Alert, active, and friendly towards all life's problems and interests, you will live as a good neighbor should, demonstrating thereby that brotherhood is more powerful than even the Atomic Bomb. The spirit of the good neighbor—the spirit of Christ—is God's specific for the prevention and cure of social disintegration. Let us as Christians follow Isaiah's advice and every one henceforth help his neighbor and say to his brother, "Be of good cheer." (16, 41, 6).

O PROMISE ME also that you will commit thy way unto the Lord; trust also in Him, (Psalm 37:5) knowing that through Christ we can do all things. (Phil. 4:13)

"By faith our fathers lived and died. To us they threw the torch bidding us go forth under the guidance of the Holy Spirit, travelling in the path that shineth more and more unto the perfect day. You are pledged to Christ for at your Baptism you promised, through sponsors, to continue Christ's faithful soldier and servant unto your life's end. These vows you ratified and confirmed at your Confirmation. At marriage promises are made before God and man that "these two" will live together till death doth them part. At ordination there are, of course,

Bride-To-Be Given Shower In Milby

Milby, June 23. — On the evening of June 13, Mrs. F. H. Allcorn kindly gave her home for a community miscellaneous shower given in honour of Miss Phyllis Sutor, a popular bride of the month.

On arrival Miss Sutor was presented with a corsage by Mrs. C. Leonard who escorted her to a seat of honor beside a table heaped with gaily wrapped packages. Mrs. A. Fairbrother, expressing the good wishes of the members of Milby W. L. Milby W.C.T.U. and St. Barnabas Guild, presented Miss Sutor with a "made in England wool blanket".

Miss Sutor was assisted in unwrapping her gifts by her sister, Miss Jean Sutor. Miss Sutor graciously thanked all present for the gifts and invited all to go to see her when she takes up residence in Lennoxville.

A bountiful basket lunch was served under the supervision of Mrs. E. R. McCrea with Mrs. E. Beattie, Mrs. C. Leonard, Mrs. F. H. Allcorn, Mrs. G. McVety and Mrs. C. Graham assisting.

Urges Labor Reserve Of Executive Talent

London. — (C) — Fred Lee, parliamentary secretary to the Ministry of Labor, has called on the British trade union movement to build up its own reserve of executive talent to meet the demands of nationalized industries.

In his challenge, addressed to the General Federation of Trade Unions, Mr. Lee suggested labor leaders and educational authorities should get together without delay and draw up an industrial training scheme, as a starter.

Under the plan, workers showing above-average ability and executive promise could be selected for more advanced training in universities and technical colleges.

He contended it was the duty of those entrusted with the appointment of men to positions of responsibility in nationalized industries, to create a pool of able, efficient candidates.

"At present," he said, "the Trades Union Congress had no list of qualified persons they can nominate for such positions.

"I believe that until the trade union movement remedies this basic defect any conception of the workers enjoying greater control of industry will remain a mere dream of the future."

He added that the ministries of labor and education stood ready to place their experience and assistance at the disposal of the trade unions in organizing a workable scheme.

THEIR OLD FILMS ON TV
DON'T FRET THESE ACTRESSES

Hollywood—At least two movie queens don't care about old movies haunting their new star-spangled careers.

Sally Forrest, who delivers an Oscar-quality job in "Hard, Fast and Beautiful," blushed when I brought up the claims of an independent producer that she cavorted around in her birthday suit in a little film named "The Daring Miss Jones" several years ago.

"I was 14 or 15 when I did it," she said, "and the film was so bad no theatre wanted to show it then. But anybody with good eyes can see that I'm fully clothed."

Ruth Roman laughed about an early western, "White Stallion," now being shown on TV. "I think it's fun," she said, "but I'll really hide my head if they ever show an old serial I made called 'Loethal, Mystery Queen of the Jungle.'"

"They had me in a lava pit, they shot me six times and then they let me get caught in an avalanche. This game could never die. But I died. I was awful."

John Boles and George Temple, Shirley's pop, will soon announce the opening of a big industrial war plant. They have two million dollars in contracts from aircraft companies already.

Plenty of Greenbacks

Charles MacArthur of playwright Helen Hayes to turn down one of the biggest TV offers yet made to a dramatic actress. Forty grand per show for a period of 30 weeks.

Sign of the times note: The Ball-Ball, a South Sea Island cafe at Palm Springs, has a sign out front reading: "The Ball-Ball Has Gone Western." Doris Day and Marty Melcher are gnashing their teeth over the sordid notes rumors. Any day now Melcher will petition the courts to permit him to legally adopt Doris' young step, Terry.

Wanda Hendrix will get her first whack at a shady lady role in summer stock at Newport, R.I. She'll be Robert Clarke's co-star in "Bad Man," a new play . . . Vanessa Brown, playing a night club scene with Marshall Thompson in "The Basketball Fix," broke up in the middle of the scene. The last item on the prop menu handed to her by an extra playing a waiter read: "After Dinner Minks."

Fox is after Eddie O'Brien for the Capt. Plagg role in its musical version of "What Price Glory." Dan Dailey is set to portray Sgt. Quirk . . . Eddie hopes the deal goes through. He told me: "I'm a frustrated singer at heart."

Rita Hayworth's refusal to participate in a western awards celebration at Reno because "I've never worked in a western" was a Hollywood eye-opener. Rita's on TV now as Tex Ritter's leading lady in several westerns, billed under her original name of Rita Cansino.

There talk of teaming Yvonne de Carlo and bullfighter poet Mario Cabre in "Matthew the Mad." No relation to MGM's "Montes and the Matador" . . . Peter Lawford is seeing Mrs. Gary Cooper again—but with Jeanne MacDonald along as a third party to squelch romance talk.

On the Record:

Jayne Meadows, on the subject of her marriage to a film writer: "I could never stand being married to an actor. During the first 24 hours on a picture, I get a terrible crush on my leading man. Then I see him fighting for closeups."

Maureen O'Hara, on choosing film stories: "When I read a script, it's not how many pages for O'Hara, but is this going to be a big boxoffice picture or not?"

Joseph Cotten, on the unhappy ending in "The Third Man." "Everybody thought it was wonderful that Valli and I didn't get together. Everybody except Sir Charles Mendel. He complained to me, 'It's unfair to impose such a shock on an old romanticist.'"

Short Takes: Sam Goldwyn's "I Want You" is now in its fourth rewrite. Waags has retitled the story, "I Want You Again, Again, and Again." . . . Alan Ladd's first independent, for his own company, will be a western, "Shadow Riders of the Yellowstone." . . . The supper club dancing hit, Marge

Girl Plans Thesis On Guiana Tribes

Georgetown, British Guiana. — Miss Audrey Butt, an Oxford graduate, is getting her doctor of philosophy degree the hard way.

Flying into the Mazaruni jungle, she plans to remain nine months among the Arecuna and Akowoi tribes and later will fly to Chicago to consult with experts at University of Chicago.

Miss Butt, who already has written a thesis on the organization of Eskimos, then will return to British Guiana for a two-year survey.

Finally, she will submit a report on her findings to the government here and write her thesis for a doctor of philosophy degree.

Condition Of Mrs. Desrocher Still Critical

Mrs. Cleodime Desrocher, 51, of Bury Township, near Scottstown, remains in a critical condition in St. Vincent de Paul Hospital today following injuries received when she was assaulted and left in a ditch at the side of the road about 1,000 feet from the home of her son-in-law last Tuesday.

One man has been arrested and has been charged with assault. His trial is set for next Thursday.

Provincial Police are still continuing their investigation and more people have been questioned.

ville where he is one of the graduating class this year. He is 17 years old.

Last April the Cowansville Lions sponsored a public speaking contest among the schools of Bedford, Knowlton, St. Johns, and Cowansville at which time Robert Stocks was defeated by Miss Lois Boomhour of Bedford, but nothing daunted, he was taken to St. Lambert shortly after by the Lions of Cowansville where he competed against many good speakers and was declared the winner by a goodly margin. His topic was "Why Students Do Not Complete Their High School Year."

