

Wagner's NU leadership chances seen as slight

By CUTHBERT JONES
SHERBROOKE — Most Union Nationale supporters in the Eastern Townships are viewing with a rather jaundiced eye efforts to bring Montreal Court Judge Claude Wagner back into active politics as leader for the Union Nationale party to succeed Jean-Jacques Bertrand who has announced his intention of quitting the post of Opposition leader. Even those who believe that the best basis for a campaign to regain power at Quebec is to stress law and order are rather doubtful of the qualities of the former Liberal Justice Minister as a vote-getter. Their chief objections to Judge Wagner rest with his rather unimpressive character and his inability to work with anyone who does not agree absolutely with his announced principles. But this rigidity does not seem to apply to his quest for high office. As one Union Nationale supporter expressed it: "Claude Wagner seems convinced that he, and he alone, has the ability to fight crime in this province. But he does not seem to know just where and how to fight it. "He was the crusading Crown Prosecutor in Montreal. Then he became the tough judge. Later he became the fighting Justice Minister. But this did not seem important enough for him and he undertook the campaign that resulted in the resignation of Jean Lesage as Liberal Chief. "Then he returned to the bench. Now he wants it back in politics, possibly as 'our' leader. Nix." Generally, Union Nationale supporters in this region appear indifferent to the approaching leadership convention, probably waiting to see who will present themselves as leadership candidates. Certain pressure is being applied to Raynald Frechette, former MNA for Sherbrooke and ex-President of the National Assembly, to seek the party direction but so far Mr. Frechette has given his would-be sponsors little encouragement, indicating that he will make a statement at a later date.

Terrorists await explanation

RIO DE JANEIRO (AP) — Terrorist kidnapers of Swiss Ambassador Giovanni Bucher told the government Sunday they would not submit a list of political prisoners to be exchanged for him until the government "explains its position clearly in an official note."

A letter from the kidnapers, which bore Bucher's signature, also said they had not submitted a list of prisoners to be traded. Police said Saturday they had received several such lists and demanded a final one signed by the ambassador to prove its authenticity.

Information leaked to Brazilian reporters Sunday indicated the government was ready to trade about 70 political prisoners for Bucher.

But the terrorist letter, from the Revolutionary Popular Vanguard, said the government had not made contact with the Chilean, Mexican or Algerian embassies, which proved it was not serious about the swap.

Those three countries were mentioned by the terrorists as havens to which the freed prisoners were to be flown.

Security authorities said Saturday they would initiate new measures in order to rescue the ambassador. These took the forms of increased road patrols and spot checks for identification.

Heath taking tough line on labor squabbles

LONDON (CP) — The British government's new Industrial Relations Bill and its proclaiming Saturday of emergency powers in an electricity workers' slowdown underline the Heath administration's resolve to deal with labor-management fights that affect the public interest.

The huge, 139-page Industrial Relations Bill, introduced to Parliament Dec. 3, also has the intention of bringing order into Britain's notoriously loose rules for dealings between management and unions.

Both are due to come before the Commons today. The proclamation has been tabled by statute, while a two-day debate on the bill also has been scheduled for today and Tuesday.

Expectations were that the Labor opposition would not object strongly to the emergency powers measure but that it would open a long and tough fight against the Industrial Relations bill.

The Opposition has been attacking the measure on the ground that the best way of overcoming industrial strife is to rely on the co-operation of union leaders. Harold Wilson's administration did bring in a measure of its own last year to curb proliferating wildcat strikes but withdrew it under pressure of its own left wing and got an anti-wildcat agreement from unions instead.

So far as the emergency powers are concerned, the proclamation signed by the Queen under legislation of 1920 and 1964 gives the cabinet wide authority to combat the effects of a work-to-rule slowdown by 125,000 employees of the staterun electricity system.

A week-long series of voltage reductions and revolving blackouts has resulted, though these ceased off during the weekend. The emergency powers would allow the government to go so far as to send troops into the power stations, but all indications so far are that it intends to wield them softly. The first order was merely to ban the use of illuminated advertising signs and window displays and Christmas illuminations in stores.

Government spokesmen considered it might be necessary later—especially if a cold spell hit—to shut off electricity from some industrial plants. Britons apparently were complying well with official requests to conserve the use of power in the homes.

Meanwhile, some Conservatives were citing the slowness of Vic Feather, chief of the Trades Union Congress, to get unions together on the electricity wage issue as a justification for its big Industrial Relations Bill with many revolutionary provisions.

This measure, while setting out penalties upon both unions and employees in certain cases, also gets a long way to straighten out collective bargaining practices.

Some of its provisions parallel Canadian procedures.

One provides for the certification of a union in a plant by a majority vote of employees—something that could tend to cut down the chronic jurisdictional strikes that bedevil British industry. At present, it's every union for itself.

Health Unit plans clinic

LENNOXVILLE — The Health Unit will conduct a clinic at the United Church in Lennoxville between 2 and 3 p.m. Dec. 16. The children's clinic will dispense immunization against diphtheria, whooping-cough, tetanus, poliomyelitis, measles and smallpox.

Pedestrian killed by car

NOTRE-DAME-DE-LA-GUADELOUPE (DM) — A pedestrian was killed last night when struck by a car outside the post office on Route 28. The Quebec Police Force said Mrs. Rolande Gilbert, 39, of Guadeloupe died shortly after being hit by a car driven by Yvon Vachon, 30, also of Guadeloupe.

Accidents total 47

SHERBROOKE (DM) — Nine inches of snow pelted Sherbrooke over the weekend and strong winds buffeted snow, vehicles and unwary pedestrians everywhere and anywhere.

It was a weekend on which everyone were best advised to stay close to the warm fires of home.

Unfortunately, some hardy but foolish souls strayed from their environs over the weekend and provided Sherbrooke police with almost enough accident reports to develop terminal writer's cramp.

Police report that the combination of the heavy snowfall and gusting winds resulted in 31 accidents with total damages over $100 and 16 accidents with damages under $100.

Luckily, the only injuries reported were to the egos of those individuals who felt they were above the elements.

Thieves undaunted by lock

SHERBROOKE (PK) — Approximately one ton of metal worth between $2- and 4,000 was stolen from the premises of P. A. Dauncey Ltd. Thursday night.

According to Dauncey, it appeared the thieves had keys to the pad locks on the doors, since the locks were gone but the hasps were left intact. There was no alarm system.

The stolen material, mostly bronze bushing and casting, has a considerable value even as scrap, Dauncey explained.

This is the second robbery to hit the Dauncey foundry this year. Approximately $3,000 worth of metal was stolen last April.

Dauncey said the robbery comes at a particularly bad time for the firm, as it is planning to move to a new location. The metal was not insured.

Player's father killed after forcing station off the air

PRINCE GEORGE, B.C. (CP) — The father of a National Hockey League player was shot and killed Saturday night after he forced a television station off the air because it wasn't carrying the game in which his son was playing for Toronto Maple Leafs.

Roy Edward Spencer, 59, of Fort St. James, B.C., was killed by a Mountie as he left station CKPG. Police said he shot an RCMP constable in the foot before he was shot himself.

Spencer, father of Brian Spencer of the Leafs, had driven for two hours from Fort St. James to complain that the station was carrying an NHL game between Vancouver and Oakland rather than the one between Toronto and Chicago Black Hawks.

Official accounts said the bizarre course of events resulted from Spencer's complaint that he was being denied a chance to see his 21-year-old son play in a National Hockey League contest being shown by the CBC's television affiliates in Eastern Canada.

Some kidnap coverage aspects 'reprehensible'

TORONTO (CP) — Senator Keith Davey Sunday night mentioned "reprehensible" mistakes made by news media in their coverage of the Cross kidnaping, but rejected any form of news censorship.

The senator also said that by and large, what he saw of the Quebec news coverage was "quite responsible."

"No one has all the facts of what happened in the province of Quebec, not even now," he said.

The senator, whose committee released its report on the mass media last week, was interviewed on the CBC network television program Weekend. He was shown excerpts of British diplomat James Cross' news conference in London in which Mr. Cross blasted Canadian journalists.

Mr. Cross, a prisoner for two months of Front de Liberation du Quebec terrorists in Montreal, took journalists to task for incorrectly announcing his own death the night Quebec Labor Minister Pierre Laporte was found dead.

He also had angry words for reporters who tried to read his thoughts in interpretative stories on the letters the FLQ allowed him to send to his wife and others.

Senator Davey said both incidents were "reprehensible mistakes" that could have led to tragedy. However, if the media believed what it was saying was factual, it had a duty to report it.

The senator said Canadians must remember that it wasn't the news media that created the crisis in Quebec—newspapers, radio and television merely reported it.

The committee decided not to amend its report to include something on the media coverage of Quebec for reasons of national interest, he said.

Senator Davey said the only alternative to giving the press free rein in similar situations is censorship, and "I totally reject any form of censorship."

"I've no doubt at all there is some substance in what Mr. Cross said, but the press did not create the crisis in Quebec."

Two children die in Roxton Falls fire

GRANBY (DM) — A 48-year-old farmer returned home early Friday morning to find two of his 15 children had been killed in a fire which leveled his home.

Four other children suffered burns, two seriously.

Police said the fire struck about 11:30 p.m. Thursday evening in a farming community between Roxton Falls and Ste. Christine.

The victims were identified as Claire Menard, 11, and Gylaine Menard, nine.

Injured were Marcel, 15, Clemence, 12, Lorraine, 10, and six-year-old Andre.

Police said the father, Paul Menard, was attending adult classes in the neighbouring community of Acton Vale.

Mrs. Menard and nine of her children were in the 100-year-old, two-storey farmhouse when the fire, of unknown origin, started.

The children were asleep. Police said two of the children suffered third degree burns and had to be transferred to Montreal's Ste. Justine Hospital from St. Croix Hospital in Drummondville.

600 sandwiches consumed

Michener hosts kiddie invasion

OTTAWA (CP) — "You sure throw a swell party." "Please, sir, may I have some more ice cream?"

What does it take to make a swell party for three busloads of kids, besides 16 gallons of ice cream?

Four hundred cookies, 600 sandwiches and untold gallons of soft drinks, plus puppets and movies, paper hats and Christmas crackers.

Governor-General Roland Michener threw such a party Saturday for 175 boys and 50 girls at Government House.

It has been a tradition for the Queen's representative to invite members of the Ottawa Boys Club to his stately residence for a Christmas party. The girls get to go, too.

