Report 'pressure' for Gerda

MUNSINGER HEARINGS ADJOURN — Mr. Justice Wishart Spence conducting the inquiry into the Munsinger sex and security scandal, drives from Board of Transport Commissioners committee rooms after hearings were adjourned Tuesday. He said it was always possible there might be another session. (CP Wirephoto)

OTTAWA (CP) — Mr. Justice Wishart Spence said for a second time Tuesday the police should have been instructed to investigate reports that political pressure was exerted to free Gerda Munsinger from jail in 1961.

It was one of a number of comments by the judge during the course of the inquiry suggesting what should have been done about the security case when it was before the Conservative government of John Diefenbaker.

Questions source of false story given to justice minister

OTTAWA (CP) — The Munsinger security inquiry ended Tuesday with questions about the source of Justice Minister Cardin's wrong information that Gerda Munsinger's name was Olga Monseignor and that she had died of leukemia in Germany.

Mr. Justice Wishart Spence, head of the inquiry, gave no indication as to when he will make his report to the cabinet. The commission heard 10 witnesses at 10 open hearings. It also had three known secret sessions.

Jules Dupre, counsel for Pierre Sevigny, former Conservative associate justice minister, noted that Mr. Cardin on March 4 and 11 in the Commons had referred to the "Monseignor" case and at a press conference March 10 had stated that the RCMP had received a report that the German divorcee had died of leukemia.

Mr. Dupre then recalled the testimony of Jacqueline Delorme, a Montreal friend of Mrs. Munsinger, that she had told Montreal lawyer Hubert Ducharme and financier John Doyle in November, 1964, that Olga Monseignor had died of leukemia.

Mr. Dupre said — and the judge agreed—that the RCMP witnesses at the inquiry had testified the force had never reported nor received information that Mrs. Munsinger was dead.

He identified Mr. Doyle as a "well-known financier in Canada and also in the United States."

Mr. Dupre said it was Mr. Justice Spence's "duty" to find out how Mr. Cardin had made two such serious errors — "I don't say he lied"—and added:

"I say it is up to you to find out what relation there can be between this answer given to Ducharme in the presence of Doyle (by Miss Delorme about the supposed death) and the fact that a month later, on Dec. 1, 1964, the whole file on Munsinger was sent up to the prime minister who sends it to (former Liberal justice minister) Favreau and when it comes back keeps it for a year and a half."

The inquiry headed by Mr. Justice Spence is adjourned indefinitely while he considers the evidence, whether to make charges of misconduct against anyone and what to report to the Liberal government which appointed him in March.

Mr. Justice Spence first made the suggestion about investigating political pressure May 19 when he interjected that the Conservative government should have looked into what political pressure was exercised and by whom.

AGREES WITH JUDGE

"Yes, exactly," agreed Jack Campbell, counsel for Justice Minister Cardin, who had been given his views on the course which should have been followed.

Mr. Justice Spence interrupted Jules Dupre, counsel for Pierre Sevigny, former Conservative associate defence minister, on the same subject Tuesday.

He said it was not suggested Mr. Sevigny used such pressure but the point was the police received no instructions to investigate "this important issue" of an attempt by someone to interfere with the course of justice.

At separate points, Mr. Justice Spence has suggested that former defence minister Harkness and former trade minister Hees should have been advised of Mrs. Munsinger's doubtful security background and her relationship with Mr. Sevigny.

GIVES FINAL ARGUMENT

Chief commission counsel J. L. O'Brien said in his final argument that Mr. Diefenbaker should have consulted RCMP security experts, discussed the matter with the whole Conservative cabinet, dealt with Mr. Sevigny in "another manner" and brought the case to the attention of Mr. Hees.

"And Mr. Harkness," interjected Mr. Justice Spence.

Later, he called Mr. O'Brien's final argument a "very clear delineation." It was the only final argument on which he commented.

At another point Tuesday, Mr. Justice Spence said he "regretfully" agrees with Davie Fulton, former Conservative justice minister, that it is not Mr. Fulton's role to make judgments on Mr. Diefenbaker having retained Mr. Sevigny in the cabinet.

"It's mine," he added.

Mr. Dupre argued that Justice Minister Cardin's statements in Parliament and at a press conference suggested that the justice minister learned from the RCMP the erroneous facts that Mrs. Munsinger died of leukemia in Germany.

JUDGE INTERVENES

Mr. Justice Spence intervened to say Mr. Cardin had mistakenly mixed up a police report with rumors and gossip in the capital and a witness called by Mr. Dupre "indicated where that started."

He said the witness, Jacqueline Delorme, "invented it with a good deal of ease."

Mr. Justice Spence has said if he plans to make charges of misconduct against anyone he will give them advance notice and an opportunity to appear.

Mayor's resignation accepted in Magog

MAGOG— (Special) — City Council last night accepted the resignation of Mayor Gerard Laurendeau. Mr. Laurendeau, who did not attend the meeting, had written to Secretary-Treasurer Jean-Paul Lange May 20, asking that he be relieved from office, and blaming the lack of co-operation on the part of some aldermen, excessive pressure on himself and his family, and what he described as underhanded tactics on the part of the council.

GERARD LAURENDEAU

The fourth item of business on Tuesday's 10-part agenda, the mayor's resignation was accepted with little discussion. Councillor Ernest St. Jacques moved that the resignation be accepted, with alderman Gaston Huot seconding the motion.

Mr. Huot said that, in his statement made public last weekend, Mayor Laurendeau had played on the sympathy of the public in trying to discredit the council, and in doing so had not done the community any good.

Alderman Gerard Page was the only councillor to oppose the mayor's resignation, noting that he upheld the chief magistrate in certain princlpes. On the other hand, not committing himself either way, alderman Armand Gagne said he wished the mayor would reconsider. The majority being in favor of accepting Mr. Laurendeau's resignation, the motion was carried amid shouts of applause by a large crowd that had gathered.

It will now take eight days to process the mayor's resignation, according to the legal formality of a standing motion, after which a period of 30 days will elapse before an election for another mayor.

Pro-mayor Armand Gagne chaired Tuesday's meeting, and will head the council in this capacity until another mayor is elected.

WANTS COINCIDENCE EXPLAINED — Jules Dupre, counsel for Pierre Sevigny, former Conservative associate defence minister, leaves the Munsinger inquiry after asking for a report on any relationship between statements November, 1964, that Gerda Munsinger had died, and Prime Minister Pearson having sent for RCMP files on the case that month Mr. Justice Wishart adjourned hearings Tuesday. Quebec's a two-party fight Lesage insists in Montreal

QUEBEC (CP)—In a helicopter tour of five Montreal-area constituencies Tuesday, Premier Jean Lesage continued his theme that the June 5 provincial general election campaign is a straight two-party fight between his Liberal administration and the Union Nationale party.

The premier has repeatedly stressed the dangers of separatism for Quebec, answering separatist and Creditiste candidates who support a more independent status for the province.

Tuesday, he also spoke out strongly against independent Liberal candidates running in three of the five ridings he visited, urging voters not to waste their votes.

Daniel Johnson, leader of the Union Nationale opposition in the last legislature, spoke to 1,200 persons in a 700-seat hall at Joliette. He reiterated criticisms of the Liberals' farm program and its proposed health insurance plan.

'MAKE RICH PAY'

He said "the little man will pay for the millionaires" under the Liberal health plan, while the Union Nationale would establish a plan whereby "the rich would pay the largest share."

He said 20 of the 27 agriculture items in the Liberal election platform were taken directly from that party's election platform of 1962. The Union Nationale would "lift agriculture out of its stagnation."

Mr. Lesage's night rally in Dorion drew 450 persons, his smallest turnout of the current campaign.

The premier dealt mainly with plans to establish a provincial department of recreation, sports and tourism. He added that the education department would move into two new fields in September—the training of farmers and of recreation supervisors.

Today the premier returns to the Quebec City area where he is to address night rallies in Chauveau and Levis ridings. Mr. Johnson has a night rally scheduled at Thetford Mines.

Says CBC head:

Chain of authority suggested, rejected

OTTAWA (CP)—CBC President J. Alphonse Ouimet and a former aide disagreed Tuesday over the merits of a 1964 study group cure for management-producer friction in the publicly-owned corporation.

Michael Harrison, the group chairman, told the Commons broadcasting committee that management rejected a proposal for "an unbroken line" of authority from top management down to program producers.

Each level in the chain of command from the programming vice-president down would assess the work of the level below it. Management would not leap down several levels to assess a program.

The aim of the recommendation was to provide a workable method of shaping programming, to keep it moving in the direction the CBC was going, not against the flow.

Testifying later, Mr. Ouimet termed the proposal "impractical." It would have cost more than the existing arrangement in both money and manpower. Moreover it was far more complex.

"No other organization in the world has ever worked that way in programming," Mr. Ouimet said. He agreed that it would have provided "a clear line of authority" to the level of putting a program on paper, but all the same it could not be instituted.

Mr. Ouimet, however, agreed with another Harrison suggestion for a parliamentary assessment of the CBC at appropriate times to review the mandate and the corporation's performance in the light of it. The idea, Mr. Ouimet said, was "excellent."

'THINGS HAVE CHANGED'

The president also said the group's recommendations were dealing with a situation two years old and things had changed markedly since then.

Mr. Harrison said group's conclusions are valid today.

He was executive assistant to Mr. Ouimet when the president named him to head the study group in 1963. The group, made up of six CBC officials, was established following criticisms in the Glassco report on government organization.

Liberals accused by all

OTTAWA (CP)—The minority Liberal government was accused Tuesday of everything but progress by an opposition that said its extensive administrative shuffle either goes too far or not far enough.

A government reorganization bill undergoing second reading has major effects on about eight departments. Debate continues today, with clause-by-clause study ahead.

New Democrat MPs said the government should have created departments of economic affairs and consumer affairs, as well as a powerful federal office of education.

Conservative spokesmen laced their views with criticism of Prime Minister Pearson and some of his French-language cabinet ministers.

Eldon Woolliams (PC — Bow River) said Mr. Pearson was carving up justice "like a Christmas turkey" simply because he'd had trouble with his justice ministers.

The reference was to Privy Council President Favreau, who resigned last summer as justice minister, and his successor, Lucien Cardin, who has run into stormy weather over the Spencer and Munsinger cases.

The shuffle would create a registrar - general — Mr. Favreau has been pegged for the job—to deal with commercial law. Solicitor-General Pennell would take responsibility for the RCMP, the National Parole Board and the penitentiaries service.

Mr. Woolliams and Alvin Hamilton (PC—Qu'Appelle) hit Mines Minister Pepin for spending more time talking about biculturalism than about resources.

KAMPALA (AP)—The Ugandan government captured the palace of the rebellious king of the Buganda region Tuesday night. But the fate of "King Freddie" was not known.

One report to London said the Ugandan Army had set the palace on fire and killed 260 of the king's bodyguard.

Pro-Johnson

WASHINGTON (AP) — Robert Duncan, President Johnson's champion in an Oregon campaign focused on Viet Nam, captured that state's Democratic Senate nomination for the November general election amid Republican talk of nationwide voter uneasiness about the Asian war.

In Duncan's runaway victory Tuesday over peace candidate Howard Morgan, advocates of the U.S. stance in South Viet Nam could find at least a partial answer to the Republican report.

May refuse diverted ships

MONTREAL (CP)—An order is expected to go out from the New York headquarters of the International Longshoremen's Association (AFL - CIO) today ordering all longshoremen in North America to refuse to handle ships diverted from the ports of Montreal, Quebec and Trois-Rivieres.

The Quebec local of the ILA voted Tuesday night to reject a slate of proposals submitted Saturday by federal mediator Judge Rene Lippe. The other five locals involved in the strike rejected the proposals earlier Tuesday.

Longshoremen in the ports of Sept-Iles, Que., 300 miles northeast of Quebec, and at Port Cartier, Que., 280 miles northwest of Quebec, informed the ILA Tuesday they would refuse to handle diverted ships.

Judge Lippe's proposals, accepted by the Shipping Federation of Canada Tuesday, provide for a one-year contract and an immediate 25-cents-an-hour pay increase. Ten cents would be retroactive to Jan. 1, when the last contract expired.

Opposition leader to visit Sherbrooke as campaign in full swing

Revision of his speaking program, announced last night, will bring Union Nationale Leader Daniel Johnson to Sherbrooke next Monday evening, May 30.

