Farm Help To be Granted Postponement

Situation Clarified in Regards to Farm Help Called For Training

Labor Minister Mitchell said in a statement Thursday night that essential farm workers may be granted indefinite postponement of, but not exemption from, military service under the Government's new National Selective Service plan.

Mr. Mitchell's statement, issued through the Labor Department, said there appeared to be widespread misinterpretation of the regulations in this regard in a few localities.

He said there appeared to be "an erroneous impression that farm workers were 'frozen' on the land from now on."

Exemption not Automatic
Under the new orders, the statement said, a man of military age who was chiefly employed in agriculture on March 23 is placed in a preferential position but he is not automatically exempted from any military service on that date.

Farm Forums Help Develop Farm Life

Dundee Farm Forum Group Finds Wide Favor Among Members

The two Dundee Farm Forum groups held a joint meeting at the Community Hall on Monday night, April 7, when the Farm Broadcast gathering was divided into three individual groups for the discussion periods. When the groups reassembled the findings were read aloud by each group secretary.

It was decided that the St. Agnes and Lake Shore groups would meet once a month during the coming spring and summer months. Delegates to the Convention at Macdonald College in June will be chosen at a later date.

The program committees took charge and games were played in which everyone took part. Refreshments were served. The general consensus of opinion expressed by those who have attended the weekly Farm Forum get-togethers during the winter months is that they have been a fine addition to the social side of the farming life of the community and that undoubtedly they will help to stimulate a greater interest and endeavour among the sons of the soil.

Ratepayers Urged to Observe Religious and Civic Holidays

Valleyfield Council Urges Business Men, Citizens in General to Halt Activities When Proclamations are Issued

The members of the Valleyfield Council are more than ever determined to have religious and civic holidays observed within the limits of the city, it was disclosed at the regular weekly meeting of this body on Wednesday evening.

Ald. Henri Latour reminded the council that some citizens entirely disregarded the notices issued to this effect by the council in the past and it was time some drastic action was taken to remedy the situation.

The council granted a permit to Lucien Pilon to operate an autobus service between Valleyfield and St. Thomas to the Defence Industries Limited plant.

Armand Hebert claimed damages from the council when his car was damaged near Jacques-Cartier bridge.

The Valleyfield Band was granted permission to widen its lockers at the city hall. The ratepayers on Canal street asked the council to build a sidewalk on that street.

The St. Vincent de Paul Society asked the city's cooperation in accomplishing their duties and the distribution of monies in the City of Valleyfield.

Li. Col. W. G. E. Aird, asked the council if it was beneficial to use the siren to announce curfew. The general manager also asked the city if it would be willing to help defray expenses incurred during the "black-out."

Department Foresees no Shortage in Farm Implements

Minimum Needs of Farmers to be Met by Domestic Supply and Imports—May Develop Steel Rims to Replace Rubber

Some farmers in the Chateaugay Valley have been worrying as to whether they would be able to obtain new farm implements, should their need become acute in 1942. The announcement made in Ottawa on Tuesday should help to clarify this question to a certain extent.

The communication reads as follows: "Minimum requirements of agricultural machinery for 1942 are being supplied by importation and manufacture in Canada in accordance with strict quota provisions. Agriculture Department officials said on Tuesday.

With farmers responding to appeals to undertake their machinery repairs quickly and make old machinery serve where possible, officials say they believe implements will not be a serious limiting factor in food production this year, if present conditions continue.

U.S. Tourist Stranded With Gasless Car

Failed to Take Gasoline Coupon at Trout River—Visit R.C.M.P.

The first American tourist stranded without gasoline in Montreal since the new rationing regulations have gone into effect, M. Syakos, Massena, N.Y., contractor, left happy with a tank full of gas and a healthy respect for the Canadian gasoline law and the helpfulness of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police.

Crossing the border at Trout River on Friday, the visitor failed to take up the gasoline coupon entitling him to 20 gallons of gasoline for a 48-hour stay. After completing business in Montreal on Friday afternoon and it included medical treatment, the visitor wheeled into a gasoline station. He was definitely put out.

"They keep telling me along the border that if you need help in a pinch see the Royal Canadian Mounted Police," said Syakos, when he visited Montreal division headquarters late Friday afternoon.

With Good Friday a legal holiday, in some sections of the city, including government offices, Inspector J. L. Lemieux was faced with a problem that was solved when he visited the station. A representative of the Oil Controller, was found at his Chateaufort office at Park Lafontaine. Guided by Sgt. I. Tessier, duty chauffeur, Syakos was courteously received by the head of the gasoline bureau and given the necessary coupon. A rush to a gasoline station finally beat the 7 p.m. deadline.

Subsidies To Continue Until April 30

Government Milk Grants Are on Basis of 30 Cents On Each 100 Lbs.

The Wartime Prices and Trade Board on Thursday announced that the subsidies which have been payable since December 22 last to producers of fluid milk and milk sold for manufacture of concentrated products will be continued until April 30.

In the meantime, the board will study as a guide for future action the report of a special committee which has now been received. This committee was appointed in January to investigate the supply and prices of milk with a view to devising a more equitable price structure.

Chairman of the special committee is Dr. G. E. Britnell, professor of economics at the University of Saskatchewan and adviser to the board.

The federal bonuses are payable on a basis of 30 cents on each 100 pounds, to producers of fluid milk sold in all areas where no increase in milk prices has taken place since August 1, 1941, and 40 cents on each 100 pounds, above a maximum price of $1.70 per 100 pounds, or the present price if higher, to producers of milk sold to manufacturers of concentrated milk products.

Much sympathy is felt for the family in the loss of a faithful husband and father and for the brothers and sisters in their bereavement.

James J. Ruddock Passes Away—Well-known in Godmanchester

In the death of Mr. James Ruddock, in his 70th year, Huntingdon has lost one of its most worthy citizens. He was the son of the late James Ruddock and his wife Eliza Barnes, and was born on the old Ruddock homestead in Boyd Settlement.

In the spring of 1902 he bought the old William Brown homestead and settled there. In the autumn of the same year he married Mary S. MacNaughton. They had three daughters, Marjorie, wife of Archibald MacGregor, Boyd Settlement, Pearl in Montreal and Jean at home. These with their mother survive as also two brothers, William D. and John Ruddock and two sisters, Mrs. Stratton, of Franklin, and Mrs. Campbell, of Ormstown.

Mr. Ruddock's death occurred on Monday, March 30th, and the funeral service was held at the home on Wednesday, April 1st. A very large company assembled to do honour to his memory. He was universally esteemed for his kind, friendly disposition, and respected for his integrity and public spirit. He was a good farmer, and a good citizen. His home duties were well fulfilled but he interested himself in the affairs of the community at large, and for seventeen years sat in the Council of the Township of Godmanchester, a member of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church; he was diligent in his religious duties and interested in the Kingdom of God. For most of his life he had enjoyed excellent health, broken some five years ago and then again within recent weeks. This last attack proved fatal.