This was the first in three years that Mr. Michener has been able to attend personally. Official engagements and other events kept him away the last two years.

From 3 to 5 p.m., the boys and girls feasted on goodies in the Tent Room—a canvas-lined gymnasium—and the trooped across the hall to the State Ballroom for the show. Dennis Harper, 7, boasted he downed 20 sandwiches and still had room for more. Glenn Easton, a year older, found enjoyment for a while a different way. He had 10 glasses of orange pop, and then only two sandwiches before he had to leave the room for a while.

Before the children boarded their buses again, each carrying a gift of fruit and nuts, they gave Mr. Michener a pair of handcrafted moccasins, a floor-hockey stick, and a pair of flashy red running shoes.

CJM speeds up transfers from tremor-struck area

ASBESTOS — Acceleration of the relocation program begun last week by Canadian Johns-Manville at its Asbestos, Quebec, mine site has just been announced.

J. R. M. Hutcheson, general manager of the division, said in news release that this measure is taken in order to avoid possible danger to those people now living on both sides of an apparent soil movement on the East crest of the Jeffrey Mine.

Some 68 families totalling 292 persons are to be involved in this new plan. Since last Friday, 61 persons have been relocated.

The move had been planned to occur according to a long-term time-table", Hutcheson said. "But under circumstances beyond our control force us to move a lot quicker."

We realize that a number of families are going to be somewhat inconvenienced in the decision could not be delayed," Hutcheson commented.

The soil movement to which Hutcheson referred was noticed some months ago and was constantly monitored since then. However, in the past few weeks numerous water pipe breakages occurred in this sector and many families reported cracks in the walls of their homes.

Close examination of the conditions in this area was made by C.J.M. Engineers and experts along with representatives of a highly reputable firm of geotechnical consultants. Their unanimous conclusion was that all deliberate speed be used in clearing this area.

"C.J.M. realizes that housing is far from abundant in town", Hutcheson said. "But with the co-operation of the city council, the ad hoc committee just formed and the citizens themselves, I'm sure nobody will be put to serious hardship."

Exports potatoes no more

FLORENCEVILLE, N.B. (CP) — The operators of the McCain Food Ltd. processing plant here say rising freight costs have virtually knocked New Brunswick out of the export potato trade.

Brothers Robert and Andrew McCain, interviewed during the weekend, said freight rate increases planned Jan. 1, coupled with additional charges for heater service to rail cars and higher charges for waiting time at the port of Saint John, N.B., have painted a dismal picture for the province's potato exporters.

"The rate of freight tariff and the additional charges ... will be almost 100 per cent above that of 1969," said Robert McCain.

JACOBY ON BRIDGE

Oswald: "When my father taught me auction bridge he gave me a great many general rules. Some were second hand low, third hand high, 'never finesse against your partner', 'cover an honor with an honor' and 'return your partner's lead.'"

Jim: "All these are mighty good rules provided you follow the rule you gave me which is there are no such words as 'never' or 'always' in contract."

Oswald: "Today's hand is a good example of when to violate one of my father's rules. East wins the first trick with the ace of hearts."

If he uses the code word, 'ARCH', he analyzes the lead as fourth best of four. He Reviews the bidding and Counts South for 17, probably 18 points since South can't have a 10. He can see that his partner cannot hold a king or queen, but can hold a king and jack."

Jim: "After that bit of reasoning, East gets around to 'How can we beat this contract?' He surely will beat the hand if his partner holds king and one or two small diamonds and may do it if his partner holds just queen and one or two small."

Oswald: "South sees that a heart return is hopeless and that a diamond return is quite likely to be a winner. He leads his fourth best diamond. West takes his king and returns the suit. It is up to East to rise with the ace and clear the suit."

Jim: "Should East duck, declarer could cash his two top hearts and the three spades and then throw East in with the ace of diamonds to make him lead from his queen of clubs. Once East cashes the ace, the end play cannot be used and South must go down."

"Shop at Home" campaign proving successful

BOUNDARY (IH) — The Boundary Chamber of Commerce met at the Legion Memorial Home in Stanstead Dec. 8.

President Denis Bouchard was in the chair. It was reported of the "Shop at Home" campaign is going very well. Two drawings for six prizes have taken place, the third will be held on Dec. 13 and the campaign will end at four p.m. Dec. 19. Grand prizes will be drawn for at noon on Dec. 20 in front of the Southern Canada Power Co.

Prize winners on Dec. 6 won $5 gift certificates, four each to Mrs. Mansell Gibson Stanstead, and Mrs. Gordon Austin, Derby Line. Mrs. Irene Laroche of Beebe won the third prize of $10.00 and dinner for two at the Wonder Bar in Stanstead.

All these valuable prizes are contributed by merchants and businesses serving these communities.

There are 32 merchants who have entered into this campaign, it was announced by Maxime Doyon, secretary and chairman of the project. The Chamber is grateful to everyone who supported this in any way.

It was announced that the contract to build the Provincial highways bridge to replace the Bissonnet bridge which collapsed last May has been given to Jean Courchesne, Limited, of Danville. Although work was expected to start Dec. 15 it was noted the contractor has not yet received his plans from Quebec, so it expected work will not begin until after the New

Year. The Chamber will apply to the Department of Highways for signs to indicate the area towns and points southward, such as Newport and Derby, and to include direction signs to Lake Memphremagog via Beebe and Grantville.

A further letter is to be sent to the Quebec Liquor Board asking for action concerning a Liquor store in Rock Island. A previous letter from them noted intention of action in November but this month has passed with no communication.

The Chamber will be represented by delegates at a meeting in Sherbrooke Dec. 11 concerning development and planning at which the Minister of Industry and Economics will be attending.

The Chamber is concerned that the Esso Gas service station in Rock Island is vacant. A letter is to be written to the Imperial Oil presenting a proposition to them as cars are parking in the site and snow is not removed.

The question arose about open nights for merchants. A questionnaire is to be prepared and distributed to the merchants and banks in Rock Island.

Stanstead and Beebe a cut opening Thursday and/or Friday nights and close earlier on Saturdays. Several of the merchants will be open evenings from Dec. 17 through 23 for Christmas shopping.

Stanstead County Council More county police sought

STANSTEAD — The quarterly meeting of Stanstead County Council was held in the council room of the County Registry Building in Stanstead on Dec. 9. There were 17 of the 20 Municipal Mayors attending.

At the October meeting a resolution was passed requesting more provincial police officers, as there are just not enough to serve the area properly. Officer Bergeron, district supervisor, and Officer Roy of the Coaticook detachment were at this meeting and fully agreed that the police service needed picking up. They explained that at the present at the Coaticook office, there are 13 officers working three eight-hour shifts. But there are vacations and if one officer on a shift is ill, one must carry on alone. They referred to the search recently following the Cross and Laporte kidnappings and county robberies.

Officer Bergeron said it is recognized as an international problem. Council are asking for ten additional deputies in the county. Alfred Keeler of Ayer's Cliff, vice president of the Senior Citizens Home for English people, organized in 1968, asked for the council's support. He said the organization has already purchased the land site, which is government-approved, and the support of many individual Councils is needed to present a stronger picture to Quebec in 1971.

The request was approved. A representative of the Lake Massawippi Chamber of Commerce was present and spoke to council concerning pollution and suggested litter boxes be placed around the lake area municipalities, and be picked up by garbage collectors.

However council said, although the suggestion is an excellent one, it should be handled by individual councils. The mayors will take this back to their boards.

The speaker further commented that there is a public beach site for sale on Lake Massawippi and suggested the lake councils should acquire this, as there are few public beaches on any lake.

The mayors agreed to an assessment of $300 for 1971, an increase of $100. Most of this goes for the maintenance of the County Health Unit in Magog.

It was voted to adopt the same valuation as last year, using the factor of 1969-70 and the regional list.

Morrison to rejoin business aid program

MONTREAL — James Eric Morrison of Ayer's Cliff who, until his retirement in 1967, was manager of a manufacturing plant for Canadian Johns Manville at Asbestos, has accepted a second volunteer assignment from Canadian Executive Service Overseas, (CESO).

Accompanied by his wife Mr. Morrison has joined a diagnostic team as a production consultant for the Nova Scotia government.

On a previous volunteer assignment Mr. Morrison served as a consultant to a manufacturer of brake linings and clutch facings in Istanbul, Turkey.

The objective of the Nova Scotia program is to assist the province's manufacturing firms to define and solve existing problems and effectively exploit present and future opportunities for expansion.

The approach is based on the view that the main determinant in expanding productivity in Nova Scotia is management and the application of modern production, administration and marketing techniques.

The diagnostic service consists of mobile field group who visit all manufacturing firms to analyze the strengths and weaknesses of the province's home-grown industries and suggest improvements.

CESO, a non-profit organization, was formed by a group of Canadian business leaders in 1967, with the assistance of the Canadian International Development Agency.

Its purpose is to recruit senior Canadian executives and technical experts to serve as volunteer specialists in developing countries around the world.

Since its inception, more than 200 volunteer projects have been completed successfully and the roster of volunteers contains upwards of 800 names representing about 150 skills.

Morrison, a native of Amherst, N. S., received his Engineering Diploma from Dalhousie University in 1923 and his B. Sc. and M. Sc. in Metallurgy from McGill University.

He joined Canadian Johns Manville at Asbestos in 1928 and remained with that firm until his retirement in 1967. He has always been active in community affairs and is a Trustee and Member of the Executive Committee of Stanstead College.

CESO conducts a continuing recruiting campaign from its headquarters at Suite 420, 1010 St. Catherine Street, West in Montreal.

Ascot township to get new co-op

SHERBROOKE (PK) — Joseph Gervais, president of the Regional Cooperative Association of the Eastern Townships and vice-president of the administrative council of the Co-Op Housing Federation of Quebec said in a news release that the Quebec Housing Society has agreed to a loan for the construction of 48 cooperative housing units in the township of Ascot.

Work started last Nov. 25 and the buildings could be ready for occupation after the May 1, 1971.

The project was undertaken by the Co-Op Housing Federation of Quebec, with the collaboration of the Quebec Housing Society, he said.

Once built, the housing project will be the property of the Thibault Housing Cooperative and will be administered by an administrative council elected from among resident members. These members will pay their cooperative rent equivalent to the actual cost of occupying their apartment.

This formula of providing housing at cost price has already been applied at numerous housing projects which the Quebec Co-Op Housing Federation has undertaken in a few areas throughout the province.

