Daylight Saving Ends Sunday, September 30

Canada will revert to standard time at 2 a.m. Sunday, September 30, State Secretary Paul Martin told the House of Commons.

Canada has operated on daylight saving time since March of 1942, when all clocks were advanced one hour in a step to conserve electrical power and co-ordinate Canadian railway schedules with those of the United States.

On September 30 all clocks will be moved back one hour to run on standard (sun) time.

Ninth Victory Loan

Hon. J. L. Hilsley, Minister of Finance, announced on Saturday that the minimum objective for the Ninth Victory Loan, which opens on October 22nd, has been set at $1,500,000, 000 of which $800,000,000 is the minimum objective for individuals. This is an increase of $125,000,000 over the individual objective for the Eighth Victory Loan. Because final victory means a material reduction in Canada's war costs, he said, it is possible for the Ninth Victory Loan to meet Canada's borrowing needs for a twelve month period.

Headquarters, and going to France, June 21, 1944, was with the headquarters staff of the Canadian Corps.

On January 8th, 1944, he was married to Miss Ethel Grosden, of London, who will come to Canada, as soon as transportation arrangements can be made.

Salvation Army Home Front Appeal Opens Thursday

This week the Salvation Army will launch its Home Front Appeal to raise the sum of $1,500,000 across Canada.

A house-to-house canvass will be made in Shawville, an officer of the Army group at Renfrew, with the organizer for the Ottawa Valley, were here on Friday arranging for the campaign, and a local committee has been formed with Mr. Edgar Hodgins as chairman.

The Salvation Army is an organization of devoted men and women whose underlying purpose is to win human individuals to a better life.

The Salvation Army is helping to solve constructively the problem of transition from army to civilian life in Canada. Through hostels and reception homes, through personal contacts by experienced and sympathetic workers, the Army seeks to ease the readjustment of the returned man to his family and to civilian living. Where official aid to the veteran ends, the Army takes up the task with its human touch and understanding heart.

Shawville citizens have donated very liberally in former Salvation Army Campaigns for funds. In this reconstruction period the appeal is more urgent than ever, and it is hoped by the local committee that the canvassers will meet with a generous response.

