Tainted meat network is linked to Ontario

MONTREAL (CP) — A supply network that provided tainted meat for human consumption throughout the province of Quebec had links in Ontario, the Quebec police commission inquiry into organized crime was told Thursday. Evidence also indicated that two unnamed Ontario retail outlets may have received meat from a Pointe Gatineau, Que., meat supply firm that was acquiring tainted meat from Ontario. Leo Lacelle, a Quebec meat dealer, told the inquiry he purchased between 200,000 and 300,000 pounds of tainted meat—meat from dead and diseased animals—from meat salvagers in various Ontario centres between 1971 and 1975.

He said some of the meat came from a company that manufactured pet food near Peterborough, Ont., as well as from Van Kleek Hill, 50 miles east of Ottawa, and St. Albert, 30 miles east of Ottawa.

He said the meat purchased near Peterborough was taken to East Templeton, Que., in unmarked trucks where it was transferred to cardboard boxes. Some of it was then moved to Hull Food Supply in Pointe Gatineau, Que., where, Mr. Lacelle testified, it was loaded on to a truck with the markings of Federal Packing Inc. of Magog, Que., a firm which police raided last month and seized thousands of pounds of tainted meat.

He said that two Ontario retail outlets, which he did not identify, were among customers for Hull Food Supply's meat.

Mr. Lacelle testified he paid Ontario salvagers from 22 to 30 cents a pound for the meat. Previous testimony has indicated meat from dead and diseased animals is usually sold to pet food and fertilizer companies for a fraction of that price.

No plans to expand CHU

SHERBROOKE (RM) — There are no plans to enlarge the Université de Sherbrooke Medical Centre (CHU), Normand Simoneau, director-general of the hospital told The Record yesterday.

Mr. Simoneau's statement comes after rumors to the effect that the CHU was to be enlarged by six more floors. The director-general said currently 60 of the hospital's 365 beds are in fact not being used, in accordance to the provincial government's order not to use them for budgetary purposes.

The government is presently concentrating its efforts on regionalization of hospital services in the Townships, including the possibility of the centralization of some medical specialties.

When the CHU was originally constructed about eight years ago, it was with foundations for additional floors if it were ever deemed necessary to add at any future time.

Yamaska doctors back in plan

QUEBEC (CP) — A spokesman for 65 Yamaska, Que., general practitioners, who withdrew from the province's health insurance plan earlier this month, said the doctors have decided to return to the plan.

"Our mission was to bring the dispute to the public's attention," Dr. Jean-Paul Bedard said.

"Although the guerrilla battle is over the negotiation problems are still not solved."

The doctors withdrew from the Quebec Health Insurance Plan to protest stilled negotiations for renewal of their contract with the government.

The doctors were also protesting a government decision to establish time limits on doctors' examination of patients.

Six medical and dental associations have wired premier Robert Bourassa and Social Affairs Minister Claude Forget to ask that a legislature committee be set up to examine control of professional activities.

Earlier Thursday, Mr. Forget told the national assembly that persons forced to pay for medical services in the Yamaska and Saguenay-Lake St. John areas, where doctors had left the plan, were not entitled to government refunds.

Mr. Forget said only emergency cases would be eligible for refunds and it was up to doctors to determine which cases qualified.

The doctors' contract expired June 30, 1972.

Festival des Cantons swings into city streets tonight

SHERBROOKE (RM) — "It's just out of this world!" That was the way the enthusiastic president of the Festival des Cantons, Louis Bilodeau, described his feelings yesterday on the eve of the Festival's second opening.

The annual bash held in downtown streets officially opens tonight at 7:30 at the "Plac de la Groutte," corner of King and Wellington.

Highlights of tonight's activities are the opening ceremony and a fireworks display at 10 p.m. at the corner of King Street and the St. Lawrence River.

This week-end Quebec numbers were drawn downtown at noon today.

At least as many people as last year — 20,000 — are expected downtown this evening to witness the opening.

Mr. Bilodeau said yesterday the organizing committee has heard from many people outside the Township interested in the Festival, which was first held just last year, and tourists from as far as Rimouski, Chicoutimi and the United States are expected to be in town sometime during the festival.

Mr. Bilodeau was especially excited at the work of the 43 committees that arranged specific events this year.

In praising them, he said: "You talk about an idea, and the first thing you know, it's out in the street. It's just out of this world!"

In order to help the public find out about the many activities going on during the festival, the organizers have set up five information booths downtown. A programme of the events, as well as tickets needed for some events, are available at the booth.

INFORMATION BOOTHS — Five booths, such as this one at the King-Wellington intersection downtown, will be playing a big role in the Festival des Cantons informing the public of events during the 10-day festival, opening tonight. Tickets for the few events that need them are also available at the booths. (Record photo by Robert MacPherson)

Abortion topic in Commons

OTTAWA (CP) — A lengthy and often emotional debate on abortion gripped the Commons on Thursday during a day devoted almost entirely to women's issues.

The attention of MPs was drawn to the abortion issue by a noon-hour demonstration of anti-abortionists on Parliament Hill prior to presentation in the House of a petition said to contain more than one million signatures.

Participants in the demonstration took up much of the public gallery space in the Commons during a lively question period that dealt almost exclusively with abortion.

They broke into scattered bursts of applause, forbidden by Commons rules, as MPs opposed to abortion presented their case in exchanges which seemed aimed at the public gallery.

Lang often considered a champion of strict interpretation of the abortion law, got no applause as he said the law is adequate if it can be made to work.

SAID PERSUASIVE
Outside the House, he described the petition as "obviously very persuasive." The government would decide soon on a possible full inquiry into the issue which has drawn two large demonstrations, with opposing aims, to Parliament Hill in the last week.

Meanwhile, Mr. Lang said the government will examine the existing law to make sure it is operating "in the spirit" of the bill passed by Parliament six years ago. That legislation allows abortions if a hospital committee says continued pregnancy would endanger a mother's physical or mental health.

The petition, urging a definition of the word health in the law, was tabled by Liberal Ursula Appolloni (York South) on behalf of colleagues representing all parties and areas of the country.

Toupin attacked on meat scandal

QUEBEC (CP) — The growing controversy over the sale of tainted meat in the province gained new dimensions Thursday in the Quebec national assembly during debate on the government's spending estimates.

Opposition members launched virulent attacks against Agriculture Minister Normand Toupin, who was accused of collusion with criminal elements in the sale of tainted meat for human consumption.

"How can we explain the minister's attitude other than to say he is an accomplice of organized crime?" Fabien Roy (Cred—Beauce-sud) asked.

"We can qualify the minister as an accomplice of organized crime."

Mr. Toupin invited Mr. Roy to make his statement outside the immunity of the national assembly.

LESSARD EXPELLED

Moments earlier, Parti Quebecois agriculture critic

Lucien Lessard was expelled for calling a Liberal backbencher a liar, after the latter had accused him of being asleep while Mr. Roy was speaking.

Before he was expelled, Mr. Lessard (PQ—Saguenay) repeated arguments that existing laws would have prevented the sale of tainted meat to humans had they been applied.

The Parti Quebecois critic said the government was hiding behind the Quebec Police Commission inquiry into organized crime by saying no action could be taken until proof was available.

Mr. Toupin fuelled further opposition attacks when he told the national assembly during question period that Quebec and federal meat inspectors were paid by packers and slaughterhouses when they worked overtime at a company's request.

Why did teenager become a killer?

BRAMPTON, Ont. (CP) — A team of 30 detectives and policemen spent Thursday trying to piece together the reason why a 16-year-old Grade 11 student turned killer.

Michael Slobodian took two rifles to Centennial secondary school Wednesday morning after leaving a note saying he was going to "eliminate people," then killed Margaret Wright, 25, his English teacher, and classmate John Slinger, 17.

Thirteen other students were injured, nine seriously, in the shooting before Slobodian turned a high-powered rifle on himself and committed suicide.

Flags were at half-mast, students wore black armbands and most sports activities were cancelled at the school Thursday.

As students gathered in quiet groups near the closed school, police interviewed anyone they thought might have an idea as to why the quiet boy, who loved biology but hated his English classes, became a killer.

QUESTION UNANSWERED

Police said there is no evidence to indicate Michael took drugs. They hope someone might give them an indication of what caused him to pack a 44-calibre rifle and a 22-calibre rifle into his guitar case and head off to the school.

"We're trying to get all the pieces together to come to some determination of why this happened," said William Teggart, deputy chief of Peel regional police.

He said an examination of school records revealed nothing to indicate Slobodian had undergone any psychiatric counselling.

In the note, found by the youth's father shortly after the shooting, Slobodian said two of the persons he planned to eliminate were Mrs. Wright and Ross Bronson, a physics teacher.

Mrs. Wright had called the Slobodian home Wednesday morning to complain that Michael had skipped his English class. After his mother told him about the call, he took his guitar case and walked out of his home.

TESTS NEEDED
Mr. Bronson said all students should be psychologically tested.

Asked if this would be acceptable to students, teachers and parents, he said:

Police prepare coverage

SHERBROOKE (RM) — Municipal Police are prepared with special plans for covering the biggest event they'll have all year.

Extra officers will be on duty downtown this evening, when the Festival des Cantons officially opens.

Over 20,000 persons are expected at the King-Wellington intersection to witness the opening ceremonies.

In a confidential, 35-page document the police have arrangements for special communication system, as well as plans for the security of visiting dignitaries.

All members of the force are to be at work during the ten-day duration of the festival.

Captain Maurice Houle is in charge of the police department's festival operation this year.

NATO talks continue

BRUSSELS (CP) — Bilateral talks behind closed doors, including meetings Prime Minister Trudeau held with Common Market and then Portuguese leaders, went on Thursday while, out front, President Ford commanded the glittering spotlight of the NATO summit to seek to reassert United States influence in the alliance.

Trudeau's aim in meeting Portuguese Premier Brig. Vasco Goncalves, a Canadian government official said, was to develop economic and other ties with Portugal's new leaders.

Canada has invited a Portuguese mission to Ottawa to discuss possible bilateral arrangements, which were pretty tight while the totalitarian regime that was swept from office more than a year ago held sway in Lisbon.

Ironically, the present Portuguese government, with its strong leftward leanings, is causing considerable concern. The Americans have expressed alarm about its presence in an alliance originally established to confront Communism.

After Trudeau's talks with President Xavier Ortolí of the European Economic Community, a Canadian spokesman said negotiations for Canada's much-desired contractual link with the EEC would be long, but Canada remained confident of eventual success.

Whelan not ready to close border on US egg imports

OTTAWA (CP) — Agriculture Minister Eugene Whelan says he wants to be certain the Canadian Egg Marketing Agency (CEMA) has "its house in order" before imposing any controls on the import of U.S. eggs.

He told the Commons agriculture committee Thursday night he is in no position to impose such controls until the CEMA is in a proper supply management position.

The agency has been seeking to halt imports of low-priced U.S. eggs which it says could hurt domestic producers. CEMA's general manager, Max Roytenbergh, said Wednesday a commitment by Mr. Whelan has averted possible dissolution of the agency June 10.

Mr. Roytenbergh did not give details of the commitment.

Herman Driedeger, president of the British Columbia Egg Producers' Association said Tuesday in Vancouver that CEMA would dissolve itself by June 10 if Mr. Whelan did not close the border to U.S. eggs.

The Ontario egg producers agency has said it has brought its hen count in line with its quota, the minister said in response to a question from Don Mazankowski.

Mr. Mazankowski said he had been advised the Quebec bird count is 700,000 above the province's quota and British Columbia is exceeding its quota as well.