It is anticipated that the residents of the Ascot cooperative will pay approximately $90 a month and up for a one bedroom apartment, and $120 and up for a three-room apartment, which would include all administration costs.

Figures released at the end of November showed 1200 people had applied for placement, he said. More than half of these were male and most sought positions in the primary industries.

This year, Manpower will spend $650,000 to offer courses designed to improve chances for employment.

The 24 courses being offered at Massey-Vanier Regional and St. Leon Elementary schools include both high school courses and specialized trade courses such as auto mechanics and typing.

Melanson said as many as 500 people are expected to take the courses. Manpower will pay the students a basic salary of $43 per week, or up to $75 per week for married men.

He feels the unemployment picture is bound to improve. "I'm very optimistic. The trend appears to be upward and the future looks good."

Clergy present Christmas message

COWANSVILLE (TS) — Five members of the Cowansville clergy have a very special message for the public during this festive season.

Father Henri Fournier, a priest at St. Therese Parish; Father Robert Labrecque, Priest of St. Rose de Lima Parish; Rev. David McCord, Pastor of Emmanuel United Church; and Father Francois Tanguay, priest of St. Leon Parish ask:

Do you think Christmas is for children? We DON'T.

We believe Christmas is for everybody — men and women as well as children. Christmas is the celebration of the coming of a Way of Life.

It's a Way of Life that begins with a sense of wonder at the gift of God in the birth of Jesus, and goes on through the year inspiring a sense of Wonder before all God's gifts in creation and in a determination to cope with its pollution and injustice.

It's a way of Concern for people as people: for rich as well as poor (and not just baskets at Christmas) for our neighbours here in Cowansville as well as in East Pakistan.

It's a way of joy in human relations: whether we are English or French, Anglican or Roman Catholic or United or... This is what Christmas means to us. What does it mean to you?

PROJECT CAROLINE READY FOR OCCUPANTS

Cowansville project to house 43 families

COWANSVILLE (TS) — The Cowansville Municipal Housing Bureau has announced the completion of Place Caroline, a low-cost housing program composed of four two-storey structures.

Work on the $450,000 project began early last spring, and when the doors are opened for occupancy at the end of this month, 43 families will benefit from this undertaking.

Included in the 43 units which make up the complex are 17 with one-bedroom, 18 with two bedrooms, 7 having three bedrooms and a single apartment with four bedrooms.

Such services as heating, hot water, and janitor facilities are all included in the monthly rent.

The amount of rent paid will depend upon family income. For instance, a household whose earnings are within a bracket of $150 per month, will pay in the vicinity of $40-50 in rent. Those with a higher income will pay more rent.

Each application received by the Municipal Housing Bureau will be examined closely, with special regards to the family situation, income and basic needs. The results of these findings will determine which household receives a one year lease. All applications should be sent in writing immediately to the Municipal Housing Bureau, at the Cowansville Town Hall.

Cowansville retraining to cut unemployment

COWANSVILLE (TS) — Canada Manpower branch is taking steps to relieve the stable, but high, unemployment rate in the area.

Red Cross Workers honor Mrs. H. Worthen on approaching birthday

BOUNDARY — The workers of the Canadian Red Cross, Local branch held their last sewing meeting on Dec. 7th at the home of the chairman, Mrs. Homer Worthen where they gather every Monday afternoon. It was the final meeting until after the holidays.

Mrs. Worthen was observing her 82nd birthday on Dec. 13th and about 3:30 p.m. when the group had wound up their sewing for the day. Mrs. Harold Bean went into the kitchen and announced the tea kettle should be put on to boil for tea because there was to be a birthday party for the chairman of the group.

The announcement came as a complete surprise to Mrs. Worthen who was delighted. As the women arrived, John Stuart had cooperated and "taken care" of the lunch. It was arranged on plates and on the dining table. Mrs. Dolly Nuthbrown made and decorated a cake which was aglow with candles and presented to the celebrant as all sang the Birthday song.

Next came a gift from the group to Mrs. Worthen, a lovely potted Christmas plant. Mrs. Worthen thanked everyone for their thoughtfulness and wished them happy holidays.

There were 14 present, including Mrs. Ruth House who is 92, and Mrs. Mina Bacon, 90, both doing Red Cross work that afternoon. Mrs. E. Shepherd joined the group for the party.

The final shipment of finished work sent to headquarters in Montreal totaled 176 pieces. These included 100 panty dresses, 25 Vietnam suits, 2 pair baby knitted booties, 13 pair men's knitted socks, 28 wool knitted sweaters, six crib quilts, two wool afghans, size 52 x 72 inches. Mrs. Z. Paquette and Mrs. E. Davignon, Rock Island, each knit five sweaters a week, all beautifully finished.

Skyjacker; momma's boy

What the airlines really need to stop skyjacking are not electronic detection devices at airports or guards riding shot-gun on planes but tough stewaresses.

Skyjackers are just "momma's boys" who are afraid of women, says Dr. David Hubbard, a consulting psychiatrist for U.S. federal prisons.

Hubbard makes his statement on the basis of his examination of 20 imprisoned airline hijackers. He found several commonly shared personality traits among them.

All of them, for instance, are neurotically involved in space flights. All of them have dreamed about floating in space like astronauts. It is significant that skyjacking has always gone up in the wake of space spectaculars, notes Hubbard.

Only one of the 20 had a job at the time of his crime. The others were longtime unemployed, recently fired, AWOL or hiding from the law. All said they became skyjackers after an acute personal failure or a period of deep depression.

Most of them really wanted to be commercial pilots. Twelve had taken flying or parachute training. Taking momentary command of an airliner gave them a feeling of "bigness."

As children, they were generally slow in learning to walk, were poor in athletics and did not get along with other children. They were usually raised by violent, alcoholic fathers and fantastically religious mothers, with both parents fighting for the child's allegiance.

"Symbolically," says Hubbard "they direct pilots to fly them to a hostile country, as they turn their backs on their fatherland. It's running behind momma's skirts, an adult return to a childhood event."

When they pointed a gun at a stewardess, it may have been the first sexually aggressive act of their lives. None of them ever physically molested a stewardess because, he claims, they still stand in awe of "mom."

In fact, three of the men actually put down their guns when stewardesses ordered them to do so.

Because politics are not involved, such skyjackers should not be granted asylum, Hubbard recommends. Nor are death penalties or long prison sentences advisable.

"Such a possibility tends to excite these men," he said. "If a government ever executes one of them, the rate of skyjacking will double. Skyjackers want to be punished. They all eventually return home to surrender."

Flame against darkness

The small Arab city of Bethlehem, with a population of about 23,000 is, at this moment, in occupied territory, just as it was — under Roman rule — when Christ was born.

An Israeli military administration is in control and all the bitterness and tension which keep Arab and Jew hostile, seethe through it, just as they do through Jerusalem only five miles away.

Yet in spite of this continuing feud between two peoples and equally dangerous Arab infighting, tourists and Christian pilgrims will gather, as always on Christmas Eve, in the Shepherds' fields below the city. They will swarm into the ancient Church of the Nativity, in whose grotto tradition says the manger stood, and pack the paved square on which the fortress-like edifice stands.

The square has a symbolic context, for across from the church, a mosque thrusts its minaret imperiously into the December sky. A strange setting indeed, in which to celebrate the coming of the Prince of Peace.

Yet not so strange. Genuine peace is no sentimental state of quiescence; it must be won. The birth of a Babe in a frame of cotton fluff and tinsel could hold no balm for our torments.

The real Bethlehem is a far more fitting backdrop for what Christians call the Incarnation — God with us. There is validity and power in the emergence of a mighty hope rising from here like a flame, to beckon men from where they are to where they might be. Thank God for Christmas.

Fearful Nikita Danced to Stalin's Tune

Khrushchev's Memoirs: Act of Revenge

By LEON DENNEN, NEA Foreign News Analyst

(EDITOR'S NOTE: Leon Dennen was a young journalist in Moscow when Nikita Khrushchev began his climb to power as an aide to Josef Stalin. His view of the Khrushchev memoirs' authenticity is that of an expert student of Russian communism.)

NEW YORK (NEA)

Years from now literary detectives and Kremlinologists will still be trying to solve the mystery of Nikita Khrushchev's "memoirs."

Is Russia's former premier the real author of the book, "Khrushchev Remembers," and, if yes, how did it reach the West?

Khrushchev himself was brought from retirement to the Kremlin to deny authorship in a vague statement.

Yet in the view of this writer who has followed Khrushchev's career for over three decades—I foresaw his rise to power and subsequent demise—there is no doubt that the memoirs are authentic.

One does not have to read far to be convinced, as was Kremlinologist Edward Crankshaw, that this is Khrushchev himself speaking.

Why, then, the mystery?

Because the book is a powerful indictment of Stalin's bloody rule by an insider and it is obviously in the interest of the Kremlin's present rulers to discredit it.

Soviet leaders, for domestic and international reasons, currently are straining to rehabilitate the tarnished image of the tyrant who died (or was murdered) in 1953.

But for Nikita Khrushchev, now an ill and isolated "unperson" in the Soviet limbo, his memoirs are clearly an act of revenge. They are also his warning to Russians not to repeat the mistakes of the past.

Khrushchev hated and feared Stalin. The sadistic Stalin took pleasure in treating "little fat Nikita" as court jester.

Memories of Stalin's cruelty haunt Khrushchev 17 years after the tyrant's death. He repeats for the 10th time in his memoirs how Stalin, after a drinking bout, forced him to dance the "gopak" before some top Communist party officials.

"I had to squat on my haunches and kick out my heels, which frankly wasn't easy for me," Khrushchev writes. But "when Stalin says 'dance,' a wise man dances."

To be sure, there are some historic errors in "Khrushchev Remembers." I have also found some glaring omissions.

Khrushchev attributes his rapid rise in the Kremlin hierarchy to his close association with Stalin's second wife, Nadezhda Alliluyeva, when they were both students at Moscow's Industrial Academy.

But he fails to mention that he was assigned by Stalin to spy on his wife. This was common knowledge when I was in Moscow at the time Alliluyeva committed suicide.

Nevertheless, the memoirs add to our knowledge of communism and Stalinism.

The memoirs were certainly "doctored" by the people who wanted to see them printed in the West.

Who are these mysterious people?

Only members of Russia's intelligence services were in a position to smuggle the manuscript (or tapes) out of the country.