PACIFIC DEFENSE LINES FOR U. S. SECURITY

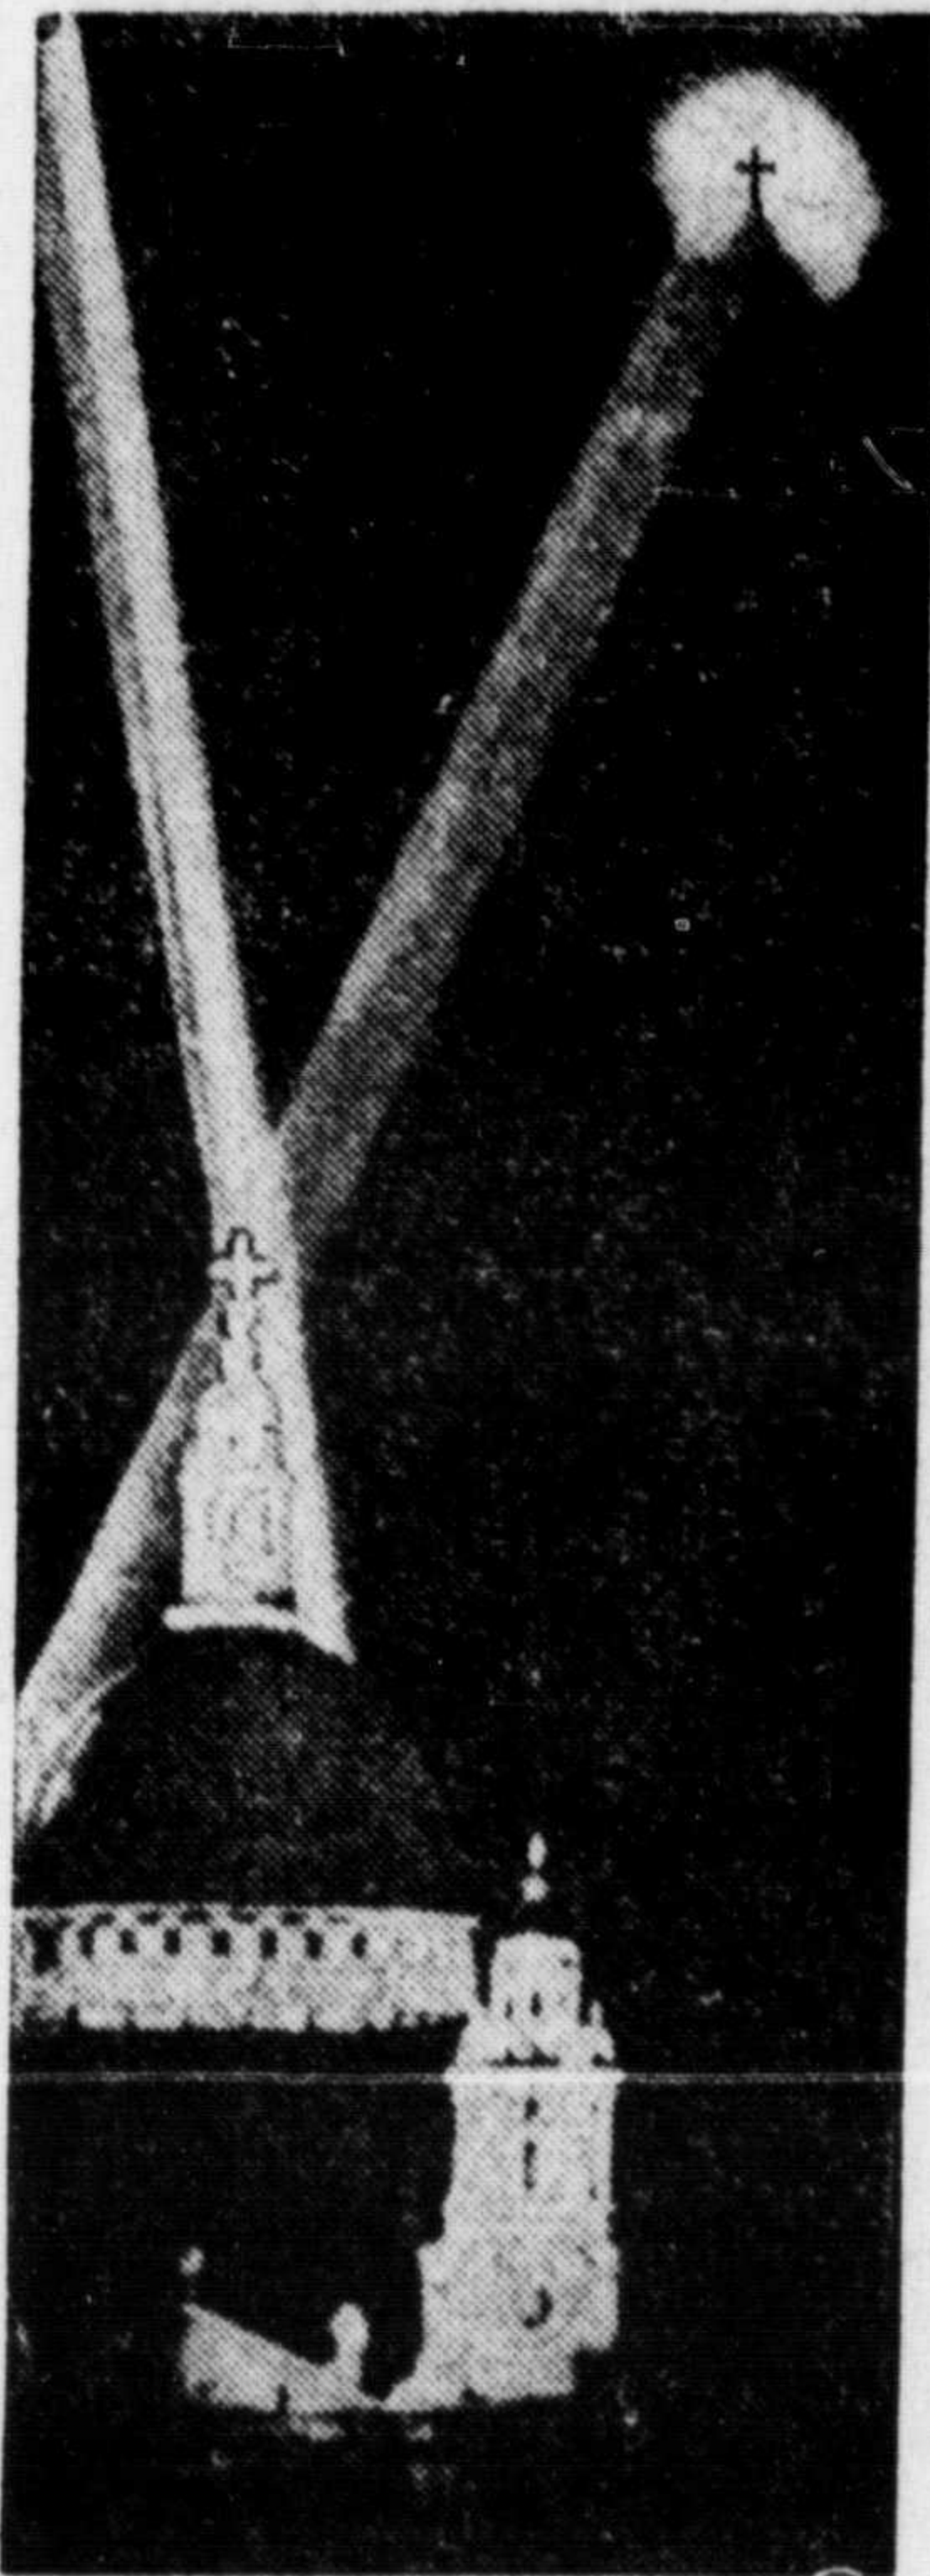

Proposal by Gen. Henry H. Arnold for maintenance of a series of defence lines in the Pacific for U. S. security is receiving growing support in Congress. Latest proposal, by a House naval committee, would provide major fleet bases at Pearl Harbor, Guam, Saipan, Iliilo, Manus and Noumea, with a main naval air base at Mactan Island, secondary bases, fleet anchorages and land and sea plane bases on the other islands as shown. The whole would comprise chains of security far from U. S. shores.

CANADIAN SOLDIERS ENJOY AUSTRALIA

Judging from the smiles on these Canadian soldiers, they are having a good time "down under". Stationed in Australia as observers, they apparently believe in the old saying, "When in Rome do as the Romans do." - as evidenced by the "digger" hats worn by Aussie soldiers. PLANE 'MACHINE GUNS' SHOOT SEEDS INTO GROUND

The airplane will make easy one of the most arduous of farm jobs — that of planting crops, according to Dr. Lytle S. Adams, Los Angeles inventor of the airmail pickup system and designer of the airplane planter shown in diagrams above. Under this plan, seed is first made into pellets with fine clay mixed with fertilizer and insect and rodent repellent. These seed "pills" would be fed by gravity from a bin in the fuselage into a rapidly rotating rimless wheel whose spokes are hollow tubes. Weight of the pellets and speed of the wheel would imbed the seed in the soil at depths satisfactory for germination, says Dr. Adams, who claims that as many as 14,545 acres could be sowed per hour. The device also can be adjusted for row planting. The aero-sower is reported especially useful in sowing fields to sugar beets, fodder turnips, alfalfa and other pasture grasses and other products requiring no cultivation. The essential features of the system are shown on the diagram above, based on data prepared by Air Trails Pictorial Magazine.

CHAPTER XVII

