Bill may be changed

JOHN TURNER Might be amendments

VICTORIA (CP) — Justice Minister John Turner, holding out the possibility of changes in the official languages bill, was to return to Ottawa today with a string of alterations proposed by the four Western provinces.

No details of the suggested changes were disclosed by Mr. Turner or the attorneys-general of the provinces after they met for five hours Monday to discuss the bill.

In an interview after the closed session, Mr. Turner said: "The provinces, as I understand it, will consider their position in the light of what subsequent action the federal government might take."

It may be, as a result of these discussions, there'll be some amendments to propose, amendments to the bill."

Several western representatives had indicated little optimism before the session that they could move Ottawa much. Mr. Turner spoke later of possible accommodations of detail.

He said Ottawa is not prepared to negotiate the principle of the bill, objected to by the West in its present form as unconstitutional and an unnecessary way to extend bilingualism.

The bill would recognize English and French as official languages and set up bilingual districts, with federal services available in both tongues, in areas where there is a French-speaking population of at least 10 per cent.

There was no indication after the meeting that the western provinces had changed their stand that bilingualism should be extended on a voluntary basis rather than through legislation.

But Mr. Turner appeared to hold out the possibility of avoiding a Supreme Court of Canada showdown on the constitutionality of the bill, promised by Saskatchewan if it passes in its present form.

"I can't predict what's going to happen because the provinces have kept their positions but I think the possibility of an understanding have improved as a result of today," he said.

The meeting was proposed at the constitutional conference in Ottawa last week by Attorney-General Leslie Peterson of B.C. He and Mr. Turner were joined Monday by Attorneys-General Sterling Lyon of Manitoba, Darrel Heald of Saskatchewan and Edgar Gerhart of Alberta.

Gov't seeks more power

OTTAWA (CP) — The federal government will seek broadened administrative and fiscal powers for its proposed department to oversee regional development. Slow-growth urban centres may benefit.

A bill creating the department of regional economic expansion and four other departments was introduced into the Commons Monday. It was given routine first reading.

Under the legislation, the government would have a freer hand to name depressed areas for government financial assistance and industrial incentives.

Rural Development Minister Marchand, who will head the long-promised new department, said the aim is to emphasize federal aid for "natural growth centres" which previously did not qualify.

He indicated that Quebec east of Trois-Rivieres and the four Atlantic provinces will get top priority, but other areas would be looked after too. The others include the northern sections of Ontario, Manitoba and Saskatchewan.

Mr. Marchand, long Prime Minister Trudeau's close friend and confidant, said he hoped for accelerated government spending in the regional development field. However, he declined to say how much he would ask for.

PROVIDE GRANTS, LOANS

The department will take over and expand existing federal powers to provide grants and loans to industry in depressed areas. The aid would permit the government not only to attract industry to slow-growth areas, but to help industry modernize and expand.

A demonstrably new power is the right to guarantee loans negotiated by private industry in the so-called "special areas" designated by government.

Although Mr. Marchand did not say so specifically, the indications are that the inclusion of "growth centres" in the incentive program means that urban centres will more easily qualify.

Mr. Marchand singled out Quebec City as the example of a growth centre which might qualify under the new arrangement. He noted that the Quebec provincial capital has a static population.

A government release explaining the changes suggested that such places as Fredericton and Saint John in New Brunswick would also qualify under the new arrangement.

The net impression from Mr. Marchand's comments and the bill itself is that slow-growth areas with good potential would be the chief beneficiaries.

COVERS RURAL AREAS

However, Mr. Marchand made clear that rural areas with lesser potential would continue to be looked after.

He raised the possibility of "modifications" to the Agricultural and Rural Development Act. But if that occurs, there will be some help still for rural areas.

Although another aid program called the Fund for Rural Economic Development will disappear in the changeover, programs launched under it will be continued. Also retained for the time being anyway will be the "designated areas" receiving special assistance under current programs. These will be dovetailed into the new arrangement.

A casualty of the new look is the Atlantic development board which has significant powers to promote development in the Atlantic region. It will be transformed into an advisory board to the new department called the Atlantic development council.

The reorganization will lead to a revised Industrial Incentives Act under which federal incentives are offered to depressed areas. It is expected, precise federal powers will be outlined in this act and in regulations now being developed.

Under the reorganization, the Marchand department will have power to co-ordinate the activities of other federal departments and agencies to bring up economic standards in backward regions.

It will be able, for the first time, to channel money through provincial governments to mu-

Labor and federal cabinet end up smiling

OTTAWA (CP) — Organized labor and the federal cabinet stepped into the ring together twice Monday but the punching was light and both sides ended up smiling.

The occasion was the annual presentation of briefs by the 1,600,000-member Canadian Labor Congress and the Canadian Labor Railway Executives Association, which represents some 120,000 railway workers.

CLC President Donald MacDonald won at least partial agreement from Prime Minister Trudeau on the need for a government commitment to "comprehensive economic planning."

But Mr. Trudeau ticked off the areas of housing, medical care insurance and offshore mineral rights—all raised by the CLC—as those in which the provinces now have some jurisdiction. For this reason, he called for constitutional reform before launching any over-all planning.

The railway executives won a larger degree of support, mainly from Labor Minister Bryce Mackasey and Transport Minister Paul Hellyer.

DO NOT DIFFER At one point after association chairman Charles Smith had completed his presentation, A. R. Gibbons, the executive secretary, said to Mr. Mackasey: "We're not at odds at all, Mr. Minister."

The association was pressing for an expanded mediation role in labor disputes by the federal government. Mr. Mackasey announced he has already "obtained permission" to increase his department's mediation services.

Mr. Mackasey was also able to placate the CLC on its demand for early publication of the report of the study group on labor-management relations in Canada.

The report would be available in "the not-too-distant future" and the present delay was in getting the document translated CHURCH LEVELLED—Firemen sift through the ruins of the Marie-Reine-du-Monde Church, 1180 Bowen Street South, which burned to the ground last night after what police believe was a fire started by an arsonist, caught in the curtains near the back of the church.

Police nab youth after church fire

By RICHARD VOKEY (Record staff reporter)

Sherbrooke police have arrested a 19-year-old youth who they believe set the fire last night that completely destroyed the Marie-Reine-du-Monde Church, 1180 Bowen Street South. An officer, who spent the evening, dressed as a priest in the church's confessional, has uncovered evidence that the fire was deliberately set. Detective-Captain Roland Gaboriault said this morning.

The two-alarm blaze levelled the building, causing an estimated $150,000 damage and was never contained by the 25 firemen using seven trucks who fought it.

Assistant-director of the Sherbrooke fire department, Frank Boudreau, said this morning four trucks from station one originally answered the call but finally seven, four from station one, two from station two and one from station four, were called to fight the blaze.

Spectators who watched the fire said the flames seemed to originate in the back of the church near the altar. They spread to the roof and moved forward until the stain glass front of the building shattered with the heat. Later the fire burnt through the roof and the walls collapsed.

Detective-Captain Gaboriault said one of his officers had been planted in the church to investigate acts of vandalism. One youth was suspected but no concrete evidence had been obtained. Last night the boy was going to accompany the undercover officer out of the church before he locked up, the Detective-Captain said. The boy stayed at the rear of the church for several minutes before he left with the priest.

After they left, he said, the officer realized the building was on fire. Detective - Captain Gaboriault said the curtains at the rear of the church were burning. Soon the building was a mass of flames. Police arrested the youth near the fire later in the evening, and he will be arraigned in court on a charge of arson.

The fire department answered the call at 7:41 p.m., Assistant-director Boudreau said and one truck was still on the scene at 4 a.m. Investigators are sifting through the ruins today looking for evidence as to what caused the blaze.

Spectators said the fire, which could be seen all over the city, was only about 45 minutes old when the walls of the building gave way.