Much sympathy is felt for the family in the loss of a faithful husband and father and for the brothers and sisters in their bereavement.

Horses For Rubber Tires

THE market for horses has been poor, the prices offered has been so discouraging that many farmers gave up breeding mares.

In the early days of the depression, the now commonly used "Bennett Buggy" came in vogue. With the introduction of this form of express delivery wagon the old wheels and axles were replaced, now it is difficult to find an old axle and wooden wheel to re-equip the express wagon.

Truckers are already telling their customers that they expect to be obliged to store their trucks away in the not so very distant future due to the fact that their rubber tires will be weakened and they will not then be able to assure safe delivery.

The drop of motor vehicle traffic upon our highways during the past week has been very noticeable whilst the popularity of the bicycle has enhanced, and likewise that of pedestrians utilizing our sidewalks.

A Railway Opportunity

OUR passenger trains have claimed for many years that they operated at a financial loss. That was regrettable, but even now when traffic is heavy are they making any real endeavour to cater to the passenger traffic?

We're True British, Says Record-News

WE were quite certain when Editor A. E. Dobbie, Smith's Falls Record-News, published an item casting reflection upon those of military age, or those within the army ranks who were reared in this Province, he did not intend to include all our loyal sons.

The Record-News editorially had the following to say: "Periodically, since the war started, the Record-News has unhesitatingly condemned the seemingly anti-British attitude of the province of Quebec, generally, pertaining to Canada's obligation to Britain in the fight for freedom and democracy."

"If we succeed in protecting Australia, a change in Australia's international position is to be expected. The military fact must receive its recognition in a political rearrangement. If, as Mr. Curtin says, England cannot guard Australia, and Australia now looks to this country for leadership, we may assume that this relationship is destined to become a permanent one and that somehow or other Australia is to be included and represented in our federal system."

Two weeks ago, in these columns, we referred to and condemned "an organization in Quebec which could supply a means whereby soldiers, sailors and airmen could be made ill and discharged from active service, and conscripted men could be made exempt from compulsory training."

Knowing Editor Dobbie, as most weekly publishers do in eastern Canada, we were quite certain he was not anxious to aggravate or cause ill-feeling amongst army recruits or provinces. Editor Dobbie is the type of man who aims toward progressiveness and loyalty to the Crown.

present enlistment record goes for Smith's Falls or the Chateauguay Valley, we are now hitting quite an even stride. As far as the Chateauguay Valley is concerned we would like to keep an eye on the area served by the Smith's Falls Record-News, believing with all sincerity that the population of the Chateauguay Valley served by the Gleaner will be quite equal to match the attainments of the Smith's Falls area in whatever war effort may be desired of the populace.

The Smith's Falls Record-News concluded its editorial with the following paragraph, and although it does contain a sting, it is not so severe a sting but that the challenge can be met:

"We appreciate The Gleaner bringing this matter of the loyalty of that section of Quebec to our attention and assure the Editor that henceforth we will be more specific with our condemnation, so that no reflection will be cast upon those loyal soldiers of that province who have enlisted. But we still feel that the province of Quebec has not held-up its end, on a par with the rest of Canada, in enlistments for active service. We should and must admit that at the present we are more or less anti-French due to the action of certain sections of Quebec. If there is any part of Canada which should be 100% pro-British it is the French province. However, the Huntingdon Gleaner's criticism and defence is in order."

Voters List For Plebiscite

ON April thirteenth, an army of enumerators will commence a house to house visitation throughout this district for the purpose of compiling a list of qualified voters who will determine, as far as this district is concerned, whether the government is to be released or not from its no-conscription pledge.

As the date for the vote on the plebiscite approaches, there is evidence that the overwhelming "yes" vote that all patriotic Canadians want, might not be forthcoming. There are organizations assembling in many large centres to actively campaign for a "no" vote. If they are successful, the result will be a black eye that this nation will not recover from for a generation or more.

When clerk to Somerville, I had to test the black salts, adulteration being leached ashes, by dissolving them and often detecting the fraud. The highest price was in '36. Elder was a very close man and it was impossible to make him dead drunk. He would knock me on the ground for a week, yet always knew what he was doing. Taylor was a similar case. My father brought a cart with him and Bowron had another. These were the only two until Burrows got one. Miller afterwards got a wagon, which he knocked me on the ground for a week, yet always knew what he was doing. The radical or west end of the village got up a school of their own and there was need for it, for in winter Miller would have as many as 120 scholars, some of them blind grown men. There was a good deal of rivalry between the schools, and meeting the scholars of the others on the ice, we would chase them.

Axis Propaganda From Chicago

UNDER the guise of extreme patriotism, Colonel R. R. McCormick, editor and publisher of the Chicago Tribune, has made his newspaper the mouthpiece for Axis propaganda of every description. In his psycho-pathic excess of hate against the British, against President Roosevelt and against Stalin, Colonel McCormick has turned the largest newspaper in America's second largest city to the purposes of fifth columnist activity.

"This is a serious charge which can be substantiated time and time again. There is, for example, the following proposal which the Tribune made on March 16: "If we succeed in protecting Australia, a change in Australia's international position is to be expected. The military fact must receive its recognition in a political rearrangement. If, as Mr. Curtin says, England cannot guard Australia, and Australia now looks to this country for leadership, we may assume that this relationship is destined to become a permanent one and that somehow or other Australia is to be included and represented in our federal system."

"It would be a strange irony if the nation which was committed to abandoning the Philippines as an unwanted imperial prize should find itself at the end of the war in possession of Australia and New Zealand, and perhaps a lot of other territory beside."

Three days after this was published in the Tribune a Japanese broadcast from Tokyo reported that all evening newspapers in Berlin had said that sending General MacArthur to Australia is the first step towards annexation of Australia and New Zealand to the American "Empire" by "Emperor Roosevelt."

The Tribune editorial appeared in a large American newspaper (printed, unfortunately, on Canadian newsprint). The Tokyo broadcast was obvious Axis propaganda designed to create dissension among the United Nations. There can be no doubt as to which propaganda would be most effective from the standpoint of the Axis.—(Barrie Examiner).

CHATEAUGUAY, BEAUHARNOIS and HUNTINGDON COUNTIES

From Manuscripts of The Late ROBERT SELLAR

Holcomb and Latham had given up their ore (Castle Clouts) for a shoeshop. Upstairs, were a lot of wooden hats left by them. The old school was directly behind on the bank of the canal and in a line with Dr. Sherriff's. The only schooling I may say I got, was in it from Miller, who was a good teacher. One great cause of Huntingdon making so little progress, was Bowron's policy of preventing everybody that might compete with him coming here. I know he turned many away who wanted part of the water-power. Old Taylor, while his miller, lived in a blockhouse at the southwest end of the bridge, the mill being where the foundry stands. The basement of the dwelling had an oven and Taylor baked there, for he was a baker as well as miller. When sober, he was really a superior man. Jock Best lived opposite McNeer's store. He was said to have no wits, but a solid plate of bone instead, so that, in his numerous shindies, when he knocked me on the ground upon by the Irishman, he would get up and whip them. He came I think, the year before us. At least he was here when we came.