The Cowansville Lions now announce that it is their privilege, and pleasure to sponsor Robert Stocks' appearance at the Canadian National Exhibition in Toronto in August where he will compete for honors at the public speaking contest to be held there under the auspices of Lions International which includes all of Ontario and Quebec, District 44.

"Bob" expects to be accompanied on his trip by his father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Stocks, and the Lions are very hopeful that he will bring honor, and glory to both himself, and the attempts of the Lions in their efforts to promote competence and ability in the young people of their community.

Clean Furnace Now, Save Grief Next Winter

By MR. FIX

Distributed by NEA Service

Just about now people are happily thinking about shutting down their furnaces and basking in the free heat of summer.

There's nothing wrong with forgetting your heating plant for a few months if you give it a little kind treatment after the work it did all winter. Otherwise, come fall, you may find your furnace has nothing to offer but a cold shoulder.

If you have a coal furnace, the first thing to do is clean out the ash pit. A lot of householders let this little chore slide once they've let the fire go out, but ashes left around all summer are likely to store up moisture and cause rust.

Then open the boiler door and get rid of the soot that's accumulated on the boiler baffles. Use a thin, long-handled brush (they make 'em just for this job) and lots of vigor. Grates ought to be cleaned too; a wire brush will do the trick here.

Now go around in back and take down the smoke pipe. Cover the ends so you won't leave a trail of soot, take it outside and dump it. Some people wrap the smoke pipe in paper and store it for the summer, but if you put it back now you'll be able to check to make sure the cement is sound where it enters the chimney.

When you've finished the cleaning, above and below, take an insect gun and fill it with light oil. Spray thoroughly all over the inside of the furnace, and you won't have to worry about rust. Oil the doors and hinges, too, and leave them open so the furnace can air out all summer.

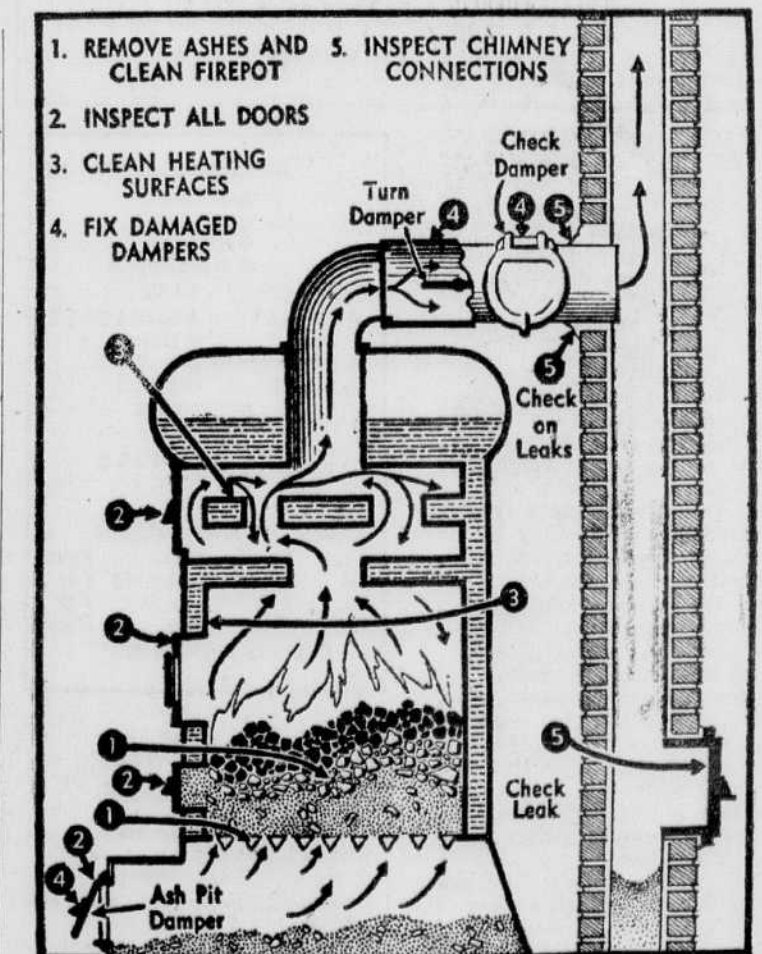

Now you can go to work on the outside, checking all moving parts (particularly the safety or relief valve) and repairing cracks and tears in the insulating jacket with asbestos cement.

If yours is a steam boiler, this is the time to drain it. Then refill to the top. If you find a lot of rust and scale in the water, you can get a special compound at your hardware store that will clean things out.

If you have a hot water heating system, leave the boiler undrained—and don't drain off the radiators, either. The water that's already in there won't rust them because the cooking it got all winter took out the oxygen.

Oil burner mechanisms ought to be oiled in the proper places. Somewhere around the cellar you've probably tacked up the instructions you got when the burner was installed. If you can't find them, get a new set from your service man.

Every couple of years you should make a note to get the soot out of the chimney. You can buy chemical chips to throw on your coal fire, or liquid chemicals for oil furnaces, that will do the work when you start the furnace up again.

ST. JEAN BAPTISTE DAY

This week-end the people of the Province of Quebec are celebrating the great feast of French Canada, St. Jean Baptiste Day. Time-honored ceremonial and formality will honor their patron saint and one of the major saints of the Christian Church. It was the task of St. John the Baptist to go before and prepare the way for the greater personage who was to come after him. It was his duty to point the road for those who sought the light.

June 24 is a day of festivity and great rejoicing throughout this historic old Province of Quebec for the French-speaking people of Canada are ever ready and eager to proclaim their national traits and to stand for all they hold dear. Thus in the observance of Saint Jean Baptiste Day they find an outlet for their national fervor. The celebrations planned for Sherbrooke over the week-end are but typical of those that are being staged in widely-separated sections of the province.

The English-speaking population of Quebec joins to a great extent in the Saint Jean Baptiste celebrations and in many parts of the province English citizens will march with their French compatriots in parades or mingle with them at picnics and other social gatherings featuring the day.

The mingling of the two great races on such occasions is an important factor in promoting the unity of the Dominion, for the fellowship built up at these times cannot help but make for a better understanding between the peoples.

SCARCITY SITUATION FORETALED

Production and imports have proved so buoyant in aggregate over the past year that "a general scarcity situation has been largely forestalled," despite heavy demand for a few essential materials. This is the conclusion reached by the Bank of Montreal's latest Business Review in assessing economic trends since the outbreak of the Korean war. But, while the "anticipatory" phase of the adjustment to rearmament appears to be exhausted, the Bank points out that inflationary forces have not been decisively put to rout.

The report sees the main economic reaction to Korea as a "sharp accentuation of demand, largely from civilian quarters, and a renewal of price inflation." This persisted into 1951. But, recently, basic commodity price indices have levelled off in the United States. And, although general wholesale prices in Canada have been more buoyant than their American equivalents, latest indications show the first evidence of a decline. These conditions may well account in part for "a perceptible change in the Canadian business weather."

"In Canada, as elsewhere," the Bank says, "much of the abnormal spending of the past year has been in anticipation of shortages expected to result from governmental defence outlays. The actual impact of defence expenditures has, in the nature of the case, tended to lag well behind the announcement of the program as such."

The competition for goods and services has sprung from other directions, the bank holds. Heavier sales of motor vehicles accounted for the bulk of the over-all gain in retail sales, although unofficial reports now indicate a marked down-turn. On the other hand, construction statistics point to "extraordinary activity underway and in prospect." The strength of export markets has constituted a further claim on available Canadian output.

On the supply side of the equation, the review continues, greater imports have, "to a significant degree," satisfied the additional demands for consumer goods, construction and export. Imports have increased "much more rapidly" than exports. No less important as an anti-inflationary influence has been the "notable expansion" of domestic output.

After referring to a nine per cent increase in the non-agrarian labor-force in April compared with a year ago, the Bank notes that a steady increase in average wages, as well as this rise in employment, is responsible for the expansion of consumer spending-power.

In sum, the review suggests that the "accentuated demand" of the past year has borne most sharply on a few essential materials, such as steel and the base metals. But, in aggregate, "production and imports have proved so buoyant that a general scarcity situation has been largely forestalled." With high inventories in some lines, signs of abatement in the rise of prices, and tighter credit conditions, it appears that the "anticipatory" phase of the adjustment to rearmament has exhausted itself.

