

ET's maple industry

The market is thirsty, production is problem

By RICHARD SPALDING
(Record staff reporter)

This year's maple syrup season is half over. Predictions and scientific knowledge thus far indicate a below-average quantity.

The unusually heavy snow falls of last winter, added to the late season are cited as reasons for the causes of this year's mediocre crop outlook.

Gordon Herring, of Lennoxville, a long time dedicated master of sweet syrup, says that because of the heavy snow, he was able to tap only one third of the trees he usually does.

For the past week, he says, sap has been running favorably. In order to continue, the weather has to be cold enough at night to freeze the trees, and warm enough during the day to make the trees run. Daytime weather should not exceed 40 degrees. Any temperature above that will deteriorate the sweetness of the sap.

It would be difficult to establish the full extent of the maple syrup business in the region, Mr. Herring says. A number of regular syrup producers in the region have abandoned the traditional practise for varied reasons.

High labor costs, bad weather, high equipment replacement costs and low income. All are held partly responsible, for the decrease in maple syrup producers.

Of all the technical renovations witnessed in past years, one field of production remains the same. Maple syrup is still the result of long boiling hours and careful supervision.

Wood is still the fuel most commonly used by farmers in the woods.

Although the number of producers is declining, the number of consumers increases from year to year. This affluence is greatly responsible for the immediate liquidation of the annual crop.

The market for syrup is better now than in any other period, Mr. Herring says. Since everybody, at one time of another ventures a purchase, either on a side road, or at local food store, it is certain that stock being produced here is marketed, but producers here are constantly aware that only good syrup will sell at a good price.

In the case of inferior quality syrup, neighboring dwellers from the border states purchases all of the deficient production, Mr. Herring says. This helps many in liquidating the year's production.

In some areas throughout the region, horses are still used to carry the sap to the cabin. Their mechanical substitutes simply cannot deal effectively with the working conditions sometimes imposed, many operators believe.

Most often, land elevation will play an important part in a farmer's crop rescue.

Mr. Herring explained that a neighbor has been able to produce more syrup than he, so far this year, using the same number of trees, and had been able to start operations nearly two weeks earlier. So the mystery surrounding a crop failure or success can be partially explained.

Life is getting tougher for farmers in the syrup business. Besides the heavy snows suffered this winter, producers are faced with growing competition on all levels. In order to survive and maintain a lucrative operation, farmers must pay attention to the quality of their product.

The operation run by the Herring family in Lennoxville hopes to produce TYPICAL CAMP — Few industries have the location and unusual surroundings the old sugar camp has. Rich in tradition and color, the centuries-old sugar industry is one which brings millions of dollars into the Eastern Townships.

ONE MORE TIME — Gordon Herring, of Lennoxville, has been producing syrup for a number of years. Wood is still the most economical way of boiling sap.

AN ART — One gallon of good maple syrup is a by product of experience, supervision and about 35 gallons of sap.

RAW MATERIAL — At the Herring sugar camp, in Lennoxville an attendant sets out to gather sap. An average of 700 gallons a day is picked up.

Your weekend weather

The sun will be out this weekend but temperatures will be cool.

The last few snow flurries of the season may fall tonight but Saturday and Sunday will bring sun and mid-forty temperatures.

Winds tonight will be 20 mph from the northwest but will lessen over the weekend. Low tonight and high tomorrow, 20 and 45.

Ayer's Cliff Police Chief Wayne Little this morning warned all motorists to stay clear of the Ayer's Cliff-Massawippi road because of heavy flooding.

Already one car carrying a man, his wife and one child has been trapped, he said.

Chief Little said the road will be impassable for at least a week.

Flood threats by the St. Francis River appeared lessened this morning following an anxious night. (See page 5).

BORDER THEATRE

ROCK ISLAND, QUE.

THURSDAY, April 3, 1969 — Twenty-six-year-old Pierre Brochu, Sherbrooke, ordered to stand trial at the next Assizes to answer a charge of knife assault on the person of Roger Bergeron.

Brochu appeared for voluntary statement before Sessions Court Judge Benoit Turmel.

He was charged at preliminary hearing in connection with an incident that occurred during the night of March 15, and 16 in which Roger Bergeron almost died.

Emile and Yvon Beaulac, arrested last week in Asbestos while robbing an appliance store, were given suspended sentences by Sessions Court Judge Benoit Turmel.

Both men were ordered to post a bond to keep the peace for two years. Defense Attorney Jean Cormier told the court the robbery took place while both men were intoxicated.

He explained that the Beaulac brothers went to the store with truck lettered with their names, forced entry and took merchandise out of the store, almost before the eyes of the police.

Spate of accidents

SATURDAY, April 5, 1969 — Bad driving conditions caused a series of accidents today on Bourque Boulevard, near the Woolco Shopping Centre, police report.

Within a half-hour, a total of 11 cars were in a series of accidents. Heavy fog and slippery pavement were held mainly responsible for the accidents.

Total damages are estimated at about $9,000. Nobody was injured.

Sherbrooke municipal police arrested three youths early this morning after the Rex Cinema on Galt Street West was broken into and $80 worth of goods taken.

Two of the young men, Normand Doyon and Pierre Lanctot, both 18-years-old, were arraigned before Sessions Court Clerk J. F. Bilodeau.

The incident was first noticed when the janitor, Alfred Lauzon, heard unusual noises inside the theatre and immediately notified police.

1,000th man

SUNDAY, April 6, 1969 — The 1,000th student to graduate from the Canadian Armed Forces recruit school in Saint-Jean has received his certificate less than one year after the school opened.

The school for French-Canadian recruits was founded May 1, 1968, and graduate number 1,000 was Private Regent Heze, 17, son of Mr. and Mrs. Claude Heze, 1056 Princess Street, Sherbrooke. He is in a class of 45, the 31st such class to graduate.

The Saint-Jean school is one of two for basic training in the forces, being for recruits whose primary language is French. The other school is at HMCS Cornwallis in Nova Scotia.

The Magog-Orford Tourist Association has again taken charge of inquiries received in the area by persons seeking summer cottage hotel, motel or camping site information.

The service was handled by a private enterprise last year. However, because of the vast number of calls and the importance attached to Magog's tourist industry, the association decided at its last meeting to channel all inquiries through their full-time office located at 1032 Main Street West.

The 108 successful candidates for membership in the 1969 National Youth Orchestra of Canada include Sherbrooke violinist Lorraine Desmarais.

The choice resulted from auditions held recently across the country. NYU President Bailey Bird said the board has decided to accept an additional 34 young musicians for training this summer.

Due to the size limitations of the symphony orchestra, it has been decided to form a chamber group.

Foiled, drat it!

MONDAY, April 7, 1969 — Two would-be jewel thieves were frustrated in their attempt to tunnel into a downtown jewelry store this evening by an inquisitive judo instructor.

The two men escaped after being discovered by Gaston Boule, while they were cutting a hole in the ceiling of Champlain Optical Company office up into the floor of Bijouterie Baldini store.

Sherbrooke police report Mr. Boule, a judo instructor, was checking an office in the judo school adjacent to the room where the men were at work.

He confronted the men, the spokesman said, and asked them if they were making repairs. When they said yes, Mr. Boule left to call police. Meanwhile the thieves made their escape — probably over the roof.

Rene Levesque and Gilles Gregoire, president and vice-president of Le Parti Quebecois which favors independence of Quebec from the rest of Canada, have scheduled a blitz campaign in the Eastern Townships for the coming weekend.

The agenda shapes up as a series of public meetings being scheduled in such widely separated points as Granby, Lake Megantic and Asbestos.

A group of 24 young Indians arrived in Sherbrooke tonight for a week-long stay. The visit is part of a cultural exchange sponsored by the Christian Education Organization of the Sherbrooke Diocese.

The visitors are from the Mistassini reservation, near La Tuque, Quebec. They are all between 14 and 16-years-old. During their stay, they are to visit the city and its surroundings.

They will be housed with Sherbrooke students. Tuesday, the visitors and students of Sherbrooke High School will leave for a four-day visit of Ottawa.

In hospital

TUESDAY, April 8, 1969 — Mrs. Germain Gendron, Sherbrooke, remains in Hotel Dieu Hospital today with multiple injuries received in a two-car collision Monday.

A car driven by Michel Hamel, Sherbrooke, was travelling on Terrill Street, when a second car driven by Mrs. Gendron was coming out of Chicoyne Street onto Terrill Street.

The two cars collided and Mr. Hamel apparently lost control of his car which later crashed further down the street.

Five persons were taken to Hotel Dieu Hospital. They are Mr. and Mrs. Michel Hamel, Mrs. Serge St-Cyr, Mrs. Germain Gendron, and her daughter Sylvie. Only Mrs. Gendron was kept in the hospital.

The safeguarding of Lake Memphremagog and its tributaries will come under careful consideration tonight when Tony LeSauter, an authority on anti-pollution will address three service clubs at the Marina Lounge, 187 Megy South in Magog.

The meeting is organized by the Memphremagog Conservation Club with special representative groups from Les Franks, Kiwanis and Lions Clubs.

Mr. LeSauter's topic will be: "Conservation of Lake and River Waters." Magog businessmen in attendance have expressed concern over the cleanliness of their lake and the Magog River, both of which have gained considerable publicity of late.

An administrative secretary to serve as a nerve centre between the brain of city council and the senior administration officers and the arms and legs of the city's administration departments would go a long way to correcting bureaucratic problems city hall is meeting in getting its work done.

This is the conclusion of a report submitted to council by Sherbrooke Mayor Armand Nadeau.

In his report on the proposed revamping of the council's committee system, Mayor Nadeau said the new officer would be able to assure a net work between the legislators and the departments once jurisdictions throughout the system are clearly defined.

Lennoxville Mayor Cecil Dougherty talked of a possible emergency set-up for Lennoxville during last night's meeting.

The idea follows a recent information session the mayor attended which presented the possible emergency cities as well as smaller communities could have.

Mayor Dougherty said it would cost the municipality nothing to evaluate the buildings and other areas that could be used in the case of an emergency.

He stated the space available at Bishop's University and the Franciscan monastery could be considered.

Demolish plant

WEDNESDAY, April 9, 1969 — Canadian Johns-Manville has announced that its Asbestos manufacturing plant will have to be demolished by 1972.

The announcement was made by Mine Manager J. O. Eby, during a meeting with the Syndicate National de l'Amiante. The company and union are presently negotiating the renewal of their labor agreement.

A Sherbrooke company has developed and is presently constructing parts for a revolutionary new nuclear reactor and power station at Gentilly, Quebec. If the project is successful it could open the way for new and cheaper production of electricity by nuclear power throughout the world.

Dr. R. E. Vuia said the Atomic Energy Commission gave the Sherbrooke firm only rough plans when they asked them to build the headers and the most of the development and testing had to be done by the company itself.

St. Pat's Day theme of party

ROCK ISLAND — The Senior Citizens gathering was held on March 12 in Stanstead South Church hall with a program of Irish readings in keeping with St. Patrick's Day part of the program. Several hymns sung were favorites of the Seniors, with Mrs. A. P. Bliss playing the piano. The Golden Agers song was also sung.

The remainder of the afternoon was spent playing cards and games. Later refreshments were served by a group of Ladies Aid members.

Mrs. G. Hatch, having a March birthday, was presented with a booklet of poems as all sang the Birthday Song. She expressed appreciation for the gift and especially the card signed by everyone present, which she stated will be kept "in my book of souvenirs."

Allies study Canada's new troop reduction

WASHINGTON (CP) — NATO foreign ministers wrestle today with the wording of a communique to reflect their varying degrees of caution on how to respond to the Warsaw pact's call for an East-West conference to resolve the problems of Europe.

In the background, meanwhile, the ministers also continue to assess the psychological and actual effects of the proposed Canadian reduction in NATO troops.

"Our action is not intended to reduce the strength of the alliance," External Affairs Minister Mitchell Sharp told a news conference Thursday night.

"It needn't, necessarily," weaken NATO, he added in suggesting that other member countries could move in to take up the slack left by the Canadian withdrawal.

Several ministers expressed concern over the decision announced by Prime Minister Trudeau last week.

Canadian adherence meant world concern

OTTAWA (CP) — Canadian adherence to the North Atlantic Treaty Organization 20 years ago represented an abrupt departure from this nation's traditional policy of avoiding peacetime foreign military entanglements.

At one time in the succeeding years Canada's military commitment to the alliance was much greater than it is today: About 13,000 men as compared to 10,000.

Now, Prime Minister Trudeau is proposing to cut the forces still further in a "planned, phased reduction" that could lead to a total liquidation of Canada's military presence in Europe.

External Affairs Minister Mitchell Sharp and Defence Minister Leo Cadieux are in Washington this week explaining the government's intentions to Canada's allies, taking part in a 20th-anniversary meeting of the NATO council.

Canada played a leading role in the formation of the alliance, which was a direct response to the 1948 Communist coup in Czechoslovakia.

cern that others might follow Canada's lead.

"Not unilateralism but multilateralism" should be the theme of the alliance, Healey was quoted by briefing officers as having told the closed meeting.

WILL KEEP PLEDGE

President Richard Nixon, while in no way linking his remarks to the Canadian decision, told the gathering marking the 20th anniversary of the alliance that "NATO is needed and the American commitment to NATO will remain in force and remain strong."

The alliance is "strong but challenged," he said, adding:

"We find disputes about its structure, political divisions among its members, reluctance to meet prescribed force quotas.

"Many people on both sides of the Atlantic find NATO anachronistic, something quaint and familiar and a bit old-fashioned."

STAKES ON AIRPORT SITE — Mining stake, in the name of Soquem, a Quebec government subsidiary, is on the border of about 3,000 acres of land selected by the federal government for its new international airport at Ste. Scholastique, 26 miles northwest of Montreal. The staking was done as late as March 11 — about two weeks before Transport Minister Hellyer announced the location of Montreal's new airport.

Airport letter attacks site

QUEBEC (CP) — The Quebec government opposed location of a new airport to the northwest of Montreal as early as Jan. 30, two months before the federal government announced such a location had been selected, it was revealed Thursday.

Premier Jean-Jacques Bertrand outlined the province's opposition in a "personal and confidential" letter sent to Prime Minister Trudeau Jan. 30. The letter, now part of a provincial presentation to the federal government on the airport site, was made public Thursday.

The federal government announced March 27 the new Montreal international airport would be located at Ste. Scholastique, 26 miles northwest of downtown Montreal.

The location, however, has been a matter of dispute between the federal and provincial governments. The province wants the airport built to the south or southeast of Montreal.

A meeting is scheduled for April 14 between Paul Hellyer, federal transport minister, and Robert Lussier, Quebec municipal affairs minister, to discuss the issue.

PULLING WESTWARD

Premier Bertrand said in the letter a site west or northwest of Montreal was unacceptable "because it is especially eastern Ontario which will benefit from it and because the present pull of the Quebec economy to the west by Montreal and Ontario will be accentuated."

A site south of Montreal, would involve enthusiastic cooperation by all Quebec groups and be "a splendid example of what can be accomplished by common agreement."

Premier Bertrand suggested obstacles to such a site because of the closeness of a military air base at Plattsburgh, N.Y., could be overcome by an agreement with the American government.

... brief urges tripartite group

MONTREAL (CP) — The federal government should finance a tripartite commission to co-ordinate development in the area of Ste. Scholastique, site of Montreal's new international airport, it was suggested Thursday.

A brief to the Quebec and federal governments from the intermunicipal commission of the counties of Argenteuil-Deux Montagnes says no time should be lost in establishing the commission.

"Our people are quite perplexed concerning the immediate future and... no one can come forward with positive answers," the brief says.

The federal government announced Ste. Scholastique, 26 miles northwest of downtown Montreal, as the site of a new jumbo-jet airport on March 27.

This touched off a bitter dispute with the provincial government

There's no definite proof of exodus

MONTREAL (CP) — Are Quebecers, for political or other reasons, really leaving the province in droves?

Answers from interviewed long-distance trucking companies are widely differing, short on statistics and speculative.

Ron Coughlin, executive vice-president of A. and F. Baillargeon Express Inc., says two families move out of Quebec for every one that moves in.

"It's become a real problem for us," he says. "Vans come back from the West either empty or, at best, half full."

Mr. Coughlin says most of his business is from people who feel there are better working opportunities outside Quebec.

MOST GO WEST

Of the 1,200 families his company will move this year, about two-thirds will be going west.

Barry Brule, vice-president of Mayflower World Wide Movers, says he has noticed this trend in recent years, "but it's nothing to get alarmed over."

Mayflower handles about 5,000 moves annually and Mr. Brule says it is nearly impossible to produce statistics supporting his impression of an exodus.

"All I can say is that I've noticed a trend in the past year for more people to order moves outside Quebec rather than to points inside the province."

For every 10 families moved out, nine are moved in, says Harold Hinton, branch manager with Difon Van Lines Montreal Ltd.

"Quite frankly, I haven't seen too much evidence to indicate that more people are moving out of Quebec than in previous years."

Many Harvard students vote for strike

About 1,200 Harvard University students have voted to strike for three days at the 15,000-student Cambridge, Mass., school to protest police tactics in ending a campus sit-in. Some professors cancelled today's classes.

Sit-ins and strikes beset other campuses around the United States.

The Harvard strike vote came

Thursday after some 400 helmeted policemen swarmed onto the campus earlier in the day to break up the sit-in, leaving 39 students injured and 197 arrested.