Director Charles Audet and Assistant - director Boudreau were among the officers who directed firemen. Captain Ted Degraze and Captain G. Roy participated along with Lieutenants Raymond Fournier, C. Bessile and Jean-Paul Charest.

At one point, after the second alarm, firemen had difficulty reaching the scene because of heavy crowds of spectators.

The church has been plagued lately by acts of vandalism and last night at a special meeting, officers had decided to hire a Pinkerton guard to protect the premises from vandals and arsonists.

Sunday, Sherbrooke firemen had to extinguish a fire in the church's cloak room.

Hospitals were portrayed as bastions of bureaucracy

At conference Doctors and nurses take a battering

QUEBEC (CP) — Canadian hospitals, hospital administrators, doctors and nurses took a severe verbal battering at the opening session of a conference on hospital-medical staff relations Monday.

Dr. E. W. Barootes of Regina accused organizations sponsoring the conference of being "selfishly engaged in a power struggle for control of hospital affairs."

The conference—an apparent attempt from within the hospital community to untangle the complex and costly problems of hospital care—is the second in two years.

It is sponsored by the Canadian Medical Association, the Canadian Hospital Association and the Canadian Nurses Association.

"I get the impression," said Dr. Barootes, "that each group is convinced they are the true leaders in the hospital field, that they suffer the others only in a subordinate role, that instead of respecting you resent and suspect the motivations of the others."

His criticisms of hospital administration included these observations:

"A survey done of all directives and orders issued from all hospital branches shows that nine out of 10 have nothing to do with patient care but are chiefly designed for the comfort and convenience of the hospital workers."

"In 20 years, administrative space in hospitals has multiplied tenfold and patient space shrunk to far less than 50 per cent of the hospital area. Soon we will meet that sublimely administered hospital which has no room left for that unnecessary evil, the patient."

"Good hospital administrators are rare and too often administrators acquire their position by default or as a result of proven failure in some other chosen field, including medicine."

OTTAWA (CP) — President Nixon is "most anxious" to have a meeting with Prime Minister Trudeau, External Affairs Minister Mitchell Sharp said in the Commons Monday.

He was replying to George Hees, former Conservative trade minister, who said the U.S. president has made plans to see the leaders of the five European countries and of Australia.

Ottawa's for world-wide agency

NIAMEY, Niger (CP) — A proposed world-wide agency for cultural and educational co-operation between French-speaking countries would have the financial support of the Canadian federal and three provincial governments, it was announced Monday.

The governments of Quebec, Ontario and New Brunswick are ready to pay up to 30 per cent of the creation and annual operating costs of such an organization, Quebec and federal representatives said at the opening session of a conference of French-speaking countries.

Gerard Pelletier, secretary of state, and Marcel Masse, Quebec minister without portfolio, said in a joint announcement the cost would be shared between Ottawa and Quebec, after subtracting contributions by New Brunswick and Ontario.

The annual cost had not yet been estimated.

The organization is to be created during the gathering of representatives from about 25 French-speaking countries meeting in this West African country. It is expected to embrace about 200,000,000 French-speaking persons in 40 countries.

Third and final reading was given Monday to tough new legislation aimed at preventing the spread of pests deemed dangerous to plants.

Then, some hours later, final reading was given a bill providing compensation to farmers whose agricultural products are contaminated by pesticide residue.

The first measure sailed through the House without opposition. The second passed only after a vigorous debate during which opposition MPs expressed serious misgiving about some of its provisions, particularly a section dealing with appeals against compensation awards.

Passage was finally achieved "on division"—meaning there were those in the opposition who demurred.

Two other pieces of farm legislation were nudged further along the legislative trail when they passed through the report stage en route from committee study to third reading.

CABINET PRESCRIBES One bill removes the amounts of compensation specified for horses and cattle slaughtered under the Animal Contagious Diseases Act, and leaves it to the cabinet to prescribe the maximum of compensation.

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Her beauty undiminished at 53, Ingrid Bergman is here for her first Hollywood movie in 20 years.

"The last picture was Joan of Arc, and that was a pleasant memory," she recalls.

The two-time Academy Award winner (Gaslight, in 1944, Anastasia, 1956) has returned to Columbia Pictures, where she made Adam Had Four Sons 29 years ago. This time her vehicle is a comedy, The Cactus Flower.

Some observers think it's odd casting for Miss Bergman to be playing the role created by Lauren Bacall in the Broadway version. But she remarked that she almost did the play on the London stage; only the illness of her daughter prevented her.

"And the movie script is somewhat changed from the play," she added. "Our script writer, Mr. I. A. L. Diamond, went back to the French play from which Cactus Flower came. So it is half French and half Abe Burrows."

Burrows wrote the Broadway version. "When I made Gaslight, I was introduced to Charles Boyer and was told 'Now you will step off the train and kiss him.' And we had only just met!"

"One thing is different, happily so. We have three weeks of rehearsal on Cactus Flower. That is something I never had here before."

"Oh, it is explained in the picture that I am from Sweden," she said, adding with a smile: "In all my pictures here they

Denounces
N. G. Martos

Mayor Armand Nadeau denounced N. G. Martos last night at council but said he would not sue him for malicious intent because Martos is "insolvent".

The mayor answered in the Record last week charges laid by Mr. Martos in a letter in which he asks 10 questions about the industrial flop of the projected hospital equipment factory.

In the letter Mr. Martos asked if the mayor used money taken from the Martos and Morin firm to employ in his election campaign.

Gerard Deziel, East Ward alderman, advised the mayor to sue Martos on a question of principle.

He also hinted the mayor used the whole project as an election campaign gimmick.

Mayor Nadeau said last night he started to doubt Mr. Martos' integrity after meetings with provincial ministers.

He said H. M. Morin, Mr. Martos' partner in the promotion of the factory project, received a letter from a general contracting firm in Calgary asking questions about Mr. Martos' business ethics.

The letter explained Martos started the same project in Red Deer, Alberta, when his finances dissolved as they did in Sherbrooke.

When the city offered Martos an industrial loan for the project, he answered "Financing is no problem" and said he had European backing.

However, after the project had been started, he claimed his financial support from Europe had been cut off.

A Calgary newspaper article which reached the mayor's office said, "Nick Martos is a big man and his ideas are big. He talks in terms of millions, yet he also talks in terms of workers who will find jobs in the factories his ideas evolve into."

Alderman Tony Pinard asked Robert Belisle, city industrial commissioner, why council was told a bank accredited Martos for $300,000 and was reliable.

Mr. Belisle said he never mentioned a figure of Martos' worth.

Mr. Pinard said he remembered Mr. Belisle did say $300,000 "if it were yesterday."

The mayor said Martos was smart trying to sell the hospital equipment factory, realizing the new university medical centre would provide a million-dollar market for the factory.

The alderman did not ask the mayor to explain any of the 10 questions.

Citizens rap urban plan

WINDSOR — (Staff) — Citizens voiced complaints at a meeting last night, against planned urban renovation to a committee from the Housing Association of Quebec. About 120 people crowded into the gym of the St. Philippe Elementary School and told the four-man board they fear higher taxes, a risk of appropriation and traffic problems.

The committee heard and moderated complaints and its president, R. Laplante said he and his three moderators would hear all the complaints and submit them to a study board of the department. Recommendations whether to allow, limit or block the renovation plan would be made in about three to four weeks, he said.

R. Laplante presided over the committee with L. P. Rogers, J. Bernier and J. J. Decarie serving as moderators and experts in fields attached to urban renovation. A. Charron was the clerk.

The city's renovation program provides for a series of buildings, including an old peoples' home and duplexes. Arthur Hamel, mayor until four years ago, spoke for the citizens against the project. His main complaint and fear was that taxes would have to be raised to pay for the project. He said the city was in debt already and by his figuring the plans called for an expenditure of at least $1,000,000.

At one point, when Mr. Hamel said citizens had not been able to see the plans or the report, J. Bernier, a moderator, told him that by law a report had been available either for inspection or for sale. He said the department of municipal affairs demands in similar cases that the city publish in local newspapers three times that this was the case.