"This does not imply, however, that inflationary forces have been decisively put to rout," the Bank concludes. But recent experience, with its selective deflationary adjustments, may temper the excesses of demand in the months to come.

MACARTHUR TESTIMONY SHOWS NOBODY HAS ALL THE ANSWERS

By PETER EDSON
NEA Washington Correspondent

Washington—(NEA)—Senate double-committee investigation into the firing of Gen. Douglas MacArthur has now reached a pretty confusing state. So much testimony has been taken that every witness appears to have stood on all sides of every question. It's possible to prove almost anything you want to by quoting only from parts of the testimony you may happen to agree with, or wish to believe.

Since the only fun of getting into an argument is to get everyone completely balled up, there are cited below a few examples on how the MacArthur dispute can now be reduced to near-absurdities. These are some of the points that will have to be cleared up if this marathon inquiry is to produce anything constructive at all:

1. Former Defense Secretary Louis Johnson testified that when the Korean war broke out, Secretary of State Dean Acheson was for opposing the aggression with U.S. air and sea-power alone. If that strategy had been followed, all of Korea would of course be in the hands of the Communists today.

Republican Senator Robert A. Taft has up to now been one of the principal advocates of using air and sea-power as deterrents to Communist aggression. So, at the start of the fight, Senator Taft and Secretary Acheson apparently held similar views on this point.

It was Gen. MacArthur, according to Secretary Johnson, who first declared that air and sea-power alone would do no good. It was Gen. MacArthur who said American ground troops would have to be used.

WHOSE WAR?

That would seem to make it Gen. MacArthur's war as much as Secretary Acheson's war. And it points up a possible great difference in views on strategy between Senator Taft and General MacArthur.

What is really needed to clear up this situation is some testimony from John Foster Dulles. He was in Japan when the Korean war broke out, and he knows exactly what General MacArthur thought about it at the time. This might show that Ambassador Dulles had an equally important part in getting this war started.

2. Air Force Chief of Staff General Hoyt S. Vandenberg's testimony also presented some puzzles. He declared the U.S. Air Force was operating on a "shoestring" basis. He said the Korean war wouldn't be conclusive even if U.S. bombers knocked out Manchuria and the principal cities of China.

This doesn't sound at all like the statements being issued when the Air Force was feuding with the Navy a couple of years ago.

3. Senator Taft and Lieut. Gen. Albert C. Wedemeyer would also seem to be at considerable odds over how to end the Korean war, or else Senator Taft has greatly changed his views.

Last January, Senator Taft recommended in a speech that the U.S. pull out of Korea and establish a new defense line based on Formosa and Japan. But when Gen. Wedemeyer in his testimony before the two committees recommended that the United States pull out of Korea, Senator Taft told a reporter he was against it.

TAFT PREFERENCE

Senator Taft now says he prefers a military stalemate in Korea to a 38th parallel peace settlement. Gen. Wedemeyer agrees only on the idea that peace on the 38th parallel would be psychological defeat for the U.S.

Otherwise, Gen. Wedemeyer said so many things he, himself, later qualified that it's a little difficult to keep up with him. He wouldn't pull out of Korea unless the United Nations did, but if we stay in we should go it alone if necessary, to push the war harder. How do you do all those things consistently is a bit of a mystery.

4. Most of the eight days Sec. Acheson was on the stand were spent in trying to hang full blame on him for the China debacle. But Gen. Wedemeyer went a long way in his testimony in placing primary responsibility on General MacArthur.

That came through Gen. Wedemeyer's revelation that in 1945 he wanted seven U.S. divisions to defend Manchuria. General MacArthur, as Pacific Supreme Commander, turned down the request. If approved, it might have prevented the rise of the Chinese Reds.

5. In recommending that the U.S. push the Korean war harder, Gen. Wedemeyer even advocated bombing the Manchurian railroad and breaking with Soviet Russia. This is one to ponder.

As a basis for comparison, consider what would happen if the Russian air force dropped just one bomb on the 470-mile Alaska railroad that runs from Seward to Fairbanks. Would that start World War Three?

6. Gen. Wedemeyer was dead right, though, when in 1947 he prophesied that the Russian-controlled North Korean Reds would attempt an invasion of South Korea. He was way ahead of the pack on that one. And nobody paid him any attention.

But what all these cases prove, if anything is that nobody but nobody can have all the right answers all the time.