Nothing is too bizarre in the Kafka-esque netherworld of intelligence peopled with double and triple agents, defectors and redectors. And Moscow's intelligence services are certainly not immune from the intrigues and jockeying for power that also plague their Western counterparts.

According to Russia's well-informed underground press, even members of the KGB are worried by the rising tide of repression in the Soviet Union.

Some of the KGB "liberals" are undoubtedly provocateurs. But some, like their czarist predecessors, seem to be genuine supporters of the struggle for freedom now plaguing the Red dictatorship.

There is little in "Khrushchev Remembers" that was not known for decades. But the memoirs are valuable if only as a supplement to books like Alexander Solzhenitsyn's literary masterpiece, "The First Circle," in which he depicted realistically the ugly face of Marxist-Leninist society.

COLUMN

WASHINGTON — The last person to laugh in the United States was Robert Ketchum on Monday, Aug. 3, 1978. There was no law passed to prevent people from laughing; they just quit voluntarily.

No one knows exactly when people gave up laughing in America. The Republicans claimed it was during the Johnson Administration, and the Democrats said it happened during President Nixon's term in office. Putnam Toynbee, who in 1984 wrote "The Definitive History of the 70s," claim the first culture group to give up laughing was students.

"There's nothing to laugh about," they said to each other in despair. "Everything is rotten. The government, the establishment, the system and life itself. We're doomed to a plastic existence, and we'll be damned if we're going to laugh about it. If we show in any way we're happy, it will be a sign of weakness."

Toynbee points out that anything youth did in the United States was eventually picked up by the adult population, and when young people stopped laughing, older people started to emulate them.

Scowling became very fashionable in the "with it" crowd. Articles began appearing in the chic magazines that laughter was out. Pretty soon the word had filtered to the hinterlands that anyone who laughed about anything was a fool or a knave.

Advertisers, sensitive to the mood of the consumer, cancelled all comedy shows on television; the networks put out memos ordering all laughter bleeped from their programs, and newspapers dropped any stories or comic strips which might produce a chuckle for the reader.

Toynbee says in his book that it was difficult for a certain segment of society to give up laughing, but these people did it privately in their homes, where no one could see them.

A group of friends would get together, send the children off for the night with relatives, and then laugh for two or three hours amongst themselves.

There were certain key clubs where people could go to hear a comedian or see a funny motion picture from the past. But as the older generation started dying out the clubs went bankrupt, as there were no young laughers to take their place.

Laughter in public buildings was forbidden and considered exceptionally bad taste. Anyone who laughed in a restaurant or theatre was asked to leave.

If someone attempted to laugh on the street or in a park he was met with stony stares or assaulted by angry passersby.

The government contributed to the antilaughter campaign by issuing pronouncements every day that things were worse than they were the day before.

To make sure that people wouldn't go back to their old ways, Washington raised taxes, passed outrageous laws, told of international threats and gave out grim economic reports. Life indeed presented a dismal picture.

Toynbee claims the last person in the United States known to have laughed in public was Robert Ketchum, who lived in Salem, Mass.

Ketchum was standing on a street corner when a friend of his, Adolph Green, walked by and slid on a banana peel. Before he realized what he was doing, Ketchum burst into laughter.

An angry crowd gathered and grabbed Ketchum and dragged him to the center of the square where they tied him to a post, threw branches and trees at his feet and burned him at the stake. All three networks covered the event, and the lesson was not lost on the populace. Toynbee feels it will be some time before anyone laughs in public in the United States again.

PM key to women's status

OTTAWA — Kate Millet notes in her book Sexual Politics that Sigmund Freud, the famed psychoanalyst, was occasionally humble over his confusion about women.

He admitted late in life that "the great question that has never been answered and which I have not been able to answer, despite my 30 years of research into the feminine soul, is: 'What does a woman want?'"

It's a good lead into a comment on the report of the commissioners who studied the status of women in Canada. The seven commissioners, five women and two men, spend little space in their 488-page publication of an abstract or philosophical debate on what a woman wants and a lot of space on a wide range of what women need.

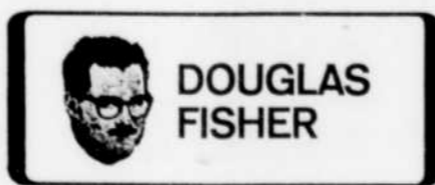

There is little on the history of the sexual revolution, only a brief analysis on "the cultural mold, which reinforces the inequality of women." Then the report moves into data, analysis, and recommendations.

Chapters 2 to 9 cover: Women in the economy, education, women and the family, taxation and child-care allowances, poverty, participation of women in public life, immigration and citizenship, criminal law and women offenders. There's so much substance in these 367 pages the pace rarely slows and the authors are too practical to pause for doubts or long asides.

There's this kind of succinct presentation: A heading, "Pensions," and under it a lead sentence, "Pension provisions often show sex differences."

There follows a short exposition on the different treatment given women in the Canada Pension Plan. Then comes a curt opinion: "We cannot agree with this differential treatment."

There's one sentence of debate: "Admittedly, the assumption that the wife and children are financially dependent upon the husband's earnings had some relevance to economic reality in the past and some, though less, today." Then, "nonetheless, the provisions are discriminatory and should be eliminated on those grounds."

DOUGLAS

There's certainly no figurative, lady-like shrug implying "now what are you men going to do about all this." Chapter 10 is "the plan for action."

"Therefore . . ." the report recommends the needed changes in the Canada Pension Plan and the Quebec Pension Plan. It states its opinion that the same differential in private pension plans should be eliminated, then on it goes to workmen's compensation.

The pace, the data, the numbering of the paragraphs, the heavy typeface for the recommendations, the host of subject headings, the footnotes, the graphs, tables and charts, all emphasize that this is a very pragmatic document. It is heavy with earnestness and practical recommendations.

Few readers will find the report persuasive in a literary or philosophical way. The authors weren't going to be caught out on any high limbs. No male, especially in politics, would be able to dismiss the report as frivolous or disputatious.

Of course, the forest of recommendations may take a long time to harvest. Many of them, however, are not costly, and are small or technical or legal. Many could easily be effected by government action, quite often through merely changing regulations or personnel requirements.

Women's organizations can handily keep a box score on progress in putting the recommendations into effect. And the wide variety of recommendations open up something for support by almost any public organization that believes even mildly in social and economic change.

On the other hand, the cornucopia of requests could choke any political leader or party for a few years. Again, the commissioners have been thorough in their pragmatism. Chapter 10 asks for "implementation committees," a "human rights commission" and a "status of women council."

Basques stage protest

MADRID (Reuter) — About 300 Spanish artists and intellectuals—including famed artist Joan Miro—staged a sit-in in a famed abbey near Barcelona Sunday protesting the trial of 16 Basque nationalist guerrillas in Burgos, northern Spain.

In addition to the 77-year-old Miro, regarded as one of the world's greatest living painters, others in the vigil at Montserrat Abbey, 30 miles northwest of Barcelona, included film director Armando Moreno, folk singers, actors and actresses.

The country was relatively quiet Sunday as a panel of army judges continued deliberations in a closed session in Burgos to determine the fate of the underground Basque fighters.

Six of the accused face possible death sentences for their alleged role in the murder of the chief of political police in San Sebastian in 1968. The whole group faces possible prison terms of 72 years for terrorism and other charges.