COUNT DECREASING
Mr. Whelan said there is evidence the total bird count in the country is decreasing. Department officials are participating in the provincial counts, he added.

All the provinces have agreed to post performance bonds, but none have yet done so, he said. The bonds would provide for financial penalties if the number of hens were not reduced to avoid overproduction of eggs.

Industrial prices plummeted 1.46 to 185.26 with banks, pipelines and oil refiners leading the declines. Profit-taking claimed some of the large gains recorded by banks earlier in the week following news of higher profits. Of the index's 16 components, three recorded most gains and 13 lost ground.

"One drink enough for me," says Seagrams builder

Allan Bronfman still very active

By JOSEPH MACSWEEN

MONTREAL (CP) — Allan Bronfman, who helped build the world's biggest distilling and wine company, glanced into the liquor cabinet of his oak-paneled office.

"It's almost empty," he reported with mock shock.

He summoned a secretary who soon produced an apparently new bottle in an elaborate package.

"But this bottle is half-empty," Mr. Bronfman exclaimed—such accidents just don't happen in the baronial House of Seagram, mother house of the worldwide Bronfman empire.

The incident gave Mr. Bronfman a chuckle, but it also prompted the serious observation that for him a half-bottle of whisky goes a long way—he is a man of moderation.

"One drink a day is enough for me," emphasized the non-smoking businessman-lawyer-philanthropist.

He said he is proud that the company is continuing annually an advertising campaign initiated in 1934 by his trail-breaking brother Samuel on the theme:

"We who make whisky say: drink moderately."

ASSETS CLIMBED

The Bronfman brothers—sons of a Jewish immigrant who helped found Winnipeg's first synagogue—came east in the 1920s and built a distillery here as the first step in an enterprise whose assets climbed to more than $1 billion before Samuel died in 1971.

"Mr. Sam," founding president, and "Mr. Allan," founding vice-president, became international figures as Seagram Co. Ltd.—its new and shortened title—grew to business volume of nearly $2 billion.

And now a special kind of celebration is being prepared to mark the 80th birthday of Mr. Allan, who has embraced a host of philanthropies during the last 55 years while helping establish the Bronfman financial dynasty.

Organizers of the unusual tribute say they aim to create lasting projects to honor the "extraordinary" contributions of Mr. Bronfman to the Jewish and non-Jewish worlds, notably in charity, education, culture and health.

The amiable octogenarian, who comes from a long-lived clan, has shortened his workday as a result of a recent bout with pneumonia—in his heyday he rose at 4:30 a.m. to cope with manifold interests.

But he plans to lead an all-Canada delegation to the forthcoming jubilee anniversary of Israel's Hebrew University and he also continues as vice-president and elder statesman of the Seagram firm.

"There is a Jewish salutation 'May you live to be 120,'" he recalled with a smile. "I used to say I would settle for 90. But when you're 80, you're not so ready to settle for 90."

Yigael Yadin, archeologist extraordinary and chief of staff in Israel's victorious war of 1948, will be guest speaker at a tribute dinner for Mr. Bronfman at the Queen Elizabeth hotel June 3.

Sponsors of the tribute also plan:

—A major student housing development for the Hebrew University of Jerusalem. Mr. Bronfman is deputy chairman of the university's international board of governors.

—A fund for medical research at the 700-bed Montreal Jewish General Hospital founded by Mr. Bronfman who served for 25 years as its president, a job now held by Peter, the younger of his two sons.

—A Jewish Community Foundation fund for projects in medicine, welfare, education and culture.

Canadian stocks on AmEx plunged billions in 1974

NEW YORK (CP) — Canadian stocks traded on the American Stock Exchange plunged $5.8 billion in 1974 as a deepening recession threw a pall over American security markets.

The decline followed a $2.4 billion drop recorded in 1973 and contrasted sharply with a $5 billion gain in 1972.

The 51 Canadian stocks traded on the Amex ended 1974 with a total value of $8,190,870,680, compared with $13,977,255,610 in 1973 and $16,330,177,709 in 1972.

At the same time, the percentage of the total market value of all stocks listed on the American Exchange slipped to 35.13 from 36.10 in 1973. Total value of all issues dropped sharply in 1974 to $23,313,630,693 from $39,100,000,000 a year earlier.

CANADIAN FAVORITES

The Amex is the largest market in the United States for trading in foreign stocks and Canadian issues traditionally have been the favorites in the foreign section. Of the 70 foreign issues listed, 51 are Canadian.

Though the Canadian issues made up only about five per cent of the exchange's 1,348 issues, they accounted for 9.67 of total 1974 sales volume. Of the 482,173,297 issues which changed hands, 46,649,310 were Canadian. In 1973, volume totalled 759,800,000 shares, of which 43,841,760 were Canadian.

Giant Yellowknife Mines

was one of the top volume performers on the Amex list. It ranked as the third most active issued on the exchange, with 8,814,800 shares changing hands. Imperial Oil, a long-time favorite, was seventh in exchange volume, trading 5,183,900 shares.

Top Canadian issues also included Wright-Margreaves Mines, with 3,656,500 shares traded; Lake Shore Mines, 3,520,800; Campbell Chibougamau Mines, 2,815,600; Asamera Oil, 2,623,000; Banister Continental, 2,329,300; Pato Consolidated Gold, 2,188,600; Ranger Oil, 2,099,400, and Dome Petroleum, 1,849,900.

Bernard H. Maas, vice-president of the exchange's Office of International Securities, said in an interview that Canadian business executives are giving increasing attention to new security listings on the American exchange.

Wall Street sources, he added, attribute the Canadian interest to the elimination last year of the Interest Equalization Tax, which imposed a levy on foreign securities purchased by Americans from non-U.S. citizens.

Fewer audits aim

TORONTO (CP) — Federal government auditors will not be calling as often in the future to inspect the books of private companies, Supply and Services Minister Jean-Pierre Goyer said Thursday.

Mr. Goyer said the government is streamlining its auditing operations so that accountants make fewer but more thorough inspections of company financial records. He spoke to a group of auditing company executives at the opening of Toronto offices of the Audit Services Bureau.

He said the government is seeking ways to reduce the number of inspections of corporate income tax, payroll, workmen's compensation, sales tax, unemployment insurance, customs and excise records. The aim is to have a single group of auditors conduct thorough inspections that will satisfy as many programs as possible.

The present system, in which a succession of federal auditors is often followed by provincial and municipal government inspections, is expensive and annoying for companies, he said.

The government already conducts income tax auditing on behalf of the provinces and, since 1967, has combined taxation, pension and unemployment insurance audits in a single inspection.

Chrysler plant may go to VW

DETROIT (AP) — The chairman of Chrysler Corp. met privately with Volkswagen chairman Toni Schmuecker last week to discuss the sale of an empty Chrysler factory at New Stanton, Pa., for building VW cars.

A Chrysler spokesman said today that Schmuecker flew into Detroit last Friday and met with Chrysler's Lynn Townsend for about two hours.

Schmuecker has said VW would not build a plant from the ground up in the United States, but rather would seek a joint venture with an American company.

Chrysler's huge New Stanton plant has been sitting idle since the $35 million shell was completed in 1970. The firm cancelled plans to equip the plant because of a series of financial problems.

Townsend has said several times in the past that he would like to sell the New Stanton plant.

CHILE BACK TO PESO
SANTIAGO (AP) — Chile's military government, beset by world-record inflation and 10 devaluations this year of the fragile escudo, announced a new currency Tuesday. Pablo Barahona, president of Chile's central bank, said that as of Sept. 1, the country will convert to the peso. Exactly 15 years ago, the country went to the escudo from the peso after constant devaluation sank the Chilean money to a level of 1,000 pesos to the U.S. dollar.

Auto parts business is staying together

VANCOUVER (CP) — What's a good business to be in when the economy turns sour?

Auto parts and service, says Nathan Starr of Downsview, Ont., executive vice-president of Acklands Ltd., one of Canada's largest wholesale hardware companies.

Mr. Starr says automotive-related activities account for 50 per cent of his company's sales and the market is growing.

This is because there are 11 million vehicles on Canada's highways and the number has been increasing at a rate of between 6 and 7.5 per cent in the last few years.

In addition, there is a growing market for marine engines and smaller engines such as those in snowmobiles, lawn mowers and chain saws. Offroad vehicles and farm machinery are another market.

"Approximately 65 per cent of the vehicle population in Canada, falls into the three-to-ten-year-old category, the prime market for replacement parts," Mr. Starr says.

"Also, the record number of vehicles sold during the years 1971 to 1973 are now entering the repair-prone years.

"The anti-recession nature of the industry is obvious. When new car purchases are delayed, consumers are keeping vehicles longer and, therefore, are subject to greater repair costs.

"Another factor indicating continued growth in the automotive after-market is the growing number of parts per vehicle.

"Presently there are approximately 15,000 parts in an automobile, compared with 11,500 in 1960."

Mr. Starr says the trend to smaller cars has not taken anything away from after-market sales because the new small cars come with all the options and accessories of larger models.

Insurance association president calls industry future "buoyant"

TORONTO (CP) — W. James Lewis, new president of the Canadian Life Insurance Association, says the industry's prospects for the future are "very buoyant."

Mr. Lewis was interviewed on the eve of his election Thurs. at the association's annual meeting in Ottawa.

He said that between 1960 and 1973, the population of Canada rose to 22 million from 18 million and the cost of living increased by slightly more than 50 per cent. In the same period, the amount of life insurance owned by Canadians increased by more than 350 per cent to $163.3 billion.

Industry statistics also show that people with incomes under $10,000 a year account for 65 per cent of all policies purchased. But those earning more than $10,000 a year account for about 60 per cent of the total amount sold.

Even the current inflationary recession has not threatened the industry's vigour, Mr. Lewis added.

The 53-year-old president of the Canadian operations of Prudential Insurance Co. of America said there are no signs sales have been adversely affected.

In reality, the economy has made people more "security conscious" and heightened their interest in insurance.

ASSETS DECREASE

The slumping economy, however, has had a damaging effect on assets. During 1973, the life insurance industry had a total asset value of $20.4 billion and in 1974 their value depreciated by "hundreds of millions of dollars" but no accurate figures are available.

This is a most important fact because the assets—stocks, bonds, mortgages and similar sorts of investments—are where the premiums received from individuals are channelled.

Mr. Lewis said the industry is peculiar in the sense that its policies are usually long-term arrangements. Premiums on individual policies have remained fixed while costs continue to soar.

The economic climate, however, is making it "increasingly difficult" to forecast the future, a vital step in setting premium rates.

Mr. Lewis said one of his primary responsibilities as association president is to perceive society's changing expectations and help the industry respond to them.

He said he hopes the association in the next few years can establish some guidelines for income security for all types of people.

"I would hope we would hammer out with authorities at the federal (government) level what we think should be provisions for income security," he said.

Task Force on housing planned

SHERBROOKE — A task force on Housing will be in Sherbrooke on Tuesday, June 10 to meet with any group, organization or individual from Sherbrooke and the surrounding area who have questions on housing here. Tenants, landlords, builders and real estate agents will be invited to the meeting.

The task force was formed last November on the suggestion of the provincial department of municipal affairs and justice and has since been touring Quebec towns and cities to better understand and analyse housing needs.

The group will develop a provincial policy on housing following their evaluation of the lodging situation throughout the province. Further, the group will establish programs to help preserve and manage existing housing while creating new housing to meet specific needs.

The task force is made up of nine persons who have a variety of background experience in housing. The group's president is Guy Legault, Director of Urban Services for the City of Montreal and President of the Municipal Housing Office. Mayor Marcel Noel of Windsor is also a member.