The sit-in on the campus had begun Wednesday to protest the Reserve Officers Training Corps program and plans—denied by Harvard officials—to expand the medical school and displace local Negro residents. The sit-in was organized by Students for a Democratic Society.

Seven policemen and three non-students were also hurt in Thursday's melee.

In Stanford, Calif., about 600 students voted Thursday night to remain inside Stanford University's Applied Electronics Laboratory, where they had moved in Wednesday.

Egyptian army put on alert along Canal

The Egyptian army was placed on the alert today along the Suez Canal following a fierce artillery battle across the waterway Thursday.

Meanwhile in Washington, King Hussein of Jordan outlined a six-point proposal to solve the Arab-Israeli conflict.

Unofficial Israeli sources in Jerusalem today viewed the Hussein proposal as a propaganda manoeuvre.

The king announced the plan in a speech to the United States National Press Club and said it had the full backing of President Gamal Abdel Nasser of Egypt.

In Jerusalem, the Israeli foreign ministry declined comment on the proposal but a source close to the government said: "A solution cannot be achieved through pronouncements at the Press Club in Washington, but only through direct negotiations between the parties involved."

WOULD SIGN TREATY?

The sources said Israel objects to the plan because it would have Israel abandon all Arab lands captured in the 1967 Mideast war and because Hussein did not say whether he is ready to sign a peace treaty with Israel.

Hussein wound up a three-day state visit to the U.S. Thursday by sketching his plan.

The plan that would guarantee freedom of passage through the Gulf of Aqaba and the Suez Canal publicity.

Canada had been informed April 3 about the Chinese acceptance of the Canadian invitation to hold talks and a meeting had been held immediately, he said.

Sharp said he knows of no preconditions on either side. He declined to discuss any of the probable issues although he said it is obvious that questions on the future of Taiwan would arise.

Sharp said he had dealt at some length at the NATO ministerial meeting here Thursday on the importance Canada attaches to bringing China into contact with the Western world.

He said it would not be helpful if the discussions were conducted in the glare of constant to the ships of Israel and all other countries of the region.

In return for this, Hussein said, Israel must hand back all territory it has occupied since the six-day war of June, 1967.

The Egyptian army was in a state of maximum alert along the Suez Canal today and the whole zone was under a nightly curfew following the two-hour flare-up along the canal Thursday night.

The Egyptians said they killed or wounded 65 Israeli troops. It listed Egyptian losses as three casualties.

An army spokesman in Tel Aviv said five Israeli soldiers were wounded.

The other points outlined by Hussein reflected a United Nations Security Council resolution that called on all the parties of the June, 1967, war to move toward a peaceful settlement. The six points of Hussein called for:

—An end of all belligerency.

—Respect for and acknowledgement of the sovereignty, territorial integrity and political independence of all states in the area.

China talks start in a month's time

WASHINGTON (CP) — Canada now has "a response from China indicating willingness to enter into substantive discussions" on diplomatic recognition, External Affairs Minister Mitchell Sharp said Thursday.

He said that the talks are expected to get under way in "about a month's time" but it is not known how long they will last. He added in a news conference statement that they will proceed in Stockholm between the Canadian and Chinese embassies there in strict secrecy.

De Gaulle wants interest

PARIS (CP) — President de Gaulle, faced with a referendum vote April 27 on his reform program for France, is awaiting signs whether his threat Thursday night to resign in the event of defeat at the polls will offset a mood of indecision among voters.

First reactions to the threat were cool. But, coming mainly from opposition sources or others unenthusiastic about Gaullism, they may not have been significantly representative.

Observers here are wondering whether the 78-year-old president's resignation warning, latest in a succession of such threats by him on critical occasions, will prove a case of "the boy who cried wolf."

De Gaulle's television statement climaxed a vigorous 50-minute counter-attack against critics who charge that the referendum is illegal and the reforms—involving more power for regional authorities and a transformed senate—are bogus.

But public opinion experts estimate that possibly more than half the electorate, prior to the broadcast, was still undecided or non-committal about how to vote.

The conservative newspaper Le Figaro today questioned the wisdom of the referendum and its very point.

"Why this referendum when France had other problems to solve and ones so much more urgent?" the paper asks.

HOSTILITY EXPECTED

Opposition spokesmen issued predictably hostile statements about the de Gaulle performance.

Yet Thursday brought what may be a somewhat more significant-rejection of reforms proposed by Rene Pleven, a former French premier. Pleven is an important voice of moderate reformists in long-disgraced Brittany and nationally-influential among politicians of the non-Gaullist centre.

Closer to his home camp, the president is faced with murmurs of dissension among the pro-Gaullist Independent Republicans.

Valery Giscard d'Estaing, leader of the Independent Republicans, already has voiced criticisms of the Gaullist reform projects and is not expected to commit himself one way or another on the referendum until next week.

The Gaullists are mobilizing all their big guns for intensive campaigning now that their general has spoken.

On the front line will be ex-premier Georges Pompidou. An aspirant to presidential power.

Old conflict of French-Canadians is to reconcile the heart and mind

This is another in a series of articles in which prominent French-Canadians give their views on the problems facing Quebec today and in the years immediately ahead.

By JOSEPH MACSWEEN

RENE LEVESQUE

MONTREAL (CP) — How did modern separatism grow? First it was a means to an end, then it became an end in itself.

That's the nutshell summary of a prominent French-Canadian who also believes that every Quebecois feels within himself the pull of both federalism and separatism.

This concept was not challenged, by the way, by a number of anti-separatists in the course of interviews on the general future of Quebec.

One business source recounted an anecdote in connection with the contention of the Province of Quebec Chamber of Commerce that separatism is an economically unfeasible dream.

The business executive addressed a public meeting one night on this theme, stressing the chamber's finding that Quebec's independence from the rest of Canada would result in a drop in living standards. After the meeting, a lawyer emerged from the audience.

"Here I know you're right," the man said, pointing to his head. "But here I'm not so sure," he added, hand on heart.

DREAM NOT PECULIAR

The formula of Rene Levesque and his Parti Quebecois, envisaging a sovereign Quebec within a Canadian economic union, is seen as an attempt to reconcile this old conflict or dualism of the French-Canadian mind and heart. And, of course, nationalist movements in Scotland, Wales and Brittany show the dream of autonomy is not peculiar to French-Canadians.

Quebecois voters tended traditionally to tackle their dilemma by sending an "all-Canada" man to Ottawa and a nationalist to Quebec City — witness former prime minister Louis St. Laurent and the late premier Maurice Duplessis.

Autonomy was the word used in the days when Mr. Duplessis staged his gladiatorial spectacles with Ottawa, just as Quebec leaders had done before, though not always in the same way.

"Separatism was a tool in the hands of premiers of Quebec — a very useful tool," said the businessman. "It hung over federal-Quebec quarrels like a sword of Damocles."

"The premier had only to hint that — if the federal negotiators considered his position extreme — they should pause and think about more extreme forces that could be unleashed."

"The fact that there were some separatists was helpful to the premiers. Separatism was a means of arriving at their objectives. But it is a mistake to use the means as an end in itself."

A bigger segment of the Quebec population began to think that the tool was no longer enough in the traumatic changes of the 1960s. "Mass media", so often blamed or credited in the developments of modern society, helped to bring about a radical change in attitude. Political conflicts between Ottawa and Quebec City were magnified.

Saskatchewan joins in rebating of estate tax

Quebec, a province that needs capital investment to permit its economic expansion, could do well to study the provinces of Alberta and Saskatchewan which have legislation permitting the provincial governments to rebate their 75 per cent of the federal estate tax.

Alberta took the step a year ago and its effect on attracting foreign capital was so pronounced that neighboring Saskatchewan has just followed suit. And to stay in the running for capital, the Manitoba government plans to take similar action at the current session of the Legislature.

The amount of revenue lost to the provinces will be modest and probably will be more than offset by increased economic activity. And the social effects will be widespread.

With a direct loss of revenue of $4,000,000 in a full taxation year, Saskatchewan Premier Thatcher hopes that he will help to keep estates from moving out of his province to more favorable tax climates and at the same time will prevent hardship to owners of farms and small business.

At present, some family farms and family businesses must be sold because the inheritor simply cannot raise enough money to pay the succession duties.

Rebate of the provincial portion of the tax should keep these businesses and farms in the hands of Saskatchewan people.

All these arguments are equally applicable to Quebec where the small business and family farm is under extreme economic pressure.

If you ask someone to keep something under his hat, make certain that he's not so constructed that it will escape through his mouth.

Reason taking control

Decision of the Quebec Government to prevent further staking of mining claims in the area being expropriated for the new Montreal international airport may be an indication that some sense of reason is being restored to the argument between Quebec and Ottawa over the location of the airport.

Perhaps one reason for substituting reason for invective was the grossly exaggerated and distorted story of the claim staking.

If one were to accept the original reports, it would seem the Quebec Government had decided to use the state-owned Quebec Mining Explorations Company as an agency for embarrassing the efforts of the federal authorities to establish the airport in the Ste. Scholastique area. According to the first story, a wave of provincial prospectors had been sent into the region to tie up the land by staking. And the impression was left that the staking spree started after the airport site was announced.

But a closer check on the situation reveals that the comparatively few claims staked were registered before the announcement of the site, many of them by a company that is actually carrying on operations in the vicinity.

The desire of the provincial government to have the airport located elsewhere for economic reasons can be understood and the loud protests from Quebec must be related to the critical political position in which the Bertrand cabinet finds itself.

But it is doubtful that the province will do anything to endanger the airport project and, perhaps, have it transferred to somewhere outside the province.

Next time you think you have troubles, consider the plight of the gent with an artificial mustache and a sneezy head cold.

Boob-tube is changing face of Parliament

By RICHARD JACKSON

OTTAWA OFFBEAT

OTTAWA — Sooner or later — probably sooner, by the way they've been talking and mugging it up in front of the cameras — the Honorable members of the Commons are going to get themselves on television.

On CBC TV that is, as a regular daily feature, pre-recorded for instant evening prime time replays.

What this may do to the TV ratings of the People's Network could be in inverse ratio to what it might do for the shareholders of the television cable companies and the private networks.

For it's just possible that the parliamentary performance of some of the Honorable Members hasn't been all that entrancing to the disenfranchised taxpayers that they would wish to have evening encores inflicted on them by way of the boob-tube.

But this possibility so far seems to have escaped most of those parliamentarians who esteem themselves as potential TV personalities.

The regard of some of them for their own TV talents has put them in peril of their life and limb. CHANGING FACE

The moment Mr. Speaker Lucien Lamoureux calls the Orders of the Day, signalling the end of the Daily Question Period, there is a mad rush out of the House and into the hallways and a wild scramble for a place in the TV sun.

There they line up, hopefully, waiting to be asked by the TV crews to say a few pointed words on this or that issue of the Commons day.

The scramble for the white chalk line, the centre of television focus, can take several forms.

There is the headlong rush, unabashed. No false modesty here. No hanging back. First on the chalk line, first on camera.

Then there is the self-conscious shift and shuffle. The outwardly uncaring but inwardly impatient wait for the winner of the scramble ("rotten camera hog") to get done, and let the real star of the day get on.

Finally there is the wistful wait. The ever-hopeful undistinguished nonentities, who uncomfortably loiter around on the long chance that 20 blinding seconds under the TV floodlights will illuminate their hidden talents and transform them from the wilderness of the Commons backbenches to power and glory in the living rooms of the taxpayers.

This TV bit, as the electronic media calls it — quite incorrectly, for it no longer is a "bit" — is changing the face of Parliament. STATESMANLIKE

Most of all it's changing the face of the individual parliamentarian.

It used to be that a parliamentarian's facial-dress-of-the-day was a big smile for public appearances.

You must remember the pictures. All political pumpkin faces. Wide genial grins. Dentures on display in person and in print.

The poor guy might have lost the business vote, kiss off the labor vote, alienated the women's vote, boomed the student vote.

His own constituency executive might mark him down as a political cipher with the rim removed.

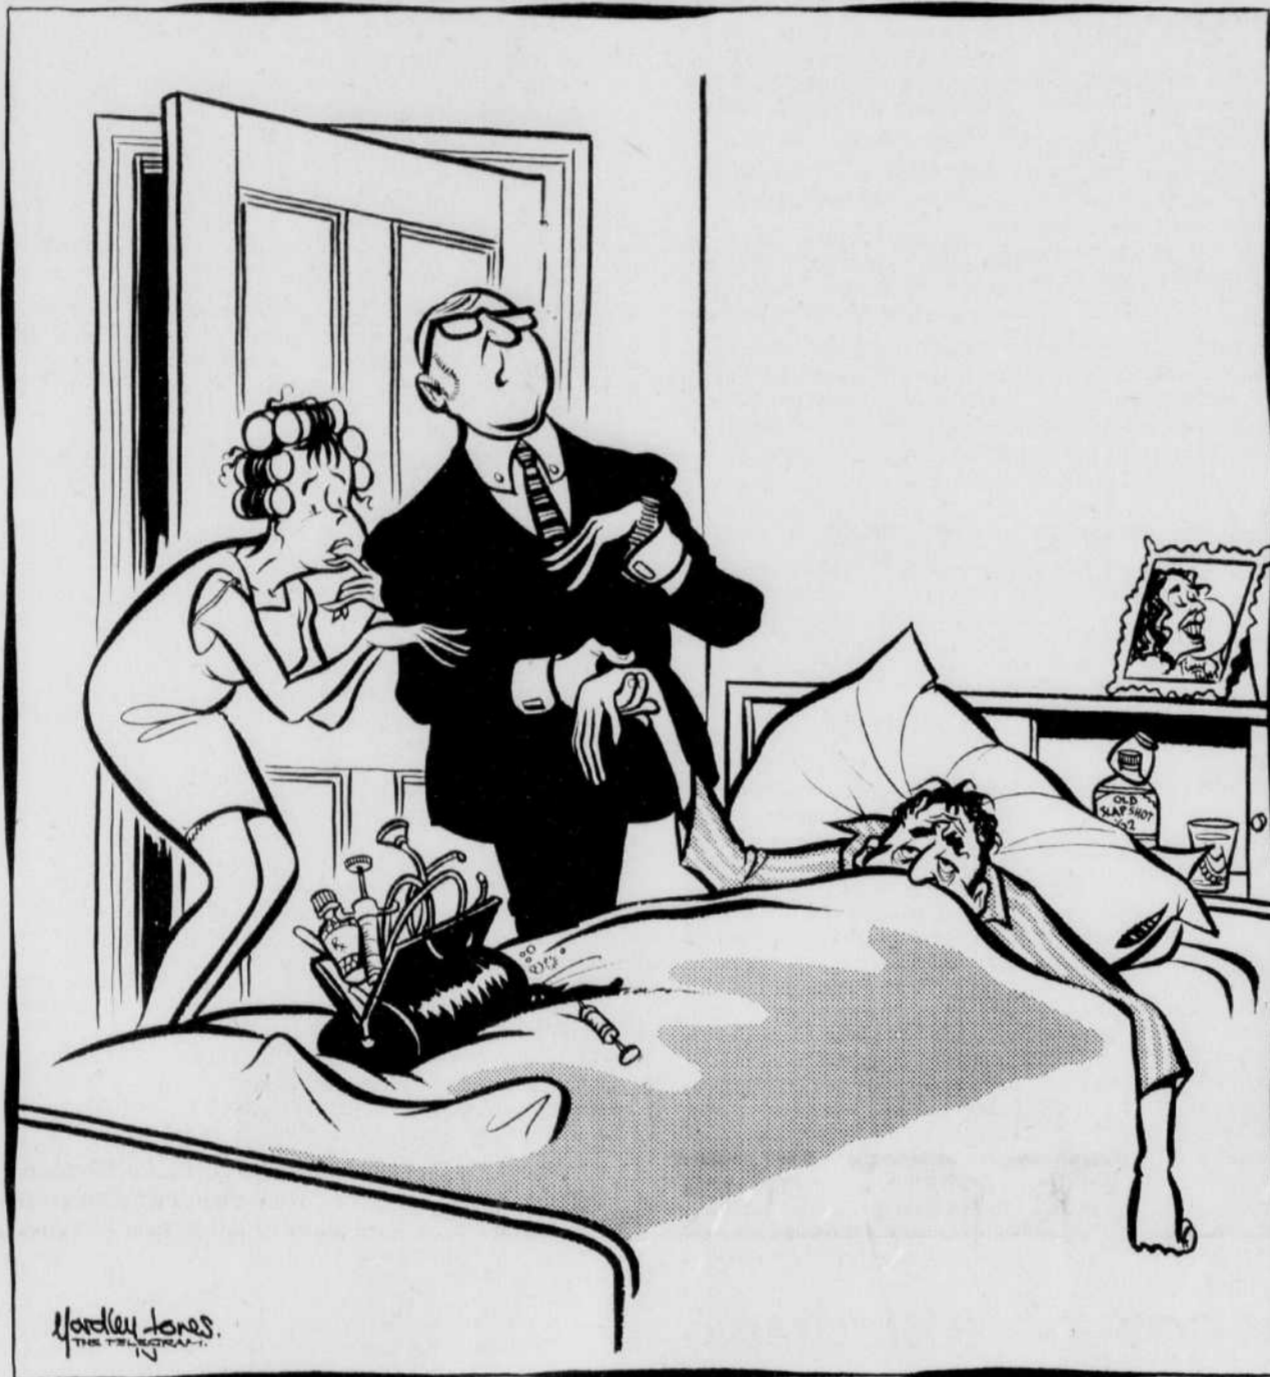

He might have earned himself a gold-plated guarantee of well-merited defeat at the next election — but there he always was, in person or in picture, grinning his way to political oblivion.