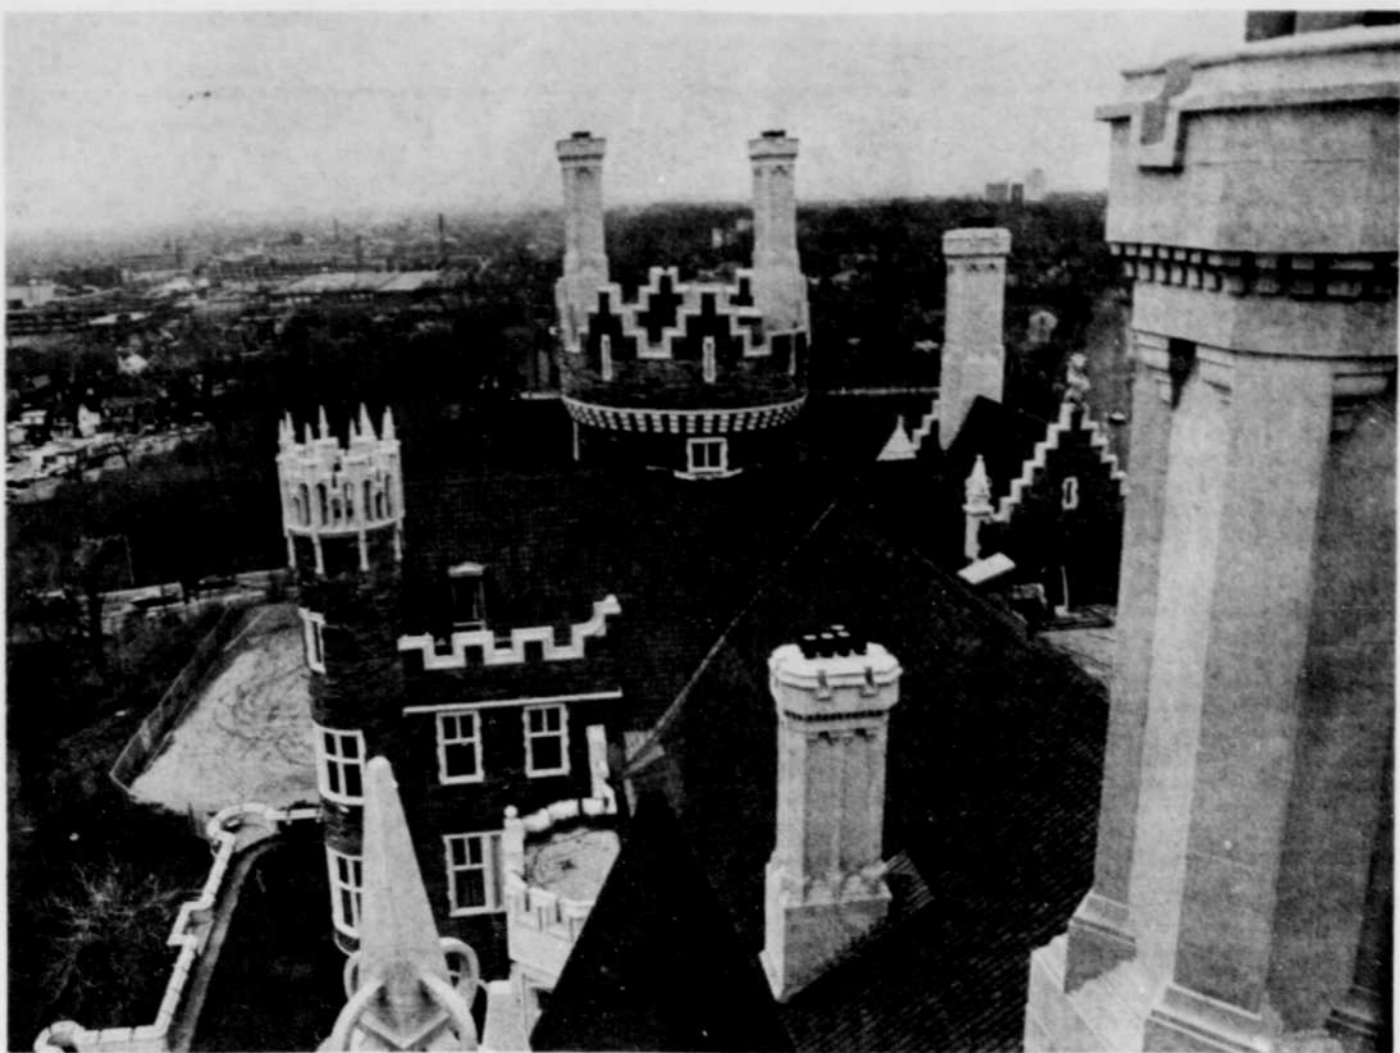

Pope Paul has issued an appeal for the release of West German honorary consul in San Sebastian, Eugen Beihl, kidnapped 12 days ago and apparently being held a hostage for the Basque prisoners.

The Roman Catholic pontiff made public his "fervent desire and prayer" for the release of Beihl in a statement issued in Madrid Saturday night by the papal nunciature.

A spokesman for the Basque group ETA—to which the accused belong—said Sunday in France:

"The fate of the San Sebastian consul is still dependent on this verdict, but this verdict even if it is relatively lenient, will not resolve everything.

"It would be necessary to be certain that they are not going to die of mysterious illnesses in the following months."

NDP War Measures stand seen as boost for Quebec chances

TORONTO (CP) — For the first time in years Quebecers are not sneering at the NDP because the 16 members of the federal New Democratic Party opposed the Emergency Measures Act, Quebec NDP Leader Roland Morin said Sunday.

He told the Ontario party's provincial council he sees a "ray of hope" for the party in Quebec because the federal NDP "has appeared as the only official opposition to forces of repression in Quebec."

The party holds no seats in Quebec's National Assembly and no Quebec seats in the House of Commons.

A woman delegate said the NDP policy on the War Measures Act and the Public Order (Temporary Measures) Act, 1970, that followed has had the opposite effect in Ontario.

"People are sneering as they have not sneered in years at the NDP."

"I don't think these people are uncaring about civil rights. They have the supreme arrogance to believe that the acts will not be used against the good guys and the innocent."

HURT INNOCENT PEOPLE

Charles Taylor of Montreal, federal party vice-president, said the NDP can supply evidence that the measures have damaged the lives of innocent people.

Saturday, Ontario NDP Leader Stephen Lewis said the stand has been vindicated and the public is coming to realize it more and more.

Former leader Donald MacDonald said the party has been "painfully aware there were no genuine socialist grass roots in Quebec." He asked if a socialist movement might rise out of recent events.

Mr. Taylor said he could not give much encouragement.

Mr. Morin predicted that the federal Liberal government will retain its Quebec seats in the next election and perhaps gain more.

He said Quebec intellectuals are turning away from Prime Minister Trudeau, but "the ordinary guy who carries a lunch box" is more afraid of unknown dangers, such as bombs in mailboxes, than he is of the soldier sent to Quebec under the War Measures Act.

"My only hope is that the vote will be polarized, with forces of law and order represented by Trudeau and forces of civil liberties represented by our party."

FEARS POLICE REPRESSION

Saying he speaks as a Canadian as well as a Quebecer, Mr. Morin added:

"I have never been afraid of the FLQ in Quebec. I have been afraid of police repression.

"The FLQ has been very successful in its fall activity. They were out to prove the common people had no hope at the ballot box, that when a government was faced with a strong opposition it would move to crush it."

He said young people in Quebec now despair of creating change through the democratic system. He cited as reasons the high popular vote of the Parti Quebecois in the last provincial election compared to the few number of seats the party obtained and the defeat of the Front d'Action Politique, a civic group the NDP supported in the Montreal election.

Mr. Morin said the party must come up with a way to make Quebecers feel their emotions are respected if they decide to stay in Confederation.

Word has been received by friends of Mrs. Frank Sutton, Toronto, Ont., that she is a patient in the Sunnybrook hospital there. Mrs. Sutton, the former Miss Edna Gilbert, will be remembered by many local residents, as she was principal of the old Beebe Academy, several years ago.

Friends of Mrs. Jessie Elliott will be pleased to hear that she has returned to her home in Griffin, following a stay of several days in the Sherbrooke Hospital.

Will tighten up snowmobile regs

SHERBROOKE — (CJ) — A strict warning has been issued to snowmobile enthusiasts who use their vehicles on railway rights-of-way that they will be charged this year under the Railway Act which provides fines up to $100 upon conviction.

In making the announcement, P. P. Brousseau, superintendent of Canadian National Railway police operations in the St. Lawrence region, stated that six snowmobilers were killed on railway tracks last winter and that there have already been three deaths in the past few weeks.

Mr. Brousseau noted that of all those apprehended last year only one was charged in court of law and required to pay the $100 fine.

"We feel, however, that the problem has increased and must be dealt with in a much more severe manner," he said. "For this reason our agents have been told to apprehend all snowmobilers using our rights-of-way and charge them with violation of the Railway Act. All cases will be heard in a court of law.

Snowmobiling has already become one of the most popular winter sports in Canada and, it would seem, one of the most dangerous with 93 persons losing their lives in snowmobile accidents last year.

"Let us hope that the wide safety campaign which is rallying an ever-increasing number of organizations and associations will succeed in convincing all snowmobile enthusiasts that 'safety first' is the only motto for an enjoyable winter," Mr. Brousseau said.

He added that, in many cases, drivers wearing safety helmets and deafened by the noise of their machines cannot hear the sound of an approaching train, not even its whistle.

4 win Polaroid cameras

The Record's Polaroid Colorpack II Camera Contest resulted in surprises for 4 persons, who all happen to be subscribers to this newspaper. Results chosen through a draw from entries made at 6 local stores, resulted in Mrs. Jessie Colby of Lennoxville winning a camera through the Skinner & Nadeau camera shop. Two Woolco entries earned cameras for Mrs. Pauline Parker of 121 Abbott Street Magog, and Herbert Buckley of R.R. 1, North Hatley. Miss Helene Rochefort, a CEGEP student who lives at 1340 Russell Street, Sherbrooke, won her camera through Art & Photo Inc.

The drawing done by F. D. Radler, Secretary-Treasurer of the Record, was at random from all the entries submitted through Woolco's photo department; Art & Photo Inc.; Skinner & Nadeau Inc.; Hart's Jewellery Store; Budning's Drug Store; and the Ronald Fortier Jewellery Store. Winners were asked a

Forgotten goalie's shutouts boost Leafs towards playoffs

By IAN MacLAINE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

The forgotten man on the Toronto Maple Leaf roster this season has been instrumental in their current bid for a National Hockey League playoff berth.
Goalie Bruce Gamble registered his second straight shutout for the Leafs Sunday night, 4-0 over Buffalo Sabres, as Toronto put together its longest winning streak of the season—three games.
Gamble helped start the string by shutting the door on Montreal Canadiens last Wednesday, also 4-0, and was ready in reserve at home Saturday as the Leafs tripped Chicago Black Hawks 2-1.
With Jacques Plante joining the Leafs this season, Gamble has been somewhat of a forgotten man he has been doing his share of work for the club, still sixth in the NHL's East Division but now only six points behind fourth-place Vancouver Canucks.

In other Sunday games, the East Division-leading Boston Bruins ripped Detroit Red Wings apart with a 6-2 victory following a second-period blitz of four goals in 3½ minutes. New York Rangers stayed within two points of the Bruins with a 4-0 win over Los Angeles Kings. Wayne Hillman's shot from the point with less than five minutes remaining gave Philadelphia Flyers a 2-2 tie with St. Louis Blues and Chicago Black Hawks, leaders in the West, dumped Minnesota North Stars 5-2.
BRUINS WIN
The other Saturday games saw Boston blank Philadelphia 1-0 in the afternoon, the Red Wings bump Buffalo 5-3. Montreal Canadiens blast Los Angeles 8-1 with a six-goal outburst in the second period. Vancouver upend California Golden Seals as captain Orland Kurtenbach broke loose for three goals and Minnesota nip Pittsburgh Penguins 1-0.

Tuesday Philadelphia is at Vancouver and Minnesota moves into St. Louis.
Gamble, a native of Thunder Bay, Ont., was a much-travelled performer before joining the Leafs on a regular basis in the 1967-68 season. However, his unorthodox style of flopping to the ice has never endeared him to management, especially in the executive suite where president Stafford Smythe has been heard more than once degrading the 32-year-old goaltender's efforts.
Playing in the shadow of Johnny Bower and Plante, two NHL greats, hasn't helped his situation, but Gamble continues to fill the breach while bearing his share of the Leafs' rift to date.
He got all the help he needed from Norm Ulfman Sunday night when the veteran centre scored the first of his two goals in the first period and Toronto's defensive play made it easy the rest of the way limiting Sabres to just 17 shots on goal.

ESPOSITO STARS
Boston's Phil Esposito had his fourth three-goal night of the year in leading the Bruin victory with two of his goals coming during the second-period outburst against Detroit's rookie goaltender, Don McCleod, in Boston Garden.
Jean Ratelle had a big night at New York's Madison Square Garden, notching a goal and assisting on two others as the Rangers extended their unbeaten string on home ice to 14 games.
The tie at Philadelphia prevented the Blues from closing the gap in the West Division and they now trail the Black Hawks by seven points with the Flyers another eight points back in third spot.