OLD-TIME BARN RAISINGS

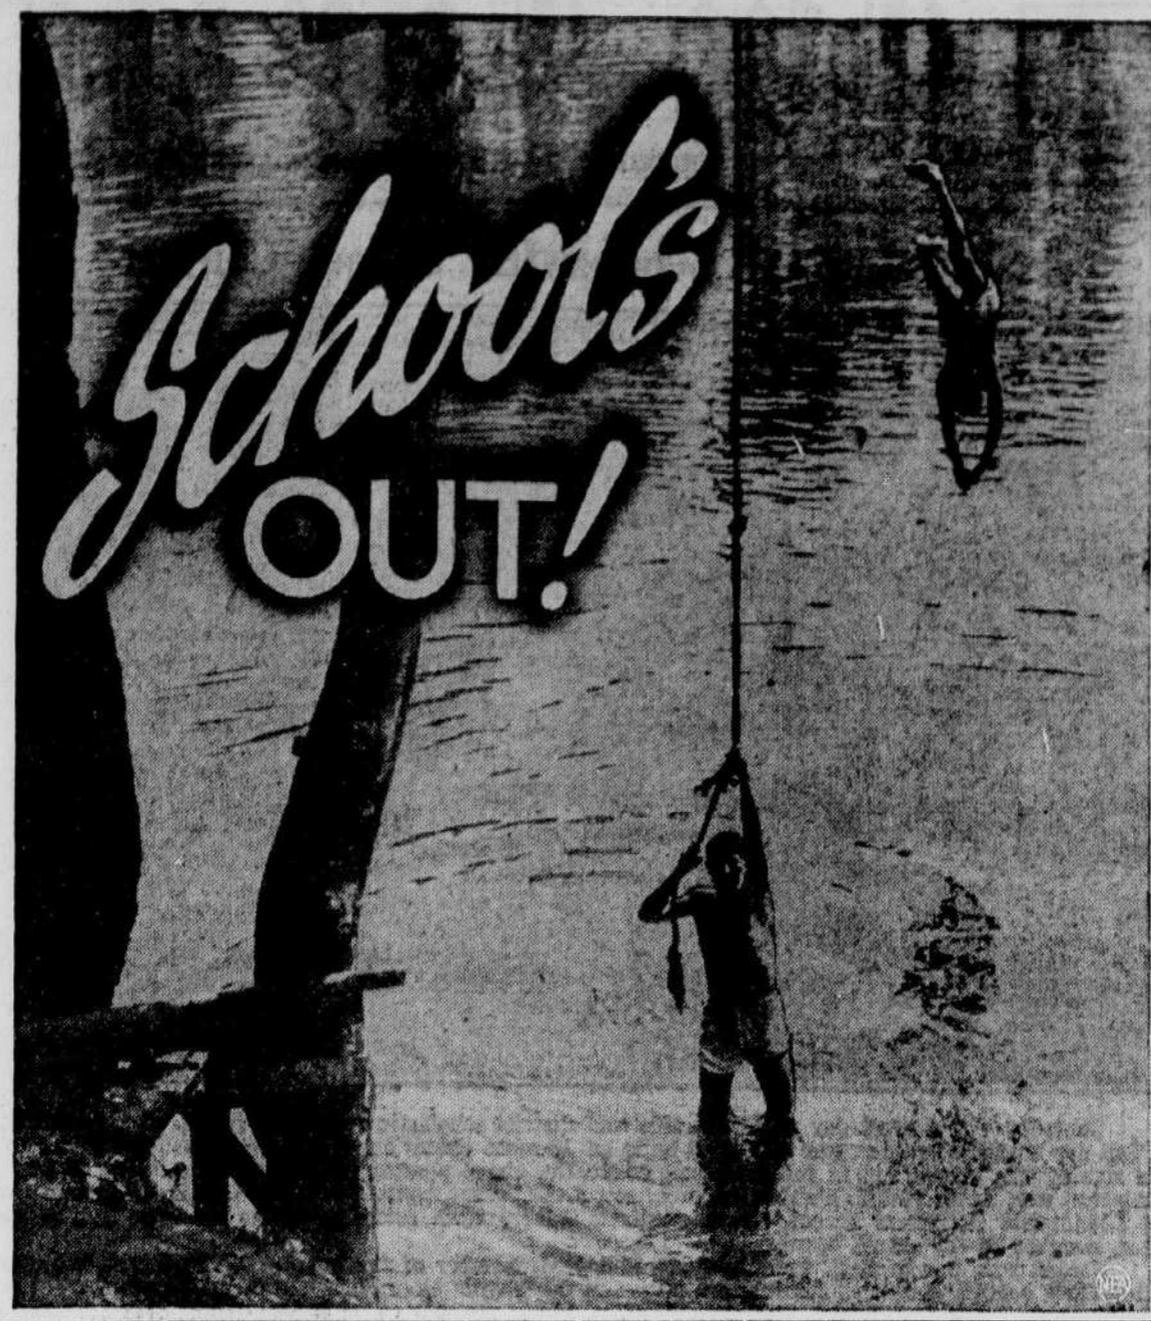

Injuries at barn-raising, such as those suffered by a Forest farmer, now are rare. The reason is, of course, barn-raising in Ontario now are relatively few.

But 75 years ago, or even less, they were common. As farms were hacked out of the bush, barns were necessary to stable the stock and provide storage for fodder. Most of the original Ontario barns were of log. And they sufficed until frame barns could be built. There aren't many log barns left, though occasionally one can be spotted, particularly in Eastern Ontario.

Barn-raising was a social as well as utilitarian event. The menfolk gathered for miles around to do the difficult and often dangerous work of hoisting the big beams into place. Teams would be called up, to see which group of men could erect its side of the barn the fastest.

Meantime the women prepared substantial dinners, fit for a hard-working man. There are some old-timers still around with vivid recollections of these affairs.

The key men were the framers, those artisans who prepared the timbers, knew where they were to go, and directed the raising. It was no light job, for many of these Ontario barns have beams a foot thick and 40 feet long of solid lumber.

O Promise Me

By REV. B. S. MURRAY, M.A.

Have you ever paused to consider the part that Promises play in the scheme of life? Many of them I realize are implied but that does not lessen their value.

From the cradle to the grave "promise me" are words which hold within them a personal challenge. Fathers and Mothers invariably ask their sons and daughters to promise them that they will endeavor to play the Game of Life according to the rules. Professional people, at the commencement of their careers, make an outward pledge to be loyal. And at Marriage where the song, "O Promise Me," is so popular—young people invoke God's blessing in sacrament and prayer as they pledge loyalty to each other till death doth them part.

Lives of successful people remind us that achievement follows the fulfillment of certain basic conditions. Did not the Master bid us "Fulfill the conditions," as He, the Pathfinder, pointed to the strait gate—the gate discipline—which leads to life at the fullest. That is still the gate through which the athlete who thrills, the artist who inspires, the orator who convinces, the writer who awakens must pass.

So, in answer to those Fathers and Mothers who have requested me to pen a few principles by which their sons and daughters may make right decisions and find the right gate which leads to abundant living. (Matt. 7:13) I suggest O PROMISE ME that you will think without confusion clearly. In an era characterized by tension, lawlessness, confusion and a marked ignoring of God, we need to recapture the spirit of our forefathers who endeavored to think like God. (Mark 8:33). To do this we must live in the atmosphere of Jesus "with Him." (Mark 3:14). Across the centuries the Prince of Life challenges us to say "good bye" to sin and live the perfect life. For he who thinks straight does not easily yield to sin.

Like the Quaker then, sit down occasionally and have a think. It is good realism and excellent self-discipline to take stock of thy thoughts for they register the color in which your soul is dyed. As a man thinketh so is he, remains a basic truth. We need to remember this when Democracy is under attack and an effort being made to substitute for it another set of ideas. Beware lest we forget that Democracy can be more readily destroyed by the perversion or abandonment of its true moral principles than by any armed attack.

Strange, but many who think their way successfully through "Cards" will not face life's problems in the same spirit. As a result too many drift aimlessly and develop into victims when they could, by thinking straight, live as victors.

To you graduates of '51 come the challenge to face life steadily and in actuality. This demands thinking on a high moral and spiritual plane. With the Holy Spirit as your Guide, choose aright your place in the scheme of life, then venture forth in the spirit of victory. The three V's—vision,

MAKE OPPONENTS PAY DEARLY AS POSSIBLE

"You had a lot of nerve bidding six spades," North said to East after today's hand had been played and the smoke had cleared away. "You couldn't make six spades, you know."

East just nodded amiably. He knew perfectly well that six spades would have been set. He suspected as much when he bid six spades—but he went ahead and bid the slam anyway.

The reason was very simple. The bidding of South and North made it perfectly plain that they were determined to play the hand at hearts. East therefore made it as expensive as possible by pushing them to seven hearts.

South knew that he couldn't lose much at seven hearts. If North had a high diamond or two, besides the high hearts already indicated, the sacrifice might turn out to be very cheap. The opponents would score over 1600 points if they made six spades, and a sacrifice bid at seven hearts was a good insurance policy against such a disaster.

Was South foolish for bidding seven hearts against a slam that couldn't actually be made? He felt a bit sorry when the hand was over, but he didn't feel foolish.

He thought that the opponents had at least an even chance to make their slam. If good opponents bid ten hands in that way it would be reasonable to assume that they could make five of the ten slams.

If he passed all ten slams, the opponents would wind up scoring about 1600 points on the other five hands, for a net score of about 7500 points. If South bid seven hearts against each slam he would lose a maximum of 500 points per hand. In ten hands he would be 2500 points better off.

This argument doesn't alter the fact that East made a fine stab

OFFICE PICNIC

By MARIE de NERVAUD

As the Saturday of the office picnic drew near, Vera became more and more panicky. How could she get out of it? Nobody would believe her if she said she was sick. Especially that cat of a Lucille, who'd been sounding her out every day as to whether Ned Crandall had asked her yet to go with him.

"Funny," Lucille had mused yesterday afternoon, the satisfaction under her surface sympathy all too apparent, "He's always taken his secretary with him. It's a sort of tradition." Vera said, but Lucille had no intention of leaving her that comfort.

"That has nothing to do with it. Linda had only been here two weeks last year, and he took her. Before that—"

"I'm sorry, Lucille, but I have to rush," Vera reached for her coat. "Don't let it bother you," she added with a sarcasm that was completely foreign to her natural sunny nature. "It doesn't bother me."

But it did bother her. All last night, the humiliation, the sense of loss of face in the office teased and troubled her. She tried to scold herself out of it, to tell herself that Lucille was the only one who was even thinking of it. Lucille had hoped to have Vera's last secretary had left. But Ned had gone to an agency and picked Vera, and Lucille had borne a grudge from the beginning.

The Crandall Insurance Company was a relatively small concern, with Old Man Crandall practically retired, and his son, Ned, taking over more and more. Ned Crandall was an attractive, unmarried man in his early thirties, and most of the girls in the office either had had, were having, or would have, a crush on him.

Apparently, he was entirely unconscious of this. That was one of the things Vera especially liked about him. His friendly, yet impersonal attitude was exactly what she wanted in an employer, and she'd been happy and contented in the three months that she'd held the job.

There were more women than there were men in the office, and half the men who were there, were married, and took their wives along. That narrowed down the possible number of escorts for the picnic at the Crandall estate on Long Island, a much talked of yearly event.

Of the six girls under 25, Vera was the youngest, and, with her reddish gold hair and deep brown eyes, the prettiest. Not that she was thinking that, as she put on a last touch of lipstick before leaving for the office. But she was considering that being one of the wall-flowers, one of the unwanted, was a new and unpleasant experience.