Danski made his main living by burning lime. When clerk to Somerville, I had to test the black salts, adulteration being leached ashes, by dissolving them and often detecting the fraud. The highest price was in '36. Elder was a very close man and it was impossible to make him dead drunk. He would knock me on the ground for a week, yet always knew what he was doing. LEWIS MCKAY, Hinchinbrook

I was born in Lochaber in 1791, on 20th June and left for Canada, I think, in 1798, with my grandfather, who was a military man, and a whitesmith by trade. We went in a small vessel to Stornoway, where we embarked for Quebec in the government transport. Bowron, who had been captured from the French. In Montreal my grandfather was assigned to repairing muskets. When war was declared there was great dejection in Montreal, the general belief being that the Americans would take the country. At night, especially there was a great alarm, the Americans being expected to appear. Everything in the shape of a man was pressed into service; if a dog could have carried a firelock he would have been taken. You would see at the sentry posts mere boys, too weak to carry their guns, which they had vested at their boxes. The Canadians were very averse to serving. A number were got from back by St. Rose, and were furnished with clothes and accoutrements but no guns. Some priests visited them and told them to go home, that the British would not fire on them. Col. Brock hurried out to Lachine and dealt sharply with them. I saw the volleys poured in on the Canadians. After that, there was no trouble with the Canadians. Col. Brock was then with his regiment, the 49th, and a fine, large regiment it was. Col. Macdonald (so he pronounced it) came enlisting for his regiment, the Voltigeurs. There was nothing doing at that time but raising companies and regiments and they took everybody they could. The bounty was $100 but

Opinions of Others...

THE WASTE OF WORDS (Lachute Watchman) In time of war the excess verbiage expended in the House of Commons comes in for earnest criticism. Mayor Lewis of Ottawa threw a bombshell recently by suggesting Members of Parliament might economize, not only in time but in space, by giving over their office quarters to more essential uses.

Right We thank you Write Understand Tell, inform We received We believe, think We agree We shall try We wish It Give details Of today Make inquiries

Mr. Winston Churchill's famous sentence about the Royal Air Force, in which he compressed all that they had been doing, what it meant to England, our admiration of it and our gratitude towards them, into seventeen words, only four of which have more than one syllable, could well be taken as a model for writing: "Never in the field of human conflict was so much owed by so many to so few."

Miss Corabelle Elliot of Castleton, N.Y., is spending the Easter holidays with her sister, Mrs. H. S. Smith. Miss Elva Fraser spent the Easter week-end in Montreal. In a report last week of a Progressive Tea at the MacMillan home it was omitted to state that Dr. W. C. Winfrey of Winfrey's Island gave a very interesting talk on first aid and bandage work. The vote of thanks was given to the Doctor for his demonstration. Mr. and Mrs. Jas. Colquhoun and Mr. Archie Colquhoun visited friends at Massena, N.Y. on Sunday afternoon. Mrs. Colquhoun's sister, Mrs. Harland Horton, is seriously ill with pneumonia. Mrs. Chas. C. Fraser spent Friday in Montreal.

WEEK IN OTTAWA

In the parliamentary recess, the order of the day for all war departments and governmental agencies is "get on with the job." The war waits for no nation. It drives on grimly and relentlessly, and Canada has been hearing of grave warnings from its leaders. As Donald Gordon, earnest and driving head of the Wartime Prices and Trade Board, whose duty it is to harness civilian economy to the demands of war, told a radio audience recently: "The great tragedy of our time is that no democracy has been able to understand or to accept the demands of total war until its homes were under an actual bombing attack!"

"This country has staged a remarkable production feat," Mr. C. D. Howe, minister of munitions (Continued on page 6)

HUNTINGDON LOCALS

Bus is Stolen
Shortly after 1:30 a.m. on Tuesday, a transport bus owned by the Provincial Transport Company, was stolen from its parking lot at the Huntingdon Chateau. The bus was driven to the outskirts of town, near the residence of Paul Gailpeau, and then the driver apparently lost control of the vehicle and it struck a tree.

The thieves, who broke the window of the bus in order to enter it, are reported to be two soldiers stationed at the Chateaugay Barracks. They were apprehended on Tuesday morning and were taken to Valleyfield where they will stand trial.

The vehicle was badly damaged when the thieves attempted to get it out of the ditch under its own power. The motor of the bus was also badly damaged. Circulation Officer A. Gagnon and Inspector Bussier, of the Provincial Transport Company, are investigating the case.

Objects to Removal of Carr Station

At the regular monthly meeting of the Godmanchester Council held on Monday, a petition was read from a number of ratepayers objecting to the removal of Carr's station in the Township of Godmanchester. The Council favored this petition, which was supported by six voters.

The council observed two minutes' silence in respect to the memory of the late councillor James Ruddock. A resolution of sympathy was extended to the bereaved family.

Ross Pringle was appointed councillor to replace the late James Ruddock.

The request of Alex. Robb about placing a culvert on the Robb sideroad on Highway No. 4, in order to drain his land, was left in the hands of the mayor and the secretary-treasurer.

John Weiburn and Georges Boucher came before the board about having a ditch cleaned along the Muck road. The matter was left in the hands of the secretary.

Arthur Robert came before the board complaining about a culvert on the Back Ridge road opposite his property, that is deteriorating in regard to the south side of his farm. This request was left in the hands of Councillors Biggar and Caldwell.

The different road officers in the Township of Godmanchester were appointed to inspect corn fields in regard to the corn borer and noxious weeds.

The inspector was ordered to repair the Council's share of the fence on the No. 9 sideroad on the complaint of James Ferns.

A letter from the Quebec Department of Roads was read, acknowledging receipt of a resolution informing the Department of Roads that an amount of $200. has been given to Mr. D. Faubert to be applied to the contributions of the Municipality for the maintenance of roads.

A petition was received by registered mail from interested parties on the Hall Creek, ordering the Godmanchester Council to complete the said sideroad before September 1st, 1942.

W. L. Carr filed a report that he had placed a dam to prevent the water of the Cowan Creek from flowing into the Hall Creek and that the said dam had been erected to the best of his ability under the circumstances.

The following bills were ordered paid: M. W. Curran, $21.; Elzear Brunet, $35.40; Robert Milne, $12.25; C. B. Ferns, $17.50; Shawinigan Water & Power Co., $7.14; Stanislas Gauthier, $27.60; J. ANOTHER CARGO SHIP TAKES SHAPE

Prime Minister King has announced that this year Canada will, for the first time in history, be building almost as many merchant ships as the United Kingdom. These vessels are 95 per cent Canadian in workmanship and material. Some of these vessels may be gained from this photo of the interior of a hull under construction. When completed, this ship will be capable of carrying the following cargo in ONE voyage: Enough flour, cheese, bacon, ham, canned and dried fruits to feed 225,000 persons in Britain for a week; 2,150 tons of steel bars and slabs; enough Bren gun carriers, trucks and motorcycles to motorize an infantry battalion; enough bombs to load 950 medium bombers or 225 heavy bombers; enough lumber and plywood, wallboard and nails to build 90 four-room cottages; two complete bombers stowed on the after deck, and enough aluminum in the hold to build 310 medium bombers or 640 fighter planes in England.