The Opposition Leader will address a regional rally at the Belvedere Street armory in support of the UN candidate in Sherbrooke, Raynald Frechette, and of candidates in the surrounding constituencies.

It was in the same building that Premier Jean Lesage opened the Liberal campaign on May 1.

With Monday's visit by Mr. Johnson, leaders of all four principal parties in the current campaign will have held meetings in Sherbrooke.

In addition to Premier Lesage, the Ralliement Nationale joint chiefs, Dr. Rene Jutras and Laurent Legault, met the electors in a meeting at Ste. Jeanne d'Arc hall two weeks ago and the RIN leader, Pierre Bourgault, is to hold a rally tomorrow night in the same hall supporting his candidate in Sherbrooke, Pierre Brault.

Indications that the June 5 general election campaign is entering its final phases are seen in the sudden rush of major meetings scheduled by various parties for the next few days.

In addition to the visits to Sherbrooke by Messrs. Johnson and Bourgault, the Liberals have two major gatherings scheduled before the weekend.

Tomorrow night Revenue Minister Richard Hyde will address a meeting for English-speaking electors in the Bury Town Hall in the interests of Andre Gagnon, Liberal candidate in Compton, and Friday evening Municipal Affairs Minister Piere Laporte will be at the St. Francis School, Bowen Avenue South, supporting Labor Minister Carrier Fortin seeking re-election in Sherbrooke.

LAFRANCE MAY QUIT CABINET

The Liberal party offers Quebec the most dynamic and complete program, but sometimes it moves too fast for him, particularly in the field of education, Emilien Lafrance, minister without portfolio and Liberal candidate in Richmond, has told his electors at several local rallies held throughout the county.

For this reason he will probably refuse to accept a cabinet post if he is re-elected June 5.

He said that he has "difficulty accepting some passages of the Parent (Royal Commission) report" on Quebec education.

Speaking of the denominational school system now in effect in the province, he said:

"I will fight to the death for denominationalism. It is impossible to be happy without moral and spiritual values."

An active supporter of the temperance movement, Mr. Lafrance reportedly was at odds with his cabinet colleagues last year over the moderation of

PLAY REVEALS SOUTH'S SKILL

Oswald says: "Here is a problem for you, Jim, I sat in back of South. I had never seen him before. His play to trick two told me that he was an excellent card player. What were his plays to tricks one and two?"

Jim: "That really isn't much of a problem. There are certain card combinations that cry out for one and only one correct play and South was looking at one of those combinations in the diamond suit. Therefore he must have led the five or six of diamonds from dummy at trick two and stuck in the nine spot after East played low. Of course, he must have won the spade lead in dummy as a preliminary."

Opening lead—♠ Q.

Oswald: "This play produced three diamond tricks for South and since he had nine top tricks in the other three suits it gave him his slam. Of course, South was lucky to find East with exactly three diamonds to an honor but he had followed the principle of giving the cards a chance and they had rewarded him."

Jim: "Even without the good diamond break South might make the hand. Assuming a spade continuation he would run off five club tricks and discard a spade and heart from dummy. After this a squeeze might have developed."

Oswald: "Six no-trump was an optimistic contract. North hcld only 12 high card points and in view of his 4-3-3-3 distribution might well have settled for three no-trump instead of inviting the slam."

Jim: "There is one interesting feature of the bidding. When this particular North bid four no-trump he was merely giving a strong bid in no-trump and not using Blackwood."

47th anniversary is celebrated by Sherbrooke's Rotary members

Last night the Sherbrooke Rotary Club celebrated its 47th anniversary, and guests were present from the Rotary Clubs of Montreal, Newport and the Boundary to help in festivities.

Guest speaker was Rotarian Bart Holtham, a Sherbrooke member who is the senior past president active in club affairs today, having joined the club in 1930.

Mr. Holtham talked on the Sherbrooke Rotary Club in retrospect and perspective. "Our club was founded only 14 years after the first Rotary International was founded in Chicago in 1905", he said.

He said that there were many clubs formed long before Rotary Clubs, mentioning the Order of Good Cheer formed by Samuel de Champlain in Annapolis Royal in 1608 and a club formed by Benjamin Franklin in Philadelphia's early days.

Mr. Holtham told members that they are indebted to the early 17 charter members who formed the Sherbrooke Club back on May 22, 1919.

These same members are remembered in the club today with their sons or other close relatives now members, he said. He said he thought the Sherbrooke Rotary Club should have a club room where these charter members would have their names inscribed somewhere for all to see.

In the early days of many Rotary Clubs, they groped around for things to do, but the Sherbrooke club was quite active in the early days with the formation of a child welfare clinic in April 1923, and a base ball team in July of that same year, he recalled.

He told the other members of the Rotary Clubs present that if they haven't started something to record the history of their club that they should do so soon.

He also reminisced about the time that a collection of $900 was taken from members at one gathering, in aid of the boys home at Shawbridge. "This was in a time when $900 was $900," he said.

Mr. Holtham closed his talk with a view on the future of Rotary, and said that to stand still is to go backward. "Let us continue our efforts toward youth, he said and their training in respect for the law and the making of good citizens".

Mr. Holtham was introduced by Doug Stevenson and thanked by Jim Wark. Other head table guests were Bill Richardson, Dr. C. L. Chafee President of the Newport Rotary Club; Paul Cote, president of the Montreal Rotary Club; Herb Simons, Hawley Griffith; Alden Peacock, president of the Boundary Rotary Club; and Sherbrooke club President Clarence Blake.

19th century local government said shifting to modern needs

"Ontario and Quebec are in the process of planning for some adjustment of the 19th century pattern of local government to meet the needs of the second half of the 20th century", said Hans Carol of the Department of Geography, at York University in Toronto, as he addressed the convention of the Canadian Association of Geographers, at the University of Sherbrooke yesterday.

The university is hosting the convention as part of the Learned Societies of Canada's 39 association and group meetings to be held from May 23 to June 18.

Mr. Carol said the change in the framework of regional economic development and later on possibly regional government requires assistance from many fields of the social sciences, economics, sociology and geography.

The various attempts during the last decade to divide Canada into "economic zones" in 1953 and 1954 have found a fairly wide application, particularly in Ontario and Quebec, he said.

The economic regions were an attempt to assemble the most effective compilation of factors essential for analysis, including the production and industrial patterns, market relationship and general economic determinants, such as the extent of resources and seasonability and secular trends.

He said that ARDA's agricultural land capability classification which appears to be near completion, would, he thinks, substantiate the claim that there are great differences in the arrangement of the natural resources, the one factor which accounts for a great variation in the economic potential and the distribution of the actual population.

If we had the time to examine other structural features such as forestry, outdoor recreation or mining, we could hardly overlook the fact that structural units tend to be characterized by long east to west bands and would not be bound by north to south running boundaries, as indicated for the economic region, he said.

The speaker then went on to give the gathering a few examples of how the province of Ontario is handling the regional problem.

"How little the economic regions are geared to depict the socio-economic reality of Ontario, he said, is also brought to light by the fact that for the purpose of statistical computation, no more than ten regions were acceptable". This might not matter if these regions were used only for analytical-statistical purposes, but it becomes intolerable if such regions are imposed upon a human community.

Council to inspect city hall models

Mayor and city councillors will meet next week Monday with architects to discuss the proposed city hall.

The meeting is set with the architects for about 3:30 p.m. The architects will bring with them a series of models, one of which is to be chosen by council.

Mayor Nadeau hinted that he favours a high towering structure, like in Toronto.

The mayor, upon announcing that he would like to meet with the architects, gave a short press conference in his office. Mr. Nadeau said that he would like things to be ready for construction at the beginning of 1967. He said other cities are building large and impressive structures, and so should Sherbrooke.

The mayor said that the employees at the city hall cannot work properly because of cramped and inadequate conditions.

The proposed city hall will also house the police headquarters presently located on Marquette street along with the fire department. If the new city hall is built, the fire department is to get the complete use of the old building.

The mayor said that he wanted the police to be relocated as soon as possible. "They (police) are in an unacceptable condition" he said.

A public lavatory in Dufresne park will be built according to the plans already in existence for other chalets, said Ald. Antonio Pinard. He said there would be no need to hire an architect to design the place.

At last week's council meeting one of the aldermen stated that an architect would be necessary. An editorial in The Sherbrooke Daily Record pointed out that existing plans could be used for the building of the new lavatory.

The editorial suggested that tax money be saved by using existing plans.

Building inspector Normand Gauthier had received a complaint from Mrs. Jeannine Levesque, of 178 Murray, that the house of her neighbor, Miss Anna Simoneau, of 174 Murray, was about to come apart.

Mrs. Levesque complained to Mr. Gauthier stating that the bricks on the outside wall continuously fall down on her own property. Mrs. Levesque said that she did not like her children to play in the rubble especially in her own yard. Council decided an architect, a general contractor and the building inspector should visit the house and reach a decision

City council will allow the Junior Chambers of Commerce to locate their information booth at the entrance to the city for but one year.

The building does not confirm to the building laws. It is a temporary building rather than a permanent one council was told. Certain aldermen did not like the outside of the booth but because of the aim of the project, council approved of it.

City council gave special approval last night for the covering of the outside of the former J. S. Mitchell building on Wellington Street with green a metal shell. The new shell will jut out three quarters of an inch outside the building line. Special permission was also given to allow this.

Champlain Gasoline at 363 Galt Street were given permission last night by city council to move their pumps five feet outside of the sidewalk limits.

Bylaws state that the pumps must be at least 15 feet away from the sidewalk.

Because of the widening of Galt Street the request was granted.

The City council will send a representatives to the Association of Cities and Towns of the St. Francis District which will hold its general meeting in East Angus on Thursday.

Public notices will be placed in local newspapers concerning the types of food stuffs that are permitted to be sold on the public market.

A report indicated that groceries, such as mayonnaise, peas, beans, and marmalades, chocolates, peanuts and chop suey were sold at the market on May 13, the day of the inquiry.

Farm products, wood crafts, and meat are the only items to be sold at the market, according to the city's bylaws.

A request to hold open air evangelical services in Sherbrooke was turned down by city council last night. A group sought permission to preach in Victoria Park, St. Francis Street South, Jacques Cartier Park, and Dufresne Park.

Five awards made to Sherbrooke Jaycees

Five awards were presented to the Sherbrooke Junior Chamber of Commerce during the annual provincial congress at Lac Beauport from May 20 to 22.

The highest honor a member may receive, Junior Chamber International Senator, was presented to Gerry Winslow by Jaycees National Vice-President JCI Senator Jim Mitchell. Mr. Winslow is one of the founding members of the unit five years ago and was president in 1963-64.

Roll the Tanker Award was also received for the best educational program by which Sherbrooke aimed to put more enthusiasm back into Jaycees by having units visit each other in Quebec and present their programs.

Committee of the Month Award was also presented to Sherbrooke Unit for the presentation and success in The Provincial Ball which was held in Sherbrooke last November.

Jaycee of the Year Award was extended to Sherbrooke's newly elected President Richard Bean for his outstanding work towards the Jaycee movement during the last year.

Past President Doug Fletcher also received an Exhausted Roosters award for outstanding work for the unit during the past year.

The Congress held last weekend was the sixteenth of its kind and was sponsored this year by the Quebec City Jaycee Unit.

North Ascot to obtain city water

The municipality of North Ascot announced last night in a note to Sherbrooke city council that it is willing to accept the city's offer to supply water and sewer service to the area.

Costs of construction are to be paid by the municipality of North Ascot. The work is under the supervision of the city of Sherbrooke's engineers.

New or additional pipes can only be installed with the permission of the City of Sherbrooke.

Upkeep and repairs to the pipes are to be paid by Ascot North.

The main pipe off the city's Lake Memphremagog water pipe line to Ascot North will contain a counter which will give the total cost of the water used. A price was yet to be set.

Quebec again establishes record

Residents of Quebec province did themselves well over the Queen's Birthday holiday, with 39 accidental deaths being reported throughout the province — a record for the past 14 years.

The tragic showing will bring expressions of horror and concern from government officials, safety crusaders and individual citizens alike.

For a few days solemn resolutions will be made that the slaughter will not be repeated over the St. John the Baptist Day and Dominion Day weekends. Everyone will solemnly pledge that the law will be obeyed and enforced, that every safety precaution will be taken, to assure that the coming holidays have happier results.