The group stresses that public opinion and experience is necessary before its recommendations can be made and is calling on all citizens and organizations to collaborate with them. Further information on the June 10 meeting can be had by calling Celynn Coulombe at 569-9311 or 569-4226.

Stanstead College

This is the last week of school. Where have the months gone is the question many ask. Baccalaureate and prize-giving is this Saturday, May 31.

Exams are this week. Last Saturday Stanstead competed in the Y's Men's Track meet held at Alexander Galt. Galt placed first with 121 points, BCS, second with 90½ and Stanstead in third place with 77½ points. Our school Midget team came first with 49 points. Captain Peter Churchill was high man in the Midget class. Coaches P. Boyd, D. Gomez and A. Philip were satisfied with the results as all the boys gave their best.

Sunday, May 25, at dinner the school public-speaking competition took place. Monday it was announced that Michael Shane was winner in the senior division and Doug Norris, the junior. The judges, J. Rowan, Barry Gallant and Michael Peirce, representing the students, staff and Alumni, chose these two winners. Shane's address was on What's in a Name, and Norris's, The Lighter Side of Boarding School. The Lee Audet trophy will be presented to Shane on May 31.

Nurses hold study session

The United Management Nurses Inc., a professional association representing management nurses in Montreal, Sherbrooke, Victoriaville and Quebec City areas, held a study session Tuesday night at Sacre-Coeur Hospital in Montreal. Discussions concerned salary talks which have taken place with the Ministry of Social Affairs and the A.H.P.Q. for the last two years.

Although the government representatives have presented a new "salary system" to the management nurses, no "amounts" of money have been discussed to date. The members of U.M.N. consider such methods of negotiation to be intolerable. The government has asked U.M.N. to approve a new "class system" without the knowledge of the exact salaries to be attached to this system.

The members of U.M.N. refused to accept promises from the government that these amounts will be released shortly. Deadlines which had been set in the last few weeks have not been met by the government and with summer vacations approaching the nurses feel that the situation must be settled this week. U.M.N. members voted to begin further study sessions and other actions to point out to

Plus
Club

On Thursday, May 8th Mrs. Vicki Crook brought a group of dancers from Alexander Galt Regional High School to entertain the Sher-Lenn Fifty Plus Club.

Miss Christine Wilson and Miss Elaine Dezan presented a modern dance duet, followed by a dramatic interpretive dance based on "The West Side Story" theme. Participating in this dance were: Heather Ross, Sylvie Blue, Marie Moliner, Helen Jackson, Janet Ames, Marion Van Horn, Susan Mitchell and Kim Logan.

Mrs. Ada Bleich played the piano for the next part of the program which consisted of square dance demonstration, and participation with club members joining the dancers. Those who did not join the dancers enjoyed the rollicking strains of such old favourites as "She'll Be Coming Round The Mountain" and "Bicycle Built For Two." The square dancers were: Janet Ames, Kim Stansbury, Terry Chamberlain, Pam Van Sickle, Richard Hovey, Randy Westman, Larry Branswell and Mike Murray.

The coordinator, Mrs. Gaulin, thanked Mrs. Crook and her group.

In honor of the 58th wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Bleich, the happy couple were presented with a corsage of yellow roses for Mrs. Bleich and a boutonniere for Mr. Bleich. The presentation was made by their daughter, Mrs. R. Hughes-Games, and granddaughter, Mrs. J. Crook.

Mr. and Mrs. Bleich also received a handmade greeting card from the Sher-Lenn Fifty Plus Club members as well as their best wishes, as indicated by a hearty round of applause. Mr. Hughes-Games then presented the club with a hot water heater and coffee maker. Mrs. Gaulin accepted on behalf of the club, and thanked Mr. and Mrs. Hughes-Games for their kindness in donating the equipment. It will be most appreciated and a welcome addition to the club's facilities.

Following the presentation the dancers helped serve cake and punch to the members.

CLUB VISITS
 May 21st was made memorable for the Sher-Lenn Fifty Plus Club by the visit of the Unity Fifty Plus Club of Ayer's Cliff. This group has just recently been organized and is growing rapidly.

Mrs. Eldora Turner was in charge of the program and showed her slides of the freighter cruise which she and fellow member, Mrs. Estella Saunders, had taken the previous summer.

The freighter unloaded and took on cargo in various Mediterranean ports. Mrs. Turner learned a great deal about the work of the crew aboard ship and had many beautiful slides taken at ports of call. Especially interesting were the ruins at Carthage which contrasted sharply with the splendor of Venice, with its ornate architecture and picturesque lagoons and gondolas.

Following the slides the Ayer's Cliff group was conducted through the club rooms by the coordinator, Mrs. Gaulin. Mrs. E. Sawyer had arranged a display of candles made by her craft group. When they visited the office, the secretary, Mrs. Ranshouan, gave them information regarding programs.

SEWING WORKSHOP
 On May 26th lesson one in the brief sewing workshop was to be conducted by members, Mrs. I. Maguire, Mrs. F. Green and Mrs. L. Larkin.

Wednesday, May 28 was a game day with cards, shuffle board, darts, pool, and other games available. At this time the club tried out the new PA system for the first time, a long awaited pleasure.

CENTURY PROPERTY — Dr. V. Ignatieff, president of the Richmond County Historical Society, presents a Richmond County Century Property Owner Certificate to Dennis Keenan, on behalf of the historical society. The presentation took place during the society's annual meeting, held in Danville United Church Hall, May 21st. Mr.

Keenan's grandfather, John Keenan of Ireland, was deterred from his intention of settling near Boston by the American Civil War. Instead, he made his way to Quebec where he bought Lot 28a and Lot 28b in the Township of Melbourne, at 50 cents an acre. Mrs. Keenan accompanied her husband at the presentation along with daughters, Kathleen and Patricia.

Stamp Collecting

By PAT CANGLEY (Hobby Shop Reg. 'd)
 Should women collect stamps? During this year, International Women's Year, the question arises what about women in Philately.

Well, first many stamps are designed by women every year around the world. There are more women pictured on stamps than any other subject, let alone Queen Elizabeth 2, on most Commonwealth stamps. Did you know that she personally collects. The Cardinal Spellman stamp collection and museum is directed by a woman?

Many postmasters are women and some countries have women as postal carriers. Women should collect stamps for the same reason as men do: Enjoyment, knowledge and for that urge to collect tiny pieces of paper that tell the story of small and large countries.

Women go mostly for topical collections, collections of stamps with one main theme. The following may appeal to some of you: Flowers, arrange a garden in your album; dogs and cats may find their way in your album as some of your favorite pets; paintings, reproduced from the masterpieces of the world, may be arranged under each better known painter and their works. Canada's Group of Seven have seen the light on some Canadian stamps also.

How about birds, fish, children on stamps, butterflies, religion or Madonnas on stamps or even, yes, women on stamps? Of course, the traditional world wide collecting is enjoyed by many and the specialized country collections appeal to more than one.

The ladies usually personalize their collections by decorating their own album pages. So if you have spare time that you want to turn into a good hobby that is easy to do in the comfort of your home, get an album, stamp hinges plus a few stamps and get going on the King of Hobbies, the hobby of Kings.

stamp collecting. If you want guidance to get started on the right foot, see your stamp dealer for his suggestions. The old adage, look before you leap, applies also in stamp collecting.

Market Tips: Remember the Letter Carrier Postal Service issue of Canada will go off sale June 11th. Ever wonder where all the Pierre Laporte stamps issued in 1971 went to? Most countries which have embassies in Canada purchased a good part of this issue. Any plate blocks around? Look in your own stock and see.

So have another stamping good week.

The members of the committee of the Youth Concerts are grateful to the Council of Plymouth Trinity Church, the professors, the performing students and the appreciative audience who have contributed in the great success of the past season.

Welcome to all at the June 1st concert and next October, when the concerts will resume.

Land around mine reported being stable

ASBESTOS (RM) — The terrain surrounding the Canadian Johns-Manville mine here has been "particularly stable" during May, the Quebec Civil Protection office reported Thursday.

The bureau added that there has been a "substantial decrease in all movements, due to exceptional climatic conditions."

Land movements by the open-pit mine are monitored by the provincial Ministry of Natural Resources, from a station set up after landslides into the mine last January.

The Public Interest

It will be unfortunate, Prime Minister Trudeau said recently, if free collective bargaining falls into disrepute, "but it will not remain free if it cannot be made less destructive than it is in Canada today." The prime minister's comment was more or less echoed by Postmaster General Bryce Mackasey on Wednesday when he said that hostility between workers and management may "rip this country apart" and that this hostility is creating a reaction among the public that is "dangerously anti-labor".

Inasmuch as the government itself, in the role of the country's largest employer, is involved in much of this hostility, what does it intend to do about it? Recently Labor Minister John Munro indicated that the government is planning to improve the system. The minister's statement was vague, but seemed to promise some hope of definite action later on. He proposed a new labor relations council with broad powers of conciliation in disputes between management and labor unions. The council would seek changes in the bargaining process to reduce the number of issues requiring negotiation. It would try to persuade both sides to adjust their conflicts with a minimum of damaging effect on others, if not on themselves. But no limitation on the process itself seems contemplated. Instead, Mr. Munro believes that it should be expanded and maximized as a means of dividing the nation's income justly.

While these nebulous plans, which could mean much, little or nothing, are under study, the government has had to deal with some hard immediate facts. In the last few months it has enforced legislation to end two waterfront strikes on the Pacific coast and one on the St. Lawrence. It has also started to prosecute hundreds of its employees who conducted illegal strikes. But all measures taken so far lack any basic principle.

What public services are indispensable and should not be interrupted by strikes or lock-outs? If they are threatened by labor or management, how shall the disputes be settled, and on what standards of equity? Such questions have been evaded so far. Only when a grave crisis like a crippling port strike occurs, has the government acted to impose a settlement, and then with weeks of delay and legislation rushed through Parliament on an ad hoc basis.

That the collective bargaining system is falling into disrepute there can be no denying. Part of the reason, as far as the public is concerned, was given by Mr. Mackasey, who cannot be accused of being unsympathetic to the labor movement. In his words: "What the public sees is that might wins more than merit. We no longer reward productivity, we reward force. We give our biggest award not to those who do us the most good but to those who can do us the most harm."

If the government really proposes to reform the system before it falls into even worse repute, certain services will have to be designated as being exempt from interruption, and disputes in them will have to be solved by other means, under rules fair to both sides and known in advance.

This year labor contracts affecting more than a million workers must be negotiated. The federal government is not involved in many of these; but it is in some, as are provincial governments. Surely by now it is clear that a mistake was made in 1967 when the federal civil service unions were given the right to strike instead of the right to a just settlement of their claims by some method of binding arbitration. In the cases where arbitration was used, the workers received just treatment. Considering the unique security of their jobs in good times and bad, their working hours and pensions, they enjoy, on average, many benefits denied to most of the working taxpayers who finance all these costs.

No government can hope to solve all the problems of a free society and any attempt to solve them by state action alone would end all chance of freedom. But after this country's experience of last year and this, Mr. Trudeau is undoubtedly right in saying that collective bargaining will not remain free unless it becomes less destructive. In this confused and sensitive area, the government could make a good beginning if it defined by law those essential services that must always be maintained, and then devised a judicial authority, with definite rules, to adjust grievances on both sides of the table and protect the public from the dangers foreseen by Mr. Trudeau and Mr. Mackasey.