Opinions of Others ...

BY ALL MEANS VOTE "YES"
(Leamington Post and News)
Voting on the plebiscite by which the Dominion Government asks to be relieved from the pledges made by the Prime Minister not to introduce conscription for overseas service to be held on Monday, April 27th.

Nothing could have a more stimulating effect on Canadian morale than a thunderous "yes." It would let our rulers know that Canadians are awake to the seriousness of the situation, and will support them in whatever may be necessary to ensure that this Dominion is doing her share to meet the emergency. The fate of the British Empire, the fate of the Atlantic Ocean on one side and across the Pacific on the other. If conscription is needed at all in order to fill the armed forces, it is obviously not only futile, but absurd, that it should be confined to service within the bounds of the Dominion, where as yet there is no fighting and where there will never be any large scale fighting unless the King has been hopelessly lost in distant theatres.

Mr. King has promised that he and his colleagues will actively campaign in urging the electors to vote "yes." They should have the support of every individual and every organization favoring an all-out Canadian war effort.

It is a time when party affiliations should be forgotten, when the one thought should be that of getting the war over with as soon as possible, and that will only be possible through an united all out war effort.

Vote "Yes" on April 27th.

WHAT'S IN THE WIND

By PAULA DICKS

BIRDS AND SQUIRRELS
Most of us have at one time or another been forced to follow the private lives of various animals as confined to that understanding Mr. Burgess and his numerous imitators. The Skunks, the Chipmunks, the Foxes, the Rabbits and other fashionable members of the Animal Kingdom of Nature have their special social column.

Easter Saturday I made the acquaintance of a tribe of Squirrels and a Robin family in a rather unusual manner. Tudor Hall in Jas. A. Ogilvy's Store, Montreal was the locality where a concert was put on in aid of the S.P.C.A. by a group of children under the direction of Mrs. Kenneth Mappin. Here was a large audience of grown-ups and children of all ages, as word had been spread by means of some excellent press notices, that original children's plays written by Mrs. Mappin were to be given.

Accidents at the last moment are familiar to such circumstances and the leading lady was in bed with a high temperature. One of the cast had to substitute. Absence of curtains called for still more adjustments. The enthusiastic young people took everything in their stride.

A family of city' squirrels, with bushy tails and clever masks, were expecting a visit from their country cousins. They arrived and in due course the visit was returned. The dialogue conveyed interesting family gossip, adventures and some advice. The characters and situations were well devised to maintain interest.

The same group of young actors played the Return of The Robins. A pair come back to their old nesting ground and proceed to build a home. A large nest in the middle of stage contained the birds, who wore very well made masks, beaks lined with red. In due course the heads of young ones appeared over the edge of the nest. The comedy from then on consisted of the parents hopping about to find big juicy worms to stuff down the throats of their squawking young children.

Other numbers on the programme consisted of songs, recitations, Dance of Spring, to Mendelsohn's "Spring Song" by the McNichol sisters was very lovely and also the Peasant Dance by the same artists. Master Mappin, son of Mrs. Kenneth Mappin, who directed the concert, acted as Master of Ceremonies and took a leading part in the plays.

Minimum Victory Garden

In a well drained, sunny, reasonably fertile plot, 20x30 feet, sufficient fresh vegetables qualifying as "protective foods," rich in vitamins, can be grown to supply a family of four for the harvest period of four months.

This may be considered to be the minimum Victory Garden called for by the national campaign. Any vegetables at all produced for family use will be a contribution to defense, releasing commercial foods for other uses. But a garden which will provide nutritious protective foods for the family all summer will be a real defense asset.

It may be enlarged, where suitable land is available, to grow food for preserving to be consumed over a much longer period.

This illustration which accompanies this article shows one way the minimum garden could be laid out. Of great importance is the selection of the foods to be grown; and the list included in the plan has been most carefully considered. It includes:

Swiss chard or New Zealand spinach, both of which yield continuously through the hot summer, giving several crops from the same space, and both almost as rich in vitamins as spinach.

Leaf or cos lettuce, which will provide the basis for bowl salads, and are forty times richer in vitamin A than bleached head lettuce. Tomatoes sufficient for 100 servings in four months, or almost every day; because the tomato is perhaps the most valuable of all protective foods, palatable and nutritious whether cooked, served raw, or juiced.

Spring or green onions, invaluable for flavor, also rich in vitamins, which mature onions relatively lack.

Broccoli, the green sprouting kind, which home gardeners easily grow and which far surpasses the cauliflower in nutrition, while duplicating its flavor.

Carrots, most nutritious of edible roots, and a truly delicious food when served out of the garden, especially when half mature.

Collards, a sort of loose leaf cabbage, whose green leaves have many times more vitamins than bleached cabbage heads.

Peas, which are nutritious, and when grown at home, are one of the most delicious of all foods.

Parsnips, a nutritious root crop which can be harvested all winter during thaw.

Lima beans, richest of fresh vegetables in the important vitamin B1. Parsley, which deserves to be treated as a chief ingredient of salads, rather than a garnish, because it is so nutritious.

Beets, to be grown both for their roots and their leaves, which far excel the roots in nutrition.

Squash, easily grown and vitamin rich, giving welcome variety to the summer menu.

Red Peppers, which can also be eaten in the green state, and provide precious vitamins while lending pep to all dishes that include them.

All on this list may be termed protective foods. When well grown and eaten in the proportions indi-

The Soul of Printing

THERE is something more than paper, ink and presswork in a piece of good printing. The designer has put his soul into it—that elusive something that causes his handiwork to make a special appeal. The recipient handles it with admiration and reverence. He reads it carefully. He preserves it. He is influenced—persuaded—by its message.

T HUS good printing achieves its objective—to interest and persuade. This is the kind of printing we are equipped to produce . . . promptly.

WAR CALLS

TO TELEPHONE EXPANSION...

TELEPHONES are in greater demand than ever before—even greater than in 1941, an all-time record year. By far the greater part of this demand is for residence telephones.

Only a part of this unprecedented volume of orders can be filled if we are to have anything left for the camps and depots and air schools of our armed forces—for the plants and offices of our war industries. Already telephone materials are difficult to obtain. Reserves are steadily diminishing, even though we are re-conditioning and re-using every last piece of equipment that can be salvaged.

There can be only one answer: war needs must get first call on available supplies. Even when necessity demands new installations, not all types of instruments and services will be available.

The Wartime Prices and Trade Board established by the Governor-in-Council under the War Measures Act, has directed us "to do all such things as may be requisite to conserve any and all telephone plant and facilities"

We realize that this will cause inconvenience—perhaps even hardship. We shall need your help in working out wise and just solutions to the telephone problems of your community. And we know that you will give it cheerfully, as still another necessary contribution to victory.