The meeting was called after the Housing Association of Quebec received a letter and a petition signed by 200 citizens opposed to the project. In such cases Quebec law requires experts to hear all complaints and to decide on the proper action.

When he thought of the human angle. He said council members would become de-personalized. When one council member denied this, Mayor Nadeau defied him to name a Montreal or Quebec alderman since both towns have an executive committee.

It was alderman Hilaire Bellevue who asked that an executive committee be formed. Alderman Savard supported the request and suggested the meeting with Mr. Lussier.

Council finally decided to work and make its requests through Raynald Fréchette, Sherbrooke MNA.

This proposal was seconded by Romeo Quintal but the discussion wasn't finished. Council later decided to send a delegation to Quebec to meet Robert Lussier, Municipal Affairs Minister, to discuss the formation of an executive committee.

In Sherbrooke, this would be a three-man team which would control all major council decisions.

Council's approval, theoretically, would be needed only to pass a new bylaw.

Mayor Nadeau said he was in favor of the idea on an administrative point of view, but he said he balked at the idea

Council ponders en bloc elections

Will there be en bloc elections in 1970 in Sherbrooke? After an extensive argument last night, council did not come to a concrete decision.

The city's charter states the mayor and the 10 aldermen will face municipal voters in 1970 but a new provincial law says en bloc elections in all municipalities in 1971.

Council members will probably wait to study the new law and find out how it applies to Sherbrooke.

The aldermen are hesitant to decide what to do now, however.

Albert Rivard, city lawyer, read the law last night and said the provincial law wipes out the city's charter bylaw.

Mayor Nadeau agreed, then disagreed. He said the city's charter bylaw was passed before the provincial law so elections should be held in 1970.

However, three aldermen, Everett Nicol, Marcel Savard and Tony Pinard want to run for office this year.

If what the mayor said is correct, they would have to run in elections in 1969-70-71.

It's going to cost the city a lot to hold so many elections, someone commented.

Alderman Gaston Roy said the three aldermen who face elections this year should be sworn in until 1971 and all other aldermanic terms should be extended until 1971.

Rotating teacher strikes will resume tomorrow if no agreement is reached on the form of mediation now being sought to settle the teacher contract dispute.

Teacher and government school board officials began Friday to negotiate a mediation procedure satisfactory to both sides.

Raymond Laliberte, president of the Quebec Teachers Corporation, said yesterday that an agreement should have been reached by now.

He said strikes will be carried out again just as they were last week. He added that it was only an act of "good-will" that no strikes were held Monday or today.

If mediation is agreed upon, a mediation board will proceed to struggle through a contract hassle which began 18 months ago.

Workload demands and teacher classifications are the main issues still to be settled.

Early nursing grad dies

Funeral services were held this morning at St. Peter's Church for Mrs. Harriet Bartlett, who died on Saturday at the Sherbrooke Hospital. Mrs. Bartlett was a long-time resident of Sherbrooke and at the time of death she was one of the earliest graduates of the Sherbrooke Hospital School of Nursing.

Mrs. Bartlett was a member of the class of 1912, which was the first class to receive their diplomas at a public graduation ceremony. She was also a charter member of the Alumnae Association. She was predeceased by her husband, Charles, in 1955.

Mr. Bartlett was a longtime trainmaster of the Quebec Central Railway Co.

Mrs. Bartlett is survived by two sons, Henry, of Ste. Anne de Bellevue, and Kenneth, of Bellevue, Ont., also by a daughter-in-law, Leah, and numerous nieces and nephews.

To construct two schools in W. Ward

The Commission Scolaire regionale de l'Estrie has decided to construct two schools in the West Ward with a capacity of 1,500 students each, instead of the projected 3,000 student school, on the condition one of the two large schools is constructed immediately.

Education Minister Jean-Guy Cardinal said in Sherbrooke Sunday he would prefer two schools instead of one large one.

The decision by the school commission was taken at a special meeting Friday.

All the school commissioners except one, J. C. Cayer, voted in favor of abandoning the 3,000 student school project for the two schools.

Jean-Louis Dupont, president of the school commission, said steps are being taken in Quebec to speed up the start of construction on the new school.

He admitted the commission's decision, however, could retard the project many months, perhaps a year or more.

Mr. Dupont said one of the main reasons for the new idea was complaints and petitions to build two schools instead of the large 3,000 student building.

The steps had been taken in the large school project to ask for tenders in March or April.

Control lacking over school board outlays

Education Minister Jean-Guy Cardinal will find a sympathetic reaction among Quebec taxpayers with his declaration in Sherbrooke Sunday night that this province, like other governments elsewhere, must cut its educational coat to meet its financial cloth.

Undoubtedly the Quebec educational system requires the expenditures of large sums of money to bring its standards up to the demands of present day scientific progress but the very fact that the modernization will cost much is the very reason why care must be taken to see that every dollar is spent to the best advantage.

Desirable as it might be to make new buildings the finest examples of the architectural profession, it is essential that utility be placed ahead of beauty, that the structures be designed to serve a utilitarian purpose and be devoid of those non-essential frills that only add to the cost without yielding any educational advantage.

But in his appeal to the individual taxpayer to play his part in seeing that the educational dollar was spent to the best advantage he touched a sore spot on the body of the taxpayer — the virtual impossibility of the taxpayers to exercise any control over educational expenditures, especially in the capital field.

A municipal council, before it can undertake any capital expenditure involving the borrowing of money, must have the project approved by the ratepayers who may demand a referendum if they so desire.

But the school commissions are under no such restrictions. A simple resolution by the school board clears the way for a loan of any size and all the taxpayer knows about it is a small advertisement advising that the loan has been authorized and that anyone interested may examine the bylaw at the office of the secretary-treasurer.

Beyond this he cannot go.

The situation is aggravated by the tendency apparent in the past of the provincial authorities almost compelling the local boards to undertake grandiose construction programs when they preferred some simple structure.

Until the individual taxpayer is given some authority over educational capital expenditures it is useless for Mr. Cardinal, or anyone else, to call for tighter public supervision over educational costs.

Welfare pause in U.K.

Great Britain has been cited by social reformers as a wonderful example of the welfare state and without argument has been a leader in applying many of the programs which have become the accepted fact in modern nations.

But reports from London indicate that it has reached an interesting crossroads.

Forced into a currency revaluation by persistent financial difficulties, the Labor Government of Prime Minister Wilson now proposes that social security benefits for the aged, widows and other persons be limited to those in need.

Not unexpectedly some of the more radical Labor Members of Parliament are opposed to the plan and are adamant that all persons should participate whether they have a need or a desire or not.

This sounds rather like some of the current arguments in Canada against universal medicare, family allowances and other social benefits.

Developments in Britain are certainly worth watching if the Labor government, which is largely responsible for the welfare state, is now edging towards withdrawal from it.

Questions, questions

In months ahead Americans will ponder Canada's crisis identity

NEW YORK (CP) — In the next few months as many as 300,000 Americans will be discussing such questions as: Has the United States contributed to Canada's crisis of identity?

Do you consider Canadian biculturalism and bilingualism a source of strength or strain to the federation?

If the roles were reversed and Canada owned 50 per cent of United States manufacturing, would you consider Canada's threat to economic independence?

How might other smaller countries react if Canada removed her troops from the NATO command in Europe and what, if anything, should the U.S. do about Canada's trade with Communist China and Cuba?

These and other questions are suggested bases for discussion put out by the Foreign Policy Association, a non-profit group which seeks to get Americans more interested in foreign affairs.

The association annually issues a book called Great Decisions, which deals with eight areas of the world. This year several articles deal with Canada under her new prime minister.

The book is available to groups willing to devote a minimum of eight discussion periods on its contents. The questions are given to stimulate discussion. An association spokesman said it is estimated that as many as 300,000 persons will participate in this year's discussions.

