" kid from California, is the little Yankee who slew them.

Dressen. "It was that little cuss out there on second. He's the best blankety-blank man on their club. Martin appeared like anything but a fresh, show-boat type of hero as he was besieged by reporters in the Yankee clubhouse demanding to know his entire life history."

Rough Riders last year after a season with Montreal Alouettes, picked up 10 points in Riders' 31-6 victory over Hamilton Tigercats Saturday to take a three-point lead over team-mate Avatus Stone.

Statistics compiled by The Canadian Press show Roberts with 45 points on three touchdowns, three field goals, 20 converts and one single. Stone, who jumped Chicago Cardinals for Riders this year and leader last week with 42 points, didn't play last Saturday due to an injured knee.

Stone, with seven touchdowns, and seven singles, holds a three-point edge over Ray Poole of Montreal Alouettes, former kicking star with New York Giants. Chuck Hunsinger, also of the AIs and formerly with Chicago Bears, is fourth with 30 points.

Oyster Bay, N.Y. — The United States won its first victory Monday in the international six-meter sailing competition for the One-Ton Cup.

Edmonton Win 16-6 Over Blue Bombers

Winnipeg — Import tackle Wilbur Snyder kicked the league leading Edmonton Eskimos to a 16-6 victory over the second-place Winnipeg Blue Bombers, Monday night, in a Western Inter-provincial Football Union game.

The U.S. entry, Llanoria, with Mangus Konow at the helm, checked a challenge by Ylliam VIII, Andre Firmenich's Swiss skipper. Ylliam, twice a winner in the series was after her third and cup-winning triumph. Three victories are necessary to cop the trophy.

Buzzy II, skippered by William Gooderham of Toronto, came in fifth. The craft is owned by Brian Newkirk, also of Toronto.

The victory moved Eskimos six points out in front of the second-place Bombers. Saskatchewan Roughriders, who dropped a 9-8 decision Monday to Calgary Stampeders, now are third, four points behind Winnipeg and two ahead of the Stampeders.

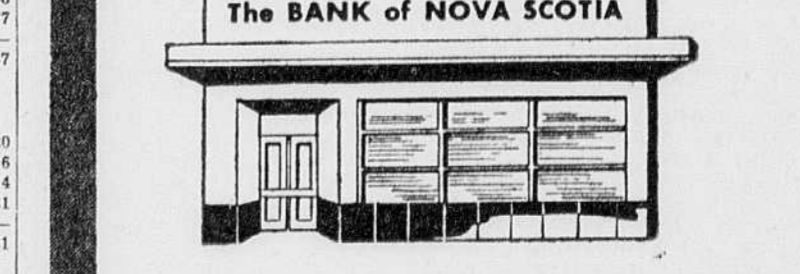

Edmonton played heads-up ball as they recovered three Winnipeg fumbles, intercepted three pass attempts and blocked one kick.

Bombers scored their major in the last three minutes of play when quarterback Geoff Crain raced five yards on an end sweep. Buddy Korchak converted.

Mr. E. Mason Was Elected President Of Windsor Mills H. S. Association

Windsor Mills, Oct. 6 — Before the opening of the business meeting, the Home and School Association and the Women's Institute Association presented books to the Grade VIII pupils of last term, who are now attending school elsewhere.

Mr. E. Mason welcomed the children, their parents and visitors. The books were presented by Miss Thelma Mills to the following pupils: Geona Watson, Patricia Aldrich, Malcolm Daigneault, Marilyn Greenlay, Bruce Noble, Basil Conley, Sally McLenahan, May Robinson, Robert Dole, Marion Mackie and Dawn Cayer.

On behalf of the pupils, Bruce Noble thanked both organizations for the books. Refreshments were served and a social hour was enjoyed.

The business meeting then took place with Mr. E. Mason in the chair. Thirty members attended. Mr. Mason welcomed three new members, Mrs. C. Robinson, Mrs. R. Butler and Mrs. T. Sundborg. The minutes of the last meeting were read by the secretary, Mrs. C. Allan.

The Sports Equipment committee reported that the School Board had been approached and that they had agreed to supply the school with certain items, such as a basket ball and volley ball net. Miss H. Watt was asked to present the Home and School Association with a list of sports equipment that is still needed.

A letter is being sent to the Town Council urging them to form a committee, one member of which is to be an alderman, to study the traffic problem in the town, particularly in respect to the safety of the school children, and recommending that parking be restricted on the corner of Elm and St. George Streets, so that the school children may have clear view when crossing these streets.

The president then read the slate of officers for the forthcoming year: president, Mr. E. Mason; first vice-president, vacant; second vice-president, Miss M. Reed; secretary, Mrs. C. Allan; treasurer, Mr. T. Leckie; past-president, Mrs. G. Noble.

Mr. Mason moved a vote of thanks to Mrs. T. Watson and Mrs. G. Witty for their work in selecting and buying the books for the Grade VIII pupils.