Now for TV he's gone serious. Most of all, sincere. He is concerned. Troubled. The weight of the world can be seen on his brow.

Even his tie (for glorious color) must be sincere.

Frivolity never. Lugubrious ever. Problems, you know, nothing but problems. Many of them your problems, and who to make a more sincere effort at solution than that deadpan on the boob-tube? For parliamentary television, the name of the game is gloom and doom.

If the Honorable Members make it into prime time, and make it they're working like mad to do, the "House of Commons Show" could be even more depressing than that CBC National News.

"Quit smoking, overeating and thinking about the Maple Leafs . . ."

Perspectives and Prejudices Worst threat to Christian cause comes from the 'shadow-boxers'

A scene from a movie I saw many years ago is clinched in my memory. I remember nothing about the movie except this one scene and the scene's main character, a broken-down prizefighter whose inglorious career in the ring had left him permanently punch-drunk. This man did odd jobs around a gymnasium where boxers trained. Every time he heard a bell ring he would almost mechanically adopt a fighting stance and engage in shadow-boxing for a few seconds. Then he

I really fight. Shadow-boxing faith has had long innings, and it is quite fashionable in our time. There are, of course, many Christians today who are engaged in faith's real fight, but most of us who claim to be Christian seem generally to prefer the shadow-boxing as the ordinary expression of our faith. And why shouldn't we? Shadow-boxing faith is always in good taste. There is nothing offensive about going through the motions of religion. For the average comfortable Christian today it is far nicer to go simply through some of the motions than to try to apply the force of faith in all the circumstances of life. And there is a certain exhilaration in shadow-boxing, especially if your imagination will let you have some of the emotional satisfactions of the real fight. (As a small boy, in the seclusion of my bedroom one day, I knocked out both Jack Dempsey and Gene Tunney.) And, of course, shadow-boxing religion doesn't meddle in things which are really none of its business, such as political matters and economic problems and social issues.

REV. J. A. DAVIDSON

would snap out of it, pick up his broom, and carry on sweeping the floor.

That scene shot up from the depths of my memory when I was reading J. B. Phillip's translation-paraphrase of the New Testament and came on these words, "I am no shadow-boxer, I really fight." That is from the ninth chapter of Paul's first letter to the Corinthians. (In the King James Version it is given in this way: "So fight I, not as one that beats the air.")

Paul was afraid that those to whom he preached and wrote would come to think of faith as one of life's optional little extras, as something one could indulge in in one's spare time if one happened to have a taste for that kind of thing. He didn't want them to think that faith is simply going through a few simple and harmless motions. He pinpointed the issue for them by taking a figure of speech from boxing: "I am no shadow-boxer,

Bygone days

TEN YEARS AGO

Sherbrooke's airport project has been given "priority" classification by the federal government authorities, Maurice Allard, MP for Sherbrooke, declared on his return from Ottawa.

It is the member's second statement in a week concerning the airport and follows criticisms by Ald. Paul Gervais, Chairman of the municipal transport committee, of the government's delay in undertaking the project.

A grubbing and clearing contract was awarded early in 1958 but the work was later abandoned.

FIFTEEN YEARS AGO

The Double or Nothing club of Plymouth Church met in the Church Hall. The meeting was brought to order with a short devotional period. Kay and Dolores Winslow sang two duets which were very much enjoyed by the club.

Following this Mr. James Wark gave a very interesting talk on their trip to the Coronation and trip to the Continent.

Mr. Hawley Griffith thanked the guests on behalf of the club.

TWENTY YEARS AGO

The Lennoxville Women's Association of the United Church was very pleasantly entertained by Mrs. Curtis Brazel, at her home on Mississippi Street. Mrs. W. S. Richardson was in the chair. The devotional exercises were taken by Mrs. Norman McLeod, who read two beautiful Easter poems.

The secretary, Mrs. Alvin Coates, called the roll and read the minutes of the last meeting. Mrs. A. E. Abercrombie gave the financial report.

An acknowledgement of a donation to the Save the Children's fund was read.

French Canada says: Defense revision reconfirmed policy

Montreal Le Devoir — While working on a revision of national defence a year ago, Prime Minister Trudeau carefully re-examined the fundamentals of our defence and foreign policies.

But the more one reads the announcement made public by Mr. Trudeau last Thursday, the more one gets the impression that the revision, if it had anything to do with the fundamentals of the policy, only ended up by reconfirming it, rather than seriously modifying or changing its direction . . .

In matters of defence, two facts have dominated Canadian-American relations since 1945.

Canada would have been incapable of providing by itself the immense resources necessary for proper defence of its territory. For this reason and also for reasons connected with our proximity to the U.S. and with the rapid evolution of modern warfare, Canada has been largely obliged to lean on its neighbor to be assured of proper defence.

Among witnesses before the parliamentary committee on defence and foreign affairs, some . . . called for a policy of non-alignment from a military point of view, and suggested that the principal foreign policy should be a substantial increase in Canadian aid to developing countries.

This orientation would have brought Canada numerous advantages, notably, an improved reputation as a peacemaker. It would have been obliged, however, to examine from top to bottom its social, economic, cultural and political rapport with the United States. To be authentic, it would have presupposed a Canada resolved to define itself distinctly in the world and determined to accept the practical consequences of such action.

But neither the current government nor Canadian public opinion was ready for such a demanding option . . .

Canada has let a chance get by to redefine its position radically vis-a-vis the United States as far as fundamental options are concerned. Consequently, it has lost its chance to carve out a truly original place for itself in the family of nations . . . —Claude Ryan, April 8.

SHERBROOKE LA TRIBUNE

— Pierre Geoffroy, Montreal, found guilty on 129 charges in connection with 31 bombing attempts, as well as on other charges of stealing and concealing dynamite, has been condemned to life imprisonment . . .

Since his arrest, there have not been, for as far as we know, any bombing attempts in Montreal. At any rate, Geoffroy has protected one and probably several persons. We have the impression he took on a responsibility a lot of others would not have taken.

Geoffroy was used by so many persons that we have no choice but to think he represents a strong — and dynamic — group. Confrontation can take many forms these days. Maybe now that Geoffroy is in prison, we will be tempted to sit back and think that the wave of bombing is over.

Are not confrontations an attempt to reply to the injustices which have existed here for such a long time that they resemble long-playing records . . . Louis-C. O'Neill.

IMPROVED HEADQUARTERS—Emergency headquarters were set up in the basement of the Nurse's residence for the simulated evacuation of the Sherbrooke Hospital. Here Civil Defence Official Alex McDonald talks to one of the "patients."

Hospital evacuation drill goes well

Eight student nurses posing as patients were carried on stretchers from the third floor of the Sherbrooke Hospital in a simulated emergency evacuation drill yesterday. The operation took exactly seven minutes.

The "patients" were taken to the nurses' residence, through an underground tunnel linking the two buildings. Registration and simulated treatment was provided by a small staff awaiting them.

Full citizenship sought for Quebec women

Mrs. Ritchie Clark, president of the Quebec English division of the Canadian Federation of University Women said one of her main aims was to get the ball rolling in Quebec to make married women first class citizens.

Explaining some of the aims of the federation, Mrs. Clark said it was ridiculous that her 21-year-old daughter could have more freedom under the law than married women. She said a former national federation president, Mrs. Lora Sabia, had been instrumental in the government's decision to create a Royal Commission on the status of women.

Medical supplies were on hand in the residence. Wooden bed frames were used to provide bedding facilities. Yesterday's partial evacuation was supervised by the hospital's executive director, Donald Fish.

A briefing session with police and fire officers, along with a representation of the Civil Defence, followed the fire drill. The spokesman for the fire department told the gathering it was interesting to know that such a program existed at the hospital. He went on to explain that the simulated fire was quickly located.

The officer noted that considerable time was lost in the transfer of nurses from blankets to stretchers. Assistant Chief of Police Jean Paul Pelletier commented that during the operation, he had detected some lack of discipline and minor confusion. He went on to elaborate a system of traffic circulation that would be required should a real fire occur, in which case both the police and fire departments would be notified at the same time. Mr. Pelletier observed that no doctor has been present to examine the refugees in the sub-basement of the residence.

Sarto Roy, Civil Defence, told the meeting that the Civil Defence had prepared city emergency plans, including 12 services. Another spokesman followed up with his views on the stretchers used in the evacuation. He stated that they were obsolete because of their difficult handling and restricted number. Communications was another topic of which all the responsible officials spoke. There had been no system set up for the evacuation, exception made of the three walkie-talkies introduced into the scene by members of the Civil Defence. Medical Director Dr. A. A. Dougan later emphasized the need for more realistic planning in the field of emergency setups. Saving and preserving lives, specified the doctor, was the hospital's first obligation.

Mr. Donald Fish concluded the hospital felt greater need for emergency planning, and that the afternoon exercise had been a favorable attempt in assessing the present setup. He acknowledged the suggestions made by the various officials and promised further study of the existing measures to improve them to meet the requirements of such an emergency plan.

Burglars sentenced

Marcel Robert was sentenced to a year in jail, while his partner, Robert Caron, was sentenced to one month for theft from a cottage belonging to Mayor Delphis Trepanier of St. Elie d'Orford.

Both are 24 years old and from Sherbrooke. Both had records. The sentences were pronounced by Sessions Court Judge Benoit Turmel yesterday. Attorney Andre Rodrigue pleaded that the court be moderate in its decision. He explained that Caron had tried in vain to find work after his release from jail eight months ago.

His partner is in a similar situation. Marcel Robert had been on strike for the past nine months and had been forced to take measures to assist his family, said his defence council. Sessions Court Judge Benoit Turmel sentenced a Sherbrooke resident, Fernand Lessard to six months in jail, after the man pleaded guilty to a $95 theft from Sherbrooke Express.

St. Francis flood threat tension relaxes today

Police observers relaxed this morning after a tense watch on the rising waters of the St. Francis River in Sherbrooke. At 8:30 a.m. today the water was at the 17-foot, 10-inch level, high but safely below the 20-foot point at which the river would overflow its banks.

Anxiety began at 1 a.m. when the river had reached 16 feet, five inches and was still rising. Even if the water level is now considered not dangerous.

When we turn to thoughts of frogs

I am back from a Spring Holiday, and PROGRAM 5 will be on CKTS Radio on Monday, April 14, at 2 p.m. I will continue with PROGRAM 5 until May 30 without any further interruption. I imagine though that as the weather improves and the ground dries out, my class will be playing more and more outdoors. This coming week will be devoted largely to signs of spring although I know I am a bit early for some of them. Monday I will start talking about tadpoles and their growth into frogs. For homework I would like the children to find a picture of a frog to have in preparation for Tuesday's class. I also want them to draw a pond with fourteen tadpoles in it.

Wednesday I want to tell the class the difference between a frog and a toad, and then describe their insect diet. For homework I am going to ask the pupils to illustrate the story I use about Tim Tadpole. Thursday I want to discuss insects in general terms, and then flies and mosquitoes. This week I will be sending out another set of work sheets for the children. There will be a covering sheet of instructions for you. In the near future we want to visit a number of the children in their homes in order to give them a simple little test which will be explained to the parents present. Peter Anderson or Prof.

Keith Dowd will be doing this starting late in the month and finishing by the end of May. Kindergarten children in school will be visited in the classroom. We are trying to find out how effective PROGRAM 5 has been, in hopes that it can be continued next year.

FASHION TIPS

Proper Suds for You
If you're a soap and water girl with oily skin, try washing your face with a medicated drying soap or a hypo-allergenic type. Be sure to rinse your face thoroughly.

On-the-Town Gown

The tortoise twist of a mock turtle chain belt adds spark to any casual curvaceous dress. This type of dress is just the thing for the around-town scene in lovely sheer wool.

United Church's first lay moderator visits Sherbrooke

"The Modern Approach" is the theme for the annual meeting of the Quebec-Sherbrooke Presbyterian United Church Women, which meets on Monday, April 14. This spring annual meeting will convene at Trinity United Church, Sherbrooke, with registration at 9:30 a.m. and opening exercises at 10 o'clock.

After the business has been dealt with, there will be a panel discussion on The Action Group with Miss Ruth Lannigan as moderator. Mrs. J. M. Harrington, Montreal-Ottawa Conference U.C.W. president, will conduct the morning worship service and the Rev. R. A. Cameron of Richmond, president of the Montreal-Ottawa Conference will be in attendance. There will be the election of officers and installation service.

The U.C.W. members are eagerly awaiting the visit of the moderator of the United Church, Dr. Robert B. McClure, MD, BD, who will be the guest speaker. Dr. McClure grew up in China where his father was a medical missionary. He received his later education in Canada, graduating from the University of Toronto with a medical degree in 1922.

Dr. McClure served in China from 1923 until 1948 when the Communists took over. While practicing there, he averaged one operation for gun shot wounds every day for ten years. In 1934, Dr. McClure studied radiology in Europe and returned to inland China with radium for cancer treatment. The radium was donated by the late Vincent Massey.

He also studied public health in Sweden. He worked with the international Red Cross in China and was their official representative in war-time China from 1941 to 1948. He often met Chou En-lai and Mao Tse-tung.

Dr. McClure intended to return to China after being driven out in 1948. When this proved impossible, he served in Gaza, Palestine until 1954. From Gaza he went to the Mission hospital in Ratlam, Central India. There his reputation as a surgeon, a pioneer, in public health and birth control, continued to grow. Among his other skills, he acted as electrician, mechanic and plumber and could devise ingenious means of overcoming the lack of sophisticated hospital equipment.

In 1968, there was another first for Dr. McClure. He was the first elected layman to the highest position in the United Church, that of moderator.

This remarkable man is also one of the wittiest and most effective public speakers in Canada. The United Church Women are most fortunate in having the opportunity of hearing him speak.

ST. MONICA'S GUILD

The regular meeting of St. Monica's Guild of St. Georges church in Lennoxville was held on April 8. Mrs. Nan Belding, the president opened the meeting with the Lords Prayer. The secretary, Mrs. John Andrews, then read minutes of the past meeting which were approved. The treasurer, Mrs. G. McKinsey gave the financial report.

Other committees than gave their various reports. The president welcomed Mrs. Doris Montgomery who had been once a member and was there as a guest.

It was announced that the date for the Military Whist had been changed from April 17, to April 24. Mrs. Belding told the members that the tickets were available. Mrs. May Beers and Mrs. Barter were to look after calling the members for the food for the evening.

Mrs. T. J. Matthews suggested that the members hold a corporate Communion on May 4. Mrs. Ena Smith made a motion that we answer the appeal for help that was made by Maplemount Home in Cookshire and the Lawrence Colony; seconded by Mrs. T. J. Matthews.

The meeting was adjourned by Mrs. Carol Hobbs. After which a lively game of military whist took place. It was enjoyed by all. Tea was then served by Mrs. Betty Evans, Mrs. A. Halsall and Mrs. G. Patriquin who were hostesses for the evening.

YOUVILLE HOSPITAL

The regular meeting of Youville Hospital Auxiliary was held on April 1 at 8 p.m. in the conference room at the hospital. The meeting was opened by the president, Mrs. Carol Bishop, with a silent prayer. She then turned the meeting over to Mrs. Joyce Booth who introduced the guest speakers for the evening.

Mrs. Booth introduced Mr. Gaston Lessard and Mr. Jean Racicot. Both men are patients

IN THE HOSPITAL

Mr. Racicot spoke on the home for the handicapped that they are trying to establish in Sherbrooke. Mr. Racicot spoke on the three main points that they want in this project. One was that they want a new home big enough to accommodate 14 persons. It would also have to be suitable for the wheelchair handicapped. Which would mean the floor level would be important. Second they would like to have it built in a convenient area of Sherbrooke. As the people living in this home would like to be self-supporting, so they could all help to pay off the debt and also support themselves. They also want to have the home administered by the handicapped themselves and hope to maintain a family atmosphere. It will accommodate men and women with a few staff members. The guests were then thanked by Mrs. Therese Dubreuil.

The president, Mrs. Carol Bishop, continued the meeting by having the minutes of the past meeting read and approved. The treasurer then read the financial report which showed that the African Violet sale was very successful. Thanks were extended to Mrs. Lee Heath for the great job done on this sale. It was decided to hold the annual tag day on April 25 and 26. Mrs. Jeanne Turcotte is to be the head of this event. Mrs. Lucille Derick, Mrs. Joyce Booth, Mrs. Marjorie Blachford, Mrs. Therese Dubreuil and Mrs. Denyse Langevin will also help on this committee. After further discussion on this event Mrs. Carol Bishop then adjourned the meeting. Coffee was served by Mrs. Emily Parker and Mrs. John Andrews.

LENOXVILLE UNITED CHURCH WOMEN

The April meeting of Unit 1, Lennoxville United Church Women was held in Douglas Hall. Mrs. Tom Saunders presided and the meeting opened by all repeating the U.C.W. Purpose. In welcoming the members Mrs. Saunders especially mentioned Mrs. J. A.