Everyone had taken it for granted that she would go with Ned Crandall. Steve Rushmore, who's desk was near Vera's, had said a week ago, "I'd like to ask you to the picnic. Beautiful, but I'm not risking getting in wrong with the boss." By now, all the unmarried men would be paired off.

"Perhaps he's just been absent-minded about it," Vera told herself.

more of a man, and whatever the material result, your life will be no failure but essentially a success. Your Hero? Jesus Christ. Study His life and you're sure that each day shall register a step forward in the knowledge of Truth. About your work think positively, reserving time for the development of a sound mind in a sound body as well as the enjoyment of Beauty. Forward go then, making your armour, honest thought and you will be a moral hero dwelling permanently on the Street called Straight.

O PROMISE ME, then, that you will love your fellow-men sincerely as you take up permanent residence on that famous Biblical street. For, "for noble service you are here, thy neighbor help, thy God reverse." Only when the Golden Rule—and not the rule of gold—with its motif of God first then thy neighbor, operates universally, will peace, purity and love prevail. Graduates of '51 are expected, therefore, to cultivate a courteous spirit, a forgiving temper, an un-

"Don't tell me you're here unattached!"

"Vera looked up into quizzical blue eyes under a mop of blond hair. "Phil Taylor," he introduced himself. "Brother of the bride. Boy, is this luck! Do you play tennis?"

Vera nodded "but I didn't bring my racket—"

"The house is full of them," get the court while the going's good." From then on, the going was unbelievably good. They played tennis, they swam, they took their cocktails and lunch to a secluded spot by the brook. After they went sailing, and Phil danced just the way Vera knew he would.

At midnight, she was waiting on the terrace in a daze of happiness for Phil to bring up his car. Who could have dreamed the day could turn out like this? She'd never met anyone she'd felt so—

"There you are!" Ned Crandall suddenly appeared. "I've been looking for you to apologize about being so dumb. I should have realized that someone would tell you I usually bring my secretary."

"I overheard two of the girls talking as I left the office—I told Naida and she saw right away how it would strike you. She called Phil—"

"Hi!" Phil drove up and in a shattered state of reawakened misery, Vera stumbled into the car. For 10 minutes they skirted the moonlit Sound in silence. Then, Phil drew off the road and stopped.

"What did Ned say? Something's wrong."

"All day you've been nice to me because your sister told you to. Because you were sorry for me."

"Is that what you think?" Phil took her in his arms and kissed her. "She didn't tell me to do that. Sure, she called me up and gave me the picture and asked me to come. I said to myself, 'The girl won't be there. She won't be a good enough sport to come.' Then, the girl was there and she was you. I haven't thought of anything since but you and me. Don't you believe me, Vera?"

"You will!"

"You will," he predicted. He laughed and straightened up, one hand patting the top of the door of his shiny new roadster. "You like this car?" he asked.

Vera nodded.

"That's good. Because you're going to see a lot of it. And don't forget, I go with it."

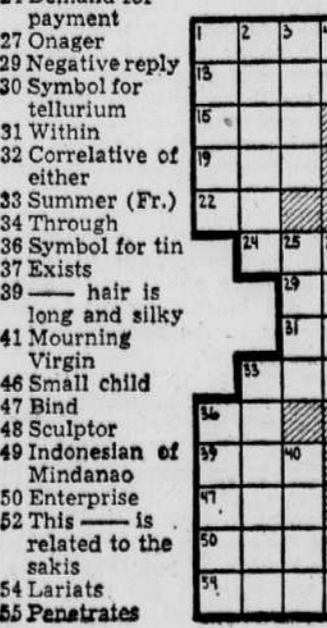

Once more they drove in silence, but this time there was nothing wrong with it.

"You will!"

"You will," he predicted. He laughed and straightened up, one hand patting the top of the door of his shiny new roadster. "You like this car?" he asked.

Vera nodded.

"That's good. Because you're going to see a lot of it. And don't forget, I go with it."

Once more they drove in silence, but this time there was nothing wrong with it.

Your Home And Mine By D. C. MULLER

By D. C. MULLER Summary

Since I started this series of articles on the home and home life, I have tried to cover the various aspects of the home to beginners to stress careful planning in the beginning in order to alleviate a lot of the money which could be used for other things.

Two — Utility — get things which serve a purpose and which do something and look around till you are satisfied.

Three — Beauty — this word is hard to describe because to each one of us it conveys a different meaning. Beauty is a combination of everything in your room in order that it has a distinctive charm.

Five — Originality — Get your personality into every room, and use your own ideas for they will get your creative ability out in the open and you will be surprised at the results.

With these words in your head you will have a guide to go by and a pattern for the rooms which I haven't covered. If it is possible to continue this next year I shall try to discuss paintings and their relation to the home.

Many thanks to stalwart comrade "Archie" Buckland for turning out on Sunday at our church parade representing Cookshire branch.

Comrades go out to our second vice-president, Ash Stewart, on becoming a "Grand Pa" also to your wife as a member of the Legion Ladies' Auxiliary on becoming a "Grand Mama."

I will finish off Comrades with a further reminder about Saturday. Our ladies have worked very hard on this strawberry social, so let's all turn out with our wives, or girl friends if you are not hitched as yet, and make this a success. All veterans and their friends are welcome.

David Goodell Is Rotary Club President

Derby Line, June 23. — David Goodell, principal of Derby Academy, took over as president of the Rotary Club of the Boundary at the regular Monday evening meeting held at the Del Monty Hotel. E. J. Struthers presented the retiring president, C. R. Darby, with a past president's pin, and reports were heard from several club committees.

In his report on the activities of the year that was just ending, president Darby expressed his thanks to the directors and members of the club for their assistance and cooperation. Among the club activities mentioned were the Rotary Children's Room at the Haskell Library, the Rotary Children's Camp at Lake Salem, the successful Rotary Fair, and the United Nations Project.

Mr. Darby said that he felt fortunate to have been the president of a small club with members that were willing to work and to carry out many projects for the good of the communities. He also mentioned the annual Halloween party and the visit of Santa Claus to the Boundary as two examples of club effort that were worth while.

Short reports were given by Maurice Moore on classifications of the club members, by C. R. MacLean of Community projects, on programs by E. J. Struthers, and on international service by Earl Heath.

Special thanks were given to Miss Aline Ricard for her faithful service as pianist for the club. In presenting the past president's pin to Mr. Darby, E. J. Struthers expressed the club's pleasure and appreciation of the success of the year that was ending. He said that the retiring president had done a fine job and fully deserved the thanks of each and every member.

In taking over the gavel, president Goodell stated that he would not name all the various committees at this time, but only the chairmen of the main divisions, and that the others would be announced later. He also said that as he was leaving for summer school Tuesday, the club would be in the capable hands of vice-president Rene Monty for the next few weeks.

For the year 1951-52, Rene Monty will be chairman of the club services; vocational services will be led by Fred Gilman; community service headed by C. R. Darby; and international service by Gordon Petrie.

It was announced that this would be the last meeting for R. A. Hammill, who is leaving on vacation soon and who will be transferred to Montreal by the Canadian Bank of Commerce upon his return. Expressions of regret at the loss of Rotarian Rod were made by president Darby, and he and his wife were wished the best of everything by the club.

In Miniature

MOST boys are interested in things that go fast. Midget racing cars, speed boats, airplanes all have a fascination. Of course all boys don't grow up to race these things, but they have a thrill in "make-believe."

That's one of the reasons for the national soap box derby, which takes place Aug. 12 each year. Almost any boy with a little patience and skill can build one and he can take part in local competition in most areas of the nation. If he's lucky and wins he can go to the national race which takes place in Akron, Ohio.

Model airplanes are another phase of "make-believe," but it's more than that. Many pilots, engineers and designers started their careers in model building. City and state contests in this field also will give boys their chance to show what they can do.

The pond skippers are boys who race miniature yachts in model regattas that have almost as many rules as the real thing. Pond skippers do not start with racing sloops, but begin by building simple boat models. From that point they go on to the point that makes them pretty well acquainted with most of the basic facts of shipbuilding. When a boy can build a racing sloop, even a small model, you can be sure he is a skipper who knows a boat from the rudder to the masthead.

Small beginnings, even make-believe beginnings, often lead to big things. The outdoor season is here, so let's "make-believe."