Snap out of tailspin Dube leads Beavers to victory

SHERBROOKE — A four goal victory over Verdun Maple Leafs in Quebec Junior "A" Hockey

A Break in the Action with SCOTT ABBOTT

Lafleur is there

There is no doubt that Guy Lafleur of the Quebec City Ramparts is the leading light of the Quebec Junior "A" Hockey League.
He has in the past, however, been criticized as an excessively offensive-minded hockey player, and, inasmuch as he performs in a league purported to be of a lesser calibre than such as the Ontario Hockey Association Major Junior "A" series, the suspicion has persisted that his reputation among professional hockey's scouts might not be as good as his image with QJHL fans.
The Montreal Canadiens have a reputation of their own, that of being the most knowledgeable team in the National Hockey League in respect to pro prospects skating in junior circuits.
Who better to ask, then, about Lafleur's status as a big league possibility than the Canadian executive?
The question was posed to Sam Pollock, general manager of the Montreal NHL entry, in the club's dressing room after Saturday night's game against the Los Angeles Kings.
"Lafleur is certainly among the top five juniors in the country right now," Pollock replied.
When questioned further, he allowed that the flashy scorer who netted 103 goals in the QJHL last season might be the number one pick in June's draft of amateur players by NHL clubs.
"I would say he could be the first pick, although there are a lot of good kids available this year."
Ron Caron, assistant general manager of the Canadiens and the bird-dog who preceded Claude Ruel as chief scout for the club, was high in praise of the Ramparts star.

Anticipation is impressive

"What impresses me most about Lafleur is his anticipation," revealed the man whose job it is to be abreast of developing players. "It's very seldom you see anticipation as good as Lafleur has in a 19-year-old. He knows where the play is going to break and he's there."
If Lafleur is one of the top five in the Canadiens' scouting charts, who are the other four?
"There's this kid at St. Catharines in the other league, Marcel Dionne, of course," obliged Caron.
Dionne is to the Black Hawks and the OHA what Lafleur is to the Ramparts and the QJHL.
"Then there are three players out west. Two play for Flin Flon Bombers in the Western Canada junior league. There's a centre, Gene Carr, who handles the puck very well, and Chuck Arneson, who's among the leading scorers out there. There's also a guy named Ron Jones with Edmonton Oil Kings who has to be considered."
"Plus there is some good talent with the Junior Canadiens right here in Montreal. Jocelyne Guevremont is probably the best junior defenceman in the country, and Richard Martin is the top forward on the club."
The name of the Sherbrooke Beavers' Normand Dube entered the conversation as well as the Hab exec's introduction, and someone like Gerald Lecompte was not entirely unfamiliar to him. Jean Lemieux was mentioned too.
"By no means are all reports in, however, and as Caron said, 'We'll have to let them play a little longer. It's pretty early yet.'"

Athlete's footnotes

One of the veteran Montreal sports-writers encountered in the Forum press lounge Saturday evening confided, "I still come to the games, but sometimes I wonder why. The hockey today is nothing like it was. There are several teams in the league who have no business being there. It's nowhere near as good as it was, but the younger generation doesn't know it."
In fact, the younger generation does know it.
The best game the younger generation has seen this season was not even a professional contest, let alone a National Hockey League clash.
It was the 3-3 tie played at the Sports Palace Nov. 26 between Bishop's University Gaiters and University of Sherbrooke Green and Gold.
From every aspect — including quality of competition as well as drama — it was by far better than any of the NHL action — or inaction — the younger generation has seen this season.

The same gentleman made the observation that the Canadiens are not the team they were and are not as talented a group as any of the current Boston Bruin, New York Ranger or Chicago Black Hawk squads.
"But don't say I said so, or I'll be drummed out of the building."
In compliance with his wish, he shall remain anonymous.
++++
Bobby Orr made a splash when he played Junior "A" hockey at the age of 14. Where were the publicity jobbers when Ross Lonsberry of the Kings skated in senior circles at 13 years of age? The same wonder-boy was left talking to himself Saturday when victimized by recidivist robber Rogatien Vachon in the Canadian cage.
The dissension which racked the Canadiens during Claude Ruel's tenure as coach split the team into pro-and anti-Ruel factions. The breakdown crossed ethnic lines, with tow English-and three French-speaking players backing the coach and five English-and eight French-speaking players opposed to him.

League action at the Sports Palace last night.
The win, first for the Sherbrooke side since a 5-3 triumph in Cornwall at the expense of the Royals Nov. 22, snapped a six-game losing streak.
Last night's contest was a rough one which featured 116 minutes in penalties, including seven majors and two game misconducts.
The Beavers jumped into a 1-0 lead in the fourth minute of the game when Claude St. Sauveur broke into the net unassisted.
Dube netted the first of his four less than a minute later as he beat Maple Leaf netminder Richard Broder from in close. St-Sauveur picked up an assist on the play.
Denis Gingras was serving a sentence for hooking when Verdun came up with what proved to be its only tally of the game. Serge Martel was the scorer with help from Brian Bowles.

Money, but no victory for Arnie this season

— An era ended Sunday when Arnold Palmer failed in his last grim-lipped attempt to win a golf tournament this year.
"Sure, I'm disappointed," the golf legend said after this bid fell short in the final round of the $130,000 Bahamas Islands Open, the last event on the 1970 pro schedule.
But his face slipped into that famous grin and he added: "We'll just have to try it again next year."
It was the first time since the 41-year-old master scored his first professional victory in the 1955 Canadian Open that Palmer had failed to win an individual title.
By any standards other than his, the powerful, slope-shouldered son of a Latrobe, Pa., greengrasskeeper, would have had an excellent year. He won more than $128,000, fifth on the list. He finished second on three tournaments, including the PGA. He was 10th or better 12 times.
But his only victory was a shared one when he teamed with Jack Nicklaus in the National Four Ball Championship on Palmer's home course at Laurel Valley, Pa.

College bowls blossom; Tulane takes Colorado

Tulane turned a chilly mid-December night into a New Year's Eve celebration Saturday with a 17-3 Liberty Bowl triumph over heavily favored Colorado.
Tulane's first bowl victory since 1935—and its first bowl appearance since 1940—was no fluke.
In six games featuring the top small college teams in the U.S., Arkansas State, North Dakota State, Tennessee State and Delaware won National Collegiate Athletic Association College Division regional titles while Texas A. and I. captured the National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics championship and Jacksonville, Ala., State defeated Florida A. and M. in the annual Orange Blossom Classic.

his second goal of the game to re-establish a two-goal lead for the home side at 3-1, and Dube followed with his second.
Gaston Boulanger put the Beavers ahead by a commanding 5-1 count in rounding out the first period scoring.
The Beavers were controlling play rather handily and moved ahead 6-1 in the third minute of the middle frame when Dube registered his hat-trick goal, again with an assist from St-Sauveur.
The second period was a rugged 20 minutes as officials handed out five major penalties, two misconducts and two game misconducts.
Dube provided the only scoring story of the final stanza. St-Sauveur and defenceman Jean Lemieux set up the tally.
The most promising aspect of the game in which the Sherbrooke club came out of the doldrums was the apparent return to form of the big line of Dube, St-Sauveur and Boulanger. With this trio skating as they were last night, the six-game losing skein may soon be nothing

Colts, Raiders clinch titles

By THE CANADIAN PRESS
Two division titles were wrapped up in National Football League action this weekend as Baltimore Colts downed Buffalo Bills 20-14 to take the Eastern Division championship and Oakland Raiders took the Western title with a 20-6 victory over Kansas City Chiefs.
Baltimore capitalized on three Bills' penalties to post the victory Sunday on Buffalo's slippery, snow-covered field. The Colts wound up with a 10-2-1 division record.
Oakland's decisive victory Saturday in Oakland featured a strong running attack led by seldom-used Marv Hubbard, who carried the ball seven times for 40 yards in the first Raiders' touchdown drive.
In other games Sunday, San Francisco 49ers downed New Orleans Saints 38-27; Cincinnati Bengals defeated Houston Oilers 30-20; New York Giants blasted St. Louis Cardinals 34-17; Atlanta Falcons knocked Pittsburgh Steelers out of Central Division contention with a 27-16 win; Minnesota Vikings side-stepped stumbling Boston Patriots for a 35-14 victory; Washington Redskins defeated Philadelphia Eagles 24-8; Chicago Bears had their best game of the season in downing Green Bay Packers 35-17; Miami Dolphins rolled over New York Jets 16-10 and San Diego Chargers and Denver Broncos battled to a 17-17 tie.
KEEP HOPES ALIVE
In a second game Saturday, Dallas Cowboys kept their National Football East Division hopes alive with a 6-2 victory over Cleveland Browns which gave them a 9-4 record, compared with St. Louis' 8-3-1 and New York's 9-4.
John Brodie threw three touchdown passes to Gene Washington in New Orleans to lead the 49ers to victory. The win moved the 49ers into first place in the Western Division of the NFC—at least temporarily.
San Francisco had been tied with Los Angeles Rams for the lead coming into the game. The Rams play Detroit Lions tonight.
Essex Johnson scored a pair of second half touchdowns to break up a tie Sunday as the surprising Bengals defeated the Oilers on their own turf to nail down at least a share of the AFC's Central Division championship.
The victory sends Cincinnati into its final game against Boston with a 7-6 record, one game ahead of 6-7 Cleveland.

Cool Fran Tarkenton rifled three touchdown passes in St. Louis as the Giants took a share of the NFL East lead with Dallas via their triumph over St. Louis. Tarkenton's aerials lifted the Giant record to 9-4 to match that of the Cowboys.