H. Plowright who was a guest.

"The Easter Gladness" was the theme of the devotional which was conducted by Mrs. A. Norman Flint. The hymn Rejoice the Lord is King was sung with Mrs. Plowright at the piano.

Minutes of the last meeting were read by the secretary Mrs. Wentworth Richardson who also called the roll. Fifteen calls on sick and shut-ins were reported. The treasurer's report given by Mrs. A. Norman Flint showed a satisfactory balance. A donation of $10.00 was received from a lady who although not a member, is interested in the work of the Unit.

A large quilt which had been pieced by the members, and assembled and tacked by Mrs. Lorne Davidson was on display. The Leader, Mrs. Tom Saunders reminded the members of dates of important church functions. These included the Quebec — Sherbrooke Presbyterian to be held in Trinity Church Sherbrooke, April 14. Coffee Party May 1, Thrift Sale April 24, and General Meeting of U.C.W. April 28. It was decided to furnish articles which had been requested for supply.

The meeting closed with the Mizpah benediction, and tea was served by Miss Frances Erane and Mrs. Grace Gregoire.

ST. PAUL'S GUILD

The members of St. Paul's Guild held their regular meeting in the church hall on April 9th. The president, Mrs. Bea Drew, opened the meeting with prayer and 10 members answered the roll call and one visitor was welcomed.

at least 300 gallons this year. Gordon Herring might be called an orthodox maple syrup producer. For years now, he has been involved in the centuries old tradition of the spring season.

He says that maple syrup is like a disease every spring. Reluctant farmers will often change their attitudes towards the business as soon as winter changes to spring. This flexibility is mainly responsible for the continuance on an annual multi-million dollar business in the province of Quebec and eastern United States, Mr. Herring says. Since maple trees are restricted to eastern areas of the continent, it would be worthwhile to attempt every measure in exploiting a greater number of trees at our disposal, Mr. Herring feels.

Time alone will determine the impact the maple syrup industry is to play in the future sugar economy of the region and of the province in general.

ELLIS — In loving memory of a dear husband, father and grandfather, Donald J. Ellis, who left us suddenly April 11, 1968. One sad and lonely year has passed, since that great sorrow fell. The shock that we received that day, no one can ever tell. It's lonely here without you, we miss you more each day. For life is not the same to us, since you were called away. You bid no one farewell, or even said goodbye. You were gone before we realized, and only God knows why.

ELLIS — In loving memory of a dear brother-in-law, Donald Ellis, who left this world without goodbye, April 11, 1968. A cheerful smile, a heart of gold. One of the best this world could hold. Never selfish and always kind. Those are the memories he left behind.
Ever remembered by,
EVA DAGNEAULT
(sister-in-law)

HARLING — In cherished memory of our dear mother and nanny, Elizabeth Ann Nelson, who passed away nine years ago, April 12, 1960. God took her home, it was His will, but in our hearts, she lives still.
Always remembered by,
THE FAMILY

MURPHY — In loving memory of a dear husband, father and grandfather, Henry, who passed away April 12, 1961. He was a husband, so wonderful and true — My thoughts often stray to the happiness we knew, I was a father, so loving and kind — The qualities he had, one seldom can find. He passed away suddenly, but will never be gone. Forever in our hearts, his memory will live on.

SKIING in the Townships

By Charles Catchpauh

Hurray, another weekend of skiing ahead of us, and with luck some of the hardy will hit the slopes next weekend, despite the snow conditions and hill operators' decisions to open or close their centres. However, predictions are that we'll still find lift accommodations rolling at Orford, Sutton, Jay and some of the higher, more sheltered slopes.

I thoroughly intend on being among the last skiers to close out the season, but will do the sweep today for this column, because it's time for me to pack it up until next fall, when I intend to begin again, hoping you'll continue reading my weekly comments on the greatest sport in the world, skiing.

Thank you for reading my words of humor, warning, woe, praise, disgust, delight, sometimes downright disillusionment and I hope of occasional wisdom. It has all been fun for me, and I hope you've approved!

Here at your Record, we are already giving thought to our 1969-70 Skiing and Winter Vacation supplement. If anyone wanting to pitch ideas at us for the annual ski number cares to write in, their letters will be given careful attention. We're solidly behind the multi-million dollar winter holiday industry, which skiing is doing the most to build up. Through this sport, handsome profits are being divided among most living in our region, whether they believe it or not.

In fact, skiing alone has over the past winter, bolstered the Townships' economy stupendously. The influx of visiting skiers alone has brought a mint in additional tax revenues, more work for many, and stepped up spending within our district which has resulted in increased municipal incomes, healthier businesses ranging from gas stations and restaurants through to department stores, and a position of importance within the province which demands that governmental consideration be given to the further development of the whole region.

Skiing is indeed more than a great sport, it's the basis for the big changes in our Eastern Townships which have just begun to show. Give the game a little longer, and it could become one of the region's principal purposes for earning. Let's say, one of our biggest and most valued products is "good skiing".

LOOK OUT . . . skiing is great, but the sport requires more thinking this time of year than in mid-winter. Indeed, corn snow or granular surfaces provide sensational skiing, and mix these conditions with the warm springlike sunshine and gentle southerly breezes and you're in Utopia. But, it's usually on such perfect days, that skiers fail to consider the quick condition changes that can transform mealy snow into fast icy hardpacked runs that require top skill, fast thinking and perfect skiing ability. And, you'll notice, it's common to see the better skiers, who brim with confidence, getting into trouble just about now. My warning suggestion that you take care need not discourage you though, because these are the conditions we're experiencing right now, that ski stories are based on, and they'll be gone soon. Make the best of these last days, but don't overrate your ability, and underrate the power of nature's elements to make rapid changes in conditions which could find you on the casualty list.

Trade'em now, take advantage of the last minute bargains and be ready for skiing next winter, outfitting yourself with economy in mind. This is another bit of good advice I'll pass along to those who complain about the high cost of skiing.

The end of skiing means new chores for ski patrollers, who must re-group and make plans for next season. Typical of the off-season thought that goes into patrolling, is the Eastern Townships' Zone of the Canadian Ski Patrol System's spring conference taking place at the Alouette Lodge at Knowlton, April 26, when the annual election of zone officers will be held. Then, on May 30 until June 1, there's the annual general meeting of the system taking place at Banff, Alta. After these meetings most patrollers in the system slow down for about six weeks, then start retraining for next season.

Thanks for your attention skiers, we'll see you in type next fall!

Bahama office has Quebec agent

The Bahama Islands Tourist Office, Toronto, has appointed a sales representative for the Province of Quebec, Eastern Ontario and the Atlantic Provinces.

as sales representative with headquarters in Montreal. "This move to provide full-time sales representation in Montreal is a result of plans outlined by Prime Minister Lynden Pindling when he opened the Bahama Islands Tourist Office in Toronto last fall," Mr. Peacock said.

"Mrs. Frager will take up her new duties immediately and will meet many of the Canadian travel agents from her region during the 1969 'Bahamas Week' familiarization tour for Canadian Agents April 17 to 24," he added.

A travel agent herself for many years, Mrs. Frager was also a hotel sales representative for Utell International. In her new role as Bahama Islands Sales Representative she will be visiting agents throughout her region over the next few months. Her address will be: Bahama Islands Tourist Office, P.O. Box 280, Westmount, Montreal, P.Q.

Record tour

History is stone's throw away

The following article, one of a series suggesting points of interest to Townshippers who will join the Record tour of Great Britain and Ireland this summer, describes the church of St. Olave in London.

A stone's throw from the Tower of London, at the corner of Hart Street and Seething Lane, stands the church of St. Olave, which the diarist Samuel Pepys attended regularly for about forty years, from the time that he was appointed Clerk of the Acts at the age of 27. That was in 1660, the year when he moved his household from Axe Yard to Seething Lane.

The church is all that is left of Pepys' London in this vicinity, except for such street names as Fenchurch Street, Mincing Lane, Jewry Street and Crutched Friars, as well as Hart Street and Seething Lane — the latter now dominated by the immense Port of London Authority Building and tall modern office blocks. But when you enter the gateway to the churchyard, you are back on Pepys' original ground. You can almost imagine the short, dark, keen-eyed, periwigged figure at your elbow, as you recall such entries in the Diary as this one (for October 14th, 1666):

"... and so up, and I to church, which was mighty full, and my beauties, Mrs. Lethulier and fair Batelier were both there. A very foul morning, and rained; and sent for my cloake to go out of the church with..."

or this (December 23rd, 1666): "... and so to church, where a vain fellow with a periwig preached, Chaplain, as by his prayer appeared, to the Earl of Carlisle..."

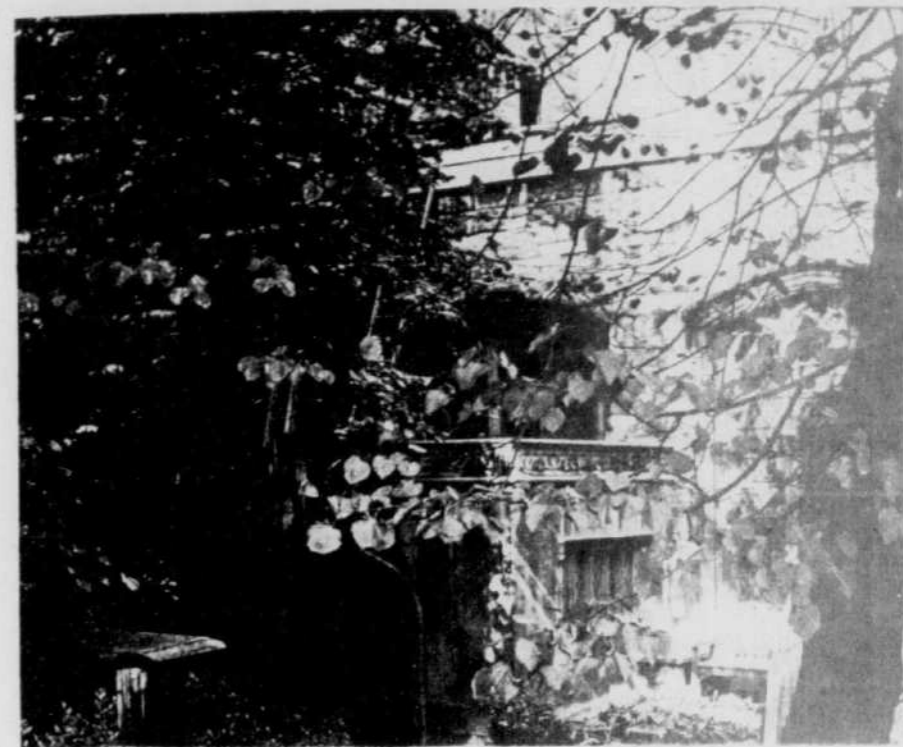

The baroque gateway (1658) is crowned by formidable array of spikes, skulls and cross-bones carved in stone. Pepys refers several times to the churchyard, which was much larger in his day, and after the Great Plague of 1665 he found it frightening to pass through it, as so many interments of Plague victims had recently been made there. In The Uncommercial Traveller, Charles Dickens writes of his "best beloved churchyard, the churchyard of St. Ghastly Grim".

St. Olave's is one of 16 ancient churches in the British Isles dedicated to Norway's patron saint, Olaf, who came to aid King Ethelred in driving the Danes from their threatening position on the south side of London Bridge. The name "Southwark" comes from the "South Earthwaerk" at London Bridge, which Olaf attacked after destroying the bridge itself. The first church on the site was probably of pre-Conquest origin. Its medieval successor — one of the few churches that escaped the Great Fire of London (1666) — was extensively damaged during the Second World War, but was extremely well restored. However, one of the features that disappeared was the outside staircase by which Pepys used to reach his seat in the Navy Pew. From his pew he could look directly across to the charming bust of his wife, placed high up in the east end of the Sanctuary. "My wife, poor wretch", whom he married when she was only 15, died in 1669 at the age of 29 and was buried in the church. The bust — which shows a graceful head with delicate, slightly smiling features — was erected in the same year.

Pepys survived his wife by over 30 years, and the Burial Register at St. Olave's includes the following entry:

1703. June 4th. Samuel Pepys, Esq. . . buried in a vault under ye communion table.

The coffin was found intact

OASIS IN THE CITY — In St. Olave's peaceful churchyard were buried many of the victims of the Great Plague of London (1665), of which like the Fire in the following year —Pepys gives a graphic account in his Diary.

during the restoration of the church in 1954.

Of the 15th-century church there remains the tower and baptistry, much of the south wall and the pillars and arches of the north and south arcades.

Many of the church's treasures were saved from war destruction by being hidden away. Notable among them is the magnificent carved pulpit, attributed to Grinling Gibbons, and the richly-ornamented Jacobean altar rails. The altar table itself is by Chippendale, and there are four wrought-iron swordstands against the chancel wall. When a parishioner was elected Lord Mayor of London, it was customary to place a swordstand on his church pew. There are four 18th-century Lord Mayors whose names are associated with the sword-stands.

Set in the rebuilt chancel wall are the Stone of Restoration and the Stone of History. The former was laid by King Haakon VII of Norway on June 15th, 1951. The Stone of History was laid by the Bishop of London and records the dates of successive churches on the site. Naval connections are reflected in the decorations of Trinity House Chapel, which possesses a reredos that incorporates carved dolphins and other maritime devices. The altar rails have what are called "Eddystone Lighthouse" pillars.

The Clergy Vestry dates from 1662, and is entered by a 600-year-old oaken door. The walls are wainscotted, and the plaster ceiling is decorated with a large angel in relief. In this room are kept such valuables as the Prayer Book used by Pepys. This is in excellent condition and has a fine tooled-leather cover.

bound by gold clasps, but one looks through the pages in vain for some annotation by the diarist. There is, however, an original letter in his handwriting and also his portrait — a copy of the one by Kneller which hangs in the National Portrait Gallery.

A narrow winding stairway from the Baptistry gives access to the Crypt, which dates from the end of the 12th century and contains an ancient well. The upper level of the Crypt has cases displaying some medieval relics and the lower level is furnished as a chapel. A very eerie place this seems, and I was grateful that it was well lighted by electricity, for my switching on the light laid all manner of ancient ghosts lurking in the darkness.

Although it is not so well known to visitors as some of the other ancient churches of London, St. Olave's plays an active part in the life of the City. The Wine and Spirit Trades hold their Vintage Harvest Festival here; and the Corn Exchange holds its annual service at St. Olave's and All Hallows alternatively. The Commodity Exchange holds an annual service, and the Election Service of the Worshipful Company of Clothworkers and the Trinity Service of Trinity House also take place here. But it is primarily in connection with Samuel Pepys, that mirror of his time, that I always think of this little dark church entered by its sombre gateway — and it is good to know that he, too, is remembered at an annual service which is held as near as possible to the anniversary of his death.

Books

Jottings

BY
PHILLIPS

There are books written about prisons and inmates; there cannot be too many if they are written from the inside-out and some of them are.

Too many tell too little about the chaplains who serve within the grim citadels. A prison or penitentiary chaplain has to be—or should be—a very special kind of man for this is a 28-hours-a-day ten-days-a-week job of total involvement. The Montreal prisons (men's and women's divisions) and the penitentiary at St. Vincent de Paul on Isle Jesu are fortunate in having two excellent men on staff as protestant chaplains.

The Reverend Henry Blase of the penitentiary is Dutch; a former lawyer, a man who, like my late husband, came into the church after agnosticism, cynicism, hard knocks and has no hesitation in saying so. Father Blase worked in the Dutch underground during the war, knew the terror of the Gestapo (his father was in a concentration camp for aiding Jewish compatriots) and suffered under the communists.

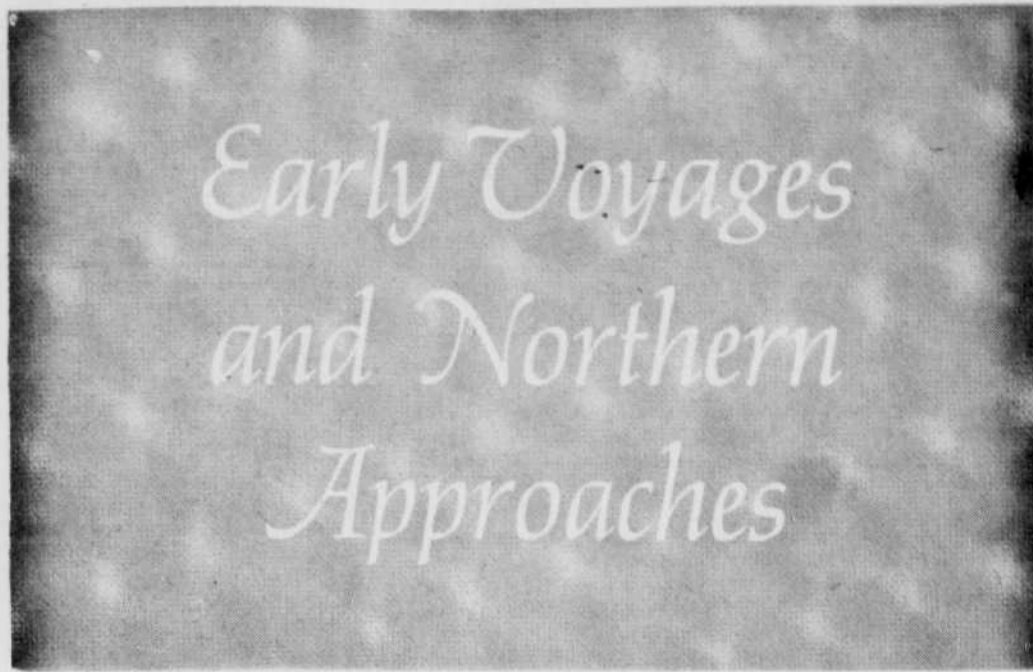

He knew what it meant to go from wealth to penury, to have his home stripped of its finest possessions by the Germans (his father was an industrialist in Germany) and the remainder carted off by the Russians. He lived for years in daily knowledge that any minute might be his last.