A card party will be held in October. The suggested date is October 28.

The sum of $40 is to be given to Miss Reed to be divided equally among the four teachers for the purchase of extra materials, books, etc., for the classroom that the School Board does not supply.

There being no further business the meeting adjourned.

Princess Line By Dior Is Most Attractive

London — This year's most attractive winter styles hit right where it hurts most — in the midriff.

Christian Dior's "princess line," a moulded look that ruthlessly spotlights that extra curve around the hips has its counterpart in almost every couture collection in London, Rome and Paris.

It's as figure revealing as a one-piece bathing suit—but predictions are it will be the smash hit of the season. The selling point is that undulating look of seemingly uncontrolled figure appeal most women yearn for.

EMPHASIS ON WAIST
Unbelated, it moulds the form from under a well-defined bust to thigh level, and it gives sharp emphasis to the waist. It is, in fact, a dream line for the tall, the slim or the well-proportioned. For those with the slightest bulge, it means a special foundation or diet.

The swathed and pleated Dior bustline calls for a deep, up-cut drape, as well as the midriff, waist and diaphragm control required for that faultless curve from bust to thigh.

Dior rightly calls it his "living line." Only a soft, smooth foundation on a fairly slim figure will give the right effect. Too firm corseting would show up mercilessly because—as most curvaceous women find out early—rigid control in one spot means extra trouble somewhere else.

The princess waist is the most emphatic inward cut Dior has shown since his post-war New Look and it won't take the waist corset designed for the New Look. Those skirts flared fully from the waist, perfect for hiding the hard edges of a waist belt. The smooth curve of the princess line would show every ridge.

DIFFICULT JOB
Even with strict dieting it's difficult or impossible for most women to achieve the perfect Dior figure. Judged by the measurements of his favorite mannequin, Renee, it is: height five feet, seven inches; bust 33, waist 18½, hips 34.

Asked what he thought of the Paris princess line, London's latest royal designer, John Cavanagh—who featured his own figure-revealing styles—said: "It gives length and is flattering."

But he added this warning: "If the line is broken by a swathed bodice, then it is only for the high, firm bust and flat diaphragm figure."

This youthful figure is certainly needed for Cavanagh's Gitana skirt dress in flamenco pink satin embroidered with jet, rhinestones and tassels. From the cameo neckline to the skirt flare, starting low on the diaphragm, it silhouettes the figure like a lighted backcloth.

Most of London's "Big Ten" feature something of the same line in day and evening wear. Mattli shows a gauzy pure silk cocktail dress in cyclamen, bronze and black that follows the unbelated look and low-flare skirt. He features it, however, with a draped bust and deep fold to the front skirt that diverts the eye from the midriff severity.

Westmount Man Has Part In London Play

London. —(CP)— When Montreal actor Leo Ciceri met Diana Wynyard as Helen of Troy he "lost his voice."

That's the price the six-foot, 29-year-old Canadian pays nightly for his part in "The Private Life of Helen," now showing in London's West End.

As "the beautiful young Telemachus," Ciceri is so impressed by his first sight of the fabulous Greek beauty, played by Miss Wynyard, that he's forced to pay homage to her charms.

Ciceri's part lasts 10 minutes at the end of the play, but he's satisfied. He feels he's learning a lot from the theatre notables he's working with.

Domestic squabble
The mime is shared by Miss Wynyard and Cecil Parker, who plays husband Menelaus. It cleverly rounds off a dullish squabble in the career of the beautiful Helen, who finds domestic life boring after the Trojan wars.

One of a cast of five, Ciceri cuts a fine figure in the pleated skirt and open sandals of classic Greek dress. His only cover above the waist is a traditional shoulder drape. His pet hate is the black wig with kiss-curl fringe that completes the picture.

Since coming to London in 1948

after wartime service with the RCAF, Ciceri hasn't managed to hit the headlines—but he's shared the stage with some of Britain's leading players.

For eight weeks, at the start of the year, under the direction of Sir John Gielgud, he played Aumerle in "Richard II." When Sir John took the play to Bulawayo for the Rhodes centenary, Ciceri went along.

Playing nightly to packed houses of 2,000 in Southern Rhodesia is something he won't forget in a hurry.

Cold Theatre

"For the cold, if nothing else," he says with a laugh. "It was a wonderful experience but the theatre is a temporary structure, unheated—and July is winter down there." Ciceri had played under Gielgud before. Most of his acting has been Shakespearean and from January, 1951, to November, 1952, he was under contract to the Memorial Theatre, Stratford-on-Avon.

Ciceri shared the Stratford stage with such stars as Sir Ralph Richardson, Margaret Leighton and Michael Redgrave, sometimes taking over bigish roles at short notice.

Now he's a little tired of the classics, which he's played since college days in Canada—for a year with the Montreal Shakespeare Society and with the Open Air Theatre Company.

Ciceri, unmarried, hasn't been in Canada for five years. His folks live in Westmount, Que.