Points about Canada include: QUEBEC AND CONSTITUTION Prime Minister Trudeau's government will need all the support it can rally to achieve national unity. Unity has been beset by conflicts between English- and French-speaking Canadians, rich and poor provinces and advocates of a stronger and a weaker central government.

The strains have been so great that the nation's very survival in its present state has been questioned.

Trudeau is banking on closer federal-provincial consultations to clear misunderstandings and "establish a spirit of co-operation which is essential if constitutional revision is to succeed."

"Even with greater consultation, establishing harmonious relations between Ottawa and the provinces will be difficult, but the alternative, separation and breakup, makes success imperative."

THE ECONOMY
One of the "intangible obstacles" to Canadian unity is Canada's identity crisis. To some extent this crisis is the product of economics, with Americans owning more than 50 per cent of Canadian manufacturing industry, most of her oil and natural gas and half her mining and smelting.

Foreigners have invested $34,000,000,000 in Canada — "in no other advanced country is such a large share of industry foreign-owned."

Attractions for the American investor in Canada are a record of rapid economic growth, a growing consumer market and economic prospects which are the "envy" of most countries. Despite its small population, Canada ranks with Britain and Japan as one of the world's great trading nations. Manufacturing is essential to Canada's domestic health. For one thing her labor force is expected to increase by 50 per cent by 1980. "The most rapid rate of increase of any industrialized country."

But before manufacturing can become a boon to the economy, vexing problems must be solved, including productivity output per man-hour which is one-fifth lower than that of the U.S.

Canadians say close economic ties with the U.S. are mutually rewarding, a sentiment shared by some — but not all — Americans. Some Americans feel that Washington has been too solicitous to Canada in economic relations.

Canadians point out that if it were not for Canada, the U.S.'s principal trading partner, the U.S. balance-of-payments deficit would be $2,000,000,000 larger. "Canada, rightly or wrongly, feels that its contribution to our trade balance gives us the U.S.

not only an economic but a moral obligation to assure Canadian industry a large place in the American market."

FOREIGN AFFAIRS

Canada's status as a middle power has declined since the immediate post-war years. The middle-power role has been preempted by the Afro-Asian bloc in the United Nations.

Canada is faced with the dilemma of how she can assert herself as an independent world power and at the same time preserve her close bonds with the U.S.

Canada's greatest contribution to the post-war period was in the field of peace-keeping. Now she has become increasingly disenchanted with United Nations efforts for a number of reasons.

"The likelihood is that in the coming years Canada's preoccupation with domestic policies will delegate foreign policy to a minor role.

COMMENT

by Lubor J. Zink

OTTAWA — (TNS) — A public debate of an important policy issue can be useful only when it is based on facts. When such a debate is diverted from interpretation of facts into the realm of wishful thinking, the exercise is bound to create confusion.

It is my contention that by encouraging Postmaster General Eric Kierans to inject his preconceived ideas about NATO into the discussion of Canada's defence problems, the Prime Minister is confusing the issue in the public mind.

A similar view was expressed recently by Daniel A. Lang, a Liberal senator from Toronto who, as a member of the Canadian parliamentary delegation to the Atlantic assembly, has acquired a considerable knowledge of the facts of our defence position.

"According to the press," Mr. Lang told the Senate, "this exercise (i.e. Kierans' advocacy of Canada's withdrawal from NATO) was in the interest of promoting a 'national debate', and I put those words in because I do not know what exactly is meant by a national debate. I am not sure whether it means a series of television interviews . . . letters to editors of newspapers, or speakers at service clubs," and other similar activities.

"I would like to suggest," the Senator went on, "that anything as serious as this matter — which requires, above all, cool, levelheaded and unemotional deliberations — cannot be resolved by such techniques."

"I would be less than honest if I did not say that I am now suspicious that such activity must represent an attempt to rally public support behind someone's preconceived determination to remove Canada from the NATO alliance and, if necessary, to do so by bypassing Parliament in the process."

Dealing with Mr. Kierans' pronouncements on defence policy, Sen. Lang said:

"First, the Postmaster General baldly states that membership in NATO is 'not worthwhile'. I recognize that at times we have to re-examine our first principles. "The first principle of NATO is collective security. If we in Canada are going to adhere to the principle of collective security our logical place to do so is in NATO and in NORAD. Anything else would be a form of gross intellectual dishonesty."

Noting that there are countries such as Sweden, which do not subscribe to the concept of collective security, Sen. Lang put in the factual reminder that their defence expenditure, on a per capita basis, "is about five times the expenditure of Canadians, and the defence system that they have is infinitely inferior and inadequate."

The argument that we would save money by withdrawing from NATO is therefore arrant nonsense.

As for Mr. Kierans' contention that "NATO is a useless military bureaucracy that has divided Europe instead of unifying it," the Senator said: "In this I have to agree with the Postmaster General, because without NATO Europe indeed would be united. It would be united as a group of satellites under Russian military domination."

And he added: "If that is the kind of union that we want to see, somebody is not talking the same language as I am."

I think we have to remind ourselves who it was who attempted to blockade Berlin; who it was who shot down crowds in the streets of Berlin just about 10 years ago; who it was who suppressed Hungary in one of the most savage outbursts in modern times, and who it was who moved into Czechoslovakia just six months ago.

"Yes, I suggest that NATO has divided Europe. It has divided Europe into the slave and the free . . ."

Taking up next Mr. Kierans' view that NATO is self-justifying deterrent against a non-military threat, Sen. Lang said:

"I would like the Postmaster General to make that statement about a non-military threat to the West Germans, the Hungarians and the Czechs. The Warsaw Pact countries and Russia are undoubtedly the most heavily armed agglomeration of states in the world . . . with a non-nuclear capability probably double that of the European NATO forces."

Gasser, Allen Palmer, Harold Smith, Fred Gilman.

In his report Mr. Lake stated that he would announce the days on which he would visit in the charge, namely Bedford, Mystic, Stanbridge East and Philippsburg. In his address Mr. Lake likened church life to batteries, which need to be charged and re-charged in order to obtain good power performance.

Reference was made of the coming of Mr. Ernest Reisinger, Carlisle, Pa., who will be at the Westminster Presbyterian Church Pierrefonds in Montreal on Feb. 12. Mr. Reisinger is well known in Bedford, several years ago, when Rev. Peter Macaskill was pastor. Mr. Reisinger conducted a week of church services in the charge.

A letter of thanks was read from the pastor and his wife for their Christmas gift, which was a handsome clock.

The meeting concluded with prayer after which refreshments were served.

Bell chief forecasts telecommunications will become nervous system of society

GRANBY — Telecommunications are to become the nervous system of modern society, Jean-Paul Gagnon, Vice-President of Bell Canada, told the Chamber of Commerce of the District of Granby, February 13th. But they require massive investment and constant innovation, he said.

Computer data, music, words and images have to be carried simultaneously with thousands of conversations on the electronic arteries of communication," Mr. Gagnon said.

"Customers want to phone ever more often, on ever longer distances, to an ever increasing number of people. They want to hear their friends ever more clearly. And, soon, they will want to see them ever more clearly, on their screens."

"The telephone network was never completely rebuilt in the last 10 years and will be nearly completely rebuilt again in the next 10 years."

Mr. Gagnon said that Bell Canada is relying increasingly on its affiliate, Northern Electric, in its exploration of potential fields of scientific and technological progress.

"These research endeavors have not only brought to Canadians equipment adapted to specifically Canadian needs but has also opened up vast export markets for this country," he said. "Greece, Turkey, Venezuela, the Philippines are some of these markets."

"Research, modernization and service improvement are at the core of Bell Canada activity," the Vice-President said. These three fields of action, however, entail enormous expenses.

Mr. Gagnon said the heavy expenses required for improved facilities and services were a major reason in his Company's seeking a revised rates schedule before the Canadian Transportation Commission.