Defends use of leg-hold trap

To the Editor:

This is a small response to the letter sent in to you, the editor, by Grey Owl's wife Anahareo. From her remarks I take it that she is of Indian descent, but I understand "Grey Owl", her husband, was an Englishman.

When people write about doing away with the Leg-Hold Trap, for taking fur bearing animals as well as predators, it would certainly make more sense if they would tell both sides of the story.

I have trapped for the past several years, using leg-hold traps as well as killer type traps, such as the Cornibear Trap, which was patented by a Canadian trapper some years ago and is now in use in most of the United States where I trap. This is a very fine trap for what it is made for, beaver and other fur bearers that have homes in the water or rivers of this country or the U.S.A. It is of almost no value for land animals or predators such as coyote, badger, coon, bobcat, etc. Therefore every trapper in order to keep his trap-line in balance has to have leg-hold traps or snares plus some killer type trap.

She spoke of the beautiful beaver, and when I read this in her letter I thought of the definition of a weed, that I learned when I went to school here in Canada many years ago. A "weed" is anything that is growing in the place where you do not want it. So even if it is the sweetest wild flower, you will have to eliminate it or control it if you want to plant potatoes to eat, in the area where they are growing. Last season I trapped eighty some odd beaver, a large share of these were what I know and our game department knows as Complaint beaver. By this, I mean they were "weeds". They were damming streams and flooding the farmer's fields, they were plugging irrigation ditches and they were cutting trees that should not have been cut. In one case they cut a mature apple tree and started on a second one. In another case they came upon the lawn of a widow lady's home and were cutting her lilac bushes.

Did she read about the thousands of acres that are being flooded by her friendly and lovely beaver in the States of Alabama and Georgia? Did she talk with the Game Departments in Northern Ontario, who say it is mandatory to trap a part of the beaver colonies in Ontario so that they will not die from eating up all the food or from disease caused by over-population? I could go on and cite many cases where if the "friendly" beaver is not controlled by trapping, he would have to be shot to eliminate the over-population in some areas as they are doing now in the Southern states.

She mentions a lynx on her trapline that must have been in the trap over ten days before she got to it. All I have to say to this is that she would lose her trapping license in some states if she trapped like that, as in some states it is mandatory to visit your traps at least once every forty-eight hours.

I have trapped many bobcats which are very similar to the Canada lynx. I have found that they are a very docile animal when trapped and, in one instance, I came upon one caught in one of my leg-hold traps and found him asleep. I have never found one that would fight a trap. I personally was with a predator trapper in Idaho who caught a Canadian lynx in a coyote trap in August. The season was closed on furbearers so we let the lynx go, by releasing him from a leg-hold trap. When he found he was free to go, he jumped a good twenty feet from a lying start and was gone so fast into the woods we could not follow him by sight. By the way, he was trapping the predators, because a farmer had lost sixty head of sheep in a very short time and had blamed the killing on coyotes. It turned out it wasn't coyotes, but a female cougar with one or two cubs who did the dirty work.

She talks about the squirrels in B.C. Yes, there are a lot of pine squirrels taken in B.C. but I doubt if she could prove they are taken by leg-hold traps. From my conversation with an Indian trapper and guide in B.C., he told me they took a lot of squirrels by sitting near a large spruce tree and shooting them with a twenty-two rifle. The other way is that they rig up a snare-pole with several snares on each pole and lean them against the spruce tree. It would be far too much work and too costly for a trapper to set leg-hold traps for squirrels.

She says the lovely ladies in their fur coats would faint if they were to see the pain and torture suffered by fur bearing animals. Out of eighty some odd beaver I caught last season less than one-fourth of one percent were alive when I came back to the set within twenty-four hours. The rest were dead by drowning which takes place in a very few minutes, when beaver are properly trapped.

Why doesn't she suggest people go and see a production line for dressing turkeys or chickens? Or go to a local slaughter-house and see what happens to sheep, hogs and cattle when they are swung alive on that endless chain going through to the finished product. Oh! I forgot, maybe Mrs. Grey Wolf or the people she talks about are all vegetarians and do not eat meat. I understand a beaver tail is a great delicacy among some Indian people.

I wonder if some of these people like Anahareo have taken the time to look at the millions of dollars that are paid out to Indian as well as white trappers every year for the fur they produce by good honest, but very hard, cold disagreeable work. Also the millions of dollars of income that comes to both Canada and the U.S.A. for the wild fur that is sold to overseas buyers. Or the dollars that are paid to people who manufacture these furs into garments? Has she a suggestion as to where the country would raise the Welfare money to feed and care for these people, if she had her way and her very illogical idea was put into effect? No, Mrs. Anahareo, I do not think you could write enough letters to your friends, your Prime Minister, your MPs, or your MLAs, to even have them take a second thought about abolishing the leg-hold trap in Canada.

It has been tried in one or two States in the U.S. with disastrous results, when the skunks, foxes, and coyotes became too numerous and got rabies and mange. The law was gradually changed back to the use of leg-hold traps to control these "weeds", as they appeared in potato patches, etc.

As a Conservationist and trapper, I close this hoping that people continue to buy these beautiful furs and enjoy their beauty, warmth and protection.

Sincerely and Humanely yours, Gordon T. Reed, R. 3 Newport, Washington 99156

Temporarily on vacation in the lovely town of North Hatley, Quebec.

Is not ashamed of trapping

To the Editor:

I am writing in response to the letter on trapping by Grey Owl's wife. I am glad to hear that she does not need to help supplement her living by trapping anymore. However, there are some that still do.

Next I am sorry that her husband had to follow a profession that he did not care for, as she said a reluctant trapper.

I think now would be a good time to get back to the facts. She mentioned coming up on a lynx in one of her traps that was still alive after at least ten days. This would prove right here that she should leave trapping to trappers and stick to writing.

I have about forty to fifty books on trapping and have yet to read one that does not state to check your traps every twenty four hours at least. Since she mentions the weather was not cold enough to put the lynx out of his misery I can only conclude that if she has as much feelings for animals as she says I am sure she could have checked her traps long before that. Of course, if this did not interfere too much with her social life.

Then she mentions that this is typical. If so I hope to God I never become a typical trapper. Then she goes on to talk about the humane trap. I would like to know how many foxes she ever caught in them. I would be the first to admit that they have their place, but let's keep them in that place.

If there is any doubt about what I have written let anyone check with someone who knows about trapping. I think it would be better if trappers did the trapping and the writers stuck to their profession. Trapping is not something that is learned overnight.

The pain and misery to animals is most often caused by people who through ignorance or carelessness do not set or tend their traps properly. I do not think we need feel ashamed of our heritage, after all it was the fur trade that opened up this country.

A good many of our fishing and hunting laws are senseless and I believe that this is caused by people who are in the position to make these laws, being influenced by trash they read or hear. This is the reason for many of the very good deer calibers being outlawed. Animals are still made of flesh and blood the same as when our fathers and grandfathers hunted them. The range that they are shot is still from about forty to eighty yards. Most of the two hundred yards (or more) shot we hear about are done with a bottle or a long imagination.

I believe if people learned their own limitation and not their guns that more game would be killed clean. There would also be less to escape and die for nothing, or be blown to pieces so bad that half the meat is worthless.

It's about-time that people who write or have influence check out the facts and do a little soul searching before writing articles that could have an effect on the lives of others.

Yours sincerely HERBERT BEAKES, R.R. 1, Ste. Anne de La Rochelle, Shefford County, Que.

Ford's Budget Woes

Jack Anderson's

Washington

WASHINGTON — President Ford is caught in a dilemma over the budget.

He wants to hold down government spending. Congressional leaders obligingly have offered to slash the defense budget. But the President is fiercely opposed to military cuts.

He also wants to hold down the deficit. But his advisers have urged him to extend the tax rebate for another year. Not only will the economy continue to require stimulus, they have told him, but the Democrats will continue the temporary tax cuts anyway. Therefore, the President may as well take credit for the extension, they suggested.

Meeting secretly with Republican congressional leaders, the President commented that the House budget committee's proposed $72 billion deficit and the Senate committee's $67 billion deficit aren't as bad as he had expected.

"The total figures are more than we wanted," said the President, "but are a lot better than the $100 billion we feared."

"We're ashamed," interjected Rep. Delbert Latta, R-Ohio, "that the Senate made a better cut than we did." But he insisted that "I don't see how we can bring our $72 billion down to $60 billion."

Ford's goal is to hold the deficit to the $60 billion figure. But Rep. Clifford Cederberg, R-Mich., warned: "We won't even get close to your objective unless we sustain a lot of vetoes. Why should we vote for $60 billion and lose?"

Defense Secretary James Schlesinger objected to the House's proposed $9 billion military cut.

"It's so severe," he protested, "that world confidence in us goes down even more dangerously. I hope we can resist so damaging a cut."

The President, breaking in, warned that "we're going to make a strong substantive issue about their cuts. I'll go around the country and fight like hell

But Dearing stood up to the pressure and started keeping detailed memos of his actions to insure the integrity of the investigation.

Footnote: We were unable to reach McDade, but Jaworski told us he doubted McDade would "toss around my name like that" and praised him as a "responsible and ethical attorney."

Wallace's Army: Alabama's Gov. George Wallace, who commands the state militia, has accumulated a "personal military staff" of about 40,000 honorary lieutenant colonels.

The appointees, who are scattered all over the country, receive a distinctive certificate bearing the state seal and the governor's signature.

The Alabama taxpayers, of course, foot the bill for the printing and mailings. Billy Joe Camp, the governor's spokesman, said the certificates are issued under state law and generate "good will for the state of Alabama."

They also generate good will for George Wallace, who happens to be campaigning for the presidency. Camp conceded that "to say (the honorary military appointments) had no connection" with the Wallace presidential campaign "would be somewhat erroneous." But he claimed there was "no overt effort to use the awards in the campaign."

Nassikas Memo: Although he is supposed to be impartial, Federal Power Chairman John Nassikas has usually smiled upon the big utility firms and frowned upon the consumers.

But in a recent memo, he surpassed himself by suggesting to his economists that they find "an expert economist" who would testify before federal agencies to support Nassikas' views.

The purpose would be to speed up payments to natural gas producers.

Orchestrating this effort were lawyers Walter Surrey and Tom McDade, the latter from the powerful Jaworski firm in Houston. The firm represents International Systems and Control, a co-owner of Ven-Fuel.

Documents subpoenaed by Moss and sworn testimony show that the two attorneys pulled strings in an attempt to stop the criminal investigation.

"Mr. Jaworski has taken a personal interest in this case," McDade is quoted as telling assistant U.S. attorney Peter Dearing.

Record Yester Years 50 YEARS AGO TODAY

ATLANTIC CITY — Radium as a cure for cancer was repudiated by Dr. Francis Carter Wood, of New York, yesterday, in addressing the American Medical Association section on pathology and physiology in its closing session. In fact, Dr. Wood admitted that up until the present time, no cure had been found for the dreaded malady.

There was an era of intense enthusiasm about the use of radium as a cancer treatment, Dr. Wood stated. "It was believed that it would cause cancer to disappear. That era of enthusiasm, it seems, is rapidly passing because radium is not a cure for cancer. Radium only destroys tissue in a certain radius. It does not drive cancer from the human body."

BROMPTON — The hearing of the damage case for the amount of $54,000 taken by Albert Defoi, former employee of the Brompton Pulp and Paper Company, against the company as the result of injuries which he alleged were received by him while he was in the employ of the company were concluded yesterday, following which the judge took the case "en delibere."