Answering Four Questions Most Often Asked About Conditions in Great Britain

This is the 13th of a series of 18 articles on conditions in Great Britain in wartime, written exclusively for the weekly newspapers of Canada by Hugh Templin, of the Fergus News-Record.

Having completed the first dozen stories in this series, perhaps I should take time this week to answer the questions most often asked me since I came back to Canada. I shall not attempt to answer them all, of course, but four of those most often asked are the most important and which are most frequently asked.

What Changes Is The War Making In Great Britain

This was my first visit to England and therefore I cannot answer from my own experience but among my fellow travellers were several who had been born in the British Isles, or had visited them on several occasions. During my stay in England, I met people of all classes. My hosts included titled and un-titled persons of prominence and rank. I travelled by myself when time permitted and met and talked with people of all classes. I wandered away from the group to talk to people who were working in their gardens, to the men and women running machinery in the factories. I met many former Canadians now living in England.

It seems to be unanimously agreed that the changes in Britain have already been great; that more are still to come, and that things can never be the same again as they were before the war began.

A great levelling process is taking place. Money is of little use if it cannot buy luxuries. Rationing applies to all. No matter how many suits of clothes a man had before the war, he can buy only the same number now as the humblest laborer. True, the quality will be better, but even that distinction tends to disappear.

During more than three weeks in London, I saw only two young men dressed in formal evening clothes, not counting the waiters in the ground station and they were drunk. They were pointed out to me as a bad example by a constable. Yet in the days before the war, a Canadian cabinet minister was refused admission to the dining room in the hotel where he was staying because he was not in evening clothes.

An incident happened during my stay in Britain that shows the Germans have no idea what a change they have wrought in England. One night, they dropped a spy by parachute. Evidently, he expected to move in society. He was dressed in tails and his outfit was complete even to white spats. The outfit marked him at once, and he had the further misfortune to drop in a mud puddle and smear his spats. He was picked up before he had time to hide the small wireless transmitter he carried. His clothes cost him his life.

Even then, pleasure travel in automobiles was limited to the distance one could travel in three gallons a month. Since then, it has been prohibited. While I was in England, the distinction between first and third classes for railway travel was abolished and there is now only one class.

Rich and poor suffered alike in the bombing. That, perhaps, did more to break down distinctions than anything else. Everyone physically able to do so must take a turn at fire-watching. It is said that income and other taxes amount almost to conscription of wealth. I cannot say whether that is true, but it is obvious that wealth can no longer obtain many luxuries, and a great levelling process has been taking place. As I did not hear any complaints about it.

IS RATIONING OF FOOD AND CLOTHING FAIR TO ALL?

This question can be answered without hesitation. I do not see how rationing restrictions could be more fairly applied. There are a few loopholes, but these are not important. An honest effort is made to see that everyone gets equal privileges.

Food allowances of all rationed staple foods are alike for rich and poor. No amount of influence can get any more. The British people are obviously not starving, but I do not think they really get enough to eat. At least, a Canadian feels the sudden change in diet.

Take butter, for instance. No matter where one eats, the allowance is the same, two ounces a week. That allows a slice about the size and thickness of a quarter for each meal. It will not butter half a roll. On Sunday morning, I showed the family the butter allowance for one meal. I used six of them, or two days' ration, on one slice of hot toast.

It is hard to find anything for breakfast in Britain. I never ate an egg while I was there. (The ration is two eggs a month per person in the London district.) In fact, I saw only one person eating an egg in almost a month. There are no packaged cereals. They came from Canada and are too bulky to ship. Oatmeal could be obtained occasionally when one could get milk with it. The sugar ration is one-third the new Canadian ration. Fried tomatoes seemed to be the staple breakfast food last fall, sometimes with one slice of fat bacon.

Meat is severely rationed. The allowance is limited by the price paid, and a chilling tuppence, a week per person. That would mean a roast on Sunday and shepherd's pie once or twice on following days. There are two exceptions. Game and offal are not rationed. At the hotels one ate unskinned, meat-venison, rabbit, grouse, chicken, guinea fowl—or such things as tripe, sweetbreads and headcheese. English sausages are amazing things. They look like sausages but taste like nothing on earth. I tried them twice, the second time to see if they could possibly be as bad as I thought they were the first time. There was no improvement.

Bread and vegetables were not rationed. With so many growing their own vegetables last year, and with a favorable season, there was no scarcity of vegetables. I saw oranges for sale once. They were for children only. Stores were busy but I never saw a queue lined up to buy food, although there were lines in the early mornings where cigarettes were sold, three to a customer.

WHAT TO SEND IN PARCELS OF FOOD TO BRITAIN

What is sent to Canadian soldiers in Britain is largely a matter of individual preference. The weight allowance is liberal and there are few restrictions on articles at Canadian Army Headquarters in London suggest butter, sugar, marmalade, fruit juice (all in cans); razor blades, garters and braces. Another suggests candy, particularly chocolate. I asked many soldiers what they would like and got few other suggestions. They seemed to be well supplied with cigarettes, though there were many complaints about cigarettes going astray. I imagine that it is not so much what is in parcels for soldiers that counts, so much as the fact that they are sent regularly. They like to know that the people back home have not forgotten them.

Parcels for civilians in Britain must be sent very carefully. The weight limit is five pounds, including the wrapping and package. There are some restrictions about the number of packages which may be sent and the contents. If the parcel does not comply with the restrictions, it will not be delivered. The person to whom it is consigned will be notified but the contents will be turned over to some organization. That is worse than not sending a parcel at all.

Civilians in Britain appreciate the parcels sent them even more than the boys in the Armed Services. They are more in need of the extra food. A pound of butter received from Canada, for instance, doubles the ration for one person for two months. There is a definite rule that no person in Britain may write to ask that food be sent, but you can be sure it will be welcomed.

I asked many civilians what they would like most, if parcels were sent them from Canada. Invariably butter headed the list. It can be bought in cans. I heard of one old lady who received a two-pound tin of butter from Canada. She called the neighbors in to see it. The local paper heard the story and printed it. Two months later, she still had her butter unopened, a treasure beyond price.

Not more than two pounds of any one substance may be sent in any parcel. Do not send clothing. The person who receives it will be forced to give up clothing coupons, and possibly have to pay duty as well. Don't send cigarettes to civilians either, since the duty is high. Tea is not so scarce as generally supposed.

Foods generally mentioned, besides butter, were: canned meats, particularly ham products, fruit in cans, either fresh, peanut butter, vitamin B1 tablets.

If you are sending to a lady, put in a few hairpins, bobby pins or safety pins. They are unbelievably scarce in Britain. And it is said that younger ladies might like a lip-stick.

ARE MANY CANADIAN SOLDIERS MARRYING BRITISH GIRLS?

Perhaps this is a subject that I should not discuss. It seems to be a ticklish one. One of the other editors on the trip wrote about it in a woman's magazine and created quite a stir. I had an item in my own paper on the subject, and today received a red-hot letter from some Toronto woman who says I should be writing for D.N.B. She is quite rude in her remarks, not only about me but also about Canadian girls.