Mr. Blase is an evangelical Anglican but with a broad acceptance of other ways of worship (my casual "Hey, Lord I'm in a jam—he's in a jam, help, help," or "Golly, thank you Lord, you certainly were there when I needed you this time" must horrify him but he doesn't say so).

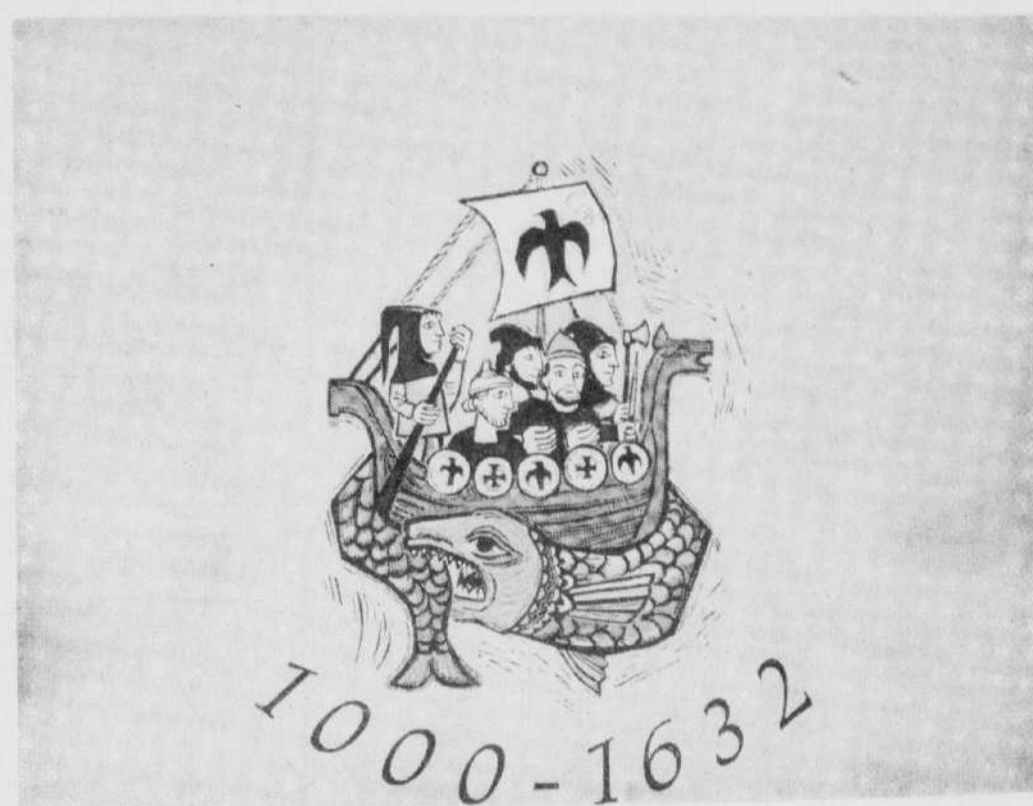

He has the most wonderful rapport with the fellows: his sermons are warm, humorous but filled with the meat of "Christ is here, boys, if you want him."

Father Alan MacFarlane is a Jamaican, highly erudite, wholly dedicated but with a keen sense of humour—a most obvious open-hearted and loving concern and a deeply personal interest in his parishioners. I hope some day to be needed at the prison organ and then I shall get to know more about him.

Both chaplains need lay helpers in any area from which "parishioners" come to be incarcerated—picking up clothes, talking to families, simple loving duties. Father MacFarlane needs books of all kinds, and needs them badly. Even early grade school books.

TRYGGVI J. OLESON

EARLY VOYAGES AND NORTHERN APPROACHES

1000-1632, Tryggvi J. Oleson, $10, McClelland and Stewart Limited, 211 pages.

Were the Tunnit of Eskimo folk tales Norsemen? Were the Skraelings of the sagas aborigines of Dorset culture? The answer to these and other perplexing questions relating to Eskimo archaeology is of vital importance to historians and students. As this book belongs in the Canadian Centenary Series, accuracy is of the essence.

However, as this book is also designed for the "general reader," it seems odd that the book opens with a chapter of scholarly reviews of the 1962 printing of this same volume, all of which cast doubts on the validity of some conclusions reached by the author, Dr. Tryggvi J. Oleson. The reason for this unorthodox procedure (from the general reader's point of view) is the death of Dr. Oleson and subsequent necessity of reissuing the book as originally prepared by him. The adverse reviews are included so that all aspects of the controversy will be presented to students of Eskimo archaeology.

The late Dr. Oleson was a professor of history at the University of Manitoba and his scholarly work, interestingly written and well balanced, covers the period from about 1000 to 1632 A.D. and includes the sagas of the Norsemen, early voyages to Iceland, Greenland and Vinland, and a discussion on the Skraelings, the Dorset and Thule cultures.

Mythical voyages to discover America are discussed, including the persistent myth that the Irish discovered America before the Norse. All the great explorers of the fifteen century are dealt with, going on to Cabot, Frobisher, Davis, Munk, Foxe, James and many others. The voyages from 1498 to 1536 were all inspired by the desire to find Asia either by sailing down the east coast of America or by circumventing the new mainland and discovering an open passage into the Pacific.

The first explorations by Europeans in the western hemisphere were undoubtedly those of Eric the Red. They would seem to have been confined to the west coast of Greenland, but it is not impossible that they included parts of the Canadian archipelago. Frequently involved in disputes and litigation, in 982, Eric was charged with homicide and sentenced to outlawry for three years.

As he was obliged to serve his sentence outside the Icelandic Commonwealth, this turn of fate resulted in Eric becoming one of the greatest explorers in the history of the world.

Music on Records

By Elisabeth Gustafson

PUCCHINI: Great Scenes from Turandot, with Birgit Nilsson, Franco Corelli, Renata Scotti; the Rome Opera Orchestra and Chorus under the direction of Molinari Pradelli. Angel S-36537.

The last two scenes of Puccini's opera "Turandot" were left only sketched out, Puccini died before he could finish the work. He had a long struggle with the end of the opera, despairing whether or not he could finish it with satisfaction.

His sketches were later filled out to a conclusion by Franco Alfano. The artistic break is evident; but one is glad it was done, for this opera is certainly a masterpiece. Puccini himself once said: "All my music I have written up to now seems to me a farce and pleases me no more." In "Turandot," he struck out "on new unbeaten tracks." The opera was a new adventure, but of course one need not take Puccini's comment on his previous work as "farce" with any seriousness. "La Boheme" and the other operas are certainly anything but "farce." The latest work of an artist always appears to him as "better."

"Turandot" is based on an ancient Chinese fairy-tale; three-riddles posed for the suitors of a Princess. Guessing wrong, each suitor lost his head. Finally, the icy-cold Princess is melted to human warmth by true love. A fairy-tale with a universal, underlying level: the power of true love over barbarity.

All the barbarity and human warmth is packed into the music by Puccini. Highlights of this opera are presented on the present Angel record. This sort of capsule procedure often falls into fragments. But, failing possession of the complete opera, one could not do better than possess the present disc.

It's living experience

This Rock Within the Sea: A Heritage Lost, Farley Mowat and John De Visser, 172 pages, McClelland and Stewart, $10.

This Rock Within the Sea is not just a book like other books; it is an experience in living; a tribute to a heritage lost; a requiem for a way of life that will never be seen again.

Farley Mowat has written an evocative and deeply moving account of life in the outposts of Newfoundland: of the people who live by the sea, and for whom the sea is the ultimate reality and their only master.

Providing a brilliant counterpoint for the text, John De Visser's photographs are as starkly real as the granite cliffs of Messieurs Cove. Over 150 photographs tell their graphic tale of the small, strong world each man builds within his own four walls — bastions of courage and endurance wherein dwell a proud and courageous race. Cutlines are unnecessary.

The camera testifies to a woman's anguish in the face of death; the pride of the grandmother in her freshly-baked loaf of bread; the corporate sorrow of the village as the men bear the casket of a neighbor over the snow-laden hills to the cemetery; the joy of children who lead their lives with no more than token restraint imposed by society.

Mowat and De Visser have chosen to portray these people of Newfoundland in the context of their worlds in its grimmest and most formidable aspect — the bleak, hard days of winter.

Mowat begins his story of Newfoundland with the ice-age, then describes the coming together of people from many lands until, by the early eighteenth century, the southwest coast was to countrymen of mixed Basque-Norman-Breton-Portuguese-Indian heritage.

Through the generations, these people preserved a high degree of freedom from involvement in the wars and decades-long struggles for power between France and England. In consequence, these Outporters developed no real sense of allegiance to any European nation.

Ivor Whitehouse Collecting

in the

Townships

Stamp collectors throughout the Townships were saddened to hear J. N. White passed away last week.

Mr. White, or Jay, as he was called by many of his stamp collecting friends, did a great deal to further the hobby of stamp collecting and to organize stamp clubs in the Coaticook-Sherbrooke area. He was a stamp collector in his youth and assembled several very good collections — then did not take an active part in philately for a number of years.

It was immediately after the last World War that he started to add to his collections which had remained hardly touched for years. His collecting covered a variety of countries and subjects — of particular interest were the Canadian and United States collections. These contained philatelic gems seldom seen by most collectors.

The writer remembers well the telephone call many years ago when Mr. White discussed the possibility of forming a stamp club in Coaticook, and the first meetings of this club at the home of Dr. Gerin-Lajoie, it is worthy of note in passing that a charter member and first secretary, Mrs. F. Labarre, is still active in philately. The Coaticook Stamp Club prospered under the guidance of Mr. White and at one time sponsored a junior club which brought French and English-speaking children together every Saturday afternoon.

Mr. White was awarded the Royal Canadian Philatelic Society Plaque for service to the hobby. Many collectors will remember the gifts of stamps brought to club meetings, and the many talks given by Mr. White on subjects ranging from early Canada to birds on stamps. His active participation in all of the stamp exhibitions did much to help out when the displays would have been few.

Last summer he was instrumental in arranging a display of stamps at the Ayer's Cliff Agricultural Exhibition. Stamp collectors have lost a wonderful friend and advisor and I am sure that they will long remember his acts of kindness. Sincere sympathy is offered to Mrs. White and all the members of the family from philatelists throughout the Townships. Would it not be nice to know that one of the local clubs would institute an award in memory of Mr. White?

ET 'Gram' reaches century mark

STANBRIDGE EAST — (Special) — In spite of bad weather this small town was the scene of much happy activity on April 5, when relatives and friends from all parts of the Eastern Townships, Montreal, and many parts of the United States, as well as townspeople gathered to congratulate and extend Happy Birthday wishes to Mrs. Alice Spicer on the occasion of the 100th anniversary of her birthday.

Gram as she is affectionately known to her many friends, was born at Glen Sutton, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Potter Hazard, has spent all of her lifetime in the Eastern Townships and lived for many years in Dunham, moving to Stanbridge East about four years ago, is the mother of six children living and three deceased. She has 10 grandchildren, 15 great-grandchildren and five great-great-grandchildren. She is in excellent health, manages her home with the assistance of her daughter, Miss Dale Spicer and does much of the cooking required. Always an early riser, on Thursday morning a neighbor dropped in at 8 a.m. and found her making doughnuts.

Mrs. Spicer personally greeted each of her guests, whose estimated number was well over 140, with the same affectionate and gracious hospitality for which she had always been known, and said: "If we could take our present day push-button way of life back 50 years, many of you may live to be much older than I am today."

The highlight of the happy day was the presentation which took place early in the afternoon when Mayor D. C. Blinn, on behalf of the people of the town and members of the council, who gathered en masse, presented the guest of honor with a platform rocking chair and a beautiful cake, made and decorated by Mrs. Charles Deschamps. On behalf of the members of the Missisquoi County Historical Society, the president, William Taylor and K. D. Tree presented a framed, Life Membership Certificate to the Society. On behalf of the Les Dames de St. Anne of the Ste-Jeanne-D'Arc, Roman Catholic Parish, Mrs. Trempe presented her with a spray of a dozen red roses.

A cablegram of congratulations was received from Her Majesty, Queen Elizabeth Rev. William Jones, read messages of congratulations from, Pierre Elliott Trudeau, Prime Minister of Canada; His Excellency, Hughes Lapointe; Lieutenant Governor of Quebec, J. J. Bertrand, Premier of Quebec, Jean Lesage, Leader of the Quebec Liberal Party and Yves Forest, Federal MP for Missisquoi. Glenn Brown, M.L.A. for Brome had called personally, earlier in the week.

Her granddaughter, Mrs. Rita Maville of Miami, Fla., arrived by plane on April 3 to be with her grandmother for the memorable occasion and returned home on Sunday. Long distance telephone calls and gifts were received from her daughters, Mrs. Myrtle Bates, Monterey Park, Calif., and Mrs. Bertha Anderson, Los Angeles, Calif. Other members of her immediate family who called in person were Mr. and Mrs. Lynn Spicer and Mr. and Mrs. Thurston Spicer, all of Cowansville, and Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Spicer of Stanbridge East. Out-of-town relatives were Mr. and Mrs. Leighton Spicer and their two daughters, Debby and Cindy, Mr. and Mrs. Hollis Spicer and their children, Susan and Richard, Mrs. Audrey Morgan and little son, David, Montreal, Mr. and Mrs. George Fernithough, and family of Dunham, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Leblanc and their family of Chateaugay. She also received a cablegram of congratulations from distant relatives, Mr. and Mrs. William Saunders of England.

A profusion of beautiful flowers included on dozen red roses from Mrs. Rita Maille and Miss Barbara Orr, Miami, Fla., a vase of orchids from the Cowansville Florist shop, Knowlton Nurseries, Rita Florist Shop Cowansville, Farnham Florist shop, the Rovea family and the local branch of the Women's Institute.

A committee was formed by Earl Bracey, consisting of members of the town council and the local branch of the Women's Institute to assist the family in the preparations for the event. The WI members provided most of the refreshments and were in complete charge of serving during the afternoon. The hostess table was beautifully arranged with flowers and a silver tea service at each end. Tea was poured by a granddaughter, Mrs. Joyce Fernithough and Mrs. Clifford Rhicard, president, of the local branch of the WI.

Friends called on Sunday to inquire about Mrs. Spicer and were happy to hear that she was not overtired but had been able to take the day's excitement in stride, as any other normal day.

CENTURY MARK — Mrs. Alice Spicer, of Stanbridge

East, celebrated her 100th birthday April 5. Among others who helped make the event a happy one are from the left, E.

Bray, K. Tree, Mrs. Spicer, W. A. Taylor and D. Blinn, Stanbridge East mayor. (Record Photo: Studio Eclair)

New Home Recipe Reducing Plan

It's simple how quickly one may lose pounds of unsightly fat right in your own home. Make this home recipe yourself. It's easy, no trouble at all and costs little. Just go to your drug store and ask for four ounces of Naran Concentrate. Pour this into a pint bottle and add enough grapefruit juice to fill the bottle. Take two tablespoons full a day as needed and follow the Naran Plan.

If your first purchase does not show you a simple easy way to lose bulky fat and help regain slender more graceful curves; if reducible pounds and inches of excess fat don't disappear from neck, chin, arms, abdomen, hips, calves and ankles just return the empty bottle for your money back. Follow this easy way endorsed by many who have tried this plan and help bring back alluring curves and graceful slenderness. Note how quickly bloat disappears—how much better you feel. More alive, youthful appearing and active.

APRIL BIRTHDAY

When spring returns with wandering sweet air,
With sun and shadow, softness and clean rain,
And robins sing loud hymns in leafless fane,
We feel such joy a pain we cannot bear,
In incompleteness a divine despair,
And strive to dress our shabby souls again;
Nor shame the innocent earth with guilty pain,
Nor make it of our poverty aware.

In this same shining time you once were born,
And like a bud that opens to the skies
Saw life reflected in your mother's eyes,
And smiled to wake in such a lovely dawn,
Maybe she watches, if perchance you smile
And so, 'tis summer for a little while.

to 12 noon. The new children's reading room is now in use although it has not been officially opened. There are always 12 to 15 children there, seriously looking, reading and selecting the varied assortment of french and english books.

Notices were mailed out last week to former subscribers at the Library, and these and new members are urged to visit, join, and support this worthwhile institution. The very active Book Committee ensures that there is always a good selection of new books on hand.

Another Quebec P.J. smoker wins $10,000

...and there's a P.J. winner every 48 hours!*

Miss Francine Bouchard of 904 Chanoine Scott, Ste-Foy, Quebec, found a way to make everyone want to marry her! Sound impossible? Well, recently, Miss Bouchard opened a package of Peter Jackson to find a cash certificate worth $10,000, tax free! Ever since then she's become more popular than ever!

Of course, Miss Bouchard isn't taking these marriage proposals seriously... but her plans for buying a car and taking a trip are quite serious indeed!