"Butchers, bakers, candlestick-makers," said madame. "Every man, given a chance, can be a Bayard. If these wars prove nothing else they have shown that the heart of the peasant beats with the same stroke as the heart of a king. Well—but you are going to marry Roger Fabre?"

"I promised. When he returns, if he wants me still, I shall marry him."

"You could not do better," said madame smugly. "Nor could he. You have my blessing, both of you. It's too bad there was ever a sour note in this symphony of yours."

"That sour note—?"

"You heard it last night." The old lady's voice was harsh. "In this room. You know what I mean."

"I will not think of him."

"You can't forget him. No more can I."

"But I—I must forget him. You would not have me go on thinking of him after—"

"Can you help yourself?"

"Please, madame, you are merciful."

"I am a woman, and I am old."

"But—"

"And there it is. Being a woman I know what a man, one man, the man can do to your heart when you are young; being old, I will not deny it. The finest women have loved the greatest knaves who ever walked this earth."

"It is wrong to love like that."

"Mon Dieu! Who shall say what it is wrong to love? Not I, be assured of that, my little one."

"But who is to tell me? Oh, I try not to think of him! It was only for a little while I knew him—"

"A moment is long enough," murmured the Sibyl. "A portion of a moment. It is all done by a spark, I think. The fire is lighted from that spark. Sometimes, most often in fact, the fire needs to be nursed and replenished; sometimes—and here I speak of great loves—the fire, untended and unfed except by dreams, burns on all through one's life."

"You mean I shall always—always remember him?"

"You will keep what you have of him," said madame gently. "That is woman's burden. To carry with her things that can only hurt her, burn her, bring her misery. But she cannot be rid of them and she is so made that I doubt she would rid herself of them if she could."

"Are we such poor things then, madame?"

"I'm afraid I am, my child."