But like the morning-after resolutions of the New Year period, these long-time pledges will only last a very short time, probably the next fine week-end.

Safety groups will continue their warning against careless driving on the highway, against swimming and bathing in unknown waters. But to most people they will be meant for somebody else.

Police officials will seek to enforce the laws against speeding and reckless driving but their numbers are insufficient to guarantee general respect for the law, especially by those who have no respect for their own lives or the rights of others.

In too many cases, traffic law enforcement becomes something of a game of hide-and-seek between determined law defiers and the police. Laws are strictly obeyed when a patrol car is in sight but when the officers go about other duties all precautions are thrown to the wind.

The answer: We dont know. Education has been tried. Strict enforcement has been tried, but unfortunately there are not enough officers available to efficiently patrol the Quebec highway system.

Maybe common sense would help.

Changing world dooms old church

Decision to demolish the 160-year-old Cassville United Church on Highway Five near Ayer's Cliff will cause feelings of deep regret among those who are interested in the preservation of historical sites and monuments in this province.

But regrettable as the decision may have been — and probably none are more deeply distressed than the trustees who were forced to make the decision — the case for its removal is almost unassailable.

Heavy capital expenditures would be required if the building were to be restored to the point where it was safe as a public edifice. Obviously the funds required are not now available and the trustees justifiably feel that with the many other demands being made upon the public for religious, historical and welfare needs a fund-raising campaign would only place an additional burden upon the church supporters.

The disappearance of an historical monument it to be regretted and any building that has weathered 160 years in the Canadian climate is deserving of the title of an historical monument.

But there is a limit to the amount of public assistance that can be expected for the preservation of buildings which have outlived their usefulness.

The Stanstead County Historical Society has done valuable work in preserving the old brick school house in the same area and its members, many of whom are connected with the old Cassville Church realize the practical problems connected with the preservation and rehabilitation of these old structures.

The Christian Church is, or should be, a living organism, prepared to meet changing conditions, curtailing its activities where it can no longer serve a useful purpose and extending its facilities where the needs increase. To achieve this purpose it must make the best use of the financial and physical resources available to it. This means that where a congregation can be better served by using the facilities of a neighboring congregation, obsolete structures must be abandoned, however unpleasant the decision may be.

Hansard reports a dramatic incident

Hansard, that sometimes drab publication which covers the debates of the House of Commons, generally underplays even the most dramatic events of the day. It serves strictly as a record of what is said, seldom commenting on anything that occurs.

But on Wednesday, May 18, it went out of its way to be sensational with an editor's note during a statement by Labor Minister Nicholson to the effect "At this point a loud explosion was heard in the Chamber."

Then it solemnly returned to recording the arguments including a later complaint by former Justice Minister Davie Fulton that it was difficult to hear in the Chamber because of the noise in the corridors. Also it reported that an MP arose on a question of privilege to report that all doctors in the House had been requested to go outside because their services were needed immediately.

Ordinary debate proceeded for several pages until the Opposition Leader Diefenbaker suggested that because someone had just passed away in the precints of the House it might be worthwhile for the session to adjourn for 55 minutes.

A straight-faced Prime Minister accepted the suggestion with the comment that a bomb had been exploded in a washroom, a man killed under circumstances that were unclear and that there was some natural confusion.

What good is Jane Scott's tommy rot?

Dear Sir:

In reference to Jane Scott's column of Saturday, May 21, 1966.

Why, why, why do we have to be plagued and nagged by sentimental, self-righteous 'smart-alecism' parading under the name of piety from a smug woman who is not required to state particular facts — if she has them. Certainly she could get one or two instances of the things she chooses to see. But what is the percentage of drunks to sober folk — even on Saturday night?

The very fact of publishing this reactionary tommy rot in a prominent place on a regular basis implies that the paper concurs with it. After a while it gets hard to take. What good does it do except to re-inforce atomistic self-righteousness?

TODAY IN HISTORY

Charles II landed at Dover 306 years ago today—in 1660—and arrived in London foor days later to claim the crown. After his father's execotion by the Commonwealth, Charles had been crowned king in Scotland in 1651 but his army was defeated at Worcester the same year and he was a fugitive for 44 days, with a 11,000 price on his head, before escaping to France. He was summoned back to England when parliamentary leaders feared the Commonwealth, after Cromwell's death, would become a military dictatorship.

First World War

Fifty years ago today—in 1916—British units in German East Africa advanced, occupying Neu Langenberg; conscription in Britain was extended to married men; the German government took over all food supplies.

Second World War

Twenty - five years ago today — in 1941 — King George II of Greece fled from Crete to Cairo; RAF aircraft destroyed 30 German transport aircraft over Crete; British aircraft searched the north Atlantic for the battleship Bismarck.

The PRAYER FOR TODAY FROM The Upper Room

"Let your light so shine before men, that they may see your good works and give glory to your Father who is in heaven." (Matthew 5:16, RSV).

PRAYER: O Lord, may my every word, my every moment be a reflection of Thy love which is within me. In the name of the living Christ I pray. Amen.

Uncle Sam's big stick

US weapon in price line war multi-billion-dollar stockpile

By RICHARD ROBERTS

THE United States Government carries a big stick in its efforts to hold the price line—a huge stockpile of strategic materials.

Soon after World War II the U.S. began building large stores of key metals and other strategic materials as a defence measure.

By the end of last year this stockpile totaled about 52 million short tons of materials purchased by the U.S. Government at a cost of $8 billion. These materials, stored at 154 locations in 38 states, have an estimated current market value of $7.8 billion.

The Defense Materials Service of the General Services Administration is responsible for managing and maintaining this vast U.S. stockpile.

PRESSURE

In five years of a buoyant economy, stimulated by the stepped-up war in Vietnam, U.S. industrial plants have been worked to capacity, material shortages in some areas have developed and there has been pressure for higher prices.

Worried by this trend to inflation — which, incidentally, would have a strong impact on the Canadian economy — the U.S. Government asked industry to keep the lid on prices.

During the past several months the U.S. Government has stepped into the ring three times to ask industry to roll back announced price increases. U.S. copper and aluminum producers rescinded price increases at the request of their country's government and U.S. steel producers modified their price rises.

The tightest situation is copper. In November U.S. producers dropped their announced two-cent price rise following the U.S. Administration's decision to release 200,000 tons of copper from the stockpile.

Subsequently, the U.S. (and Canada) clamped export controls on the metal and in March announced decision to sell a further 200,000 tons from the stockpile.

In a 38-page booklet, the U.S. reveals that of the total inventory of strategic stores, about $3.7 billion worth, at current market value, is now in excess of the Government's requirements and is for sale.

Among the stores available for sale is a wide range of metals, minerals, ores, rubber and other raw material, including castor oil.

The booklet, which may be obtained by writing to General Services Administration, Defense Materials Service, 18th and F sts., n.w., Washington, D.C., describes 18 items for sale and lists a further 17.

These items include tungsten, tin, zinc, colombium, lead, asbestos, and other materials. Along with the description of the materials, the booklet shows their location, quantity, potential uses, how stored, and sales and delivery terms. A number of the items listed are used in high temperature alloys associated with space travel.

In the 17 listed but not described items are bauxite, from which aluminum is made, cadmium, shellac, mica and titanium sponge. (TNS)

Rice, wheat milk powder

Hungry Indians line up for food

SINAPALI, India (Reuters)—Some 1,000 emaciated children, women and old men gathered in a shady grove here for a meal of gruel made from rice, American wheat and milk powder.

They squat in lines, patiently waiting for the gruel to be ladled into their bowls—many of which are just leaves crudely stitched together.

Indian social workers supervise the boiling of the gruel in big earthen pitchers placed over fires in troughs of hard, dry earth.

It seems cool here, but a pocket thermometer reads 105 Fahrenheit.

All around the sun blazes down on bare ricefields, where a few yellow stalks wave languidly in the hot, dry wind.

Sinapali village and some neighboring communities were the areas worst hit by lack of rain in last year's monsoon—there was just no crop in the area, which normally produces a surplus.

As medical workers move along the lines handing out a single vitamin B tablet to each person, a mother limply draws her skimpy sari over her empty breast, while her tiny baby—its huge skull-like head supported by her shoulder—claws blindly at her with spindly fingers.

ASK FOR FOOD

Other children, with matchlike limbs and pot bellies from advanced malnutrition, squat there gazing mutely and unmoving at a visitor. Some women or men summon enough energy to throw themselves prostrate in the dust at the visitor's feet—often they say nothing, sometimes they ask for a bit of cloth or a bowl for their food rations.

Nearly 50 feeding centres now are being run by social service organizations in this afflicted area of Orissa's Kalahandi district, where some 270,000 people have been affected by the drought.

In nearby Bhela village, social worker S. C. Maharana has started a home for abandoned children.

Nineteen poor little waifs found by roadsides and in fields are being cared for there.

"Their parents had left them," Maharana said, adding "we are feeding them and the Indian Red Cross will give funds to educate them."

New Canadians, combined with the Eastern Townships artists and craftsmen, brought an outstanding art and craft exhibit to the Gertrude Scott Hall in Lennoxville yesterday afternoon and evening, as the Women's Federation of the Lennoxville United Church presented its second annual exhibition.

Portraits by the famous European artist S. I. E. Elfinger, wrought iron work by Eilif Olsen, Danish born proprietor of Brome Wrought Iron Works and paintings by students of the Lennoxville art class, were special features of the demonstration.

NORTH HATLEY -- On May 18 at her home in North Hatley, Mrs. Paige Kezar was hostess at a surprise farewell party in honor of her daughter-in-law, Mrs. Russell Kezar, who, with her daughter Jeaneke, is sailing for Holland, on May 29th, to spend three months visiting her mother and other relatives.

TWENTY YEARS AGO

(From the Record of Saturday May 25, 1946)

W. G. MacDougall, chairman of the agricultural committee of the E.T.A.A., stated today tht competitors from all sections of Quebec province were expected to take part in the beef cattle exhibits at Sherbrooke's fair on August 24 to 30. The beef cattle class is open to the province in view of the fact there is no such division at the Quebec fair and for several years now the officers of the Quebec Department of Agriculture have asked the E.T.A.A. to include this section in its exhibition program. It was explained today that the cattle classes for Ayrshire, Holstein, Jersey and Canadian cattle breeds will be restricted to the twelve counties of the Eastern Townships. The beef cattle open to the province, includes Shorthorn, Hereford, Angus and Brown Swiss.

Safeguards few, but...

That's the risk of public life

By FRANK TUMPANE

A man described by his landlady as completely normal tried to blow up the House of Commons and killed himself in the attempt.

Of course, the man wasn't normal at all; he was mentally ill, an unfortunate wretch who suffered from delusions of persecution and who nurtured his grievances, storing them until they burst into the violence that ended all his earthly troubles.

The demented man deserves our pity and not our censure, but his act raises again the question of how to protect public men in a democratic society.

In totalitarian states, the problem is solved by the corps of palace guards and secret police who sever contact with the public. In free states, we do not do things that way, nor would most of us desire them to be done that way.

The fact is that there is no way --- short of the iron discipline of totalitarianism --- of preventing madmen from reaching the open legislatures of free societies. An incident like the one of last Wednesday shocks Canadians all the more because Canada has been comparatively free of public violence.

No Canadian Prime Minister has ever been assassinated, nor has any British Prime Minister suffered that fate, even though that country's parliamentary history has endured for hundreds of years longer than ours.

By contrast, four Presidents of the United States have been killed by assassins, that country has a tradition of violence; it was founded by revolution and its history has been marked by frontier, industrial and criminal turbulence of a degree that has been lacking in Canada.

Of the four presidential assassins, John Wilkes Booth who killed Lincoln was an unbalanced conspirator; Charles Guiteau who shot Garfield was a disgruntled office-seeker; Leon Czolgosz, the assassin of McKinley, was a mad anarchist; Lee Harvey Oswald, the killer of President Kennedy, was a man with a long history of mental and emotional instability.

If a man such as any of these had taken it into his mind to assassinate a Prime Minister of Canada, only good luck or a bad aim would have prevented execution of the deed.

We cannot shield our public men from the public they serve, nor do I believe we should try to make the effort. The risk they assume is part of their duties, and it is a risk they cannot avoid.

That may seem like a hard-boiled attitude, but in my view the benefits derived from a free encounter between the elected and the electors more than counterbalance the possible perils that may be visited on the public men.