So, if you'd like to have more popularity... or just more money... switch to P. J. today! You might be the next to win $10,000!

The next $10,000 or $1,000 winner might as well be you!

ET young farmers outline activities

The second meeting of the Eastern Townships Young Farmers Federation, was held March 22, 1969, at St. George's Hall in Lennoxville, Que.

The following clubs were represented: Bury, Brom, North Hatley, Trenholm and Sawyerville. Guests were Mr. Dery and Mr. Goodfellow.

An amendment was made to the constitution so that the secretary and the treasurer and the vice-president all have the right to vote.

Projects for the coming year were discussed. It was decided that a judging seminar would be held sometime in July. The following people are to be responsible for this project: Bill Grey, Cheryl Morrill, Heather Johnston and Elizabeth Miller.

Also the possibility of having a Tractor Safety Project was discussed. However, nothing definite was decided.

Mr. Dery was on hand to listen to complaints about the awarding of the Purina Trophy and also about the way in which the judging competition was handled at the Sherbrooke fair. Mr. Dery commented on the fact that there is no longer a provincial judging competition.

As a result, of this statement, the members decided to write to the Agricultural Society and explain about the need for a provincial competition. The next meeting, to be called by the president, will be at the end of May.

The rock tunes get him right 'ere

NEW YORK—(NEA)—Listening to rock 'n' roll records eight hours a day can be a painful experience, Jim Carroll admits, but he wouldn't have it any other way. The pleasure is worth the pain.

Carroll's interest in rock is strictly analytical. He has listened to more than half a million records during the last 10 years, all in the line of duty. His job is developing and evaluating sound systems, a chore that has earned him the title of "the human record player."

"Young people like to play their records at full blast," says Carroll, "and they really put equipment to the test. So I do the same thing. I think I've heard every rock record produced in the last decade."

In order to stave off eviction notices, Carroll does his thing in a special listening laboratory three floors underground in midtown Manhattan. The Green Hornet would have been proud of such a pad.

"After a typical session," he says, "my hearing is so diminished that I have to walk around underground until I can hear myself speak again. It's the same effect you can get after spending an evening at a discotheque. If you're not careful, you could walk right into the path of a car, even though the driver was blowing his horn."

Although Carroll says his job is a pleasure, he admits it's also a pain. "The threshold of pain," explains Carroll, "is 110 decibels. At that point the sensation of pain obscures the sensation of hearing. Many rock groups cross that threshold. When that happens, you can feel the excitement of compression and expansion.

he thinks he's going where the action is. That's where Do Yun comes into Steve's life. "We got a letter from Steve," recalls Frances Dale, who works for the Foster Parents' Plan, Inc., in New York, "and it was the most moving thing I've ever read. his mind is becoming a foster parent before leaving the States."

NEW YORK—(NEA)—Despite being a member of the New Generation, Steve Chisolm can't be stereotyped. At 20, he isn't sure just what the SDS is up to, what the campus militants are so militant about or which record is likely to be No. 1 next week. Steve is more concerned with staying alive.

"It could be Vietnam, but it might be Korea," he says, in a tone that makes it clear

"A fellow Marine recently told me about your plan," the El Paso-born Steve

At the age of 6, Kim Do Yun, a Korean, shares Steve Chisolm's concern. His life in the Seoul slums is devoted to trying to scrounge enough food to keep himself, his twin brother, his 3-year-old sister and his mother alive.

That's where Do Yun comes into Steve's life.

Steve thinks he knows what that might be like and because he does, Kim Do Yun will have a better life.

On the surface Steve, a college drop-out, and Do Yun, who hasn't started school yet, don't have much in common. Steve doesn't see it that way.

"I may be only 20," Steve says, "but I'm growing older by the minute. I went to college for one year and I got tired of listening to people gripe about Vietnam, so I decided to join the Marines and get the inside scoop. It might have been a mistake."

Steve says, "and suddenly I wanted to do the same thing. I think it would kind of ease my conscience a little if I did something like this."

Mistake or not, Pfc. Chisolm figures to get all the inside scoop he can handle in May when he's scheduled to ship out of California's Camp

Donations were voted to the Donna Draper Memorial Fund, the Cancer Fund, and the Canadian Institute for the Blind. The members were reminded to have their dirty bags filled and turned in by the June meeting.

At the conclusion of the business meeting, Mrs. L. Burnham, convener of Sunshine, introduced Miss Wendy Wilson, the president's daughter, who entertained the members with her hilarious Habitant recitations. She was thanked by Mrs. Pocock, after which the hostesses, Mrs. A. Cheal and Mrs. N. McVittie, served tea.

Although Carroll says his job is a pleasure, he admits it's also a pain.

Attention was drawn to the annual spring rummage sale, which will be held in the Community Hall on April 12.

Perfect attendance prizes were awarded to Mrs. W. Shaw.

Mr. Grant LeBaron reported that five members of the local branch had attended the County Council meeting in Ayer's Cliff when the question of the County building was discussed.

The Agriculture Department will be able to purchase the building, and the Women's Institutes will be allowed to continue with their tea room.

The correspondence, reviewed by the secretary, contained acknowledgements of sympathy and a letter of thanks from the Shriners' Hospital for a donation sent in memory of Mrs. Daintrey. The report of the semi-annual board meeting was read.

In the conveners' reports, for agriculture, Mrs. K. Price read a paper on the care of house plants, convener of citizenship, Mrs. A. Cheal, reported on the Community Club meeting, pointing out that the annual antique show will be held July 10, 11, and 12.

Mr. and Mrs. Verne George, Lennoxville called on Mrs. Martha Challes and Mr. Lyle Jones. The Leader was assisted during the Devotional Period by Rita Mossa and by Mary Jewett who gave the address.

Lucy Sargent is to be in charge of the Canadian Diary through March. Articles are to be presented to her for editing.

Reporting for welfare and health Mrs. N. McVittie said that arrangements had been made to hold an animal clinic at the Community Hall on April 29 at 7:30 p.m. and that Dr. L. A. Gendreau will be present to inoculate cats and dogs against rabies.

Mrs. E. Nelson presented the branch with a cheque for $100 from Mrs. W. W. Leslie. An expression of thanks was extended to Mrs. Leslie and to Mrs. Nelson for the gift, and for interest and encouragement in Women's Institute work.

THE DOCTOR SAYS

Hypochondriasis Treated One Illness at a Time

By WAYNE G. BRANDSTADT, M.D.

A hypochondriac is a person who chronically complains about a multiplicity of symptoms. Not only are his thoughts centered on his disorders, real or imagined, but he automatically assumes that all his acquaintances are as fascinated by his ailments as he is. This, of course, is rarely the case.

In addition to prescribing whatever medicine is most likely to be helpful in a given case, most doctors urge these patients to become involved in some worthwhile community activity. A sympathetic doctor who can ferret out the hypochondriac's underlying problems can do a great deal to improve her mental outlook and her health.

Q—What causes a caruncle? I had one cut out of my urethra. If it comes back, what treatment would be best?

A—A caruncle (not to be confused with carbuncle) is a small, fleshy growth. It may be associated with a chronic, low-grade infection in the bladder. If it is too large to be removed with an electric cautery, it has to be cut out. If the bladder infection has not been eradicated, this should be done to prevent a recurrence. If the caruncle causes painful urination, the only treatment is removal by one means or another.

Rene underestimates mood across country

"I have said to Mr. Levesque this is impossible. He gravely underestimates the emotional reaction of English Canada. He assumes the English-Canadians are such cold, calculating pragmatic people that rather than see the thing blow up they'd reconcile themselves to these nice negotiations.

"I don't believe this, because English-Canadians are capable of very strong emotion. I don't think you are going to destroy the Canadian dream and all these people are going to stand by and say, 'Well, it had to come, Levesque is not a bad fellow, we can arrange this.'

"I think there would be a tremendous emotional reaction, and every time I discuss this with English-Canadians, from all over the country, they agree with me. There goes the association part — it's like an unstable equilibrium."

INTERESTS DIFFER

Certain economists had made it clear that monetary union as Mr. Levesque suggested was impossible.

"There's another thing weird about all this. Levesque assumes that all the rest of Canada can speak as one person. There's no such thing as English Canada — there is Ontario, British Columbia, the Maritimes, the Prairies. How are you going to negotiate the same sort of thing with Ontario and the Maritimes? These areas have different interests.

"And why the hell should 15,000,000 Canadians sit down with 5,000,000 Canadians on a one-to-one basis? But if you don't negotiate on a one-to-one basis you're back to where we are now practically.

"I'm not saying Levesque's movement hasn't got appeal. I'm saying that in my humble opinion it has no chance of success in the form he presents."

Mr. and Mrs. Alan M. Burrill and family, Ville Brossard, were recent guests of Mr. and Mrs. Holland Burrill.

Mr. Donald Titman, Lachute, was a guest on March 16 of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Phipps.

Mr. and Mrs. John Wilkins visited their granddaughter, Miss Kathleen Wilkins, who was a patient for a few days in the Sherbrooke Hospital, and has since returned home.

Border lady is honored at birthday party

BORDER — Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Bowen and daughters, Misses Sharleen, Sheila and Susan, entertained on March 15 at a birthday dinner honoring Mrs. Bowen's mother, Mrs. W. H. Davis.

Mrs. Davis was extended good wishes, cards and gifts from the guests. She also received several greeting cards in the mail. A buffet dinner was served from the dining table.

The birthday cake, in the design of a shamrock, was the artistic work of Mrs. Gaston Mongeau, and was cut and served by Mrs. Davis.

The guests included Mrs. Annie Gregg and son, Graham, Sherbrooke, Mr. Tom Laming, Coaticook, Mr. Forest Hills, Mr. and Mrs. Gaston Mongeau and two children of the Rock Island-Beebe Road.

The many friends of Mrs. Davis join in wishing her many more such happy occasions.

Card party held by Derby Lodges is successful

DERBY — Another successful 500 party was held on March 8 at the Derby IOOF hall, given by the Derby IOOF and Rebekah Lodges.

Cards were played at nine tables. High score winners were Mrs. John Beamish, Ayer's Cliff, and Lorand Rollins, Derby Line. The low score prizes went to Mrs. Alice McConnell, Ayer's Cliff, and Harry Goodall, Holland Road. A door prize was claimed by Raymond Gray, of Derby Line.

Mrs. Ralph Smith and Mrs. Martha Webster served refreshments. The prizes were donated by Mrs. Ida Cooper who also contributed towards the lunch with Mrs. Smith and Mrs. Webster.

Another party will be held at the same place on March 22 to which the public in general is invited to attend.

Lent theme for meeting of Afternoon Unit, UCW

STANSTEAD — Mrs. William Smith was the hostess for the Centenary Church UCW Afternoon Unit held on March 19 with 11 members attending.

The leader, Mrs. Philip Gaudine conducted the devotional period on Lent, and included material on China.

Mrs. Gaudine reminded the members that the Presbyterian meeting will be held at Trinity Church, Sherbrooke on April 14, starting at 9:30 a.m. She urged everyone to attend the all-day session or part of the session. Dr. McClure, Moderator of the United Church of Canada, will be the afternoon guest speaker. The April meeting, a week later than the usual date, will take place on April 23.

The program theme was Communism in China by Mrs. Gaudine and Mrs. B. W. Brown read an article written by a Chinese Anglican about religion and the church, which is on the down grade.

Mrs. Gaudine asked the members to bring articles to read at the April meeting on Biafra, which will be discussed.

Mrs. Jessie Currant gave an informal talk on her impressions of Spain where she and her sister had spent several weeks this year.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. Smith.

Irish motif feature of Bury UCW St. Patrick's tea, sale

BURY — The annual St. Patrick's tea and sale, sponsored by the UCW, was held on March 15 in the Mackenzie Hall. This annual event is always anticipated with pleasure and those attending were not disappointed. The hall presented a festive appearance with decorations appropriate to the season, tea tables, each centered with a green candle on a shamrock centrepiece, were most attractive.

The guests were welcomed by the president of the UCW, Mrs. Irene Flanders. Admission fees were taken by Mrs. Walter Atkins.

A plentiful variety of useful and fancy articles on the sale table kept the salesladies busy. The sale table was in charge of Mrs. Raymond Morrison, ably assisted by Mrs. Winnifred Kirkpatrick and Mrs. Oscar Aulis, with Mrs. George Everett as cashier.

Items on the food table, with Mrs. Donald Saunders in charge, went like the proverbial "hot cakes". Mrs. James D. Harrison presided at the bargain sales with good results.

A short program, arranged by Mrs. Lena McGee, preceded the tea. Mrs. Garth Harrison acted as chairman. The program opened with a reading on Ireland by Mrs. Geo. Parsons and several songs by junior grade children with Mrs. Earl Dawson, their teacher accompanying them. Two recitations were given by the little Misses Elizabeth and Barbara Harrison.

Mrs. Thos. Lawrence was in charge of the tea tables with Misses Bonnie Everett, Cindy Saunders, Christine Aulis, Carolyn Rowell and Joy Allison as waitresses.

Kitchen duties were under the efficient administration of Mrs. Gwyllyn Lawrence and Mrs. Osborne Allison, assisted by Mrs. Alfred Goode and Mrs. Glendon Morrison.

An enjoyable afternoon was spent with the total proceeds highly satisfactory.

Cookshire

Mrs. O. C. Farnsworth has returned home from Dunham, where she spent two weeks with her grandchildren, while their parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Butterworth, were in Florida.

THEY'RE OFF! The first four rigs roll out to attack the 400 miles of sage, sand and rock-lined washes between them and $50,000 in prizes. First machine to finish was a cycle.

INFANTS NEED A MOTHER'S TENDER CARE

Propping a baby's bottle to permit baby's self-feeding, may be the severest form of unintentional maternal neglect, says Dr. Doris A. Howell, a Philadelphia Pediatrician. An infant needs physical warmth, plus encircling and firm support while being fed.

"Supremely important milk can come from either a real or artificial nipple, but cuddling and nurturing can be supplied only by a tender human." There is no substitute for a loving mother.

Family business shows steady growth

Au Roi du Coq Roti has acquired a new building to answer the needs of a growing clientele. The new fire-proof building is made entirely of enforced concrete. The ground floor features a service counter facilitating circulation. Managing and telephone facilities are included on that floor. The rear of the building is devoted entirely to the preparation of chicken. Such a preparation is a long and painstaking job, requiring two freezing units, stainless steel counters, and 10 ovens able to cook one ton of chicken at a time. The cellar serves as a warehouse for packaging material, and all the other ingredients used to prepare the delicious barbecued birds.

The building also has a two-storey garage to provide maintenance of delivery vehicles. Lawn work and landscaping will start as soon as temperatures permit. Trees and flowers will be planted in front of the establishment. At the moment, demolition work of the Lefebvre residence will free the necessary space for a parking lot capable of receiving more than 40 cars, in addition to space available for delivery vehicles. The company possesses the most modern equipment, permitting preparation and cooking of 1,200 to 1,500 meals an hour.

Au Roi du Coq Roti enterprise was established in Sherbrooke in 1966, and employs more than 20 full-time and about 15 part-time persons.

The local establishment is part of a nine-unit set up involving more than 180 people in different locations across the province.

The instigation of the multi-unit plan dates back to 1961.

COOKSHIRE— A largely attended meeting of the Official Boards of the United Church of Canada of the surrounding district was held in Trinity United Church Hall on Mar. 4th, 1969. Rev. Carl Gustafson, Lennoxville, was chairman. Others in attendance were: Rev. A. B. Lovelace, Lennoxville, Rev. J. C. Arnold, Sawyerville, Rev. G. Lokhorst, East Angus, Rev. T. W. Tyson, Cookshire, and Mr. Stanley Beerworth, lay preacher for Gould and Scottstown.

Rev. T. W. Tyson opened the meeting with prayer, and welcomed all the members.

Rev. C. Gustafson stated that about 30 years ago, when he was the minister at Scottstown, there were 8 ministers in this area; this has now dwindled to 3. Things have changed, and will continue to do so in the church, he maintained. He stated that he represented the Presbytery, and that the Presbytery was deeply concerned for the people in this area, therefore, he came or the purpose of helping them to solve some of their problems, not by dictating and telling them what to do, but by helping them to evaluate their own potentials. A survey has been made by the Presbytery in this area, and the report was submitted to a sociologist; this showed that planned changes are necessary, and that not to act is more dangerous than to do so.

There are millions of dollars invested in churches, some of which are used intermittently. Proximity is now a luxury the church can no longer afford. Therefore changes of places to worship and hours of worship will have to be made, in order to use the facilities at hand, to the best advantage for all members concerned.

The audience was divided into groups, who discussed four specific questions: first, what is the role of the Church here and now? second, which would serve the cause of the Kingdom best? Third, what factors should be considered in determining where services should be held? Fourth, what factor should decide where the minister resides?

One from each group reported the findings of their group, the summary of which was, that the Church should provide spiritual leadership and guidance, bringing the Word of God to the congregation, and that Christian education should be emphasized among the youth of the congregation; this means the need of trained leadership among the lay people, and seems to be sadly lacking in this district. It also means that missionary work must be done at home and abroad. The sick and the shut-ins must be remembered and special attention paid to their needs by visits from members of the congregation or the Official Boards, for it is impossible for one minister to attend to all of the needs of his parishioners and adherents.