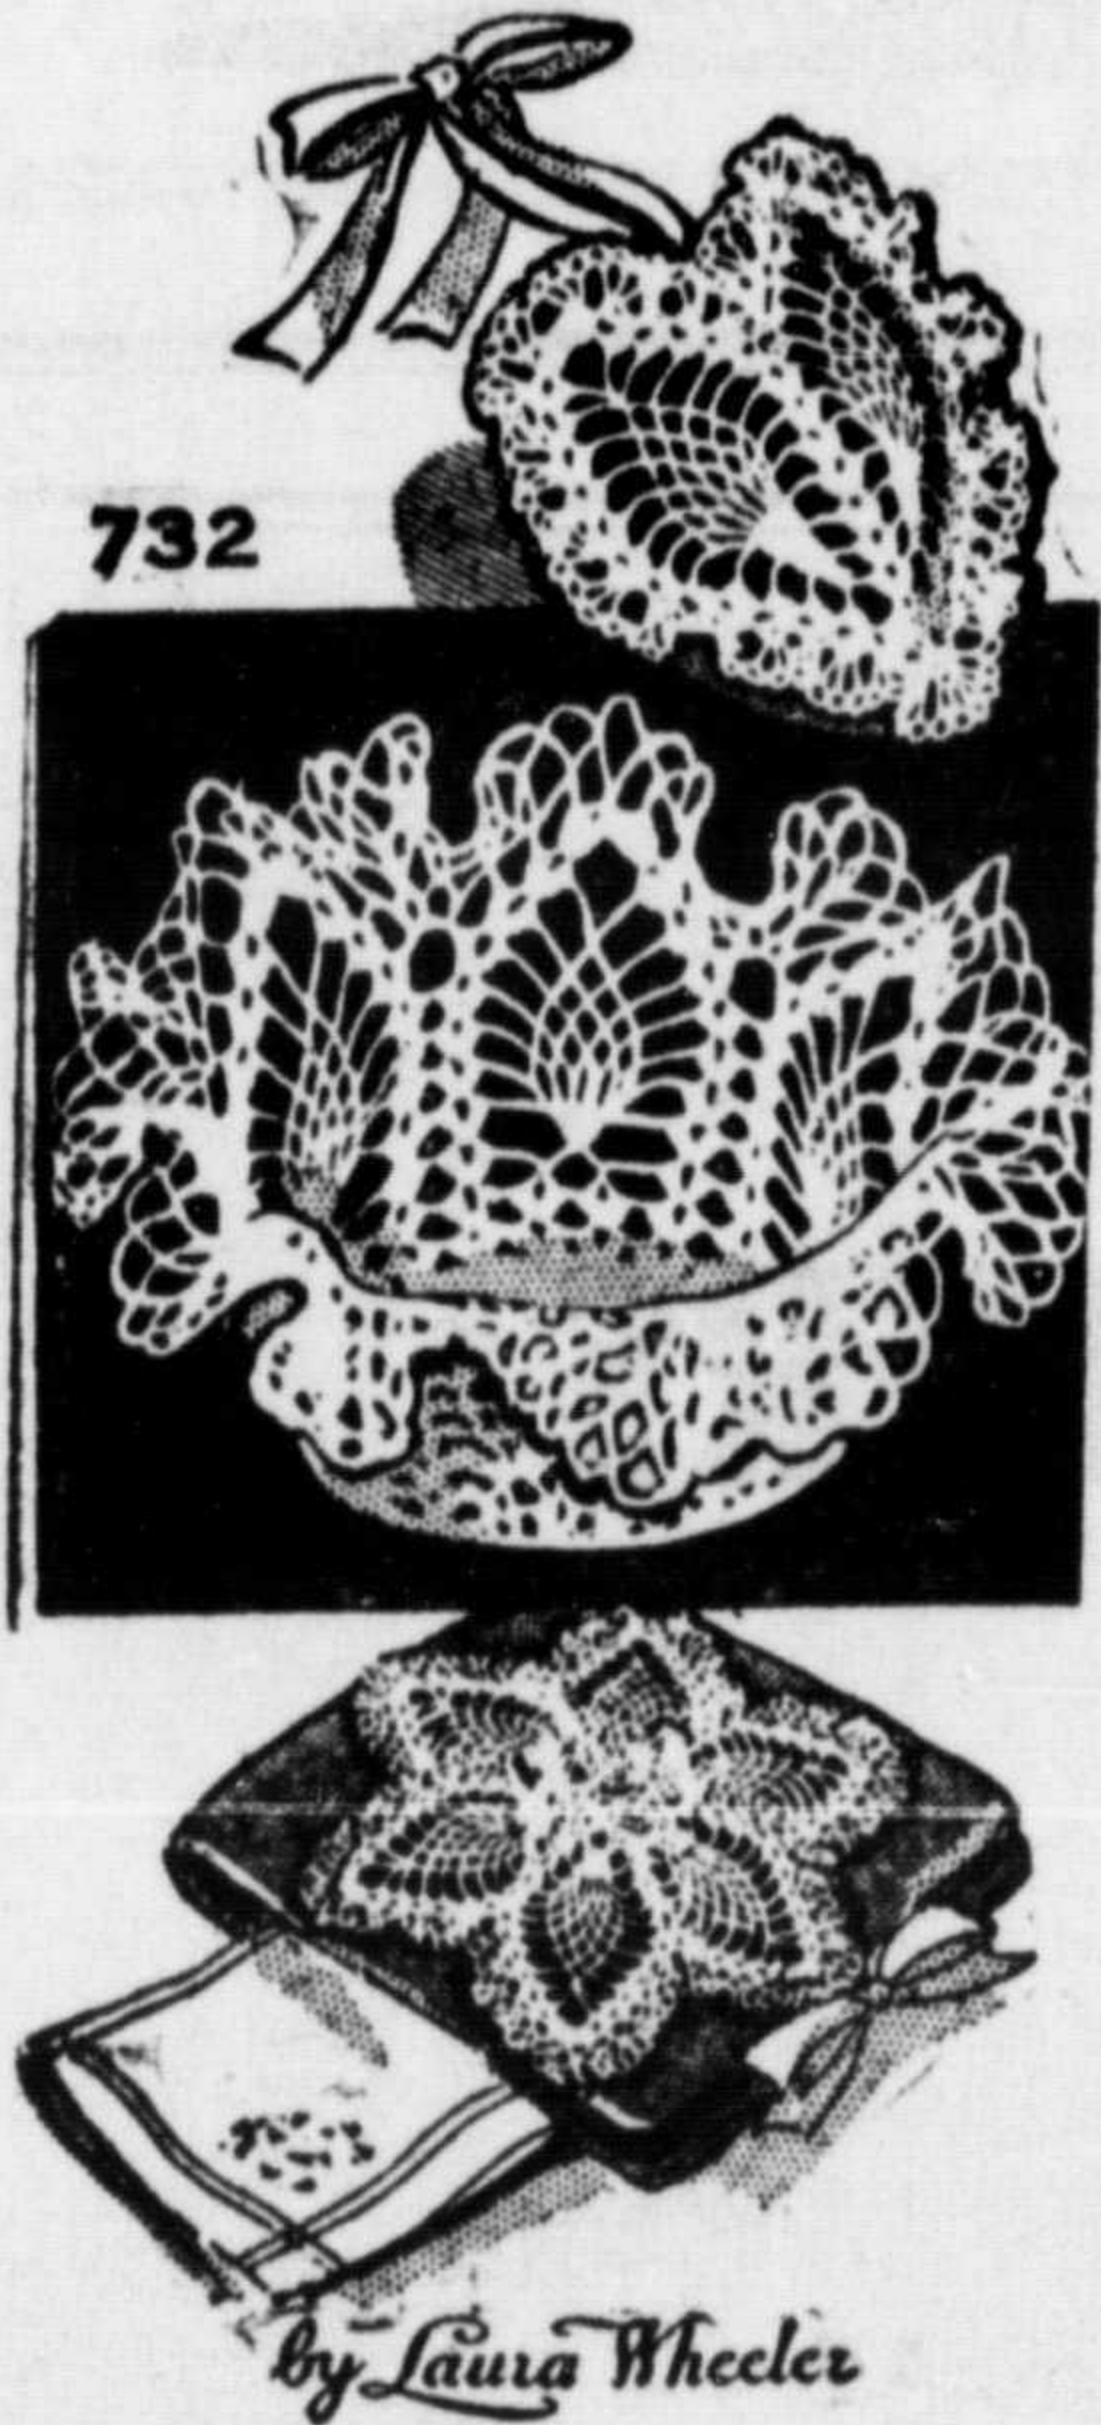

"Then—then I cannot, because I made some lovely image of that one, ever hope to be worthy of the love that Rogers offers me? I can never really be given to him because there is some part of me that he can never win?"

"No one can be given completely to another. It is a pity, but there is the truth of it. If you can make him happy, my dear, it will be enough."

"I will try. With all my heart."

"Then you cannot fail, Meridel!"

The too-short holidays and the great feast of New Year's passed on into the steady merciless cold of the iron months of January and February. Life went on evenly enough at Phillibert. Although Roger had gone, Meridel and the children did not return to the city when vacation ended, and Rudolph spent most of his time at the mansion that he had, from long pretense of ownership, come to look upon rather as the place where he belonged. Meridel stayed because madame needed her now and the children could have good schooling from Miss Carrick and the other teachers whom the government had provided.

CHRONICLES of GINGER FARM

By
Gwendoline P. Clarke

That big event of the season in every farm woman's life has come and gone—at least the first half of it has. I mean the threshing. You know, it's a funny thing, you would think one threshing would be much like another—but it isn't. The troubles you get into last time don't happen this time, but, as sure as anything some new troubles arise that you had never even thought of. That's the way it was with me last Wednesday. With niece Betty to help I thought I need have no worry at all, in fact I was so confident that I offered to serve supper for a bachelor neighbour's threshing which followed our own. Everything was coming along fine that morning. The meat was already cooked from the night before; there were scalloped potatoes bubbling away in the oilstove oven; pies all made and all the other little extras arranged for. However, when I began thinking about supper I was a little afraid there might not be enough cold meat left over to go around, and, it being early closing day I was afraid to take any chances. So Betty and I took ourselves to town for supplementary meat supplies.