French alpine ski team starts annual takeover

SESTRIERE, Italy (CP) — The French Alpine skiing team has taken a firm grip on the 1971 World Cup from the start by dominating both the men's and women's downhill events as the new season opened during the weekend.
Francoise Macchi Saturday and Henri Duvallard Sunday were the winners for France in the downhill. But it was the French team as a whole that impressed with class, cohesion and determination.
The French girls dominated the 1970 World Cup in both individual and team standings. Frenchmen won the team competition but arch-rival Karl Schranz of Austria took the individual title.
Duvallard and Bernard Orcel, however, Sunday finished ahead of Schranz, who was third in the men's downhill at Sestriere. For the French aces it was a double revenge over Austrians and Swiss.
Duvallard and Orcel, France's downhill stars, had an off-season last year. They won nothing of major importance, performed poorly at the Val Gardena world championships and never were in the race for the World Cup.
LEADS WORLD CUP
Duvallard, 23, now leads the World Cup with 25 points, ahead of Orcel who has 20 and Schranz with 15. Bernard Russi of Switzerland, the world champion, placed fourth Sunday. Karl Cordin of Austria, second at Val Gardena and in the 1970 World Cup downhill standing, was

Pro golf league assigns top picks

MIAMI (AP) — Arnold Palmer, Jack Nicklaus, Billy Casper and a majority of the world's golfers have been drafted. But they just don't know it yet.
The International Professional Golf League (IPGL) drafted 120 players—15 per team—Saturday and prepared to negotiate contracts with some of the world's highest-paid athletes.
Formed Nov. 17 in New York, the IPGL has eight franchises, and league officials say play will begin next spring on a home-and-home basis and a schedule of about 60 matches.
The eight franchise owners must now take their lists of 15 golfers and attempt to sign pro-tour players to contracts. Team names are San Francisco, Northwest, Southern California, Southwest, New York-Connecticut, Georgia, Maryland and Florida-Caribbean.
The Professional Golfers Association, which operates the regular $6.7-million tour, has not commented officially on the proposal, although its approval is not expected since play is destined to interfere with the tour.
Commissioner Charles H. L. White said the league hopes to bring big-time golf to cities not able to support a rich tour event. He also said he believes the country is starving for major match-play golf, where two or four men go head-to-head instead of shooting for medal play against the entire field.

THE FAMILY

Women's groups in the news

LENNOXVILLE UCW
Unit 1, Lennoxville United Church Women was delightfully entertained at the home of the Leader, Mrs. Tom Saunders for the December meeting. Mrs. Saunders presided and the meeting opened by all repeating the UCW Purpose, followed by the Lord's Prayer. A moment of silence was observed in memory of residents of this area who died during the year. The devotional was conducted by Mrs. Tom Saunders, whose theme was, "my heart is ready". The roll call revealed 27 members present who had made 32 calls on sick and shut-ins. Two visitors Mrs. W.S. Varney and Mrs. Bennett were welcomed. A donation of $10 was received from a lady who although unable to attend the meetings shows continued interest. Correspondence included letters of thanks. It was decided to send flowers and cards to a member who is in hospital. Mrs. A. Norman Flint, treasurer, reported a satisfactory bank balance, and all bills were ordered paid.

Silver wedding anniversary

BEEBE — On December fifth Mr. and Mrs. Aubrey (Bob) Davio, were dinner guests at Frank's Steak House, in Newport, Vt., with Mr. and Mrs. Carroll Westover, (brother-in-law and sister of Mr. Davio) of Beebe Plain, Vt. They were invited to stop at the Canadian Legion Memorial Home in Stanstead after dinner and were taken by complete surprise to be greeted by some 75 relatives and close friends, who had assembled to help them celebrate their silver wedding anniversary.

Good Fellows — The children and Mr. and Mrs. Bronson, escorted the honored couple to a lace covered table, which was centered with a two tiered cake, iced in white with silver trim, topped with the bride and groom standing before the silver numeral "25". It was flanked by silver candles in silver holders.

party as an event which will never be forgotten. Mrs. Donald Thayer, daughter of the celebrants and Mr. Irving Davio, brother of the groom, looked after the guest book. Guests attended from Kitchener and Ottawa, Ont., Newport, Vt., Ayer's Cliff, Georgeville and the boundary villages. Due to the bad snowstorm and road conditions several invited guests were unable to attend.

Decorations were streamers, balloons and a Happy Anniversary banner all in silver motif. The couple were met at the door by their three children, Mrs. Percy Manning, Mrs. Donald Thayer and Brian along with Mr. and Mrs. William Bronson (brother-in-law and sister of Mrs. Davio) who were attendants at the wedding, 25 years ago.

The Anniversary Waltz was played. Mr. George Bronson, cousin of the groom of the silver years, acted as emcee. He reminisced on the lives of Bob and Midge. He also called on Mr. William Bronson and Mr. John Silvester for a few humorous remarks.

Aubrey (Bob) Davio and Marjorie Hetherington were married on Dec. 7th, 1945, by the Rev. C.M. Stewart, at Stanstead, in the manse of Centenary United Church. They are the parents of four children, Mrs. Percy (Lois) Manning, Ottawa, Ont., Cpl. Morris Davio, Calgary, Alta., who was unable to attend, Mrs. Donald (Carol Ann) Thayer of Georgeville, and Brian Davio at home. They also have two grandsons and one granddaughter.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a floor length gown of white ligoda silk. The empire bodice and the applique on the A-line skirt were of French imported lace with pearls. It featured long sleeves gathered at the elbows. The long veil was bordered in identical lace. She carried a cascade bouquet of petal pink miniature carnations.

Dancing was enjoyed to the music of Mr. Wilfred Guillet and orchestra from Derby, Vt. Seated with the honored guests were their children and attendants. At the lunch hour, the celebrants drank their toast from silver wedding anniversary goblets, gifts of their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Donald Thayer. Mr. William Bronson proposed a toast to the bride while Mrs. W. Bronson responded with a toast to the groom.

The following convenors were appointed: Ways and means - Mrs. Mildred Andrews; visitation - Mrs. Wentworth Richardson; Social - Mrs. Grace Gregoire; Devotional - Mrs. Albert Parsons; Pianist - Miss Marjorie Waldron; Mrs. W. Richardson volunteered to go to the Grace Christian Home in January. It was decided to send Christmas cards to former members who are not living here as well as to shut-in members. Mrs. Grace Gregoire offered to donate cards.

Cortisone Is Wonder Drug of Many Uses

By LAWRENCE E. LAMB, M.D.

Dear Dr. Lamb—Please tell me the "side effects" of the steady use of cortisone. Just what is cortisone supposed to do for the system?

peated episodes of severe diarrhea. Of course, the hormone is also used in people who have low adrenal gland function, just as thyroid is given for low thyroid function. Individuals with abnormally low-functioning adrenal glands have a decrease in physical tolerance, are easily fatigued, have digestive problems, loss of weight and many other medical difficulties. These are reversed with proper hormone replacement.

Dear Reader—Cortisone is one of the hormone preparations that belongs to the group from the powerful adrenal glands over the kidneys. The adrenal hormones are necessary for life. They affect metabolism of fat, protein and carbohydrates. They influence the function of almost all other organs in the body as well as the body's salt and water content.

Prolonged use of cortisone and related products cause changes similar to an over-active adrenal gland. The trunk of the body may become fat while the arms and legs are thin. The face becomes bloated. We call it a "moon face." There are changes in the chemistry of the body. Ulcers may form in the stomach and first part of the small intestine. Loss of bone structure may also occur.

Cortisone and related hormones have a powerful anti-inflammatory action and were considered as a miracle medicine when patients crippled with rheumatoid (inflammatory) arthritis threw their crutches and canes away and were remarkably improved after taking the medicine. Unfortunately the effects were not always lasting.

Insomnia is common. Many people develop a higher level of activity. Their mood may be elevated. The happy, overactive individual always on the go, not needing much sleep is characteristic of the effects of cortisone. Within limits, patients sometimes like the boost in their energy. The late President Kennedy was reported to have taken these hormones daily because his adrenal function was low.

These preparations have wide application in medicine. They are useful in many inflammatory and allergic-type disorders. Sometimes they are lifesaving in severe acute rheumatic fever with heart involvement or in a patient with a severe asthmatic attack. They are even used in some disorders of the digestive tract, notably "ulcerative colitis," a disease characterized by re-

MR. AND MRS. PETER FREDERICK BEAULIEU following their wedding at St. Elizabeth's Catholic Church, North Hatley.

Beaulieu-Ride wedding

NORTH HATLEY — The marriage of Eva Joan eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles William Ride to Peter Frederick Beaulieu, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jean Beaulieu of Sherbrooke took place on Aug. 29th at St. Elizabeth's Catholic Church. The Rev. Douglas Daniel officiated at the Nuptial Mass.

Mrs. Richard Springs played O Perfect Love and Ave Maria, during the signing of the register. The church was decorated with various colors of gladioli and the pews marked with white satin bows.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a floor length gown of white ligoda silk. The empire bodice and the applique on the A-line skirt were of French imported lace with pearls. It featured long sleeves gathered at the elbows. The long veil was bordered in identical lace. She carried a cascade bouquet of petal pink miniature carnations.

The maid of honour, Marion Kennedy and the bridesmaids, Kathleen Ride, sister of the bride, and Anne Beaulieu, sister of the groom wore identical empire floor-length gowns of printed silk organza. The print consisted of tiny pastel-colored flowers on a pale pink background. They wore pale pink wide-brimmed straw hats, and carried colonial bouquets of miniature white, pale pink and darker pink carnations.

David Beaulieu acted as best man for his brother, while the ushers were Jerry Ride, brother of the bride and Rev. John McMill Murray, a friend of the groom.

The bride's mother chose a pale pink crimpelene knit suit with a matching printed blouse. The pillbox hat matched her suit. Her accessories were black patent leather. A pink shoulder corsage completed her outfit.

The groom's mother chose a pink shantung dress and a hat of pink petals with black accessories. She wore a white glamelia corsage.

The bride's maternal grandmother, Mrs. Anick Kendall, was attired in a white crimpelene knit dress with matching scarf and accessories. Her corsage was red roses.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held at the Hovey Manor Hotel on Lake Massawippi. The bride's table was decorated with low arrangements of shasta daisies having tall white tapers in each arrangement. Flowers on all the tables and wedding bells completed the decor of the room.

Mrs. Judy Covell, classmate of the bride, was in charge of the guest book. The best man read the telegrams and proposed a toast to the bride and groom.

Amidst a shower of confetti, the couple left for a motor trip to Quebec City. The bride chose an aqua wool crepe sleeveless dress and jacket ensemble for travelling. Her accessories were a matching printed scarf, and black patent shoes and purse. Her corsage was of red roses.

The couple have taken up residence at 3775 Ste. Marguerite St. in Trois Rivieres.

Prior to her wedding, the bride was entertained at a series of miscellaneous showers. The first was given by Mrs. Gordon Sangster at her cottage at Shore Acres.

Mrs. Stewart Hansford entertained at her cottage also at Shore Acres and the bride's sister-in-law, Mrs. Robert Ride, at her home in North Hatley.

The groom's mother, Mrs. Beaulieu, entertained at a tea for her future daughter-in-law. Mrs. Ride gave a series of trousseau teas in honor of her daughter. A large number of friends and relatives of both families attended.