That doesn't mean the police, the guards and the other security officers should not exercise as much vigilance as they possibly can. But it is almost impossible to stop an assassin, provided the assassin has access to his victim or victims, and provided he is willing to sacrifice his own life to carry out his demented scheme.

The bomb that exploded in the washroom near the House of Commons did not demonstrate the existence of any group dedicated to open violence in this country. All it showed was that lunatics are capable of mad and violent acts.

Canada has been remarkably free of that type of incident all through her history and I believe the best course is to act on the assumption she will continue to be free of them. (TNS)

Miller, Kyling appear on charges involving robbery

By PAUL WATERS
(Record Staff Reporter)

SWEETSBURG WARD — Philip Miller went before Court here for his preliminary hearing on a charge of armed robbery in connection with the September 29, 1964 holdup at the Imperial Bank of Commerce at Sutton.

One of the major witnesses in the crown's case against Miller was Karl Kyling, who also appeared before Judge P. E. Delaney for a preliminary hearing into a charge of theft in connection with the same bank robbery.

Kyling allegedly was the driver of the robbers' get-away car.

The first witness called by the prosecution was Gilmore Graham, who was manager of the bank at the time of the robbery. Mr. Graham is now retired.

Mr. Graham told the Court that at about 2:20 a.m. on the afternoon of September 29, 1964, the bank was held up by two masked men, one of whom was armed with a shotgun and the other with a revolver.

The retired bank manager said it was impossible because of the face-masks to identify the robbers, although he added one of them was quite short. Miller is five feet five inches.

He said that the shorter of the two masked bandits, armed with a revolver, entered his office, while the other remained in the bank proper and held the staff at bay with his shotgun.

He said that he and his staff were lined up against the wall and that the robbers escaped with exactly $3,546.69.

Mr. Graham was backed up in his story by Mrs. Beverly Watson, who is a cashier at the bank. She too told the Court that it was impossible to identify the men because of the masks.

However, she testified that Miller was about the same height as the shorter of the two robbers.

The third witness to appear was Mrs. Elizabeth Jacques who was at the time of the alleged robbery a cashier at the Jean-Paul Beaudry's Meat Market which is situated immediately across the road from the Imperial Bank of Commerce in Sutton.

She said that at the time of the robbery she had just returned from her lunch hour and happened to glance out the window to see a car drive up to the bank with three men in it.

She said that two of the men, both wearing masks, jumped out of the car and ran into the bank while the third remained in the car. A few minutes later, the two men rushed out again and took off in the car.

Miller was ordered to appear before the next session of the assizes for the Bedford District Court next October.

Rivard questioned on discovery of two bodies

MONTREAL— (CP) —Inspector Richard Masson of the provincial police said Tuesday two detectives and a Crown prosecutor have been in Atlanta, Ga., to question the imprisoned Lucien Rivard in connection with the discovery of two bodies near Piedmont, Que., May 11.

All possible leads had to be checked, said Insp. Masson.

Rivard is serving 20 years in federal penitentiary at Atlanta after being found guilty last year by a United States court of charges connected with dope smuggling.

Paquette, 44, was implicated in a $1,400,000 mail-truck hold up in Montreal two years ago. Miss Rioux was 24.

Norway slides shown to hospital patients

WATERLOO — (Special) — Miss Alice Johannsen, director of the Redpath and McCord Museums of McGill University, showed about 100 slides to a delighted audience of patients at Waterlooo Convalescent Hospital on Wednesday, May 18.

The slides showed a trip taken by Miss Johannsen and her father, Herman Johannsen, last summer through the Norwegian countryside. Mr. Johannsen, who is 91, wanted to tour the Norway he knew as a boy. Most of the five week trip was made on foot over difficult terrain.

Those patients who were not bedridden, 17 in all, enjoyed seeing the beautiful sights. They were especially appreciative because they knew the Johannsens had driven all the way from Montreal to spend a few hours bringng a little color into the lives of the old folks at the hospital.

E. Lionel Judah, a patient at the hospital, told Miss Johannsen on one of her visits to him, that he would enjoy seeing the slides she had taken. It was then that she decided to bring the pictures out here for all the patients to enjoy.

Alice Johannsen and Mr. Judah have been friends ever since he as secretary of the Museums Committee helped Miss Johannsen as a student. Lionel Judah retired in 1939 but has remained good friends with Miss Johannsen over the years.

A writer's notes

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—Things a columnist might never know if he didn't open his mail:

Although many people complain modern life is a big fat yawn, some 13,000,000 Americans each night find it difficult to go to sleep. . . . About 6,000,000 solve the problem by taking sleeping pills or capsules.

How far can you swim? . . . Midget deer can paddle three or four miles without tiring—and carrying a full head of antlers, too.

New and interesting: Science is working on a blood pressure drug made from octopuses. . . . A motor car has about 35 pounds of plastic. . . . Researchers are working on a new technique to speed the recovery of stroke victims by providing them with more oxygen.

Those good old days: Delmonico's restaurant in 1834 printed the first menu in the U.S. . . . Among the prices: Cup of tea or coffee, one cent; bowl of soup, two cents; hash, three cents; half a pie, two cents; beef steak, four cents, roast chicken, 10 cents; regular dinner, 12 cents. . . . Presumably the tooth picks were free.

Worth remembering: "If you don't learn from your mistakes, there's no sense making them."

Folklore: If it thunders while a hen is hatching, her chicks will be born daft. . . . Hold a pin between your teeth while peeling onions and it will keep you from crying. . . . Spit on someone's new shoes and he will never be unhappy wherever he wears them. . . . You'll have bad luck if you ride to a funeral behind a white horse.

It was the Duc de Talleyrand who observed, "Only a man who has loved a woman of genius can appreciate what happiness there is in loving a fool."

Eskimo girls excited over school in south

PANGNIRTUNG, N.W.T. (CP)—Three eight-year-old Eskimo girls leave this Baffin Island community this summer to attend school in Petite Riviere, N.S., near Lunenburg.

Jeanne Mike, Leesee Komartuk and Rosie Mettogolak are quite excited about the prospects and are looking forward especially to cutting down their own Christmas tree next December.

The girls will be under the care of Helen Wiltshire, a British-born teacher who has taught in northern schools for the last 12 years.

Miss Wiltshire retires this year and will take up residence on a small farm in Petite Riviere. The children will accompany her under a government program which has sent a number of Eskimo youngsters to school in the south.

The children, usually among the brightest in their communities, are put in the care of people who have been in the North and who can provide a suitable home.

A sum of money is paid by the government for room and board and any tuition fees.

Children have been placed in schools in Ottawa, Winnipeg and other centres under the plan.

A government spokesman said the plan is working out quite well. Little publicity has been released for fear of upsetting the children.

Miss Wiltshire says her girls should fit into life in Nova Scotia quite well. All three read and speak English well.

Their parents must agree in writing before the children can leave home.

Mrs. Madeline McClary, Terrebonne, spent the weekend at her home here.

The Ladies' Guild is holding a meat pie dinner at noon on May 25 in the Guild Hall.

Marauding dogs cut down sheep

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld. (CP)—Resources Minister W. J. Keough says marauding dogs have been mainly responsible for dropping Newfoundland's sheep population from 90,000 to 30,000 in recent years

The minister ran into a lot of sentiment from among dog lovers, particularly those among the Progressive Conservative opposition, when the legislature began debating a dog licensing amendment.

One member said his family had a dog which while not of faultless pedigree would not be traded for all the sheep in his district.

Another member resented a section of the act which would allow authorized persons to shoot unlicensed dogs whether they are at large or not.

AUUW group holds meeting at Derby Line

DERBY LINE — Mrs. Richard McLeod was hostess on May 17 for the Universalist Church AUUW group. Mrs. Margaret Searles conducted the devotional period.

The knitted slippers made by the members have been delivered to the childrens' ward of Broadview Hospital, Newport.

Tentative plans were made for a banquet to close the season. When arrangements are definite the members will be notified.

Mrs. Mabeline Newton, Newport, was a guest and displayed novelties she had made, from odds and ends, into attractive items, giving the group many ideas.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. McLeod.

About Television

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP)—The television program which has caused more glowing talk than any other of the last season, CBS' fine production of Death of a Salesman, wound up in the latest national Nielsen ratings report in the 63rd position in a list of 106 programs

It achieved a rating of 15.5 and, in that popularity list was nestled between CBS' My Favorite Martian and Lassie.

On the same list, NBC's Bonanza, in first place, had a rating almost twice as large.

Other shows in Nielsen's top 10 were, in the following order, CBS' Beverly Hillbillies, Red Skelton Show, The Lucy Show, The Andy Griffith Show, Green Acres, ABC's Bewitched, CBS' special The Magic of Broadcasting, NBC's The Man from U.N.C.L.E., and the Dick Van Dyke Show.

However, Death of a Salesman was a serious, two-hour special dramatic presentation, and the television ratings system has consistently shown one thing over the seasons—that the public's preference is for comedy and action-adventure.

NBC already is at work on an hour-long program about the wedding of Luci Baines Johnson and Patrick Nugent. It will be broadcast on the day of the wedding, Saturday, Aug. 6, complete with shots of the ceremony itself.

The special will show details of the preparations — White House decorations, food, writing of invitations, the bride's choice of china and silver, and include shots of pre-wedding parties.

Mrs. Macmillan gave the report for the treasurer, which showed that the recent Gardeners' supper and sale had been very successful socially and financially. Mrs. D. Bellam, the president, thanked those who participated and helped make it a success.

A number of ladies had helped to paint the hall, and a vote of thanks was expressed for their work and interest in the project.

An art exhibit, sale and entertainment was planned for the afternoon and evening of July 8th in the church hall.

A list of names was drawn up for ladies to be responsible for placing flowers in the church on Sundays.

GENERAL NOTES

Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Hodge and two children have gone to Stewiake, N.S., to attend the funeral of Mrs. Hodge's mother, Mrs. Robert Pollock.

OPPOSITION LEADER

the liquor laws against the sale of liquor on Sundays.

At that time he held the post of minister of family and social welfare and it was generally believed that he would resign from the cabinet because of his differences with other members of the administration.

When the cabinet was reorganized by Premier Lesage Oct. 14, 1965, Mr. Lafrance was replaced as welfare minister by Rene Levesque but was retained as minister without portfolio.

Frequently during the campaign he has told his listeners that he will continue the fight he has long waged against alcoholism which he started when "I was in opposition to (the late Premier) Maurice Duplessis."

Mr. Lafrance, MLA for Richmond since 1952 and victor in the 1962 election by 2,703 votes, is being opposed by Dr. Lucien Bachand, UN, and Andre Bergeron, RN.

WOULD AVERT STRIKES

Raynald Frechette, UN candidate in Sherbrooke, invaded the textile workers district of the West Ward last night addressing some 400 people at a rally in Ste. Jeanne d'Arc parish hall.

Mr. Frechette, who has acted as attorney for the textile syndicate during the current strike, condemned his opponent, Labor Minister Carrier Fortin, for his mishandling of the dispute.

He said the labor minister had shown lack of leadership by his policy of non-intervention.

"The labor minister," he said, "has made much of his success in settling a strike of 200 workers of a local construction firm but has done nothing towards settling the textile strike which affects 2,800 workers in Sherbrooke."

Mr. Frechette declared that the Union Nationale favored a redrafting of the labor code in a manner to prevent strikes before they started rather than settle them after the work stoppage occurred.

The UN, he said, would create a tripartite commission representing employers, employees and the state, which would take a hand in negotiations at the outset. By this policy, it might be possible to work out a solution before tempers became strained.

For 90 minutes the audience was regaled to a discourse on constitutional problems by Maurice Allard, Independent PC MP for Sherbrooke.

Solutions proposed by the RIN — complete independence of Quebec—and the RN — the two state theory — were ruled out as impractical.

The rest of Canada, said Mr. Allard, would not accept a constitutional amendment permitting Quebec to withdraw and unilateral action by Quebec might result in civil war.

Similarly, the RN two-state theory and their rather fuzzy economic and fiscal doctrines, could not be accepted by Canada as a whole.

Both Liberals and UN were agreed that a revision of the constitution to meet the particular needs of Quebec was essential, Mr. Allard said, and he believed the interests of Quebec could better be protected by a strictly provincial party—the Union Nationale—than by a satellite of the federal Liberal party.