It was eleven-thirty when we returned—and the oilstove had burnt itself out! Yes, completely burnt out, even though I had filled the reservoir the night before. Our burners use specially treated wicks and if by some unlucky chance the stove runs dry it is an awfully long time before they can be persuaded to burn properly again. It just seems impossible to hurry them. I was just about frantic. The potatoes were cooked but not browned. The tea kettle wasn't even hot. I tried trimming the wicks—one decided to light up, the other two wouldn't. Had I any new wicks in the house? For the life of me I couldn't remember. A hurried search revealed just one. I yanked one old one out and put the new one in. And then the darn thing wouldn't turn up. At long last I won out. And then Bob came along and said the men wouldn't be in until twelve-thirty. It was like a relieve. I gave a great sigh of thanksgiving and relaxed. Five minutes later Betty came in from the barn and said the men had changed their minds—they were not going to finish the mow and would be in at noon. They came . . . dinner was actually ready . . . they ate and were filled—I hope . . . they retired—and left me as limp as a fresh wet wash.

Supper wasn't too bad except for the fact that, with the threshing machine across the road I had no means of knowing when it stopped . . . and the men arrived for supper ten minutes ahead of time. More rush!

After supper, just about the time we were clearing the table, Betty took a violent headache—probably from the dust when she visited the barn. So I sent her to bed and did the dishes myself. At nine-thirty I shortened the table, collected the towels and tablecloths, and called it a day.

And of course it was not only I who was tired. The men were not only tired but they were red-eyed and coughing as well—and another threshing in view for the next day.

However, as I said before, the threshing is all over again until next time—and we will worry about that when we have to—but I can assure you that when we do thresh again I shall be making sure my oil stove doesn't run dry again.

And speaking of oilstoves—are you one of the many who has trouble in baking with a coaloil oven? Do your pies and cookies burn on the bottom and refuse to get brown on the top? That is what I have been up against for years, even though I have the top of the oven well covered with cat-alogues. A few weeks I tried another stunt. I took a large piece of asbestos, doubled it, and then laid it across the bottom of the oven leaving enough room at either end for the heat to circulate. The result was better even than I had hoped for. Pies no longer burn on the bottom and I can now leave them in long enough to get nicely browned on the top.

"Fill 'er Up!"

A motorist drove into a filling station and exultantly told an attendant to "fill 'er up."

The attendant complied. As the motorist drove away, the full gas tank, unused to the strain, dropped to the pavement.

How Can I?

by Anne Ashley

Q. How can I make a substitute cedar closet?

A. If there is no cedar closet in the house, wipe the shelves and the woodwork of the clothes closet with cedar oil when cleaning. This process should be repeated from time to time.

Q. How can I test the healthful part of mushrooms?

A. By stirring while cooking with a silver spoon. If there is any foreign substance in the mushrooms, the silver will turn.

Q. What can I use as a substitute for vinegar, for salad dressing?

A. Try using the vinegar from preserved pickles, instead of ordinary vinegar, for salad dressing; it gives a delicious flavor. Lemon juice is also an excellent substitute for vinegar.

Q. How can I give a nice gloss to straw matting?

A. Apply a thin coat of colorless varnish and it will add life to the straw matting.

MULTIPLY A WHISPER BY A MILLION—

AND YOU'VE GOT INFLATION

Let's not deceive ourselves by the belief that the danger is over—just because the war is won. And let's remember that inflation is always followed by deflation with its misery of bankrupt businesses, mortgage foreclosures and unemployment.

It's your job and your savings that are at stake.

The danger of inflation, with its black shadow—deflation,—will remain as long as goods are scarce and insufficient to meet demands. That may be 6 months, 12 months, 18 months. Only time will tell. As quickly as controls are unnecessary, they are dropped.

After nearly 6 years of war, industry cannot switch over to normal production of civilian goods by a snap of the fingers. Reconversion takes time. The whole system of raw materials, labor and production has to be re-gearred.

In the meantime, price ceilings, rationing and other controls are the safeguard for every one of us. It's everybody's responsibility to help make them work.

SO— Keep on watching your buying. Don't rush to buy scarce goods. Keep on saving your money. Put it into Victory bonds and War Savings certificates.

Keep on supporting wage and price controls, and rationing. Keep on fighting inflation and its black shadow... deflation.

This advertisement is issued by the Government of Canada to emphasize the importance of preventing a further increase in the cost of living now and deflation and unemployment later.

The Termination Of Lend-Lease

New York Times Discusses Lend-Lease Controversy

In the matter of the termination of Lend-Lease, there are a few misconceptions, on opposite sides of the Atlantic, which ought to be cleared away, lest they trouble the good relations prevailing between two staunch allies.