At yesterday's hearing, the evidence of the defence was heard. In its evidence, the defence claimed that the accident in which Defoi received his injuries was not caused in any way through their fault. Defoi, they claimed, was foreman of his department, and in that capacity should have taken the precaution to shut off the power before attempting to repair the machinery.

WMS Quebec Presbyterian holds rally

MELBOURNE — L'Eglise des Cantons de l'Est, Melbourne, hosted the 61st annual May Rally of Quebec Presbyterian on May 24, 1975. Mrs. Murray MacDonald, Presbyterian President, chaired the meeting and welcomed all present, especially mentioning Miss Doris Blaise of Montreal, Past Synodical President, and representative on the Board of World Mission. The theme for the day "Go Forward in Faith" was emphasized in various ways.

Mrs. Dougherty, Melbourne, conducted an impressive, combined, Devotional and Memorial service, the Reading Meditation and Prayer, in keeping with the day's theme. Miss Alene Morrison extended greetings from Synodical on behalf of Mrs. Brown, Synodical President and expressed regret that she was unable to be present. Various Departmental Secretaries commented briefly on their work.

The Glad Tidings Secretary reported 3 Groups subscribing 100 per cent and reminded the groups that each member should be a promoter for the magazine. An informative poster, made and displayed by the Supply Secretary showed how our supply money is spent. Mrs. Mayhew had an interesting book display on hand for Mrs. MacIver, who was unable to attend.

A report from Synodical Rally held in Ottawa was given by Mrs. Murray MacDonald and Mrs. Laroche. Mrs. R. Brown informed the meeting that the Women's weekend Retreat at Camp d'Action Biblique will be held June 13-15. Slides of previous retreats at Camp were shown. Mrs. Herbert Mayhew displayed a Centennial table which had many interesting items, among which were a Centennial Anniversary Book made by the Sherbrooke group; two handmade quilts from Scotstown; pins, pens and other novelties, all in connection with Centennial year.

A poem composed by Mrs. Burns MacDonald, Scotstown, was read by Mrs. W.G. MacLeod, following the noon luncheon and enjoyed by all. Those present participated in an interesting Bible Study, "Learning to be a Woman", prepared by Mrs. M. MacDonald.

Four study groups were formed for meditation and discussion, after which each group leader gave a report. Report was expressed that Mrs. D. Campbell, who has been so helpful in many ways, will be leaving shortly for her new home in Ottawa. Mrs. D.P. Murray gave the courtesies, expressing gratitude to all who helped make the Rally a success. Closing devotions by Mrs. Boyd, of Asbestos, brought a pleasant day to an end.

Wales Home News

By MRS. M. ARMSTRONG RICHMOND — A very pleasant afternoon was spent by the Residents when a Spring Party was held in the Day Room. The Residents Committee assisted by several others planned a programme which included a sing-song, spelling Contest, Charades and other games which all could enjoy. Approximately 80 attended the party after which light refreshments were served and several door prizes were awarded.

Mrs. M. Gillan served a delicious lunch recently to 32 members of the "Busy Bee" group who have met with her during the winter months to sew on articles for the Home. Mrs. Gillan very kindly volunteers her time and energy and met with the group weekly on 15 occasions. Much work has been accomplished as well as a social get-together and included 183 bibs, 60 dish towels, pot holders and lining for waste baskets besides numerous bed rolls. We sincerely hope Mrs. Gillan returns in October.

Mr. C. Force, Shawville, Que., very kindly played the piano and sang for the Residents on Sunday a.m. in the Day Room. Many of the solos were of a religious nature and were much enjoyed. Mrs. W. Force and Mrs. M. McIntyre, mother and grandmother respectively, were among those gathered around the piano formally and were most happy to listen to his lovely voice. Another pleasant afternoon was spent listening to a piano concert presented by Mr. O. Seveigny who is our President elect for the Wales Home; and resides in Theford Mines. He was introduced by Mrs. C.H. Stevens of Richmond, who also announced the musical numbers as they were played. Mrs. Farley (matron) extended appreciation to Mr. Seveigny for his kindness in driving such a long way to provide entertainment for the Residents. Several invited guests were later served punch and cake in the library.

Members of the Connaught Chapter of the O.E.S. of Richmond planned a very successful dessert Bridge and 500 party here recently, when 24 attractive tables were set up in the Day Room. After having a lovely dessert and a cup of tea, cards were played and prizes presented to the winners. Several door prizes were also awarded. Many of our card enthusiasts here in the Home were able to spend a pleasant afternoon with their friends and also to meet new ones. The Residents were treated to some fine singing recently when 35 members of the Estrai Choir, comprised of men and women of Richmond, Asbestos, Danville and Windsor Mills under the direction of Mr. Poudrier presented a concert. The ladies looked lovely in their long blue jumper dresses and white blouses and the men were stylish in becoming white sweater shirts and dark trousers. A large audience was present to listen to the French and English songs and were thrilled to join in some of the familiar ones. Miss J. Bell R.N. on behalf of all present expressed our thanks and appreciation.

A birthday party for those celebrating birthdays in May was held on the 22nd with Gore W.I. members Mrs. L. Newell, Mrs. M. Griffith, Mrs. J. Husk, Mrs. J. Griffith and Mrs. A. Gee acting as hostesses. Of special interest was the fact that seven ladies were over ninety years of age and each one was presented with a corsage. Of these seven, two were celebrating their 99th birthday, namely Mrs. C. Morrill and Mrs. L. Miller. Mrs. Morrill is active mentally and physically and takes all her meals in the Day Room usually without the aid of a cane. Mrs. Miller although confined to her room on H3 is able to be up daily and chat with her friends and relatives.

The tea table at which all were seated was centered with a vase of pink apple blossoms and two lovely cakes gave it a very festive appearance. A lunch of assorted breads was enjoyed along with a cup of tea. Present for the party celebration were Mr. J. Morrison, Mrs. F. Gooley, Mrs. J. Herriot, Miss E. Lanigan, Mrs. L. Marlin, Mrs. M. McIntyre, Mrs. L. Miller, Mrs. C. Morrill, Mrs. L. Peters, Miss E. Pocock, Miss A. Simpson, Miss M. Stevenson, Mr. J. Grady, Mr. W. Davidson, Mrs. A. Williams, Miss N. Burrill, Miss H. Bates, Mr. L. Mizener, Miss A. Sandell, Mrs. L. Gallup, Mrs. R. Calcutt and Mrs. C. Lavelee. Friends will be pleased to learn that Mrs. J. Grady, Miss F. Cunningham, Mrs. G. Paige and Mr. F. Barlow have returned from the hospital. Miss S. Oakley is still a patient there undergoing further surgery and Mr. A. Farrow and Mrs. L. Mizener have been recently admitted for observation. Best Wishes!

Mrs. H. Owens, Mrs. A. Williams, and Miss K. Christie planned a small but delightful tea in the Rec. Room recently in honor of Mrs. M. Armstrong prior to her vacation which will include a European Tour. Dainty refreshments were served and a very pleasant social hour spent. Mrs. Celia Morrill was again honored on her 99th birthday when she was presented with a lovely birthday cake at the dinner hour. A poem, appropriate for the occasion, written by Mrs. L. Beers, a resident here, was read by Mrs. L. Farley and several members of the staff and the Residents

Nicklaus and Miller agree on one point, pins are in tough spots for Atlanta Open

ATLANTA (AP) — U.S. Open champion Hale Irwin and two of the game's top players, Jack Nicklaus and Johnny Miller, were in agreement after the opening round of the $225,000 Atlanta Golf Classic.

Each talked about extremely difficult pin placements for opening-day competition on the hilly, 6,883-yard par-72 Atlanta Country Club course.

And each said they liked it. But despite the problems it presented, the strongest field in a tournament so far this year still riddled par in the cloudy conditions that produced a heavy half-hour shower at mid-afternoon.

Irwin birdied three of his last four holes to move into a three-way share of the lead with veteran Billy Casper and Joe Inman at six-under-par 66.

Two shots away were Nicklaus and Miller, along with Leonard Thompson and Jack Ewing, who had a record-tying 30 on the back nine, which he played first.

KERN HAS 74
 Ben Kern of Toronto had a 74 and George Knudson, also of Toronto, shot a 76.

"They were the worse pin placements for a Thursday round I've ever seen," said Miller, the outspoken blonde who reeled off three early victories on this year's tour. "They're not unfair, just ridiculous."

Irwin said: "I would not categorize them ridiculous. Difficult, yes. I think courses should be made difficult."

"I thought they were very difficult," said Nicklaus. "But I like that. It's the way it should be all the time."

Irwin, who missed four birdie possibilities from about 10 feet, made his late surge to a share of the lead by sinking a 15-footer on the 15th, a 12-footer at 17 and chipping to within three feet for another birdie on the finishing hole.

SUNK 45-FOOT PUTT
 Casper had six consecutive one-putt greens during one stretch, including a 45-foot birdie putt on the par three third.

Inman, still seeking his first victory in his third year on tour, rolled in two birdie putts of 25 feet and added three more in the 12 to 18-foot range.

Seven players were deadlocked at 69, three shots away. They were Lee Trevino, Danny Edwards, Bob E. Smith, Bob Goalby, Lou Graham, Grier Jones and Don Iverson.

Arnold Palmer struggled to a 79 while South African Gary Player had a 73 and Tom Weiskopf a 74.

Canada upsets Notre Dame 99-80

VARESE, Italy (CP) — Canada's national basketball team upset Notre Dame University of the United States 99-80 in an exhibition game Thursday.

"It was just a great win for us," said coach Jack Donohue. "We had tremendous balance on scoring and a very aggressive defence that made the difference."

The Canadians got outstanding performances from substitutes Rommel Raffin, Cameron Hall and Martin Riley.

"Rommel became a player tonight," said assistant coach Steve Konchalski. "He played so much, his best game ever for the national team."

Raffin anchored an aggressive trap zone defence that had Notre Dame forcing low percentage shots from the corners. He also added eight rebounds and helped build the Canadians' spirit which had sagged after a Wednesday loss to the Italian national team.

Tollestrup again led the Canadian offence. Robinson scored 26 points while Tollestrup, who played only half the game because of early foul trouble, added 23.

Chris Evert advances into finals of Italian tourney

ROME (AP) — Defending champion Chris Evert scored one for her sister and herself Thursday as one of three Americans who advanced in the $120,000 Italian open tennis championships.

The top-seeded star breezed into the women's singles semifinals with a 6-1, 3-triumph over Fiorella Bonicelli of Uruguay, avenging Miss Bonicelli's upset Wednesday of eighth-seeded Jeanne Evert.

Bjorn Borg of Sweden and Guillermo Vilas of Argentina, playing on adjacent courts, led the advance of seeded men into the quarter-finals.

Borg downed Italian Davis Cup player Paolo Bertolucci 6-4, 6-1 before a boisterous crowd which rattled Vilas, who had to battle back for a 6-4, 6-2 triumph over Nikki Pilic of Yugoslavia.

The matches, featuring the top two seeds, were played side by side because rain, which halted play twice during the afternoon, left many of the courts unplayable.

The Swedish star downed his Italian opponent with a variety of superior shots, his best across-court forehand which killed Bertolucci's attempts to go to the Pilic, annoyed by the noisy crowd on the next court, argued openly on numerous occasions. He gestured, shouted curses to the rain-filled skies and once threw his racket over a hedge on to the surface where Borg was playing.

Vilas retained his cool and scored on backhand passing shots to outlast Pilic in a baseline duel between left-handers.

Elsewhere, American Harold Solomon battled to a 6-7, 6-2, 6-3 triumph over Peter Szoke of Hungary and Eddie Dibbs, also of the U.S., ousted compatriot Brian Gottfried 4-6, 6-4, 6-1.