Golf club holds opening supper

MELBOURNE — (Special) — Plans were made at the spring meeting of the ladies' division of the BelleView Golf Club to hold the opening supper of the club on May 28 from 5 to 7 p.m.

A two-ball foursome will be played in the afternoon starting at 1:30 p.m.

A dance, with orchestra, will start at 9:30 p.m.

ROLL-OUT CEREMONY — The first train of a rapid transit system for Expo 67 was "rolled out" Tuesday at the Fort William, Ont., plant of Hawker-Siddley Ltd. The train, pushed out on powerless tracks, will be delivered to Expo in July for trial runs in August. The rapid transit system, covering 7½ miles of track, will be the first with automatic train controls anywhere in North America. (CP Wirephoto)

O'KEEFE PRO-PRESS TOURNEY AT BELOEIL CLUB, MAY 30

A field of 145 golfers has been announced for the 9th annual O'Keefe Pro-Press golf tournament, Monday, May 30, at Beloeil Golf Club.

All foursomes in the tournament are scheduled to tee off simultaneously at 10:30 a.m., on all 18 holes around the Beloeil course.

Considered as the Quebec golf season's traditional opening event, the Pro-Press competition brings together members of the Canadian Professional Golfers Association of Quebec and sports editors, broadcasters, golf writers and commentators from throughout the province.

Each year the Pro-Press is scheduled during the same week and on the same course as the Provincial Spring Open, permitting the Quebec pros a competitive workout prior to the first official tournament on the season calendar. The 1966 Spring Open is at Beloeil on Friday, June 3.

As the major sponsor of both amateur and professional golf activities in Quebec, the O'Keefe Brewing Co. Ltd. uses the Pro-Press tournament to announce their annual competition schedule. Details of this year's O'Keefe golf circuit will be revealed to the press and the pros at a reception and dinner to be held at the brewery's Salle de Gaspe, at 6 p.m., immediately following the Beloeil tournament.

CAHA clamps down on Oil Kings, junior age limit raised to 21

MONTREAL (CP) — Edmonton Oil Kings, this year's top Canadian junior hockey club, must compete against other junior teams in the 1966-67 regular schedule, the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association ruled Tuesday.

The Oil Kings, Memorial Cup champions, have spent the last seven seasons playing against intermediate or senior teams because of a lack of competition at their own level in Alberta.

The governing body for amateur hockey did not specify which junior league the Oil Kings will enter next season.

The move came at the second general plenary session of the CAHA's 50th annual meeting. The sessions started Monday and will continue until Friday.

The Quebec Amateur Hockey Association, host to the parent body, had one of its recommendations partially accepted at the same meeting.

The QAHA won its bid to have the age limit for junior players raised to 21, but a similar recommendation concerning categories below the junior level was deferred for further consideration.

FIX EFFECTIVE DATE

The change will take effect for the 1967-68 playing season and the alteration will leave junior ranks open to all players who are under 21 years of age on Dec. 31 of any playing year.

Previously junior hockey was open to players who were under 20 years of age on May 31 in the season of play.

Chief opposition to this move came from the Maritime and Ontario hockey associations.

In a move to clamp down on laxity in reporting player suspensions, the CAHA voted that a club cannot release a suspeneded player in order to assist it to get down to the 19-man limit on Dec. 31, but must carry the player on its revised Jan. 1 roster.

In addition, the session ruled that no player under suspension may be granted a transfer and named Feb. 10 as the final date a player can change clubs in a season.

With regard to reinstatement of professionals to amateur ranks after their suspension by the pro clubs, the meeting referred to the executive committee an Alberta motion to have such players sign amateur cards after sitting out one year.

ASKS STATUS CHANGE

The proposal suggested that any player suspended by a pro club, who has sat out one complete season, be granted an amateur card by the CAHA.

However, if at any time the player wanted to return to pro hockey, he would not be a free agent, but the property of the club that held his contract at the time of his suspension.

DOUCET WINS COATICOOK TOURNAMENT

COATICOOK — (Staff) — Doran 'Duke' Doucet Jr. has made his first gigantic step towards a desired cleanup in Eastern Townships golf tournaments, by posting a 76 gross at the Coaticook Golf Club to win that club's annual two-day field day.

Doucet, upon returning from Florida and a winter of golf, said that each individual tourney will pose a challenge to him.

Other Class A golfers to win prizes in the gross section were Babe Dussault, Lennoxville, with 78 and A Netayer, Drummondville, with 80. Carol Lapointe won Class A net section with Alf Walker from Lennoxville following one strike behind with 73. Third was Coaticook's Pierre Dutil, 75.

In other golf occurrences at the Coaticook Club, a hole in one was scored by Roger Plouffe on the ninth hole, 117 yards, using a nine iron.

Little League opens with bang, two games slated this evening

Tigers won 13-1 and Twins took an 8-4 win in the opening games in the Sher-Lenn Little League last evening at the Parade Grounds.

Denis Dussault, pitching for the Tigers against the Orioles had a big night. He had five hits, one a home run, in his five trips and allowed the Orioles batters only four scattered hits while whiffing 12 men by the strikeout route.

J. Hanson pitching for the Twins against the White Sox also hurled well as he had three hits, one a homer and came up with 10 strikeouts. Tonight Red Sox take on the Senators and Yankees visit the Indians, both games at the Parade Grounds.

It was a scoreless game until the top of the third frame in the Tiger-Orioles tilt when the Tigers broke loose for 10 big runs. Seven hits and three infield errors set up the runs. Dussault had held the Orioles batters hitless until the bottom of the third when they connected for their first hit by catched Berard.

Dussault's home run in the fifth pushed the Tigers further ahead and in the top of the sixth they got their final two runs on hits from Goupil and Cabana. Orioles got their lone run in the last of the sixth with Maltas and Patry connecting.

The White Sox-Twins game see-sawed back and forth in the opening innings and after three full innings it was a 3-1 ball game for the Sox. Top of the fourth they added one more run, Twins with three runs in the bottom of the fourth made it a 4-4 ball game.

Twins wrapped the game up in the fifth with four more runs which was enough to take the game as the Sox went scoreless in the last two innings. The games were well played to start the season and should improve as the schedule rolls along.

'Moon' Mullin's new young umpires did well and with some more experience should fit in during the coming season.

Karl the Great may get a 'crack' at Cassius the Great for crown

FRANKFURT, Germany (AP)—His promoter has billed him as Karl der Grosse (Karl the Great), but somehow it never stuck with soft-spoken Karl Mildenberger, the European heavyweight boxing champ.

Now, the six-foot-one southpaw appears well on his way to becoming the first German challenger in a world heavyweight championship since Max Schmeling was knocked out by Joe Louis June 22, 1938.

Cassius Clay, who met Mildenberger during a stopover at the Frankfurt Airport Tuesday, said he wants to "give Germany a crack," possibly within the next few months.

Mildenberger's chance would come after 53 professional bouts —and at a time some of his fans are starting to find him dull.

In his last fight, he took a unanimous decision from veteran Eddie Machen of Los Angeles, but the German crowd was dissatisfied with his cautious jabbing.

Despite this there have been frequent surprises in Mildenberger's eight-year professional career.

He started it with a first-round knockout of a local celebrity. Less than four years later, he fought Dick Richardson of Britain for the European title, but was stopped in the first round himself. That was his last defeat.

The European crown was his in 1964, with a first-round knockout against Italy's Sante Amonti. They fought for the title vacated by Henry Cooper of Britain, who just lost in his world title bid against Clay.

Of his professional fights, he has won 17 by knockouts and 31 on decisions, three ended in a draw and his two defeats were against Richardson and against a local boy, Helmut Ball. He was stopped by both.

Dodgers win 3-2

Mr. Clutch has shifted gears again and Los Angeles Dodgers are driving.

Ron Fairly, the Dodgers' unsung delivery man, rapped an eighth inning home run Tuesday night that made the difference in a 3-2 decision over Philadelphia Phillies. It was the fifth victory in the last six games for the world champions.

Fairly has hit four of his five 1966 homers in his last five games, helping the Dodgers stay within range of first-place San Francisco Giants in the National League race.

Three weeks ago Fairly, a .270 lifetime hitter, was hitting .203.

Since then, he's rolled at a .400 clip, lifting his average to .290, and driven in 11 runs for a team-leading total of 20. The 27-year-old outfielder paced the club with 70 RBI last season and hit .274.

HOMER CLINCHED WIN

Tuesday night's homer sent LA in front 3-1 but turned out to be the winning blow when the Phils scored in the ninth against Ron Perranoski. Perranoski, who came on for winner Don Sutton in the eighth, had not allowed a run in his previous 11 appearances.

Elsewhere, the Giants whipped Pittsburgh Pirates 5-2, Cincinnati Reds blasted Atlanta Braves 8-2, Houston Astros beat New York Mets 5-3 and Chicago Cubs blanked St. Louis Cardinals 2-0.

The Dodgers, held to three hits through six innings by Bob Buhl, erased a 1-0 Philadelphia lead in the seventh on run-scoring singles by pinch hitter Al Ferrara and Maury Wills.

Fairly then provided the cushion with his blast off reliever Darold Knowles.

A seventh-inning single by pitcher Gaylord Perry touched off the Giants' winning three-run rally against Pittsburgh. Tom Haller singled in the first run, Willie Mays delivered the second with a sacrifice fly and Willie McCovey capped the rally with his fifth homer.

Perry, with a two-inning assist from reliever Frank Linzy, boosted his record to 6-1 while veteran Vern Law, 1-2, took the loss.

The Reds struck for seven runs in the sixth inning and put Atlanta away behind the six-hit pitching of winner Joey Jay, 5-2, and Bill McCool.

Tommy Helms, who cracked four hits for the night, triggered the big inning with a single and finished it off with a run-scoring single. Don Paveletich singled in two runs and John Edwards doubled across two more as the Reds sent 11 men to the plate and collected half of their 16 hits in the sixth.

The Astros scored four runs in the first inning—three on Jim Gentile's bases-loaded double—and held off the Mets on Claude Raymond's one-hit relief pitching over the last 5 1-3 innings. Rusty Staub knocked in the other Houston runs with a double and single.

Glenn Beckert doubled in the sixth inning at St. Louis, and scored on Ernie Banks' sacrifice fly, then drove in the Cubs' second run with a seventh inning single.

Coaticook nips an Alouette bud

Sherbrooke Alouettes had a good thing going for them last night at the Municipal Stadium, and quite a bit of time elapsed before Coaticook Canadiens managed to wrest it from the Als.

In an exhibition game with the Coaticook Canadiens of the Provincial Baseball League, the Alouettes fell to their visitors in the 12th inning after leading in the game until the top of the ninth.

Tonight the two clubs will again meet, but this time the return match will be at Coaticook. Both teams officially see action in the Provincial League opening this weekend.

A timely triple by Coaticook's Agricola, with one man out in this third extra inning, sent teammate Miles, who got on base with a a single, across the plate for the winning run.

In the early innings of this long tilt, Sherbrooke maintained control under the masterful pitching of utility man Claude Groulx, whose contract was purchased from Acton Vale last week. In the five innings pitched, Groulx allowed one run on two hits.

After seven innings of play, the Alouettes still held onto a comfortable 8-5 margin, but after a scoreless next inning, the action began from the Canadiens.

Four runs came across in the top of the ninth on two hits and as many errors, the result of bad throws, to give Coaticook the one run advantage, leading 9-8. Keith Peak, who ended the game on the mound and was credited with the win, was responsible for two runs in the ninth, sending them in on a left field single.

Lilas Poole did not disappoint his mates or the fans in the last minute effort. With one out in the bottom of the ninth, and Mentis on base through an error, Poole slammed a pitch to the top of the 330 foot fence. The ball dropped back onto the field, and was pegged back to second in time to catch Poole stretching the hit into a double. Mentis by this time had scored the tying run.

Both team coaches made every available use of the pitching staff, as Bill Nagle had five men seeing the view from the top, including himself, with Pratte sending up Groulx, Prud'Homme, Morin, and Birth.

Jim Beckman could perhaps be described as the individual outstanding Alouette on the field last night. Beckman hit three times in six appearances at the plate, responsible for two of the early runs. The third baseman also redeemed himself on two occasions with lusty hits after committing an error in the previous inning.