In the first place, it would be a profound mistake for anyone in England to read a political motive into the action of our Government and to believe that this action was prompted, or hastened, by concern or alarm or disapproval, or by any other judgment, on the results of the British election. Lend-Lease has not been discontinued because Britain voted Labor. It has been discontinued because it was a war measure and because the war (in the sense of organized combat) is over. There has never been the slightest reason for doubt that Lend-Lease would be discontinued when this stage was reached.

Never "Something for Nothing"

Meantime, on our side, there is a tendency in some quarters (eagerly fanned by our old friends, the professional baiters of Britain) to misunderstand and misinterpret the British position. In these quarters it is being said that the British want "something for nothing," and are angry with us now because they will no longer get it.

Well, Lend-Lease was never "something for nothing." It was guns and planes in exchange for brave men who would use them in defense of our own freedom, no less than of their own. But quite aside from this, it is clear on the record that the British Government always recognized the temporary, exclusively wartime character of Lend-Lease.

Britain's Position

Neither Mr. Attlee, nor any other responsible British statesman, has asked for the continuation of Lend-Lease for an indefinite

THE ONLY SYNTHETIC TIRE

Proved on the Speedway

AT 100 MILES PER HOUR!

No need to wonder about synthetic tires standing up—not when you can buy Firestone DeLuxe Champions—the tires that were used on the famous speedway test supervised by officials of the American Automobile Association.

Imagine the punishment those tires took as Wilbur Shaw, the famous r / driver, streaked over the 500-mile course to average 100.34 miles per hour . . . equal to 50,000 miles of ordinary driving. Not a skid or blowout occurred even when he stepped up to 135 miles on the straightaways!

Be sure to have Firestone DeLuxe Champions on your car. See the nearest Firestone Dealer.

OTTAWA REPORTS

That Ex-Servicemen Are Big Investors In Housing Field

Immediate employment is the thought uppermost in the minds of almost 80% of Canada's ex-service men and women, interviewing officers of the Veterans Affairs Department have discovered. Of those interviewed in June almost 23% expect reinstatement in old jobs, 13.5% have new jobs waiting, 33% are hoping for employment, 6% are returning to their own businesses and 3.5% plan to return to their own farms.

To date a total of $1,275,680 has been paid out to veterans in re-establishment credits, $1,596,394 has already been released for the acquisition, repair or modernization of a home, indicating commitments in this field of some $20,000,000 when all is paid out.

An even greater amount, $1,616,456 has been released to veterans for the purchase of furniture and household equipment. As the re-establishment credit may only be authorized for this purpose on the basis of two dollars credit for one dollar cash put up by the veteran, this represents an expenditure of $2,424,684 in this field since last January when the War Service Grants Act came into force.

These two groups account for 75% of the total re-establishment credits authorized in the first six months of 1945.

Much is being said to Canadians these days to point out the necessity of many remaining controls as well as rationing.

Finance Minister Ilsley and the Chairman of the Wartime Prices and Trade Board, Donald Gordon, spoke in a Dominion-wide broadcast recently and told Canadians that victory in the Pacific is just the beginning of the end. Price control is still urgently needed—as much now as ever—as there are thousands of purchasers for the limited amounts of new goods that can be put on the market. Government policy on de-control provides for continuous adjustment as supply conditions change. Of 300 orders restricting civilian production 18 months ago, only 64 remain. All of the 500 restrictions affecting metal products then are no longer in force.

Canada is a land of plenty compared with most other countries and it is a matter of national honor that this plenty be shared, the speakers stated. The end of war with Japan does not ease the needs of hungry areas and Canadian consumption will have to be reduced.

Shortage Continues On the Coal Front

There is no relief in sight as yet on the coal front.

Eventually (that is within three to six months) there may be some easing through release of army personnel to work in the mines. Eventually there may be some easing in supplies of substitute fuels such as coke.

But for the balance of 1945, at least, and possibly later than that, the coal situation looks as tight as it did before V-J Day. And that is tighter than in any previous winter since 1939.

HEARTWARMING . . .

Canada's Timber For British Homes

The British government has already earmarked around £150,000,000 for timber from Canada for delivery following the cessation of hostilities, says the Calgary

Herald. Filling of this huge order may prevent the inauguration of home building operations in this country on the scale needed but British necessity is greater than that of Canadians who have not had one home demolished by enemy action throughout the war.

The manse at Aylmer, Que., was the scene of a pretty wedding on Wednesday afternoon when Ruth Rhoda Sharpe, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas E. Sharpe, became the bride of William Lyons Borden Lucas son of Mrs. Lyons Lucas and the late Mr. Lucas, all of Caldwell, Que., with Rev. Charles Dawes officiating.

For the service the bride was dressed in a street-length gown of turquoise blue crepe, with navy hat and accessories and a corsage of American Beauty roses.