Miss Evert has lost only 10 games in pursuit of another Italian Open crown. She jumped to a 5-0 lead over Miss Bonicelli before losing her only game of the set. After taking a 4-1 lead in the second set, Miss Evert staved off a comeback attempt by the South American and held on for the victory.

In other women's singles matches, Mima Jausovec of Yugoslavia upset third-seeded Helga Masthoff of Germany 6-1, 6-0; No. 2 seed Martina Navratilova of Czechoslovakia eliminated Linky Boshoff of South Africa 6-0, 6-4 and fourth-seeded Dianne Fromholtz of Australia advanced when Katja Ebbinghaus of West Germany defaulted with a pulled leg muscle.

Among other men's quarter-finalists were Ilie Nastase of Romania, who trounced Phil Dent of Australia 6-1, 6-1; Manuel Orantes of Spain, a 6-2, 6-3 victor over Adriano Panatta of Italy, and Raul Ramirez of Mexico who downed Italian Corrado Barazzutti 7-6, 2-6, 6-0.

U OF S GOLF TOURNEY SET — Mayor Jacques O'Bready, centre, is seen discussing plans for the third annual University of Sherbrooke Golf Tournament which will be held at the Sherbrooke Country Club Friday, June 6. The press conference was held at Labatt's Brewery.

On the left is Gerald Hebert, representative for Labatt's, and on the right is Luc Bruneau, president of the tournament.

Elliott Maddox haunts former mates, Yanks win

ARLINGTON, Tex. (AP) — New York's Elliott Maddox circled the Yankees' dressing room for 10 minutes and grinned.

He had struck a mortal blow in his running feud with Texas Rangers' manager Billy Martin but refused to gloat.

Maddox had four hits and four runs batted in and delivered a game-winning two-run double in the ninth

Vida Blue gunning to win Cy Young Trophy for 1975

OAKLAND (AP) — Before the baseball season began, Reggie Jackson predicted Vida Blue would win 25 games for Oakland A's.

Manager Alvin Dark said the left hander "worked as hard in the spring training as any pitcher I've ever seen."

Blue stayed quiet until after making his record 9-2 with a four-hit, 5-0 shutout victory over Baltimore Orioles.

"I'm going to win the Cy Young Award," Blue proclaimed Wednesday night as he became the major leagues' first nine-game winner of the season.

In 1971, at age 22, Blue won the American League's Cy Young Award with a 24-8 record, which made him, at least temporarily, the ace of the A's pitching staff.

But he fell to 6-10 the next season, the year of his celebrated contract holdout, and pitched in Catfish Hunter's shadow during the team's three championship seasons of 1972, 1973 and 1974.

Hunter is a New York Yankee now and one of the pitchers Blue will have to beat for the Cy Young Award.

Whether Blue is a better pitcher now than in 1971 is a question that intrigues everyone but Blue himself.

"I mix up my pitches better now," his standard answer is as much as he'll reveal about the new Vida Blue. "When I was 22, I just tried to overpower batters."

In 1971, when Blue was 10-2 at the end of May, his fastball seemed to lose something late in the season. He struck out 301 batters in 312 innings.

inning Thursday night to give the Yankees a 7-5 victory over the Rangers, who gave up on him a year ago.

It was the only baseball game played in the major leagues Thursday night.

Maddox was embroiled in a beanball controversy with Martin in spring training and it carried over into the regular season last week when Texas visited New York City. Maddox was knocked down and claimed that was done on Martin's orders.

Maddox was asked how it felt to gain a measure of revenge on Martin and the Rangers. "It's always nice to come back and haunt a team that gave up on you," he said.

"I think the bean ball thing is over. I hope so."

The New York center-fielder, whom Rangers' management claimed could neither field nor hit before he was traded, went into the game with one hit for his last 20 times at bat.

MADE FUN OF HIM
 "The team made fun of me in the locker room Wednesday night after we beat Kansas City and I just had to laugh," Maddox said. "The irony of the entire thing is that I broke out of the slump against the Rangers.

"I hit two line drives right at somebody, was robbed on two other balls and had a line drive bounce off the pitching rubber right into the second baseman's hands against Kansas City. I was really getting frustrated. I just had to get a hit for a change."

It was the eighth victory in the last 11 games for the streaking Yankees and the sixth loss in a row for the sagging Rangers.

Maddox opened his evening with a triple to score Bobby Bonds, followed with two singles after groundout, and slashed the clutch double to score Sandy Alomar and Bonds.

Starters Pat Dobson of the Yankees and Clyde Wright of the Rangers were shelled and Dick Tidrow picked up the mound victory in relief. Rookie Jim Umbarger was saddled with the loss.

Yankees' manager Bill Virdon said: "We knew Maddox could play centre field when we got him from the Rangers. He was an unknown quality offensively because he never got to play much. If he can just hit .250—or hit like he did tonight—it will mean big things for this team."

Lennoxville Women's Softball League opens season on Sunday

LENNOXVILLE (BP) — A new, expanded Lennoxville Women's Softball League will open its season here Sunday with a four-game opening day slate of action.

Eight of nine teams which will see competition this season will play at the Optimist Park during Sunday's schedule opener.

Six of seven teams which participated last year are back for more action, though two are under new sponsorship. Clark's Pharmacy, Rand and Golden Lion Pub (ex-Legion) from Lennoxville, Sawyerville, Nest Bar Salon (ex-Begin Sports) from Rock Forest and Lemay Auto Electric from Fleurimont make up the veteran contingent of the league, while La Patrie, IGA Scotstown and Leroux Golden Eagle from Sherbrooke are the 1975 additions to the LWSL.

Four parks, Lennoxville Optimist Park, Parc Desranleau, Sawyerville and Rock Forest, will be used by the teams for their 16 game schedules.

The executive of the league for this season consists of Cedric Cormier, president; Val Rawlings, 1st vice-president; Vicki Crook, 2nd vice-president; Ginette Jacques, treasurer; Brenda Westman, secretary; Lynda Fabi, publicist.

Only Sawyerville will be without a game under their belts after the Sunday, June 1 opening day league tournament.

The opening ceremony will take place just before the 2 p.m. Nest Bar Salon — Rand tilt. At 4 p.m. IGA Scotstown will take on Golden Lion Pub, while Lemay Auto Electric Gitanes oppose Clark's Pharmacy at 6 p.m. The closing game of the day will pit Leroux Golden Eagle against La Patrie at 8 p.m.

A total of eight teams will participate in the playoffs to be held in late July or August.

Peter Jackson Trophy winner gets another Nalatuja carving

MONTREAL — When Eskimo artist Jusipi Nalatuja completed his carving Man, Woman and Child, he was indulging in a familiar theme — the self portrait.

Man, Woman and Child, which will be presented as the Peter Jackson Trophy to the 1975 winner of the Canadian Open Golf Championship, represents Nalatuja's own family — his wife Sara and year-old son George.

This marks the fifth consecutive year that the winner of the Royal Canadian Golf Association's $200,000 national championship will receive a unique work of Eskimo art, in addition to the first-place prize money (which this year will be $40,000).

None of the winners has ever met the artist who carved his trophy. None of the artists has ever seen a golf course, a golf ball or a previous winner — Lee Trevino, Gay Brewer, Tom Weiskopf and Bobby Nichols.

Yet each winner has accorded the trophy a special place of honor — Trevino, Brewer and Weiskopf all have displayed the trophies in their homes, while 1974 champion Nichols, who is the only winner with a permanent club professional's job, has his on display in the pro shop of the Firestone Country Club in Akron, Ohio.

Nalatuja, 26, comes from Cape Smith in far northern Quebec, and a family of nine whose father supported them with his carving ability. The 10-year-old Jusipi began imitating his father's carvings, and now augments his earnings as an artist by hunting.

He has expressed the desire to some day become a well-known artist so that his future will be assured.

If the black soapstone sculpture which will be presented at the Royal Montreal Golf Club July 27 by Imperial Tobacco president L. Edmond Ricard is an example, then that desire will probably be realized.

His sculpture will be seen by millions of viewers in the United States and Canada on the CBS and CBC television networks. His name will be associated with his work.

And it does not take long to become well known if Jack Nicklaus or Johnny Miller tells people: "Jusipi Nalatuja carved this."

Montreal's Dolegiewicz sets two records in shot-put and discus, Louise Beland tops in javelin

In the first open-air events of the season, the colossal Montrealese, Bishop Dolegiewicz did not take long to earn recognition.

In two competitions he attained two new Quebec records; in Texas he attained a shot-put of 64'7", bettering the Quebec record by 14 feet, and coming within 2 inches of his own national record which was established last year when he was still wearing the colors of a Toronto club; one week later in the Etienne Desmartheau Stadium, he threw the discus 190 feet, 15 feet over Robert Vinette's record. In his seventh trial out of competition he attained 209 feet which is well

Two other noteworthy performances this season are those of Louise Beland in the javelin throwing, who attained 160'3" only within three feet of her own personal record, and Luc Laperriere who has just turned 18 and who attained 241 feet — a very high standard considering his age.

Laperriere is not considered a candidate for the Olympic Games because of his age, but he seems to be following in the footsteps of the young Vancouver prodigy, Phil Olsen, who at the same age was also a year ahead of his time.

Marcel Dionne still undecided where he will go next season

Phil Esposito silenced speculation he would jump to the rival World Hockey Association by signing with Boston Bruins this week for another three years.

The 33-year-old centre from Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., the National Hockey League's most prolific scorer in the last decade, was one of only a few legitimate stars whose contracts expired this year and who could become free agents June 1.

Esposito's team-mate, defenceman Bobby Orr, has a contract to go on his five-year pact that has a reported worth of $1 million. There has been no speculation on the value of Esposito's pact. Bruins managing director Harry Sinden, in announcing the signing of Esposito superstar and winger Terry O'Reilly earlier in the week said:

"There is no need for me to go into details concerning the value of these players to our team."

LOOKS TO WHA

Marcel Dionne, who amassed more points in his four seasons in the NHL than any other player in league history, is being wooed by the WHA Edmonton Oilers and "may just go there," says his agent, Toronto lawyer Alan Eagleson, if Detroit Red Wings don't trade his NHL rights.

The young Wings' captain has expressed a desire to stay in the NHL with a team other than Detroit. Eagleson said several NHL teams would be delighted to have Dionne, but the Detroit organization is asking too much in return, which may force the 23-year-old native of Drummondville, Que., to accept the Edmonton offer.

Rod Gilbert is the lone New York Ranger star whose contract is up for renewal. He is reported to be interested in joining New England Whalers of the WHA.

New York Islanders, the three-year-old Cinderella team that went all the way to the semi-finals before running into Stanley Cup-bound Philadelphia Flyers, whom they carried to seven games, are expected to have Billy Harris signed by June 1.

Harris has also been in discussions with the WHA's Cleveland Crusaders.

Mike Murphy and Bob Nevin, one-two in the Los Angeles Kings scoring during the season, are in the process of contract negotiations.

DUDLEY GONE

Rick Dudley, a 31-goal scorer with Buffalo Sabres, surprised club management Wednesday by announcing he had signed with Cincinnati Stingers, a WHA expansion team in the 1975-76 season.

Several Toronto Maple Leafs regulars will be free to negotiate June 1 unless they can reach agreement. Captain Dave Keon and veterans Norm Ullman and Eddie Shack are the ones most mentioned.

Borrow on your Cash-flow... you earned it.