Ten errors were committed getting the majority six. Bob in the entire game, Coaticook Meccuci and Luke Lamboley each got doubles as the major hitters for the Als.

Red Sox blast Twins, sixth straight win

"Everything is perfect—good defense, good hitting and good pitching."

Sounds like the manager of one of baseball's upper-echelon teams, right?

Actually, those are the words of Billy Herman, whose Boston Red Sox are only 1½ games and four days removed from the American League cellar.

But Herman's Red Sox are streaking. They stormed to their sixth straight victory Tuesday night, crushing Minnesota Twins 11-2 with a 16-hit barrage that included homers by Carl Yastrzemski, Tony Conigliaro and Jim Gosger, plus four doubles.

In addition to the lusty hitting, Boston had the good pitching, by Jose Santiago and Dick Radatz, and no errors.

That adds up to winning, and winning six in a row has boosted the Red Sox from last to ninth ahead of Kansas City Athletics and one game behind New York Yankees.

SPLIT DOUBLEHEADER

At the other end of the ladder, front-running Cleveland Indians and second-place Detroit Tigers split a doubleheader. The Tigers won the opener 7-6 on Don Wert's eighth-inning single, while the Indians took the second game 2-0 as Luis Tiant pitched his fourth shutout of the year.

California Angels beat the Yankees 4-2 with a four-run fifth inning, Baltimore Orioles downed Chicago White Sox 6-4 behind the key hitting of Brooks Robinson and Boog Powell, and Don Lock's two-run pinch homer with two out in the bttom of the ninth lifted Washington Senators over the Athletics 2-1.

The Red Sox bombed Camilo Pascual for seven runs in the first two innings, with Yastrzemski and Conigliaro hitting two-run homers. Gosger homered with one on against Jim Perry in the fourth. Yastrzemski, Gosger and Rico Petrocelli collected three hits apiece.

Santiago, now 4-1, was roughed up for three hits and both Minnesota runs in the first, but gave up just two more hits through the next seven innings. He then retired with an ailing back, and Radatz finished. The loss was the fifth in a row for the Twins.

Tiant, whose four victories have all been shutouts, blanked the Tigers on four hits in the second game at Detroit. Chuck Hinton singled across an unearned run against loser Hank Aguirre in the fifth and Leon Wagner homered for Cleveland's second run in the eighth.

SINGLE SETTLES IT

The Tigers, down 5-0 in the opener, came back and eventually settled it in the eighth when Wert singled in Ray Oyler. Norm Cash hit two homers for Detroit and Jim Northrup one. Rocky Colavito, Duke Sims and Fred Whitfield homered for Cleveland.

Joe Adcock's bases-loaded double climxed the Angels' winning rally against the Yanks. Trailing 2-0 going into the fifth, California got its four runs off rookie reliver Dooley Womack on a walk, Womack's error, Willie Smith's pinch double, a fielder's choice and Adcock's two-run hit.

The setback ended the Yankees winning string at five games.

Brooks Robinson drove in three runs with a homer and a single, while Powell's single sent across Baltimore's clinching run against the White Sox who have lost eight of their last nine.

SNAPS 4-4 TIE

Curt Blefary opened the Orioles' sixth with a double, and Powell promptly cashed him in with his hit, snapping a 4-4 tie.

Tommy Agee batted in three Chicago runs with a homer and sacrifice fly and Don Buford scored three times for the White Sox.

Lock pulled it out for the Senators with his homer off Kansas City reliever John Wyatt.

Washington, limited to four hits by Chuck Dobson and Wyatt through eight innings, got a lift when Dick Nen led off the last of the ninth with a walk. Wyatt struck out the next two Senators, then Lock hit a homer.

Ken Harrelson accounted for the game's only other run, homering for the Athletics in the sixth off Phil Ortega.

PARADE SUNDAY OPENS SEASON

When the 1966 Provincial Baseball League season officially opens in Sherbrooke Sunday, the management of the Alouettes and City of Sherbrooke officials will do it in proper style.

Roger Dionne, director of the Alouettes Baseball Club, told The Record last night that a parade through the city streets will begin the Sunday afternoon festivities.

The parade, which will include Mayor Armand Nadeau, city aldermen, players, directors and the executive of the club, will leave the OTJ Centre, corner of King Street and Couture Street, at 1:15 p.m. Sunday. The Marjolaines and Dynamiques de Sherbrooke will lead the parade. A few players from each team in the organized Little League Baseball in Sherbrooke and Lennoxville will also be in the motorcade.

The official battery for the opening will see Mayor Nadeau pitch the first ball, General Manager Paul Molloy attempt to bat it, and President Antonio Pinard attempt to catch it if Molloy misses.

Gametime is 2:30 p.m.

The Doctor Says

DEGENERATIVE ARTHRITIS ISN'T AS BAD AS IT SOUNDS

By Wayne G. Brandstadt, M.D.
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Q—What is degenerative (osteo) arthritis?

A—This is the hereditary form of arthritis seem in persons who are past middle age. Although it has a forbidding name it is not the severe crippling disease rheumatoid arthritis is.

Q—My doctor has prescribed Pabalate for my osteoarthritis. Is this just a glorified aspirin?

A—This is a combination of sodium salicylate (closely related to aspirin), potassium aminobenzoate and vitamin C. The first two ingredients work better in combination than either one alone in combatting arthritis.

Q—How effective are gold injections in the treatment of rheumatoid arthritis? Would they be likely to cause attacks of colitis?

A—Injections of gold salts will not cure rheumatoid arthritis but in many victims they will give relief. The treatment must be continued for several months. Because the margin of safety between the effective dose and gold poisoning is very narrow the drug must be used with caution, and anyone who is taking it should report to his doctor any itching of the skin or soreness in the mouth. It does not cause colitis.

Q—There are lots of remedies for reducing but what is the best way for a thin person to gain weight?

A—A person gains weight because he eats more calories every day than he uses up as energy. Most persons who are underweight either have a finicky appetite or a chronic disease such as an overactive thyroid, tuberculosis or colitis. Check with your doctor to find out why you are underweight and, if you do not have a disease that would account for it, start a program of forced feeding.

Eat three eggs and a large piece of cheese every day and take one cubic inch of butter or margarine at each meal. Drink a glass of half milk and half cream three times a day. This is hard to do at first but the appetite often picks up once you have started to gain.

Q—What is the cause of TT syndrome and what is the treatment?

A—As near as I can figure from where I sit, you must be referring to Tietze's syndrome in which a tender swelling occurs in the chest where the bony rib joins the rib cartilage. The cause is unknown. Hot applications and aspirin are prescribed to relieve the pain. Hydrocortisone may be given to reduce the inflammation and shorten the course of the disease. Although the duration of the disease varies from a few days to several months, complete recovery is the rule.

Please send your questions and comments to Wayne G. Brandstadt, M.D., in care of this paper. While Dr. Brandstadt cannot answer individual letters he will answer letters of general interest in future columns.

HELLO WORLD — Two new Mason City, Iowa fawns snuggle with their mother an hour and a half after their birth Thursday. The twins came on the scene with the next best thing to a police escort. A highway patrolman noticed the buck behaving meanly to his new arrivals and radioed the sheriff's department . . . which in turn called the police . . . who called the park department.

Canadian Pacific low air fare plan described as imprudent by a rival

WELLINGTON (CP) — An official of Air New Zealand has described as imprudent a move by Canadian Pacific Airlines for lower air fares across the Pacific.

F. A. Reeves, general manager of the government-owned New Zealand line, said his opposition to the CPA proposal was not to the principle of lower fares but to the manner in which the Canadian line proposed precipitate reductions, implying that they were capable of achievement overnight.

CPA has filed applications with the governments of New Zealand, Australia, Britain (for Fiji), the United States (for Hawaii) and Canada to introduce 30-day excursion fares to the south Pacific that would be 40 per cent below the present tariff, and to cut regular fares by 20 per cent.

CONSEQUENCES IGNORED

Reeves said the proposal shows no regard for the consequences that a haphazard lack of planning would have. The proposal was an embarrassment to all other airlines and to those concerned with the sustained development of the New Zealand tourist industry.

"These interests are no less sincere in their desire for lower fares, but have adopted a more responsible attitude on how those should be introduced," Reeves said in a statement.

"Tourism has to be developed as a whole. Promotion, air fares, air routes, accommodation and the many other facets of the business must work in harmony and plan in unison.

"Air New Zealand helped pioneer most successful incentive-fare schemes on the Tasman Sea (between Australia and New Zealand) and now wishes to apply similar incentives to our long-haul routes, where it should be noted that no such schemes have been attempted by any other operator in the past.

"If we can get promotional air fares instituted, we can expect a most significant increase in traffic from the United States to New Zealand, and no one will be more pleased to see this happen than I."

CAN'T BE DONE

"A 50-per-cent growth in traffic overnight is nonsense and impossible of achievement. And even if it could be done, it would create confusion and bottlenecks in several respects, which would only serve to damage New Zealand's name in the eyes of American visitors and American travel agents.

"Such damage could take years to undo and it would be the New Zealand tourist industry and the principal carriers on the Pacific which would suffer, not CPA."

Air New Zealand has until recently operated between Australia and New Zealand and north to Fiji and other Pacific islands. Since the end of last year it has extended its operations across the Pacific via Honolulu to Los Angeles, and to Asia, via Australia to Singapore and Hong Kong. It does not fly to Canada.

Mild-mannered smoke smugglers thriving breed

BALTIMORE (AP)—As in a scene from a 1930 movie, a truck is waved down by police on an isolated highway and contraband worth thousands of dollars is confiscated.

But the scene is far from entertaining to Maryland and New York tax authorities, who say a booming multimillion - dollar business in untaxed, smuggled cigarettes bound for New York black markets has caused major revenue losses.

Edward F. Englebert, head of Maryland's sales tax division, says running bootleg cigarettes, purchased for $1.85 a carton in North Carolina, has burgeoned into a "mammoth operation to rival the old days of Al Capone."

NOVICE SMUGGLERS

He says the tough types who drove the truck in the films have been replaced by mild-mannered novices — including women — who apparently have been assured that Maryland's misdemeanor law aimed at combatting such traffic is not stringent. For example, the first man convicted received a suspended sentence and a fine.

It began when New York raised cigarette prices to 45 cents a pack, much more than the price in North Carolina.

There is no cigarette tax in North Carolina.

Since last summer, Maryland state police and tax authorities have confiscated more than 50,000 cartons of cigarettes, being hauled in everything from the largest tractor vans to private cars. They estimate that this represents only a small percentage of total traffic.

North Carolina has no law to prevent such interstate traffic because there is no state cigarette tax.

Conviction under present Maryland law could mean a fine of $25 for each carton and up to five years' imprisonment for maximum sentence. But judges have been reluctant to go this far. The law prohibits carrying more than one carton through the state or more than two packages into the state by a resident.

Bombay citizens save their park

BOMBAY (CP)—A committee of angry citizens prevented the Bombay municipal corporation from building an electric power station on part of a children's playground.

The citizens of this Indian metropolis of 4,000,000 began banding together shortly after they learned that municipal authorities had chosen a corner of the palm-fringed Oval grounds as the site for the new power plant.

They wrote to newspapers protesting about the move, pointing out that a power station on a popular playground would affect the welfare of Bombay's school children.

First of two attempts to invade Canada

Fenian raids' centennial marked

"Sir, I have the honor to inform you that a body of 600 Fenians entered this province, this morning," Viscount Monck, governor - general of the Province of Canada, cabled Rt. Hon. Edward Cardwell of the British government at London June 1, 1866.

"They crossed the Niagara River at Black Rock, near Buffalo, in the state of New York, and established themselves in the village of Fort Erie, in Canada. I am now occupied in taking measures for meeting the emergency."

Viscount Monck was reporting on the first of two main attempts by the Fenian Brotherhood of the United States to invade Canada. The second thrust came in 1870, three years after the Province of Canada — the present - day provinces of Ontario and Quebec—joined New Brunswick and Nova Scotia to form the Dominion of Canada.

One hundred years ago, in 1866, members of the American branch of the Irish independence movement mounted an attack on Canada as a way of getting at their real enemy—England. The Fenian Raids are described in this story by Fraser MacDougall, Ottawa bureau chief of The Canadian Press, whose grandfather, George James, was a member of the British 7th Fusiliers who helped repulse the attackers in Quebec.