Yet the subject is one of interest and I don't see why it should be kept secret. Canada has sent some two hundred thousand of her young men over the ocean. Every one that marries in Britain will not be free to marry a Canadian girl if he returns. And allowances and pensions to the wives overseas must amount to a considerable item in time.

Many Canadian soldiers are marrying English girls. Some are marrying Scottish girls. The commanding officer of one Ontario Battalion told me that, over one hundred of his boys had married since reaching England. That is a higher percentage than would have married in that time if they had stayed in Canada.

This officer had no objection. The soldiers could not marry without his permission. He insisted on interviewing the prospective brides before he gave it. He said they were invariably fine types of girls, who would be a credit to Canada after the war. If he did not think so, he withheld permission to marry. I do not think the proportion of Air Force men getting married overseas is large.

The reason seems obvious. The Air Force is continually in action. There is nothing monotonous about life in the bomber or fighter squadrons. In the Army, some of the men have been in Southern England for more than two years, training for a fight which has never come. Some of them are billeted in private homes and have become practically "one of the family." Others get acquainted with girls at dances and entertainments put on for the troops.

WEEK AT OTTAWA

(Continued from page 2) and supply said recently: "We started at the opening of the war," he stated, "with practically nothing in the way of war industry." Contrast this with today when a steady stream of tanks, planes and other war essentials are rolling off the assembly lines. The limit of production has not by any means been reached as yet, the minister said. "We are raising our sights and we will continue to do so." One of the most comforting features of our war effort, although the demands of war set no limit on what has yet to be done, has been the vast forward sweep of our war industries which are helping to supply the forces of the United States in practical theatres of war.

The capital plays host to a constant stream of distinguished visitors from the various allied nations. A few days ago, it was General Wladyslaw Sikorski, commander-in-chief of the forces of the gallant country of Poland. He had just come from Washington where he had discussed war strategy with President Roosevelt and allied chiefs of staff in the American capital. Meeting newsmen in front of the station just before he left Ottawa, General Sikorski, spoke of the war outlook with grave but courageous optimism.

He held of the fine work of Polish army in the battle of Britain, and of the high calibre of the Canadian army in Britain and gave former praise to the "great scientist and soldier" General MacNaughton. He cautioned against hectoring governments into a premature attempt at setting up a "second front" in Europe. "I am convinced" he said "that the time will come when a second front will have to be opened, but for such action we must be well prepared in the air, on the land and on the sea."

Col. Ralston now inspecting western defences is determined to carry forward progressive defence plans. He was "impressed" he said recently, "with coastal defences, but was not wholly satisfied." Canada is not to be caught napping if the clouds in the Pacific roll nearer to the Pacific coast.

There has apparently been some misunderstanding about the position of farm workers in the national selective service. Farmers are not to be "frozen" on the land. When a farmer is called for military service, he must explain the call of the register. He may apply for an indefinite postponement on the grounds that his farm work is essential to maintain production. He need not prove the claim, the minister of labor explains, but it may be challenged. Unless the national selective service board is convinced that the man is not an essential worker in agriculture, it shall grant him a postponement until further notice. It was not the purpose of the government, announcing the stabilization of farm labour to encourage workers to leave munition plants, whether with or without experience in agriculture to seek employment in agriculture. When the manpower inventory is completed, the liability to military service of persons who have returned to agriculture since the manpower programme was announced, will be reviewed.

Quebec Budget Gives Surplus for the Past Year

Healthy Condition of Province's Finances Stressed in Address—Surplus Also This Year—Post-War Period Faced With Confidence, Hon. J. A. Mathewson Says

Text of Provincial Treasurer J. Arthur Mathewson's budget speech at Quebec on Wednesday afternoon follows:

Mr. Speaker: The attention of the House is too intensely occupied with pressing and immediate matters to warrant my taking up any considerable time in reviewing the happenings of the last twelve months. It will be sufficient for me to remind the honorable members of the House of two major developments in the international situation, namely, the German attack on Russia and the Japanese attack on the United States of America. The unprovoked sudden attack by the German Reich upon the world ally Russia was made on June 22, 1941. It was apparently a manifestation of the Nazi lust for blood and conquest following the subjugation of Greece.

The Greeks, who had, in spite of their very small numbers, succeeded in defending their country against Mussolini's so-called war-dancers, offered a particularly gallant defence against the tremendous army of Germany but sheer weight of numbers and of mechanical equipment overwhelmed them and the best of Germany looked for other prey.

A treaty had been signed with Russia, but that was not allowed to stand in the way. The attack, the unheralded and unjustified attack by Germany and its associated power, on Russia, horrified the world but failed to achieve its object. The Russian people have fought with such sustained gallantry that they are now in process of reversing positions. Time is on the side of Russia with its fifteen million potential soldiers. May the day soon dawn when her soldiers will be invading in turn the land of their would-be conqueror.

The second event to which I refer, comparable as an evidence of moral turpitude with the first and filled with even more sinister portent for us in Canada, was the deliberate and unprovoked attack on December 7, 1941, by the Empire of Japan upon the territory of our neighbors, the United States of America.

It is fitting that Germany and Japan should be linked together in their organized attempt to impose gangster rule upon the world. Both have shown contemptuous disregard for the pledged word; both have shown contemptuous disregard for all moral principles.

Canada and our allies still believe in the possibility of the rule of righteousness and law throughout civilization. It is necessary for us to strive still harder to organize and make effective all our moral, physical and financial resources. If we would survive we must stand and fight as one man—more, we must seek out our enemy and destroy him before he can destroy us. It is to the honor of Quebec, its people and its government, that they have not failed to realize what are the issues at stake. We have tried to play our part manfully and in a practical way.

Giving expression to Quebec's determination to do its full share, the Government has felt in duty bound to base its administration upon the reality of present war conditions.

I will limit myself for the time being to the Government's effort in one sphere only, namely, that of its financial operations.

Last Year's Figures Cited

The Public Accounts, which were produced before the House some time ago, covered the period which ended a year ago yesterday, that is to say, on March 31st, 1941. They referred to a fiscal period of nine months. It will be remembered that at the time of making the Budget Speech last year, I made an interim report concerning that period. Basing my figures on eight months actual experience and one month estimated, I forecast an over-all deficit of $15,158,800. That was what I then forecast as the probable result of that fiscal year. The final figures, as shown in the Public Accounts, reveal an actual result very far different from that forecast. The exact figure of the over-all deficit was $15,414,098, a much smaller over-all deficit for the year 1940-41 as compared with the deficit of each of the three years of the administration of the National Union Government was in itself something of an achievement.

Further progress has been made and I am proud to be able to report that for the fiscal period commencing April 1st, 1941, and ending March 31st, 1942, the Government of the Province of Quebec balanced its budget on an over-all basis and its operations carrying that budget into effect show a result even better than that forecast. It is the first time that an over-all surplus has been achieved for many years. By "over-all" is meant the payment of all expenditures of Government—ordinary, extraordinary and capital—out of current revenue alone without resort to the practice of borrowing, except for purposes of refunding old debts as they mature.