William MacArthur was appointed to look into the matter of procuring a suitable screen for the organist and to report on the matter.

Reports were read by the various officers and showed the affairs of the church to be in satisfactory condition.

It was moved that a letter of thanks be sent to the Toringon Company for their generosity in donating certain piping in connection with the church as well as the Bell Property on Elizabeth Street.

There was also mention made of the various amounts left to the church by deceased members namely Mrs. M. Russell, Miss Mary Palmer, Mrs. Minnie Casey, Mrs. Jasper Creller and Mrs. Rosenburg.

The election of officers for 1969 then took place, Sunday School, Mrs. Ronald Martin; M and M fund now known as the M and S fund, Missions and Service, Ralph Oakes; Bell property, Howard Salisbury; treasurer, Fred Gilman and

One of our favorite features in the Bulletin of the American Contract Bridge League is Edwin Kantar's article entitled, "Rate Your Own Match Point Game." Most of his hands are too tough for a bridge column but once in awhile he has one that should interest our readers. (Incidentally, Kantar's hands are usually ones he has played and, as a member of this year's American International Team, you can be pretty sure that Eddie is one of the world's best dummy players.)

South's three-club bid was preparatory to raising hearts but when North took control and contracted for six diamonds South was delighted to play the hand there. Dummy's king of spades won the first trick. A low diamond lost to East's ace and a spade was led back.

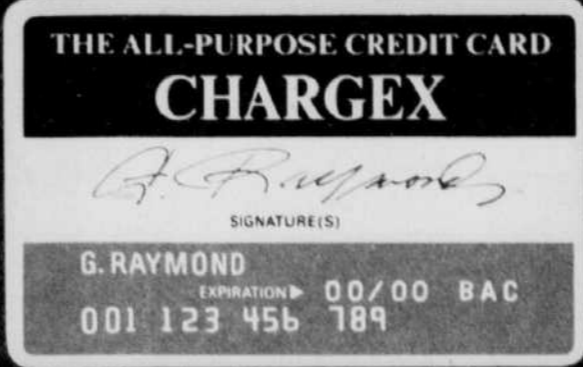

This hand illustrates the theme of not taking a discard until you have to do so. Eddie didn't know whether he should discard a heart or a club so he just ruffed and played his jack of diamonds.

Then he cashed dummy's ace and king of hearts. When the queen dropped he did cash dummy's queen of trumps and discarded his jack of clubs on the ace of spades.

If the queen of hearts had not dropped, South would have discarded his jack of hearts on the ace of spades and ruffed a heart. If hearts broke he would have entered dummy with the queen of trumps and discarded his jack of clubs on the last heart. If hearts failed to break, he would have still been able to try the club finesse.

In other words, the combination play was going to work unless one defender held four hearts to the queen and the club finesse was wrong.

Valentine Ball guests given the magic carpet treatment

The magic carpet treatment was given the many guests attending one of Sherbrooke's social events of the year, the Valentine Ball sponsored by the local committee of the Quebec Music Festivals, on Saturday night, in the Salle d'Armes at Le Baron Hotel.

Huge glittery moons and stars hanging from the ceiling, small treasure chests displayed at the entrance of the check room, incense burning, four Arabian hostesses handing bright colored scarves, set the guests at once into the mood of the evening. One Thousand and One Nubies, as they walked into the lobby of the hotel.

The door to the Salle d'Armes was dressed into a harem beaded entrance.

All the tables were decorated with metallic paper treasure chests and colored candles which gave the entire hall quite a striking effect.

To carry on the illusion of the Thousand and One Nights decoration, the dance floor was set under an oriental tent effect. A mosque tower and a large chest full of golden treasures completed the decor. The Pop and Jazz ensemble offered excellent dance music during the dinner.

During the evening, the president of the Quebec Music Festivals, Robert Leblanc introduced the guests of honor, Mr. Paul Gervais, MP and Mrs. Gervais, special guests Deputy Minister of Cultural Affairs, Raymond Morrissette and Mrs. Morrissette and Mrs. Cesaire Gervais, founder of the first local committee, who was offered red roses as a token of appreciation from the actual committee.

Mr. Leblanc thanked everyone responsible for the success of the evening, members of the committee, the public and the newspapers.

LOS ANGELES—(NEA)—When Bijan came to the United States, from Iran, 10 years ago, he knew no English and had virtually no money. Today he buys marbles by the thousands, sheet brass by the ton and is trying to figure out ways to keep people from eating his popcorn.

Bijan is a handsome 32-year-old Persian — and he draws a distinct line between Persians and Arabs. (Especially since Sirhan Sirhan became prominent and the public assumed that all Middle Eastern immigrants were Arabs.)

He has a last name, but prefers not to use it. Instead, he uses only his first name, and it is becoming increasingly well-known on the West Coast. Bijan is an artist but a very specialized artist.

His métier is metal. He started by renting a little old lady's garage and creating metallic sculptures. He sold them to private collectors—Frank Sinatra, Carol Burnett and Joey Bishop are some—and public buildings.

Someone suggested to him that there might be a market for his works with the general public. He rented a little bigger garage and started turning his works out in quantity. Local department stores gobbled them up.

Today he has a big building near Dodger Stadium and 15 assistant artists to help him.

He buys sheet brass at a five-ton clip. He decorates some of his works with glass marbles (with a technique he is now in the process of patenting) and orders them in 50,000 lots. To keep his sculptures safe in transit, he packs them in popcorn. He's a little worried that people may eat the popcorn—which conceivably could spoil—and is now considering dyeing it purple or black to discourage the practice.

Bijan's works — metallic sculptures and lamps and tables and clocks built around the sculptures — are now sold around the country. He's even a little afraid that they are being sold, without his knowledge, around the world.

A Hong Kong importer met him at a gift show and proudly displayed a copy of a Bijan sculpture. Bijan sold it originally for $100. The Hong Kong copy retailed for $15. Bijan also got an order from a Japanese firm for one of everything he made. He said he was sorry, but no thanks. If they were going to copy him, he wasn't going to make it easy for them.

He changes most of his works every year, to forestall the Oriental copyists. It is his artistic eye and technical skill—he uses new methods of working with metal—that set his sculptures apart.

The ones he sells in stores range in price from $22.50 (for a metallic flower) to $900 (for a table that rests on a flight of metallic swallows). But for an original Bijan for your home or in front of your office building, the sky's the limit.

One wealthy Californian loves Bijan's works so much — and can back up his love with so many dollars — that he even has a real rarity. It is a Bijan original, metallic, sculptured mailbox.

Bijan and his metallic sculpture.

QUEBEC SCENE

Three men will contest byelection

MONTREAL (CP) — Three candidates will contest the March 3 provincial byelection in nearby Dorion, says Returning Officer R-Eugene Tanguay.

Mr. Tanguay said in an interview one Liberal, one Union Nationale and one independent candidate had filed papers by the time nominations closed at 2 p.m. Monday.

Union Nationale candidate is Mario Beaulieu, 38, a notary. Liberal candidate is Emile Horner, 43, an administrator and the independent is Emile Laporte, 46, a job counsellor.

The seat was left vacant by the resignation of Francois Aquin, who was elected as a Liberal in June, 1966, but who crossed the floor of the legislative assembly to sit as an independent in protest against the Liberal party's attitude to the 1967 visit to Canada of French President Charles de Gaulle.

Standings in the legislature are: Union Nationale 55, Liberals 49, independents 3, and one vacant.

Want inquiry

OTTAWA (CP) — The Ottawa branch of the Canadian Civil Liberties Association has asked for an inquiry into the Jan. 23 police shooting of a 16-year-old Indian boy, Willy Mitchell, in Maniwaki, Que.

The Maniwaki River Desert Band Council has also sent a request for an inquiry to Quebec Attorney-General Armand Maltais.

Maniwaki Police Chief Achille Thibault said his investigation showed Constable Graham Labelle fired two warning shots into the air and a third who went off accidentally when he fell into a 24-foot ravine.