In retrospect, the Fenian Raids seem but a minor incident in the history of Canada and her relations with the United States. By modern standards of wholesale slaughter, it wasn't much of a shooting war.

CANADIANS FEARFUL

But to the Canadians of that day it was a real thing. They feared for the future in the face of attack launched from, although not with the help of, a nation of about 35,000,000 people against 3,000,000 in the Canadian provinces.

Many of the attacking force were seasoned veterans of the U.S. Civil War which in itself had exacerbated Canada—U.S. relations.

The threat the raids posed for the disunited Canadian provinces helped spur Confederation in 1867. Some authorities say they were a decisive factor in swinging New Brunswick into the Confederation camp although their physical impact was minor in that province.

Another theory is that the raids led to distrust of the United States, which many felt could have halted Fenian activity more quickly, and also of Britain, which some felt didn't provide adequate military help.

By FRASER MacDOUGALL
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Whatever its impact on Canadian history, the 1866 raid marked the only time the prized Victoria Cross was awarded for an act of valor on Canadian soil and the only time it was given for heroism away from the field of battle.

BATTLE WAS DRAW

The main battle of 1866 was fought on Saturday, June 2, in the Niagara Peninsula at a spot called Limestone or Lime Ridge about five miles west of Fort Erie and three miles or so inland from Lake Erie.

About 800 Fenians were engaged by about 840 Canadian volunteers on the hot early-summer day. By and large, the result was a draw. The Canadians retired and the Fenians withdrew. By Sunday the invaders were back across the Niagara River at Buffalo where about 700 were arrested by the U.S. authorities.

Toronto's Queen's Own Rifles lost nine men in the brief engagement and Hamilton's 13th Battalion lost one for a total of 10 fatalities. About 40 Canadians were wounded.

Estimates are that the Fenians lost twice that number. One of Viscount Monck's dispatches said 75 were taken prisoner.

There was skirmishing, without fatal casualties, in Missisquoi County in Quebec's Eastern Townships where a Fenian force estimated variously at 800 to 1,800 crossed from St. Albans, Vermont, and camped at a place called Pigeon Hill. They plundered Frelighsburg, and St. Armand, retreating in a few days. Viscount Monck reported this episode as a minor incursion, saying the defenders took 16 Fenians prisoner and there were no British or Canadian casualties.

FOUGHT FIRE ALONE

The Victoria Cross was won by Timothy O'Hea, born in 1846 at Bantry in County Cork, Ireland, for an act of heroism at Danville, Que., far from the scenes of the raids.

A private in the British Rifle Brigade, O'Hea was one of a four-man guard assigned to a train carrying munitions, including 95 barrels of gunpowder, from Quebec City to the Niagara area.

At Danville, O'Hea discovered a fire in one of the munitions cars. He fought it all alone, for nearly an hour, and put it out.

The Fenian Brotherhood was a U.S. organization formed at New York in 1859 to assist the Irish independence movement. In effect, it was the U.S. branch of the Irish Revolutionary Brotherhood organization at Dublin in 1958 with the aim of driving the English from Ireland.

In 1865, the Fenians split on strategy. One wing wanted to get at England by invading Canada. The official Fenian line was that a Canadian invasion wouldn't do much to further an Irish revolution. But the advocates of the Canadian invasion went ahead.

Uneasiness began to grip Canada, particularly Ontario and Quebec, in early 1866 as invasion signs appeared.

CALLED UP MILITIA

Francis Wayland Campbell of Montreal, long active in the Royal Regiment of Canadian Infantry, cited some of the signs in a lecture on the Fenian Invasion of Canada 1866-1870, later published in book form:

—On Feb. 1, rumors reached Hamilton of Fenian activity on the U.S. frontier.

—On Feb. 2, there were rumors of a projected attack on St. Johns, Que., about 20 miles south east of Montreal.

—On Feb. 13, a mass Fenian rally in New York attracted 10,000 persons who discussed plans to invade Canada.

Canada reacted by calling out its volunteer militia. On Feb. 3, two companies were mobilized at Brockville on the St. Lawrence River.

When a rumor spread that the Fenians would strike on March 17, St. Patrick's Day, Sir John A. Macdonald issued orders March 8 for immediate mobilization of a 10,000-man volunteer force. More than 14,000 answered the call.

Macdonald, later to be the first prime minister of the Dominion of Canada, then was attorney - general and minister of militia in the province of Canada. His order was delivered to the adjutant-general of the Canadian forces, Col. Patrick Leonard Macdougall, while the latter was en route to Ottawa from Montreal by train.

INVASION THWARTED

The weeks rolled by without any threat to the central provinces and many of the men were sent home. But there was some minor activity in New Brunswick.

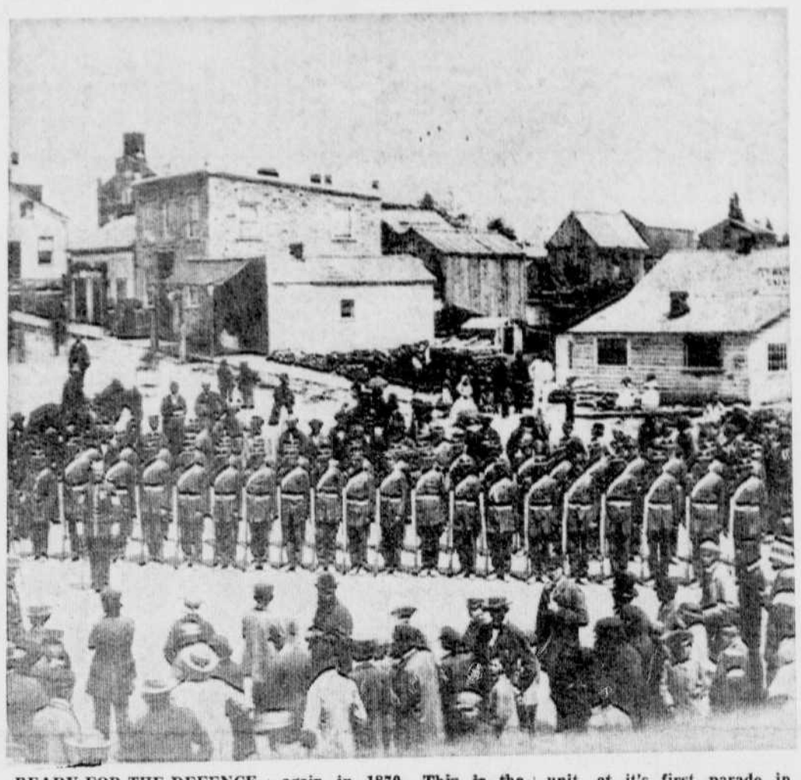

In April, a small Fenian force prepared to invade Campobello Island in Passamaquoddy Bay. This fell flat due to the presence of British warships in the area and intervention by the U.S.

In the central provinces, the volunteers were hastily summoned back to the colors when word came on May 31 that the Fenians were on the move in many areas along the American border.

One - third of the contingent from Oil Springs, then in the grip of Canada's first oil boom, were American-born. They had been attracted to the area near Sarnia by the lure of oil wealth. Canadians living in Chicago headed home by the earliest train to don uniforms.

Viscount Monck's official reports said the Fenian centre and main concentration was at Malone, N.Y. That force was aimed at Cornwall and Prescott—and then the fledgling capital, Ottawa. He placed the right wing at St.

Rumors, boots in mud part of Townships role

Tales of 32 mile long marches and of rumors spreading across a fear - stricken countryside are part of the Eastern Townships heritage going back 100 years when it seems almost all that was captured during the Fenian Raids was a pack of clay-soaked soldiers' boots.

According to a January 31, 1910 Sherbrooke Record article, Fenian raiders were "gathered from no one knows where and they drifted back into no one knows where". Raids on the Townships in 1866 were calculated by the rebellious Irish only to divert and divide attention on the more major attacks into Ontario border areas, the article relates.

But nevertheless, terror spread through the countryside swept on by wild rumors which had little foundation.

As a result over 400 men of the Canadian militia were kept in fighting order for over two weeks and a home guard was set up by Dunham and St. Armand farmers for protection which they felt had not been adequately given by the government.

Rumors were also fed by harassment of farmers in the Missisquoi County area by Fenian raiders where families were ill - treated and lives threatened. Eccles Hill was occupied and held several days by the invaders of 1866 while several detachments marched further north visiting farm houses in search of supplies, and looting houses and stores in Frelighsburg and other villages.

Some Fenian adventurers were captured near Pigeon Hill and imprisoned in the Old Block House at Philipsburg. Stanstead Plain was poised for attack during the year but companies of militia ordered to the town saw no action.

Included in the Record article is an account of military moves from Montreal into the Townships which met no action but warm welcomes on its travels. It is described by Surgeon Lieut.-Col. Francis W. Campbell who took part in the moves.

The Prince of Wales Regiment of Montreal was called out for active service on June 1, 1866 with five other companies which all travelled to Hemmingford.

On June 6, the regiment left at dawn to march 10 miles to Havelock.

Mr. Campbell continues: "On the way the men were received almost invariably with open arms, the farmers turning out and supplying them with plenty of fresh milk, and the girls decorating the soldiers with flowers. At Havelock the men had breakfast, and about 80 waggons met the regiment there. I well remember the excitement which existed at this point; the women being bathed in tears, information having just been received that the Victoria Rifles had been engaged and literally cut to pieces. (This was only rumor). On arriving at Franklin Centre we were supplied with a lunch under a shed at the back of the church."

But the regiment's tour of the Townships had only begun. Ahead lay a 32 mile trek which brought the soldiers to Ormstown wet and exhausted. Reports of the inability of the regiment to furnish night guards was met with volunteering by 40 or 50 young farmers who patrolled the roads all night.

On June 10 a cavalry trooper galloped into town with the news that the Fenians would attack the Beauharnois Canal that night.

In the dead of night four companies of the regiment set off by foot for Anderson's Corner.

"The night was intensely dark and as the men were wearing unfitted boots, which had been sent out by the relief committee formed in Montreal, a large number of these boots stuck in the clay and were drawn off the men's feet. As a consequence a considerable number of boots were left in the clay, the men completed the journey in their stocking feet," Mr. Campbell wrote.

However, his tale ends happily for hay carts were sent out the next morning to recapture the boots.

And no invasion occurred that night by the Fenians to damage the canal.

Now's time for summer beauty tips

Count the days to the long hot summer, and make beauty preparations for it:

In summer, the skin should not have less care, but care of a different kind, they say.

Oily skin suffers more than dry during hot, humid weather. Heat makes it oilier and more difficult to handle. Key word in oily skin care is clealiness, the experts advise.

Serious

Another serious summer skin problem is dehydration from excessive exposure to wind, salt water and sun. Pamper the skin to keep it soft and supple. Cleanse carefully to avoid irritating sun-tender skin.

Hair, too, can be wind-burned in just the same way. A hair conditioner or pomade gives it an oily opaque coating which screens out the sun's rays.

Normal hair needs as much conditioning as dry hair in summer, too. Most hair will benefit from soapless oil shampoos, which clean thoroughly without lathering.

Sun lovers and beachcombers alike will enjoy a new beach kit that comes in a soft, grained plastic zipper kit in sunny yellow with a fanciful sun design.

The kit contains every necessity for good grooming under the summer sun: A sun control, depilatory, cream deodorant, flower mist, hair spray, lipstick, eye shadow and a soothing medicated cream.

The kit costs $10.

Elegant

How many travelers have bemoaned the fact that women's toiletry cases are always flowery, never elegant?

One large cosmetic house has brought out a new design, travel case with snap fastening in soft Morocco grain plastic with water-proofing lining that solves the problem.

In pink, blue or white, it contains cleaning cream, a nourishing cream, skin lotion, travel soap, deodorant, lipstick and cream rouge—all for $15.

And with all those necessities packed, there's still heaps of room for toothbrush, paste, fragrance, and other beauty essentials. (T.N.S.)

Questions readers ask

BUTTEROIL IS SOMETHING NEW

By Gaynor Maddox

Q -- I hear some people talk about butteroil. What is it ond do you eat it?

A -- It is a recent development that promises the food industry a shortening that imparts a homemade flavor to commercially made products. Research in the new product is under way at Iowa State University, the University of Nebraska and Rutgers, the state university of New Jersey.