"Is the Universe, Including Man, Evolved by Atomic Force?" is the subject of the Lesson-Sermon to be read in Churches of Christ, Scientist, on Sunday, June 24th, 1951.
The Golden Text is from Revelation 11:17 "We give thee thanks, O Lord God Almighty, which art, and wast, and art to come; because thou hast taken to thee thy great power, and hast reigned."
Among the citations which comprise the Lesson-Sermon is the following from the Bible: "Know ye that the Lord he is God: it is he that hath made us, and not we ourselves; we are his people, and the sheep of his pasture. For, lo, he that formeth the mountains, and created the wind, and declareth unto man what is his thought, that maketh the morning darkness, and treadeth upon the high places of the earth, The Lord, The God of hosts, is his name."—(Psalms 100 and Amos 4.)
The Lesson-Sermon also includes the following passage from the Christian Science textbook "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy:—"God creates and governs the universe, including man. The Universe is filled with spiritual ideas, which He evolves, and they are obedient to the Mind that makes them. Creator, Spirit; Mind; intelligence; the animating divine Principle of all that is real and good; self-existent Life, Truth, and Love! that which is perfect and eternal; the opposite of matter and evil, which have no Principle; God, who made all that was made and could not create an atom or an element the opposite of Himself."—(Pages 295 and 583).

IN THE WOMEN'S SPHERE

Acrobatic Acts In Spring-Cleaning Circus Often Have Death Directing Their Finale

New York — Unless you bring forth your common-sense and caution along with your dustpan, broom and squeegee, your spring clean-up this year may well result in unpleasantness or even tragedy, warns the National Safety Council.

It's the little things you do, out of absent-mindedness, casual carelessness or short-cutting, that are likely to change the steady swish of your scrub mop or the quiet hum of your vacuum into the blatant wail of an ambulance siren.

To ready your home and grounds safely and surely for summer, heed these reminders worked out by the Council. If these methods seem a bit slow or troublesome to you, remember they are based upon statistics showing what happened to hundreds of homemakers last year who tried the quick and easy ways.

Stifle your Alley Oop instincts when it's time to take down your draperies or to store your blankets on the top shelf of the closet. Clambering about on window sills or climbing upon stacked-up boxes in an effort to reach high places is a dangerous practice. It's easier to drag to a chair than to fetch the step ladder; but the gamble you're taking too often pays off in favor of injury or death.

Make sure, when purchasing a ladder or step-stool, that it's a sturdy, well-built one with no tendency to tip. Keep it always in good condition.

Your out-of-doors ladder, too, needs frequent inspection. Remind your husband to test the rungs for rot or rusted-out nails before he puts his full weight upon them. Even if repairs or replacement cause delay, don't fret. Leaves in the rain-gutter or peeling paint are far less serious than peeling off dollars for medical care.

Avoid playing Samson during spring cleaning, too. Don't attempt to handle objects beyond your strength. Many a sprained back has been suffered by a housewife too impatient to wait for help in shifting heavy furniture or moving rugs.

Even if a weight is within your range, make a point of lifting it properly. Instead of picking up heavy objects by bending from your waist—which is likely to cause strained back and shoulder muscles—stoop down to gather your burden. Your legs then bear part of the weight as you rise.

Don't be a Careless Katie. Even if you are inclined by nature to be harum-scarum, control that part of your personality at least until your house has been put to rights again. Your family's wellbeing as well as your own independence upon it.

A carpet rolled against a doorway may fall; an unsuspecting guest a fatal fall; magazines and bric-a-brac piled carelessly upon the mantel may slide off and injure your youngster; a rake, left teeth-up beside the drive, may trip your husband as he alights from his car; a scrub-pall forgotten upon the stairs may prove your own downfall.

In playing your proper role as a thinking and efficient homemaker, make sure you're dressed for the part. Slacks or a dress with a moderately-full skirt will allow freedom of leg movement. Low-heeled shoes will offer support and balance not possible with shabby high heels or bedroom slippers. Close-fitting sleeves will protect you from wringer or stove-flame mishaps.

For best performance tackle one room at a time lest busy-turkey cleaning turn your home-making drama into a three-ring circus.

SENIOR HOCKEY TAKES NEW LEASE

Senior hockey in the City of Sherbrooke should be in a good season if the arrangement, which was completed with the Arena officials this week, has any bearing on the project.

The two groups, after considerable debating, finally reached an understanding and with everything in the clear from now on the club will know just what, and how, to do things. One thing which will mean a lot to the team is the question of pre-season training. The team will stand to gain close to $4,000, if not more, by training at the local Arena.

In the past year St. Hyacinthe and this always floored the team for quite a few pennies—pardon greenbacks—before they even had a chance to play a game. What exhibition tilts they did play saw the receipts turned back to the outside rink to help defray the operating expenses.

By training at home the club will not only save money but at the same time the fans will have an opportunity of seeing the aspirant charges in action before the season opens, instead of waiting until around the second week of play. It will also give Coach Dugre more time to devote to his team on the ice and he can stretch his training periods over a longer time.

Last year, and the seasons past, they were obliged to leave the ice after an hour's workout as other clubs were booked and this meant cutting down on training. The coach can also try out more players at less expense to the team and in the long run it will make a big difference.

As for the Arena we think they will make just as much money, if not more, under the new arrangement. By renting the ice to the team the club will look after all running expenses such as ticket sellers, takers, ushers and what not. Their percentage will be smaller, but in the long run they stand to make more as their expenses will be less.

A new ice plant has already been ordered and the officials of the E.T.A.A. made another wise move in deciding to install a new cement floor. This should pay in more ways than one and perhaps if it had been decided upon ten years ago things financially would have been different up on the hill.

The new floor will allow the Association greater use of their Arena instead of only Saturday evenings for wrestling and the odd boxing card or musical concert. It will be an ideal place to hold all kinds of meetings as well as musical shows or dances, which are pretty good paying propositions judging from the rest of the rinks around the country.

In plain words it means that a White Elephant will now start to more than pay its way. It is not just ordinary cement which will be used for the floor but a special preparation and it gives the effects of a highly polished marble floor which is very easy to keep in condition. The ice can be taken out in half the time and replaced in a few hours. So the new investment should more than pay for itself in a very short time, in more ways than one, and the directors of the E.T.A.A. deserve congratulations for their new move, although it was long time in coming. But the road is now clear for bigger and better things we hope.

The half way mark in the Sherbrooke Industrial Softball League has been reached and two teams are stalemated for the top position in Ted Anderson's six-team circuit.

Railroaders and Rubens are deadlocked with seven wins against three losses while Textile trails by one point with six wins, three setbacks and one tie. Bruck, last year champs, are in fourth position with a total of nine points, made up of four wins and one draw and five reverses.

The league has been playing some very good ball and the fans should be well satisfied. Blondeau, who looks after the hurling for the Railroaders, came through with a one-hit job Wednesday which speaks pretty well. Three more games are slated for Monday at the Parade Grounds and Dufresne Park so fans come early and see the boys in action.

The Lennoxville Golf Club is holding its annual Field Day today and if we can judge from the past ones this coming event should top them all.

It seems that golfers of the district are going all out for Field Days this year and the Danville and Dufferin Heights tournaments were outstanding successes. So don't forget to come early and get your round in without too much waiting.

We understand there will be eleven prizes, including the low gross and net of the field, as well as three in each class. So every body stands a fair chance at winning something.

It is rumored that the Royals Juniors may drop out of junior hockey in Montreal after close to twenty years operation. We hate to see that because some very good players have come from their ranks but on the other hand General Manager Frank Selke must cut down to two clubs. Mount St. Louis College may take over the franchise but we think after they see what it costs to operate a junior outfit they may change their minds.

Bantam Ben Hogan once again proved why he is rated as the outstanding professional golfer today when he came from behind to cop the U.S. Open after a disastrous first round.

He settled down after that and proved why he is considered the top man in the business. He was the only one capable of taking the difficult course apart and he did it when it counted the most, with his 67 in the final round. He proved a real champion when the chips were down and he came back.