Under the circumstances, he said, it was impossible to stop Constable Labelle.

He added that Mitchell has been charged with theft and will appear in court in Mont Laurier March 13.

A letter asking for an inquiry was sent Friday by Michael Posluns, executive director of the Ottawa Branch of the Civil Liberties Association, to the attorney-general.

He said two other youths, Stanley Dumond, 15, and Richard Menasse, 15, reported they were returning to the reserve with Mitchell when Constable Labelle ordered them to halt.

210 of the Engineering Students' Association's 489 members said: "We abhor the violence and destruction at Sir George Williams University and the attempts to totally disrupt the normal functioning of the university."

"We believe that the occupants had to be ejected and that the action taken by the administration in calling the police was justified."

The students also recommended that any student found guilty of charges levied against him should be expelled immediately.

letier clashed as their paths crossed on leaving the meeting hall.

"You sing much better than you can shout, and you should stick to what you can do best," said Mr. Pelletier.

Miss Julien retorted: "It was a shame for you to speak the way that you did. You speak of culture while your government tries to assimilate Quebecers."

Turning to reporters, Miss Julien said her action was not premeditated and she simply was angry at the Quebec delegation which had not even "flinched" at Mr. Pelletier's words.

"I should have shouted better and louder," said Miss Julien. "It is foolish to let Mr. Pelletier speak in the name of the French-language people of Quebec when his government does nothing but try to assimilate them."

Mr. Pelletier said he had no comment on the incident. But, he added, the shout had not upset him "because I have known the lady in question for 30 years."

The four-day meeting has brought together representatives of about 25 French-speaking countries. The meeting hopes to establish a world-wide agency for cultural and educational co-operation that would embrace about 200,000,000 French-speaking people in 40 countries.

MONTREAL (CP) — An autopsy was performed Monday on Gerald Brozowski, 23, who swallowed a plastic bag while being detained by suburban St. Laurent police and later died.

Results of the autopsy were not immediately available.

Brozowski was arrested in a St. Laurent restaurant Saturday on suspicion of being in possession of drugs. He died in hospital 23 hours later.

There was no recurrence Monday of the three-hour peaceful demonstration held in front of the St. Laurent police headquarters by a group of about 40 placard-carrying youths Sunday.

Police said a plastic bag containing "what looked like marijuana seeds" was taken from Brozowski and that while it was lying on a table the suspect somehow managed to seize it and swallow it.

Moreover, it will be empowered to make agreements with provincial governments for joint development programs. The two levels of government will be able jointly to establish and operate agencies and corporations.

The new department was forecast by Mr. Trudeau in last June's election campaign. It also fits in with his longtime platform theme of combatting regional disparities.

Conservative Leader Stanfield objected to the centralizing approach of the department and what he termed the lack of machinery or framework to permit it to co-ordinate the attack on regional disparities.

SEES POSITIVE POINTS
However, he said it had its positive points, including the extension of aid to industry in depressed areas during the enterprise's break-in period. He also praised the idea of the government coming around to assisting the "natural growth centres."

Mr. Stanfield said the Atlantic development board was "emasculated" and he favored a beefed-up board to co-ordinate development work in the Atlantic region.

The bill also laid down terms for the establishment of the long-forecast departments of communications, fisheries and forestry, supply and services and finally, industry, trade and commerce.

It would also establish three new Crown corporations out of existing agencies: The Royal Canadian Mint, the Medical Research Council and the Science Council of Canada.

Co-operating

QUEBEC (CP) — The provincial health department Monday announced the medical authorities from France and Quebec are co-operating on a project aimed at preventing blindness of persons suffering from diabetes. The department said results of the joint medical program should be available in the next three years. The project started last November.

On the alert

KARACHI (AP) — Troops were on the alert today for more clashes between supporters and opponents of President Mohammad Ayub Khan's government after at least five persons were killed in new violence here Monday.

The deaths brought to 51 the number of persons who have died since political unrest broke out in Pakistan in mid-January.

La bella Gina really digs archeology

By DICK KLEINER

HOLLYWOOD—(NEA)— Surprise. Deep within the curvy exterior of Gina Lollobrigida lurks the heart of a scientist. Just goes to show you that you can't tell a glamor girl by her cover.

Prof. Lollobrigida will shortly depart on an archaeological expedition. She plans to spend three months with the group as they dig in the Sudan, looking for a lost city of gold.

Gina's function is twofold. She is cofinancier of the expedition—her partner is a Russian-born Italian prince. She is also the official photographer.

"Photography is my hobby," she says. "I was trained as a painter, but when I became an actress, I had no time to paint. Photography is an artistic substitute."

The goal of the expedition is scientific. Of course, if they also happen to find a few golden baubles, well and good. The Sudanese government has established ground rules for digging in their turf—anything that is found works on a one-for-you-and-one-for-me basis. So Gina hopes to add a few ancient geegaws to her collection.

"I am very interested in archaeology," she says. "In my villa, I have some fine pieces—Etruscan, Egyptian, ancient Roman. It is very interesting to me."

The only possible flies in the scientific ointment are if all the pick-axes break, which is not likely to happen, or if she gets a big picture, which is much more possible.

"I want to do pictures," she says, "but I want to do something more strong than I have done. These things that I have done, they are fine, but I think now I can do something better. Something with more power."

She was happy with her latest, the delightful comedy, "Buona Sera, Mrs. Campbell." The reports of difficulty on the set she brushes off with a smile.

"I liked doing the picture," she says. "But that crazy Shelley Winters. All she wants to do is quit and go home. Every day."

"Someday, they should make a movie of what happens behind the camera. I tell you, each picture is a different story. This one was like an opera."

Gina says her career would have been easier for her if she had, like many other actresses in Europe, had a "sponsor"—a producer or director who takes a special, personal interest in a particular actress.

"So many girls," she says, "have a producer or director who is a friend, who has his arm around them and takes care of them. I never had this. I was always by myself. I always have to act in self-defense."

Gina's son, Milko, is now 11 and going to school in Switzerland. She admits she spoils him, which is only natural.

W. I. to present slate of officers at March meeting

KINNEAR'S MILLS — The January meeting of the Kinnear's Mills Women's Institute was held at the home of Mrs. Victor Lowry.

The president, Mrs. Uric Nutbrown, was in the chair and called the meeting to order. Seven members answered the roll call by naming a Christmas gift.

All bills were to be paid. Christmas cards had been received from the Inverness Brauch, Mr. and Mrs. G. MacFarlane, Riceville, Ont. and Mrs. George Crawford.

A letter of appreciation was received from the Dixville home for a donation of money sent to the home to buy Christmas gifts.

A discussion took place regarding the high rate of postage and dope among the teenagers.

Some of the members brought their favorite recipes. A nominating committee was formed and the new slate will be presented at the March meeting.

A card of good wishes and a gift was sent to a member, Mrs. Bertha Nutbrown, who was ill.

Mrs. Edgar Nugent, County president, is to attend a semi-annual board meeting at Macdonald College Feb. 6 and 7.

The draw box donated by the hostess was won by Mrs. Eric MacRae. The annual meeting will be held in March when all reports must be handed in. Refreshments were served and a social hour spent.

Following the service Mr. and Mrs. Smith entertained at their home at a buffet luncheon, present were Mrs. W. A. Smith, the baby's great-grandmother, Mr. and Mrs. Ray McMorine, Miss Janice McMorine, Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Statton and daughter, Louise and Rev. L. G. and Mrs. Westman.

Service well attended for Christian Unity

SAWYERVILLE — A bilingual service for Christian Unity was held on Jan. 26, in the United Church in connection with the week of prayer for Christian Unity with a large attendance. Father Bisson and Rev. J. C. Arnold conducted the service in both French and English, taking turns with Scripture readings and prayers. The Catholic Junior Girls Choir sang two anthems and the United Church Choir two anthems. Short talks were given by both Father Bisson and Rev. Arnold with the Benediction being given in English by Father Bisson and in French by Rev. Arnold.