Bible group views films, plans Yule

MANSONVILLE — The last two sessions of the Bible study group of Mansonville United Church saw two films prepared by Rev. Carl Gustafson.

One consisted of various places mentioned in the gospels which were visited by the minister on a recent trip to the Holy Land.

The other traced the growth of the church in Britain, a film which had been prepared on a previous trip to that country. This showed places connected with the early church, such as Canterbury, Lindisfarne and Iona, as well as places connected with the Wesleys, John Knox and dissenters like John Bunyan and reformers like John Howard and the Tolpuddle martyrs. Previous sessions had illustrated the relevance of the Bible to modern problems such as racial intolerance, illustrated by a study of the book of Jonah and the necessity for economic justice, illustrated by the prophet Amos.

The Day Under Your Sign

ARIES (Born March 21 to April 19) — You may feel indisposed in the morning but outlook is optimistic for recovery long before lunch time.

TAURUS (April 20 to May 20) — Family requirements could interfere with what you prefer to be doing. Try to divide time fairly.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) — Be on your toes so you're not outdone if competition rears its head — as it's likely to do late in day.

CANCER (June 22 to July 22) — Bear up senior members of family. Let them know they are to be included in holiday plans in your home.

LEO (July 23 to Aug. 21) — You should be full of vim and vigor under present rays. Your zest will influence others to action also.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) — Teamwork takes care of the domestic essentials and everyone has ample time to enjoy his or her own hobby.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) — You are the pacemaker in your crowd. A new outfit you turn up in now will really "set them on their ears."

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) — An interesting departure from the norm makes this an above-average day. Don't be afraid to try something new.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) — Finely inclinations should be nipped in the bud. People tend to be curious now — perhaps "nosy" is a better word.

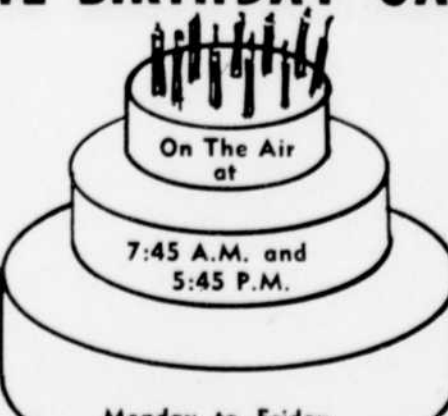

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) — To avoid mistakes, look sharply, check carefully, and be alert in general. Some possibility of heart trouble.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) — Temperamental loved one upsets the family. Take it in stride and don't let them know that you're "bugged."

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) — You relish the chance to show your ability to someone you want to be proud of you. Now is the time!

Boy Scouts in action

3RD SHERBROOKE CUB PACK WEST WARD

First, an apology to the Pack and their Leaders, due to circumstances beyond our control, their write-up did not appear in the Dec. 4 column. We will certainly do our best to rectify this. Sorry fellows! even being the Public Relations Officer has its restrictions. On Nov. 27, two additional boys, Danny Lapierre and Steven Roy, were invested and the following badges were awarded: Swimmer - John Curphey (guide) and Paul Dunningan. Collector - Bruce Mayhew.

On Nov. 28, 25 boys, three leaders and a number of parents visited the AGRHS in Lennoxville. The trip was in conjunction with the Blue Star requirement no. 7. The boys showed great interest, especially within the various workshops.

On Dec. 4, the Cub Meeting was a "Sports Night." The investiture of Philippe Dunningan took place. The colour party duties were handled by Dave Bradley. All Pack members are now wearing the traditional black and gold neckerchief. The following badges have been awarded: swimmer, Fred Baker; reader, Paul Dunningan; team-player, John Hayes and Bruce Hearn; toymaker, Bruce Mayhew.

3RD SHERBROOKE GROUP NORTH WARD

On Dec. 1, the group committee meeting was held at Plymouth United Church, Ed Mills, chairman, presided. The meeting was attended by 36 parents including district council president Archie Christiansen and district commissioner Peter Verlinde.

Earlier, the investiture of 10 scouts took place and was witnessed by all at the meeting. Those invested into the Scout Troop were: Bobby Arnold, Howard Robertson, Ray Picard, Bill Szeleky, Tom Begin, Gary Bowers, Paul Caron, Brian Chilvers, Armand Crepeau and Dave Simons.

The troop's complement is now 28 scouts and three leaders.

The chairman announced Don French had been transferred to Western Canada and has been replaced by Don Lyon as group treasurer. Don French was a hard worker and certainly will be missed in scouting.

Fred Currier will become transportation chairman, replacing Archie Christiansen who was elected district council president in October.

The Cub Pack neckerchiefs have been replaced with the national colour of white and green, as it had become extremely difficult to replace or purchase the maroon and yellow neckerchiefs.

The following reports were submitted: financial, Don Lyon (treasurer); scout troop, Bob Doe (scoutmaster) cub pack, Deborah Chilvers (asst. cubmaster).

The Scout group and Cub Pack will hold their last meeting for the year 1970 on Dec. 18 when they will hold their annual Christmas Party. They will not resume activities until Jan. 8.

On Dec. 4, the investiture of 18 cubs took place at the regular meeting. The investiture ceremony was witnessed by 30 parents and friends. Those invested were: Daniel Begin, Philip Blouin, Doug Campbell, Raymond Fabi, Bertrand Fabi, Pierre Fortin, Kevin Fraser, Zachary Gillman, John Hodge, David Imperial, Dennis Ladouceur, Gregory Pye, Gordie Ranshousan, Jeff Ross, Alain Talbot, John Winslow, Daniel Wruck and Fred Wright. Following the investiture, a game was placed called "Vitamin Race" and a camp fire was held later on. The boys drew names for giving presents at the Christmas Party being held on Dec. 18.

At the same time the boys were given a form letter to be given to their parents, with suggestions for a food basket which the Pack will make up for a needy family at Christma. Cub Andy Ross played a tune on his accordion (very good Andy, keep up the good work) and the campfire ended with taps and with a final outburst of energy, the "Grand Howl."

BY A SCOUT

The following report has been submitted by Stephen Kenneth, P.L., 3rd Sherbrooke Troop.

"On Dec. 4, the 3rd Sherbrooke Boy Scout organization held their weekly meeting at Sherbrooke Elementary School. The scouts used the old gym for a change, while the Cubs used the new gym for the investiture of a few new boys. All the Scouts are now invested."

"Dr. Kouri was there to lecture us on further first-aid. He talked in detail about fractures and reviewed what we did last week. We had also started on a new month for our point system and Wildcat Patrol had the lead at the end of the night."

Brian Chilvers pledged the Scout promise Dec. 1. Ten scouts took part in the investiture ceremony before their leaders.

Eighteen Cubs were invested into the 3rd Sherbrooke Cub Pack Dec. 4.

Waterville

The November meeting of the A.C.W. was held at the home of Mrs. C. Howse with Mrs. S. Pyle in charge of the business session. Proceeds from the Baked bean casserole supper were most satisfactory. Plans were made to hold a 500 and bridge card party in the Jubilee Hall, Nov. 28. Following adjournment, refreshments were served by the hostess.

Recent guests of Mr. and Mrs. S. A. Hopper, included Mr. and Mrs. Stewart Smith, Beebe; Mr. and Mrs. Burton Hughes, Huntingville; Mr. and Mrs. P. Sarasin, Lennoxville; Mr. and Mrs. Harold Nutbrown and son Kevin, Lennoxville.

also visited Mr. Kenneth MacAulay and Mr. Albert Nookes, patients in the Ste. Anne de Bellevue hospital.

Mrs. Stearns Morrison spent the weekend with Mr. and Mrs. Rupert MacAulay in Sherbrooke and visited Mr. Morrison who is still a patient in the Sherbrooke Hospital.

Miss Marlene Matheson spent the weekend as guest of Miss Jocelyn Harper at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Bob Harper, in Bury. Miss Susan Morrison also spent the weekend in Bury, visiting Mr. and Mrs. Glendon Morrison and family.

Ayer's Cliff

Mrs. Raymond Vien and Mrs. Alan Norrie were visitors of Mr. and Mrs. John Rousseau and family in Quebec City on Nov. 11.

Weekend guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Alan Norrie were Patrick Rousseau from the University of New Brunswick and Mr. and Mrs. John Rousseau and family from Quebec City.

Mrs. Freeman Sutton, Mrs. Hilda Fuller, Mrs. Delia Mitson, Mrs. Lillian McFaul and Mrs. E. J. Astbury were in Rock Island on Nov. 14 and attended the Christmas tea and sale at Stanstead South Church.

Mr. and Mrs. L. O. Piercy accompanied by Mrs. Algie Piercy were in Lebanon, N.H., where they attended the funeral of their aunt, Mrs. Osborne Rudd.

Harold Cooper of Boynton celebrated his 80th birthday on Nov. 8 when a surprise birthday dinner was given him at the home of his son, Stanley Cooper at Burroughs Falls. Nearly all the members of his family attended. The birthday cake was made by his daughter Mrs. Marion McIntyre of Tomfobia and was presented to him by his granddaughter Janet Cooper who serenaded him with the birthday song. This was Mr. Cooper's first birthday party and was much enjoyed by him and all those attending.

Ross Whitcomb from Toronto was a weekend guest of his mother Mrs. Elsie Whitcomb.

...And in Austin

The Austin cubs and scouts were very busy this month.

The 1st Austin cubs and scouts held a parade to the Protestant cemetery Nov. 8, where a wreath was laid in memory of the war dead. Monsignor Malouin of the Austin Roman Catholic church officiated.

The 1st Austin scouts had their first meeting Nov. 10. G. Laver, district commissioner, was present and spoke on scouting.

There are now six boys in the troop and more are expected to join in the future.

M. Wilkinson is the troop leader.

The six boys will be invested in December.

The group-committee went to a district meeting in Sweetsburg, Nov. 23.

It was a very rewarding evening for the group. F. Gilman, district chairman, presented Austin group-committee chairman K. Linde with the group's first charter.

A group-committee meeting was held Dec. 2. Mrs. K. Linde and Mrs. E. Davidson said they were willing to start a guide company in Austin. They attended a basic training class in Lennoxville Dec. 5.

G. Laver congratulated the entire group for the fine work they were doing and the way they conducted their business.

Chairman K. Linde thanked G.

Laver. The group committee would like to thank all those in Austin who have supported us in our new venture.

We hope it will continue in the future.