A'S TAKE NOSE DIVE

The local baseball squad hit the skids this week and dropped from a contending position in Albert Molini's loop down to fourth spot in the standing.

In a race as close as the present one it doesn't take much to drop down a few pegs or to come up. A few wins in a row and a team is right back in the thick of things as only four games and a half separate the six top teams in the circuit.

The Sherbrooke club can really be called an "unpredictable outfit" and it is hard to guess just what will happen. They can take on the best team in the league and belt them all around the park and then next day have the same happen to them by the o'clock-dwellers. So it is hard to forecast the outcome.

The pitching staff, at the commencement of the season, was supposed to be the strong point of the local team, but it has got to the stage where anyone who starts a game just can't seem to finish it. How the team has remained so high in the standing is beyond us.

Norman Gosselin Purchased From Geneva Club; To Report Over Week-End; Quebec Here Tomorrow

The Sherbrooke Athletics will be out this week-end to make a strong bid to recover lost ground in their race for honors in the Provincial Baseball League when they play five games from today until Monday evening.

This evening at 7.45 they will be hosts to St. Johns while tomorrow they will meet Quebec in a Sunday twin-bill feature. They will play the afternoon tilt in the Capital City while the evening affair will take place at the local park at 8.30.

On Monday the A's will receive a visit from Granby Red Sox at 2.00 in the afternoon and in the evening will move back to Granby to complete the holiday special.

Steve Mizerek's squad will be gunning for their first win of the season at the local park on the evening. In their other two meetings the locals came out on the long end of a 9-8 and 3-2 count in close battles. St. Johns possess a well balanced infield and have a pretty fair hurling staff which is liable to give the A's plenty of trouble tonight.

Against George McQuinn's club Gladu's aggregation holds the upper hand in the four games played at the local Stadium. They have won three and dropped a close 3-1 verdict on Wednesday. In the Capital City the locals hold a 3-1 edge in games so tomorrow's series will be an important one if the A's want to gain any ground on McQuinn's bunch of hustlers.

Granby seems to hold an "Indian Sign" over the locals and in the seven games played the locals have only been able to win two, which gives the Red Sox a big edge.

Business Manager Amedee Roy announced late last night that the team had purchased pitcher Norman Gosselin from the Geneva team in the Border League for a straight cash deal. Gosselin last year took part in thirty-three games and completed twenty-six of them. He won nineteen and lost 12 and had 171 strikeouts to his credit.

In the 1949 season Gosselin completed 21 games out of 31 and won 19 while being charged with 18 setbacks. He whiffed 13 at the plate and issued 95 bases on balls for an earned average of 3.32. He is due to report in tomorrow and will be ready to take his turn on the mound next week.

Baseball Players Traditionally Sandlotters, But Not So With Members Of Chicago White Sox

New York, June 23.—(AP)—Major league baseball players traditionally come from United States sandlots—but not so the brilliant Spanish-speaking sparks of the Chicago White Sox.

There is Chico Carrasquel, rated by some the best shortstop in the business. He came up via Caracas, Venezuela.

Orestes Mino, the Cuban speedster, is battling for the league batting championship. He is a speed demon as well.

An to the list must now be added Luis Aloma, another Cuba, who pitched a shutout Sunday in his first big league start to bring a much-needed victory over the Athletics.

Frank Lane, general manager of the White Sox, is proudest of his deal that brought Carrasquel to the team from the Brooklyn Dodger organization.

"Funny thing," Lane said, "we were looking for a replacement for shortstop Luke Appling, and Branch Rickey had five shortstops—Bobby Morgan, Rocky Bridges, Danny O'Connell, Buddy Hicks and Chico Carrasquel. He decided Carrasquel fourth or fifth.

"The one man I wanted was Carrasquel. I knew about him from an umpire who had seen him in Venezuela in the winter."

Carrasquel's price tag was $30,000. Manager Paul Richards says he is the greatest shortstop he has ever seen. He batted .282 last year, his freshman season. In the field, he covers tremendous grounds. He is a floater who eases effortlessly into position for impossible stops.

Mino has been with the Sox less than two months but already he rivals Carrasquel as the club's most popular player.

Miny has become the standout player on the squad. He hits a ball with tremendous power and he can run like a deer. He throws with strength and accuracy.

"The best deal we ever made was getting Mino," said Richards. "I wouldn't trade him for anyone in the league."

Riding And Driving Club Holds Meeting

The regular monthly meeting of the Sherbrooke Riding and Driving Club was held Wednesday night at the Arena under the presidency of C. E. Parkin.

Mr. Parkin gave a report on "points" and explained that all our fields days are classified under category "C." Ormstown, Ottawa and the Sherbrooke Horse Show fall under category "B"; there are no "A's" shows in this zone. He pointed out that the points accumulated by the local horses for the zone championship at these field days are therefore less than those of other horses with the same amount of wins at bigger shows.

The meeting was honored by the presence of two directors of the Cookshire Fair and it was suggested that the club put on a horse show at Cookshire during fair week, if conditions are favorable, but no decision was taken on this matter.

Phil Pearson Tries Comeback For Daughter

Vancouver, June 23.—(AP)—Nine-year-old Maureen, daughter of former Canadian Davis Cup star Phil Pearson, was beginning to lose interest in tennis.

Her father hopes that she will become a court star herself some day. He decided that the way to revive her interest was to get into competition again.

So Phil entered the Vancouver City Championships this week. Wednesday, he was matched against youngster Billy Green.

During the first set, Pearson elected to remove his running shoes and play out the match in bare feet. The clay courts cut them raw and at the end of the match Pearson, a 5-7, 9-7, 5-7 loser, had to be carried to the clubhouse.

It took doctors more than three hours to dig particles of clay out of his feet. Doctors said today Pearson will be in bed at least a week while new skin forms on the soles of his feet.

Wimbledon's Officials Draw Line For Dresses

London, June 23.—(AP)—Staid old Wimbledon's tennis officials drew the line yesterday—"no bikini bathing dresses" on their famous centre court, or any other Wimbledon court.

"We don't like this business of running the thing into a dress show," said Wing Cmdr. Sir Louis Greig, chairman of Wimbledon's All-England Tennis Club. Girl players at Wimbledon's

Athletics Lose To Granby, 5-4

Granby, Que., June 23.—(AP)—Granby Red Sox last night edged Sherbrooke Athletics 6-4 in a Provincial baseball league fixture here.

Jacques Jeanneau, who pitched nine innings for Sherbrooke, was charged with the defeat. He allowed three hits in the first inning and two more in the third. R. Partlow worked 8 1/2 innings for Granby and was yanked after the Athletics got their fourth run in the last frame. John Andre who succeeded him held Sherbrooke scoreless.

The victory pushed Granby into a second-place tie with Farnham Pirates and Drummondville Cubs, two games behind Quebec Braves.

Sherbrooke holds the next position.

Australians Upset Americans In Tourney

London, June 23.—(AP)—Australia's tennis ace gave United States hopefuls an inkling of what may happen at Wimbledon next week. Frank Sedgman routed Herb Flam of Beverly Hills, Calif., in the singles semi-final yesterday and Sedgman and Ken McGregor defeated Gardner Mulloy and Dick Savitt in doubles.

Sedgman's brilliant play in ousting Flam 6-3, 6-2 was the outstanding feature of the day at the London Tennis Championships as two Americans, Nancy Chaffee of Ventura, Calif., and Shirley Fry of Akron, O., gained the finals of the women's singles.

Miss Chaffee turned in the upset of the Queens Club Tournament by eliminating Mrs. Margaret Osborne Dupont, U.S. champion from Wilmington, Del., 6-2, 10-12, 6-3. Miss Fry swept past Kay Tuckey, English Wightman Cup player 6-1, 6-3.

Sedgman will meet Eric Sturges, South Africa's No. 1 player, in the final tomorrow. Sturges flashed his best tennis to date to trounce Mervyn Rose, young Australian star, 6-2, 6-2.

Sedgman and McGregor won the doubles 6-2, 6-4.

Boston Bruins May Change Hands As Garden-Arena Corporation Has Made Offer For Outright Purchase

Boston, June 23.—(AP)—Control of Boston Bruins, first American club to enter the National Hockey League, may change hands under negotiations disclosed today.