There are times when you need to make a major purchase, like a new car, because the old one just isn't worth those mounting repair bills. Instead of dipping into your hard-earned savings, talk to your TD branch about a TD Cash-flow Loan.

Cash-flow is the sensible way to borrow. Take your net monthly income, deduct your usual costs, like the rent, food, mortgage — money you know you'll have to spend. What's left over determines how much you can afford to repay on your loan. So you'll be borrowing without getting in over your head. And if you're a member of TD's Personal Service Plan, you may get a reduced interest rate. If you need us, we're here — with TD Cash-flow Loans.

New Nostalgia Trip: The Old-Fashioned Garden

Gardeners can take a new nostalgia trip this Spring, planting remembrances from their youth, enjoying a 2,000-year-old link with the Aztecs, or planting a garden salute to the American Revolution.

Just as film buffs travel back to the past through new variations on the golden age of comedy, or World War II, or even with Frankenstein, so gardeners can recreate the visual pleasures of yesterday.

In Gardening Shortcuts, newest of the garden book series published by Ortho, there's inspiration and information about such nostalgia plants as hollyhocks, nasturtiums, zinnias, and geraniums—even about the 2,000-year-old Aztec sweet corn.

Take geraniums as an example, the book points out:

"Geraniums have been popular in homes and gardens since before the American Revolution. They have gone through many changes in breeding; improving the plant and flower greatly, but the geranium still retains its old-fashioned quality. Versatility and a failure proof reputation have always been their big appeal."

Geraniums—which can be as easily started from cuttings as they are from seeds—can conjure up the American history of gardening as you enjoy them in traditional clay pots, or in hanging baskets.

Zinnias in hanging baskets also revive vistas of the past. One of the oldest of zinnia varieties, zinnia linearis, recently has been resurrected, according to Gardening Shortcuts, "because of its impressive performance in hanging baskets."

This zinnia plant grows eight inches high and, in full bloom, blossoms with small, golden orange flowers, each petal with a lemon stripe.

For your 1975 flower garden, plant a little nostalgia with a hanging basket. One of the oldest of zinnia varieties, zinnia linearis, has an especially impressive performance in hanging baskets. Or take a nostalgia trip with plants remembered from childhood—such as nasturtiums, hollyhocks or geraniums.

Nasturtiums take many people back to their childhood—and in one major seed catalogue, the old-variety of single-flowering nasturtiums has been rediscovered. The description reads: "Old-fashioned charm makes single-flowered nasturtiums in great demand for garden and cutting." The new dwarf, double-flowering nasturtiums are also available.

The hollyhocks remembered from gentler times still abound today, and gardeners can rediscover the simple, old-styled variety as well as enjoy the new double, ruffled and improved ones.

Black Aztec Sweet Corn

represents an even longer link with the past. In reporting on its current availability, Gardening Shortcuts found this information in a nursery catalogue: "... identical to that which Aztec farmers grew 2,000 years ago. It has the same sweetness and flavor it had then. Vigorous grower and large producer of average size ears. Kernels are white in young milk stage, then turn jetblack when kernels are dried. The ground corn makes a wonderful corn meal to use for baking and cooking."

For your own 1975 garden, why not plant a little nostalgia?

Livestock Market

Cattle receipts at the Montreal Livestock Market as of 1 p.m. Tuesday for the week totalled 193 head of cattle, 235 calves and five hogs. Dairy cattle made up the majority of cattle receipts Tuesday which were generally less numerous than last week at the same time. Very few steers and heifers were offered for sale. There was an average demand in all categories and the market was passably active. Considering the diverse quality, prices paid were stable with those of last week. They were:

Steers Category B: $40.75 to $44.50; commercial: $22 to $38.
Heifers: Commercial: $24.50 to $31.25.
Cows: D3: $22 to $24.75; D4: $12 to $21.75.
Bulls: $20.25 to $27.
Calf receipts Tuesday were passably numerous. Common and medium quality calves made up the majority of receipts. Following a limited demand, the market was slow. Prices paid Tuesday were about stable with those of last week. They were:

Good dairy calves: $45 to $50; medium: $30 to $44.75; common: $10 to $29.50; feeders: $21.50 to $22.50.

'Intensity' creates minigarden success

N-P-K-N-P-K, that's the garden fertility song. It pays to remember it, because those letters stand for the Big Three Nutrients: Nitrogen, Phosphorus, Potassium—the basic nutritional elements for plant growth.

N is for nitrogen, the key element for vegetative growth. It promotes strong and healthy leaves, stalks, and stems. In fact, it's vital for all green-leaf tissue. Nitrogen fosters the development of proteins, cell growth-builders, in your plants. Without this essential element you'll see yellowed foliage and stunted growth; plants become weak and susceptible to disease, especially under adverse wet-or-dry weather conditions. Too much nitrogen can also cause problems. Over-supply encourages excess leaf and stem growth at the expense of flower and fruit formation. Some people feel that if X amount is good, they should double or triple that. Not so!

For a copy of my new book, send name address and check or money order for $1.50 (plus 25 cents postage) to "Inflation Fighter's Victory Garden", c/o this newspaper, P.O. Box 489, Dept. A, Radio City Station, New York, N.Y. 10019. Allow three weeks for delivery.

Here's a way to get free nitrogen fertilizer. Our atmosphere contains enormous amounts of nitrogen. Certain plants, called legumes—clover, alfalfa, peas, beans, soybeans, vetch, other related plants—draw nitrogen from the air in their daily life cycles. Because of certain bacteria on their roots, legumes "fix" this nitrogen in the soil. "Fix", in this case, means capture. They remove it from the atmosphere and relocate it, in useful form on their roots, from which it enters the soil.

P is for phosphorus. It is vital for strong, prolific flower development, good fruit set and seed production. Phosphorus also is required for proper development of plant sugars. You do want sweet-tasting squash, tomatoes, and corn, don't you? Then you should be concerned with the proper balance of phosphorus, that sugar-encouraging nutrient, in your soil.

Lack of phosphorus is easily spotted. Plants are stunted and have a yellowed look. Now, this may appear remarkably like nitrogen-deficiency, but look again. The distinctive purplish color around edges of leaves and between leaf veins means phosphorus-deficiency. Equally important, though unseen, is the retarded root development when phosphorus is insufficient. Also, leaves may fall, plants may fail to flower. That's when things are really bad with your phosphorus supply.

K stands for potassium. Actually, K-20 is the chemical expression for potash, for practical purposes the same as potassium. This basic ingredient promotes strong, healthy roots. Potassium, or potash, also helps in seed production. More important to you, it quickens maturity of crops and may help in disease resistance.

Potassium deficiency is marked by yellowish mottling. In severe cases foliage-loss occurs, and roots won't develop well. Also, fruit set is poor when potash is low.

These essential fertilizer ingredients are available in varying ratios—just check the bag. When you do, it helps to know what those numbers mean. They always appear in the same order: N-P-K. Thus, translated to numbers, 5-10-5 means your bag of fertilizer contains 5 percent nitrogen, 10 percent phosphorus, 5 percent potash.

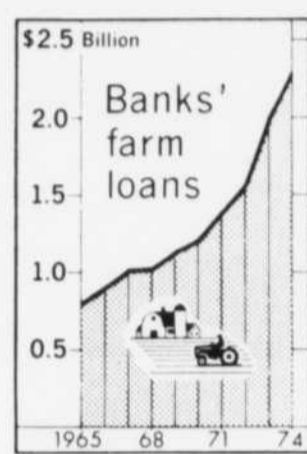

The other pounds in a bag, called carriers, have a purpose also. They help you achieve even application of all elements. Too much of any element can burn foliage and kill plants, just as too much actual fertilizer along the rows or around plants can be harmful.

Farm loans triple in decade

Farm loans by the chartered banks hit $2.3 billion last year, having more than tripled since 1964, the Canadian Bankers' Association (CBA) says.

This was up 15 per cent from the $2 billion in total loans outstanding at the end of the previous year. Not included in the figures are the large number of loans paid off from the proceeds of farm products sold prior to the year-end.

The CBA says the banks continue to be the largest and cheapest source of short- and medium-term farm credit among institutional lenders. In addition, they finance many businesses closely related to the farming industry.

Bank farm loans have been substantially broadened by increased medium-term lending and professional advice available from 45 full-time agronomists working for the banks.

Holstein show held

The third annual Ontario Holstein Spring Show, held May 10 in Stratford, proved once again to be a top drawing card for the best show type in the breed as a capacity crowd witnessed 191 animals paraded by 95 exhibitors before Judge Orton Eby, St. George. The spectacle, in terms of quality animals, left little to be desired and is a solid indication that the Spring Show is equal to the best in North America and should remain in operation for many years, a Holstein Canada press release states.

Vanlea Nugget Joyce, billed by her owners R.F. Brown, Paris and Lowell D. Lindsay, Guelph, as "the most beautiful dairy cow in the world" was full measure to her advance publicity as she sifted easily through the aged cow class before being named Grand Champion female of the day. Joyce chalked up a similar victory at the 1974 Royal Winter Fair; has been named All-Canadian aged cow for 1974; and was Reserve All-Canadian and Reserve All-American four-year-old in 1973. Judge Eby stated Joyce was "looking good today" as he tried to find words to describe this daughter of Bond Haven Nugget, originally bred by Keith Van Camp, Blackstock. The six-year-old has an almost perfectly shaped and attached udder combined with balance, width, and strength through her body. She also can work in the milking parlour, having yielded 21,663 lbs. milk testing 3.75 per cent for 813 lbs. fat in 365 days as a four-year-old.

Second prize aged cow and subsequently Reserve Grand Champion female was Spring Farm Citation Rosetta, owned by Spring Farms, Streetsville. Rosetta is no stranger to the show ring, having chalked up Reserve All-Canadian awards as a two-year-old in 1972, as a three-year-old in 1973, and being nominated for All-Canadian as a four-year-old in 1974. Rosetta was also "looking good" displaying a desirable rear udder attachment, capacity of body and width throughout. Her owners, ever present in the show ring year after year, carried home the Premier Breeder and Premier Exhibitor banners as proof of their excellent breeding program. The top four-year-old female, Raydon Marquis Wanda, exhibited by T. Robert Flett, Oshawa, Continental Holsteins, Leduc, Alberta, and G.K. Tatriquin, New Serepta, Alberta, provided keen competition for the two Champions. Judge Eby named her an "Honorable Mention." In giving his reasons, after a late switch with Elmcroft Ideal Sheila owned by Elmcroft Holsteins, Beaverton, Eby stated he "liked her overall dairy character; her height; and her openness." The judge also commented on her desirable udder and cleanness of bone as exhibited in her legs.

A Premier Sire, awarded on the same method and point system as a Premier Breeder or Exhibitor, was announced. The award was on an experimental basis this year. Rosafite Citation R, a Class Extra sire, led the tallies with Romandale Reflection Marquis and Agro Acres Marquis Ned as the two respective sires in the runner-up positions. Citation R also sired the top Get-of-Sire shown by Spring Farms and Hardy Shore, Glanworth.

A top show winning bull in 1974, Carlencrest Ned Dominion, owned by Carl E. Petherick, Campbellford, came back this year as a yearling to win Champion Male honours. Dominion, displaying in the words of Judge Eby "strength of topline and a better blend of neck to shoulder to crops," took the honours over second prize yearling and Reserve Champion Male Gaydale Tecumseh as owned by Bertram Stewart, Hornby and Harry Moore, Terra Cotta. Stewarthaven Dynamo, owned by Ebydale Farms Ltd., New Dundee; Stewarthaven Farms Ltd., St. Catharines; and Roycedale Farms, Breslau, led the bull calf class with Elleetta Bourbon-Red owned by Allan Elliott, Campbellville, and Bertram Stewart in second place.