She was attended by Miss Dorinda Lucas, of Shawville, sister of the groom, who wore a gown of dusty rose crepe, with black hat and accessories and a corsage of Sweetheart roses.

The best man was Mr. Dugal Sharpe, of Shawville, cousin of the bride.

After the ceremony the bridal couple drove to Ottawa where supper was served at the home of the groom's sister, Mrs. Andrew Halverson. They later left on a wedding trip to Toronto and other points, and on their return a reception to 300 guests was given in the Theatre Hall on Monday night. They will make near Caldwell.

Cobden Citizens Deprived of Meat From Their Lockers

Cobden, Ont., Sept. 9.—Feeling ran high here on Saturday evening as dozens of locker holders stormed the Merkley refrigeration plant for their Sunday meat supply and were denied admittance under ruling of the Prices Board.

Approximately 200 persons including ministers, doctors, foremen, teachers and merchants are affected in the padlock of 45 lockers in the plant owned and operated by Sam Merkley.

The meat was purchased from nearby farmers and stored in the lockers in good faith.

General feeling in the village is that the ruling is somewhat high-handed for the locker holders had also stored fruits, vegetables and fowl which definitely do not come under the regulations.

Clarendon Women's Institute

Owing to V-J Day coming on the regular meeting day of the Clarendon Women's Institute, the August meeting was postponed until the evening of September 5th, when the meeting was held at the home of Mrs. Wesley Hodgins. Mrs. Pearl Garrety, vice-president, presided owing to the absence of the president.

The meeting opened in the usual manner. The exhibition display was discussed, and it is hoped that all articles will be completed before the September meeting.

The sick committee reported that two sick children had been remembered.

Conveners reports were given on Agriculture, Home Economics, Welfare and Health, War Services, and National and International Relations.

The meeting closed with the singing of God Save The King after which the hostess served refreshments, assisted by Miss Grace Corrigan and Mrs. Harry Hodgins.

REMOVE ALL CONTROLS ON STYLES OF SHOES

Styles in women's footwear, frozen for more than three years, have been freed by the Wartime Prices and Trade Board. All simplification controls on footwear, limiting colour, design and methods of manufacture to reduce costs and conserve materials, have been removed from both men's and women's footwear the Board announced.

Price ceilings have not been affected by the removal of production controls G. G. Hodges, administrator of footwear, emphasized.

SUGAR CANE FIELDS DESTROYED BY JAPANESE

Before Pearl Harbour the world secured a million tons of sugar a year from the Philippines a sugar distribution authority has pointed out. This year though the Philippines are now liberated and the war in the Pacific is over, not more than 25 thousand tons of sugar will be produced in the Philippines. The Japanese destruction of the sugar cane fields was almost complete on the Islands.

This is a drop in the bucket compared to the American and liberated Europe consumption of sugar food authorities point out. The missing million tons is part of the huge deficit between world sugar consumption and production which Canada, the United States and Great Britain are trying to cover by restriction of domestic consumption to an equal per capita ration in the three countries.

BEACHBURG FAIR SEPTEMBER 24, 25, 26.

Your Support IS VITAL TO RATIONING Mr. and Mrs. Farmer

With other groups, you play a part so that everyone gets a fair share.

The FARMER

R.B. 61 ENVELOPE

Under the rationing regulations, you are asked to collect and turn in the coupons you acquire against the use and sale of butter and, when meat rationing is introduced again, of meat; and the coupons you get from the sale of honey and rationed maple products. So that you may buy other meats from your butcher, no more than one-half of the valid coupons in your ration book and in those of your household need be surrendered. To make it easy to send in coupons, you are provided with RB-61 envelopes which should be forwarded once a month to your Local Ration Board. No postage is required.

The HOUSEWIFE

RATION CALENDAR

The housewife, too, has rationing work to do. She must know the validity and expiry dates of butter, sugar, preserves and, later, meat coupons so that she can make supplies of these foods last. She must know the coupon values of all rationed preserves and meats. She has to understand the sugar alternative of the preserves coupon in order to do as much home canning as possible and still have coupons for honey, syrups and other preserves. She must guard family ration books carefully and give up coupons for every purchase she makes of a rationed food.

The RETAILER

The retailer also plays a part. He must obtain coupons or other valid ration documents against every sale he makes of rationed foods—butter, sugar, preserves and, when meat rationing becomes effective again, meat. Otherwise, he cannot replenish his stocks. He must paste all coupons on gummed sheets and endorse each sheet with his name and address. If his monthly food sales total $2,500 or more, he is required to operate a ration coupon bank account. He must also give valid ration documents or a ration cheque to his supplier for every purchase he makes of a rationed food.

RATIONING is your assurance of a fair share. It is a protection against waste . . . shortage . . . inflation.

That is why farmers are asked to continue to collect and turn in coupons to their Local Ration Boards - once a month - in the RB-61 envelope.