The church should be involved in more things than just marriages, christenings, etc. It was felt that the purpose of the church was to bring people closer together, and thereby, create amicable relationships with one's neighbors.

It was felt that we should co-operate with other denominations in the community, or amalgamate with other churches of our own denomination, but, in this case, all would have to learn to give and take, details could be worked out later. Experiments would have to be tried, and if they did not prove to be feasible, they could be changed, remembering that tradition has its place, but it is not always the main objective, for what we do today will affect the future, so it is imperative that every one does a good job today. Some experiments have already taken place with different denominations worshipping in churches other than their own, and it seemed to be well accepted.

The main factors in determining in which communities services should be held would be the most central location, which would include a church large enough to accommodate the number of people attending. The distance, number of families, age of members would have to be taken into consideration, also. A bus service for church attendance might be used as it would supply a means of transportation for those not having cars, or an arrangement could be made for those having cars to help supply transportation for members of their congregation.

The general consensus of opinion was that the Manse should be located where the most central church was located.

Rev. A. B. Lovelace stated that he admired the loyalty of our dwindling English population, for so many of them worked hard so as not to ask for support from the Home Missions Board. The present $5200. minimum salary for the minister, plus $800. car allowance, was a big challenge to many of the Pastoral Charges, he maintained.

Rev. J. C. Arnold, of Sawyerville, stated that his Pastoral Charge was willing to discuss anything with anybody, and would be prepared to help out in any way they could. He reminded the audience that Mr. Tyson came to the New Eaton Valley Pastoral Charge on a temporary basis, which would terminate the end of June 1969. He felt that Mr. Tyson had done a wonderful job here, but that now we had reached a crisis, and that changes are inevitable.

Mrs. W. Ladd stated that they were all very well satisfied in Gould and Scottstown with the services of Mr. Stanley Beerworth and Mr. Lokhorst once a month, but would co-operate and would do what was best for this region.

Mr. Gustafson asked for the treasurers' reports, all were not available, but it was considered no longer possible to raise the required amount of money to sustain the Pastoral Charges as they now stand, for there are not enough families.

Mr. W. Atkins, Bury, made a motion to the effect that a committee be appointed this evening, with representatives from each church to discuss and report their findings later. After much discussion, he withdrew his motion.

A motion was made by Mr. L. French, Sawyerville, and seconded by Mr. W. Hall, East Angus, that there be co-operation between all Official Boards, that re-alignments be discussed by the individual Boards, and that a date be set to report their findings.

After much discussion it was moved by Mr. D. Grapes, Bulwer, seconded by Mr. R. Heatterington, East Angus, that the members go back to their churches, discuss the evening's questions, that the Presbytery send them some suggested alignments for them to work on, and that they report back to a general meeting on April 8, at 8 p.m. in the Cookshire Church Hall.

Mr. W. Atkins moved the adjournment, following which, the Cookshire U.C.W. served refreshments.

Mr. Lokhorst expressed the thanks of all to the ladies for serving refreshments.

Border Lodges Name winners at 500 party

DERBY LINE — Another successful 500 party was held on March 22 at the Derby Hall, sponsored by the Oddfellows and Rebekah Lodges of Derby.

Cards were played at 12 tables and the high score prizes were won by Darrell Sloggett, Ayer's Cliff and Mrs. Paul Labrecque of Derby. The low prizes went to Mrs. Jack Keeley, Tomifobia, and Roy Parrish, Beebe.

Mrs. Ralph Smith received the door prize. Mrs. Marvin Needleman, Newport, claimed the quilt sold by numbers.

In conclusion of the pleasant evening, refreshments were served by the committee in charge.

The late Edward Hymes was one of the great dummy players. His specialty was the squeeze play and he liked to announce his squeezes as early in the play as possible. Like most of us Eddy was somewhat of an overbidder. His jump to four spades wasn't much of an overbid but it was just as well that he was an expert on squeezes.

West opened the ace of hearts and shifted to the five of diamonds. East took the ace and returned a diamond to his partner's king. West continued with the 10 and when East showed out Eddy showed his hand and remarked, "If East has three or more clubs to the queen I claim the rest of the tricks. Of course, since I have claimed I am not allowed to take a club finesse."

East groaned. "You drop my queen but wouldn't you have been down if my partner held that card?"

Eddy would not have been down. The situation is one in which South is able to squeeze West down to two clubs so that if West holds the queen he can't protect it.

Eddy ruffs the third diamond, ruffs a heart in dummy; returns to his hand with a trump, ruffs his last heart with dummy's ace of trumps and proceeds to run off his trumps.

When Eddy leads his last trump his other three cards are all clubs. Dummy's last four cards are the ace-king-jack of clubs and seven of diamonds. West has to discard first and must hold a diamond. Therefore he must discard down to two clubs. North's diamond has done its work and is discarded and the clubs are good for the last three tricks. (Newspaper Enterprise Assn.)

Today's hand might well cause our modern experts trouble. No one has worked out a truly scientific method of handling a nine-card suit headed by the ace-10.

The bidding in the box took place back in 1930. North and South were two of the greatest players of that day and the bidding in the box shows how they arrived at seven spades. East had no problem with his opening lead. He placed the ace of clubs on the table and North was down one.

The difference between 1930 bidding and modern bidding can be shown by listening to South's comments. His first comment was that he might well have opened with a strong two-bid. Two-bids were weaker back then but South's hand did not come close to being worth even a 1930 two-bid.

South's contention was that since he had failed to open with a two-bid, the only way he could show his strength was a jump to three no-trump. A modern player would have merely rebid three diamonds. So would most of the top players of that day. They would be taking some chance of missing a game, but not much. From the first days of contract, most players have recognized the desirability of getting to game.

Anyway, South did rebid to three no-trump and North jumped to six spades. We do feel that a five-spade call would have been sounder, and South pointed out in several well-chosen words that if North had just bid five spades, South would have carried on to six.

On the other hand, no one twisted South's arm to make him bid the grand slam. He was flying blind in a fog when he made that bid and had no reason to jeopardize game, small slam and rubber. (Newspaper Enterprise Assn.)

March parties held by two Border clubs

ROCK ISLAND — Mrs. Geneva Lyons was hostess at her home for the March party of the Friendly Neighbors. All members and a guest, Mrs. Elsie Young spent an enjoyable evening playing cards.

The prize winners were Mrs. A. M. Searles, Mrs. Cora Walsh, and Mrs. Violet Badger. A door prize was claimed by Mrs. E. Dessaint.

The April party will be at the home of Mrs. Cora Walsh.

Mrs. Lyons served refreshments.

CHRISTMAS CLUB
Mrs. C. W. Pierce was hostess for the March party of the Border Christmas Club. The members were joined by Mrs. Ellie Hartley, as a guest.

The evening was pleasantly spent playing 500. Prize winners were Mrs. Geneva Lyons, Mrs. Elsie Young and Mrs. Sidney Dewey.

Mrs. Lyons will entertain the April party. Mrs. Pierce served refreshments.

Ralph Backstrom pots winner

MONTREAL (CP) — Veteran Ralph Backstrom wasn't out there to score goals but he scored one anyway and as a result Montreal Canadiens today hold a 1-0 lead in the best-of-seven National Hockey League Eastern Division final.

Backstrom, who scored only 13 goals in 72 games during the regular season, found the range 42 seconds into the overtime period Thursday night to give Canadiens a 3-2 victory over Boston Bruins.

"It was my first shot on the net of the game," he said.

Backstrom was sent out to check Boston's record-breaking Phil Esposito, this year's NHL scoring champion, and did his job so well that the man who amassed 126 points during the season had only three shots on Montreal goalie Gump Worsley.

And it was Esposito who, in the dying seconds of the game, wept after yielding a face-off to set up Montreal's tying goal from the stick of Jean Beliveau.

He had been sent out to face Beliveau because, said Bruins coach Harry Sinden, "Esposito had been getting the draw all night and Derek Sanderson had been having trouble."

PROVIDES EARLY LEAD

But if Sanderson had been having trouble in the face-off circles, he had little trouble elsewhere. He sent Boston to a 1-0 lead by the end of the first period and stretched it to 2-0 by the end of the second.

That was it for Boston.

Left-winger John Ferguson, at 13:28 of the third period, scored while Boston's Eddie Shack was serving an elbowing penalty. There were only 56 seconds left in regulation time when Beliveau tied it up.

Defenceman Serge Savard assisted on all three Montreal goals.

Sanderson, who came out of Niagara Falls, Ont., last year to become the NHL rookie of the year, had most of the 17,144 fans cheering for him as he scored, checked, killed penalties and worked on the power play.

But it was also Sanderson who touched off the one wild episode in the hammering, tight-checking game.

With less than two minutes on the clock and with Bruin winger Ed Westfall serving a tripping penalty, Sanderson piled Yvan Cournoyer into the boards and the crowd howled for a penalty.

MELÉE BREAKS OUT

No penalty was given and seconds later Sanderson and Dick Duff were pummeling each other while Glen Sather was walloping Cournoyer.

During the melee, Sanderson belted linesman Pat Shetler and wrestled the official to the ice. Sather held Cournoyer's jersey over his head and pounded him with right hands.

Sanderson, Sather, Cournoyer and Duff each got five minutes for fighting and, when the penalty expired, Cournoyer went to the dressing room for repairs to his nose which took the rest of the first period.

Boston took five of the 11 first-period penalties; 10 of the 18 assessed for the entire game.

Montreal outshot Boston in every period for a 35-23 advantage.

Beliveau, who forced the game into overtime with his 71st career playoff goal, said after the game:

"I think we'll skate better in future games. We certainly didn't skate as well as we could for two periods of this one."

PLANS TO REGROUP

Sinden, who talked to reporters after the game but barred the press from his players, said:

"Don't worry, my hope will be back. They're not going to recover right now, but they'll regroup before Sunday."

His team flew back to Boston after the game and will return Saturday for the second contest

Sunday.

Sinden said the Bruins lost the game because they lost sight of their plan to forecheck the Canadiens.

"We played well enough, but that last 10 minutes when we got the Los Angeles-Oakland series to end to take on the winner.

"For two periods, Boston was much superior," he said.

"Then in the middle of the third period they let down and Ferguson got a lucky goal. It was side the Montreal blueline, taking away the puck.

But Richard and Harris collided and the puck spun loose.

Sanderson wheeled and took the puck on his wickedly curved stick and picked a corner from 30 feet out and to the left of Worsley. Westfall and Shack were given assists.

On his second goal—which made it two goals on three shots—Sanderson went around J. C. Tremblay, swept around the net and hooked sharply with his stick. The puck appeared to roll up Worsley's stick into the net.

In the third period, Shack was called for elbowing, a penalty that caused Sinden to fling a towel along the Boston bench in rage. Just 17 seconds later, Ferguson went down the left wing and beat Gerry Cheevers.

Montreal coach Claude Ruel said his club skated well, but were not finishing off their plays around Cheevers.

"We missed three or four good chances to score early in the game and then played catch-up hockey," he said.

The victory was the 10th consecutive playoff triumph for Montreal.

away from our game plan killed us."

One spectator with a vested interest was Lynn Patrick, managing director of St. Louis Blues who finished first in the Western Division and who are waiting for not a good goal. Also, the penalties hurt the Bruins a lot."

Sanderson's first goal was a gift from Montreal centre Henri Richard and defenceman Ted Harris. The two Canadiens hit the incoming Sanderson just in-time he was about to shoot.

Los Angeles, fourth-place finishers during regular-season play, outshot the Seals 36-27 before 7,846 fans.

Campbell's goal was his first in Stanley Cup play. He was called up from Springfield of the American Hockey League.

"We gave up the game with poor passes," said Glover, whose club had whipped Los Angeles 4-1 just the night before.

Kings stave off elimination with 4-3 victory over Seals

LOS ANGELES, Calif. (CP) — With their backs to the wall, Los Angeles Kings squeaked out a 4-3 win over Oakland Seals Thursday night to tie their best-of-seven Stanley Cup quarter-final series 3-3.

Bill Flett flipped the winning goal over Oakland goalie Gary Smith with five minutes left in the second period.

The deciding game of the Western Division semi-finals will be played in Oakland Sunday night with the winner meeting St. Louis Blues in the Western Division finals.

Los Angeles had built up a 3-1 lead in the first period but before the period ended Oakland had gained a tie.

Ted Irvine opened the scoring for Los Angeles but Mike Laughton's goal tied it. Bryan Campbell and Lowell MacDonald made it 3-1 but the Seals rallied on goals by Brian Perry and Gene Ubriaco.

Late in the final period, Los Angeles worked up a defensive game around their California neighbors. With 49 seconds left, coach Fred Glover pulled Smith but was forced to bring him back when Los Angeles forced a face-off near the Oakland blueline.

OUTSHOT THE SEALS

Los Angeles, fourth-place finishers during regular-season play, outshot the Seals 36-27 before 7,846 fans.

Campbell's goal was his first in Stanley Cup play. He was called up from Springfield of the American Hockey League.

"We gave up the game with poor passes," said Glover, whose club had whipped Los Angeles 4-1 just the night before.

Coach Red Kelly of the Kings said defencemen Bill White, Brent Hughes, Dave Amadio and Dale Rolfe all played well and added the back-to-back games on consecutive nights had helped his club.

"We're young and always seem to play better on the second night," he said. "Now the delay until Sunday will help Oakland."

That's especially true since centres Bob Dillabough and Mike Laughton must recover from injuries. Dillabough, who previously had hurt a shoulder, banged it again in a collision with Rolfe. Laughton reinjured a groin and saw only limited action.

"I was glad to see Flett score," Kelly said, and the right winger added: "I was getting fed up with myself."

Lethbridge blanks Pats

LETHBRIDGE (CP) — Strong goaltending by Don Hall and a two-goal performance from Darrel Knibbs carried Lethbridge Sugar Kings to a 5-0 win over Regina Pats before 2,700 fans Thursday night.

It was Lethbridge's second win in succession after losing the first three games—7-1, 8-1 and 6-5—in the best-of-seven western Memorial Cup series.

The Sugar Kings won 5-4 Wednesday night.

Sixth and seventh games, scheduled for Lethbridge, will be played Saturday night and if necessary Sunday afternoon.

Hall stopped 32 shots in the penalty-ridden contest while the Regina netminders kicked aside 31 drives.

Hornets have well balanced club to take on Vict'ville in opening weekend games

GALT, Ont. (CP) — Galt Hornets carry a strong offensive and defensive record into their first serious bid for a national senior hockey championship in eight years.

They tangle with Victoriaville, Que., Tigers, the defending Allan Cup champions, in the first two games of a best-of-seven Eastern Canada final series this Saturday and Sunday on home ice.

Hornets finished on top of the eight-team Ontario Hockey Association Senior series with 29 wins in 39 games. They advance against the Quebec champions with a strong playoff record of 14 wins and three losses.

"We have a pretty well-balanced club," Hornets coach Bill (Wiggy) Wylie said. The coach, a former professional player with Vancouver Canucks of the Western Hockey League, noted his team has scored 253 goals in 56 games this season. Their defensive record is equally impressive, allowing 179 goals for a 3.13 goals a game average.

Netminders Errol McKibbin and Ron Boomer carried 3.35 and 3.37 goals-against averages during the regular scheduled.

The Ontario champions have seven players who scored 20 or more goals during the regular season. Among them is Ron Hergott, a 26-year-old Kitchener, Ont., resident, finished second in the OHA Senior scoring race with 27 goals and 43 assists for 76 points, despite playing half the season on defence. He has added 16 playoff goals.

Two high-scoring forwards were added by the Hornets for the playoffs from Barrie Flyers, who ranked second in the regular season and lost to the Hornets in the game finals.

Corby Adams, who can play any forward position, won the league scoring title with 79 points. The other addition from Barrie is 31-year-old right winger Pete Panagabko. He scored 19 goals for Flyers after playing the previous season for Memphis of the Central Professional League and Vancouver.

LEADING SCORER

Right winger Howie Dietrich, a 60-goal scorer with Johnstown Jets of the Eastern Hockey League a year ago, led the Galt regular season scoring with 34 goals. Left winger Bob Ertel, formerly with Portland Buckaroos of the WHL, collected 28 goals and Fern Belanger, another left winger, added 27 goals to the Galt regular season success.

Bill Way, who has been out of action for three weeks with a dislocated elbow, scored 24 goals. Centres Vance Millar, 21 goals, and Pete Brennan, 20 goals, complete the Hornets' 20-goal collectors.

Forwards John Beechey, Ron Smith and Don Snider combined for 32 regular season goals and 20 more in the playoffs.

Team captain Joe Hogan, a centre, and Hurley are the only players left from this western Ontario city's last Allan Cup triumph, when the Terriers dined Winnipeg Maroons 4-1 in 1961.

John Nickerson, Rio Caron, Bob Maxwell, Larry Ziliotto and Lloyd McKey are the regular Galt defence. Doug Kelcher has been added from Orillia Terriers.

Philip Poaps re-elected president of Stanstead County Fish and Game Club, plans discussed for season

AYER'S CLIFF — Philip Poaps was re-elected president of the Stanstead County Fish and Game Club at the annual meeting held Tuesday evening, April 8, in the County Hall.

Franklin Miller was named chairman for the annual raffle again this year. Prizes will be $150, $75 and $25. Through an error there will be four prizes of $15 each in place of a fourth $15 prize.

The annual dinner will be held in Beebe at the Wesley Church Hall in June with the program in the Village Hall. Final arrangements for this will be made at the regular May meeting.