Trailynd Marquis Melinda, originally bred by John Innes, Brantford, but owned and shown last year and this year by Norman Bagg, Thornhill, picked up Junior Champion female accolades. This senior yearling sired by Agro Acres Marquis Ned, displayed openness, a better spread of rib and wider hindquarters than Reserve Champion and second prize senior yearling Rowntree Ruby Dandy owned by Rowntree Farms Ltd., Brampton, an Wm. J. Craig, Brampton.

The show languished slightly in numbers when compared to 272 animals in 1973 and 241 in 1974. A late spring that possibly discouraged many breeders from showing in favour of seeding operations, coupled with the absence of a few regular key exhibitors were cited as two major reasons for the smaller turnout. However, a crowd which included a group tour of 200 Belgians filled the small Stafford Agricultural Coliseum to capacity.

Woman commands unit

OTTAWA — A woman is commanding a Canadian Forces unit, believed to be the first time since the Second World War. She is Major Marguerite T. Tremblay, 34, of Richmond, Que., who took command of a Recruiting Centre in downtown Ottawa, Friday, May 9.

In a brief ceremony she was officially welcomed by the outgoing commanding officer, Major Leonard J. Couture, 39, of Charny, Que.

Asked about her new duties, she said, "I'm looking forward to my new assignment, and I don't feel that being a woman will make the least bit of difference."

Major Tremblay joined the Canadian Women's Army Corps Reserve in Montreal in 1959 as a second lieutenant. She served on continuous duty with the regular force from 1961-68 as a staff officer at Quebec Command headquarters, and in Western Quebec District.

She joined the regular force in 1968 and has since served in a number of staff appointments at Trenton, Ont., St. Jean, Montreal and Quebec City.

She was promoted to the rank of major in April, 1974, and since that time has been serving in Quebec City with La Division d'Instruction Francophone.

Her predecessor at the recruiting unit, Major Couture, has been assigned as a pilot to 433e Escadrille de Combat at Bagotville, Que.

Sweet-sour meatball sandwich

By Aileen Claire
 NEA Food Editor

Build an outdoor buffet menu around hearty meatball sandwiches. Recipe for Berliner meatballs is right out of a San Francisco delicatessen and has that characteristic sweet-sour flavor so popular in German cooking. It calls for both natural dark and golden raisins and the meatballs require little attention as they bake without pre-browning, in stewed tomatoes. Serve warm or cold.

BERLINER MEATBALL SANDWICH

1 1/2 pounds ground beef
 1/2 cup soft bread crumbs
 1/4 cup each natural dark and golden California raisins
 1 egg, slightly beaten
 Salt and pepper
 1 can (1 pound) stewed tomatoes
 2 tablespoons brown sugar
 6 large round rolls
 Butter
 German-style mustard
 Dill pickle slices

Berliner meatballs from San Francisco have sweet-sour flavor.

Shape 6 large meatballs with ground meat, bread crumbs, raisins, egg and seasoning. Place in greased casserole. Pour stewed tomatoes over meatballs and sprinkle with brown sugar. Bake, uncovered, at 400 degrees 45 minutes. Split buns and hollow some of the bread from centers. Spread with butter and mustard and set a meatball in each roll. Top with a little of the sauce left in the baking dish and a slice of pickle. Makes 6 sandwiches.

Perky potatoes

By Aileen Claire
 NEA Food Editor

School is drawing to a close for millions and what better way to seal high school friendships than with an outdoor cookout. Keep the menu simple but with touches that are memorable such as adding water chestnuts to a baked potato filling.

POTATOES ON HALF SHELL

2 large potatoes

1/2 cup crisp bacon bits
 1 can (8 1/2 ounce) thinly sliced water chestnuts
 Sour cream or butter

Preheat oven to 400 degrees. Bake potatoes 1 hour until done. Split in half, remove flesh, saving skins. Mix potato with bacon and water chestnuts and refill skins. Serve hot with sour cream or butter. Eat the skin, too. Makes 4 servings.

SCHWEINSKOTELETTEN mit ROSINENSAUCE (Austrian Pork Cubes with Raisin Sauce)

2 pounds lean boneless pork, cut into 1-inch cubes
 1/4 cup flour
 1 tablespoon oil
 1 cup orange juice
 2 tablespoons lemon juice
 1/2 cup water
 3 tablespoons dark brown sugar
 1 tablespoon cornstarch
 1 1/2 teaspoons salt
 3/4 teaspoon ground ginger

Dredge meat in flour; shake off excess. In a large skillet heat oil. Add meat and brown well on all sides. Remove meat from skillet. Pour off fat. Stir in orange and lemon juices, water, brown sugar, cornstarch, salt, ginger, nutmeg and black pepper. Mix well. Bring to boiling point. Return meat to skillet. Add orange sections and raisins. Cover and simmer 30 to 40 minutes or until tender. Serve with hot noodles if desired. Makes 4 to 6 portions.

Ann Landers Big issue, little tissue

Dear Ann Landers: I was fascinated by the letter about the "Professional Virgin." My best friend is one and I think it's lousy. She's a wonderful gal in many ways, but when it comes to sex she's off her rocker. I believe the girl is a sadist. She loves to lead guys on — giving them every reason to think they'll score. When things get to the boiling point, she lowers the boom, feigns indignation and announces, "I'm not that kind of a girl!"

Although a medical examination would prove she has everything she was born with, I'd say her behavior is far from virginal. When she describes how far she goes, I find it difficult to understand what she thinks she's saving by not completing the act.

Comment, please. I'd love for her and others who behave this way to see it in print. — Out With The Teasers

Dear Out: Your friend, and other "professional virgins" who make such a big issue over a little tissue, are kidding themselves. Although they might be clinically "intact" they really haven't saved much in the way of personal integrity, reputation or anything else. I agree with you — they ARE sadistic.

Dear Ann Landers: I have been married to this wonderful man for four months. It is my first marriage (I'm in my late 20s) and Jack's second. He was widowed after having been married for 18 years — so you see he is several years my senior.

It seems whenever Jack introduces me to anyone he says, "Meet my new wife." This bothers me. I don't feel it's necessary that I be introduced as "new." I've mentioned this to Jack at least three times but he seems to forget. What can I do to get the idea across? — Antics With Semantics

Dear Ant: Forget it. It's no big deal. Jack will probably drop that irritating word within the year. In the meantime I can't see that any harm is being done.

When he begins to introduce you as his OLD wife, then you'll have something to complain about.

Dear Ann Landers: I have to laugh the way people who write to you have divided themselves into two camps — cat lovers, who are invariably dog haters, and dog lovers, who can't stand cats. Actually, I don't mind either cats or dogs. It's children I find intolerable. Why has so little been written on this subject — considering our society has become completely child-dominated?

More and more I meet people who share my disgust at the way our nation's little monsters are let loose to ruin rugs, furniture, lawns, parks, public buildings, and even marriages.

I've been in homes where parents have allowed their children to take over the conversation, argue with adult guests, and use language which I consider insolent. And have you noticed how many children are permitted to answer the phone and ask, "Who is this?"

You might consider me an oddball, but there are more of us around than you think. I hope the parents who read your column give this matter some thought. — Upstate N.Y.

Dear Up: Well!!! I'm glad you radioed your position. Dad. I'll keep my grandchildren away from YOUR neck of the woods.

7 billion lost in wage discrimination

WINNIPEG (CP) — Women workers lost more than $7 billion in 1973 because of wage discrimination, Madeleine Parent, a member of the national board of the Confederation of Canadian Unions, said Saturday.

Ms. Parent made the comment in a speech to the National Action Committee on the Status of Women at its weekend conference which drew more than 80 women delegates from across Canada.

She criticized governments at all levels for inadequate pay laws and called for a national program requiring equal pay for women.

The desire of businessmen to obtain higher profits has created job ghettos for their women employees, she said.

In other business during the conference, a statement was drafted asking for "responsible sex information and birth control services for all who want them regardless of age."

The conference also chose Lorna Marsden, University of Toronto sociology professor, as its new president.

Cuddle up in mohair sweater

By Judy Love

What could be more luxurious, softly feminine and frankly flattering than a fuzzy mohair sweater? It has a look of gentle elegance that's perfect for spring.

The fashion news is a shawl-collared wrap sweater with full, easy-fitting raglan sleeves and cuffs to turn up. The needlework news is the unusual design. It's a subtle plaid for you to work in double crochet. We chose sunny brights like tulip pink, grass green, sky blue, eggshell and indigo to complement the soft texture of the mohair.

You'll need a size J crochet hook and a mohair yarn like Bernat's Mohair Plus, which comes in 1 1/2 ounce balls. Color A takes 6 to 7 balls; Color B, 3 to 4; Color C and D require 2 to 3 balls each; and Color E, 1 ball.

Our mohair sweater can be worn over a blouse and pants to the office or on a city shopping trip. Wear it alone wrapped over pants or with a long skirt for a gala evening. Try accessorizing it with strands of pearls for extra radiance. If you'd like just a little more coverage wear it over a tube top or a satin shirt for full coverage.

Instructions for sizes S18 can be ordered by sending 50 cents to Stitchin' Time, c/o this newspaper, Radio City Station, Box 503, New York, New York 10019. Ask for leaflet S418 and be sure to enclose your name, address and zip code.

KNIT-KNACKS

DEAR JUDY LOVE: At the end of most knitting and crocheting instructions it will say to block the garment. How do you block a garment? — J.L., Georgia

DEAR J.L. Most man-made fibers (orlon, nylon, etc.) can be steamed lightly and don't really require blocking.

Fuzzy mohair wrap sweater in soft shades is perfect for sunny days of spring and cool summer evenings. Shawl-collared sweater has raglan sleeves, turned-up cuffs and is in a subtle plaid worked in double crochet.

When working with wool garments always must be blocked. Smooth each piece of work out on a padded surface. Put rustproof pins along the top and bottom, measuring to the correct length. Then pin along the sides keeping the pattern straight and the measurement correct. For blocking flat surfaces (like garments using the stockinette stitch or flat rows of crocheting), cover with a damp cloth and lower iron gently, allowing steam to penetrate the item. Under no circumstances should you press down hard or hold iron in one place until the cloth is dry. Don't slide the iron back and forth.

For items made of fluffy wool or items where you've used raised stitches, hold the iron as close as possible to the piece but do not touch it. Slowly move the iron, making sure the steam is penetrating the knitting or crocheting. Do not remove rust-proof pins until the pieces are completely dry. Then, after garment is sewn together, steam press the seams flat using the same method.

BOUNDARY — The annual meeting of the Shareholders of the Border Curling Club was held at the Club house on Wednesday evening, May 21 with a good number attending.

Jim Masson of Newport was elected the fiscal year of 1975-76 president, he replaced Dick Hodge who has served efficiently and with dedication the past year.

Mr. Hodge was in the chair for the general annual session. Reports were heard from Mrs. Mary Christie, Past President of the Ladies Club. Mrs. Christie has been succeeded by Mrs. Cecile Joyal.

From the Ladies annual meeting, Mrs. Christie said they voted to give financial assistance to the men for Club repairs and purchases of items required that will cost several hundred dollars.

Miss Arlene Probyn will remain as chairman of memberships for the fiscal year and it is hoped people will contact her for information. It was pointed out that Social members can have a lot of fun at the Club just as the active ones do.

Roland Roderigue spoke for the Junior activities which he and Don Emslie chaired last year. The Club feel that the juniors are doing some fine curling and