After the service all were invited to the lower hall where light refreshments were served by members of the U.C.W. and a social time enjoyed. Mr. Zepherin Rousseau extended a vote of thanks and appreciation for the lunch and to all for their support towards their new church.

THE BATTLE FOR a playoff berth in the Quebec Provincial Senior Hockey League is heading for a real old showdown with five clubs still in the race. Chicoutimi and Victoriaville are deadlocked in first while Granby and Sherbrooke are tied in third with St. Hyacinthe a close fifth.

GRANBY VICS have six games left with one a postponed battle with Phil Watson's Sags of Chicoutimi in a date to be determined at the coming league meeting next week. It seems fiery Phil doesn't like the suggested date given by Gaston Fausse, of Granby, March 7, and wants to play March 4.

VICTORIAVILLE TIGERS have nine games left, the same as Chicoutimi, while the Beavers have eight compared to nine for St. Hyacinthe. These extra games could be a big factor in determining the final playoff berths. Every game is a big one and the teams must be "up" if they wish to cop a spot.

THE BEAVERS trotted out a new player, Ray Carpentier, Sunday afternoon in St. Hyacinthe and Manager Real Veilleux and Coach Lou Poliquin were pleased with his initial appearance. He comes at the right time since Bill Sweeney has been suspended by the local club for failing to report back after a short holiday in Montreal last week.

CARPENTIER WAS on the Beavers' list earlier this season but didn't put in an appearance as it seems he hurt himself. He looked alright and Manager Veilleux hopes he will fit right in and after listening to the game Sunday it looks as though he should be alright.

IT LOOKS AS though the games will have to go the whole way before the positions are decided. It is the first time for years that five clubs are bunched so close together. A few victories could be a big factor for any of the five. Under the present situation the fans should be in for some good hockey before the end of the schedule.

THE ANNUAL Eastern Townships Bonspiel ended in a blaze of glory Saturday evening in Sherbrooke and Lennoxville. Once the week-long event hits the finals it seems everybody kind of relaxes, except the few rinks in the playdowns.

SOME VERY GOOD curling was witnessed during the week and the "window skips" had a wonderful time second-guessing the skips on the ice. It is real funny to listen to some of the remarks regarding the various shots. The fellow behind the window is always in the better position as he calls his shot after the skip makes his decision which makes it easier for him.

LES GARTSHORE AND Pete Parker staged a close battle in the main event and some good shots were registered by players on both rinks. It was only in the final three ends when Skip Parker missed and Danville chalked up the extra points to ensure the win.

THE DANCES EARLIER in the week had everyone hopping and the next evening some of the curlers were still feeling the effects of a hard night but this didn't stop them from trying to make the shots but the results weren't quite the same. Anyway I guess everybody had a good time and after all that is what counts.

CITY OF SHERBROOKE Parks Department has closed their outdoor rinks claiming that the warm weather makes it impossible to keep them in operation. I don't remember such warm weather but maybe around the City Hall it may be a little different.

I WONDER IF they have taken into consideration the number of youngsters who enjoy the rinks as well as some adults who are still trying their hand at whirling around the ice. I don't think the warm weather is with us yet but I suppose the City wants to try save some money so the rest doesn't count too much.

SKIING CAME IN for their share of the spotlight on the weekend with three big meets on the agenda. In Sherbrooke the Mont Bellevue Ski Club held their Youngster's Meet and it was a good one with over a hundred youngsters taking part.

AT NORTH HATLEY the annual Rotary Interscholastic Meet was held with nine schools from the District taking part. Young Bobby Richardson emerged the winner in the combined junior while George Hamilton, of Stanstead, won the senior slalom with Larry Thouin, of Magog, the winner in the downhill.

AT BROMONT the experts were out in force and Diane Culver, of Montreal, extended her lead in the Pontiac Cup championships when she won the giant slalom and the special slalom. Neil Baker, also of Montreal, was the over-all men's winner in the meet. The leaders in the West and East meet this week in British Columbia in the finals of the Pontiac Cup competition.

SHERBROOKE HIGH and Lennoxville High are dominating the ranks in senior cage play. SHS boys have so far dropped only one game while the Lennoxville lassies are running over the opposition in fine style.

YOUNG STEVE NEWTON is the big gun for the maroon and white while Debbie Ramage and Marjorie Crawford are pacing the Lennoxville squad. Glancing over the scores some games are close with SHS and LHS tops in their respective sections.

Carpentier to play Beavers host Sagueneneens tonight

Sherbrooke Beavers, after taking both ends of a home-and-away series with Chicoutimi Sagueneneens last week, will be attempting to make it three in a row tonight as they host Phil Watson's charges at 8:30 p.m. at the Sports Palace.

RAYMOND CARPENTIER, a 28-year-old athlete obtained by the Beavers from New Haven of the Eastern Hockey League, will make his first appearance to-night.

RAYMOND CARPENTIER, a 28-year-old athlete obtained by the Beavers from New Haven of the Eastern Hockey League, will make his first appearance to-night.

Sherbrooke is scheduled to meet the Vics twice more this season, both games slated in Granby. Vics, like Sherbrooke, have become increasingly difficult to beat on home ice during the playoff drive and this factor could hurt Sherbrooke's chances of remaining in third place. Last season Carpentier scored 44 goals and 79 assists in 58 games with New Haven and ended the season in fourth place among the league's leading scorers.

CARPENTIER, a husky 5' 10" tall and weighs 183 pounds, plays centre and his record with New Haven clearly demonstrates his ability within an opponents zone.

Sherbrooke Beavers, mentor, Lou Poliquin, was impressed with the play of Carpentier and in a recent interview said the high scoring centreman would be a great help to Sherbrooke. As far as Gaston Bouchard is concerned, said Poliquin, he is playing excellent hockey and will not be relegated to a bench position. In their last nine games, Lou Poliquin charges have won seven, tied one and lost one; an astounding record as compared to their faltering beginning early in the season. The uphill battle is far from over for the Beavers but if they continue to play as they have been, Sherbrooke could pose threats to each of the four teams currently holding down playoff berths.

Blues defensive power astounding, Boston scoring punch on the wane

MONTREAL (CP) — While Boston Bruins' vaunted scoring power appears on the wane today in the wake of two successive weekend losses, the defensive armor of St. Louis Blues shows no signs of cracking.

As a result of these two factors, Boston's lead atop the National Hockey League's East Division has dissolved, but the Blues first-place margin in the West Division has expanded.

While Boston is currently tied with Montreal at 78 points in the East, but with two games in hand, the St. Louis aggregation has lengthened its lead to 23 points over second-place Oakland Seals in the West.

Despite the general Boston falloff, Bruins centre Phil Esposito managed to maintain a 14-point lead over his nearest rival — Bobby Hull of Chicago Black Hawks — in the individual scoring race.

Esposito has 92 points on 36 goals and 56 assists, while Hull has scored 37 times and assisted in 41 other Chicago goals for 78 points. Hull's goal output is the highest in the league.

In third place is Gordie Howe of Detroit Red Wings, one point behind Hull, while Stan Mikita of Chicago is fourth with 73 points.

Jean Beliveau and Yvan Cournoyer — linemates with Montreal Canadiens — moved up to fifth and sixth places respectively. Beliveau has 70 points, three more than Cournoyer and veteran centre Alex Delvecchio of Detroit.

The West Division's scoring leader, Red Berenson of St. Louis, is eighth with 66 points, including a division-leading 28 goals.

GOALTENDING SUCCESS — The core of the Blues' success this season has been the goaltending of veterans Glenn Hall and Jacques Plante.

Hall recorded two shutouts last week and Plante allowed only two goals in as many games to drop the team's combined goals-against average to 1.98. The two shutouts gave Hall a leading eight for the season and raised the team's total to 13.