President Walter A. Brown of the Boston Garden-Arena Corporation said the Corporation is negotiating for purchase of controlling stock in the Bruins which entered the professional hockey scene 27 years ago.

Brown, co-owner of Boston Celtics of the National Basketball Association, said he believes negotiations may turn out favorably. The Bruins finished fourth this season and lost to Toronto Maple Leafs in the Stanley Cup semifinals.

Most of the Bruins stock is owned by Weston Adams, son of the late Charles Frances Adams of Boston. The elder Adams hired Art Ross as Bruins' coach, manager and general factotum for their first N.H.L. season.

The Westmount, Que.-born Ross will, according to published reports, sell his stock if the deal goes through but will remain as general manager.

Brown said the Garden-Arena Corporation has "asked for an option to buy the controlling stock of the Bruins at a certain price."

"I have had no reply to my letter, but expect one at any moment. I have reason to believe that it may be favorable."

Boston has been below par the last two seasons and sell-out crowds haven't been seen at Bruin games for several years.

If the deal goes through, Boston would be the fifth N.H.L. club to be rink-owned. Chicago Black Hawks would be the only other team not rink-owned in the six-club circuit.

Pat O'Sullivan Upsets Louise Suggs In Event

Philadelphia, June 23.—(AP)—Pat O'Sullivan from Orange, Conn., upset medalist Louise Suggs yesterday and went into the finals of the Women's Western Open Golf Championship against heavily-favored Patty Berg.

Miss O'Sullivan eliminated Miss Suggs, three-time champion from Carrollton, Ga., 4 and 2.

Miss Berg, meanwhile ousted Marjorie Lindsay, 26-year-old Illinois amateur champion from Decatur, Ill., 5 and 3.

The finalists will clash in the 36-hole title match today.

THE ROSEBLOOM REPORTER

Old Time Baseball

Time has brought about tremendous changes in the game of baseball according to an interesting article we saw recently. If we could go back to a ball park around the year 1842, we'd wonder what game we were watching.

THERE WERE 12 players on the field, and interference was allowed. Instead of the catcher telling the pitcher what pitches to throw, the opposing batter called the balls, high or low. Bunts and tips that went foul were not counted. A base runner was in a hazardous position because the ball was thrown directly at him with the idea of hitting him squarely between the shoulders. In 1848 it was decided to abolish this bit of savagery, and amid protests from New England club owners, the idea of throwing the ball to the baseman came into existence.

BASEBALL HAS CHANGED plenty since those days, but men's apparel has shown even greater changes. We remember how men sweated in winter weight clothing in the summer. For sport, they used up their old clothes which were no longer good enough for business or dress-up. Today it's different. Sport clothes and business apparel are scientifically designed for maximum comfort and for exhilarating style. On the next sweltering day, just try one of Rosenbloom's British aertex shirts and see what we mean. The boys in 1842 never dreamed that there could be anything so comfortable!

OUR CLOVER CONTEST advanced another step when Mr. L. A. Gnaedinger of the Experimental Station in Lennoxville brought in a 7 leaved clover. Can anyone do better than that? You'll have to if you want to win one of our handy pencil tie clips!

THE EASTERN TOWNSHIP FOLKS in Ontario are having their annual picnic Saturday, the 30th at Cecil Locke Farm, Guelph. Mrs. Wm. Peak wrote us from Hamilton and asked us to mention it. The old folks at home wish you all a very pleasant time!

PLEASE REMEMBER that Rosenbloom's will closed, along with most other Sherbrooke stores, this Monday for St. Jean Baptiste, and the following Monday for Dominion Day. It's a great time of the year for holidays, and the boys are anxious to get out with their new summer sport clothes.

Luke Appling Happy Coaching Memphis Club

Atlanta, June 23.—(AP)—Not all ex-big league baseball players miss the big show and want to crawl back out of the bush leagues.

Luke Appling, for 20 years shortstop of the once downtrodden Chicago White Sox, says young Chico Carrasquel can have his job even if the Sox top the American League and look more like a pennant winner than they ever did when Luke was out there.

Appling now manages the White Sox class AA Southern Association farm club in Memphis. His boys are in fifth place after a miserable start. They've won six out of the last seven games.

Luke led the American in batting for two seasons. In 1945 he broke Rabbit Maraville's mark of 2.153 games of shortstopping. After topping the old record of most games at shortstop, Luke slowed down last summer and played only a few games.

Short visits to his nearby home and lesser tension in the minors attract the man known throughout baseball as "old aches and pains."

In his playing days Luke groaned and moaned about his health and practically everything else. But he's not groaning nowadays.

"No, sir. I got caught up with playing shortstop for the White Sox in 20 years and now I'm having fun. This Memphis club gets good and then it comes apart.

"Umpires go absolutely crazy. They change decisions that cost us runs and when they call close ones against us it hurts. But I wouldn't trade jobs with Chico Carrasquel.

"More power to Paul Richards (new manager of the White Sox) and I hope he brings them all the way home, but I'm satisfied down here."

Appling appraised the surprising Chicago club keenly. He says Richards has the team hurrying along, going for extra bases every time it can.

"The club is getting breaks that always come to the aggressive," the granddaddy of major league shortstoppers said.

Mrs. Todd Withdraws From Wimbledon Event

London, June 23.—(AP)—Mrs. Pat Todd of La Jolla, Calif., decided sixth in the Wimbledon Women's Singles Championship, has withdrawn from the tennis tournament.

Wimbledon referee W. J. Legg said yesterday "Mrs. Todd has scratched."

"The decision was conveyed to the English Lawn Tennis Association by her own association. No reason was given."

Mrs. Todd who reached the semi-final of the Wimbledon Singles last year was not nominated this year as a member of the U.S. team.

To Stage New Speed Boat Race At Windsor

Windsor, Ont., June 23.—(AP)—A Canadian powerboat classic—the Maple Leaf Unlimited—will be run here a week Saturday at the mouth of the Detroit River.

Eleven of the world's fastest boats are expected to take part in the three-heat, 45-mile grind, sponsored by the Windsor Yacht Club. It is open to motorboats of any power.

One entry is Horace Dodge's new boat "Why Worry". The Detroit sportsman's driver, Wild Bill Cantrell, said the race would be a shakedown for the boat. Last year Cantrell won with Dodge's "My Sweetie."

Rotary Camp At Lake Salem Opens June 25

Derby Line, June 23. — The young people of Derby and Derby Line will occupy the Rotary Children's Camp at Lake Salem the week of June 25th, according to the announcement of the chairman, Wm. Dailey. Those in the above two communities who have boys or girls who wish to go to camp are urged to get in touch with Mr. Dailey or H. A. Rice as soon as possible. The capacity of the camp is limited to 50 per week, and it will be a case of first come, first taken.

In explaining the financial set-up of the camp, chairman Dailey said that the funds came from proceeds of the annual Rotary Fair, but that parents were expected to pay according to their ability. "Because every dollar of the club's money that is used for the camp means that much less for other services to the Boundary communities, we expect that those who can afford to pay all or part of the expenses will do so. We want to make sure that no child who should go to camp will be left out, and all boys and girls are more than welcome, but we must keep our expenses as low as possible so that other club projects can be carried out."

The second week of the camp will see the children from Beebe and Rock Island enjoying themselves; and the third and final week the camp will be taken over by the boys and girls from Ayer's Cliff and Stanstead. For Beebe arrangements can be made with Harold Beane; for Rock Island with Charles Parmenter; for Ayer's Cliff with Arch Graham; for Stanstead with Charles Parmenter or Rene Monty.

Noted Weaving Club Forced To Disband

weaving-club, noted in the west for its handcraft work, is being disbanded after eight years of operation. Dwindling membership was cited.

The Melfort group won innumerable prizes across the country and was responsible for bringing 64 similar clubs into operation in Saskatchewan.

The group's first venture—the weaving of five yards of brown material—was selected to be displayed in Montreal. In 1946 articles were sent to the Canadian handicrafts display in Vancouver.

Eighteen women made up the first membership and between them they collected enough money to buy a loom. This was loaned to each member for a month at a time.