Scales have been purchased and another weighing-in station will be at Roger Gaulin's, Thompkins Creek on Lake Memphremagog. The usual sum of $1 was voted to be paid to people with whom the club hold leases.

Bernard Laberee is continuing as membership chairman and emphasis is placed this year on a drive. Through the Quebec Wildlife Federation there is compulsory insurance this year, so that the memberships will be $2 and the insurance $1, making it a total of $3.

There is considerable work to be done this spring at the Moore Children's pond, repairs on the dam and enlarging for a deeper water depth at one end. Because of this work there won't be a children's fishing this year but should be ready in 1970.

Mr. Poaps in his annual report stated it had been a financial success. Unseasonable weather in November had prevented work planned to be done at the Moore Pond and Crystal Lake property. The club is doing all within its power in co-operation with the Government Public Works department to have a boat ramp built at Cedarville and repairs to the present public wharf.

Gun Safety week, sponsored by the club, was most successful with the help of Clarence Kendall, principal of Sunnyside School, and several students. They assisted when the fish was transferred from the Boundary rearing ponds to larger bodies of water. Mr. Poaps, said he was disappointed there were not more members in the past year and said the club should try especially to interest Juniors to become active members.

Mr. Poaps voiced his appreciation to his officers, directors and members for their co-operation and support during the past year.

Hugo LaPenna took the chair for the nomination of officers. Mr. Poaps had hoped to resign this year but was re-elected and agreed to continue for another year hoping that the next annual meeting someone will be ready to take over the presidential duties. Norman Nicholl was re-elected as first vice-president. Other names were suggested for second vice-president and it is hoped there will be one named at the May meeting.

Merrick Belnap was elected treasurer. He replaces Harold Hall, who has been active as treasurer since the club was organized several years ago. Mr. Hall died Tuesday evening.

Mrs. Ivy Hatch will continue as secretary for another year. Hubert Pepin, Rock Island, and Colin Huff, Lennoxville, were re-elected as directors. George Breckenridge was named a director for the Sherbrooke-Lennoxville area. Other names were nominated and are to be contacted to see if they will act. There are several directors in the various communities of the County and Sherbrooke whose terms have not expired.

The next club meeting will be held May 13th at the County Building hall in Ayer's Cliff at 8 p.m.

THURSDAY'S STARS

Batting—Bill Freehan, Detroit, walloped two homers—one a grand slam—and a double, driving in five runs in the Tigers' 12-3 rout of Cleveland Indians.

Pitching—Dick Kelley, San Diego, allowed only one hit in 8 1/3 innings before needing ninth-inning help as the expansion Padres beat Houston Astros 2-0 and swept a three-game series.

Billy Casper fires 66 to lead Masters

AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP) — Billy Casper says he'll never gamble again—at least not in the Masters.

"I deliberately played a safe round," he said Thursday after taming the 6,900-yard Augusta National course with a six-under-par 66 and the first-round lead in the 33rd Masters golf tournament.

"I never once gambled as I have done in the past," he said. "Maybe that's the difference."

He was referring to occasional poor play on the course that many call a jinx for him.

Casper scored six birdies and established a one-stroke lead over Australian Bruce Devlin and George Archer, each with a 67, going into today's second round of play.

CLOSE TO TOP

Jack Nicklaus had a 68. At 69, three under par, were Dan Sikes, Australian Bruce Crampton, Gene Littler, Mason Rudolph, Bruce Fleisher, 20-year-old amateur, Bert Yancey and Lionel Hebert.

Tied at 70 with George Knudson of Toronto were defending champion Bob Goalby, former champion Art Wall and Lefty Bob Charles of New Zealand.

In all, about one-third of the field was at par or better.

Four-time champion Arnold Palmer had putting woes and took a 73. Roberto de Vicenzo blew to a 75. U.S. Open champion Lee Trevino and PGA champion Julius Boros each had a 72.

Hunting and fishing in the E.T.

By NORM NICHOLL

FISHING SUMMARIES FOR 1969-70 season seem to be as scarce as hen's teeth. Fishing licences are available but the summary seems to be lacking and will in some instances cause problems. Surely the department of tourism, F and G can arrange to have them available to anglers at the same time as the licences. What's the problem Mr. Loubier?

IN A NEWS RELEASE regarding changes in the fishing regulations I noted that the age limit for dependents was raised from 15 to 18 years of age. With the present setup no licence is required for fishing in streams. Why would such a change be made? The problems that exist are too many to reduce the annual income from licences.

WITH THE ECONOMY of the Province as it is, surely any child over fifteen years of age can afford to purchase a licence and start paying for the privilege and enjoyment of fishing. If the average angler fishes for the entire season, summer and winter fishing, which is now 11 months of the year the cost is only 1.1 cent per month. What else can be purchased for such cost?

IF THE RETURN from fishing licences is too great some of the extra cash could be funnelled into helping combat water pollution throughout "La Belle Province."

STANSTEAD COUNTY FISH and Game Club held their annual meeting this past week. President, Phil Poaps, reported that the club had during the past year shown an increase in membership and on the whole had a successful year. Some projects that had been planned for late fall had not been completed due to the early snowfall.

PLANS FOR THE ANNUAL banquet were quickly discussed and it will be held in Beebe in June. Rudy Miller is once again acting as Raffle Committee chairman. Prizes will be for $150, $70, $25 and four of $15.

HUGO LaPENNA ACTED as nominating chairman. Phil Poaps was re-elected as president, Merrick Belknap, treasurer and Ivy Hatch as secretary. Additions to the board of directors were submitted.

CHARLES BREWER is once again chairman of the Molson Fishing contest. A new weighing station will be provided for anglers to register their catches the first day of the season (provided the ice has gone).

I AM GLAD THAT Phil Poaps was re-elected as I know that many hours of untold work he has accomplished. If the directors and members of the club would take just a little more interest in the many projects the work could be quickly disposed of and new ones started.

HAROLD HALL, treasurer of the Stanstead County Fish and Game Club, passed away Tuesday in hospital. Harold had been treasurer of the club since it was first formed. Funeral services were held this morning with interment in Stanstead.

Refereeing in Europe easy - Vaillancourt

By RICHARD NUTBROWN (Record Staff Reporter)

In the realm of sport, more than any other, outstanding performance by competitors grabs the spotlight. Limelight remains, hopefully sometimes, for officials.

Marcel Vaillancourt, Sherbrooke resident and Canadian Ingersoll Rand employee, brought to Canada indirectly what our national pucksters attempted to, but failed — hockey notoriety.

Marcel, one of two referees sent to represent Canada in the World Hockey Tournament in Stockholm, returned home after the tourney with nothing but pleasant words from all teams involved.

The Sherbrooke hockey official said in an interview recently refereeing overseas was much easier.

"Players there never argue on the ice," said Mr. Vaillancourt, "but any disputes with a referee's decision appear in the papers."

He said in one way though officiating at the World Hockey Tournament was more difficult. "The language barrier," he continued, "between officials on the ice makes it very hard to know what the other referee has called."

Because of this, he said, a two-day meeting for officials is held prior to the tourney and officials are shown various signals to be used on the ice. "This makes the signals uniform at least," he said.

While overseas at the World Hockey Tournament, the Sherbrooke native officiated both Czech-Russia games, one Swede-Russia encounter, one Czech-Swede match; in all refereeing nine games and as well as being a goal judge in two.

"Another major difference," he said, "is the difference in the size of the ice."

He said he thought that because of the large rinks in Europe, three officials should be used.

On the controversial Czech-Russia second meeting, Marcel said the "game was not hard to handle."

"But there was a lot of pressure on the officials," he continued, "because of the hard-feelings between both the teams and their respective countries."

Another important game, the one which decided the ultimate winner this year (Russia), was the Swede-Czech game.

The Swedes won the game 1-0 but both officials called back one goal each on the Czechs. One goal was disallowed because of two-line pass while the other was called back on account of a Czech player being in the crease.

Marcel Vaillancourt called back the goal scored on the off-side play.

He was the youngest referee at the tournament and this was his first trip to the world sports event.

He said in the interview that he did not have any idea whether or not he would go back next year.

"If I'm appointed," he said, "I'd jump at the opportunity for sure."

Marcel said he was amazed at the city of Stockholm, at its uniform mixture of old and new.

"The city," he said, "is surrounded by water, a total of 42 lakes." It is called the City of Bridges.

He mused about his visit to historic Stockholm City Hall, a building whose inner walls are covered with solid gold.

One room he said, where players from the Canadian team were entertained for lunch, had walls forty feet high, and large enough to seat 2,000 persons.

He said following the tournament, the Holland Ice Hockey Federation asked him to come to the country to referee and teach for one year. "If I can get the time off from work," he continued, "I will go to Amsterdam for two weeks in September."

Hockey, as Marcel sees it is much different overseas. "The biggest difference," he said, "between Canadian and European hockey is goaltending."

He said netminding overseas was "not strong" and that possibly with good goalkeepers, the World Hockey Tournament top three finishers could give an NHL team a good fight.

"This," he stressed, "would be true only if they (NHL) played European rules."

He said the only player on the entire Russian team with a good shot is Firsov and here again, the Russians would be no match for the NHL either.

Marcel was chosen to represent Eastern Canada overseas last November. A list of 35 names was formed. The list was then narrowed down to three and eventually two, one from the East and other from Western Canada.

Accompanied by his wife, Marcel spent 21 days in the Swedish capital.

He was applauded by all countries for his work as an official, and in so doing represented his country, his Province and the City of Sherbrooke well. This is the first time an official from the Province of Quebec has been sent to a world hockey tournament.

Len O'Donnell named racing secretary at Sherbrooke Race Track

Len O'Donnell, Sherbrooke Daily Record sports editor, will put away his typewriter and pick up the reins as secretary of the Sherbrooke Racing Club, it was announced yesterday.

Robert Goudreau, club president, said yesterday Mr. O'Donnell will end his 25 year sports writing career to take over the post left empty by the death of Armand Lessard.

Mr. O'Donnell is a well-known figure in the harness racing circles and for the last eight years was the assistant judge at the Sherbrooke track.

The new racing secretary will assume his new duties April 28.

Mr. Goudreau announced the track will open May 11 with a total of 84 programs listed for this year.

Programs this year will be held on Tuesdays, Thursdays and Sundays, with the ladies being invited on Tuesday nights.

Jean Paul Trepanier will handle public relations for the club and Miss Ann Buck will be the assistant secretary.

If you can keep up with the changes in higher education in Quebec, it is more than I can do. And if you are a student finishing high school this year, the next step must be a real puzzle.

The CEGEPs throughout Quebec (Colleges of Academic and Technical Education) are in various stages of planning and development. Several French-language ones will be graduating their first students in June; universities are adjusting their programs to receive them. English-language CEGEPs are slow starting. The first (Dawson College in Montreal) will open its doors this fall with an enrollment, I hear limited to eighteen hundred. But what about the hundreds of other high-school graduates?

To help meet their need, until more CEGEPs are ready, Macdonald College's Faculty of Agriculture has planned a special two-year program in Physical and Biological Sciences. It will start in September this year.

The PABS program, as it is being called, will parallel the science and biology streams in the programs approved for the CEGEPs. A student completing his two years in the PABS program may then enroll in the Faculty of Agriculture for the final three years to a degree. Or, he may apply to enroll in any other science-oriented college or university. Thus the choices open to him will be the same as for any student graduating from the physical or biological science streams of a CEGEP.

A few days ago, more than two hundred prospective students, their parents, and their guidance counsellors came to an open forum at the College to hear about the new program and ask questions. Dr. Howard Stepler chaired the panel.

Dr. Stepler explained that by 1971 requirements for admission to the Bachelor of Science program in the Faculty of

Macdonald College

Agriculture and School of Food Science would therefore be a satisfactory standing from either the PABS program at Macdonald College, or from the physical or biological stream in a CEGEP.

The total time for a degree will therefore be five years after Junior matriculation, the same as at present, and the same as for most universities in North America.

Entrance requirements to the PABS program will be similar to present first-year requirements. These include High School Leaving from Grade eleven (Ontario Grade twelve) with a 65 per cent average in ten specified subjects. August 15 is the deadline for applications.

Someone brought up the question of fees. It was explained that while some reduction was possible, there was no certainty of a change from the present tuition level.

None of these changes will affect the Diploma in Agriculture program. If you have your Grade XI standing, you may still elect this two-year complete program in the principles and practices of agriculture, in lieu of a PABS or a CEGEP program.

Do-it-yourself

Those pesky drafts are hard to trace

Let us assume that your house was caulked in the fall, that it is reasonably well insulated and that you have installed weather stripping around all doors and windows—and yet you feel a draft or two on a cold day.

It's entirely possible. Winter air has a way of sneaking in and it will cause discomfort and run up your heat bills unless you do something about it.

Tracing a draft to its source will generally reveal an opening in wall, floor or near a baseboard. You can feel the cool air against your skin, but if you are uncertain you can arm yourself with a lighted candle while you explore for drafts, watching the flame and being careful of fire all the while.

Wherever there is a break in the wall there is a possibility of a draft. An electrical outlet on an outside wall is an example. If you find cold air entering, stuff the opening with glass fiber insulation if it is large or just caulk around the edges of the outlet box if small.

You may notice a draft just below the window, in spite of storm windows, weatherstripping and cal-king. The wooden apron or molding just below the sill may cover an unplastered area that leads directly to the outside across the rough sill. Drive a few finishing nails through the apron and into the rough sill to tighten the joint and seal it.

Pipes to a steam radiator coming up through the floor may have more space around them than they should. Even though there is a metal ring covering the

Herbicides can be used in new lawns

SAANICHTON, B.C. — Recent research is showing that herbicide applications can be made shortly after the grass in the new lawn is up. Annual broad-leaved weeds which frequently emerge so quickly and in such great profusion can now be safely and effectively controlled. A treatment which will do this eliminates the early weed competition which hinders successful grass establishment.

In making a new lawn, much time and expense are devoted to providing a fertile top soil and a good moisture supply, conditions which, however, favor quick germination and growth of weeds as well as the lawn grass. Although many of these weeds will be killed out by the first mowing, they already will have competed seriously with the grass for light, nutrients and moisture. Furthermore, low-growing weeds will persist, and many perennial weeds will likely have become well established.

For some 20 years spraying the lawn with herbicides to control weeds has become a common practice. The most widely-used compound, 2, 4-D, has proved effective for many weed species and safe when used according to recommendations. Because young seedling grasses tend to be sensitive to 2, 4-D, however, treatment of new lawns has not been recommended until after the new lawn has been mown twice.

In experiments at CDA's Research Station here, says R. M. Adamson, a weed control specialist, 2, 4-D was applied with safety sooner than was formerly thought possible.

Even more promising, however, are results obtained from ioxynil, a new herbicide not registered in Canada, which is effective against a wide variety of weeds. Best of all, it can apparently be applied without damage to fescues, bents and bluegrasses almost as soon as the seedlings are well emerged.

St-Hyacinthe farmer wins a Gold Seal Certificate

J. P. Lagace, St. Hyacinthe, has been awarded a Gold Seal Certificate for Alderwood Lady Nettie 3. In her first eight lactations she has produced 102,257 lbs. milk, 4,507 lbs. fat, 4.41 per cent in 2,710 days. She has several high yields including 14,256 lbs. milk, 667 lbs. fat in 328 days at 6 years and 15,245 lbs. milk, 701 lbs. fat, 4.60 per cent at 8 years. She is classified Excellent and she placed third at Quebec Exhibition in 1961. Her sire is also Cherry Bank Royal Marquis 2.

She has completed ten lactations producing 106,156 lbs. milk, 4,102 lbs. fat, in 3,361 days. She was a very consistent producer as her yields ranged between 10,239 lbs. milk to 11,447 lbs. She is classified Good Plus and her sire is Maska Pride Cupbearer.

College de Levis, Levis, P.Q. has been awarded a Gold Seal Certificate for Levisienne Ecluse de Saly 2. She has produced 109,107 lbs. milk, 4,451 lbs. fat, 4.08 per cent in 3,314 days. Her sire is Levisien Salty. She is classified Very Good with a daughter classified Excellent.

St. Martine Pintade, owned by Universite Laval, St. Augustin, Portneuf Co. P.Q. has qualified for a Gold Seal Certificate. In her first nine lactations she has produced 100,057 lbs. milk, 3,950 lbs. fat in 2,678 days. As a 9 year old she produced 14,180 lbs. milk, 570 lbs. fat, 4.02 per cent in 361 days. Her sire is Ste Martine Prince and she is classified Very Good.

may be getting drafts through it. It should be covered with an air-conditioner cover to prevent air from blowing through it and to protect it. Calk around the conditioner, between the unit and the mounting board. Even a unit mounted in a wall may be admitting cold air. Check it.

A draft can enter through the fireplace chimney. When the fireplace is not in use remember to close the damper. Remember that outdoors there may be wide joints around the fireplace. Trowel in mortar. If the joint is too wide, stuff with aluminum foil first, then apply mortar.

A kitchen exhaust fan may be admitting cold air. You can purchase a cover to go over the fan grill. Lacking this, you can line the grill with aluminum foil but you will not be able to use the fan for the rest of the winter. Instead, open a window a crack for the short time you might use the fan.

Take a look around the outside of your house where pipes come through the wall. The space around the pipe should be well caulked.