Although there have been as many shutouts registered by teams in a season, there has not been a team record of 14 shutouts since the late George Hainsworth set the all-time mark of 22 while with Canadiens in 1928-29. The Blues need only one more win to clinch a playoff spot in their own division. They now have 74 points in 59 games.

Forward Forbes Kennedy of Philadelphia Flyers took over the dubious honor of penalty leader last week and his 193-minute total is the third-highest in NHL history, being surpassed only by Howie Young, then with Detroit, in 1962-63 and 202 minutes by Lou Fontinato of New York Rangers in 1955-56.

The Rally will be divided into four classes and each will be split into four heats in order for the drivers to accumulate points towards the O'Keefe Trophy in their respective classes and the top prize of $500.

Points will be granted to the first five in each class. The winner will be given five points, second six, third four, fourth two and the fifth place finisher will get a single point. The winner with the most points accumulated during the meet will be declared the Grand-Champion of the Rally.

Denis Proulx, club president, invites all snowmobile owners to make their entries as soon as possible. They can be forwarded to Denis Proulx, R.R. No. 1 Rock Forest or to Bob Desmarais, Lake Brompton Hotel. After the entries are received the club is obliged to list the various starters in their own classes.

The sum of $2,000, which is up for grabs for the various winners, is the largest ever offered in the history of the club and tops anything ever put up for any similar Rally. The club invites the public to attend as some of the best drivers in the Province will be on hand.

Bob Desmarais reports the course is in the best shape ever and should be the same for the Rally. Men are working at present on the layout in order to have it in good shape.

The club is in charge of the Rally and anyone desiring more information on it can contact President Proulx by calling at 562-5891 or Auberge Lake Brompton. Following the conference a delicious buffet was served to members of the press, radio and television, who were on hand for the event.

Coach Harry Sinden, however, took a "wait-and-see" attitude on whether Orr will play at Pittsburgh Wednesday.

The Bruins, who lost two weekend games, also announced that left winger Ron Murphy has recovered from a torn rib cartilage. He has missed 14 games.

Rookie winger Tom Webster will miss about 10 days because of abdominal muscle injuries, the Bruins said. Webster suffered the injuries when slashed in a game against Chicago Sunday.

NHL action resumes Wednesday with Boston at Pittsburgh, Montreal visiting Toronto Maple Leafs, Detroit Red Wings playing at New York, Oakland Seals welcoming Chicago, St. Louis Blues playing host to Philadelphia and Los Angeles Kings meeting Minnesota North Stars at Minneapolis.

Campbell conducted an inquiry Friday into Esposito's altercation with Sloan, which occurred in the third period of a game against Philadelphia Flyers, and announced his decision Monday.

The incident took place early in the third period after the Boston centre and defenceman Larry Hale of Philadelphia were given minor penalties for slashing.

Campbell said in a statement that Esposito swore at Sloan and the referee assessed him a misconduct penalty.

"When Esposito heard the referee report the misconduct penalty, he charged at the official giving him two good gloves with his gloved hands," Campbell said. "The official immediately signalled that Esposito was out of the game and turned to get away from him."

Esposito managed to brush aside the linesmen, followed the official for a couple of strides and then delivered a solid left-hand punch which landed on Sloan's shoulder.

The linesmen and Esposito's team-mates intervened at this point and stopped the altercation, Campbell said.

The game was on television and Campbell said he ran the tape of the dispute several times as part of the hearing.

Esposito also was fined $75—the automatic $25 and $50 assessments for a misconduct and game misconduct.

The Boston centre said at the hearing he had sworn at Hale, not Sloan.

Back in Boston, Orr reported

NEW YORK (AP) — Oakland Seals' application for transfer of their National Hockey League franchise is expected to be turned down today by the NHL's board of governors.

The Seals, struggling at the gate, are hoping for approval to move to Buffalo, N.Y., where a group headed by banker Seymour Knox III has purchased the team conditional upon its transfer.

The issue came up for review at a board of governors' meeting in Montreal last month and was tabled, but indications at that time were that the move was doomed.

"It is the desire of the league," said president Clarence Campbell, "to remain in the Bay area."

DOCTOR'S MAILBAG
Steroids Are Helpful To Selected Asthmatics

By WAYNE G. BRANDSTADT, M.D.

Q—What are steroids? Why are they given for allergy? What undesirable side effects do they have?

A—Steroids (an abbreviation of corticosteroids) are drugs of the cortisone group. They are helpful when given to carefully selected persons with allergies—chiefly severe asthmatics in whom the cause cannot be found or in whom other methods of treatment have failed. The side effects include moon face, obesity, growth of hair on the face, weakening of the vertebrae and peptic ulcers.

Q—I have had an allergy to the ultraviolet rays of the sun for six years. A sun-screen preparation helps me but I wonder whether using an artificial sweetener could have caused my allergy?

A—The calcium cyclamate present in some sweeteners may cause an allergy to sunlight when used in large amounts. Discontinuing the use of the sweetener cures this type of allergy.

Q—I have an allergy to wheat. How does one get it? What foods should I avoid?

A—Food allergies usually have their roots in infancy. If an infant is given food he is not yet able to digest, it may be absorbed into his blood in an incompletely digested state. In the blood it sets up an immune reaction similar to that used to combat an infection. When the same food is eaten again, an attack of asthma or hives usually results.

With modern food processing an allergic person is often at a disadvantage because he doesn't always know what he is eating. You, for example, should avoid not only all wheat breads, crackers and pastries but also such coffee substitutes as Postum and Ovaltine, malted milk, beer, ale and gin. There is often some wheat flour in breads made of rice, potato or soy flours as well as corn, bran and rye breads unless you make them at home from known ingredients.

Before eating any cereal or commercial salad dressing or candy, read the list of ingredients on the label. You must avoid commercial sherbets, ice creams, custards and pudding mixes as well as Swiss steak, chili con carne, meat balls, meat loaf, croquettes, Accent, Zest, cream soups and bouillon cubes.

Don't get clipped

Fellows won't help him as they feel $1 haircuts are too cheap

NORTH BAY, Ont. —(CP)—Customers at Johnny's Dollar Barber Shop don't get clipped. Johnny Baribeau, who recently opened the shop, charges only $1 for adult haircuts and 75 cents for children. That's about $1 less than the local competition—and the competition isn't pleased.

Baribeau says his volume of business is going to rise, but he has to take care of all the heads himself. He can't get another barber to work in the shop although he has space for four chairs.

Barbers are reluctant to work in the shop because they feel that dollar haircuts hurt the prestige of the industry.

Mr. Baribeau, besides alienating many old friends and colleagues, is also having trouble buying barber supplies. An order of $93.98 worth of supplies was to be delivered to the shop from a local supplier. When the order didn't arrive Mr. Baribeau telephoned the supplier, who told him to come down and pick up his money.

Mr. Baribeau says the supplier told him that other barbers had called in and advised that he not sell to Mr. Baribeau.

Another barber confirmed that pressure had been put on the supplier to stop selling to Mr. Baribeau, by suggestions that they would withdraw their business from the supplier.

"I think it's a dirty trick," the barber, who asked not to be identified, said.

But the beleaguered barber is determined to stick it out. He plans to buy supplies in Quebec—50 miles away—for as long as necessary.

Mr. Baribeau says his prices are above the minimum for haircuts set by the department of labor for the North Bay area, and displays a copy of a regulation under the Industrial Standards Act which sets the minimum for the area at 75 cents for adults and 50 cents for children.

"There's nothing the other barbers can do about it legally," one of the competitors said.

Baribeau's pretty wife has a solution to the staff problem. If no one will work in the shop, then Mrs. Baribeau swears she will learn to cut hair and help out.

Meanwhile, the young barber continues to clip away at discount prices as customers sit in his chair and dream of the days when coffee was a nickel a cup and milk was 15 cents a quart and...