I submit a statement showing the operations for the year in question (1941-42) from which it will be seen that on a basis of eleven months actual experience and one month estimated revenues and expenditures, the result for the year shows an over-all surplus of $1,577,000.

I must point out at once that this result was obtained after paying into the sinking fund towards the payment of the public debt a sum of over $4,887,000. In other words, in addition to paying off $4,887,000 of the public debt, the year's operations show still a surplus of over $1,577,000.

N. U. Deficits Recalled

To bring out the true significance of these figures, they must be compared with the result of the operations of the immediately preceding years. The fiscal year 1939-40, which was the year of the last budget of the National Government, the over-all result of the year's operations showed a deficit of $52,545,000.

Other large deficits had been accumulated in each of the other years of the administration of the former Government, but I will not take the time of the House by again reviewing them. They were dealt with at considerable length in the Budget speech made on May 21, 1940, and again referred to in the Budget Speech made on March 18, 1941. All of those deficits were of necessity added to the public debt and some day must be paid by the people of the Province of Quebec.

Resuming the trend of my thought, starting with the last year of the National Union administration 1939-40, we find a deficit of $52,545,000.

The following fiscal period 1940-41, which covers only nine months, was one of considerable difficulty. It was necessary for us to bring under control the machine of Government which had been running away down the hill of debt towards the bottomless pit of bankruptcy. To have abruptly and suddenly stopped all expenditure in excess of available revenues would have brought the machine to a standstill so sudden as to break it. The public service would have been disrupted. The Government applied all possible measures of economy and with courage took the steps necessary to adjust the revenues, with the result that the $52,545,000 deficit of the preceding year was contrasted with a deficit of only $15,414,098 for the year under review. Current Surplus $1,577,000

The next financial year (1941-42), which is the one ended yesterday, shows a very different picture. Revenues and expenditures have been brought into equilibrium. There is no deficit. There is a surplus on the year's operations of more than $1,577,000 and, as stated above, this after the sum of $4,887,000 has been paid into the Sinking Fund. To avoid confusion of thought I should point out that this amount goes to the reduction of the direct public debt of the province. These figures do not take into account advances made to the Farm Credit Bureau, which are not budgetary items.

During the year now closed yesterday, the province did not borrow from the public one cent for purposes other than refunding bonds issued in previous years, which matured during the year. Such refunding operations were effected without difficulty and at advantageous rates.

Temporary borrowings from the province's bankers were effected in the usual course by means of the issue of short term Treasury Bills. All outstanding Treasury Bills of the Province of Quebec were paid off in cash, with the exception of an amount of $500,000 left outstanding, which have been curtailed and the total figure to be expended on capital account is reduced to $11,354,400.

The net result on an over-all basis is a prospective surplus of $379,911.

The total budget as compared with last year's estimates shows a total increase of $5,705,758.

This increase is more than made up by increase in revenue.

It may be pointed out in passing that the total revenue and total expenditure shown in the budget now include various departmental revenues which in former years were kept and expended by the various departments concerned without appearing in the general budget. In other words, certain departmental revenues formerly were applied against departmental expenditures and only the surplus or deficit appeared in the main budget.

I produce for the information of the House a table showing the estimated revenue for the coming year by sources and a table showing estimated expenditure by departments.

average appreciation of over 5 points in the market quotations of the more actively traded issues of the province. This has been a gain in excess of that enjoyed by other securities of a comparable nature during the same period is demonstrated by the following prices:

I produce tables showing comparable quotations:
	Mar. Mar.
	% Due 30-41 30-42 Inc.
Canada	3 1935 99 96 625 626
Ontario	3 1951 98 50 98 75 25
Quebec	3 1951 90 97 7 00

The following market quotations for Quebec bonds in September, 1939, and March, 1942, tell their own story:

Date of Maturity	Price Sept. 1939	Price March 1942
1948	92	99 1/2
1949	92 1/2	99
1951	97	97
1952	97 1/2	98
1954	97 1/2	98
1955	98 1/2	100
1959	90 1/2	99 1/2
1963	101 1/2	111

A further comparison of market quotations tells its own story.

In September, 1939, just after the National Union assumed office, Province of Quebec 4 1/2 per cent debentures due January 2nd, 1963, were selling at 115 1/2. After three years of National Union rule these bonds by September, 1939, had dropped 14 points to sell at 101 1/2. Today, after 2 1/2 years of Liberal regime the same issue has recovered to 112.

Other Bonds Steady

The question might be asked whether these violent fluctuations were not common to the whole Government bond market. Such is not the case. While Quebec bonds dropped 14 points, long term Dominion of Canada bonds of a similar coupon rate had declined less than 4 points and the appreciation in value of Quebec bonds has been substantially greater even than that of the bonds of the Federal Government.

It is apparent from what has just been said that the bonds of the Province of Quebec are rapidly regaining the enviable position on the market which they occupied in former years.

Turning now to the financial prospects for the coming year, I have already tabled the Budgetary Estimates showing anticipated expenditures on all accounts—ordinary, extra-ordinary and capital—by $379,911.

It means that the budget for the coming year is again balanced on an over-all basis and shows a small estimated surplus.

It should be further pointed out that the Government has, at the present time, abolished the tolls on bridges in the province. The resulting loss of revenue has been covered by a more than compensating reduction in capital expenditures. The capital expenditures to be made have been reduced to a strict minimum and are, as above stated, limited to such amount as can be provided out of revenue.

It is the Government's conception of its duty to continue its policy of living within its means during the post-war years.

It is intended that public borrowings will be limited to refunding of maturing obligations and funding of advances made to the Farm Credit Bureau.

I would like to repeat a phrase I used in making the Budget Speech last year: "Every department of the Government has realized the grim exigencies of the war and of the present situation and has co-operated fully, loyally and with good heart, in the attempts to re-establish the financial position of the province. This spirit of good co-operation will continue and every department is in honor bound further to reduce expenditures where possible and to give to the province efficient, loyal and economical public service."

It will be noted that no new taxes are imposed.

It has been found possible without exceeding the limits of the budget to provide for substantial increases in various departments, of which the following are outstanding:

Department of Education—increased expenditure $3,338,200.

Department of Labour (Old Age pensions and pensions for Needy Mothers) $914,800.

Cost of living bonus to civil employees $1,200,000.

Increased allowances for Public Debt—interest, sinking funds, amortization of discount, etc. $1,071,000.

The actual contribution to the Sinking Fund, including earnings from the Sinking Fund, will amount to $5,170,020.24.

Over-All Surplus $379,911.

It is estimated that the revenues of the province for the fiscal year 1942-43 (which are based on actual experience of the current year) will exceed the expenditures on all accounts—ordinary, extra-ordinary and capital—by $379,911.

It means that the budget for the coming year is again balanced on an over-all basis and shows a small estimated surplus.