Butteroil is made by removing the water, salt and curd from butter. One of two methods may be used: separating the cream and breaking the emulsion to free the fat from the water; or melting the butter and then separating the nonfat solids and water by centrigugal force. A pound of butter yields about four - fifths of a pound of butteroil. This more concentrated form of butter has a shipping advantage over regular butter since the shipper is not paying to ship or store water. Bakeries can make richer baked goods from highly concentrated butteroil.

Q -- Is it true that eggs are a really good buy -- I mean do they have big food value?

A -- Yes, lots. Use of eggs in main dishes helps to stretch the food budget. Omelets, egg casseroles, croquettes and other main dishes made of eggs offer high - quality protein at reasonable cost. For example, the protein in scrambled eggs made from two large eggs more than equals that in two frankfurters and has two - thirds the value of protein in 3 ounces of boiled lean ground beef.

The three-day sessions will deal with all departments of the Order including education, services at home and abroad, Commonwealth relations, immigration, citizenship, and world affairs, to name a few. First in passenger, first in freight. There are 27 railways in Canada. That's right, 27. Yet CN carried more than 60% of the rail passengers in 1965. And almost as much freight as all the other rail carriers put together. 99 million tons. Which called for a lot of freight cars. Over 101,000. And 145 freight trains every day to keep things moving. And 35,000 miles of track to get into every busy corner of all ten provinces. But we don't rely on bigness alone. We keep on searching for ways to be more economical, more efficient and more flexible. That's the only way we know to stay first.

Albans, for the Quebec thrust, and the left at Buffalo, for the move to Fort Erie, really aimed at the Welland Canal linking lakes Erie and Ontario.

SAW BROAD FRONT

In his 1886 Narrative of the Fenion Invasion of Canada," Alexander Somerville pictured a much more grandiose invasion plan.

He reported that the Fenians mustered on a 1,500 - mile front. He agreed with Viscount Monck on the centre at Malone and right wing at St. Albans but placed the left wing at Chicago, saying its aim was to invade the Lake Huron port of Goderich.

Somerville said a Michigan Fenian army was assigned to capture Windsor and Sarnia and a column at Cleveland had the task of assisting either the Michigan force or the column that made the Fort Erie thrust. Fenians at Cape Vincent and Ogdensburg were to threaten and pin down—but not invade—Kingston.

British regulars backed up the volunteers. In the Niagara area the British force consisted of 200 men from the 16th regiment, based at Toronto. Their colonel, George Peacocke, commanded the joint force that moved into the Niagara area.

From garrison duty in Quebec City, the second battalion of the 7th Royal Fusiliers went into the Eastern Townships with the Canadian volunteers.

When it was all over, the regulars were offered their honorable discharge if they wished to stay in Canada. Many accepted. The official British army records show them as "discharged by purchase."

MEDALS CAME LATE

Canada was proud of its volunteers, although it was years before the country got around to striking a medal for their service.

General service medals with clasps for service in the two Fenian Raids and in the Red River expedition of 1870 were authorized in 1899. Land grants in the Timmins area were also authorized for volunteers — not for regulars — but it's not recorded whether any took them up seriously. The idea was to foster agriculture in the area. That was before anyone knew of the Timmins treasurehouse of gold.

Viscount Monck was proud of the volunteers too. He wrote to London about their "admirable spirit" and said "their conduct as regards discipline and order has entitled them to as much commendation as does their spirit of patriotism and self-reliance."

Controversy swirled at the time over the Fort Erie battle.

Somerville wrote scathing criticisms of Lt.-Col. Alfred Booker, thrust unexpectedly into command of the force that engaged the Fenians. Among other things he said Booker ordered the Canadians to retire because "he seemed to have decided, so far as, in a condition of imbecility and nervous prostration he could decide anything, to retreat from the field of battle."

Later, a court martial cleared Booker.

MADE LATE START

The force led by Booker spent the night of June 1 at Port Colborne, 15 miles west of Fort Erie. Col. Peacocke spent the night at Chippawa, on the outskirts of Niagara Falls, about 14 miles north of Fort Erie. The plan was that on Saturday, June 2, the two forces would meet at a place called Stevensville where they could cut off the Fenian attempt to reach the Welland Canal.

Peacocke sent word to Booker that he'd start at 7 a.m. But he didn't get away until later because most of his troops didn't have any utensils to prepare breakfast. Some didn't have any food.

Booker's force didn't do well for breakfast at Port Colborne either. They ate salt herring, the only thing they could find.

Somerville reported that Booker himself enjoyed beefsteak. Booker was leading the Queen's Own, the 13th Regiment of Hamilton and the York and Caledonia Rifle companies. He was also to have had the Welland battery but that unit didn't have any cannons.

From Port Colborne, Booker's force moved by train to Ridgeway on Lake Erie, about five miles from Fort Erie. They disembarked and headed across country for Stevensville. En route they encountered the Fenians.

MEN WERE THIRSTY

Both forces lacked water canteens. Booker's men suffered from thirst after their salt herring breakfast. Peacocke's men suffered from the march in the heat.

Peacocke didn't have a good map of the area and he picked the worst road to his Stevensville rendezvous, passing up a shorter and better one. Booker didn't have a map either. Somerville says also that Booker didn't even have paper on which to write messages.

So that no one will think all the muddling was by the defenders, some writers of the time say that the Fenians would have been a much greater threat if they had moved over the rail lines as they went.

At Port Colborne, they could have damaged the Lake Erie end of the Welland Canal and then moved inland to occupy it at a set of locks. The advocate of this theory, an officer in the Canadian volunteers, says the Fenians could easily have slipped past Booker to achieve these objectives.

Canada paid damage claims totalling $5,846.56 to Fort Erie area residents for Fenian plundering. The payments ranged in size from $6.50 to Tobe Teal to $901.66 for John Douglas. One man took the payment, $299.64 in his case, but refused to sign for it "on account of horse not being allowed for."

The Fenian Raids of 1870 offered a lesser threat than in 1866. Fenians crossed into Quebec from St. Albans on May 25, 1870. Next day they were routed in a skirmish at Huntingdon. They were led by John O'Neil of Nashville, Tenn., who was styling himself general in 1870. He had called himself colonel when he led the 1866 force into Fort Erie.

He was calling himself general again in 1871 when he gathered a force that threatened Pembina, Man., in October of that year. The U.S. intervened to prevent any attack in this venture, which was not sanctioned by the Fenian brotherhood.

Foster child is adopted by Asbestos group

ASBESTOS — The Asbestos Protestant Group, Contact, Mrs. Sylvia B. Staines, 55 Greenshields Avenue, has financially adopted Gloria V. Gonzaga, an eleven-year-old Filippina girl, through Foster Parents' Plan, P.O. Box 65, Station B, Montreal.

The adoption is financial, not legal, and costs $16 a month for a minimum of one year. Upon receipt of the first payment the foster parent receives a photograph and case history of his child. Every month the child writes to his "Dear Foster Parent" and the foster parent writes to the child. The original and a translation are forwarded each time through the Plan's offices.

Before long there is a warm personal relationship. The child wants to know all about the Foster Parent - his family, his community and his country. In turn he tries to describe his own family and way of life.

Often a snapshot of the foster parent, sent in a letter, is the child's most treasured possession. Foster parents who have visited their foster children at home report that the first thing they saw were framed pictures of themselves on the wall. Travelling foster parents are the best advertisments for Foster Parents' Plan.

Bringing Up Baby

HINTS COLLECTED BY MRS. DAN GERBER, MOTHER OF 5

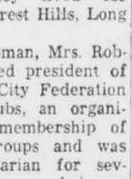

It has always been believed that newborns could only distinguish between light and dark and could follow moving objects only after several weeks. Not any more! Recent clinical studies indicated that newborns can see and can follow moving objects at less than a day old. Interestingly enough, countless mothers have discovered this fact all by themselves. Pretty clever, these mothers.

•

Another "early" first. Cereal is usually the first solid food a baby gets. And Gerber Rice Cereal is often recommended as the starter for these good reasons:

- Gerber Rice Cereal is a mild, single-grain cereal well-tolerated by babies.
- It has added iron—known for its blood-building quality.
- Important B-vitamins thiamine (B_1), riboflavin (B_2) and niacin are increased in the cereal for your baby's sake.
- Mild and pleasing in flavour, Gerber Rice Cereal has a creamy-smooth texture when mixed with formula or milk.

Heady idea. Brand new parents are often astonished at the size of their new baby's head. Seems much too big for the rest of that adorable body. But as baby grows, his body proportions change. Limbs grow more than torso, the head grows less, and suddenly baby is sized just right.

•

Mealtime maneuvers. Two important ingredients for mealtime success: a relaxed and cheerful atmosphere; a goodly variety of food for appetite interest and well-rounded nourishment. Gerber Strained Foods have built-in eating enjoyment and nourishment. Over 50 tempting choices so you can rotate colours and kinds of food to your heart's content and baby's delight. "Custom-cooking" according to the individual requirements of different foods helps preserve food values and brings out the best in each variety. Gerber Baby Foods, Niagara Falls, Canada.

Stanstead Historical Society notes

Joseph Maheux, of Stanstead, a director of the Stanstead Historical Society, tells of another historic paper which has been donated to the museum and follows up with an interesting bit of information. How many remember the old elm tree that stood alone on a hill top for so many years?

Mr. Maheux says: A very interesting article was presented to the Stanstead Historical Society recently by Mrs. Effie Poapst of Stanstead. It was a short composition by Bessie Meigs who lived in this community many years ago. At the time of writing the article she was attending a local school and was in the sixth grade.

It went as follows: My Native Town. Stanstead is my native town, it is about 12 miles from Lake Memphremagog and is nearly surrounded by mountains, Owl's Head is the highest, it is about 500 feet in height, you have a very fine view from the top of that mountain.

"It is very pleasant anywhere by the lake. There are a great many trees here, most of them are maples, the Old Elm Tree that everyone here has heard about is about three miles from the town, it is very pleasant in some places by the river. There are some fine houses here and many people have very handsome gardens. The population of the Township is about 5000.

"Bessie Meigs,
Jan. 6, 1886."

In his research Mr. Maheux says that Bessie Meigs was a daughter of the late Dr. John Meigs and a sister of Mrs. R. Meekren, even in her childhood days she appreciated the beauty of the town and its surroundings. As she grew older, she was a proud possessor of a beautiful flower garden at her home, a place usually called the Meekren house. Many of the older people in town have told how much she enjoyed giving bouquets of beautiful flowers to her friends, especially the young girls.

The Old Elm tree has been gone many years; it stood near the intersectio, of the two roads on the south side of Dufferin Heights, one going to Sherbrooke, the other branching to the right towards Fairfax.

This elm was a giant among trees, larger than any we have nearby today. It was cut down so long ago that not even the oldest citizens remember it but some have told of seeing remains of the stump. Historians tell that the tree became so week with age that it had to be felled, also that, before being cut up, it measured over 99 feet.

FELL FOR 13 MILES

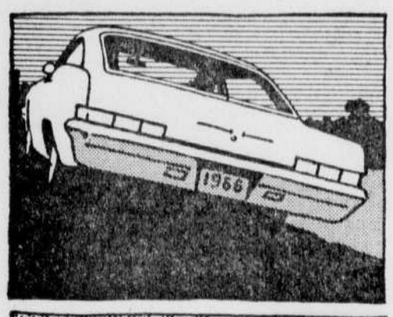

The longest delayed parachute drop was executed in 1960 by Joe W. Kittinger, who fell from 84,700 feet to 17,500 feet before his parachute opened.

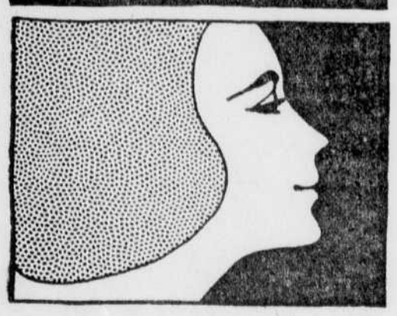

BEE MAN — Thirty pounds of bees, or 120,000 of them in three compartments with three queen bees and taking up 5 cubic feet of space were removed from the rear roof of the Waldo Theater in Kansas City. Victor Franklin, the beekeeper who removed the insects, said the honey and comb half filled a 55-gallon drum. He is shown as he removed a large section of one of the combs from the hidden hive. It took him 2½ hours to complete the job, which included the bees. (AP Wirephoto)