It should be further pointed out that the Government has, at the present time, abolished the tolls on bridges in the province. The resulting loss of revenue has been covered by a more than compensating reduction in capital expenditures. The capital expenditures to be made have been reduced to a strict minimum and are, as above stated, limited to such amount as can be provided out of revenue.

It is the Government's conception of its duty to continue its policy of living within its means during the post-war years.

It is intended that public borrowings will be limited to refunding of maturing obligations and funding of advances made to the Farm Credit Bureau.

I would like to repeat a phrase I used in making the Budget Speech last year: "Every department of the Government has realized the grim exigencies of the war and of the present situation and has co-operated fully, loyally and with good heart, in the attempts to re-establish the financial position of the province. This spirit of good co-operation will continue and every department is in honor bound further to reduce expenditures where possible and to give to the province efficient, loyal and economical public service."

Forests is accomplishing a tremendous task in co-operating with the Federal authorities in connection with the war effort. All available electrical power development, vital in manufacturing war materials, has been turned to account. Vast pooling arrangements have been worked out to insure the most effective use of every available horsepower.

The lumber and paper industries have also been the object of special consideration. Their stimulation has resulted in the obtaining of additional foreign exchange, as well as the production of materials necessary for the survival of our civilization.

Education Gets Aid

I have left for final comment the efforts of the Department of Education to raise the educational standard by improving the course of studies and the facilities for instruction. A commission is at work establishing the facts. The Government is conscious that of all social agencies none is more important for the future of this province than that of education.

In conclusion, I should like to say a few words about the Government's views of preparation for the after-war period. That the change from war economy back to peacetime economy will bring inevitable dislocations in the lives of individuals is self-evident. But looked at fearlessly in the clear light of reason, no undue apprehension need be felt by this country in contemplating the post-war adjustments. While it is realized that the termination of hostilities will not bring peace in the full sense of the word, it will at least permit diversion of activity to other pursuits.

This country is young, vigorous and potentially wealthy. We have natural wealth in agriculture, mines and other natural resources crying out for development. We will have willing hands to do the work. The problem will be to set those willing hands to their tasks. It would be sheer folly to think that the Government as such can or should provide employment for all citizens. Extreme socialistic experiments of that kind have failed wherever tried. Private initiative must be preserved and encouraged. But private initiative must be co-ordinated with the public interest. Individual enterprises should not be so depleted by over taxation that they find themselves without reserves to meet the trying times to come.

The Government on the other hand can assist. If the assistance of the Government is to be effective in the economic sphere, its own credit must be sound. To all these elements of natural resources, willing workers and sound credit must be added the most important ingredient of all—cultivated intelligence and social stability. It is for that reason, among others, that the Government in planning for the future is doing everything within its power to improve the educational standards and facilities available to our people.

In a secondary way, the Government can help its citizens during the difficult times of adjustment by launching appropriate, necessary public works at the right time. The Government is preparing and accumulating plans for just such works to be started, as soon as possible after hostilities cease.

The Province of Quebec looks forward with unshaken faith in the destiny of Canada. We face the war with all its perils with courage and determination. We turn our faces to the light and look forward to the after-war period with hope and confidence.

I move, Mr. Speaker, that you do now leave the Chair and that the House resolve itself into a Committee of Ways and Means.

He paid his premium... but HE BOUGHT A MACHINE GUN too!

THIS IS HOW. Total renewal premiums paid by Canada Life policyholders last year on all policies and annuities amounted to $23,229,466.00.

In Canada, the Canada Life purchased during 1941 over $12,000,000.00 of Canadian government war bonds.

In the British Isles, the Canada Life subscribed $5,200,000.00 to British war loans.

In the United States, the Canada Life purchased more than $7,000,000.00 of new United States government bonds.

In total, the Canada Life purchased during 1941—and still holds—$24,200,000.00 of government bonds, an amount which would pay for almost 75,000 Bren guns.

Thus, the company's investment in government war and defense bonds during the year was greater than its entire renewal premium income.

HOLD HIGH THE TORCH OF FREEDOM

Helping To Keep Prices Reasonable

High taxes help to guard the country against unreasonable rises in the cost of living: They divert money from unnecessary spending for peace-time goods to Government spending for essential war-time material.

Saving money, practised by thousands of thrifty depositors has a similar effect: It helps to keep prices from soaring by decreasing the demand for non-essential, peace-time commodities.

Thus, when you save money in a savings account, you benefit yourself and the country. You will need to save, not only for family and personal emergencies, but to pay taxes and to buy war securities. Saving today is a patriotic service.

HOW DO YOU LIKE YOUR EGGS? Here are some interesting facts connected with the cooking of eggs. Extreme heat toughens the whites of eggs, so that a hard boiled egg will be more tender if allowed to cook slowly in water below boiling point for at least thirty minutes. In order to obtain best results with poached eggs, high quality eggs should be used, cooking them at below boiling point in salted water that has reached boiling point, draining them well, and serving them hot. For ordinary boiled eggs, the water should be heated to boiling point. When the eggs are placed in the water, the saucer should be transferred to a warm spot on the stove where the water will be kept below boiling point. For soft-cooked eggs, allow eight to ten minutes. To remove shells easily from hard-boiled eggs, plunge the eggs into cold water as soon as they are cooked. To avoid cracking egg shells in cooking, place the eggs in cold water and bring to a boil. At that point the eggs will be soft-boiled. The whites of eggs are quickly beaten if the eggs and the utensils used are cold. Keep eggs in a cool place, but it is better not to purchase more than one week's supply at a time.

Disposal of War Trophies is Discussed at Town Meeting

Suggestions Made For Improving Condition of Sidewalk Near Bank of Commerce—Inconvenient to Park Cars on Some Sections of Chateaugay Street

The members of the Huntingdon town council met on Tuesday evening for their regular monthly session. The secretary was authorized to return to Francis Hankin and Co. a cheque for an amount of $5,718.80 in connection with the filter plant.

Joseph Brisebois came before the board asking that a water connection be made at the house he is building on Lake Street; this request was granted provided that the digging work was done at his own expense.

A letter from the Salvage Committee was read concerning the disposal of war trophies in the municipality of Huntingdon. The board rejected a request for assistance in the case of Mrs. Samson, who was admitted for treatment to the Hotel-Dieu of Valleyfield.

A letter of application from Alex. Thompson for a position at the filter plant was read. No action was taken. Alderman Dixon drew the attention of the board to the fact that the parking of cars in front of the Bank of Commerce was inconvenient due to the fact that the sidewalk is considerably higher than the street at this point. Suggestions for improving this condition were made.

Building permits were granted to the following: W. E. Lefebvre, G. E. Elliot, David Sauve and Jos. Brisebois.

The following bills were ordered paid: H. Soucy, $1.05; pay roll, $30.45; Pringle, Stark & Co., $34.12; O'Connor's Inc., $47.24; Robert Transport Reg'd., $79.00; Shawinigan Water & Power Co., $167.29; John Macgregor, $67.50; Omer Saumier, $4.90; D. The meeting adjourned to Monday evening, April 20th.
